LIBERAL LEADERS AT INGERSOLL.

Hon. Mr. Laurier and Party in Sir Richard's Constituency—An Enthusiastic Reception.

Ingersoll, Ont., Oct. 25.—The demonstration to Hon. Wilfrid Laurier by the Ingersoll Young Liberals this afternoon exceeded anything of the kind ever before held here.

The distinguished party arrived on the 5 o'clock train and were met by the Young Liberals, the town council and thousands of citizens.

At the depot Mr. Watterworth read the following address to Mr. Laurier, which was gracefully responded to:

Honored Sir,—The Municipal Council of the Town of Ingersoll beg to extend to you their hearty welcome on this, your first visit to our county, and feel certain they only voice the sentiments of the vast majority of our citizens in expressing the delight with which all classes have looked forward to this visit. And whilst your Liberal friends are enthusiastic, we feel certain that many of those who have been heretofore your political opponents, are anxious and pleased to have this opportunity of meeting and hearing so distinguished a Canadian discuss the political and commercial questions now agitating the public mind. And we, as a public body, composed as we are of both political parties, must disclaim any intention of introducing into this address of welcome any expressions of a controversail character respecting the politics of the day, but we honor you as the chosen leader of one of the great political parties of our country, and should you be the one chosen to guide the ship of state, we have every confidence that your every act will be to endeavor to keep pure and free and untarnished from scandal or wrong doing every department of government, that you will keep free and untrammelled from Government interference the avenues of commerce, thereby allowing all trades, callings and professions to follow that vocation which seems best suited to each individual case, thereby dealing out justice and equal rights to all sections and portions of the community.

A procession was then formed, and headed by the Foresters and Oddfellows' bands, Hon. Mr. Laurier and his associates were escorted to the residence of Dr. McKay, M.L.A., where they were entertained.

At 7 o'clock a monster torchlight procession was formed and escorted the leader and his friends to the skating rink, where the speaking took place. The immense structure was beautifuly decorated for the occasion with flags and bunting, while numerous appropriate mottoes adorned the walls.

On reaching the rink, which was filled to overflowing, with from 4000 to 5000 people of this and surounding counties, the appearance of the leaders was greeted with a perfect ovation which continued for some minutes.

Mr. James Vance, president of the Young Liberal Club, occupied the chair, and on the platform were Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, Sir Oliver Mowat, J. Israel Tarte, Sir Richard Cartwright, Hon. David Mills, John Charlton, James Sutherland, M.P., for North Oxford, Dr. McKay, M.L.A., for South Oxford, Sheriff Brady, Registrar Pattullo and other prominent Liberals.

After a few introductory remarks the speakers of the evening were introduced in the folowing order: Sir Richard Cartwright, Sir Oliver Mowat, James Sutherland, Hon. Wilfrid Laurier, Hon. David Mills, J. Israel Tarte and John Charlton.

Mr. G. W. Hare, secretary-treasurer of the South Oxford Reform Association presented the Liberal leader with an address on behalf of that organization and Mr. A. P. Gundry read another on behalf of the Young Liberals of Ingersoll.

The speaking did not terminate until midnight. Hon. Mr. Laurier characterized this demonstration as the largest and most enthusiastic of the whole series.

The meeting was brought to a close by cheers for the Liberal leaders and by the band playing God Save the Queen.

Sale of Apples in Liverpool.

Livelpool, Oct 22.—American apples were in good demand at to-day's sales. Baldwins fetched from 15s to 17s 6d per barrel, greenings 11s to 12s, and Newtown pippins 14s to 30s.

Over a Foot of Snow.

Penetanguishene, Oct. 22. Snow fell here to the depth of 12 o 14 inches between Saturday night and Monday morning and the weather is quite cold to-night.

Ex-Governor Ames Dead

North Easton, Mass., Oct. 23.—Ex-Governor Oliver Ames of Massachusetts died in his home in this village this morning aged 64. For five years his health has been gradually failing.

Snow in Scotland and England.

London, Oct. 23.—The ground in Scotland and the West of England was covered with snow this morning, though the trees are still in full foliage.

MATTIE KOCH ALSO SUCCUMBS.

Making the Fourth Life Lost in the Hamilton Fire—Resignation of Col. Gibson—Dr. Laidlaw's Funeral

Hamilton, Oct. 25.—This morning Hattie Koch, 10 years old, died at the City Hospital, making the fourth death which has resulted from the fire at the Queen's Hotel on Tuesday night. The child was operated upon, but the hot air and smoke inhaled had so affected her that medical assistance was of no avail. Mrs. Andrews is in a most precarious condition, and the doctors have abandoned all hopes of her recovery. Miss Cronan, although not seriously ill, has not recovered from the nervous shock.

Hundreds of sympathizing friends gathered along the streets this morning and viewed the funeral procession to St. Mary's Cathedral, and thence to Holy Sepulchre Cemetery. There were three hearses: The first bore the dead body of the heroic father—Anthony Koch—the second the bodies of Tony and Bernie and the third carried little Hattie to her final resting place.

The members of the Thirteenth Regiment and citizens of Hamilton, generally, regret the fact that Col. Gibson has resigned. He received his commission in 1865. He was at Ridgeway in 1866, and in 1879 won the Prince of Wales' Prize at Wimbledon. In the ordinary course of promotion Lieut.-Col. A. H. Moore will succeed him. Lieut.-Col. Moore was spoken to this morning regarding the change in the regiment and he said: "I presume I shall succeed Col. Gibson, but no official announcement has yet been made regarding the resignation or the appointment of his successor."

The announcement is not official, but is substantially correct, though the resignation has not yet been forwarded.

The body of Rev. Dr. Laidlaw will be brought from Stewarton to-morrow and placed in St. Paul's Church, where the funeral service will be conducted by Rev. Mr. Beavis, Principal Caven of Toronto, Rev. Dr. Fletcher and Rev. Dr. Burns. At 2 p.m. the cortege will proceed from the church to the station, where a special train will leave at 2.30 for Georgetown, where the remains will be interred.

The inquest on the death of William Turk, who was crushed between two buckets in the T., H. & B. tunnel, was held to-night, and the verdict was returned that he came to his death from an acident caused by the negligence of those in charge of the work.

A Paisley Young Man Missing.

Paisley, Ont., Oct. 25.—James T. Seymour, who had been attending Harriston High School, came to visit his parents here last Friday. On Sunday morning he said he would take a short walk before his father would go to church. He did so and has not been seen since. He is 25 years of age; dark complexion, brown eyes, about five feet nine inches high; dark brown hat with light-colored band and binding. Any word is requested to be telegraphed to, and at the expense of Hargreaves, Paisley, as to his present abode.

Just Where They are At.

New York, Oct. 25.—The folowing telegram was received at The Police Gazette office yesterday from Jim Corbett:

"I claim Police Gazette belt by forfeit. This man has failed to live up to agreement and club declare match off. For that reason the stakeholder also decided that he had forfeited. I want you to acknowledge this claim and announce publicly to-day, and I will offer the belt to be fought for by Maher and O'Donnell. Answer quick."

This answer was sent back by R. K. Fox: "According to the conditions govening the belt its disposition goes with decision of referee. In absence of referee, it depends upon final desposition of stake money. If, after Oct. 31, Stakeholder Dwyer asknowledges your claim to Fitsimmon's stake money, belt will be awarded to you. The declaration by club that match is off, is not a factor in agreement between you and Fitsimmons. If no fight on October 31, articles of agreement are nullified. If you announce your retirement as champion, Police Gazette will offer belt for competition by Maher and O'Donnell, or any other challenger."

Athletic and General Notes

H. Gilbert, of Spirit Lake, Ia., won the Dupont grand championship handicap for trap shooters at Baltimore yesterday. McAlester (Hayward), of Philadelphia, won second money; Wagner of Washington took third, and Coe of Baltimore fourth.

Philadelphia will send a cricket team to England for a three months' stay, from May 15 to August 15, 1896. They will make a tour of Great Britain, playing twelve matches.

Ben Brush has so far this season won $18,000. He has started 15 times, run first 12 times, has been second once, third once, and only ran unplaced one. He has won at four, five six and seven furlongs. He has gone seven furlongs in 1.26, six furlongs in 1.10 1-5, with 136 pounds up, and five furlongs in 1.00 2-5.

Lincoln Wouldn't Take the Job.

Chicago, Oct. 25.—Robert T. Lincoln said yesterday:

"I can imagine no greater misfortune to befal me than to become President of the United States. The honor of being the chief executive of 65,000,000 of people is in the abstract. He is pestered to death by every man who has friends in Congress or in Washington, or other places.

Shot in the Hip.

Clinton, Oct. 25.—While George Cooper and two other young men, named Miller and Chidley, were out shooting, Miller tripped and fell, his gun was discharged, and the charge made an ugly wound in Cooper's hip.

Dead and Dying Reach Soldiers.

Algiers, Oct. 24.—The French transport Canton has arrived here from Madagascar with a large number of invalid soldiers on board. Sixty-four died on the voyage, 14 of them since the Canton passed Port Said.

Miners' Strike Called Off.

Altoona, Pa., Oct. 25.—Master Workman Wilson has called the miners' strike off for the present. The miners at Portage quit work again this morning without giving any reason for their action.

BRITAIN MUST ACT.

Russia Cannot be Allowed to Annex China.

SEVERAL POWERS ARE INTERESTED

Strong Comments of the Leading London Newspapers on the Intrigues by Which Russia Seeks to Become Master of the Situation in Eastern Asia.

London, Oct. 26.—The Pall Mall Gazette prints a long article commenting upon the despatch published in The Times from its Hong Kong correspondent, stating that a treaty was recently concluded between Russia and China by the terms of which Russia obtains the right of anchorage for her fleet at Port Arthur, the right to construct and operate railways and other advantages of great commercial value.

The Gazette assumes that this practically means that Russia has annexed China, if the conclusion of the treaty is a fact. Japan, the paper says, will certainly refuse to leave Port Arthur and England will oppose it to the death. The treaty also means the presence of Russian warships off Vancouver and Sydney. England must act vigorously and immediately both by means of diplomacy and by getting her fleet ready for sea.

The Globe, in an article on the same subject, says: "Neither England, the United States, Japan, nor Germany will sanction a partition of China, which would virtually render the Pacific ocean a Franco-Russian lake, and seal the markets of China against their commerce."

The St. James' Gazette says: It is obvious that if Russia has squeezed China into such an agreement we must intervene. War with Russia, with all its risks and possibilities, would be less disastrous than to allow her, without striking a blow, to get such a grip on China.

The Times' despatch from Hong Kong, relative to a treaty between Russia and China to the disadvantage of England, had no affect on the price of consols at the Stock Exchange to-day.

What Russia Will Give and Get.

Washington, Oct. 25.—While nothing official can be learned in Washington with reference to any alleged secret treaty between Russia and China, it is not doubted that some understanding exists between the two countries which will result in their mutual advantage. European despatches of recent date contained the intelligence that Russia would guarantee the Chinese indemnity of 30,000,000 taels, which will be paid to Japan for the latter's evacuation of the Liao Tung peninsula. Those who are familiar with Russian statecraft, say that the Czar's Government, which is noted for its clever intriguing qualities, would not so obligate itself without a proper 'quid pro quo.'

MISS KAVANAUGH'S DEATH

Her Betrayer Said to be a Prescott Man—The Doctor a Barrie Man—Talk at Ottawa.

Buffalo, Oct. 25.—District Attorney Kenefeck said at noon to-day that he had proof that the betrayer of Annie Kavanaugh was Thomas F. White, a married man of Prescott, Ont. Since the girl was ruined, White has been married.

"We cannot prosecute him on what we know," said Mr. Kenefeck this morning, "and the only thing we can hope is that the Canadian Government will prosecute him.

"The developments show that the $100 was paid to Dr. Harper by the girl herself."

Dr. Harper is said to be from Barrie, Ont.

Mr. H. E. Leacy, of Cardinal, Ont., and Martin Kavanaugh, a brother of Anna Kavanaugh, arrived here this afternoon, and left for Cardinal with the remains of the unfortunate young woman.

Ottawa, Oct. 26.—The sad end at Buffalo of Miss Kavanaugh of Cardinal has caused considerable talk here. In connection with the fact that a pocketbook containing a card with "H. E. Lacey, Cardinal," printed upon it, was found on the body of the dead woman, it may be stated that Miss Hattie E. Lacey, of the Postoffice Department, comes from Cardinal, and was an intimate friend of Miss Kavanaugh, which accounts for one of Miss Lacey's cards being in the latter's possession. Miss Lacey was at her office to-day.

Miss Lacey knows more about the recent movements of her dead friend than she cares to tell. Miss Kavanaugh was here last Sunday, and she and Miss Lacey dined together at the Windsor Hotel. Miss Kavanaugh left for Toronto on Sunday night, proceeding, it is stated, to Buffalo on Monday afternoon.

Marlborough Royally Entertained.

New York, Oct. 25.—The Duke of Marlborough was royally entertained by James L. Kernochan and the Meadowbrook Hunt Club yesterday. At 3.30 p.m. the start was made from the club house, with about 20 hunters in the saddle. The Duke was in second at the death, it being a close contest between Tommy Hitchcock, the Duke and Kinsley Magowan.

Trade in Canada.

New York, Oct. 25.—Bradstreet's says: At Montreal trade in dry goods and clothing is equal to the average at this season. The city of Quebec reports a slight gain in general lines with easier collections. Business is slightly improved in Toronto, the weather having stimulated demand. Trade is also improved at Halifax, where collections are equal to expectation. At St. John's Nfld., the price of fish has advanced, while in New Brunswick the outlook is for only an average cut of lumber.

Weak, Tired, Nervous

Women, who seem to be all worn out, will find in purified blood, made rich and healthy by Hood's Sarsaparilla, permanent relief and strength. The following is from a well known nurse:

"I have suffered for years with female complaints and kidney troubles and I have had a great deal of medical advice during that time, but have received little or no benefit. A friend advised me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and I began to use it, together with Hood's Pills. I have realized more benefit from these medicines than from anything else I have ever taken. From my personal experience I believe Hood's Sarsaparilla to be a most complete blood purifier." MRS. C. CROMPTON, 71 Cumberland St., Toronto, Ontario.

THE "UNWRITTEN LAW."

Taunting Tarte doesn't pay the Conservative machine organs very well. This innocent amusement has incited Mr. Tarte to tell a few secrets about Conservative methods that have not before seen the light. Mr. Tarte told at Galt how the Temiscouta railway, that had Ottawa and Quebec subsidies was "worked" in 1884 to replenish the election campaign chest. The original company sold its railway charter to a Mr. McDonald and Mr. Boswell, backed by Mr. Riordon of the Mail —and Empire. In this deal what Mr. Tarte calls the "unwritten law of the Conservative party," was put in motion. "This "unwritten law of the Conservative party" means that persons who are making money where government subsidies are concerned, are expected to "whack up" or "divy" which ever is the more elegant term—and turn over a large share of the profits to the corruption fund. In the case of the Temiscouta railway charter, out of the $100,000 for which it was sold, $50,000 went in political subsidies. The "unwritten law" apparently makes short work of converting railway subsidies into political subsidies. No wonder Mr. Tarte is the subject of such cordial Conservative hate. He knows too much and what is worse, tells too much. He releases too many cats from the bag.

Good, honest old Alex. Mackenzie was able to keep the Dominion treasury safe, but under the rule of his successors, the McGreevys and Connollys and all the gang of contract brokers and boodlers had free run of the public chest—if only they would obey the "unwritten law," and pay over a majority of their spoil to the government corruption fund. This saturnalium of stealing which has been going on for seventeen years should cease and everything points to the probability of the people awakening to the enormity of the sin of bribing them with their own money, filched from the public chest in compliance with the "unwritten Conservative law."

How can the Dominion Government be expected to settle the Manitoba school question, when they can't appoint a collector of customs, without a hint that's very like a kick.

THE efforts of Conservative journals to create, or at least create the impression, that there is a want of harmony in the Liberal party, is a clear case of misery loves company. Harmony in the Liberal ranks and among the Liberal leaders is the condition of that party, whilst jarring is the prevailing condition amongst our good Tory friends.

THE Toronto World thinks the Conservative party must "pull its together, check the office seekers and find out where it is." How to check the office seekers is a hard one; but as to where the Conservative party is, is easy—on the down grade with the brakes sadly out of order, though the Government is continually making "breaks."

THE Conservatives of Kingston who managed the ceremony of unveiling the monument to Sir John Macdonald, seem to be infected with the blundering mania of their Ottawa leaders. It appears that the Roman Catholic school children, whose parents were of the contributors to the monument fund, were not included with the public school children that sang on the occasion. Were the great Sir John alive his very hat would have more brains than to ostracise a large and influential body of citizens.

FURTHER evidence is forthcoming from the political hub to show the extreme harmony that exists in the Conservative ranks. Last night two rival Conservative associations held meetings in Ottawa. The Magee meeting was attended by only a handful. Forty minutes after the advertised hour the Magee or machine men had only a score in the hall. At the same hour the McVeity Association meeting was crowded to the doors, and moreover, judging by the cheers, had plenty of enthusiasm. Evidently the Ottawa Conservatives who have little confidence in the Bowell ministry are in a large majority. If the Government can't keep its followers in the ranks at Ottawa, where they have them under their very eye, how can they expect to keep their more distant followers in order.

ST. VITUS DANCE.

A MALADY THAT HAS LONG BAFFLED MEDICAL SKILL.

A Speedy Cure for the Trouble at Last Discovered—The Particulars of the Cure of a Girl Who Was a Severe Sufferer.

From the Ottawa Journal.

In a handsome brick residence on the 10th line of Goulborn township, Carleton Co., Lives Mr. Thos. Bradley, one of Goulborn's most successful farmers. In Mr. Bradley's family is a bright little daughter, 8 years of age, who had been a severe sufferer from St. Vitus dance, and who had been treated by physicians without any beneficial results. Having learned that the little one had been fully restored to health by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a correspondent of the Journal called at the family residence for the purpose of ascertaining the facts, and found the little girl a picture of brightness and good health. Mrs. Faulkner, a sister of the little one, gave the following information: "About eighteen months ago Alvira was attacked by that terrible malady, St. Vitus dance, and became so bad that we called in two doctors, who held out no hope to us of her ultimate cure and she was so badly affected with the 'dance' as to require almost constant watching. About this time we read in the Ottawa Journal of a similar case cured by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which gave us renewed hope. We procured a couple of boxes, and before these were all used there was a perceptible improvement. After using six boxes more she was entirely free from the disease, and, as you can see, is enjoying the best of health. Several months have passed since the use of the Pink Pills was discontinued, but there has been no return of the malady, nor any symptoms of it. We are quite certain Dr. William's Pink Pills cured her and strongly recommend them in similar cases."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an unfailing specific for such diseases as locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, the after effects of lagrippe, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexion, all forms of weakness either in male or female. Pink Pills are sold by all dealers, or will be sent post paid on receipt of price, 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N.Y.

Bogus Canadian Bank Bills.

New York, Oct. 25.—Counterfeit bills representing several thousands of Canadian dollars were seized yesterday afternoon in the cellar under the saloon of Emil Dykert, in Columbus-avenue. The bills were of $1, $2, $3, $5, $10 and $20 denominations, and bore false marks of the National Bank of Toronto, Ont.

Marquis of Waterford's Suicide.

Dublin, Oct. 25.—An inquest was held to-day into the circumstances of the death of John Henry de la Poer Beresford, fifth Marquis of Waterford, who died at his residence Curraghmore House, Waterford, on Wednesday last from the effects of a self-inflicted bullet wound. The jury returned a verdict that the Marquis killed himself while temporarily insane.

A Miller in Business Trouble.

St. Thomas, Oct. 25.—R. H. Killingsworth of St. Thomas, proprietor of the Eckfrid mills, has assigned.

The old story of Prometheus is a parable. Prometheus was on terms of intimacy with the gods. From them he stole fire, and gave it to men. For this sin he was bound to the rocks of mount Caucasus, and vultures were set upon him. They only ate his liver. This grew again as fast as it was pecked away. Are his sufferings to be imagined?

Take a modern interpretation of the parable. There is no cooking without fire. In cooking and eating the mischief lies. The stomach is overtasked, the bowels become clogged, they cannot dispose of the food that is given them. The impurities back up on the liver. Then comes the vultures—the torments of a diseased liver. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is more than equal to the vultures of dyspepsia and its kindred diseases. There is no more need of suffering from dyspepsia than there is of hanging one's self. Sold by all medicine dealers the world over.

Mrs. LaFramboise is Free.

Ottawa, Oct. 25.—The Baskatong murder trial in Hull ended this morning in a verdict of not guilty. Mrs LaFramboise was immediately discharged.

Mrs. Keller Arrested for Shooting.

Oswego, N.Y., Oct. 25.—Nothing sensational has developed in the Kempthorn murder case here to-day. Mrs. Kellar, who admits the shooting, sits by her attorneys, and appears to take but a languid interest in the testimony. The prosecuting officers hope to be able to show that Kempthorn was in Mrs. Kellar's house for at least three hours before the shooting, and that he was killed while he lay sleeping on the bed.

Peculiar Coincidence.

Chatsworth, Oct. 25.—David McClure of Williamsford and Robert McClure of this place died within two days of each other. David was 73, Robert 67. They came from Ayr, Scotland, in 1854, having been neighbors ever since and each leaves a widow and nine children.

More Canadian Apples Sold.

London, Oct. 26.—At Liverpool today 2771 barrels of apples brought by the steamers Cephalonia, Mongolian and Vancouver, were sold at auction. Canadian Baldwins brought 15s to 17s; greenings 12s to 15s; Kings, 19s to 25s, and Boston Baldwins, 15s to 16s. In London 320 cases of California pears were sold. Winter Nelis brought from 9s to 12s; Eastern Beurres 12s to 15s; Duchesse 18s, Glout Morceaux 21s and Beurre Clairjeau 13s.

FOR

LIVING IN BARNS

Is solid comfort, compared to our houses before the furnace fires are lighted.

The discomfort of sitting in an unheated room is bad enough, but the cold that follows is ten times worse. To sit sewing all day with the feet cold—to sit shivering in an office—or in a draughty lecture or amusement hall, is often equivalent to a winter's sickness.

In the midst of these dangers, if you have in your pocket a bottle of "77," an occasional dose will prevent you taking cold.

"77" cures Colds, Grippe, Influenza, Catarrh, Pains and Soreness in the Head and Chest, Cough, Sore Throat, General Prostration and Fever.

"77" will "break up" a stubborn cold that threatens to "hang on" all winter. Be sure to get

& CO.,

Manufacturing Furriers.

LET'S REASON

And we think we can satisfy you that you will save money by buying your Clothing from us:—

FIRSTLY.—We buy every yard of goods used in our factory direct from the mills.

SECONDLY.—We pay cash and buy ten times more than any other Clothing Manufacturer in Canada, in some lines placing orders for 25 miles of cloth at one time, therefore do much better than those who buy in small quantities and on credit.

THIRDLY.—On account of our factory being equipped with the latest machinery we can make the goods up as cheap as any first-class Clothing Manufacturer in America.

FOURTHLY.—We sell directly to the consumer and save you the wholesaler's and retailer's profit.

FIFTHLY.—We have representatives in all of the fashionable centres of the two hemispheres, and their experience is given to our customers in the latest styles of our garments.

SIXTHLY.—We guarantee every garment we make. We never try to brow-beat a dissatisfied customer—ours is to please. Every suit sold bears the stamp of the W. E. Sanford M'f'g. Co, a guarantee of honesty and fair dealing. Are these not six good reasons why you should look our stock over.

A Common Affliction

Permanently Cured by Taking

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

A CAB-DRIVER'S STORY.

"I was afflicted for eight years with Salt Rheum. During that time, I tried a great many medicines which were highly recommended, but none gave me relief. I was at last advised to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by a friend who told me that I must purchase six bottles, and use them according to directions. I yielded to his persuasion, bought the six bottles, and took the contents of three of these bottles without noticing any direct benefit. Before I had finished the fourth bottle, my hands were as as ever they were. My business, which is that of a cab-driver, requires me to be out in cold and wet weather, often without gloves, and the trouble has never returned."—THOMAS A. JOHNS, Stratford, Ont.

Everyone Arrested at Morris Park.

New York, Oct. 24.—Judges, bookmakers, speculators and the clerk of the course were arrested at the conclusion of the races at Morris Park to-day on a charge of violating the Gambling Act. A number of books alleged to have been used by the defendants were seized, but they were for the most part blank. Bail was fixed in each case at $1000. The examination of the defendants was set down for next Monday afternoon. Bail was immediately furnished, and all the prisoners were released. Lawyers Steinhart and Lehmann state that the violation of the law consists in the running of sweepstakes, that is to say, races in which certain amounts are put up by horse owners in the nature of a wager, whereas if the racing association had offered a prize by themselves it would be constitutional.

Morris Park results: First race, 5 furlongs—Wexford, 101, Harding, 7 to 1, 1; Lilly Mills, 97, Forbes, 15 to 1, 2; Sebastian, 102, Rothersall, 6 to 1, 3. Time 1.01. Whippany, Nantucket, Sapolo, Rock Ledge, Millie L., John Holmes, All Desperandum, Princess Jean also ran.

Why the Fight Was Declared Off.

Many patrons of the ring say that when the true inwardness of the declaring off of the Corbett-Fitzsimmons battle for the heavy-weight championship of the world becomes public property it will be found that the refusal of Fitzsimmons to consent to a postponement or a change in the articles of agreement had little or nothing to do with the action of the Florida Athletic Club, notwithstanding the fact that the stand taken by Martin Julian, on behalf of Fitzsimmons, was seized upon with avidity by the club management for the breaking off of the match. The club found itself in a tight box, and without the slightest chance in the world of coming out even. It was a badly buggled job from start to finish.

The bookmakers about New York are of the general opinion that the fight was declared off by the Athletic Club because they did not care to put up $41,000 under such circumstances as those with which they were at present confronted. No importance is attached to the dispute between the managers of the two pugilists. This is thought to have been used simply to cover the club's real purpose, that of withdrawing the fabulous purse which they had offered and substitute a smaller one.

Phil Dwyer, the stakeholder of the match said to-day: "I have received a telegram from Corbett stating that the fight had been declared off, but no official notification has been sent me. Until I receive such official notice I do not care to make any statements for publication regarding what action I may take. From all I can learn I believe that the battle is off, and I regret it very much. It would have been a grand fistic struggle and one worth seeing."

Whether Fitzsimmons is willing to fight the public may judge by the following which the lanky Australian to-night telegraphed The Journal, New York, from Corpus Christi, Texas: "Julian, my manager, claimed forfeit as they could not pull the contest off at the time named—Oct. 31. Then we offered to fight Corbett for the $10,000 side stake on the 31st without a purse. Brady positively refused to let Corbett fight, but say for me that I now challenge the world for $10,000 a side and the world's championship of this or any other country. Furthermore, I will meet Mr. Corbett for $10,000 side bet, and let the gate receipts be given to some charitable institution of New York city. I am now convinced that Jim Corbett does not wish to meet me, and is looking for easier game. I shall continue training here until Oct. 31. Robert Fitzsimmons."

INSTANTANEOUS DEATH.

Struck on the Head by the Limb of a Falling Tree Up the Ottawa.

Ottawa, Oct. 25.—The body of M. Clairmont, of Clarkston, a suburb of Ottawa, was brought to town Wednesday. Clairmont having been killed at one of Shepard & Morse's limits on the Upper Ottawa. WORD FROM KOOTENAY.

Good Mining Prospects for the Year and Increased Facilities to Miners.

NELSON (Special), Oct. 21.—The mining prospects for next year in this locality are excellent, and a large influx of prospectors is expected. Miners and others coming in have been in the habit of bringing with them large quantities of Dodd's Kidney Pills, a remedy which they all swear by, and whose virtues they have extolled to such an extent, that the druggists throughout the section have become alive to the necessity of laying in large supplies to meet the greatly increasing demand. The remedy is generally regarded as an indispensable part of a miner's outfit, both for its portability and a value in preserving health which cannot be overestimated.

Vain to Contractors Sent Out

Washington, Oct. 24.—Lieut.-Commander Cowles, the naval attache of the United States embassy in London, has informed the Navy Department that the Royal School of Naval Architecture at Greenwich will hereafter decline to receive any constructors of the United States navy. No reason for this action is assigned.

Canadian Horses Went Cheap in London.

London, Oct. 24.—Seven out of 25 Canadian horses offered for sale at Aldridge's repository to-day averaged 26 guineas each. Owing to the immense number of Canadian horses lately imported and placed upon the market, the demand was weak and the prices consequently poor.

CANDY

FOR CHILDREN.

The Popular Health Magazine says the desire in a child for candy and sweets is a natural one and should not be stifled. Good candy and sweets in moderation, not only do no harm, but are actually beneficial. Too much sweet upsets the stomach and spoils the appetite, but candy in moderation if it is not taken before a meal, is food which children crave naturally, and among the purest and most wholesome is that manufactured by Mr. Cluxton's Illness.

The report that Mr. Wm. Cluxton was seriously ill caused considerable anxiety amongst his friends to-day. THE EXAMINER is pleased to be in a position to state that his sickness is now considered to be but a passing ailment, engendered by a severe cold which he contracted and that he is better to-day.

A $50 Dinner Set Free!

Who will be the lucky person? Men do Talk About Women

—and women do talk about men. But the men are just now talking about those twin dandy hair-dressers and shavers in Alf. Haskill's "Gold Dollar" Shaving Parlours, No. 164 Simcoe street. They're a skilful team, and the boys don't know what they are missing if they haven't been down to see them. You can bet your happy life they are artists from the word "Next" and don't you forget it. They don't "scrape"—they shave; they don't "saw" your hair off—they give it the latest tonsorial touches. d

Animals Which Suffered.

A gentleman who was prowling about the woods over in South Harvey this week, says the Bobcaygeon Independent, happened to come across a lumbering shanty of Mr. Kelly's. Looking inside, he discovered the decaying bodies of three yearlings. The door had the old-fashioned wooden latch, and it was evident that some time during the summer while the door was left open, the young cattle had strolled in and then the door had been closed and latched by the wind, locking in the unfortunate animals to the slow and painful starvation.

THE OUTFALL SEWER.

How the Work is Progressing on the Different Sections.

Contractors Rutherford & Bogue have gotten through with the most difficult part of their work in section No. 2 of the sewer, and the work is now progressing rapidly. The deepness of the cut which had to be made and the heavy flow of water encountered in the excavation made the work especially difficult.

Section No. 3 is now completed this side of the C.P.R. track, with the exception of a very small portion which is now being filled in. Work is well advanced at the south end of this section, where the brick layers are already at work following up the excavators rapidly. The sewer under the C.P.R. tracks has been again filled in, extra men being employed at this point in order to get it done with as soon as possible, on account of the danger from the earth being shaken in from the sides by the concussion caused by passing trains. The street cars are not running south any further than the switch below the Matthews' Packing House, on account of the track being covered over with earth from the excavations.

Hood's Sarsaparilla, taken at this season, will make you feel strong and vigorous and keep you from sickness later on.

Hand Badly Cut.

A student in the Electric Works, Mr. E. J. Tett, had his hand very badly cut on Thursday last whilst at work. The cut extended from the second joint in the thumb across the palm of the hand, and was so deep that it laid open fully an inch. The cut was stitched by a physician.

Increased Power for Electric Lighting.

Improvements have already been commenced at the power house of the Electric Light Company. This morning a 120 alternator from the Canadian General Electric Company's works, was taken there to be placed in position in order that the many applicants for light can be accommodated as speedily as possible.

Fancy chairs and rockers, the largest line of centre and fancy tables ever offered in Peterborough. Chairs, 33c and upwards. Cheap bedsteads, mattresses, springs, etc., etc. A. CLEGG'S, 427 George street.

"At Home."

On Monday evening, Oct. 28th, an "At Home," under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary of St. John's will be given at the residence of Miss Barlee, 177 Aylmer street. An excellent musical programme is being arranged for the occasion, and a hearty invitation is extended to all interested in this excellent society. There will be a silver collection. 2d

Guaranteed Cure for Tobacco

The Uncle Sam Tobacco Cure will stop the tobacco habit—that's a certainty. So confident are the manufacturers that it will do all it claims, they will refund the money in every case where the tobacco user has strictly followed directions for 30 days without being cured. Money talks, and merit wins—they mean what they say. The medicine is for sale at Lynch's drug store, Hunter street, where the guarantee is good.

A Disgusting Nuisance.

Complaints have reached the EXAMINER office, of the filthy condition in which the doorways of shops on George street are found some mornings. Drunken wretches who have over-loaded themselves with bad whiskey are in the habit of entering shop doors and depositing the contents of stomachs that revolt against their unnatural load. It is not necessary to emphasize the nuisance such a practice creates. The night watchman or the police should keep a sharp lookout and make an example of these filthy creatures.

How to get 'Sunlight" Books.

Send 12 'Sunlight" Soap wrappers to Lever Bros., Ltd., 43 Scott St., Toronto, who will send postpaid a paper bound book, 160 pages. For 6 "Life-buoy" Carbolic Soap wrappers, a similar book will be sent. This is a splendid opportunity to obtain good reading. Send your name and address written carefully. Remember "Sunlight" sells at 6 cts. per twin-bar, and "Lifebuoy" at 10 cts. One cent postage will bring your wrappers by leaving the ends open.

Prisoners to be Discharged.

The Chief of Police has secured a report of the prisoners to be discharged from the Central Prison next month. Two are from Peterborough, viz., John McLaughlin, a tramp, who was arrested on Burnham's Point and sent up for six months as he had been let off once before only on agreeing to get out of town, and Frank Hart, a tramp, who was sentenced to six months by Justices of the Peace, Adam Hall and R. S. Davidson in the absence of the Police Magistrate one day last July. These prisoners are nearly all new offenders, though one old rascal is serving his fifth term for larceny. Of the 47 to be discharged only one is of dark complexion. The eldest person of the lot is 56 and the youngest is 18 years of age.

Ella Cameron Company.

There was a fair-sized audience at the Opera House last night to hear and witness the excellent presentation of "Lynwood," a charming southern comedy drama, by Mr. J. L. Clarke's excellent company. The play was well put on, and the interpretation of the characters was of a high class. Miss Ella Cameron as "Lucille Carlyle," gave a very strong and faithful personation of that character. Mr. Clarke as the war correspondent, furnished a great amount of quiet fun which was heartily appreciated. His fidelity to nature is worthy of special mention. Mr. George Heath as "Victor Blanchard," is also worthy of particular mention. The songs of T. J. Norton, and the song and dance of A. E. Whitting were rewarded by hearty recalls. Altogether the support was good. The play was capitally rendered and all present were highly pleased. To-night the company closes its engagement with "The Snares of New York." No cleaner or more clever repertoire company has ever visited the town. They deserve a bumper house to-night.

THE LATE MRS. MORROW'S FUNERAL.

Her Remains Laid at Rest—Solemn Memorial Service.

The funeral of the late Mrs. W. A. Morrow took place this afternoon at 3 o'clock and the very large attendance of citizens and attendant circumstances testified to the very high esteem in which the deceased lady was held. The floral tributes were particularly elaborate and beautiful. The drawing room of the residence where the casket rested was sweet with the odor of the mounds of flowers that expressed the sympathy and esteem of friends. Among the floral pieces were a beautiful emblem, the gates ajar, and two floral pillows, from relatives in Toronto, a beautiful floral pillow sent by the employees of the Central Canada Loan and Savings Company, of which Mr. W. G. Morrow is secretary, and a very pretty floral emblem, "Gates Ajar," sent by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Charlotte street Methodist church, of which Mrs. Morrow was an active member, besides a large number of other beautiful floral designs.

The funeral corteges proceeded to the Charlotte street church, which was crowded with a sympathetic congregation and where a solemn memorial service was held.

As the procession entered the church, the sweetly suggestive strains of the "Sweet Bye-and-Bye" rose from the organ. The choir and altar rails of the church were draped in black, as was also the pew which the deceased lady had occupied so regularly for so many years. The service began with the singing of the hymn:

Jesus, while our hearts are bleeding,
O'er the spoils that death has won,
We would at this solemn meeting,
Calmly say, "Thy will be done."

The Scripture lesson followed, read by Rev. W. R. Young, of the George street Methodist church. The first lesson was the 14th Chapter of the Book of Job, and the second was Revelation, 8th Chapter, from the 9th to the 17th verse.

Then the 400th hymn was sung:

"My faith looks up to thee,
Thou Lamb of Calvary."

Then followed the most impressive and affecting part of the services, the addresses of Rev. S. J. Shorey, of Lindsay, for three years pastor of the Charlotte street Methodist church, and Rev. J. J. Rae, the present pastor.

Rev. Mr. Shorey's remarks were pathetic and appropriate, and pointed the bereaved to the great Source of comfort under such a sad dispensation of divine Providence as death. He spoke from an experience of three years in the pastorate of the church in which the deceased had been a regular worshipper, and paid a warm tribute to the piety and devotion to duty of the late Mrs. Morrow and to her zealous services faithfully rendered in the promotion of the interests of the church.

Rev. Mr. Rae's address was in a similar strain. The sorrowing relatives were spoken words of comfort. Mr. Rae also paid a warm tribute to the faithfulness of Mrs. Morrow to her religious duties and to her devotion to the work of the Ladies' Aid Society, in which relation her work was so valuable and so effective that in this department of church activity her loss would be especially felt. During these addresses, their pathos seemed to touch every heart and many a tear was shed in every part of the audience. The service concluded with the singing of this hymn:

"Forever with the Lord!"
Amen! So let it be Life from the dead is in that word,
'Tis immortality.

As the funeral procession was leaving the church the notes of the "Dead March in Saul" performed by the organist, Mrs. Chas. McClelland, emphasized the mournful solemnity of the occasion.

A very large cortege followed the remains to the Little Lake Cemetery, where they were laid at rest. The pall bearers were all relatives of the deceased: Messrs. F. G. Cox, E. W. Cox, and H. C. Cox, Toronto, A. L. Davis, W. G. Morrow and Thos. Morrow.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL VALUATORS.

They are Again at Work Appraising the Value of the Land.

Mr. Harry Strickland, having completely recovered from his recent severe illness, was joined during the week by Messrs. McEachern and Geo. A. Pope, his associates in the purchase of land for the Trent Valley Canal right of way, and this work is now being quickly carried forward to completion, the valuators now appraising the land lying along the proposed route from Nassau to Little Lake. The entire work of valuating will probably be finished next week if Mr. Strickland's health does not again fail, which event, however, his friends will be pleased to hear is hardly likely to occur.

Do You Want White Teeth?

Use Ivorine. Are signs of decay present? Ivorine retards decay and renders it impossible if used regularly. Is the breath heavy? Ivorine purifies and sweetens. Ivorine preserves and whitens the teeth and gives them a dazzling brilliancy. Ivorine is absolutely free from enamel wearing substances. Use Ivorine for the teeth; it is delightful and fragrant.

Harold Jarvis.

"This is the man who set the meeting on fire with his magnificent singing."

This is what the Detroit Journal says of Harold Jarvis' appearance in that city on Oct. 10th, at Mayor Pingree's reception. Jehim Prume and Harold Jarvis concert Peterborough, Oct. 20th. 1d

Wise Old Fellow.

A good tea at any price suited him. He always shut his eyes to the price. He was wiser than some people who imagine if they do not pay a big figure they cannot get good goods. There are exceptions to all rules. The exception at the present time is a regular forty cent tea for the low price of twenty-five cents. Ooh-k-ooh is the name. Big sales and steady sales tell it is a good tea. Remember we are selling this 40c. tea for twenty-five cents. 370 George street, Peterborough. Strond Bros., direct importers. OUR ULTIMATUM!

The following correspondence will be of interest just now, especially to the Ladies of Peterborough, who are concerned in the breaking up of a monoply of high prices for the Celebrated "Health" Brand Underwear:—

THE MONTREAL SILK MILLS COMPANY, Ltd.,
MANUFACTURERS OF HEALTH BRAND UNDERWEAR.

MONTREAL, 22nd October, 1895.

Messrs. Kells & Co., Peterborough, Ont.:

GENTLEMEN,—Our attention has again been drawn to your advertisement in the DAILY EXAMINER of Oct. the 16th. We are at a loss to know where you are getting our goods from, but you are certainly doing that which you have no right to do. Firstly, you are advertising that you are getting our goods direct from us, or conveying such an impression in your ads, and secondly you are making a statement reflecting upon our customer in your town, in regard to their putting up the prices over our printed retail price list on account of their having a monopoly of the article.

We have not laboured for years to make the best Underwear in the market for the purpose of having our Brand or ourselves used as a sort of stepladder, to gain, for any firm, some notoriety for selling cheaply, and we scarcely think you appreciate the position you place yourself in by acting in this manner.

We have entered into a bona fide contract with the firm you are trying to injure and do not propose to have it interfered with any further. We await your ultimatum on this matter. Yours truly,

THE MONTREAL SILK MILLS CO., (Limited,) Henry St. Joseph, Mgr.

PETERBOROUGH, Oct. 24th, 1895.

The Montreal Silk Mills Co., Limited:

GENTLEMEN:—We beg to acknowledge receipt of your favor of 22nd October. Before discussing same we wish to recall to your recollection that the gentlemen whom you advertise as your sole agents, Herman H. Wolff Co., Montreal, sold to us in good faith direct, a bill of your "Health Brand" goods.

About 4 months after the order was given and accepted, your sole agent Messrs. Wolff & Co., refused to deliver the goods, not on the ground that it was impossible to carry out the contract, but because you deemed it profitable to break an honorable contract entered into in perfect good faith. You had not even the common decency to first inform us of your intentions and ask us to meet same or withdraw.

As we had promised our customers that we had purchased your goods, we were under the necessity of carrying out our words and we now inform you that we are selling your "Health Brand" goods, purchased direct from yourselves, and we believe that we are selling your goods below all competition, and we believe that we can sell your goods at the same price as our competitors pay you and then make a profit.

We thoroughly appreciate the position we now have you in and the public can appreciate your high standard of business honor. It is well for you that your goods are better than your morals.

Yours etc., R. H. KELLS & CO.

R. H. Kells & Co. have just received direct from the Manufacturers, another and a larger shipment of "Health" Brand Underwear. Ample selection in Ladies', Misses' and Children's Sizes at even LOWER quotations than our former Reduced Prize List.

PERSONAL.

Mr. W. A. Stratton is in Kinmount on business for a few days.

Mr. R. Fowler returned from visting friends in Souris, Man., to-day.

Mr. Geo. A. Cox will arrive in Peterborough on the 9 p. m. train from Winnipeg.

Mrs. Henderson is visiting her sons, Samuel and Rev. John Henderson, in Port Hope.

Capt. Howden, of Port Hope, was in town yesterday, visiting his sister, Mrs. Chas. Ormond.

Rev. W. R. Young, B.A., has returned from Cavan, where he made an address at a tea meeting last night.

Miss McKeown, of Ashburnham, leaves on Monday for a visit to her brother, Mr. S. R. McKeown, of Manitoulin Island.

Mr. George Burney, the popular clerk at the Grand Central, has returned from a visit to relatives in the vicinity of Pickering.

Miss Eliza McKee, daughter of the postmaster at Ewan, left for Peterborough last week, where she will spend a month's holiday with her friends.—Minden Echo.

County Engineer Belcher and County Solicitor Stratton are in Kinmount to-day in connection with the Kinmount bridge litigation between the counties of Peterborough and Victoria.

Mr. Thomas Telford's many friends will be pleased to learn that he was able to be up town this morning—the first time for three months—though he is by no means in his usual health.

Mr. George Orde, formerly of Peterborough, who is now assistant cashier in one of the Chicago Banks, paid a flying visit to friends in town yesterday. He returned to the west this morning.

The Gelert correspondence of the Minden Echo says: Mr. T. Parish returned last week from a visit to Peterborough, bringing a helpmate with him. We wish for the young couple a long life, useful and happy.

Mr. R. B. Boucher has just passed the final exams of the Ontario College of Physicians and Surgeons. The many friends of Dr. Boucher, Jr., will give him hearty congratulations on the attainment of his medical majority and wish him success in his medical career.

To-day's Toronto Globe says: Many Port Hope, Peterborough and Toronto people will be interested in the news which comes to us on the western breezes from the far away Rockies, telling us that the wedding of Miss Frances Stewart, daughter of Mr. George Stewart of Banff, to Dr. Simpson is about to be celebrated. Hearty congratulations will go from a host of friends that Miss Stewart made during her stay in town last winter.

Mr. N. St. C. Gurd, who entered into partnership some time ago with Mr. A. P. Poussette, Q.C., has returned to his home in Sarnia, where he will conduct the law business of his father, who intends retiring from active life. Though not residing in Peterborough for even a year, Mr. Gurd won many warm friends by his uniform geniality and friendliness. He was an ardent cricketer and an enthusiastic Rugby football man and consequently will be as greatly missed from the field of athletics as he will be from society circles.

Nervous Prostration

Is a deplorable condition of body, to which the mind to some degree responds; the sufferer becomes a victim to a legion of disagreeable sensations, arising from the impairment or exhaustion of nerve or vital force. Sleeplessness, too, comes to rob the sufferer of nature's sweetest solace and restorer, and a disordered digestive function contributes its quota to the already full cup of misery. Cure is possible in one way only—the nervous system must be strengthened; the digestive and assimilative function must be restored.

Mal ine with Coca Wine, more than any other preparation known to science, combines the two essentials required in these cases. Maltine with Coca Wine possesses tonic properties that are directed in a very special way to the nerve centres, giving them tone, vigor and the staying power so much needed, while just efficaciously does it aid and strengthen the processes of digestion.

TENDERS.

THE UNDERSIGNED WILL RECEIVE SEPARATE TENDERS up to 15th Nov. next for the following Properties:

BROTHERHOOD OF ST. ANDREW'S.

A Number of Local Delegates are in Attendance.

The Brotherhood of St. Andrew, which is a distinctively Church of England organization, has during the past few years made great strides both in the United States and Canada. Its object is to stimulate Christian work among young men, and through its instrumentality very much has been accomplished, as was made manifest at the recent large convention held in St. Louis. The first branch of the organization started in Canada was organized some years ago in St. Luke's Parish, Toronto, and although it lapsed for a time it has again become vigorous and is becoming a power here, as it is also in the United States and in England. Last evening the annual Ontario convention was opened in St. Luke's Church, Toronto, with Rev. Dr. Langtry in the chair. The proceedings were opened with prayer by Rev. Canon Sweeny, after which a powerful sermon was delivered by Rev. Provost E. A. Welch on the text chosen from Revelation, "I am Alpha and Omega, the first and the last." The keynote of the discourse was that Christ was the beginning and the end in all things spiritual. His treatment of the subject was most devotional and felicitous. The convention will be continued to-day. At 7.30 in the morning corporate communion will be celebrated in St. James' Cathedral, Bishop Sweatman officiating. At 10 o'clock the regular session of the conference will be opened, Rev. Canon Sweeny presiding, and addresses will be delivered by Rev. J. C. Farthing, Dr. E. Allworth and F. W. Thomas. During the afternoon a number of important papers will be read.

The delegates from Peterborough who are in attendance are Rev. J. C. Davidson, rector of St. John's church and Messrs. Kingscote, Harold Cluxton, W. G. Howden, W. D. Parker and Thos. Baker. The delegates from the Junior Chapter are Masters Fred Sawers and Harry Rush.

SOME RIVER AND LAKE NOTES.

The Last Logs of the Year Passing Through Now.

The logs have not yet reached the mouth of the river where the City of Peterborough is in waiting to tow them across Rice Lake.

The tail of the Gilmore drive of logs has just passed over the Dickson Company's dam.

The last block of the Gilmore drive will be held over until spring and run down during the high water as the experiment proved such a success this season.

The gates at the locks are now being repaired in order to stop a number of leakages. A good job has been made of the rebuilding of the side dam at this point.

Mr. Roly Tivey pulled up from the Benefort Bridge this morning and shot a partridge from his canoe whilst paddling along the shore. In landing to get his bird his hound jumped ashore and immediately picked up a rabbit scent and dashed off into the woods. Mr. Tivey had to shoot the rabbitt before he could recapture the dog and proceed on his way. He states that the men working on the bridge walk up to town from there in an hour and twenty minutes.

The steamer Beaver which ran up from down the river this morning, had to land her passengers and their market produce at the Ashburnham wharf on account of the block of logs passing through.

I was Cured of Rheumatism in Twenty four Hours.

I, George English, shipbuilder, have lived in Chatham, N.S., over forty years. Last spring I took severe pains in my knee, which, combined with swelling, laid me up for six weeks, during which time I endured great suffering. I saw South American Rheumatic Cure advertised in The Chatham World and procured a bottle. Within twenty-four hours I was absolutely free from rheumatism, and have not been troubled with it since. It is a literal fact that the conductor of a street car had to press down a girl's hat at each side the other day before she could get in at the door. The wearer of the cartwheel could not make out what hindering her from getting in, when the conductor with a polite "Allow me," gently pressed the rim at either side.

Is Bicycle Riding Injurious?

There is a possibility that the fervor exhibited by all classes for the bicycle carries with it an element of danger. Exercise is essential to vigorous health, but in disease or in those cases were the muscular force is greatly reduced, the use of the wheel should be employed cautiously. The proprietors of the well-known remedy, Putnam's Corn Extractor, attribute the largeness of their sales not to the use of the bicycle by the people of Canada, but to the absolute certainty of their preparation ... remove the most painful and obstinate corns in twenty-four hours. Try it.

ANNUAL INSPECTION IS OVER FOR THE SEASON.

THE RANGERS MARCH AND COUNTER MARCH.

Burnham's Point the Scene of Their Manoeuvres Yesterday Afternoon—The Great Charge They Made.

Although a most chilling wind blew across Burnham's Point yesterday afternoon the spectators who braved it to witness the parade of the Rangers for inspection felt well repaid for their temerity, although they were glad at times to seek the shelter of the trees where the force of the breeze was somewhat broken.

On arriving at the grounds the bands and pioneer and ambulance corps drew off, and the Battalion columned into line, when the D. A. G. rode slowly along noting the appearance of each man. Afterwards the battalion quarter columned and the work of the afternoon began, Col. Cotton circling around the men and viewing their execution of the various manœuvres from different points. A feature which the

was the skirmishing, when semi-detached bodies of Rangers were scattered out over the field and gave a splendid exemplification of this mode of warfare. The charge, however, threw all other manœuvres in the shade coming, as it did as a totally unexpected move. The Battalion had columned into line, and was slowly advancing with fixed bayonets, when the word was suddenly given. The mounted officers were at the head of their men in an instant, and the entire body of infantry charged towards the railway bridge with a cheer that awoke the echoes. It was a stirring spectacle indeed, and one well worth witnessing.

On returning to the drill shed the Deputy Adjutant General and his aide checked over the attendance, and found the strength of the different companies to be as follows:

No. 1	Company	Strength 21
No. 2	"	Strength 21
No. 3	"	Strength 34
No. 4	"	Strength 27
No. 5	"	Strength 45
No. 6	"	Strength 34
Pioneer Corps		Strength 7
Military Band		Strength 28
Bugle Band		Strength 19
Ambulance Corps		Strength 12

At the conclusion of this part of the inspection Lieut.-Col. Bell made a brief address to the men, in which he expressed the opinion that the results of the inspection had been very satisfactory and that the men had, on the whole, done well. The Commanding Officer had vouchsafed no opinion, officially, as to the efficiency of the men as yet, but this was not expected, as the Battalion inspection did not count in the competition, the points for this being made up from the inspection of companies held in the evenings. In concluding Col. Bell again congratulated the men on the showing which they had made.

The prizes won at the fall rifle meeting were then presented, and while the Colonel was busily engaged in distributing them a pistol shot suddenly rang out on the air. The spectators were considerably alarmed but the men in the ranks, to their credit, did not stir an inch, although Private Pratt glanced down at his foot in a

VERY UNEASY MANNER.

A non-commissioned officer was quickly beside Pte. Pratt, who stated that he thought he had been struck in the foot. An examination revealed the fact that a bullet had entered the boot through the laces and grazing the skin had passed out again, fortunately without doing much injury. The question as to where the shot came from was easily solved, as a youth of fourteen, who had been strutting around with his hands in his pockets, made a quick rush for the door and disappeared in a twinkling. The lad had evidently had a revolver in his pocket and been playing with the trigger, when it suddenly discharged itself. It was lucky no more serious accident resulted, and the men are to be complimented over not allowing the matter to break the ranks, as their curiosity must have been very strong when Pte. Pratt's foot was being examined.

Col. Cotton and his aide-de-camp Lieut. Cockburn, left on the noon train to-day for Kingston.

NOTES.

A number of the members of the Battalion are wondering why Pte. E Wand of the Pioneer Corps marched out to the field with a cleaver and returned with a spade over his shoulder—thereby hangs a tale.

When the Battalion charged across the field during the execution of their manœuvres, yesterday, a couple of tramps who were hanging over the fence went scuttling down the railway track in a hurry, thinking, no doubt, that a repetition of Major Sam Hughes skirmish with tramps at Cobourg was about to take place.

The band was in fine fettle yesterday and played its prettiest.

There were a large number of ladies on the field yesterday and quite a few carriages.

The D. A. G. was mounted on Col. Roger's charger during the afternoon.

The ground at the Point is almost too rough for even marching such as should be seen at an inspection and it is a question whether Riverside Park would not have been preferable.

A WELL-KNOWN CATHOLIC PRIEST,

Of Hamilton, Rev. Father John J. Hinchey. Pastor of St. Joseph's Church, Hamilton, Bears Testimony to the Undisputed Worth of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder.

In the person of the Rev. John T. Hinchey of St. Joseph's church, (R. C.) Hamilton, is found one who does the highest credit to the self-sacrificing work in which he is engaged. His kindly heart constantly prompts to deeds of love and goodness, and in the city of Hamilton all who know him are ready to bear testimony to his high character and active generosity. As result of neglect, thinking more of others than himself, he has been a sufferer from cold in the head, and its almost certain associate, catarrh. Recently he made use of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, and has found in it so great relief that he deems it a pleasure to tell others of the good it has done him.

One short puff of the breath through the blower supplied with each bottle of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, diffuses this powder over the surface of the nasal passages. Painless and delightful to use, it relieves in ten minutes and permanently cures Catarrh, Hay Fever, Colds, Headache, Sore Throat, Tonsilitis and Deafness. 60 cents. Sample bottle and blower sent on receipt of two 3 cent stamps. S. G. Detchon, 44 Church street, Toronto. Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

Scott's Sarsaparilla

IS A MOTHER'S REMEDY regulating and strengthening the maternal functions. It purifies the female system of ulcerative weaknesses and debilitating humors. It expels the first symptoms of hereditary humors in children and youths that may owe their origin to past generations. It searches out and renders the system free from disease-breeding germs.

"THE KIND THAT CURES."

There are not many forms of disease upon which Scott's Sarsaparilla does not act favorably, because pure blood carries to the diseased parts renewing and building up properties. This medicine makes pure blood which builds up where disease has torn down, and carries away the impurities upon which it feeds.

COUNTERFEITERS CAUGHT.

An Important Capture Made by Toronto Detectives.

Toronto, Oct. 26.—A counterfeiting swindle of unusual proportions and extent was yesterday unearthed by Detectives. Davis, Porter and Duncan. As a result of their work, David Cooper, barber, 142 York-street; W. J. Kramer, engraver, 17 Jordan-street; John Crawford, 834 College-street, and Thomas Smith, 257 Sackville-street, are under arrest at police headquarters, charged with forgery and uttering forged bank bills.

For some time past the authorities were of the opinion that from some source in the city counterfeit $1 and $2 bills of a rather inferior quality were being struck off and circulated. One or two of the bills came under their notice, and every effort was made to trace them to their originators, as they were believed to be the work of a gang.

Three days ago Detectives Davis and Porter struck what looked like a promising clue. Both officers were detailed to the case. Yesterday they learned of a Queen-street west merchant having been approached by a man who offered for sale $100 in $1 bills. The merchant consented to assist the officers in their detection of the swindle, and entered into an agreement to purchase one of the queer for $30.

An appointment was made, in which the counterfeiter, who afterwards proved to be Cooper, agreed to deliver the bills to the merchant at his store yesterday afternoon. Detectives Porter and Duncan concealed themselves in the store, and when Cooper had handed over the bills and taken the $30 in good coin of the realm in exchange, they stepped out and arrested him. Cooper protested that he was innocent of any intention of fraud, and claimed to be disposing of them for a man who was at that time waiting for him in his shop at 142 York-street. Detective Porter marched Cooper off to headquarters, while Duncan went to the address given, where he found and arrested Smith, who was also taken to headquarters.

In the course of the searching cross-examination to which these two men were subjected, information was elicited which led to the arrest later in the evening of Crawford and Kramer, and the unfolding of the whole story of the plot, which proved to be more extensive than was first suspected. In whose mind the swindle had its genesis is yet to be discovered by the authorities. Each prisoner contradicted the other in many of the most important details, though all were unanimous of the other fellow's guilt and their own innocence.

The bills issued are $1 and $2 Canadian. They are all very poor imitations, printed on ordinary linen paper. It is alleged that the signature of T. D. Harington, which has been forged to a number of the bills of both denominations, is the work of Crawford, in whose house also the stamps for numbering the bills were discovered.

Smith at first declared his innocence, but some of the paper was found in his pockets when he was searched by Sergt. Reburn.

Kramer admits doing the engraving, but claims he did it under misrepresentations by Crawford and Smith. The man who did the photo-engraving is not yet in custody, but the detectives believe his arrest to be only a matter of time.

The $1 bills were printed by E. Barber, 8½ Lombard-street, who says that Crawford and Smith came to him and asked him to print 5000 of the bills, saying they wanted to use them for advertising cigars. He struck off the number asked for, and now the detectives are wondering who has the 4900 they have not found. The $1 plates were located at Barber's, and the $2 plates at Kramer's. The authorities believe Mr. Barber to have been an innocent party to the transaction, and will ask him to give evidence when the case comes to trial.

We know whereof we affirm when we state that Ayer's Pills, taken promptly, at the first symptoms of colds and fevers, arrest further progress of these disorders, and speedily restore the stomach, liver and bowels, to their normal and regular action.

is Cod-liver Oil emulsified, or made easy of digestion and assimilation. To this is added the Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda, which aid in the digestion of the Oil and increase materially the potency of both. It is a remarkable flesh-producer. Emaciated, anæmic and consumptive persons gain flesh upon it very rapidly. The combination is a most happy one.

Physicians recognize its superior merit in all conditions of wasting. It has had the endorsement of the medical profession for 20 years.

GIVEN UP TO DIE.

A Victim Beyond Hope With Incurable Diabetes.

Twenty-Seven Months Helpless and Bed-ridden—An Aged Farmer Takes Hold of the Plow Once More, But Not to Look Back—Dodd's Kidney Pills Again.

Richmond, Ont., Oct. 26.—Inquiry satisfied your correspondent that wonders were not confined to this town. I drove out a few miles to investigate the case of Wm. McCord, a farmer, and found him at work in the field.

"Are you Mr. Wm. McCord?" asked I.

"I am, sir" said he, in a brogue that jarred every R in his speech.

"A friend of yours in the village recommended me to see you about your cure that the neighbours are all talking of," said I.

"And well they may talk, for they all had invited themselves to my funeral," said he.

"It was really something serious then?" said I.

"To be sure, sir," said he. "Everyone around here knows me, for I am about sixty years old and have lived here for forty years. I had twenty-seven months of great misery, could barely crawl, and when in bed could not get up, without help, if I got all the gold in Canada. Didn't do a stroke for nine months. I was done up entirely, and the doctors none of them could fetch me around."

"But what ailed you, and what cured you? For I see you are working all right now," said I.

"Why, the doctors all said it was diabetes. One day I was reading about a doctor down towards Kingston, who was cured of the same thing by Dodd's Kidney Pills. I sent for a box, and before I had finished it I felt better. No one could be worse and live. But I am cured and it only needed a few boxes. I tell my neighbours to buy these pills the same as groceries, and not get all run down, as I was before commencing.

No medicine has ever been known to cure diabetes except Dodd's Kidney Pills.

FRANK MADILL, M.P., DEAD.

The Member for North Ontario Died at His Home in Meaverton Yesterday.

Toronto, Oct. 26.

Word was received in the city last night of the death of Frank Madill, M.P. for North Ontario. Mr. Madill had been ailing for some time past but only within the past few days did his condition become serious. On Monday he had a stroke of paralysis and on Tuesday lapsed into an unconscious condition, from which he never rallied.

Frank Madill was born in the township of Scott, November 28, 1852, graduated at Toronto University in 1873 and was called to the Bar in 1877. He represented North Ontario in the Legislative Assembly from June 4, 1881, until the general election in 1883, at which time he was defeated. He has sat in the Commons for the same constituency since 1887.

Barn and Stock Burned.

Port Credit, Ont., Oct. 25.—A barn owned by the Sutherland estates and occupied by Mr. E. E. Frankish, lot 9, two miles east of this village, was, together with contents, consisting of two horses, wagon, implements, several tons of hay, grain, etc., completely destroyed by fire last evening. The building was insured for about $400, the contents for $500. The fire is supposed to be of incendiary origin. A stack of 15 to 20 tons of hay on the adjoining farm, owned by J. Kelly, took fire from a spark and was also destroyed.

L. J. Law, Toronto Junction, Ont.:—"I consider it my duty to give to the public my experience with Dr. Agnew's Cure of the Heart. I have been sorely troubled with heart disease and unable to lie down in bed for eighteen months owing to smothering spells and palpitation. Each night I would have to be propped up by pillows in order to keep from smothering. After treating with several medical men without benefit, I procured a bottle of Heart Cure. After taking the first dose I retired and slept soundly until morning. I used one bottle and have not taken any of the remedy for seven weeks, but the heart trouble has not reappeared. I consider it the greatest remedy in existence for heart trouble." Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

DEAR SIR:—I have suffered from Eczema for two years; tried different kinds of medicine. I was at the hospital for some time, and was told there that all had been done for me that could be done. I ceased treatment at Christmas. After leaving the hospital I was under the care of a Hamilton physician, but got no relief. I have taken four bottles of Kootenay Cure, and I am now well and free from Eczema. Yours very truly,

WM. MARCHAM,

Wood's Phosphodine.—The Great English Remedy.

Is the result of over 35 years treating thousands of cases with all known drugs, until at last we have discovered the true remedy and treatment—a combination that will effect a prompt and permanent cure in all stages of Sexual Debility, Abuse or Excesses, Nervous Weakness, Emissions, Mental Worry, Excessive Use of Opium, Tobacco, or Alcoholic Stimulants, all of which soon lead to Insanity, Consumption and an early grave. Wood's Phosphodine has been used successfully by hundreds of cases that seemed almost hopeless—cases that had been treated by the most talented physicians—cases that were on the verge of despair and insanity—cases that were tottering over the grave—but with the continued and persevering use of Wood's Phosphodine, these cases that had been given up to die, were restored to manly vigor and health—Reader you need not despair—no matter who has given you up as incurable—the remedy is now within your reach, by its use you can be restored to a life of usefulness and happiness.

Price, one package, $1; six packages, $5; by mail free of postage.

One will please, six guaranteed to cure. Pamphlet free to any address.

WHY SO PALE?

Are You Nervous, Weak and Run-Down.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND MAKES RICH, PURE BLOOD AND DRIVES OFF DISEASE.

See that Your Dealer gives you the Right Medicine.

No good reason can be advanced why women should live a truly miserable life, with pale faces, jaded looks, nervousness apparent at every step, and almost quite broken down in constitution.

The seeds of lurking disease must be banished, the blood must be purified and enriched, the nerves made strong, and the flesh and muscles built up.

In order to accomplish this great and necessary work, Paine's Celery Compound must be used without delay. Substitutes and the common advertised medicines of the day cannot give the slightest relief; indeed they tend more towards aggravating the disease and impoverishing the blood.

Let no specious arguments of dealers and storekeepers influence you when you decide that you must use Paine's Celery Compound. Other preparations are often recommended because they pay larger profits than Paine's Celery Compound, and become bad and unsaleable stock when not quickly got rid of.

Read what Mrs. Beverly Vincent, of Adelaide street, St. John, N.B., says about the medicine that cured her:—

"I am happy to let you know what your Paine's Celery Compound has done for me. I suffered many years from nervousness, and my constitution was all run-down. I tried many medicines, but received no benefit from anything until I used your Paine's Celery Compound. It is a medicine that has given me grand results. I can recommend it to all who are sick and suffering."

A Subterranean River.

The tug Calumet went up the Burnt river last week as far as Mitchell's bridge, and that they found plenty of water and a remarkably pretty bit of scenery. It is not generally known that the Burnt river, for a considerable distance inland from Cameron Lake, was originally a subterranean river. Being narrow, the trees had fallen across, and after many years gradually covered the surface with timber, moss, decaying matter and finally trees. This floating forest raised and fell with the river, and was an effectual barrier to navigation until Mr. Dennistoun, who then lived on Cameron Lake, and Mr. Mossom Boyd, of Bobcaygeon, became interested in getting logs from this district. They then joined in cutting a passage through this floating covering of the river, and so opened it to navigation.

Dr. S. C. Webb, Liberty, Miss., says: "I have been using Ayer's Pills forover twenty-five years, and recommend them in cases of chronic dirrahœa, knowing their efficiency from personal experience, they having cured when every other medicine failed."

Signs of Worms are variable appetite, itching at the nose, etc. Dr. Low's Worm Syrup is the best worm expeller.

THE SALMON MATTER

Satisfactorily Settled in the Old Country.

THE FROZEN FISH MAY BE SENT IN.

Prof. Prince's Opinion Cabled to The London Times Did the Business The Report That Mr. Huddart's Contract Had Been Cancelled Was a Fake.

Ottawa, Oct. 25.—A cablegram has been received from the High Commissioner stating that a settlement satisfactory to importers had been reached in regard to the British Columbia frozen fish matter. It will be remembered that the other day a consignment of frozen salmon from British Columbia was impounded in London by the Fishmongers' Company, on the ground that the fish were really trout, and as it is the close season for trout in England their sale was prohibited. There is no doubt that the satisfactory conclusion of the matter is due to the pronounced opinion of Prof. Prince, Commissioner of Fisheries, who, having just returned from a lengthy visit to British Columbia, was able to speak authoritatively on the matter. Prof. Prince's views were cabled to The Times, and in this way gained the fullest publicity. The result will be to enable the companies which have embarked in this enterprise to continue it without let or hindrance.

The statement in The Toronto News of Thursday that the Government had decided to notify Mr. James Huddart that his contract for a fast Atlantic steamship service is at an end is a pure fake. Sir Mackenzie Bowell states that until such time as the Imperial Government's decision on the application for a subsidy to the fast line had been received there would be no change in the Government's policy.

A communication has been received at the Postoffice Department from the High Commissioner intimating that a number of letters are being received at his office from the Dominion addressed to Canadians visiting Europe, which are short of the requisite amount of postage. Newspaper readers ought not to be required to be reminded that the rate of postage on all letters to Great Britain is 5c. per half-ounce. The rate for Canada and the United States is 3c. per ounce, and it is evident that parties forget the difference in weight as between the internal rate and the European rate.

The attention of the public is drawn to the postoffice regulations which require that only persons who have licenses from the department can legally sell postage stamps. The recent arrest of parties in Toronto for cleaning stamps is an indication of the vigilance of the postal authorities.

The managers of the Garrison mess dinner to General Gascoigne are kicking themselves because they did not invite newspaper representatives to the function last evening. The banquet is admitted to have been a splendid success, but the Ottawa military men have lost all kudos of it from the fact that no report if forthcoming of the two principal speeches, the General's and Hon. Mr. Dickey's. The speech of the Minister is acknowledged to have been an exceedingly brilliant one, and important as outlining his policy as administrator of the Department. The peculiar calibre of some men who are entrusted with arranging for important events may be judged by the intimation which came from an Ottawa officer to a newspaper man that the latter would be welcome to a seat in the gallery of the banquet hall as soon as the speeches commenced. Needless to say the important concession was not accepted. The newspaper correspondents here are not yearning to be invited to the banquets, but they expect to be treated as gentlemen.

The major portion of the railway legislation next session will apply to the great west. Among the applications of which notice is given this week is one for a charter to a company to build a line from Winnipeg to Grand Rapids, thence to Hudson Bay, with a branch from Grand Rapids to Edmonton. Another company seeks to build three lines in different directions from Edmonton, while the Winnipeg Great Northern (Hugh Sutherland's road), will seek an extension of time.

Kidney Disease Vanquished by South American Kidney Cure—The Remedy Which Relieves in Six Hours.

Adam Soper, Burk's Falls, Ont.: "I suffered much pain for months from kidney and bladder disease. I received skilled medical treatment and tried all kinds of medicines to no purpose; in fact, I did not obtain any relief until South American Kidney Cure was used. It seemed to fit my case exactly, giving me immediate relief. I have now used six bottles and can say positively that I am a cured man. I believe one bottle of the remedy will convince anyone of its great worth."

IN THE TREATY PORTS.

A Canadian Product Finds Favour in the Land of Confucius.

VANCOUVER, (Special), Oct. 14.—A passenger by the last vessel from China stated the other day that among other Canadian products which are fast coming into favour in the Chinese treaty ports, is the Canadian specific remedy for kidney diseases of all kinds, known as Dodd's Kidney Pills. The medicine was first introduced by Canadians, and the increase in its use both by Europeans and natives is attributed first to the accounts of its success in the Canadian and American newspapers, many of which are received in Shanghai and other ports, and later to its established efficacy in curing all kinds of kidney diseases, which are very prevalent in the country.

THE old man who looks out at the world with clear and healthy eyes cannot help feeling great gratification at the thought that his children and his children's children have inherited from him no weakness nor tendency to disease. The healthy old man is the man who has throughout his life kept his digestion good and his blood pure. Once in a while you find such a man who has never taken any medicine. That man has lived a perfectly natural life. Not one in a thousand does do it. Sometimes very slight indiscretions or carelessness pave the way for serious sickness. The germ theory of disease is well authenticated, and germs are everywhere. This need make no difference to the perfectly healthy man. Germs go through the healthy body without effect. They are hurried along rapidly and thrown off before they have time to develop or increase. Let them once find lodgment or let them find a weak spot, they will develop by the million and the blood will be full of them. Instead of rich, life-giving properties, the blood will be a sluggish, putrid tide of impurity. Instead of giving strength to the tissues, it will force upon them unwholesome and innutritious matter, and the man will lose flesh. The more flesh he loses and the weaker he becomes, the more susceptible he is to disease. His trouble will become complicated and serious consequences will follow. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is the only medicine that absolutely and infallibly cures all blood diseases, and almost all diseases are blood diseases. It isn't a medicine for some one particular so-called disease. It is a medicine for the whole body. It forces out all the germs of disease, replaces impurities with rich, red blood, feeds the tissues and makes strong, healthy flesh.

Studies in Tennyson No 4.

MAUD.

A close study of this poem proves it to be a peculiar one; a tragedy of tragedies, there yet is in it more of introspection than of action, Tennyson following his favourite style of soliloquy or moralizing aloud. A laugh is included in Hamlet, but not a smile can originate from Maud. It is the cry of a wounded animal whose dumb eyes ask why am I hurt? Even its passionate love songs frighten one, for a man who can love like that has equal possibilities for hate. Maud is essentially a love-story and in proportion to its length is Tennyson's most powerful work. Affection and poetic intellect could produce an "In Memoriam," but something more was necessary for the creation of Maud—the poet's very soul was laid bare in it.

Think of a man alone in the world—a man who had missed his boyhood—inheriting a gloomy house, which to the intense imagination of a child, echoed with death and blood—a sad and morbid man, ever brooding over his wrongs and murder and social injustice generally. A man who says of himself:

> My dark dawning youth—
> Darkened, watching a mother decline,
> For who was left to watch her but I?
> Yet so did I let my freshness die."

But now it is April in England! And "Maud" is coming again to be his neighbour. "Maud"—now like himself—motherless—and his memory goes back to her childhood and he sees again little "Maud with her venturesome climbings, her tumbles, her childish escapes" and he vaguely wonders if she, too, will bring him a curse.

Could two lots in life seem farther apart—she with health and wealth—"Maud, who had fed on the roses and lain in the lilies of life," and he, poor and sick at heart and soured? He, who has made this resolve: "I will bury myself in myself, and the devil may dipe to his own."

A premonition of coming evil creeps over him, and the prayer goes up for peace and calm, "Calm that never will be broken by Maud."

Oh, vain self-gratulation! Oh, foolish heart, which has yet to learn that love is self-elective!

By mystic steps innumerable the poet leads him up—and ever up—until the misanthrope is lost in the lover (and did ever girl have SUCH a lover!)—up—until "Love, the delicate spark of glowing and growing life changed my life to a perfumed altar flower," and now he can say:—"Let come what may—what matter if I go mad? I have had had my day." Listen to a love song, which in its passionate abandon would not discredit the Orient:

> She is coming, my love, my dear;
> She is coming, my life, my fate;
> The red rose cries, "She is near, she is near,"
> And the white rose weeps, "She is late."
> * * * * * *
> "Were it ever so airy a tread,"
> My dust would hear her and beat,
> Had I lain for a century dead
> Would start and tremble under feet
> And blossom in purple and red."

Is this the man who a month ago did nothing but "rail at his kind". See so short a time could a morbid egotist be transformed into a lover whose "Bright English lily" "He u all his heart strings in her small white hand."

After the duel, when

> "There rang on a sudden a passionate cry,
> A cry for a brother's blood;
> It will ring in my heart and my ears till I die—> till I die."

After this, I say, when all selfish thoughts of returned affection are over, this is his prayer:

> "Comfort her, comfort her, all things good,
> Let me and my passionate love go by;
> Me and my harmful love go by,
> But comfort her, though I die."

This is the acme of renunciation, because my love would harm her, therefore may it go by! Greater self abnegation can no man show. For her—let there be comfort—for him "the gates of heaven are closed—and she is gone." Truly "the drift of the Maker is dark."

The lessons, if such there be, which are taught by this poem, are purely negative. A tragedy like this can not stop to teach. At night we hear the thunderbolt, and in the morning the blackened tree testifies to the fact that a force has torn through in the darkness. There are a few things in this world which are complete without being useful—as flowers and poetry and little children.

Edgar Poe, himself no mean poet, says "when verse enters the realm of the didactic, it ceases to be poetry."

This whole tragedy voices the longing for human sympathy which is natural to humanity. It was this, which in the olden days wrung from David the pathetic plaint "no man careth for my love;" and it holds good still in our own time, when from a dim Pacific height, the greatest poet of the west is singing of being "Land forgotten and love denied."

I would like to quote a few stray lines from Maud as specimens of dainty poetry and of exquisite English:

> "For her feet have touched the meadows and
> "My bird with the shining head. My own dove > with the shining eye."
> The silent sapphire-spangled marriage-ring of > the land."
> "The wind like a broken worldling wailed."

And to those who consider poetry weak, what do you think of this?

> "Ah God—For one still, strong man in a > blatand land
> Whatever thy call him—what care I?
> Aristocrat, democrat, autocrat—one
> Who can rule and dare not lie."

But it is as unfair to judge of the quality of a poem, from a few quotations, as it would be for a person to speak disparagingly of the beauty of a rose when he had seen only a handful of its leaves.

And Maud is no garden flower, but a wealth of tropical bloom, a fit wreath for our Laureate (who must have spent some previous incarnation in India)—a wreath with glints of gold and of emerald and of sapphire glistening through it, till its luxuriance again and again recalls the glowing "East with her crown of lotus."

Watson speaks of a poet as one who "Finds, not fashions his members." But what shall be said of a poet who does both? Who finds his truths in the well of inspiration and who polishes them with such a master hand that they are henceforth truths expressed in music?

Few people realize what a work like "Maud" must cost its author. The intensity of its nature would render him self-absorbed, and during its progress and completion he could never be in the frame of mind which an American would designate as "sociable."

To dwell upon the mountain-tops may sound heroic, but we must not forget that the heights are chill and that it is lonely there. No man has proved better the truth of the following extract than did Alfred Tennyson:

"O Poet! thou shalt leave the world and know the muse only. God wills also that thou shalt abdicate a manifold and duplex life and that thou shalt be content that others speak for thee. The world is full of renunciations and apprenticeships and this is thine that thou shalt be called a fool and a churl for a long season. This is the screen and sheath in which Pan has protected his well-beloved flower, and thou shalt be known only to thine own, and they shall console thee with tenderest love."

AWAY AFTER THE DUCKS.

The Cold Weather Driving Them South—Some Local Parties.

A duck hunting party, composed of Judge Weller, Messrs. John Burnham, E. H. D. Hall and Harry Allen, has gone down to Sugar Island in Rice Lake, opposite the mouth of Keene river, for a week's shooting. The party went down the river in Mr. R. B. Rogers' house boat, towed by the steamer Lenore, and early next week Judge Ketchum, of Cobourg, and Mr. R. Max Dennistoun will join them.

On Monday morning Messrs. Harry Neil, Roland Tivey and Capt. Chas. Calcutt leave for Paudash Point, Rice Lake, for a few days duck shooting.

The cold weather of the last week has had the effect, it seems, of driving the ducks and geese from their sequestered resorts up north into the milder local temperature, and consequently the hunters are expecting heavy bags during the coming week.

Mr. T. H. Hamilton took a a party out partridge shooting this afternoon. He has promised to remember his friends and has taken a wagon with him wherewith to transport the game back to town.

THE SATURDAY MARKET.

It was the Largest of the Year and was Nearly Overstocked.

The market this morning was a magnificent one, being the largest of the year and almost equal to the big Christmas market in size and in the variety of produce brought in.

In vegetables and poultry the market was almost overstocked in consequence of the quantity which the farmers had for sale. Chickens brought 25 cents a pair at noon, but those sold earlier in the day brought as high as 40c for the best. Geese went down from 55c to 35c, some splendid ones being secured at 45c. Turkeys brought from 50c to 75c each, and ducks were down to 25 and 35c a pair.

Butter sold as low as 15c, but the best in rolls brought 20c. Eggs were worth 15 and 16c. Apples were plentiful at 40 and 60c a bag and the quantity of potatoes was unprecedented. They brought 30 and 40c per bag. Cabbage sold as 25c per doz. and cauliflowers were worth from 5 to 7c according to size.

The wheat market is brightening up considerably and to-day's sales realized from 62 to 63c per bushel, the buyers taking it readily at that price.

It Strikes the Spot.

It does the work. It reaches the right spot. It quickens the sluggish vitality; it makes new blood, it gives new hope; it makes weak men and women stronger. This is the function of Wilson's famous Invalids' Port, which is now recommended by medical men as a most invaluable tonic. Intrinsically, it is a fine old port wine, which constitutes a pleasant and stimulating beverage, but it is as well an appetising tonic, which gives back a relish for food, which it aids in the work of assimilation. A fine tonic taken at any time accomplishing wonders in the formation of blood and muscle in the case of weak, pale and debilitated people. Well or ill, it is a stimulating and grateful drink. Sold by all dealers at $7.50 per case of 12 quart bottles, half case $4.00, or 75c. per bottle. Address—Bordeaux Claret Co., 30 Hospital Street, Montreal.

As I Predicted

My Heavy-weight Blankets are having a rapid sale. The last two weeks has made a big hole in the stock. But that need'nt deter the Ladies from coming after more; for, although, the price of wool has gone up we can repeat orders at the same old price. Our Blankets live up to the label promise, in size, weight and price.

When we sell our best Blankets for $3.29, $3.76, $4.26, $4.76, it means a very considerable saving on the price you have to pay anywhere else.

There is a lesson here for the ladies. The extra price you pay elsewhere has to be put on for extra store expenses. If you are not buying Blankets you are buying Dress Goods or something else. The same holds true—money is saved in price here. We run our store with economy; that's why we can sell at smaller profits. Plain, isn't it.

Don't Overlook the Underwear.

We have something that undersells the undermost in Underwear. What do you think of 35c for a price. At 50c we can give you extra value. There's nothing that will please a husband, brother, sister or daughter we have'nt got.

FREE:—All Mantles and Dress Goods bought here, costing 50c per yard and upwards, will be cut and fitted free of charge.

WARTALK IN LONDON.

Britain Must Secure an Alliance With Japan.

TO CHECKMATE RUSSIA IN CHINA.

Great Outburst of Bellicose Talk in England—Occupation of Port Arthur Would Give Russia Control of Northern China—Lord Salisbury's Organ Speaks Out.

New York, Oct. 27.—Mr. Isaac N. Ford cables from London:

The Times has published from Hong Kong an account of the secret convention between Russia and China, which, unless contradicted in an authoritative way, changes the whole aspect of affairs in the far East. Russia is said to have obtained control of a good bit of Manchuria and Port Arthur, with its fine anchorage and fortresses. This concession will give Russia a naval station and an impregnable position for the command of the North Pacific.

The report was received with incredulity, although published by The Times as well grounded, and discussed by it with ominious gravity.

The Times, having published the most important news of many weeks, has nothing to add or take back this morning; but other journals discuss the matter seriously, while affecting either to discredit it or to believe that the rumors have started nearer home than Hong Kong.

The Spectator is bold enough to say that the news is probably true, and that England is not greatly concerned if it is.

The French press eagerly accepts the news, and insists that Russia is entitled to have a free hand in the Yellow Sea.

The British Foreign Office is silent, but it is not improbable that the Hong Kong story has been inspired from that quarter for the sake of sounding English opinion.

Whether this startling disclosure of Eastern secret diplomacy be true or premature or false, two things are certain, namely, that Russia has not found indemnity for China without obtaining a valuable concession in return. Port Arthur is the harbor which Russia needs and covets, and it is not improbable that she has secured at least the right of entry there for her commerce and anchorage for her Pacific fleet.

Unless England be ready to declare war on Russia and make an offensive and defensive alliance with Japan, any bargain which has been made will be carried out Japan cannot fight Russia alone, much as the English would like to have her offer resistance, nor can England depend upon German support, since Russia can easily give assurances at Berlin that German trade shall not suffer from the new diplomatic agreement. Lord Salisbury evidently has a foreign question on his hands which will heavily tax his resources.

Russia, after the occupation of Port Arthur will control Northern China and virtually exercise a protectorate over the Pekin Government.

In comparison with this challenge to British prestige in Eastern Asia, the Venezuelan question is trivial indeed.

Another correspondent says:

There has not been such an outburst of bellicose talk in years as this rumor has caused in London in the past few hours. Respectable journals, such as The Pall Mall Gazette, use such language as this: "The outrage would madden an older and cooler nation than Japan, and we shall have a bloody war. If there is any nerve and foresight in the counsels of England, she, too, will oppose it, and to the death. For us it spells the loss of every penny invested in China. It spells alien domination of the Pacific. It spells the ultimate but certain ruin of our trade, and Russian warships off Vancouver and Sydney. We must act vigorously, at once, by diplomacy and by readying our fleets for sea. The re-occupation of Port Hamilton, or any better station there may be, is the smallest possible counter move.

"We ought at once to bring our China squadron up to the full strength of Russia's, lest Japan were to lose her fleet unhelped, at the first blood. All this we ought to do without wait for confirmation or details."

This fairly indicates what would be the temper of the whole British public, without regard to party, if this diplomatic move by Russia becomes an accomplished fact.

The London Standard, which, more than The Times, may be regarded as the Ministerial organ, prints an editorial which may be confidently accepted as representing Lord Salisbury's views, and which is sufficiently robust on the China question to suit the most extreme Russophobe.

"If," says The Standard, "Russian occupation of Port Arthur, disguised or open, ever be seriously proposed, the whole Chinese question will be opened and the various European powers will act as their interests shall dictate."

Not the least remarkable feature of The Standard's editorial is the deference paid to Japan, which is treated, in fact, as a great power whose interests are identical with England's. "The shrewd and courageous statesmen who direct the policy of that wonderful people will refuse point blank to give way if Russian occupation is to be the sequel to their withdrawal from Port Arthur," says Lord Salisbury's organ, and it concludes with a warning to Russia no less emphatic: "If," it says, "the report that has been floated is a Ballon d'Essai, it may serve a useful purpose by eliciting a distinct warning that no meddling with the existing balance of power in Eastern Asia can be permitted either by Japan or by Great Britain."

Grave Dangers to Europe.

Berlin, Oct. 27.—The alleged treaty concluded between Russia and China is being widely and diversely discussed in Berlin.

The Kreuz Zeitung, in an article on the subject, says: "We can only conceive that Germany's consent to the alliance agreement would be given in exchange for equivalent concessions to Germany. If the agreement is made without the consent of Germany then Germany will be freed from all obligations in regard to the evacuation of the Liao Tung territory by the Japanese."

The anti-Russian newspapers in Berlin take a very pessimistic view of the situation, predicting that the spring of 1896 will be fraught with grave dangers to Europe.

KURCHINSKI GOES INSANE.

The Strain Has Unbalanced the Russian Murderer's Mind.

Berlin, Oct. 26.—Kurchinski, finding that he would have to languish in the prison cells another six months before receiving his trial, has gone completely insane. His insanity is of a harmless nature, however, but of the most idiotic character. He appears to have lost all reason and has been imagining that certain papers in his cell are "his babies." He is nursing his imaginary little ones and his mind appears to be completely deranged. The severe mental strain on the alleged murderer seems to have unhinged his intellect. In order that his erratic movements and peculiar vagaries may be closely watched, the Crown has placed an extra guard in his cell.

Found Dead in His Barn.

Arva, Ont., Oct. 27.—Saturday evening John Marcombe of Masonville was found dead in the mow of his barn by one of his neighbors, who was helping him to draw in corn stalks. Mr. Marcombe went to open the barn door and prepare for the load coming, and when it arrived he was found lying on his face dead.

Sudden Death of Mrs. Eustis.

Washington, Oct. 27.—A cablegram was received this afternoon announcing the sudden death of heart failure and pneumonia of the wife of Ambassador James B. Eustis, at the residence of her son, George E. Eustis, near Dublin, Ireland.

THE CHAPLEAU RUMOR AGAIN.

Statement That His Brother May Receive the Montreal Collectorship Mr. White's Attitude.

Montreal, Oct. 27.—It is stated here in circles that are almost semi-official that an attempt is being made to induce Lieut.-Governor Chapleau to again give his services to the Ottawa ministry, and that one of the promises held out to the Governor is the collectorship of customs for His Honor's brother, Major St. Onge Chapleau.

There is nothing new regarding Mr. R. S. White's attitude except that it is reported his course is approved of by Hon. N. C. Wallace, and that the latter thinks the Government's refusal to open Cardwell as a slight upon the Comptroller. A gentleman from Ottawa told the correspondent last evening that he had seen Hon. Mr. Wallace and the impression was that the Comptroller had fully assured Sir Mackenzie Bowell that Cardwell would be all right if Mr. White were made collector.

Another gentleman saw the Premier yesterday and was told that Mr. White would yet be appointed, but it is thought the offer if made now would be refused.

REVOLVER TO HER EAR.

A Highwayman Robs a Lady Near Ottawa of Twenty Dollars

Ottawa, Oct. 27.—Mrs. Bridget Scharf was held up at Eagleson's Corners, about ten miles from here on Saturday evening, as she was returning from market. The highwayman emphasized his demand for Mrs. Scharf's money by thrusting the muzzle of a revolver to her ear. The woman gave up her purse containing something over $20.

Holmes' Trial Begins To Day.

Philadelphia, Oct. 27.—The trial of H. H. Holmes on the charge of murdering Benjamin F. Pitezel will be commenced to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock. The movements of the witnesses, many of whom will have to journey from other states, are being kept quiet both by the prosecution and the defence.

Dufferin to Go to Turkey.

London, Oct. 27.—The Daily News says it is rumored that Lord Dufferin, the British Ambassador to France, will, before his retirement from the diplomatic service, return to Constantinople as British special envoy, Sir Philip Currie, the Ambassador to Turkey, temporarily taking his place at Paris.

WOODSTOCK EN FETE

Welcome to Mr. Laurier and His Associates.

TWO SPLENDID MEETINGS HELD

The Liberal Leader Closes His Ontario Tour in Sir Oliver Mowat's Constituency—Mr. Tarte Replies to His Critics and Discusses the School Question.

Woodstock, Oct. 27.—The Ontario stumping tour of the Liberal leaders was brought to a close here Saturday by two very enthusiastic meetings in the Opera House. Notwithstanding the fact that the engagement was not made until a couple of days ago, and only hastily advertised, both the gatherings were well attended. It is estimated that over 3000 people were present at the two meetings.

The afternoon gathering was attended mostly by the farmers from the surrounding district, while the townspeople availed themselves of the evening meeting to listen to an exposition of the political gospel according to the Opposition.

Mr. Laurier spoke at both meetings. He delivered two interesting addresses, but it was easily discernible that the Liberal chieftain was tired out with the hard work of the last three weeks.

J. Israel Tarte also took the opportunity of defending himself before the two audiences.

At the afternoon meeting Sir Oliver Mowat, Sir Richard Cartwright, W. Gibson, M.P., and James Sutherland, M.P., also spoke, but the three first-named gentlemen did not stay for the second gathering, their places being taken by Mr. Casey, M.P., and Mr. Hyman of London.

Mr. Laurier's afternoon speech was short and was a repetition of his previous utterances regarding his attitude on the Manitoba school question, but his evening address was a more lengthy effort. He dealt with the tariff and the alleged extravagant expenditures of the present Government, comparing them with the figures of the Mackenzie regime. He vigorously opposed the superannuation system, and in conclusion turned his attention to the statements of the press regarding a personal rupture between Sir Richard Cartwright and himself. That such was the case he emphatically denied, and asserted that the circulation of the statements had taken place because the wish was father to the thought.

"The Liberal party," said he, amid loud applause, "was never more united than it is to-day. Sir Richard Cartwright is one of my most able colleagues, and I thank you for sending him to me to help expose the boodlers and the suckers, the parasites and the barnacles that are eating out the core of the state."

This was Mr. Laurier's finale to the tour.

"It is the ambition of my life to form a nation. I cannot do it except on the evangelical principle. 'Peace on earth; good-will toward men.' I have shown the position I occupy. It has been my endeavor to work upon these lines. My political life may be long or short, but whether long or short, when the day comes when I must close my eyes on this fair country that I love, when the day comes when I must appear before another tribunal, I can render testimony that in all things, private or public, known or unknown, I have striven towards that end, and if I may feel that I have removed a prejudice, even a single one, then I shall feel that my life has not been lived in vain. That is the aim I have in view."

Mr. Tarte dealt with the Manitoba school question and with the attacks made against himself. He repeated the assertion that when he got back to the good old city of Montreal he would consult a judge and "invite" Mr. Maclean of The World to visit that city and prove the truth of the statements contained in the "novel" published in that paper.

Regarding the school question, he said: "I am here to say, and to say openly and boldly, that I think the French minority in Manitoba have not been treated fairly. I appeal to the sense of justice of all those who hear me. If the French majority of the Legislature of Quebec were going to abolish to-morrow the official use of the English language and English separate schools in that province, what would you say? You would say it was not fair, and I would say exactly the same. That is exactly what has been done to my French countrymen of Manitoba.

"What are the Government going to do now?" he asked. "Mr. Ouimet, speaking the other day, said that as soon as the session opened the necessary mechanism would be devised to settle the question, and that it would be approved, not only by all Catholics, but by all Protestants. Well, during the last session the Government looked for the requisite mechanism and they did not find it. They would find that the French Liberals of Quebec were against coercion, because they believe that liberality could do a great deal more than coercive measures. Coercion was not a policy of theirs and they were not going to stand by it."

William Stewart president of the North Oxford Reform Association, occupied the chair at the afternoon meeting and Malcolm Douglas of Woodstock at the evening gathering.

MONDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1895.

A CONSERVATIVE PANIC.

In its reviews of the political situation, the Conservative press, the Montreal Herald suggests, is plainly smitten with panic. Two things are worrying it. One is the resignation of R. S. White, M.P., and the other is the crushing defeat suffered by the Conservative forces in the provincial contest in Montreal Centre. The Toronto World, of which W. F. Maclean, the Conservative M.P., for East York, is proprietor, couples these two facts as party calamities and in a column article, showing every evidence of great despondency, calls upon the Conservative party to "pull itself together." The World admits the disorganization of the party very frankly, but in extenuation it urges the exceptional "hard luck" which the Conservatives have suffered during the past four years. The party has lost three Premiers, the three Sir Johns, says he World, and is now under the leadership of a man who, it hints, is lacking in firmness, the chief essential to successful political leadership. The World by implication, at least, commends Mr. White for his resignation, and insinuates that the Government has been guilty of a great mistake in forcing him to go out. It intimates also that there are other members of Parliament who, holding promises of favours from the Government, would do well to resign as Mr. White has done.

The Hamilton Spectator attributes the whole trouble to the school question. "In view of Sir Mackenzie Bowell's promises to introduce 'remedial legislation,'" it says, "and force it through next session, it is easily understood why the Government wishes Mr. White to remain in his seat until the matter is disposed of — his successor would probably vote against the Government's coercion scheme. It is understood that there are several others in exactly the same fix—who have been promised office, but are held in their seats by the Government, to ensure a majority for the Manitoba coercion bill. The Government cannot afford to shelve these men and take chances on the votes of their successors. 'Political exigencies' have multiplied since the Government rushed into the Manitoba school muddle."

The Hamilton Herald says that "whatever the outcome may be, it is plain that the Government is at fault" and the Toronto Star is of an opinion that may be gathered from the following editorial paragraphs, picked at random from several of the same sort: "The Bowell administration is not travelling a royal road, and the longer it travels the rougher becomes the path." "The Conservative organizers may expect to earn their salaries in the next two months." "It is becoming very apparent that the Conservative party must submit to its baptism of fire."

The spectacle of a Conservative politician, strong, to the extent of resignation, to uphold what he deems to be his obligation to his country, his constituency, and himself, is so rare as to have engaged the commendation of every fairly independent critic. But the fact of a single resignation is surely not in itself sufficient to have affrighted the entire Conservative host. There must be something behind it all. And leaving aside consideration of the influence which any man of Mr. White's ability and probity must exercise in an intelligent community, we are forced to the conclusion that the opening of Cardwell and the antagonizing of Conservative sentiment in Montreal have contributed to the creation of this latest Conservative scare. The popular impression seems to be that in the event of by-elections these two constituencies, and all that they represent, will be lost to the Government. West Huron, of course, is gone also, and even Jacques Cartier may fall into the mouths of the hungry Grits. The Government has quite as much to lose even if it allows these four important constituencies to remain unrepresented during the next session of Parliament. In that case the implication of cowardice would contribute as much to its humiliation as the fixed condition of defeat. Upon the judgment of its friends, the Government seems to be "in for it." Shall anyone say that it has not brought its troubles on itself, by an incapacity surpassing in consistency anything else in the history of bad government in Canada.

In its report of the unveiling proceedings at Kingston, the Gazette dismisses Sir Mackenzie Bowell's speech with a single line, and gives Dr. Montague three and a half columns. This is a straw which shows the way the wind blows. If the wind blows according to Dr. Montague's style of oratory we shall have breezy times if he becomes premier.

ALASKA BOUNDARY.

The New York Tribune Indulges in a Little Spread-Eagle Talk.

New York, Oct. 27.—The Tribune today devotes a leader to the Alaska-British Columbia boundary dispute, in which it says: "The time is close at hand when the matter must be settled. The surveying parties sent out by the two Governments are to finish their work by the end of the present year. Then will come argument, and perhaps arbitration. There will be a fine chance for the cuckoos to urge the giving up of everything to England; and also for the rambunctious 'Little Pedlington Gazettes' of England to denounce the 'Yankee-Indian barbarians,' who offer obstacles to British aggrandisement. Of the value of the property in dispute there can be no question. It is capable of producing every year more wealth than the whole purchase-price of Alaska. England cannot be blamed for wanting it, if she can prove it to be fairly hers. Certainly the United States cannot affard to relinquish it except upon the most convincing proofs. But, however the dispute may be settled, we think, influences will be at work which will compel a dispassionate consideration of it. The British will not be permitted to 'rush' the American position as they would a Nicaraguan port or a Matabele kraal."

HENDERSHOTT'S INSURANCE.

Father of the Murdered Man Suing to Recover the $11,000.

St. Thomas, Oct. 27.—It will be remembered that the life of William Henry Hendershott, murdered in Wardell's woods, for which crime his uncle, John A. Hendershot, and W. D. Welter paid the penalty on the gallows, was insured for $11,000, which was the motive for the commission of the crime. The policies were made payable to John A. Hendershott and the deceased's father, David Hendershott, of Walsingham Centre, has begun proceedings against the Covenant Mutual of Galesburg, Ill., to recover the $5000 risk held by that company. Action will also be taken in a few days against the Mutual Reserve Fund Life Association of New York, to recover $6000, the amount carried by them on the life of deceased. The case, it is understood, will be fought out to the bitter end. B. B. Osler, Q.C., has been retained by the defendants.

New and Stylish Furs

IN CAPES we have Mink, Sable, Persian Lamb, Grey Lamb and all popular Furs at moderate prices. High prices do not make good Furs. Good Furs means something else than good Fur and Trimmings. It means that fine finishing touch that is so rare. It means style and "tone." Just examine the "hang" and sweep of our Fur Capes. Then you will realize what good furs are. Don't judge by the prices, but see the stock.

SHEEP SHIPMENTS

Greater Than Ever at Montreal Last Week.

NEARLY 21,500 SENT FORWARD.

Many Horses and Cattle Also for the Old Country—First Conviction in Quebec Under the New Criminal Code—Various News Notes From the Commercial Metropolis.

Montreal, Oct. 27.—There were more sheep shipped last week from the port of Montreal than during any previous week in the history of the port. A leading shipper was asked if it was because prices were high, and he replied that although prices were good earlier in the season, the figures were not now very high and that the secret of the present heavy shipments was found in the fact that there were a great many sheep in the country and they had to be got rid of. The following are the live stock figures up to Saturday:

	Horses.	Cattle.	Sheep.
Lycia, for Bristol..		101	2456
Scotia, for London..		183	1544
Numidian, for Liverpool.....	6	527	1077

Assaye, for London.	75	290	2242
Lake Huron, for Liverpool	111	362	1148
Siberian, for Glasgow		359	2652
Mentmore, for Liverpool..	108	337
Warwick, for Glasgow....		298	414
Etolia, for Bristol .		181	2002
Merrimac, for London.....	75	460	2578
Total.....	375	3896	21,495

One of the first cases of the kind in Quebec under the new law has been tried in Sherbrooke and Judge Archibald sent one Clarke to the penitentiary for having alleged that he enclosed a $500 bill in a letter and sent the same to the Eastern Townships Bank. Clarke was arrested under the authority of act 361, chapter 29 of the new criminal law.

Sir William Van Horne, F. C. Clarke, C.E., of New York, and General Manager Clouston, of the Bank of Montreal, arrived back to-day from the west. They report business on the upward trend, and Mr. Clarke says the Canadian Pacific is by far the finest of the trans-continental roads. In speaking of General Manager Hays, Sir William Van Horne said: "I have known Mr. Hays for 22 years, and I consider him one of the brightest railway men in the United States. The Grand Trunk could not have made a better selection."

DEATH FROM CHLOROFORM.

Hamilton Girl Found Dead in Bed—Five Men Hurt at the Tunnel.

Hamilton, Oct. 27.—Maud Held, 20 years of age, was found dead in her bed on Friday evening and a bottle of chloroform was found in the bed, about two-thirds of which had been used. It was learned that the girl had been in the habit of using chloroform and had bought ten cents' worth the evening previous. The drug was taken to alleviate pain arising from toothache. An inquest was not thought necessary.

Another accident took place at the T., H. and B. tunnel on Saturday morning, in which five men were more or less seriously injured, and fifty others had a very narrow escape. Shortly before 10 o'clock the big bucket that runs along the cable was being raised to the surface, when it caught one of the shoring supports, and without a moment's warning the big timbers crashed down upon the men.

The ambulance was summoned and three of the injured men, John O'Brien, Harry Jenkins and John Stremble, were taken to St. Joseph's Hospital.

O'Brien had his back badly injured and received bruises about the face and head.

Stremble had his ankle broken and was cut about the head and nose.

A man named William Mitchell was taken from under the heap of timber without the slightest injury.

Exposure to cold, damp winds, may result in pneumonia unless the system is kept invigorated with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

1500 Homeless—Five Cremated.

Berlin, Oct. 26.—A despatch from Warsaw says that the greater part of the town of Lasocin, Prussian Poland, has been destroyed by fire, rendering 1500 persons homeless. Five persons are missing and are believed to have been burned to death. The fire is believed to have been of incendiary origin.

Four Killed by a House Collapsing.

Munich, Oct. 26.—A house in course of construction in Amalien-Strasse collapsed yesterday and four workmen were killed.

Dr. Harper to be Released.

Buffalo, N.Y., Oct. 27.—It is probable that no one ever will be prosecuted for the crime which caused the death of Ann Kavanaugh of Cardinal, Ont. Acting on the advice of the District Attorney, the police will release Dr. Harper Monday, after the coroner's inquest, because it would be impossible to convict him of any crime in the face of the evidence that the first operation was performed by some one else.

The girl's relatives evidently do not care for any further investigation.

Miss Kavanaugh's Remains Interred.

Morrisbourg, Ont., Oct. 27.—The remains of the unfortunate Annie Kavanaugh of Cardinal, who, it is alleged, was the victim of a criminal operation performed in Buffalo a few days ago, were brought here Saturday for interment, accompanied by Mr. Kavanaugh, the deceased girl's uncle, and Mr. J. W. Leacy, both of Cardinal.

Barn and Church Destroyed.

Stoney Point, Ont., Oct. 27.—Saturday at 2 p.m. the dwelling, bakery and stable belonging to Joseph Rainville were consumed by fire, which originated in a hay stack at the rear of the stable. Two horses and a quantity of grain and hay were burned. Mr. Rainville was severely burned about the face and hands in trying to save the horses. Loss about $600; no insurance.

St. Peter's Church, on the Thames, 9 miles west of Chatham, was destroyed by fire Friday evening. The church was built in 1823. Insurance unknown.

A Winnipeg Terrace Burned.

Winnipeg, Oct. 27.—Barber's terrace on Princess-street was burned tonight. Loss $5000.

Three Children Burned.

Green Bay, Wis., Oct. 27.—Information has reached this city from the Oneida reservation of the death of three children of John Skanidore, as a result of the forest fires raging in that region.

Indian Children Perished.

Perry, O.T., Oct. 27.—Fierce prairie fires raged here along the Arkansas river yesterday. The wind was high and many thousands of acres of pasture meadow and grain fields were burned over. Several Indian children are reported to have perished in the flames and hundreds of people barely escaped with their lives.

Farm Fired by Lightning

Exeter, Ont., Oct. 27.—This afternoon the barns of Richard Delbridge, township of Usborne, were struck by lightning and destroyed. Loss heavy. Insurance unknown.

Canadian Ministers at Washington

Washington, Oct. 27.—Sir Charles H. Tupper and Hon. Mackenzie Bowell of Canada have arrived in Washington and will be the guests of the British Embassy. These gentlemen are here to act as advisers to Sir Julian Pauncefote in his negotiations with Secretary Olney in the matter of arranging the claims for the Behring Sea seizures.

Men All Run Down.

This is the condition of thousands. Squanderers have they been of sleep, rest and finally of health. The mad pursuit of place, power and pelf leaves them broken in spirit, weak in body, shattered in nerve. In the world, but no longer of it, their days are spent in desire, impotent and purposeless, for they have bankrupted health. Thousands are on the road. They heed not the warning that nature gives.

Sleeplessness, inertia, despondency, and fatigue add their mournful notes to the "still sad music of humanity." Tired! Tired! Tired! You need aid! Your system requires a staff upon which to lean, and your brain rest for increasing vigils! Health and strength are the alternatives from decay and death.

Coca, combined with Maltine, affords that staff. It will give tone to the nervous system, strength to the shattered nerves, sleep to the weary eyes and rest to the tired brain.

This Describes THE KIND OF COLDS NOW SO PREVALENT.

You feel chilly.
You sneeze a good deal.
Your circulation is defective.
Your head is hot.
Your feet are cold.
You are hoarse.
Your throat is sore.
Your voice is husky.
Your hoarseness leaves in the morning.
You get hoarse again toward night.
You are feverish.
You are "out of sorts."
Your head pains you considerably.
You are annoyed by an irritating cough.
Your chest feels sore.
You have oppression on the chest.

If you have a COLD of this kind, and you want to get rid of it quickly, waste no time in getting a bottle of John McKee's ONTARIO COUGH REMEDY.

The "fresh" Cold—the cold that you can't "break up,"—the cold that "hangs on"—yields to the persevering use of this valuable Cough Remedy.

Men do Talk About Women

—and women do talk about men. But the men are just now talking about those twin dandy hair-dressers and shavers in Alf. Haskill's "Gold Dollar" Shaving Parlours, No. 164 Simcoe street. They're a skilful team, and the boys don't know what they are missing if they haven't been down to see them. You can bet your happy life they are artists from the word "Next" and don't you forget it. They don't "scrape"—they shave; they don't "saw" your hair off—they give it the latest, tonsorial touches. d

THE AUBURN COMPANY, THE LOCKS COMPANY AND THE TOWN.

At the council meeting on Saturday night a resolution was adopted accepting the proposition made to the town, by which the Auburn Company agrees to give the Lock Works Company a free site for their new buildings and thirty horsepower for the purpose of moving machinery, the Lock Company to erect buildings of stone or brick worth not less than $10,000. Both of the propositions are nominal considerations for the Auburn Woollen Mills Company. This grant is conditional on the town, on its part, granting exemption to the entire property of the Auburn Company on both sides of the river, except the flouring mills and the curling stone factory, for ten years, the exemption in both cases, not including school taxes. The proposed, and accorded exemption to the Auburn Company amounts to $525 per year for the privileges given to the Lock Company. Further, the Lock Works Company are to erect buildings to cost $10,000, which are to share the exemption for ten years, less of course, school taxes. The town will derive a school tax of, at the outside, $150 from these new buildings. This added to the amount of $175 in taxes to be derived from the buildings to be vacated by the Lock Works Company, amounts to $325, which deducted from the $525 remitted in taxes to the Auburn Company, will represent a net loss of $200 in taxes, resulting from the exemption proposed and acceded to. As an offset to this the town will derive the benefit of the expenditure of the $40,000 or $45,000 paid out yearly in wages by the Lock Works. The town will further derive the benefit of retaining in its citizenship the employees of the Locks Works, and of the continued occupation of the houses now lived in by such employees.

As Good as a Building.

Messrs. J. J. Turner & Son to-day received a cheque from the town clerk of Mitchell, Ont., for the rental of a large tent for the Mitchell exhibition. The town clerk states in reference to the tent that it was perfectly satisfactory in every way and deserving of the highest praise, serving all the purposes of a building at small expense. Mitchell wants to have the tent again next year.

"At Home."

An "At Home," under the auspices of the Women's Auxiliary of St. John's church, will be given at the residence of Miss Barlee, 177 Aylmer street, this evening. An excellent musical programme is being arranged for the occasion, and a hearty invitation is extended to all interested in this excellent society. There will be a silver collection. 2d Creditors Meet.

A meeting of the creditors of Mr. D. Doig was held to-day. The assets represent chattels, $100 exempt by law, and equity upon residence, and 11 acres of land in North Monaghan, upon which a mortgage and interest account rests amounting to $930. Mr. Doig offers ten cents on the dollar, one third cash, balance six in twelve months.

Guaranteed Cure for Tobacco

The Uncle Sam Tobacco Cure will stop the tobacco habit—that's a certainty. So confident are the manufacturers that it will do all it claims, they will refund the money in every case where the tobacco user has strictly followed directions for 30 days without being cured. Money talks, and merit wins—they mean what they say. The medicine is for sale at Lynch's drug store, Hunter street, where the guarantee is good.

The Gunpowder Plot.

The Loyal True Blues intend celebrating the anniversary of the Frustration of the Gunpowder Plot by attending Divine Service at St. Andrew's church on next Sunday evening, Nov. 3rd, at 7 o'clock. All Orangemen, 'Prentice Boys and True Blues are cordially invited to attend. They will meet at the True Blue Hall on Simcoe street, and headed by the Fire Brigade Band march to the church where a sermon appropriate to the occasion will be preached by Rev. Mr. MacWilliams.

Will go for the Records.

Payson Davidson, the trainer of the Brantford team, has been anxious for some time to bring some of his men to the Peterborough track to try and break some of the existing Canadian records and arrangements had been made whereby he would come down on Tuesday. The rain, however, will prevent this, but the secretary of the bicycle club to-day received a telegram from Mr. Davidson to the effect that he would bring down a "quad." and eight crack riders to go after the records as soon as the track was fit.

Affected by Coal Stove Gas.

Mr. H. V. Smith, Y.M.C.A. secretary, conducted the services at the Park Street Baptist Mission on Sunday morning. Mr. Sneyd, a student from McMaster Hall, was to have taken the services, but he was prevented by temporary illness. He was a guest of Mr. A. L. Grover, 25 Bolivar street, and the family, as well as Mr. Sneyd, arose in the morning feeling quite out of sorts from the effects of coal stove gas that had escaped and accumulated in the closed up house. None were very seriously effected, requiring no medical services and Mr. Sneyd was able to take the services at the mission in the evening.

A DEPUTY SHERIFF AFTER THE WRONG MAN.

HE THOUGHT DETECTIVE MORRISON COMMITTED A CRIME.

The Detective Brought the Deputy Sheriff up From Kentucky to get a Prisoner, Accused of Murder, and Because the Deputy Couldn't Find the Prisoner he Thinks That Morrison is the Man.

On the strength of certain information furnished by Deputy Sheriff Denton, of Somerset, Kentucky, the house of Mr. John A. Morrison, living on Smith street, just across the boundary line, was surrounded last night, at about ten o'clock, by Chief of Police Rosel and officers McGinty, Adams and Stewart, and searched from top to bottom, for Morrison, but the bird had flown and the police had their trouble for nothing.

Morrison is "wanted" by Deputy Sheriff Denton on the grave charge of murder, but the case is such an intricate one that it is difficult to see through it, and even if Morrison is finally run down by the police, he may prove to be the wrong man after all.

The story connected with the perpetration of the crime, which has brought the Deputy Sheriff all the way from Kentucky is one which WILL PROVE INTERESTING.

It seems that three years ago John C. Anderson was Chief of Police in Somerset, Kentucky, and that the editor of the local newspaper had a falling out with him and made some statements concerning Anderson, at which the Chief of Police took such umbrage that he is alleged to have threatened to murder the editor, whose name was Joseph B. Rucker, on sight. Rucker's dead body was found on the street a few mornings later, and as it was stated that Anderson had been seen in the vicinity, suspicion at once fell upon him. Anderson's sudden disappearance on the same morning that the crime was discovered, caused a hue and cry to be raised for him and for a time the pursuit was a hot one, but, although Rucker's relatives spent a great deal of money in the attempt to capture the fugitive, he was successful in getting clear away.

The crime had been almost forgotten except by those particularly interested in it when a

by the Deputy Sheriff in September last to the effect that if John C. Anderson, was still wanted in Somerset for the murder of Joseph B. Rucker in 1892, that the man had been located. The telegram was from Port Hope and was signed John A. Morrison, detective.

The deputy sheriff telegraphed to Port Hope to arrest the man and hold him and to send farther particulars. Nothing more was heard of the matter, until the 24th of October, when another telegram was received in Kentucky saying that Anderson had been run to earth and was lodged for safe keeping in the Cobourg goal. This telegram was also signed by Morrison and was sent from Peterborough. It urged that the prisoner be sent for at once.

The Deputy Sheriff started immediately for Canada and landed in Cobourg Saturday, only to find that the authorities there knew nothing whatever about the prisoner or about Detective Morrison. Mr. Denton then came on to Peterborough Saturday evening, as the last telegram had been SENT FROM HERE,

He looked up the Chief of Police, and although nothing was known about either Anderson or Morrison, the latter was soon located as living out on Smith street, just across the western town boundary. At about midnight the Chief and Deputy Sheriff walked out to Morrison's and learned that he was away in Cavan, but would be home in the morning. On Sunday afternoon Morrison had not yet returned and the Deputy Sheriff left word for him to meet him at the Huffman House at eight o'clock in the evening if he returned. As he did not come it was suspected that something was wrong, and a descent was made on the house, as stated, at about ten o'clock last night, with no result.

The Deputy Sheriff and police, think that Morrison and Anderson are one and the same man and this was the reason for the attempt to capture him, but the case was poorly handled, and if Morrison is in reality Anderson and has repented of his desire to give himself up, then the police will have no easy time capturing him, having given him such warning already.

of Mr. Robert Smith, with whom Detective Morrison and his family boarded, reveals the fact the police are away off in their supposition that Morrison and Anderson are one and the same man.

Detective Morrison's telegram was sent to the Deputy Sheriff in perfect good faith, as he had succeeded in identifying the man Anderson in one Montgomery, known as "Big Jim," who has been at work all summer at the new Trinity College school buildings in Port Hope. Detective Morrison is well known to the Provincial constabulary as a hard-working private detective. He lived in Port Hope all summer, and, becoming acquainted ferreted out his history, and left Port Hope on Thursday night under the impression that the man would be arrested that evening as Chief of Police Douglas, with another constable, started after his man, and naturally enough the detective thought Anderson would be in the Cobourg gaol before morning, and sent his telegram. Something unforseen has called Detective Morrison away for a day or two, and in the meantime his wife and three children have been driven half frantic through the mysterious questioning of the police, who could easily have found out everything they desired if they had simply asked a straightforward question about the man they were in search of as the EXAMINER reporter did. Both Detective Morrison's wife and Mr. and Mrs. Smith the suspicions entertained against "Big Jim," and could easily have explained the whole matter. In all probability Detective Morrison is now in Port Hope or Cobourg awaiting the arrival of the Deputy Sheriff.

WITH "BIG JIM,"

Just how Chief of Police Douglas of Port Hope failed to arrest his man and take him to Cobourg, of course is not at present known, but the Deputy Sheriff of Somerset, Kentucky, is wasting his time hanging around town in an endeavour to lay his hands on Detective Morrison, thinking he is Big Jim Anderson. Port Hope's Chief of Police is the man the Deputy wants to see, and doubtless he will run across the detective down along the "front." At the same time, after making such a clever capture, it isn't likely Mr. Morrison will allow the prisoner to be taken away, if he is once arrested, until he hears something about the big rewards which were offered for his arrest and detention, and if Anderson is not under arrest at present, then Morrison is, without doubt, hot on his trail at the present minute.

OUR ULTIMATUM!

The following correspondence will be of interest just now, especially to the Ladies of Peterborough, who are concerned in the breaking up of a monopoly of high prices for the Celebrated "Health" Brand Underwear:—

THE MONTREAL SILK MILLS COMPANY, Ltd.,
MANUFACTURERS OF HEALTH BRAND UNDERWEAR.

MONTREAL, 22nd October, 1895.

Messrs. Kells & Co., Peterborough, Ont.:

GENTLEMEN,—Our attention has again been drawn to your advertisement in the DAILY EXAMINER of Oct. the 16th. We are at a loss to know where you are getting our goods from, but you are certainly doing that which you have no right to do. Firstly, you are advertising that you are getting our goods direct from us, or conveying such an impression in your ads, and secondly you are making a statement reflecting upon our customer in your town, in regard to their putting up the prices over our printed retail price list on account of their having a monopoly of the article.

We have not laboured for years to make the best Underwear in the market for the purpose of having our Brand or ourselves used as a sort of stepladder, to gain, for any firm, some notoriety for selling cheaply, and we scarcely think you appreciate the position you place yourself in by acting in this manner.

We have entered into a bona fide contract with the firm you are trying to injure and do not propose to have it interfered with any further. We await your ultimatum on this matter. Yours truly,

THE MONTREAL SILK MILLS CO., (Limited,) Henry St. Joseph, Mgr.

PETERBOROUGH, Oct. 24th, 1895.

The Montreal Silk Mills Co., Limited:

GENTLEMEN:—We beg to acknowledge receipt of your favor of 22nd October. Before discussing same we wish to recall to your recollection that the gentlemen whom you advertise as your sole agents, Herman H. Wolff Co., Montreal, sold to us in good faith direct, a bill of your "Health Brand" goods.

About 4 months after the order was given and accepted, your sole agent Messrs. Wolff & Co., refused to deliver the goods, not on the ground that it was impossible to carry out the contract, but because you deemed it profitable to break an honorable contract entered into in perfect good faith. You had not even the common decency to first inform us of your intentions and ask us to meet same or withdraw.

As we had promised our customers that we had purchased your goods, we were under the necessity of carrying out our words and we now inform you that we are selling your "Health Brand" goods, purchased direct from yourselves, and we believe that we are selling your goods below all competition, and we believe that we can sell your goods at the same price as our competitors pay you and then make a profit.

We thoroughly appreciate the position we now have you in and the public can appreciate your high standard of business honor. It is well for you that your goods are better than your morals.

Yours etc., R. H. KELLS & CO.

R. H. Kells & Co. have just received direct from the Manufacturers, another and a larger shipment of "Health" Brand Underwear. Ample selection in Ladies', Misses' and Children's Sizes at even LOWER quotations than our former Reduced Prize List.

SHOULD BE REMEDIED.

The Manner of Running Street Cars in Relation to Vehicular Traffic.

The manner in which the cars of the Street Railway Company are run under certain circumstances should be changed, especially in relation to funeral processions. A case in point occurred at the funeral of the late Mrs. Morrow, on Saturday. The procession had just formed at Charlotte street church, and it is well known that there is very little space between the railway track and the walk on the church side. A street car came along, and though the speed was slowed down some, yet the moving car was sufficient to frighten a spirited young horse, which made a rush and catching the wheel of a vehicle in front completely overset it, and started to run away, but was fortunately caught by a plucky lady. Not to speak of the unseemly interruption of a funeral procession, a most serious accident was only averted by good luck and not by any consideration exercised by those having the management of the street car. Certainly the business of the Street Railway Company is not so pressing that a few minutes' stop to allow a funeral procession to pass out of the way, would represent a serious loss. If the motor men are instructed to make schedule time, regardless of how the public interests may suffer, or of possible serious or fatal accident, then the Company's instructions should be revised. If there are no such instructions, then men should be employed who would exercise reasonable discretion. Though the Street Railway Company has a franchise of the streets they do not exactly own the streets, and vehicle traffic has its rights. However, it is probable that if the Company has its attention drawn to the subject, steps will be taken to alter the conditions that are so much at fault in connection with the running of cars, especially in the regard referred to.

CUSHION AGAIN IN THE TOILS.

This Time he is Accused of Stealing a Horse and Rig.

William Cushion is awaiting sentence in the cells on a charge of stealing a horse from a couple of young women, who hired the rig on Saturday afternoon from Mr. Fred E. Jones' livery and drove down to the river drivers' camp. While they were in the camp a boy was asked to hold the horse, but when his back was turned Cushion ran away with the turnout and drove up to Lakefield.

Mr. Jones in the meantime had been notified of the turn which affairs had taken by the young women, and drove up to Magistrate Dumble's to get a warrant. Just as he was coming out from the Magistrate's he espied the missing horse being driven past by Cushion. A lively chase ensued, but the lad was finally caught and taken to the police station.

This morning he stated to the magistrate that he had been left in charge of the rig by the young women and told to drive the horse around until they came back, but the lad who had been told to take care of the horse was in court, and told his version of the affair, showing that Cushion had in reality taken advantage of his momentary absence, to "collar" the rig and make off. Sentence has been reserved.

THE LOCK WORKS REMAIN IN TOWN.

Mr. Carnegie's Proposition Has Been Accepted.

THE COUNCIL DECIDE TO EXEMPT THE AUBURN PROPERTY.

New Buildings to be Erected at a Cost of Ten or Twelve Thousand Dollars—Councillor Sawers Rapped Over the Knuckles by the Mayor, Who Says He Will Stand Insults From Him No Longer, But Will Suspend Him Next Time He Transgresses.

At a special meeting of the Town Council Saturday evening to discuss the Lock Works question, the Mayor and the following Councillors were in attendance, viz.: Messrs. Cahill, Best, Denne, Mills, Phelan, Dawson, Cobb, Sawyers, Stone, Mason and Brady.

The Clerk formally announced that Mr. J. H. Cobb had been elected by acclamation from No. 3 Ward to fill the vacancy in the Council, caused by the retirement of Coun. Robt. Clinkscale.

On motion of Councillors Cahill and Dawson, Mr. Cobb will take the place of Mr. Clinkscale on all committees upon which the latter acted.

COMMUNICATIONS

were received and referred as follows:

From E. B. Edwards as appended: The plaintiffs costs in the Court of Appeal have been taxed at $115.76. The bill of costs in the court below has been served upon me and it is to be taxed on Monday. As it stands at present it amounts to $743, including the costs of the three trials. The amount will probably be reduced somewhat on taxation.

I have served notice of appeal to the Supreme Court, in accordance with the resolution passed at the last meeting of the council. Before doing so, however, I wrote to Mr. Dumble on my own responsibility, asking him if he would entertain a proposal that the town should pay the plaintiff's taxed costs in settlement of the case, and stating that if so I would be prepared to recommend such settlement to the council. Mr. Dumble did not accept this proposition. I enclose a copy of the correspondence.

For the purpose of appeal to the Supreme Court it is necessary to give security for the costs of the appeal to the amount of $500, either by bond with two sureties, or by paying $500 into Court to abide the result. The town has already paid in $400 as security for the costs of the Court of Appeal, which have been taxed, as I have stated, at $115.76. There is, therefore, a margin there, but the money cannot be withdrawn or used until the case is finally disposed of. In the meantime it is bearing interest at 4 per cent.

Mr. Dumble has consented to waive the giving of security for the damages and costs in the court below, so that all that has to be provided for is the $500 security which cannot be dispensed with."

Mr. Cahill stated that if it was the intention to go on with the case the security necessarily would have to be furnished, and he therefore moved, seconded by Councillor Best, that a cheque be issued for the $500 required, if the case could not be settled.—Carried.

Mr. Cahill pointed out that the case had been left in Mr. Edwards hands to act as he saw fit, and as he did not wish to set his opinion up against that of the town solicitor he made the motion, although personally he favoured a settlement. The total costs now amounted to some $1,600, and as $400 had been paid in and was now on deposit, only $1,200 was left, and he thought the council was willing to go a long way towards settling this claim, but if the solicitor insisted on going on with the case he would back him up in the resolve.

From Miss Grundy, asking permission to construct a cesspool in front of her new residence on Water and McDonel streets.

Councillors Dawson and Denne moved that the request be granted.

In amendment, Councillors Stone and Brady moved that it was the opinion of the council that cesspools on the streets were objectionable.

Mr. Stone pointed out that this was the second request of this nature which had come before the council and that if many more of a similiam nature were granted, the streets would soon be honeycombed with cesspools.

Mr. Dawson thought that the street was the proper place for cesspools, as when the sewerage system was in working order it would be very easy to tap them there, whereas if they were placed in the back yards they might contaminate the wells. He thought that if there was five feet of earth over the cesspools they could not be objectionable in the streets.

Miss Grundy's request was granted, the original motion being carried.

From Peter Corbett, asking for a rebate of $15 00 on his peddler's license, as he is a citizen of the town.

Referred to the License Committee.

From W. Henderson, Superintendent Water Co., as appended: "Respecting our letter of the 8th inst., stating that in the event of the Water Company sustaining damage by reason of the work at present in course of construction on the town sewers, the Water Company would hold the town responsible: In view of the newspaper reports of the comments made by some of the members of the council, which may or may not be accurate, we wish in explantion to point out our reason for writing the letter referred to. We considered that business men would conclude the Water Company had taken but an ordinary business precaution in notifying you, and such notification was as much on behalf of and in the interests of the town and water consumers as of the company. With knowledge of the risk the town ran in entering into the sewer contracts without proper provision in case damage was done the company's mains and plant, and which the town might probably overlook, it might by some be considered we had acted negligently in not at least calling your attention to same.

We wrote the letter complained of with the best intentions. We wish to point out that the Water Company has never been notified of the contemplated sewers now in course of construction, that some of the water mains will have to be raised and lowered as the case may be, and special castings made to make the necessary connections again.

Without a timely knowledge of exactly what is required in this line alone, the water may be shut off the mains for a considerable length of time, especially at this period of the year, and the lower portion of the town, including the C. P. R. services, will in consequence be without water service or fire protection. We submit that the town will be responsible for all of this risk, and any damage to Water company plant or to citizens in case of fire, and that all can be avoided by taking ordinary precautions. Had the water been off the mains at the time of the late fire at the bridge works, the works would assuredly have been destroyed. This establishment and the Matthews Company require constant protection against fire."

Referred to the Sewerage Committee.

From Mrs. F. McAuley, applying for the position of town janitrix.

Referred to the Committee on Appointments.

From contractors Grant and Winch, stating that the Water Company's mains interfered with the excavations north of the C.P.R. track on section No. 3 of the sewer, and asking that pressure be brought to bear to make the necessary changes.

Mr. Best stated that the castings for the changes required were now on the way, and the letter was referred to the Sewerage Committee.

THE FOLLOWING ACCOUNTS

were received and referred to the Finance Committee as follows:

Kingan & Allan	$20 20
Fitzgerald & Allen	22 90
Howell Lith Co	80 00
Greer & Bradburn	2 10
Mrs Wm Frith	6 00
Chas C Gunsolas	3 00
F L Robinson	4 00
T Fitzgerald	2 00

An account of Mr. Thos. Irwin of $64.80 was ordered to be paid.

reported as follows:

That the Howell Lithograph Co., of Hamilton, has delivered copies of a "bird's eye view" map of the town intended to fill the order given for such a map to Mr. Rackstraw. These maps are so incomplete and incorrect that your committee recommends that the company be informed that the town will not accept them and that they are subject to their order.

Adopted on motion of the chairman, Councillor Mills.

THE FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT COMMITTEE

recommended as follows:

1. That the Peterborough Light and Power Company be instructed to put the electric lights in the firehall and other parts of the town buildings on metre, to be paid for at the same rates as other customers of the company pay for lights, and that the present arrangement for the current for these lights be cancelled.

2. That the Peterborough Water Company be again asked to place a hydrant at the intersection of Locke and Romaine streets in accordance with the petition of Joseph Picard and others.

As it required a two-thirds vote to make the latter change recommended, and as considerable opposition was expected, the council was not surprised when Councillor Sawers rose to his feet, though his subsequent action was astonishing indeed. He wrote out what was considered to be an amendment, and handed it to the Mayor without a word. His Worship glanced at the slip of paper, and crumpling it up in his hand, turned quickly to Mr. Sawers and told him that he was out of order, and he declined to take his communication. Mr. Sawers demanded that it be read, stating that the communication referred to Councillor Brady's right to vote.

The Mayor then read Councillor Sawers' letter, which was as follows:

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

DEAR SIR,—You will please take notice that I object to Councillor Thos. Brady voting in this council, as he has forfeited his seat as councillor on the grounds of being absent for more than three months at one time.

JOHN SAWERS.

His Worship stated that the presentation of such a document was entirely out of order, it not being presented at the proper time. He declined to deal with the matter at all. It was true that Mr. Brady had been absent through sickness, but the council had accepted him back at the last meeting, and by allowing him to vote then had reinstated him. He considered the communication of Councillor Sawers as an exhibition of very bad taste, and would not even ask for an expression of council on the matter.

Mr. Brady denounced the action of the councillor from No. 3, as utterly contemptible, but if he was not qualified to vote in council he wanted to know it, and demanded an expression of the Board's feeling on the matter. Either he or Mr. Sawers was in the wrong and he wished to know by whom the council intended to stand.

The other members of the council were anxious to have an expression taken regarding the matter, and the Mayor asked those in sympathy with Councillor Sawers' communication to rise.

The only member who rose was Councillor Sawers himself, and the Mayor expressed the hope that Mr. Brady was amply satisfied that the entire Council was with him with the exception of Councillor Sawers, who he said had gone entirely too far, and to whom he stated that he now wished to give him fair warning that although he had put up with insults from him heretofore at the council board, he would do so no longer. If Councillor Sawers interrupted him again, as he was in the habit of doing, he would suspend him from his seat without further parley.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee's report was then adopted on motion of Councillors Stone and Dawson.

THE LOCK WORKS MATTER.

Councillor Phelan then submitted the following report, the adoption of which he said he would not move as he had learned that the terms would not be accepted by the Lock Works Company:

Your special committee to which the matter of the Lock Works was referred, beg leave to report that the matter was considered in committee of the whole council and the following proposition to the Lock Company is submitted for the approval of the council:—That the council offer to the Lock Company all of lots 10 and 11 north of Perry and west of George street's and lots 10 and 11 south of Rink and west of George streets, of which the town has control, exemption of the works and the land bonafide used in connection therewith from all taxation except school rates for a period of ten years and connection of their works on such land with Rink street sewer, on condition that the Lock Company erect on the land buildings of the value of at least $10,000 for the purposes of their works not later than December 31st, 1896, the land to be conveyed to the company as soon as the buildings are erected and occupied by the company as their manufactory.

Messrs. John Carnegie and Thos. Brooks, representing the Lock Works Company, were present and on motion Mr. Carnegie was invited to address the council on the matter. He stated that the offer was one which the Lock Company would not be justified in accepting. To be frank, nothing less than his own proposition would be accepted. If this was accepted it would result in the Lock Works

REMAINING IN PETERBOROUGH.

What the works were worth was a matter for the council to decide, but his present action was in the interests of the stockholders. If the company remained here at least $10,000 would be spent in new buildings. The lot offered by the council was not as large as was desirable, as future extension could never be made, the lot being bounded by streets on three sides and by the railroad on the other. The town was thus putting an obstacle on the growth of the works by trying to induce them to locate in such a spot as the committee recommended.

The only proposition which would be acceptable to the Lock Works was that the Town Council pass a bylaw providing:

(1) That the property of, and the premises bona-fide occupied by the Lock Company in the town of Peterborough, shall be exempt from taxation (other than school taxes) for a period of ten years, from the first day of January next.

(2) That in the event of the Auburn Woollen Co. (Ltd.) furnishing the Lock Co. with:

A suitable site whereon to erect the buildings, &c., required for the carrying on of their business upon terms and conditions satisfactory to them. Said site to be upon the lands at present owned by the Auburn Company on the west side of the River:

And in the event of the Lock Company erecting thereon within twelve months from this date the buildings, &c., (of brick and stone) required or the purposes of their business.

And in the further event of the Auburn Woollen Co'y furnishing the Lock Co'y, upon terms and under conditions satisfactory to them with power for the operation of the machinery to be placed in said buildings by the Lock Co'y to the extent of at least thirty horsepower.

The property of the Auburn Woollen Company as at present owned by them (excepting the flour mill and premises as present occupied by Messrs. Meldrum & McAllister and A. Kay & Co., and excepting therefrom any portions thereof either now or during the next ten years which is, or may be used, for other than manufacturing purposes) shall be exempt from taxation (other than school taxes) for a period of ten years from the first day of January next.

Provided, however, that in the event of the said Lock Company failing to operate their works, and thereby ceasing to use the power herein bargained for, for a period of three months, then and in such an event, a proportionate reduction shall be made in the exemption hereby granted. And in the event of such a failure to operate such works continuing for a period exceeding twelve months then the right to such exemption shall finally terminate.

Mr. Best asked if the Bank of Montreal which owned the present buildings occupied by the company would and the town grant exemption for ten years, if this would not be sufficient inducement for the Lock Works to remain in Peterborough.

ST. ANDREW'S BROTHERHOOD.

The Annual Convention in Toronto.

Probably no more earnest or enthusiastic band of workers, or a band with a more laudable object in view, ever met in Toronto, than the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, which held its first annual convention for Ontario in St. James' schoolhouse, Toronto. This brotherhood was formed in recognition of the fact that every Christian man is pledged to devote his life to the extension of the Kingdom of Christ on earth, and is composed of men who are understood to have acknowledged this responsibility as resting upon themselves, and who are ready to strive, like St. Andrew, to bring their brothers to the same knowledge of Christ.

The attendance at the convention is not large but it is marked by great interest and enthusiasm. The attendance seems to include every class and calling. Among the delegates are a County Judge and a negro barber (who is director of a Chapter.) N. F. Davidson, President for Canada, presided at the opening meeting. There were only five delegates from Peterborough, whose names were published in THE EXAMINER on Saturday.

Rev. J. C. Davidson spoke at a conference on "of what constitutes a Brotherhood Man," and preached in St. Stephen's on Sunday morning. Extreme heartiness and enthusiasm characterized all the services and proceedings of the convention.

WHO STOLE THE FIVER?

One Lad Tries to Throw the Blame on Another But is Proven to be Implicated.

Arthur Burns was before the Magistrate this morning, charged by Stanton German with stealing from him a five dollar gold piece.

It appears that Burns came to board at the house at which Mr. German lives, a week ago Saturday, and on Tuesday the latter missed the coin from the pocket of a pair of trousers, which had been hanging against the wall on the previous Sunday. Burns was charged with the offence and William Cushion, with whom he was rooming, aided in throwing suspicion upon him.

At the trial this morning it was proven that a five dollar gold piece had been changed by Cushion himself in Legros' cigar store, and both lads have been held for sentence.

Mr. E. B. Stone appeared for Burns and County Crown Attorney Wood conducted the prosecution.

OUR "BIG FOUR" BICYCLISTS.

They Win Everything at Campbellford.

The famous Peterborough racing team, composed of Horkins, Lytle, Lush and Walker, won the Campbellford twenty mile race hands down on Saturday last, the four riders setting such a pace that the other competitors could not stay with them for more than ten miles, but dropped out and let Peterborough go in and win without opposition. The only other club willing to enter against Peterborough was Campbellford, all the other clubs declining to ride if the local men entered. The prizes were four gold lockets, valued at $50, but by winning them Peterborough has in all probability barred itself from every other race in the district, as the team has shown that it is too fast for anything which can be picked up outside of Toronto.

The Young Women's Chapter of St. Luke's Guild will meet this evening.

The Women's Auxiliary will hold their monthly business meeting on Wednesday afternoon. The membership of this branch is steadily increasing.

The Ladies' Aid Society will hold their annual tea and sale of work about the beginning of December.

The Sunday School officers and teachers, at a meeting held yesterday, decided to purchase new books for the Sunday School library.

The young men of St. Luke's Bible Class have elected Rev. H. Symonds honorary president; Reginald Turner, president; John Armstrong, secretary, with the following committee:—E. Armstrong, W. Armstrong, G. Detcher, C. Macfadden, P. Bysh, G. Prattley and J. J. Turner, jun. They will also represent St. Luke's church in the St. John's and St. Luke's Athletic Club.

All we have ever said of the curative virtues of Ayer's Sarsaparilla sinks into insignificance when compared with the statements made by those who have been benefited by the use of this wonderful blood-purifier. Many of the cures seem indeed almost incredible.

H.M.S. QUADRA ASHORE.

The Government Steamer on Portland Reef Near Victoria, B.C.

Ottawa, Oct. 27.—A telegram was received at the Marine Department Saturday from Victoria stating that the Government steamer Quadra had run on Portland reef, about eight miles east of Victoria. A tug and scows have been sent to the assistance of the vessel, and as the Quadra is not leaking and the sea is smooth, it is not anticipated that there will be serious trouble.

In July last the fishing schooner, J. M. Nicholson, of Gloucester, Mass., contravened the provisions of the convention of 1818, the Nicholson not having a license from the Dominion Government under the modus vivendi arrangement. Before she could be seized the vessel put out to sea. On Friday, however, she went into the port of Canso, Nova Scotia, where the collector of customs promptly took possession of her. Captain Spain, commandant of the fisheries protection service, has been instructed to report on all the facts in connection with the case.

At the forthcoming session of Parliament it is the Government's intention to introduce a bill dividing Alberta into two electoral districts, with one additional representative in Parliament.

The fisheries department has received full returns of the salmon canneries' output in British Columbia this year. The following figures show the pack on the various rivers: Fraser River, 347,346 cases; Skeena River, 67,351; Rivers Inlet, 59,000; Naas River, 18,000; other northern points, 20,000; grand total, 512,197. The total output last year was 494,371 cases, so that this year's pack is larger by 17,926 cases. It is estimated that $600,000 to $700,000 has been paid out to the fishermen during the few weeks of the season. The number of fishermen this year was larger than ever before, 2100 licenses having been issued. The number of canneries in operation was also greater than in any previous year. For an off year, as it is called, the result of the season's operations is considered highly satisfactory. The pack has exceeded the expectations of the cannery men. It might, indeed, have been larger had they been prepared for the two rushes of fish which occurred at a time when some of the canneries were short of tins. The result of this leads to the conclusion that the Fraser River hatchery has had considerable effect on the quantity of fish.

The Post-office Department has just received the annual report of the Postmaster-General of the United Kingdom. From this document it appears that the latest official international statistics give the number of letters, postcards and newspapers per head in the principal countries of the world as follows: New South Wales 103, United States 76, United Kingdom 71, New Zealand 61, Queensland 57, Belgium 51, Switzerland 45, Holland 42, France 41, Canada 34, Germany 30, Austria 21, Italy 14, Russia 2, British India 1.

The foregoing figures do not render justice to Canada. This country has a freer postal law than any other country in the world. In the United States the cost for transmitting newspapers from the office of publication is one cent per pound, but this rate is limited to the county within which the newspaper is published. In Canada there is no limit on the carriage of newspapers through the mails. They are carried anywhere free, and if anything like an accurate estimate could be made of the number of newspapers sent through the Canadian post-offices it would bring the average of mail matter per head for the Dominion even higher than that of New South Wales.

The Fisheries Department is considering revised regulations for governing the fisheries of the Lake of the Woods, many complaints having reached the department that the present regulations are not being carried out. The idea of the Minister is to place the control of the Canadian fishery in the hands of Canadian companies.

Mr. W. H. Noble, of the Marine Department, was recently dispatched to the Georgian Bay to place in position a new fog alarm and machinery on Double Top Rock, on the Western Island, where a new lighthouse has just been built. Mr. Noble left Midland with a tug and scow carrying the machinery, and from a report which has just reached the department, it appears that considerable danger attended the landing on Top Rock, a gale having started up shortly after the tug left Midland. By dint of great exertion, the machinery was retained on the scow, but a quantity of coal was washed overboard.

The Government has awarded a silver watch and cheque for $25 to P. Murphy of Quebec for his humane exertions in rescuing several parties from drowning on various occasions. Seven different acts of bravery are credited to Mr. Murphy since 1888.

Capt. J. Allen, master of the brigantine Sullivan of Boston, has been awarded a gold watch for his gallant exertions in rescuing the crew of the schooner Granville of Annapolis, in the West Indies, in February last. A silver watch has also been awarded to Thomas Mooney and Hans P. Peterson for similar services. The Granville was in sore straights and the crew asked to be taken off. There was a fearfully heavy sea running at the time, and the crew of the Sullivan were afraid to risk their lives. Capt. Allen's personal exertions led to a crew volunteering to go. It took seven hours to effect the work of rescue, a small dory being the only boat available. The case was brought to the Government's attention by the Colonial Office.

MURDER FOLLOWS ELOPEMENT.

Horrible Crime Committed by an Australian Doctor.

San Francisco, Oct. 27.—The steamer Mariposa brings the solution of the murder mystery of Sydney, mentioned in these despatches several weeks ago. The crime which shocked the Australian city was the murder of a young girl, whose body had been horibly cut up, saturated with carbolic acid and crushed into a drygoods box which had been left on a wharf in an out of the way part of Sydney.

The police discovered that the victim was a country girl named Jessie Nichols, who had eloped from her home with a young fellow named Mays. She had been a victim of malpractice, the crime having been committeed by Dr. Thomas M. Sheridan, and his assistant, Mrs. Sarah Chapman. Poth have been tried and convicted, the physician of murder in the first degree.

A NEW CLUB.

Name Suggested for a New Social Organization in London.

LONDON, (Special) Oct. 28.—It has been facetiously suggested that a new social club in process of organization in this city should be entitled "The Dodd's Kidney Pill Club" as the present members are all enthusiastic advocates of that remedy and in common with many other citizens declare that in all cases of kidney trouble no other agent has been found so completely effective. Most Londoners have at their fingers' ends the particulars of the many marvellous cures through the use of this specific. In every drug store in the city the medicine is kept in large quantities and warmly recommended.

Why is one woman attractive and another not? It isn't entirely a question of age or features or intellect. The most admirable and attractive thing about an attractive woman is her womanliness. Everybody admires a womanly woman. Everybody doesn't realize just what it is that makes her womanly. She must have health, of course, because without it she would lose the brightness of her eyes, the fullness of her cheeks and her vivacity. Health brings all these things but health means more than most people think of. Real health must mean that a woman is really a woman. That she is strong and perfect in a sexual way, as well as in every other. That she is capable of performing perfectly the duties of maternity. Upon her strength in this way depends to a large extent her general health, her good looks and her attractiveness. Some women are born stronger than others. Some are born with what is called "constitutional weakness." It is easier for some women to retain health and strength than it is for others. Some seem able to do anything they like, whenever they like, without serious results. Still, there is no reason why women should not enjoy perfect health. Those who do not, need only take the proper precautions and the proper remedy to become perfectly well and strong. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will cure any derangement of the distinctly feminine organism. It is absolutely certain. There are some who have neglected themselves so long that a complete cure is next to impossible, but even these will find comfort and improved health in the use of the "Favorite Prescription." It has cured hundreds of women who have received no relief whatever from years of treatment with good physicians. It is absolutely unique in the history of medicine. Such a remedy can be discovered only once. There is nothing in the world like it, nor has there ever been. Hundreds of things that every woman ought to know, are contained in Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser, which will be sent absolutely free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to cover customs and mailing only. OF THE SUN'S SUCCESS.

The Press is now the principal medium by which the MERITS of the various Life Assurance Companies are made known to the public.

The Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, allots its profits to policies according to age and in proportion to premiums paid.

Mr. James W., of this agency, age 68, holds a policy (No. 28,038), for $1000 on the ALL LIFE PLAN in the SUN. On the First of April last he had been insured for 5 years and received results as follows:—

1st.—A Bonus Addition to the Sum Assured of $189
or, 2nd—A Reduction for the Next 5 years of $35.80 Yearly.
or, 3rd.—A single cash payment of $138.25.

The undersigned would like to see an example of profits approaching the above given by ANY OTHER LIFE COMPANY under similar conditions. The profit earning powers of the SUN are unexcelled.

A Common Affliction

Permanently Cured by Taking

AYER'S Sarsaparilla

A CAB-DRIVER'S STORY.

"I was afflicted for eight years with Salt Rheum. During that time, I tried a great many medicines which were highly recommended, but none gave me relief. I was at last advised to try Ayer's Sarsaparilla, by a friend who told me that I must purchase six bottles, and use them according to directions. I yielded to his persuasion, bought the six bottles, and took the contents of three of these bottles without noticing any direct benefit. Before I had finished the fourth bottle, my hands were as as ever they were. My business, which is that of a cab-driver, requires me to be out in cold and wet weather, often without gloves, and the trouble has never returned."—THOMAS A. JOHNS, Stratford, Ont.

THE EARLY APPLE.

The Ordinary Season of Apples Can be Prolonged if Three Rules are Observed.

There are at least three things to be observed in trying to prolong the ordinary season of apples, if we would be successful. First, careful handling in picking; second, picking at the proper time, and third, storing in a cool place. J. J. Thomas says that "Mankind consists of two grand divisions, the careless and the careful. Each individual may be assigned his place under these two great heads by observing how he picks or gathers fruit." Much of the difficulty in keeping apples arises from careless handling of the fruit while it is being picked. This is especially true of early fall apples, as they are generally picked before the temperature of the air is sufficiently lowered to arrest decay, which begins immediately where the apple is bruised.

My observation leads me to believe that farmers do not exercise the same caution in handling fall apples that they do in the case of winter varieties. Many seem to have an idea that they will not keep long anyway, and so they are thrown into the wagon and hustled off to town as soon as possible. I have seen the Fameuse or Snow brought into market this fall in such a damaged condition that it was impossible to keep them but a few days, when they should keep until the holidays, even in our warm climate. On the other hand, I have seen the Golden Sweet, a summer variety, on exhibition in November. These were kept in an ordinary cellar, but they had not been bruised by careless handling. The best keeping apples we have will remain in good condition but a short time after they have been bruised. Then the degree of maturity at the time of picking will have much to do with keeping qualities. An apple should be mature but not ripe when it is picked if it is to be kept for any considerable time. The process of ripening is only the first stages of decay, and if this is allowed to continue before picking until the apple is ripe, that is, until it becomes mellow, this breaking down process has proceeded so far that it is very difficult to arrest. As soon, therefore, as the stem will separate readily from its union with the branch, the apple is sufficiently mature to keep well.

In this case of early apples, however, there is another element which enters into the problem, viz., the flavor. Fall apples picked very early do not, as a rule, possess that richness of flavor which is developed during the last days of ripening, so that for home use, where the best is none too good, this becomes a very important element, and one that can be preserved only by keeping the fruit in a cool place where the temperature does not reach much above 50 degrees. This brings up the question of cold storage for the farmer and fruit grower which may be continued in a future article.

A UNIQUE FOUNTAIN.

The Ingenious Way in Which Water May be Provided for Fowls.

This simple and really excellent device deserves the attention of every man that has fowls on his place. It is customary to place open earthenware pans in the yard and fill them with water for the fowls to drink. This water soon becomes stale and dirty, and besides, it evaporates rapidly, and has to be renewed often.

Instead of that primitive arrangement, suppose you try the one here illustrated. Against the fence or wall fasten in a suitable manner a champagne bottle filled with water and turnead upside down. Let the neck of the bottle come within, say, half an inch of touching the bottom of an earthenware platter, or better still, let it reach halfway from the rim of the platter to the bottom.

Of course, some of the water will run out of the bottle, which is what you desire, but when the surface of the water reaches the neck of the bottle the flow will stop. As the fowls drink, the surface of the water is lowered, of course, but fresh air enters the bottle and more water comes down, thus keeping the water in the platter at a Fix one or more of these fountains in the shade at convenient places, and you will add very much to the comfort of your fowls.

Feeding Stock at Pasture.

When the pastures begin to fail in autumn, the thrifty condition of the stock will likewise fail unless they are given additional rations. For this purpose green corn fodder is excellent, as it is reaching its fullest development while the pasture is decreasing. The green cornstalks may be fed in the barnyard or hauled to the pasture. Any good soiling crop, as millet, vetches, Hungarian grass, sorghum, cow peas or late oats with peas, will answer the same purpose. When none of these are obtainable, the drying pasture should be supplemented by small feeds of grain, such as a mixture of chopped corn, oats and rye, or chopped corn with wheat bran and middlings, fed in troughs, and better if either slightly moistened or freshly soaked. On dry grass, it is very necessary that stock should have an ample and continuous supply of pure drinking water, as more is required for the digestion of the drier food material. Stock will glean much food by a run in the stubble fields after harvest, not only of scattered grain, but of nutritious weeds. Winter rye, if sown early, makes excellent fall pasture, and the early winter wheat fields will be benefitted by having all the growth which the frost would kill grazed off while the ground is not muddy. Such roots as turnips, mangels and sugar beets also supply the succulent food needed to supplement falling or drouth-stricken pastures.

The American Hotel.

You leave the train and arrive in the hotel. From the tender mercies of the railway conductor you are handed over to the hotel clerk, and, in small towns, to the lady waitress. Not a smile on the clerk's face. He is placid, solemn and monosyllabic. Your name entered on the registry, your sentence is pronounced. You are no longer Mr. So-and-So, you are No. 219. The colored gentleman is close by to carry out the sentence. He bids you follow him. Yours not to ask questions; yours is to follow and obey. The rules of the penitentiary are printed in your bedroom. You shall be hungry from 8 to 10 a. m., from 1 to 3 p. m., and from 6 to 8 p. m. The slightest infringement of the rules would be followed by the declaration that you are a crank. At the entrance of the dining-room the head waiter or the lady waitress holds up the hand and bids you follow him or her. Perhaps you recognize a friendly face at one of the tables. Yours is not to indulge in feeling of that sort; yours is again to follow, obey and take the seat that is assigned to you. During the whole time that altogether I have spent in America I never once saw an American man or woman who dared sit on any other chair than the one that he or she was ordered to occupy. Nay, I have seen the guests timidly wait at the door, when nobody was there to take them in charge, until some one came to order them about.—Max O'Rell, in North American Review.

WORD FROM KOOTENAY.

Good Mining Prospects for the Year and Increased Facilities to Miners.

NELSON (Special), Oct. 21.—The mining prospects for next year in this locality are excellent, and a large influx of prospectors is expected. Miners and others coming in have been in the habit of bringing with them large quantities of Dodd's Kidney Pills, a remedy which they all swear by, and whose virtues they have extolled to such an extent, that the druggists throughout the section have become alive to the necessity of laying in large supplies to meet the greatly increasing demand. The remedy is generally regarded as an indispensable part of a miner's outfit, both for its portability and a value in preserving health which cannot be overestimated.

Scott's Sarsaparilla

ACUTE Inflammatory Rheumatism is produced by an excess of uric acid in the blood. Paralysis is nearly a dead circulation produced by impure and impoverished blood. So-called neuralgia of the thigh is sciatic rheumatism; scrofulitic rheumatism is hereditary; syphilitic results from syphilis; gout is caused by high living; sluggish circulation affects the heart.

"THE KIND THAT CURES"

Thus the whole line of rheumatic diseases owe their being to an affected circulation of impure blood. No person can suffer a rheumatic pain that has a free and equal circulation of pure blood, and this accounts for Scott's Sarsaparilla curing the supposed incurable cases. It eradicates all rheumatic poisons and exile from the blood and equalizes the circulation.

THE SECRET OUT

THE secret is out. The Government Insurance Blue Books have revealed it. The facts of the case will prove of real value to all those seeking a company where permanent satisfaction can be secured under a Policy of Life Insurance. The telescope has been turned upon those who withdrew from the prominent companies in 1894.

It is obvious to any one that the proportion of persons who lapse or surrender their policies in any company is a fairly good test of the satisfaction or dissatisfaction existing therein. If policy-holders are receiving satisfactory profit results, if they are being honestly and honourably dealt with, if they cannot do better elsewhere, then it is plain these facts will show themselves in the small number who surrender their policies or allow them to lapse.

To test these conditions, and to discover the company that is giving greatest satisfaction to its policy-holders, as evidenced by their determination to continue their policies, we have made an analysis of the facts, as reported in the blue books containing the business for 1894 of the leading Canadian Companies. We have calculated the ratio per cent. of assurances surrendered to the average business in force in 1894 also the ratio per cent. of assurance lapsed to the average business in force. Intending assurers have here an inside view of Life Assurance that is full of significance. When a company stands out so prominently as does the CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY in this test, it means that its merits are known and recognized by those who become connected with it.

This is but another of those numerous tests in which the CANADA LIFE shows its superiority.

The following table tells the whole story :—

COMPANY.	Per Cent. Surrendered.	Per Cent. Lapsed.	Per Cent. Lapsed and Surrendered.
CANADA LIFE	.70	2.10	2.80
Confederation Life	2.33	4.65	6.98
North American	1.73	6.97	8.70
Ontario Mutual	2.51	6.59	9.10
Sun Life	2.63	8.54	11.17

The above figures are compiled from the Dominion Insurance report, issued by the Superintendent of Insurance, at Ottawa.

Once more, and as usual, the CANADA LIFE COMPANY comes out on top.

COMPARE

The following two Peterborough results with anything else of the kind in existence in the town. Other companies promise, we perform. That is the great difference.

THE LOCK WORKS REMAIN IN TOWN.

Mr. Carnegie replied that such an offer would be merely postponing the evil day, as the premises were unsuitable for the Company and very much too small.

Councillor Phelan asked Mr. Thos. Brooks, who was present, if there was any correctness in the report that the Lock Works Company never had paid out $40,000 a year in wages.

Mr. Brooks stated that three or four years ago $52,000 a year had been paid in wages, and that less than $40,000 had never been paid. At the present rate more than $40,000 would be paid out this year.

Mr. Carnegie said that he had heard a report to the effect that some of the Lock Co.'s employees had to seek aid from the charity committee at times. In regard to this all he had to say was that at present 100 hands were employed and $1,500 paid out in wages every two weeks. This averaged every hand $7.50 per week, and if they could not live on this it was because of and no fault of the company's.

Councillor Stone pointed out that if Mr. Carnegie's proposition was carried out, it meant in a nutshell that the town exempted the Auburn Mills property from taxation if the Auburn Company would grant a free site and free power to the Lock Works. It was a plain business deal and the cost to the town of retaining the works was $3,500 distributed over ten years. The Auburn Mills paid in at present $525 a year in taxes, this would be lost to the town, but the exemption was now removed from the old premises of the Lock Works and this would bring in $175 a year. Therefore, instead of giving $5,250 to the works it was reduced to $3,500, and this sum was even further reduced through the payment of school taxes. He strongly urged the council to close with the proposition.

Councillor Phelan also spoke effectually in behalf of the acceptance of Mr. Carnegie's offer. The moving away of the thirty families now connected with the works would be a big loss in itself, he thought, and besides Peterborough's commercial name would if it was known that an important industry was leaving town.

Councillor Dawson asked Mr. Carnegie if he was prepared to stick to his proposition if the town accepted the terms he wished to make. He also asked if there would be any objection to there being a clause inserted in the agreement consenting to the works not interfering with the class of worked turned out by other industries in town.

Mr. Carnegie, in reply to this, stated that he understood the meaning of the last clause and could easily explain away the cause of it. Last winter, when work was slack, the works had been taken over by Mr. Rudkins, to turn out a lot of castings. If this had not been done the men would have been out of work. He had heard some of the foundrymen were aggrieved over the circumstance, but it was not all probable that anything of the kind would be done again. Concerning Mr. Dawson's first question,

MR. CARNEGIE SAID:

"In making this proposition it must be distinctly understood that I make it entirely on my own responsibility, and that in the event of it being accepted and acted upon by the council I cannot guarantee that it will be carried out by either the Lock or Auburn Companies. All I can say is that so far as I am personally concerned I will do what I can legitimately and without prejudice to the interests of these two companies to bring the whole matter to such an issue as will justify the directors of the Lock Company in remaining where they are rather than going elsewhere. I am not in a position to promise that the proposition will be accepted, but so sure am I that it will be, that I will pay into the town treasury one hundred, yes, five hundred dollars if the arrangements are not completed to the council's satisfaction.

Councillor Cahill stated that the matter had now simmered down to the question whether the town would or would not give a bonus of $5,250 to the Lock Works, divided over ten years. For himself he the idea, but was prepared to vote for it in preference to seeing the Lock Works leave the town.

Councillor Mills stated that no one was more opposed to bonuses and exemptions than himself, but he saw that Peterborough would have to be prepared to indulge in these measures in order to retain the industry under discussion, and was therefore prepared to vote for it.

Councillors Phelan and Stone then moved "That the proposition of Mr. Carnegie in reference to the Lock Works be accepted, and that the clerk instruct the Town Solicitor to prepare a bylaw accordingly under specified conditions, and that the Solictor take instructions from the special committee appointed."

Carried.

Mr. Carnegie thanked the council for coming to his views on the matter, and stated that the Lock Works Company was losing just three hundred dollars a year by remaining in Peterborough, as the interest and insurance on the new buildings would cost upwards of $700, whilst they had an offer from another town of free site, free buildings, free light and free power all for $400 a year.

THE HEALTH COMMITTEE

to which the application of Mr. Wm. Lech was referred, begged leave to report and recommend that his request to be permitted to put in a cesspool at his house on Stewart street be granted.

The report was adopted and the council adjourned.

—A most unique entertainment was given by Prof. W. T. Hodge, in the town hall, Hiawatha, Friday evening, in connection with the Methodist church. The house was crowded to the doors, standing room not even being obtainable. Mr. Hodge opened the entertainment in the art of magic by doing numerous clever tricks. He also delighted the audience, both old and young, by his ventriloquistic performance, particularly that connected with his "Punch and Judy" show, which was indeed a laughter provoking exhibition, lasting some forty minutes.

Honest Help.

Thousands of men are suffering because they lack the courage to make known their early errors and to endeavour to remedy them. Nervous weakness, loss of manhood and the many ills due to early discretions, excesses or overwork can be quickly, successfully and permanently cured if you will only let the right people know what ails you. Write to me in confidence and I will tell you free of charge how to get cured. I have nothing to sell, but am desirous of honestly helping you. Perfect secrecy assured. Describe your case and address with stamp:—L. A. Edwards, P. G. Box 55, Jarvis Ont.

Association Hall will be used for classes in calisthenics, as the gallery is getting too small for the increased attendance.

Mr. John Moffatt's talk on "Life, from a Business Man's Standpoint," yesterday afternoon, was extremely interesting. His advice to young men entering upon their life work was to be a specialist, not "Jack of all trades. Be punctual. Don't be afraid of work, a lazy man is a sad sight. Be thorough. Be honest, not only in regard to pilfering, but in accounting for your time; a trite expression used by employees in a certain establishment when they catch one of their number loafing, "Take your hand out of the firm's pocket." Be truthful; if a piece of goods is half cotton say so, it's profitable even from a business man's standpoint. Plan your work, then work your plans. Following the observance of these main principles comes promotion as a natural result.

The speaker emphasised the need of early becoming a follower of the "man of Nazareth," in order to insure true success in life, referring to Jno. Wannamaker, Philadelphia, Sir Geo. Williams, London, Senator McDonald, Toronto, and others as notable examples of men in whose lives religion and business ran parallel, with success in both as the result. Mr. G. M. Roger will speak next Sunday, on "Life," as realized by a professional man.

THE LAST VOYAGE THE C.P.R. STEAMSHIP

"Empress of India"

Made across the Pacific ocean brought us a consignment of 75 bales Japanese Rugs and Squares, in the Osaka quality, direct from the manufacturers, and which we have just opened and placed on exhibition.

They come in all sizes from a small Door Mat to the large Crumb Cloth size, and the beautiful designs are characteristic of the Japanese artist.

DIMENSIONS.

2½ ft. x 5 ft.	3 ft. x 6 ft.
6 ft. x 6 ft.	6 ft. x 9 ft.
9 ft. x 10 ft.	10 ft. x 12 ft.

Purchasing these goods as we did when the rate of exchange between the two countries was so favourable to us, we are thereby enabled to offer these beautiful Rugs and Squares 25 per cent. lower than they are usually sold for. They are specially adapted for Halls, Vestibules, Hearth Rugs and Polished Floors.

In this shipment we received some new and beautiful Silk Fabrics, in plain and Crepe Silks, suitable for evening wear.

As I Predicted

My Heavy-weight Blankets are having a rapid sale. The last two weeks has made a big hole in the stock. But that need'nt deter the Ladies from coming after more; for, although, the price of wool has gone up we can repeat orders at the same old price. Our Blankets live up to the label promise, in size, weight and price.

When we sell our best Blankets for $3.39, $3.76, $4.36, $4.76, it means a very considerable saving on the price you have to pay anywhere else.

There is a reason here for the ladies. The extra price you pay elsewhere has to be put on for extra store expenses. If you are not buying Blankets you are buying Dress Goods or something else. The same holds true—money is saved in price here. We run our store with economy; that's why we can sell at smaller profits. Plain, isn't it.

Don't Overlook the Underwear.

We have something that undersells the undermost in Underwear. What do you think of 35c for a price. At 50c we can give you extra value. There's nothing that will please a husband, brother, sister or daughter we have'nt got.

FREE:—All Mantles and Dress Goods bought here, costing 50c per yard and upwards, will be cut and fitted free of charge.

HOLMES ON TRIAL.

The Alleged Multi-Murderer Before the Judge.

HIS LAWYERS DROP THE CASE.

A Request for Postponement Meets With Refusal—The Prisoner Thereupon Undertakes His Own Defence—The District Attorney Dramatically Outlines the Case.

Philadelphia, Oct. 29.—When the Holmes trial was called yesterday the counsel for the defence asked for a continuance of 60 days, on the ground that they were not prepared to go on.

The commonwealth was represented by District Attorney Graham and Assistant District Attorney Barlow.

In addition to the murder of Pitezel, the prisoner is also accused of the murder at Toronto, Ont., of Pitezel's two young daughters, Alice and Nellie, of the murder at Irvington, Ind., of the young son, Howard Pitezel, and also of the murder of various persons in the famous Holmes castle, in Chicago.

The approaches to the court room were closely guarded, and none but persons directly interested in the case and newspaper men were admitted.

Holmes walked jauntily into the dock, a tipstaff being on either side of him. He was rather pale from long confinement in the county prison, but his black beard was neatly trimmed, and his black suit of clothes gave him a dashy appearance. The accused took his seat with a calmness that was noticeable, and while he evinced a decided interest in the matters at issue, there was no look of fear upon his countenance, nor any evidence of nervousness in his action. Attorney W.H. Shoemaker, of counsel for the prisoner, asked for a postponement of the case for several days. His contention was that the defence was not prepared for trial; that no witnesses were present.

District Attorney Graham strenuously opposed the motion, he declaring that the state's witnesses were present at their own volition, and that if a continuance should be granted, it would mean "the absolute destruction of the commonwealth's case." Mrs. Pitezel's health was impaired, Mr. Graham further said, and if the case should be postponed, the strain would intensify her illness.

Lawyer Samuel P. Rotan, for the defence, then addressed the court, and claimed that as Holmes was charged with the highest crime on the calendar, and in which other cases are involved, it would be necessary to investigate the dependent cases before proceeding.

The attorney pleaded for time in which he and his colleagues could realize on Holmes' assets, and thus bring witnesses to Philadelphia, who will not come unless their expenses are paid. The discovery of new testimony within the past four or five days he wanted to investigate was a further plea of the attorney for a continuance.

Judge Arnold over-ruled the motions for postponement in a very few words, and ordered that the trial go on.

Just at this juncture a startling climax was reached, which resulted in the withdrawal of Lawyers Shoemaker and Rotan from the case, notwithstanding an injunction from the court that they would be open to disbarment by taking such a step "on the eve of a murder trial."

A still further sensation was created when Holmes refused to accept the services of Attorneys Everett A. Schofield and Joseph R. Fahy, whom the court was about to appoint to defend him, and who in fact had taken seats in the chairs vacated by Messrs. Shoemaker and Rotan. Schofield and Fahy also withdrew. Holmes himself pleaded to the court for a postponement, but the judge declared that the case must go on.

The trial was resumed, Holmes conducting his own defence.

The work of securing a jury was then taken up, and Holmes examined the talesmen. Mrs. Pitezel, who the district attorney said was indisposed, was not in court.

Among the attendants were Mrs. Nudel, the owner of the house on St. Vincent-street, Toronto, in which the remains of Alice and Nellie Pitezel were found; Herbert Jones, clerk of the Albion Hotel, Toronto, with whom Holmes left the children, and Isaac Armbrust, the occupant of the Toronto house where the remains were discovered.

It was 1.30 when the trial was resumed, and nearly all the session, which continued until 4.55 o'clock, was taken up by District Attorney Graham in outlining the case to the jury.

The opening address of the District Attorney was forcible throughout, but his denunciations of Holmes, which at times were particularly severe, had no outward effect upon the accused Holmes' composure was wonderful, and during the narrative he busied himself in taking copious notes of the prosecuting officer's address.

Mr. Graham at the outset stated that under the indictment, and providing the evidence should warrant it, it would be possible for the jury to find a verdict either of manslaughter or murder in the second degree, of murder in the first degree, or of acquittal. He declared, however, that he would ask for a verdict of first degree murder.

The District Attorney went into the story of Benjamin F. Pitezel's death, and the incidents connected therewith at great length.

Mr. Graham graphically pictured the many features of the case and laid especial stress upon the work of Detective Frank Geyer in finding the charred remains of the children Alice and Nellie Pitezel in Toronto, the discovery of the remains of the boy, Howard Pitezel, at Irvington, Ind., and the suspicion that the three children were victims of the accused. During the course of his recital of the murder of Pitezel, Mr. Graham indicated that the commonwealth expected to prove that Pitezel was chloroformed to death while drunk.

Returning to the finding of the body in Philadelphia, the District Attorney pointed his finger at the prisoner and dramatically declared: "There is the man who murdered Pitezel."

He concluded by expressing a belief that the prisoner would be convicted as indicated.

The court ordered an adjournment at the conclusion of the address, but before this was announced by the crier, Holmes arose from his seat in the dock and asked Judge Arnold to instruct the prison authorities to place him in a lighted cell and have him supplied with writing material.

The judge replied that this would be attended to. Holmes' purpose is evidently to work far into the night on his own case. The accused also asked if he could send to Fort Worth, Texas, for certain papers. "A witness by the name of Samuel, Holmes continued, is coming here to identify a note. If Samuel has not got two notes for $10,000, I would ask that he get them."

A finale of the day's proceedings was in the form of a tilt between Holmes and the District Attorney. Holmes said he desired to have an interview with his wife, whereupon Mr. Graham replied: "Which wife do you mean?"

"I mean," retorted the prisoner, "the lady whom you designated as Miss Yohe, and by so doing cast a slur upon her and upon myself." Holmes augmented this with a statement that "Miss Yohe" was his legal wife.

Mr. Graham told Holmes that the lady did not want to see him; that she had told him so in his (Graham) presence.

The accused declared that the District Attorney had intercepted his wife's attentions to him, but this Mr. Graham denied, and the court coincided with the prosecuting officer. Finally Holmes asked that a note be sent to his wife and a reply received, which "shall not be seen by the District Attorney." This was granted.

At 4.55 o'clock court adjourned until to-morrow.

It is believed that the fate of Holmes will be in the jury's hands in about a week.

The list of murders of which he is suspected, so far as it has been completed at the present time, is as follows:

1. Julia A. Connor, divorced wife of his bookkeeper.
2. Pearl Connor, daughter of Mrs. Connor.
3. Emmeline G. Cigrand, his stenographer.
4. Robert E. Phelps, who, according to Holmes, married Miss Cigrand.
5. Benjamin F. Pitezel, his companion and accomplice.
6-7. Alice and Minnie Pitezel, Benjamin Pitezel's daughters.
8. Howard Pitezel, Benjamin Pitezel's son.
9. Emily Van Tassel.
10. Nana Williams.
11. Minnie R. Williams.

Besides these eleven who have been identified there are traces of twelve more, men, women and children, whose death is established by the fragmentary records of the doings at the several dens for murder, but whose identity can not as yet be established.

THE ALASKA BOUNDARY.

Canada's Action Will Force the Dispute to a Speedy Determination—Congress Will Take Action

New York, Oct. 29.—A Washington special says: The Alaskan boundary line question will be forced to a speedy determination by the action of Canada, if not by some diplomatic move on the part of Secretary Olney.

In the case of trouble along the frontier, in the Yukon mining region, the United States district attorney at Sitka has the authority to employ deputy marshals to preserve law and order, but it would take several months for the news of the disturbance to reach him at Sitka, and for his orders to be carried into effect. Officials of the Department of Justice say that he would not have the power to place men along the line for police duty or for any other purpose, except on special occasions such as a riot. If this be the case prompt action by Congress this winter will be necessary to remedy the difficulty, and it is understood that a bill will be introduced to provide Alaska with a more perfect form of Government.

"C" COMPANY DINES AT THE SNOWDEN.

AN EXCELLENT MENU PROVIDED FOR THE MEN.

The Evening Proves to be a Most Enjoyable One—Many to Attend the School this Winter—Non-Commissioned Officers will Have to Qualify.

The members of Captain Hill's Company assembled at the Snowden House last evening for the purpose of holding their annual supper. A most enjoyable evening was spent. The menu was everything that could possibly be desired, and the speeches and songs were witty and sparkling as the occasion demanded.

Captain Hill, of course, sat at the head of the table, with Lieut.-Col. Bell on his right, whilst Lieut. Eastwood sat at the other end of the board with about twenty of the men seated along the sides.

The room was most appropriately decorated with Union Jacks and bunting of red, white and blue, the artistic work of J. J. Turner & Son, and whilst the menu was being discussed wit and merriment flowed fast and free.

THE TOAST LIST

was opened by the health of the Queen being proposed by Captain Hill. The National Anthem was sung, after which the health of the commanding officer was drunk with enthusiasm. Capt. Hill in proposing the toast spoke of the disadvantage under which the Colonel laboured when he first took charge of the Battalion, and of the success which had attended his efforts in reorganizing the force. Napoleon had said that a good commanding officer was worth 40,000 men, and since witnessing the work done by Col. Bell he could fully see the force of this argument.

In responding, the Colonel, after the applause had subsided, thanked all for the enthusiastic manner in which the toast had been received. While he felt totally undeserving of the kind remarks of Capt. Hill, yet if length of service and enthusiasm availed anything he could claim to have served the Volunteer force well. He had devoted much of his time to the study of the tactics of war, and though he would yet, there was nothing like being prepared for it in time of peace. He felt sure that in case of trouble he would have good backing to aid him in carrying out his intentions. In regard to the disadvantages which he labored under at the start, he thought they had not been underestimated. The battalion had not been reorganized until the beginning of May, on account of the resignation of Lieut.-Col. Rogers having been sent in and being held for consideration for some time before it was finally accepted. All this time the battalion was practically without a head, consequently the men had not sufficient time to get in enough spring drill, but next year he proposed reorganising early in March, and having the inspection held early in the year, instead of in the fall, as heretofore. In all his efforts to work the battalion up he had been by his officers, who set the men a good example by turning out to drill regularly. He himself, had not missed one parade since the fall drill commenced.

Corporal Baker then sang a topical song.

Sergt. Gaskin's Irish story was greatly appreciated, being replete with humour and told with a rich brogue.

Lt.-Col. Bell then proposed the toast of the Company's Officers and at the same time paid a neat compliment to the efficiency of Capt. Hill and Lt. Eastwood.

Capt. Hill, in responding to the toast, referred to the time when he first took command of No. 3, in 1869, there being at that time only five men connected with the company. It had, however, steadily grown until it reached its present size. Mr. Eastwood's painstaking assistance had been of great assistance to him as had the interest which his non-commissioned officers had evinced in their work.

Lt. Eastwood expressed satisfaction at the kindly remarks which the commanding officer had and his captain in introducing the toast. He hoped that he would become in time more worthy of the praise. He urged the men to keep up their interest in the Battalion during the winter, and concluded by heartily thanking the non-coms. for the assistance which they had rendered him during the season.

Private Eastland was then called on for a mouthorgan solo, which he rendered in a very effective manner.

The toast of the non-commissioned officers brought Col.-Sgt. Gaskins, Sgt. Metheral, Sgt. Green, Corp. LeBar, Corp. Baker and Corp. Dunnett to their feet.

The names of Sgt.-Major Peters and Sgt. Lloyd were coupled with the toast of the sergeants mess.

Sgt.-Major Peters' rendition of "Dot Leetle German Band" called for a hearty chorus, which was joined in by the company with great gusto.

Bandmaster Miller responded to the toast of "The Band" which was proposed by Captain Hill with most complementary mention.

In the absence of Mr. Snowden, Mr. Dickson Jewett responded to the toast of the Host and Hostess.

Pte. Michael Fallon, in response to numerous calls, played a mouthorgan solo with splendid execution.

Sergt. Gaskin on being asked for a contribution to the evening's entertainment with a rousing chorus, which was greatly enjoyed.

Pte. Cook's humorous song was a "corker" and brought down the house.

When the toast of "The Ladies," was proposed, Corp. LeBar and Sergt. Green made appropriate addresses.

The health of the "Baby of the Company" was proposed by Lieut.-Col. Bell, but as the baby was absent Sergt. Gaskin made the response.

The toast of "The Press" called for responses from the representatives of the Review and EXAMINER.

The officers when speaking during the evening, urged the men strongly to attend the Military School this winter, and obtain qualifying certificates. Hereafter, they stated, no man would be promoted to the non-commissioned officers' ranks unless he had a certificate obtained either from the School or the local class which will study under the Sgt.-Major this winter. Many of the men expressed their intention of taking the course this winter.

Purified Blood

Saved an operation in the following case. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures when all others fail. It makes pure blood.

"A year ago my father, William Thompson, was taken suddenly ill with inflammation of the bladder. He suffered a great deal and was very low for some time. At last the doctor said he would not get well unless an operation was performed. At this time we read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and decided to try it. Before he used half a bottle his appetite had come back to him, whereas before he could eat but little. When he had taken three bottles of the medicine he was as well as ever." FRANCIS J. A FRIEND'S OPINION.

The opponents of the present Dominion Government are not the only ones who are impressed with its fatiguing condition of ricketty vacillation and flabby incapacity. Even the Government's best friends are discussing its state of funk with an openness of candour that must be painful to the Government and ominous of luke-warm friends when the day of trial arrives. "Don," who is a Tory of the Tories—dyed in the wool—in "Saturday Night," thus refers to the Government of which he has heretofore been a faithful defender and apologist:

"The Dominion Government seems to have acquired a facility for getting into holes which is altogether out of proportion to their ability for getting out of them. Promising and procrastinating have been their strong cards. They have run up such an extraordinary bill of promises and have deferred payment so long, that now they seem convinced that the settlement of the claims for office which their followers in Parliament have against them would bankrupt the concern. When the Opposition stated last session that there were twenty-five or thirty members sitting in the House of Commons who practically had appointments in their pockets, or at least "promises to pay," the charge was denied with scorn. Now that the Government is shaky and the members who had been promised something are demanding an immediate settlement, it looks very much as if the charge were true. Curran has been boosted on to the bench, to the intense disgust of everybody, and the appointment has raised such a row in Montreal Centre that the Conservative candidate for the Quebec legislature in that constituency was this week defeated by an overwhelming majority. A bye-election is about to be held to fill the vacancy created by the appointment of Mr. Curran and without doubt a Liberal will be elected. The Government has been in a wretched state of funk for months, but after the Montreal incident it got in such an agony of fear that it dare not open [Cardwell, though years ago it promised an appointment to Mr. Robert S. White, member for that riding. After sitting in Parliament for two sessions with the promise of the appointment in his pocket, Mr. White evidently felt disinclined to go through any further humiliating experiences as a subsidized supporter of the government, and has resigned, and in spite of all attempts to prevent a proper expression of public opinion on the Manitoba school question, Cardwell is now vacant, and if another session is held that constituency must be filled, with the probabilities in favour of a McCarthyite going to Ottawa to cast the vote of the constituency when remedial legislation is proposed. West Huron is also open on account of the appointment of Hon. J. C. Patterson to the Lieutenant-Governorship of Manitoba; Jacques Cartier is without a member owing to the promotion of Mr. Girouard to the bench; Missisquoi is threatened with having its member made a cabinet minister, so five elections may be on immediately. The government has reason to fear the result and it is probable that a score of unsatisfied claimants will have to retain their seats until after the session."

THE MAYORALITY.

In conformity with the remarks of Mr. Kendry at the nominations last year, when he was elected mayor by acclamation, he will retire from the position at the close of the present year and the question arises "Who will be mayor for 1896?"

This is certainly a live question and one that should begin to engage the attention of the citizens. Other towns are well supplied with prospective candidates; indeed, the city of Hamilton has four in the field. Taking interest in such an important question as the selection of a First Magistrate is a mark of wisdom on the part of those towns which are already supplied with candidates. And Peterborough, which is behind no other town or city in enterprise, should, one would naturally expect, be very seriously considering a question which is of grave importance. The town should have a representative of executive ability and business capacity in the Mayor's chair, one who would insure not only a well qualified presiding officer at Council meetings, but one with a personality sufficiently strong to direct the affairs of the town in such a manner as will both protect and promote its interests. Candidates should announce themselves early, so that ample time may be given for canvassing the merits of their claims to the suffrages of the people.

It is said that Sir John Macdonald maintained his supremacy in his Cabinet by surrounding himself with collegues of marked inferiority of ability to himself. It would be a little hard to apply that rule now.

If, says the Mail and Empire, the Russian bear is determined to precipitate a war, the price of food products will undoubtedly go up, and, strange though it may seem, the bear will become a bull. Stranger things have happened.

THE QUEEN USES THEM.

Her Majesty Queen Victoria is said to Use Proprietary Medicines—Other Queens Testify to their Wonderful Effects—One Says: "I Consider South American Nervine the Only Remedy on the Market for Stomach Disorder.

ONE feature of Queen Victoria's character is her freedom from prejudice. In matters of statesmanship, and equally so in those of the smaller affairs of life, she takes a broad common-sense view of the situation. There is, therefore, nothing wonderful in the report that in her recent illness Her Majesty used, and was greatly benefitted, by a leading proprietary medicine.

Other queens, the queens of the homes of Canada, have followed in the footsteps of Her Majesty, and found in proprietary medicines the avenue to health that they feared they had lost.

Residing near Dundalk, Ont., is Mrs. D. McArthur, one who brightly fills the position of queen in the home of one of the leading farmers in that district. Let her tell her own story: "For fifteen years I was troubled with dyspepsia, and during the winter previous to using South American Nervine I was confined to my bed, and my life despaired of. At intervals I consulted several leading doctors, but with little or no relief, as they claimed my case to be of a chronic nature. I was induced to try South American Nervine, and had taken only a few bottles when health came back to me, and finally I was completely restored. Knowing how desperate was my case, I feel safe in saying that for my stomach disorder there is no remedy like South American Nervine."

Two Children Suffocated.

Manistee, Mich., Oct. 28.—Two children of John Conley, aged thre and five years, died last night of suffocation. They had been playing with matches and set fire to the bed clothes.

Murdered and Robbed.

Vancouver, B.C., Oct. 28.—J. H. Freeman, wharfinger at the Union Steamship Company's wharf, was murdered last night and his body cast into the inlet, where it was found this morning. Robbery seems to have been the motive, as the murdered man's pockets were rifled. There is no clue.

Not Long a Widower.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 28.—A despatch to The Novoe Vremya, from its correspondent in Seoul, says that the King of Corea has chosen another Queen, and has assumed the title of Emperor. The representatives in Seoul of the powers, the despatch adds, have made a protest against the King's action.

Editor Beaton Sent for Trial.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 28.—The libel suit of Richardson v. Beaton, was proceeded with at the Police Court today. Beaton was committed for trial at the assizes.

All we have ever said of the curative virtues of Ayer's Sarsaparilla sinks into insignificance when compared with the statements made by those who have been benefited by the use of this wonderful blood-purifier. Many of the cures seem indeed almost incredible.

Biliousness and Liver Complaint, headache, etc., are cured by Burdock Pills.

Doctors Say it is the Best.

GENTLEMEN,—I recommend Milburn's Cod Liver Oil Emulsion with pleasure. Last July I took Congestion of the Lungs and was in bed four weeks. Dr. Lawson, of Hamiota, attended me and sent a bottle of Milburn's Emulsion. It is the very best made and soon restored me back to health again. Truly yours, ALF. SMITH, Wheatlands, Man.

Victims of Rheumatism Taken Off Every Day.

Paine's Celery Compound a Perfect Cure for Rheumatism.

Are you numbered in the vast army of rheumatics? If you are, be warned in time. This is the season most fatal to all who suffer from rheumatism. Already, alarm and consternation are spreading in the ranks of the suffering and disabled. To-day, sunshine cheers you; to-morrow and succeeding days, cold, damp, chilling and piercing winds may bring you to the verge of despair, from agonies and excruciating pains.

Can you afford to go on bearing agonies that may prove fatal at any moment? Can you afford to experiment with useless medicines when you know of Paine's Celery Compound and the wonders it has done for others? If you value life make trial to-day of the only medicine under heaven that can banish your terrible affliction. Each bottle of Paine's Celery Compound is full of life-giving virtue and power. It cannot fail in your case; a cure is guaranteed; what stronger promise can you desire? Your friends and neighbours have been cured by Paine's Celery Compound. Many of them lingered in pain for years, and failed with scores of medicines; but victory was theirs after using Paine's Celery Compound. Health, strength, perfect vigor and complete victory will also be yours if you take hold of the same great curing agent.

THE SHORTIS TRIAL.

Strong Efforts of the Defence to Save the Prisoner From the Gallows.

Beauharnois, Oct. 28.—In the Shortis case the defence quoted authorities to uphold the contention that when a prisoner was non compos mentis, that when he did not know he was committing a wrong act, he should be acquitted.

His Lordship said that the law is not now so strict as it was at the time of the authorities quoted.

His Lordship also remarked that: "If you don't prove that the prisoner is quite insane the delusions are of no weight."

Mr. Greenshields, for the defence, then began his address to the jury, and spoke till the close of the court.

MRS. KELLAR'S DEFENCE.

She Claims That Kempthorn Threatened to Kill Her and Her Boy.

Oswego, N.Y., Oct. 29.—The defence in the Kellar murder trial opened yesterday. The defence will be emotional insanity at certain periods: It was during one of these periods that Kempthorn entered her house and assaulted her. The defence will show that Kempthorn was drunk when he entered the house, or, at least, that he drank freely of liquor.

Mrs. Kellar was the first witness in her own behalf. She said that when Kempthorn sprang into her bedroom through the window he threatened to kill her and her son. He threw her on the bed and she became unconscious. When she regained consciousness she seized the gun and shot Propose to Have a Campaigning Tour.

OWEN SOUND THE FIRST PLACE

At Which Efforts Will be Made to Bolster the Government—Report to be Made on the Sweat Shop System—The New Victorian Tariff.

Ottawa, Oct. 29.—The members of the Laurier party have separted to their homes, but this does not imply any cessation in political campaigning. During this fall it is not unlikely that a series of Liberal-Conservative meetings will be held in different portions of Ontario, at which the policy of the Government will be enunciated. As a preliminary, a meeting has been arranged to be held at Owen Sound on Thursday next, which four Ministers have promised to attend, viz., Hon. Messrs. Foster, Haggart, Ouimet and Montague.

At the last session of the Trades and Labor Congress in London the prevalence of the sweating system in Canada was animadverted upon and the Government was asked to investigate into the matter with a view to the enacting of legislation which would restrict evils complained of. In compliance with the request an order in council has been passed appointing Mr. A. W. Wright of Toronto to investigate and report on the question.

The Department of Trade and Commerce has received copies of the new tariff which has just been adopted by the Victorian Legislature. It shows a general all-round reduction, although in many instances the changes are not to go into effect for a year or two. The following is a comparative statement of the tariff reductions in the duty upon articles in which Canada is likely to do an export trade.

Candles, 1 1-2d per pound, formerly 2d per pound; earthenware, 15 per cent., formerly 8d; fur and felt hats, 2s 6d, formerly 25 per cent.; whiskey, 2s per gallon, formerly 15s; woollen goods, 30 per cent., formerly 40 per cent.; woolen blankets, 25 per cent., formerly 35 per cent.; furniture, 30 per cent., formerly 40 per cent.; portable engines, 15 per cent., formerly 25 per cent.

The departmental returns for 1892 show that Victoria imported 21 of these engines under the old rate of duty, the total value being £3684. Hosiery is now 25 per cent., formerly 35 per cent.; leatherware, 30 per cent., formerly 45 per cent.

It is expected the next annual report of Mr. Pearce, Superintendent of Mines, will contain some interesting information regarding the season's work at Anthracite, N.W.T., the coal mining property which was leased by McNeil & Co., from the syndicate, of which ex-Mayor McLeod Stewart of Ottawa was president. The output during the year has been twenty thousand tons which amount could very easily have been quadrupled if demand had occasioned it. The market for this coal lies between the Rockies and Winnipeg. Coal from Anthracite competes successfully in the Winnipeg market with Pennsylvania anthracite, and has been the means of reducing the price of coal in Winnipeg and generally throughout the Northwest by 50 per cent.

The agent of the Marine department at Victoria telegraphed that he had received an offer from a responsible firm in British Columbia either to float the Government steamer Quadra into deep water, or else deliver her at Esquimalt. The agent states that the Quadra is in a dangerous position, and although the sea was smooth the barometer was falling. The department instructed its officer to take prompt steps to secure the placing of the Quadra in safe waters.

Mr. McNeill, M.P., is strongly urging the Fishery Department to establish a fish hatchery at Wiarton. This will be an excellent location for such an establishment, as annually the officers of the department secure large quantities of salmon trout eggs at that point.

All Run Down.

This is the condition of thousands. Squanderers have they been of sleep, rest and finally of health. The mad pursuit of place, power and pelf leaves them broken in spirit, weak in body, shattered in nerve. In the world, but no longer of it, their days are spent in desire, impotent and purposeless, for they have bankrupted health. Thousands are on the road. They heed not the warning that nature gives.

Sleeplessness, inertia, despondency, and fatigue add their mournful notes to the "still sad music of humanity." Tired! Tired! Tired! You need aid! Your system requires a staff upon which to lean, and your brain rest for increasing vigils! Health and strength are the alternatives from decay and death.

Coca, combined with Maltine, affords that staff. It will give tone to the nervous system, strength to the shattered nerves, sleep to the weary eyes and rest to the tired brain.

SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

The dream of Ponce de Leon was that he might discover the fountain of perpetual youth. He died searching for it. The fountain he was looking for was an impossibility, unnatural and chimerical. The nearest thing to the fountain of perpetual youth is a fountain of perpetual, perfect health. Health keeps people young. Sickness makes them old. Health means first of all, strength and regularity in the digestive functions. Put indigestible matter into the stomach and it is likely to find lodgment in the bowels. It will stop their action. Poisonous, refuse matter, which should have been thrown off, is retained in the body, and as it cannot go any place else, more or less of it gets into the blood. That's constipation. It is such a wonderfully simple thing that people do not regard it seriously. They let it run on, let it grow worse, become chronic, and show itself all over the body in fifty ways before they consider it important. Constipation causes nine-tenths of all human ailments. Its first symptoms do not seem very serious, but even they are very disagreeable. A few of them are sour stomach, flatulence, heartburn, distress after eating, foul breath, coated tongue, dizziness, palpitation of the heart, sick and bilious headaches, general lassitude and debility. When any of these symptoms show themselves, you should immediately take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets, according to directions. They are tiny, sugar-coated granules, made on purpose to cure constipation. They do this perfectly and quickly, and they are the only preparation in the world that will do it. There are plenty of medicines that will give relief as long as you keep on taking them, but you can't stop. They don't cure; they give merely temporary relief. Doctor Pierce's Pleasant Pellets give immediate relief and produce a permanent cure.

The "Poll Tax."

Ten young men were in the Police Court charged with neglecting to settle for their statute labour, better known as the "poll tax." Seven of these paid their dollar and costs—in fact six of them paid before court opened. One case was enlarged and two charge were dismissed, as the young men were Volunteers, and therefore exempt.

Men do Talk About Women

—and women do talk about men. But the men are just now talking about those twin dandy hair-dressers and shavers in Alf. Haskill's "Gold Dollar" Shaving Parlours, No. 164 Simcoe street. They're a skilful team, and the boys don't know what they are missing if they haven't been down to see them. You can bet your happy life they are artists from the word "Next" and don't you forget it. They don't "scrape"—they shave; they don't "saw" your hair off—they give it the nicest tonsorial touches. d

New Meat Shop.

Mr. Frank J. Goselin, will open a new meat shop in the store, No. 225 George Street, one door north of Turner's awning factory. The shop is now being fitted up for the purpose and will, when finished, be a very complete meat mart. Mr. Frank Goselin has had eighteen years experience in the business, and for the last six or seven years carried on business for himself in the premises now occupied by his brother, at No. 245 George street, where he was well known and gave general satisfaction to a large number of customers. Look for date of opening.

Cheap Boots and Shoes.

Mr. John McNaughton, Sherbrooke St., is selling his excellent stock of boots and shoes and rubber goods at prices lower than George street merchants. How is this done? you ask. Well, it is easily explained, he has no heavy rent to pay, he has no expensive clerks to pay, he buys and sells, himself, and can, consequently, outsell all cash competition. His great sale is now going on and his receipts last week were the largest on record. His goods are the best to be had. He buys only from the best makers and sells direct to his customers. You will save money by buying your boots and shoes and rubbers from the cash store of John McNaughton, corner Bethune and Sherbrooke streets. Now is the time to buy. Everything guaranteed as represented. 4d101

"BIG JIM" MONTGOMERY IS NOT THE MAN WANTED.

Deputy Sheriff Denton has His Long Trip from Kentucky for Nothing.

Deputy Sheriff Denton, of Kentucky, who has been here since Saturday night looking for an alleged murderer, one Anderson, left last night for Port Hope, where he was informed he would find his man in a labourer known as "Big Jim" Montgomery, who, it was said, claimed to be an ex-chief of police from the South, and as this answered the description of the man wanted, the Deputy Sheriff came up after him. There is something wrong somewhere, however. Denton, as stated before, was brought from the South by a telegram from Detective Morrison, of Peterborough, formerly of Port Hope. The telegram stated that the man was lodged in Cobourg gaol, but Morrison denies having sent such a telegram, and says that he sent one stating that the man was in Port Hope, and could not be arrested without extradition papers.

Morrison was to have gone down with the Deputy Sheriff last night to Port Hope, but did not show up at the train.

This morning the Chief of Police here received a telephone message from the Deputy Sheriff saying that Montgomery was not the man after all, it being a case of mistaken identity. The police are suspicious of the whole affair being a hoax from beginning to end, but it is a mystery as to who is the originator of it, if it is.

APPLEBY VS. DUGAN.

A Legal Action for $10,000 Damages.

The plaintiff in this case, Mrs. A. B. Guaranteed Cure for Tobacco

The Uncle Sam Tobacco Cure will stop the tobacco habit—that's a certainty. So confident are the manufacturers that it will do all it claims, they will refund the money in every case where the tobacco user has strictly followed directions for 30 days without being cured. Money talks, and merit wins—they mean what they say. The medicine is for sale at Lynch's drug store, Hunter street, where the guarantee is good.

Foresters' Concert.

Friday evening, November 15th, has been selected as the date of the annual Foresters' concert under the auspices of Courts Peterborough and Langton, C. O. F. A splendid programme, contributed by the best outside and local musical talent, will be presented and the public are assured that the occasion will be worthy of the high reputation of the Foresters for giving annually one of the best concerts of the season.

As a Simple Reminder,

May we suggest that the lady will esteem it a special "very thoughtful" kindness if she finds you have an opera glass or opera fan with you at the concert. Without one she may appear out of style, and be denied a pleasure ladies know so well how to appreciate. Opera Glasses in mother of pearl and fine leather mountings; opera fans, plain and fancy, hand-painted, silk fans, feather fans, gauze fans, etc., to suit every taste, at the Peterborough Bookstore. A. H. STRATTON & Co.

An Unusual Sight.

Last night, about eight o'clock, the unusual sight of a procession of seven or eight teams, driven by men, and without any vehicles attached, passed into the stable yards of the Peterborough House. The wagons had been left on the Market Square and contained the effects of a gentleman who is to open a grocery store in the Dunsford block. The goods were brought by wagon all the way from Hilton, a little village of about 120 inhabitants, five miles from Brighton. The procession of teams, as it came into town, suggested the days of stage coaches, before the era of railways.

Talfordian Temperature Topics.

Tuesday, Oct. 29th.—Strange and sudden freaks of the weather, Sunday going up as high as 63 degrees. During the night we had a thunderstorm, falling 80-100 of an inch of water, yesterday morning registering 35 degrees, but in the early forenoon we had slight flurries of snow with more during the day, and a falling temperature with a cold fierce west by south gale a little after sundown. A slight gentle fall of snow took place, when again this morning the thermometer indicated 27 degrees above zero; again the snow commenced falling, which, if continuing for some time, may moderate the temperature.—THOS. TELFORD

A Boot and Shoe Blockade.

Yesterday the street in front of the store of Messrs. Gough Bros., the Wonderful Cheap Men, was literally blockaded with 253 cases of boots, shoes and rubbers, which contained the stock bought at auction in Toronto. Gough Bros. do everything, but set prices, in a big way, and by this time the public know what to expect in the way of good goods at bottom prices from a big purchase like this at the lowest figures. Those who want bargains of the most tempting character are reminded that this mammoth purchase will supply the biggest bargains in boots and shoes and rubbers ever offered in this or any other town. 1d1w

MR. WM. HELM'S GOLDEN WEDDING.

The Fiftieth Anniversary Becomingly Celebrated.

On Saturday a golden wedding was celebrated that has an interest for many Peterborough citizens, especially among the older residents. Mr. and Mrs. William Helm, of 656 Bethune street, were united in marriage near Kingston on Oct. 26th, 1845, and the fiftieth anniversary was duly observed on Saturday last. The occasion called for hearty congratulations which were abundantly bestowed on Mr. and Mrs. Helm. Among the guests present were Mrs. Thomas Bradburn, of Peterborough, Mrs. J. B. Nixon, of Toronto, Mr. Henry Helm, Port Hope, and of course the relatives and children and grandchildren of the happy couple, who received numerous handsome presents as mementos of the unusual but auspicious occasion. Mr. and Mrs. Helm are both in good health, and have the promise, which their many friends hope to see fulfilled, of many more years of wedded happiness.

Mr. Helm was for many years one of Peterborough's prominent citizens. He was for a time a member of the Town Council and was identified with the promotion of enterprises which tended to advance the material and moral well-being of the town.

LAST EVENING'S "AT HOME."

It was Held at the Residence of Miss Barlee.

The first of a series of "At Homes" to be given this winter in aid of the funds of the Women's Auxiliary of St. John's church, was held last night at the residence of Miss Barlee, and in spite of snow and wind proved a very successful and pleasant affair.

The programme was opened by Miss Vink, who played Mendelssohn's "Spring Song" with her usual ability.

Miss Vair then charmed her audience by singing "The Gift," and later on she sang "Ive Something Sweet to Tell You," very sweetly, Mrs. R. E. Wood accompanying with much taste.

Two excellent readings by Mr. J. H. Burnham were most thoroughly enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Stapleton sang with her usual acceptance "Love's Proving."

Miss Naomi Lewis was obliged to respond to an encore for her piano solo, and played both pieces in a very spirited and pleasing manner.

Mr. Herbert King gave the audience much pleasure by the way in which he sang "The Carnival," and "Oh Promise Me."

All the kind friends who took part in the programme will have the satisfaction of knowing they are helping forward a society that does much to help the poor of our own town as well as those in the Northwest.

TWO LADS SENTENCED.

Wm. Cushion Goes to the Central for Six Months and Burns to the County Gaol.

Arthur Burns was this morning sentenced to three months in the county gaol on the charge of stealing a gold five dollar piece from Stanton German. Burns denied having committed the crime and blamed William Cushion for the deed. Cushion, in turn, swore that Burns was the offender.

On a charge of horse stealing and another of vagrancy Cushion was sentenced in each case to serve six months in the Central Prison, the sentences to run concurrently. The story of the horse stealing was related in yesterday's EXAMINER, and though it was not likely the lad intended to keep the horse, the Magistrate thought that he was badly in need of a lesson, inasmuch as he had been accused of indulging in a number of questionable practices before.

Burns told of Cushion boasting of the number of people whose clothes he had "gone through" lately, having, it is alleged, "done up" the river drivers for considerable sums, which mysteriously disappeared from trunks and boxes.

ATHLETIC PETERBOROUGH BOYS.

They Distinguish Themselves at the McGill University Sports.

In the McGill University sports on Friday last, Mr. W. A. Moore, better known probably as "Billy," late of the Canadian General Electric Company, but now taking a course in the Faculty of Applied Science at McGill University, especially distinguished himself by winning the 100 yards dash in 10 3-5 sec.; the 440 yards in 54 1-5 sec, (breaking the college record), and taking second in the 220 yards in 24 1-5 sec. and second in the 120 yards hurdles. He also took three thirds in other events, winning the governor's trophy by making the highest average.

Whilst Billy did not do much in the running line when in Peterborough, his prowness on the football team was well-known, as well as his work with the Volta Hockey Club. His many friends in Peterborough will be pleased to hear of the prominent place which he has taken in athletic sports at McGill.

Mr. Alf. Milburn, another Peterborough boy was successful after a hard contest in carrying off first prize for pole vaulting.

Struck a New Idea.

The Bordeaux Claret Co., struck a new and fruitful idea when it conceived the notion of putting a cheap wine upon the market at prices which would bring it within the reach of all. For the long profit and the slow sale is not as good business as the small profit and the great sale, and $3 and $4 per dozen quarts appeals to the whole people, whereas $8 for a wine not one whit better—if as good—could only appeal to a section of the people. Wine upon the poor man's table; good wholesome wine, which will do him and his family good, at a little over the price of poor beer. The famous Medoc Wines. Selling enormously all over Canada. Address—Bordeaux Claret Co., 30 Hospital street, Montreal.

At Waller & Co's.

15 bars Soap, 25 cts.

No Sliding Scale.

We say frankly that we do not attempt to push prices so low for Oak Hall Clothing that quality must be sacrificed. We are anxious that Oak Hall Clothing should be reliable, rather than cheap. No sliding scale of prices at Oak Hall. No "cutting," except the stylish cuts our tailors give them.—Oak Hall, Peterborough.

15c a Minute

is what few people are privileged to make. You can do it by buying a pound of Oak-K-oah tea. For the present you can get it for twenty five cents. One thing is sure, a tea that is used every day by a great number of intelligent and prosperous people, and which is admitted to be a good article is cheap at twenty-five cents, and is a safe investment for those who use tea. One dollar will purchase four pounds at our Peterborough store, 370 George street, as at Montreal, Ottawa, Kingston and Toronto

Breaking Records.

The present is the zenith of our business record up to date. Sales at this store are larger now than they ever have been before, except at Holiday time, and it is pleasant to be able to write these facts.

Saturday, 19th October, was our most remarkable record-breaker—when the largest selling in our history was done. Last Saturday was a good second—largely exceeding our sales of the same date last year.

It was'nt by a mere happen-so that these great gatherings of ladies got under our roof just at the time that everbody was wanting them. We have been planning for it, and the success of our planning has been phenomenal.

All advertising goes for nothing unless believed. Nothing equals the keen judgment of a woman when it is called upon to weigh the relative value of Bargains.

It looks as if we were going to be very busy every day this week. But on Saturday again we have something in store for the ladies that will likely break another record.

River and Lake Notes.

Ducks are being slaughtered by the thousands in and about Rice Lake, in fact, it is getting dangerous and parties in ambush in the weeds have at times to bow their heads in their canoes less they receive the contents of a shell in the head, weeds being so tall that the hunters cannot see one another unless they stand up in their canoes. Bang! bang! bang! is the order of the day from daybreak until sundown. The fishing seasons is at a standstill, and the anglers have laid aside their fishing tackle for this year.

ST. JOHN'S Y. P. A.

Elect Their Officers for the Ensuing Year and Transact Other Business.

A very enthusiastic meeting of St. John's Young People's Association was held last night, Rev. E. V. Stephenson presiding. The regular order of business was taken up. The report of the nominating committee was received and the following officers were declared elected:

Hon. President—Rev. J. C. Davidson.
Hon. Vice-Pres.—Rev. E. V. Stephenson.
Hon. 2nd Vice-Pres.—Rev Carl Smith.
Pres.—Mr. Geo. S. Ames.
Vice-Pres.—Miss J. C. M. Fawcett.
Treasurer—Miss M. Perry.
Secretary—Mr. W. J. English.

The following were appointed an Executive Committee and authorised to name and strike the standing committees for the term,—Miss K. Henderson, Miss Ames, Miss Baker, Miss M. Rubidge, Mr. H. Clinton, Mr. A. B. Lambe and Rev. E. V. Stephenson.

It was decided also to revise the constitution of the society and a committee composed of Rev. J. C. Davidson, Rev. C. Smith, Rev. E. V. Stephenson, Miss Baker, Miss Perry, Miss Rubidge and Mr. Lambe were appointed to draw up a new constitution.

Considerable discussion took place as to what way the society would dispose of its funds, and after a good deal of debating it was decided that the efforts of the Y.P.A. would be put forward to purchase a new piano for the school room. The concert committee reported that they had made arrangements for holding the concert in the Opera House on November 7th, and that they had engaged the following talent: Madame D'Auria, soprano; Miss Bretta Stott, elocutionist, and Mr. Thos. Carter humourist.

In future the meetings of the association will be weekly instead of fortnightly. The next meeting will be held on the 4th of November.

GEORGE STREET CHURCH SOCIAL.

It Was Held Last Evening Under the Auspices of the Y. P. S. C. E.

A social was held last evening in the George street church under the auspices of the Y. P. S. C. E. and it proved to be a most enjoyable affair indeed.

Rev. W. R. Young presided as chairman and performed his duty in a very satisfactory manner. At the door there was a number of the members of the society who gave out small cards with three topics for discussion upon them, namely:

The weather.
The book I read last.
My favourite pastime.

By means of these cards you could introduce yourself to anyone in the room and great amusement was afforded throughout the evening. The programme was as follows:

Hymn 114	Blest be the tie
Opening remarks	Chairman
Instrumental	Miss Ritchie
Quartette	Misses Bellegham and Messrs Skitch and Brown
Recitation	Miss Mark
Solo	Mr Jas Brown
Cornet solo	Mr Williamson
Instrumental	Miss Sherin and Mr Owens
Musical selection	Mr Roadhouse
Recitation	Miss Pascoe
Solo	Miss Clara Bellegham
Duet	Mies Ackerman and Mr Owens

The ladies then very kindly served coffee and cake which were heartily enjoyed by all.

The New Lung Medicine. What Is It?

Pinemalt was not born of superstition. It is no silly squaw or Indian cure. It has not come to us from the ignorant and superstitious heathen of India or China, nor yet from the savages of dark Africa. Pinemalt was constructed in the full light of modern civilization, education and science. It is simply a scientific combination of the best remedies known to medical science for the treatment of diseases affecting the Throat and Lungs. It was constructed with this special view; hence it is in no sense a cure all. It does not pretend to be. Let no one be deceived. But in its chosen field it "excels them all." No remedy breaks up a cold or relieves a cough so quickly as Pinemalt. In lingering cases ask druggist for Pinemalt and Hypophosphites instead of plain Pinemalt.

HOCKEY.

A well attended meeting of the Hockey Club was held at the club rooms last night to receive and consider the report of the executive committee in reference to arrangements for the coming season with the Skating and Curling Rink Company.

In the absence of Mr. President Greenwood, Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, vice-president, occupied the chair and submitted the following report:

"We have made the same arrangements with the Skating and Curling Rink Company as were made last year, respecting the use of the ice by the Hockey Club, the price of this privilege to be the same. As to the division of the gate receipts, we think last year's arrangement fair to both parties, and have decided to accept the same terms. The room used last year as a dressing room will be available this year only for entertainment purposes on such nights as the rink committee may give permission. As for a dressing room, we have made arrangements for the fitting up of a suitable room to the east of the one used last year.

We also urged upon the Rink Club the necessity of making some more satisfactory arrangement respecting the admission of skating ticket holders and outlers to our hockey matches, and we think that our interests would be better safe guarded by the changes to be made.

The report was very carefully discussed and the arrangements made approved of, and the general feeling was one of satisfaction at the friendly manner in which the Skating and Curling Rink Company had met and dealt with the Hockey Club, both on the present occasion and also in the past. After discussion and reference back to the committee of the clause referring to the rights and privileges, in respect of matches, of the members of the several organizations using the rink building, the report was approved of clause by clause, and adopted as a whole, and the executive committee instructed to draw up a contract with the Skating and Curling Rink Company embodying the terms of the report.

Messrs. H. R. H. Kenner and David Rogers were elected representatives to the annual meeting of the Ontario Hockey Association.

The chairman reported that a letter had been received from Rev. V. Clementi, expressive of his interest in the Hockey club, and enclosing his fee and requesting to be made a member.

A cordial vote of thanks was adopted, and the reverend gentleman made a member of the club.

A most cordial vote of thanks was moved especially thanking Mr. D. O. Pease, District G.T.R. Passenger Agent, in recognition of a signal act of courtesy extended the hockey team on the occasion of their visit to Kingston last winter. The motion was adopted in a most enthusiastic manner, the meeting singing with great vim, "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

RUGBY FOOTBALL.

The local team is getting into splendid shape for its fall matches and the Peterborough public will within the next month be treated to some splendid games of football. The first match will be played at the Driving Park here next Saturday, Nov. 22nd, with the crack team from Trinity University, Toronto. The local men are taking a great risk in running up against so strong an aggregation at the start, but as they made such a good showing last year, they are confident of being able to render a good account of themselves, and by the red hot practices which have been held within the last month, the match will without doubt be one which will arouse interest. The home team has not been entirely picked for the season, although it is known that Dave Rogers will play back and that McKenzie, Sam Adams and Le Fevre will guard the half back line, with Lionel King at quarter. As will be seen this is an exceptionally good defence. Rogers, with his University training and constant practice is in grand form and Sam Adams is as sure and steady as ever, McKenzie is a new man from the Electric Works and is very fast, whilst LeFevre is a man who cannot be beaten as a half. Lionel King's qualifications as a quarter back are too well known to need comment, sufficient be it therefore, to say that he is faster than ever and in capital form.

There will be a lot of new blood on the forward line and amongst the wings and the scrimmage and it has not been settled as to which of the many aspirants for a place will be chosen to play. Wilgar, of the Electric Works, is doing some very fast work this season, as is Lambe, Allen, Keogh and Montgomery. Rev. Mr. Stevenson may possibly play in the forward line and Thorne, Jeffreys, Gray, McGachan, Hicks and Roger Davidson are all doing good work and practising hard.

THE LOCK WORKS EXEMPTION QUESTION.

A Possibility of its Being Re-opened.

Mr. Taylor, acting manager of the Bank of Montreal, in answer to a question of a representative of the EXAMINER in reference to the present premises occupied by the Lock Works Company, stated that the Bank of Montreal is prepared to make a substantial reduction in the present rental. Such being the case there seems to be a possibility of the question of exemption being reconsidered.

OFF TO THE HUNTING GROUNDS.

Two Large Parties Go Back for Deer To-morrow.

The hunters have been busily engaged for the last few days in buying provisions and arranging for their annual fall trip to the woods for deer. Everything is now ready and two large parties will leave to-morrow.

Mr. Sam. Ray's party, this year, will be composed of himself and Messrs Thos. Rutherford, Arthur Blade, D. Bellegham, Fred Ferguson, Robert Fife, Geo. Fitzgerald and Bert Brown of Peterborough, and Lannie Steele of Lakefield. They will go to the Gull lake waters for their sport, and will camp at Gold lake, paddling from there to the different hunting grounds in the vicinity. The leave at daybreak in the morning.

The Winch-Morrow party is not quite made up yet, but in all probability the following gentlemen will go into camp: Harry Winch, R. A. Morrow, Geo. Hatton, Harry LeBrun, Arthur Stevenson, Geo. Cochrane, Harry Phelan and W. H. Bradburn of Peterborough; Messrs. Grills, Roly Strickland and Harry Strickland, of Lakefield, and R. M. Roddy, of Millbrook. They do not leave until to-morrow afternoon. Many others will doubtless follow before the end of the week.

PERSONAL.

Mr. W. J. Sherwood, of Peterborough, was in Lindsay yesterday.

Mr. Seymons J. Doane, of Queensville, Ont., entered the Peterborough Business College to-day.

Mr. Orville Shortly returned yesterday from a most pleasant visit in Montreal and the Province of Quebec.

Mr. W. L. Hamilton, of Belleville, Inland Revenue Inspector, is in town for a few days, inspecting the work done by the local office during the past year.

Mr. Wattam, of Oak Hall, went to London to day to bring his family to Peterborough, and thus make another substantial addition to the householders of Peterborough. Mr. Wattam has taken a residence in Inverlea Park.

A Millbrook correspondent says: The familiar face of our former and highly esteemed pastor here, Rev. W. R. Young, B.A., of Peterborough, was seen by many of the friends at the entertainment and fowl supper held at Carmel last Friday night.

The Rev. J. L. Gilmour occupied his pulpit in the Baptist church, Brockville, Sunday, for the first time since his recent marriage. He was gladly welcomed back by his devoted congregation. Last night the congregation tendered him and his bride an elaborate reception.

The Port Hope Times says: Mr. J. G. Elliot, who for the past eight months has been employed on the Times staff, left Monday morning for Peterborough, where he has secured a similar situation. Jim is a good steady hand and we regret his departure from our office. He has many frends in town who will miss him very much.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Shaw (of the Newcombe Piano Company) leave for Belleville to attend a birthday dinner at Rev. Dr. Gardiner's, in honour of Miss Gardner, B. A., Lady Principal of Albert College. The guests, besides Mrs. Shaw, will include her brother, Mr. H. F. Gardiner, editor of the Hamilton "Times."

Mr. Jas. Hendry, who for a number of years filled the responsible position of designer for the Auburn Woollen Mills Company, has been re-engaged after filling a similar position in large mills in the United States during the past four years. Mr. Hendry will remove his family to Peterborough in a short time. His many old friends will welcome him back to town again.

Look out for colds at this season. Keep yourself well and strong by taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great tonic and blood purifier.

Lamps.

China Hall is running off a job lot of Vase Lamps, worth from $2.50 to $5.00, for $1.50 all round. Don't miss this bargain.

Piano Tuner.

Mr. George Gumpricht, as a first class piano tuner, is highly recommended by Messrs. Heintzman & Co., and all leading piano dealers. Orders may be left at Mr. H. S. Macdonald's drug store.

Stoned a Constable.

Information has been lodged with County Magistrate Edmison by Constable Scriver, of Norwood, against Frank and James Radden, of that village, charging them with assaulting him with stones when driving cattle to the pound. The case will probably come up on Friday.

Ivorine for the Teeth.

Ivorine is a dentrifice as delightful and fragrant as it is cleansing. It strengthens the gums, whitens and polishes the teeth, and imparts a fragrant sweetness to the breath. Ivorine never injures the teeth, and has received the highest commendations from profession and public. Druggists have it, 25 cents per bottle.

Apples Destroyed.

Farmers coming to town state that thousands of dollars of damage have been done to the apple crop in this district, remaining on the trees, by the severe early frost of a week ago Sunday night. The frost this year has been earlier than for many years and apples have other years remained on the trees up to Hallowe'en. Considerable litigation is likely to arise over the contracts in which buyers have purchased the crop to be plucked by the latter. In connection with this it may be of interest to refer to the market for Canadian apples in England. A despatch dated London, Oct. 25th, says,—At Liverpool, to-day, 2,771 barrels of apples brought by the steamers "Cephalonia," "Mongolian" and "Vancouver" were sold at auction. Canadian Baldwins brought 15s to 17s; Greenings, 12s to 15s; Kings, 19s to 25s and Boston Baldwins, 15s to 16s. In London 880 cases of California pears were sold. Winter Nelis brought from 9s to 12s; Eastern Beurres, 12s to 15s; Duchesse, 18s; Glout Morceaux, 21, and Beurre Clairjeau, 13s.

Strange, but True

The child that cannot digest milk can digest Cod-liver Oil as it is prepared in Scott's Emulsion. Careful scientific tests have proven it to be more easily digested than milk, butter, or any other fat. That is the reason why puny, sickly children, and thin, emaciated and anæmic persons grow fleshy so rapidly on Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites when their ordinary food does not nourish them.

ENGLISH CONSERVATIVE FEELING.

A Significant Expression of Opinion From George G. Foster.

Montreal, Oct. 28.—Mr. George G. Foster, having returned yesterday from the Eastern townships, was seen by The World correspondent regarding the political situation in English-speaking Quebec. Mr. Foster is, perhaps the most active English-speaking politician in this province. He was for years president of the Brome County and Eastern Townships' Liberal-Conservative Association, has been looked upon as Hon. Mr. Ives' right-hand man, and being for the last ten years an enthusiastic supporter of the Government, his opinion on the resignation of Mr. White can be taken as a faithful expression of public opinion in the county.

"How do they regard matters in the townships?" asked the correspondent.

"I find the feeling stronger even than I had anticipated regarding the treatment which Mr. White has received at the hands of the Government."

"Will it affect Mr. Baker's election in Missisquoi?"

"Certainly it will. I have just come from the county and many of White's friends are determined to show their disapproval of the course which the Government has taken all through in this connection."

"Will they vote against the Solicitor-General?"

"Undoubtedly, and if the Government have the courage to open the county, they will have to put on their skates to carry the constituency, for, although Tory to the backbone, there will be no election by acclamation in Missisquoi."

Continuing, Mr. Foster said: "There is no doubt of the fact that a great deal of discouragement and unrest is felt amongst the workers of the party in Montreal district and the eastern townships on account of the hesitancy of leaders rather than anything else."

"How is that?"

"Well, I will explain. There is a feeling amongst our best men that while they express no desire that Laurier should reach power and are ever faithful to the principles of the Conservative party, they believe that there are men in the present Government who cannot get out any too quickly In a word, they are too heavy for the National Policy or anything else to carry.

"Some of them," added Mr. Foster, "were too infirm to hear the proper echo from Montreal Centre, the other day, but they'll hear one nearer home, if things continue in their present paralyzed state. What, encouragement is there," Mr. Foster asked, "for the younger element in the party, when one sees the way Mr. White has been treated? How can the most enthusiastic supporter justify the fact that the Montreal postoffice inspectorship has been vacant two years except by saying that our leaders lack courage. The chief port of the Dominion has had no collector for three years, and a superior court judgeship allowed to remain unfilled for a year and a half, to the serious injury of litigants and the public generally, simply because the Government has not the courage to fill them."

Mr. Foster having paused, the correspondent asked, "Is that all?"

"Not by any means," was the indignant reply. "A faithful supporter like A. W. Ross has been treated in the same manner. The promises made to the member for Lisgar and his friends have been broken, and no possible consideration allowed for his past services. Sir John Abbott's seat in the Senate has been vacant for three years, and the district unrepresented. In fact many districts are in the same condition. The senatorship for the district of Bedford with only two candidates for the position, either one of whom should have been appointed within two months of the vacancy, has been vacant almost four years, simply because our leaders had not sufficient courage to select either one or the other aspirants, and not sufficient confidence in the fidelity of the friends of the respective candidates."

"What solution have you to offer in the face of the present state of affairs?"

"The question is quite simple. Let the Ministers brace up and make their appointmen s like men. Appoint White to the collectorship without delay. Let them show a little of that courage which in the old days inspired faith and devotion in the ranks of the party, and by so doing remove from the minds of our friends the idea that prevails to-day, viz., that some of them are riding for a fall, and are quite careless of the consequence to others in the field."

"Does your experience of late justify the belief that the party is weak in the country?"

"Not by any means," was Mr. Foster's quick reply. "The Conservative party in Canada is numerically as strong as ever it was, and with proper generalship it can emerge from an appeal to the people quite as triumphantly as in the past. Should it, however, be overtaken by disaster it will be due entirely, in my opinion, to the supineness and want of action on the part of the Government."

ARRESTED FOR PERJURY,

A Well Known Toronto Man Placed in an Unpleasant Position

Hamilton, Oct. 28.—P. C. Allan, who formerly kept a book and stationery store in King-street west, Toronto, is awaiting trial for perjury, but is out on $10,000 bail. The trouble arose out of the A. J. Ralston forgery case. Last Thursday Ralston was charged with forging the name of Allan, his father-in-law, to a promissory note for $2200, payable to himself, which he discounted at the Bank of Montreal here on July 3 last. When the note fell due, Allan having refused to acknowledge it, it was protested and judgment was given the bank against Allan. When being examined by his solicitors in Toronto Allan stated under oath that he had not signed the note and that he had not given Ralston any blank notes since 1892. A. D. Braithwaite, accordingly swore out a warrant against the son-in-law for forgery.

The case came up at the Police Court this morning, and P. C. and Mrs. Allan were present. The promissory note in question Allan swore was genuine, and he also admitted having given Ralston blank notes, stating that his statements made under examination in Toronto were false, and were made owing to his bad memory. Under cross-examination, he said his memory was affected by illness and by heavy losses he had sustained in Toronto and in Bermuda.

Judge Jelfs ordered that Allan be charged with perjury, notwithstanding the objections of J. V. Teetzel, Q.C., who appeared for Ralston, and County Crown Attorney Crerar, who prosecuted. Mr. Teetzel declined to elect and waived preliminary examination, but the judge remanded prisoner till Friday, allowing him out on $10,000 bail. He allowed Ralston out on his own recognizance, without dismissing the case.

A NEW CLUB.

Name Suggested for a New Social Organization in London.

LONDON, (Special) Oct. 28.—It has been facetiously suggested that a new social club in process of organization in this city should be entitled "The Dodd's Kidney Pill Club" as the present members are all enthusiastic advocates of that remedy and in common with many other citizens declare that in all cases of kidney trouble no other agent has been found so completely effective. Most Londoners have at their fingers' ends the particulars of the many marvellous cures through the use of this specific. In every drug store in the city the medicine is kept in large quantities and warmly recommended.

Good Poultry and Its Care.

The farmers of the whole country are awake to the fact that there is profit in the production of poultry and eggs. The full-blooded fowl is taking the place of the inbred mongrel, and there is no stock on the farm that can give greater satisfaction or quicker returns. Every farmer should build a good hen house and no more allow his hens to roam at large than his horses and cows. They will respond as quickly to warmth and feed. Never allow anything to frighten them. Their house being their home they will go to it and you can always control them.

Have a park. Hens will lay just as well when parked provided they have proper feed, grit, etc., and you do not lose the eggs or need to feel uncertain as to their quality. There is pleasure and profit in breeding all pure stock, but if I were starting anew, I would commence with the Rose Comb Brown Leghorn. They are light feeders, busy and happy, and you can be sure of a good profit in eggs, while the flesh is sweet and fine. They are not subject to disease of any kind and are very handsome.

Peasant Credulity.

Belief in the advice given by fortune tellers is evidently still deeply rooted in many parts of France, and an excellent example has just come to the attention of M. Archer, the Police Commissary of the faubourg Montmarte quarter of Paris. He was visited by two women, one a rich property owned of Sarthe; the other a tenant of one of her farms, who lives at Marolles. The latter explained, amid the laughter of her landlady, that, an illness having spread among her husband's flock of sheep, they decided to consult a fortune teller, Mme. Thibault, living in the Rue Bergere, in Paris, with the object of discovering a remedy. They did so, and the woman ordered that sulphate of magnesia was to be given to the animals, after which they were to be made to drink two glasses of water. As her husband was also ill, the country woman profited by the occasion to also consult the fortune teller on the case. She advised a change of medicine every week, at the same time taking great care to always carry in his pocket a piece of charcoal.

Notwithstanding these prescriptions, however, the sheep died and the husband became worse, whereupon she paid another visit to the Rue Bergere, but only to find that the fortune teller—to whom she had paid 480 francs—would have nothing to do with her.

CONSUMPTION

WORLD OF SPORTS !

Morris Park, Oct. 26.—Seven bookmakers were arrested to-day. They were charged with having books and pharaphernalia for the recording of bets on horses in their possession, in violation of the penal code. The prisoners were held each in $1000 bail for examination Tuesday. They all furnished bail. Charles R. Grannan, better known as Riley Grannan, the plunger, was arrested at the track. A policeman saw him recording a bet. Grannan was taken before Inspector McCallagh, to whom he explained that he simply made a memorandum of a bet he had made and was not bookmaking. The Inspector then discharged him.

Though fair weather, an excellent card and fast track were the conditions which presented themselves, the attendance was considerably below the average, due, undoubtedly, to the expected raid of the police. The features to-day were the races for the Essex and Jerome stakes. The former event resulted in a hollow victory for Wishard, at 6 to 1; the second, the Jerome stakes being an easy victory for the odds-on favorite, Counter Tenor, who won by a length from Brandywine. Summaries :

First race, 5-8 mile—Au Revoir, 115, Perkins, 6 to 1, 1; Sweet Favordale, 115, Simms, 12 to 1, 2; Cassette, 110, Griffin, 8 to 5, 3. Time 1.00 1-2. Medica, Glenola, Fascination III., Nil Desperandum and Maxim also ran.

Second race, 1 1-16 miles—Buckrene, 97, Hewitt, 3 to 1, 1; Sir Francis, 94, Nostran 1.6 to 1, 2; Adelbert, 109, Simms, 12 to 1, 3. Time 1.47 1-2. Discount, Captain T. also ran.

Third race, the Essex stakes, 6 furlongs—Wishard, 102 Reiff, 6 to 1, 1; Refugee, 105, Griffin, 5 to 1, 2; Carib, 109, Simms, 8 to 5, 3. Time 1.13. Right Royal, Alarum, Yankee Doodle also ran.

Fourth race, the Jerome stakes. 1 mile and a furlong—Counter Tenor, 121, Simms, 4 to 5, 1; Brandywine, 106, Griffin, 6 to 1, 2; Maurice, 98, Keefe, 16 to 1, 3. Time 1.54. Bombazette, Hessie, Emma C. Doggett also ran.

Fifth race, 1 mile and a furlong—Prince Lief, 89, O'Leary, 3 to 1, 1; Lucania, 104, Griffin, 7 to 10, 2; Bathampton, 106, Littlefield, 3 to 1, 3. Time 1.53 1-2. Merry Prince also ran.

Sixth race, 6 furlongs—Manchester, 109, Simms, 6 to 1, 1; Waltzer, 112, Griffin, 10 to 4, 2; The Swain, 106, Littlefield, 6 to 1, 3. Time 1.14 1-2. Halton, Sirocco, Merry Duke, Salver, Cuckoo and Pitfall also ran.

Chicago results : Gracie C., 20 to 1, and Cunarder, 50 to 1, were the surprises at Forsyth Park, the former winning after a dead heat with Ajax.

First race, 5 furlongs—Gracie C. and Ajax, dead heat; Meteor 3. Time 1.08. Run off : Gracie C. 1, Ajax 2. Time 1.09.

Second race, 6 furlongs—Cunarder 1, Laveren 2, Cossack 3. Time 1.23 1-4.

Third race, 5 furlongs—Souvenir 1, Thurman 2, Proverb 3. Time 1.08.

Fourth race, 4 1-2 furlongs—Eagle Bird 1, Estell F. 2, Baldeer 3. Time 1.23.

Fifth race, 9 furlongs, hurdle—Col. Weightman 1, Tom Johnston 2, Hercules 3. Time 2.15 3-4.

Alexander Island results: First race, 6 1-2 furlongs—Frank Fuller, 6 to 5, 1; Blizard, 2 to 1, 2; Bella G., 3. Time 1.25.

Second race, 5 furlongs—Miss Elizabeth, 3 to 5, 1; Bob, 2 to 1, 2; May Pinkerton, 3. Time 1.05 1-2.

Third race, 6 1-4 furlongs—Samaritan, 10 to 5, 1; Mohawk, 8 to 5, 2; Quill, 3. Time 1.21.

Fourth race, 1 mile—Galatin, 1 to 2, 1; O'Hearn, 3 to 1, 2; Eddie M., 3. Time 1.45 1-2.

Fifth race, 1-2 mile—Eclipse, 5 to 1, 1; Austin, 2 to 5, 2; Perfidy, 3. Time 48 3-4.

Sixth race, 6 1-4 furlongs—Grand Prix, 2 to 5, 1; Marguerite, even, 2; Traitor, 3. Time 1.21.

Latonia results : First race, 6 furlongs—Garland Bar 1, Zufalig 2, St. Shiveller 3. Time 1.16 3-4.

Second race, 1 1-8 miles—Favette Belle 1, Greenwich 2, Birmingham 3. Time 1.58 3-4.

Third race, 6 furlongs—Lindolette 1, Longbrook 2, Uno 3. Time 1.15 1-4.

Fourth race, 1 mile—Captive 1, Judge Denny 2, Tancred 3. Time 1.43.

Fifth race, 5 1-2 furlongs—Mattie Lee 1, Lufra 2, Evanesca 3. Time 1.09 1-2.

Sixth race, 6 furlongs—Sir Dilke 1, Pete 2, Landseer 3. Time 1.15 3-4.

The Brooklyn Chess Club has received a satisfactory cable message from Sir George Newnes in answer to their challenge, and the international match between England and America, eight a side, will take place in January next.

FRENCH MINISTRY DEFEATED.

Ribot Cabinet Overthrown Over the Southern Railway Scandals.

Paris, Oct. 29.—The Ribot Ministry has been overthrown by an adverse vote on M. Rouanet's interpellation in the Chamber of Deputies, condemning the Government's course in regard to the Southern Railway scandals.

Who does not know women and young girls, who are continually in tears? Who always see the dark side? Who have frequent fits of melancholy without any apparent cause? The intelligent physician will know that it is some derangement of the complicated and delicate feminine organs. The young girl suffers, bodily and mentally, in silence. There is undue weariness, unexpected pain, unreasonable tears and fits of temper. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription exerts a wonderful power over woman's delibate organism. It is an invigorating tonic and is specific for the peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and painful derangements of woman. Careless, easy-going doctors frequently treat their women patients for biliousness, nervousness, dyspepsia, liver or kidney troubles, when the real sickness is in the organs distinctly feminine, and no help can come till they are made perfectly strong by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

CANDY FOR CHILDREN.

The Popular Health Magazine says the desire in a child for candy and sweets is a natural one and should not be stifled. Good candy and sweets in moderation, not only do no harm, but are actually beneficial. Too much sweet upsets the stomach and spoils the appetite, but candy in moderation if it is not taken before a meal, is food which children crave naturally, and among the purest and most wholesome is that manufactured by

THE SECRET OUT

THE secret is out. The Government Insurance Blue Books have revealed it. The facts of the case will prove of real value to all those seeking a company where permanent satisfaction can be secured under a Policy of Life Insurance. The telescope has been turned upon those who withdrew from nine prominent companies in 1894.

It is obvious to any one that the proportion of persons who lapse or surrender their policies in any company is a fairly good test of the satisfaction or dissatisfaction existing therein. If policy-holders are receiving satisfactory profit results, if they are being honestly and honourably dealt with, if they cannot do better elsewhere, then it is plain these facts will show themselves in the small number who surrender their policies or allow them to lapse.

To test these conditions, and to discover the company that is giving greatest satisfaction to its policy-holders, as evidenced by their determination to continue their policies, we have made an analysis of the facts, as reported in the blue books containing the business for 1894 of the leading Canadian Companies. We have calculated the ratio per cent. of assurances surrendered to the average business in force in 1894 also the ratio per cent. of assurance lapsed to the average business in force. Intending assurers have here an inside view of Life Assurance that is full of significance. When a company stands out so prominently as does the CAANDA LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY in this test, it means that its merits are known and recognized by those who become connected with it.

This is but another of those numerous tests in which the CANADA LIFE shows its superiority.

The following table tells the whole story :—

COMPANY.	Per Cent. Surrendered.	Per Cent. Lapsed.	Per Cent. Lapsed and Surrendered.
CANADA LIFE	.70	2.10	2.80
Confederation Life	2.33	4.65	6.98
North American	1.73	6.97	8.70
Ontario Mutual	2.51	6.59	9.10
Sun Life	2.63	8.54	11.17

The above figures are compiled from the Dominion Insurance report, issued by the Superintendent of Insurance, at Ottawa.

Once more, and as usual, the CANADA LIFE COMPANY comes out on top.

COMPARE

The following two Peterborough results with anything else of the kind in existence in the town. Other companies promise, we perform. That is the great difference.

W. H's Life Policy for $10,000, issued April, 1889, Age 28, Annual Premium $177.

Total Cost for 6 years.....1,062 Dollars
Profits Added to Policy.....1,250 Dollars

Nearly 200 Dollars more than Insurance Cost.

A. E's Life Policy for $5,000, issued April, 1886, Age 22, Annual Premium $86.

Total Cost for 9 years.....774 Dollars
Profits Added to Policy.....1,000 Dollars

More than 200 Dollars over Cost of Insurance.

A LAWSUIT OVER KINMOUNT BRIDGE.

SOMERVILLE TOWNSHIP BRINGS AN ACTION.

The Counties of Peterborough and Victoria are Named as the Defendants and the Township Will try to Force Them to Maintain the Bridge.

Some time ago the township of Somerville brought an action against the counties of Victoria and Peterborough claiming that the counties were bound jointly to build the Kinmount bridge, which is situated entirely in the township of Somerville.

Although the Kinmount bridge is within the township entirely, the township claims that it is built over the Burnt River, which crosses a road which is used in substitution for the original allowance for road between the two counties and they claim that the law as it now stands casts the duty upon the adjoining counties of maintaining it to the same extent as if it were a bridge across a river forming the the boundary between two counties.

The legal documents which have been filed in the case are appended and will prove most interesting:

STATEMENT OF CLAIM.

1. The defendant counties adjoin each other, the County of Victoria lying west of the County of Peterborough.

2. The plaintiff's township is situated in the north-easterly angle of the County of Victoria, and the Township of Galway is situate in the north-westerly angle of the County of Peterborough—the boundary line between the said counties being also the boundary line between the said townships and the northerly boundary lines of the said counties running east and west being also the northerly boundary line of the said townships.

3. The boundary line or original allowance for road between the said counties was opened up from the south towards the north about thirty-five years ago, but owing to rocky ridges and submerged lands upon the said boundary lines from what is now the Village of Kinmount, to the northerly boundary of the said townships it was impracticable (and is still impracticable) to continue the road upon the said boundary in the intervening space aforesaid, and the said road was therefore made on a deviation into the plaintiff's township in lieu of the said boundary allowance for road, so as to avoid the said rocky ridges and submerged lands and in the construction of the said deviation road a bridge known as the Kinmount Bridge was built over Burnt River, which there crosses the said road, the waters of which river also form some of the said obstacles upon the portion of the said boundry line so deviated from as aforesaid.

4. The said deviation is about a mile in length, commencing at a point in said boundary line a short distance south of Kinmount and running northerly as close to and as nearly parallel with the said boundary line as the said obstructions admit of, having regard to securing a proper site for a road and then diverging easterly and terminating in the said northern boundary or allowance for road which connects with the said boundary line, deviated from at a point in the north-westerly angle of the County of Peterborough and north-easterly angle of the County of Victoria.

5. The said bridge has become delapidated and the defendants, although frequently requested by the plaintiffs to put the same in proper repair and maintain the same as a County Boundary Bridge, dispute their liability therefor and the plaintiffs bring this action under the the provisions of section 534 (a) of "The Consolidated Municipal Act, 1892," to try the said dispute and for such order as may be proper in respect thereto.

6. In consequence of the defendants' neglect to repair the said bridge it recently collapsed and the plaintiffs closed up the approaches to it to prevent loss of life and property from attempts to pass over it and secured the temporary use of another bridge on private property, some distance away across the said river, for the use of the public and expended considerable money in doing so and in repairing the said bridge at different times heretofore to make it safe for the public use, and they claim reimbursements therefor from the defendants.

The plaintiffs therefore pray:—

1. That it may be declared that it is the duty of the defendants to maintain the said bridge and to take the necessary steps to adjust the expense thereof.

2. That they may be ordered to pay to the plaintiffs the amount of their said expenditure in respect to the said bridge and their costs of this action.

3. And that such further or other order may be made as to the Court may be proper in the premises.

The plaintiffs propose that this action should be tried at Lindsay.

Delivered this 12th day of October, 1895, by McSweyn & Anderson of the Town of Lindsay, in the County of Victoria, Solicitors for the plaintiffs.

STATEMENT OF DEFENCE OF THE DEFENDANTS.

The corporation of the County of Peterborough.

1. The defendants, the Corporation of the County of Peterborough, admit paragraph 1 of the plaintiff's statement of claim.

2. The Township of Galway, in the County of Peterborough, and the Township of Somerville, in the County of Victoria, adjoin each other.

3. The Township of Snowdon in the provisional County of Haliburton lies immediately to the north of the said Township of Galway.

4. The Township of Lutterworth in the said provisional County of Haliburton lies immediately to the north of the said Township of Somerville.

5. The bridge known as the Kinmount bridge referred to in paragraph 3 of the plaintiff's statement of claim, is wholly situate in the said Township of Somerville in the County of Victoria and spans the Burnt River hereinafter referred to. Said Burnt River also referred to in paragraph 3 of the plaintiffs' statement of claim, flows in south westerly direction through the said Provisional County of Haliburton across the southern boundary thereof, and into the said Township of Somerville.

7. The defendants, the Corporation of the County of Peterborough, further say, that if it should be found that, that the said Burnt River extends into the Township of Galway it does so by reason of the erection of a dam across the said Burnt River at Kinmount aforesaid whereby the waters of the said river are backed up beyond their natural boundaries.

8. And as to the 3rd paragraph of the plaintiff's statement of claim the Corporation of the County of Peterborough deny that the said road is used in lieu of the said boundary line or original allowance for road, but say that the said road mentioned in the 3rd paragraph aforesaid is known as the Bobcaygeon road, and that the same was opened up by the Government as a colonization road along the boundary line between the said Townships of Galway and Somerville until Lot 42, Concession A of the said Township of Galway was reached when for the convenience of the settlers in the said Township of Somerville and in the country north thereof, the said road was continued entirely within the said Township of Somerville in a northerly direction and into the said Provisional County of Haliburton, and upon this road and wholly within the said Township of Somerville, the said bridge was built by the Government as a part of the said Colonization Road.

9. Said defendants, the Corporation of the County of Peterborough, further say, that after the said last mentioned road diverges from and leaves the County of Peterborough at or about said Lot 42, it never returns into the County of Peterborough.

10. And that a certain road known as the Monck road was many years ago opened by the Government as a colonization road from said Lot 42 through the said Township of Galway, in a northerly direction, and that the said Monck Road is used by the residents of the said Township of Galway and the public in lieu of the allowance for road between the said Townships of Galway and Somerville.

11. Said defendants, the corporation of the County of Peterborough, further say that the alleged deviation road referred to in paragraphs 3 and 4 of plaintiffs' statement of claim has never been regarded as, and, as a fact, is not, a deviation of the original allowance for road between the adjoining municipalities of Galway and Somerville over which, as a part of such road, such adjoining municipalities would have joint jurisdiction under section 538 of the Municipal Act, and therefore submit that it cannot be regarded as a boundary line road or a deviation thereof under sub-section 3 of section 535 of said Act, so as to cast upon the Councils of the Counties of Victoria and Peterborough the duty of maintaining a bridge over a river crossing such road, but the duty of maintaining such road rests entirely upon the Township of Somerville.

12. The defendants, the Corporation of the County of Peterborough, further submit that should it appear that they are liable to contribute anything towards the rebuilding and maintenance of said Kinmount Bridge it will also appear that the said Burnt River crosses the said southern boundary of the said Provisional County of Haliburton in such a manner as to make the latter county liable as a contributory thereto.

Filed and delivered this 10th day of October, 1895, by Stratton & Hall, of the Town of Peterborough, in the County of Peterborough, Solicitors for the defendants, the Corporation of the County of Peterborough.

REPLICATION OF THE STATEMENT OF DEFENCE OF THE COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH.

1. The plaintiffs admit the allegations contained in the 2nd, 3rd and 4th paragraphs of the said defendants' statements of defence.

2. In answer to all the other allegations of fact contained in the said statement of defence, the plaintiffs say that on the 31st day of January, 1893, the defendants, the County of Peterborough, issued their writ and prosecuted their action against their co-defendants, the County of Victoria, in this Honorable Court, to restrain the latter county from proceeding with an arbitration under the statute to compel the said County of Peterborough to contribute with their co-defendants towards the re-building and maintaining of the said Kinmount Bridge, and the said action proceeded by regular pleading wherein the said defendants, the County of Victoria, alleged as material to their contention, the facts now set out in substance in paragraphs three and four of the defendants' statement of claim herein, and the defendants, the County of Peterborough, traversed the said allegations, and set up as material to their contention the facts now set out in their statement of defence herein, and issue was taken upon the said allegations of fact by and between the said defendants respectively in the said action, and the same came on for trial at Peterborough, on the 23rd day of March, 1893, before his Lordship the late Sir Adam Wilson, then one of the Chief Justices of this Honourable Court, assigned to try the said issues, and thereupon witnesses were examined and evidence taken (by one of the official stenographers of the county), as well as on behalf of the said County of Peterborough, as on behalf of the said County of Victoria upon the said issues; and judgments being then reserved was afterwards delivered at Toronto by His Lordship, the said Justice, on the 26th day of May, 1893, and filed, and thereupon His Lordship, the said Chief Justice, also endorsed upon the record had before him in the said action his certificate of his findings upon facts so put in issue as aforesaid, and which said certificate is in the words and figures following, that is to say:

"I find that an original allowance for road was made for the division line between the Counties of Peterborough and Victoria. That the boundary line between the counties was opened as far as it was practicable to do so many years ago, but I find that the part of it now in question from below the Village of Kinmount, in Victoria, up to lot 45 in concession "A" of the Township of Galway in Peterborough, has never been opened in consequence of ridges of rock upon and along the road allowance, and in consequence also of a considerable body of water in Galway and extending as far as the Burnt River. I find that the road that has been opened up and travelled for many years has been opened and used in substitution of the proper allowance, and that such substituted road consists in part of the Kinmount bridge, which bridge is wholly within the limits of Victoria.

I find that under the negative provision of the Statute the County of Peterborough is not bound to maintain the Kinmount Bridge, because it is not between two municipalities in the same county, nor between two counties, and the County Council has not assumed it (if it could assume a work outside of its limits) and bridges are expressly excluded from the enactment of the Statute. Upon these findings and for the reasons which are more fully set out in my judgment, I direct judgment to be entered for the plaintiffs and that the injunction prayed for be granted, but, under the circumstances, without costs, and I give judgement for the plaintiffs."

(Sgd.) ADAM WILSON, C.J., C.P.D.

Dated, 26th May, 1893.

And the said adjudication was never moved against nor dissented from by the defendants or either of them, and this action is brought under the Statute referred to in the said certificate, as the said Statute is now amended and the said roads, bridge and local conditions are now the same as when the said facts were so put in issue, and so adjudicated upon in the said former action.

And the plaintiffs say that the said defendants ought not to be admitted now to say (as in effect they do say): that the said Bobcaygeon Road is a Colonization Road of such a character as to be excluded from the provisions of the Statute respecting roads upon county boundaries, and bridges thereon; nor that the said Monck Road and not the said deviation road, is the road used by the public in lieu of the allowance for road upon the boundary line between the said townships of Somerville and Galway; nor that the said deviating road upon which the said Kinmount Bridge is built over Burnt River, is not the road which was opened up and used in lieu of the corresponding portion of the said boundary line from said lot 42, northward: nor that the said deviation was made because of a dam across Burnt river, or otherwise than in consequence of the natural obstructions mentioned in the third paragraph of the plaintiff's statement of claim:

And the plaintiffs crave leave to refer to and to give in evidence—the said record, certificate and the judgment referred to in the said certificate when the same shall have been produced upon the trial of this action.

Delivered this 25th day of October, A.D., 1895, by Messrs. McSweyn & Anderson, of the town of Lindsay, in the County of Victoria, Solicitors for the plaintiffs.

ROME AND HER POPES.

Their Relations to the Permanency of the City.

Apropos of Bishop O'Connor's visit to the Holy City, a correspondent writes:—"Bishop O'Connor is now on the ocean on his way to the City of the Popes. A clever writer in one of our leading reviews speaks thus of that city: 'But for the intervention of the Popes, Rome at this moment would be numbered with Nineveh and Sidon. Foxes would bark upon the Aventine, as when Belisarius rode through the Forum, and shepherds fold their flocks upon the hill where St. Peter's and St. John Lateran's now dazzle the eye with splendour.'"

WORD FROM KOOTENAY.

Good Mining Prospects for the Year and Increased Facilities to Miners.

NELSON (Special), Oct. 21.—The mining prospects for next year in this locality are excellent, and a large influx of prospectors is expected. Miners and others coming in have been in the habit of bringing with them large quantities of Dodd's Kidney Pills, a remedy which they all swear by, and whose virtues they have extolled to such an extent, that the druggists throughout the section have become alive to the necessity of laying in large supplies to meet the greatly increasing demand. The remedy is generally regarded as an indispensable part of a miner's outfit, both for its portability and a value in preserving health which cannot be overestimated.

THE LAST VOYAGE THE C.P.R. STEAMSHIP

"Empress of India"

Made across the Pacific ocean brought us a consignment of 75 bales Japanese Rugs and Squares, in the Osaka quality, direct from the manufacturers, and which we have just opened and placed on exhibition.

They come in all sizes from a small Door Mat to the large Crumb Cloth size, and the beautiful designs are characteristic of the Japanese artist.

DIMENSIONS.

1½ ft. x 2 ft.	2 ft. x 4 ft.
2½ ft. x 5 ft.	3 ft. x 6 ft.
6 ft. x 6 ft.	8 ft. x 8 ft.
8 ft. x 10 ft.	10 ft. x 12 ft.

Purchasing these goods as we did when the rate of exchange between the two countries was so favourable to us, we are thereby enabled to offer these beautiful Rugs and Squares 25 per cent. lower than they are usually sold for. They are specially adapted for Halls, Vestibules, Hearth Rugs and Polished Floors.

In this shipment we received some new and beautiful Silk Fabrics, in plain and Crepe Silks, suitable for evening wear.

MANTLES AND MILLINERY.

Our Mantles and Capes have no Peers! Why? Because we show only the very best fitting and the very best made Jackets, and the handsomest Capes ever brought to Peterborough.

As I Predicted

My Heavy-weight Blankets are having a rapid sale. The last two weeks has made a big hole in the stock. But that need'nt deter the Ladies from coming after more; for, although, the price of wool has gone up we can repeat orders at the same old price. Our Blankets live up to the label promise, in size, weight and price.

When we sell our best Blankets for $3.29, $3.76, $4.23, $4.70, it means a very considerable saving on the price you have to pay anywhere else.

There is a lesson here for the ladies. The extra price you pay elsewhere has to be put on for extra store expenses. If you are not buying Blankets you are buying Dress Goods or something else. The same holds true—money is saved in price here. We run our store with economy; that's why we can sell at smaller profits. Plain, isn't it.

Don't Overlook the Underwear.

We have something that undersells the undermost in Underwear. What do you think of 35c for a price. At 50c we can give you extra value. There's nothing that will please a husband, brother, sister or daughter we have'nt got.

FREE:—All Mantles and Dress Goods bought here, costing 50c per yard and upwards, will be cut and fitted free of charge.

THE HOLMES TRIAL

The Prisoner Retains His Marvelous Nerve.

DESSIE PITEZEL AS A WITNESS.

Holmes Asks the Child No Questions—Evidence of Eugene Smith Who Found Pitezel's Body—Two Doctors Testify That Death Was Caused by Chloroform Poisoning.

Philadelphia, Oct. 29.—The second day of the Holmes trial did not attract nearly so great a crowd as yesterday, as the public had learned they would not be admitted to the court-room.

Precisely at 10 o'clock the jury filed into the box, and a moment later Holmes was escorted in. Despite his long and sleepless night, he looked fresh and bright, and while waiting for the District Attorney to come he chatted with the court officers. In compliance with Holmes' request, the dock was much nearer the bar than yesterday. The change was made that Holmes might better hear the court and be heard. A small deal table with foolscap and pens and ink were in front of him.

The usual preliminary of opening court consumed some time. Holmes busied himself reading a morning paper that contained an almost verbatim report of yesterday's proceedings.

District Attorney Graham announced to the court that Mrs. Howard, as Holmes' latest wife is known, had seen the prisoner this morning before he was brought into court. What took place at this interview is known only to the prisoner and the woman he deceived into marrying him.

Jeanette Pitezel, or, as she was familiarly known in the family, "Dessie," the daughter of the dead Pitezel, was called as the first witness. She is a girl of about 15 or 16 years of age, and seemed perfectly composed as she took the oath.

Then Dessie Pitezel was examined. Her only testimony was the identification of a large crayon portrait of Pitezel as that of her father. Holmes asked her some irrelevant questions about the picture, seemingly more for appearance sake than anything else, and the girl was excused.

Eugene Smith, the man who discovered Pitezel's body, was called. He testified to his acquaintance with Pitezel, whom he knew under the name of Perry. Smith is a carpenter, and he made Pitezel's aquaintance through the latter's pretence of being a dealer in models and patterns at 1316 Callowhill-street.

The witness occasionally refreshed his memory by referring to some notes. Holmes objected to this and the court sustained his objections.

Smith told of several interviews with Pitezel, and of waiting for the latter for some time on the Monday following the day Pitezel is supposed to have been killed. The next morning (Tuesday, Sept. 4,) Smith went to the house again, and not finding Pitezel, and everything being in the same condition as it was the day before, he became suspicious that all was not right, and instituted a search of the house.

Smith recognized Holmes as a man whom he once saw at Pitezel's house on Callowhill-street, but he never knew who he was until they met at the time of the exhumation of the body of Pitezel for the purpose of identification in securing the insurance money. Smith said that Holmes offered $30 at that time to have the corpse cremated.

He also told of the gruesome task of Holmes at the time. When the body was not readily identified by the physicians, Holmes took a scalpel from his pocket and readily showed the marks upon the body. Holmes handled the body as indifferently as the paid physicians, and turned it over and cut a wart from the back of the neck.

District Attorney Graham turned the witness over to Holmes for cross-examination. Holmes as usual prefaced his questionings of the witness with some inconsequential remarks to the court, and then he began his cross-examination of Smith.

Holmes was forced to raise his voice to make the witness hear him, and for the first time since the trial began, he could be distinctly heard.

Smith was allowed to stand aside while a plan of the house was put in evidence. Smith was again recalled and showed upon the plan the place he discovered Pitezel's body.

Holmes asked Smith if any of the doors leading to the room where Pitezel's body was found were closed. Smith answered that he did not know.

Holmes asked Smith many questions and consumed much time without eliciting anything of note from the witness in reference to his visits to the house and the finding of the body.

Then Holmes took a new tack, and asked Smith if he had ever seen Pitezel drunk, or if he thought the dead man had appeared as if he had any trouble on his mind.

The evident purpose of Holmes in asking these questions was to sustain what will undoubtedly be his line of defence, that Pitezel committed suicide while drunk and because he was in many difficulties.

He did not get much support from Smith, as the witness had never seen Pitezel intoxicated or thought him a man who had any great trouble.

Finally Mr. Graham protested against Holmes' line of cross-examination as utterly irrelevant and without bearing on the case.

Holmes protested that he wanted to bring out that he did not exhibit a bloodthirsty haste in taking the scalpel.

Holmes asked to be allowed to use the notes taken by the court stenographer, but Judge Arnold curtly refused, and Holmes, in the meek and deprecating manner that he has displayed since the trial began, replied, "Very well, sir."

After a cross-examination, in which Smith's testimony was not changed by Holmes, the witness was dismissed.

Holmes next asked the court that all the witnesses be excluded from the room while not testifying.

Then Mr. Graham rose, and addressing the court said that as the prisoner was without counsel and friendless and alone, he would be generous enough to ask the court to allow all the Philadelphia witnesses to retire.

Then a long list of names was read out, and a score or so of witnesses filed from the room. Holmes then wanted to know if his "wife," as he designated Miss Yohe, the third woman he married, was present, and would be a witness.

Mr. Graham said she was not present, but declined to say whether she would be a witness.

Dr. William J. Scott, the young physician who was called when the body was found, was the next witness. He testified to what was in the room, and the composed position of the body with the right hand over the breast and the left arm stretched out on the floor by the side.

The post-mortem revealed that death was due to chloroform poisoning.

The proceedings at this morning's session were dull and uninteresting on the surface, but an undercurrent of interest was given them by the appearance of what will probably be Holmes' defence.

The Commonwealth has about 25 witnesses to call, and Holmes proposes to call some.

At the rate of progress made this morning, the trial would consume fully two weeks, but as night sessions are going to be held from now on, and it is likely Holmes will exhaust the patience of the court with his consumption of time, it is probable the case will be expedited.

During the recess Holmes again saw his wife (Miss Yohe).

The court re-convened at 2.30.

Dr. Scott resumed his place in the box, and Holmes began his cross-examination, putting the doctor through a close examination as to the condition of the body and the probable cause of death.

Dr. Scott said that there was about an ounce of chloroform found in Pitezel's stomach. No food was found in the stomach or any alcohol, although there was evidence that Pitezel had been an intemperate man.

The next witness was Dr. William K. Mattern, physician to the coroner.

When Dr. Mattern's name was called, Holmes asked the court that the physician's testimony be postponed until to-morrow, as he was an important witness, and he wanted plenty of time to examine him.

Mr. Graham objected, and styled Holmes' request as by-play, and Dr. Mattern was called to the stand. The cause of death was given by Dr. Mattern as chloroform poisoning. Dr. Mattern described the scene at the exhumation of the body at Potters' Field, and the active part taken in the identification by Holmes.

At the request of Holmes the court directed Dr. Mattern to read the notes he took of the description of the body at the time he held his inquest.

As Dr. Mattern read his notes, Holmes copied them down. Holmes subjected the witness to a long technical examination upon the condition the stomach and brain would be in after chloroform poisoning, and excess in alcoholic liquors.

Dr. Mattern could not say from the condition the body was in if the chloroform in the stomach had been injected hypodermically, or whether it had been forced down the throat.

The next witness was Dr. Henry Leffman, an expert in chemistry. Dr Leffman testified to the effect of chloroform upon the system and said that the administration of the chloroform produced involuntary and violent movements of the body. Dr. Leffman gave it as his opinion that a man could not administer chloroform to himself and then compose himself in a quite attitude to await death.

Mr. Graham asked, "Can you, as an expert, tell me if this chloroform was self-administered or administered after death?"

Holmes objected to this question on the ground that the position of the body had not been properly explained to the witness.

Mr. Graham then again recited the position and Dr. Leffman gave it as his opinion that the chloroform could not have been self-administered under the condition the body was found in. The witness was then turned over to Holmes for cross-examination. Holmes abandoned his cross-examination and announced that he would call Dr. Leffman as his witness later.

Coroner Samuel Ashbridge was the next witness. Ashbridge read the affidavits of Alice Pitezel and Holmes when they identified the body of Pitezel. In his affidavit, Holmes said he last saw Pitezel alive in November, 1893. This concluded the coroner's testimony.

Holmes asked the court if it would not order two sessions a day instead of three, as he was afraid of breaking down under the strain and becoming sick. He said that he was subject to sick headaches and that he had been suffering from one all day. The court said that a session would be held to-night and then Holmes' request would be considered. At 5.20 o'clock the court adjourned until 7 o'clock.

Several other witnesses were called to testify to the identity of Pitezel.

Dr. Della W. Alcorn, who kept the house at 1905 North 11th-street, at which Holmes had rooms with Miss Yohe, under the name of Howell, was then called. Holmes and his wife were at Dr. Alcorn's from Aug. 5 to Sept. 2. When on Sept. 2 Holmes left the house with his wife he told Dr. Alcorn he was going to Harrisburg.

John Grammer saw Alice Pitezel at the house with Holmes on the occasion of his second visit to No. 1905 North 11th-street. Holmes represented Alice as either his sister or his wife's sister, the witness could not remember which.

A crayon portrait of Alice Pitezel had been put in evidence to identify her by, and when this was held up to view for the first time, a look of fear and shrinking came over Holmes' face. He gazed steadily at the portrait a moment, and then with an apparent effort to withdraw his eyes from it and made some remarks about it to the

During Mr. Graham's examination of Dr. Alcorn, Holmes was in evident perturbation of mind, and his relief was evident when Judge Arnold sustained the objection of his counsel.

During the testimony of a subsequent witness Mr. Graham introduced a crayon of Holmes before he had grown a beard, and Mr. Rotan entered a vigorous protest against the proceeding, claiming it was all done simply to influence the jury.

When the Commonwealth had presented all the witnesses for the identification of the body, court adjourned.

HON. J. M. GIBSON

Permitted to Retire With Honorary Rank Major Moore Succeeds.

Ottawa, Oct. 29.—An order in Council has been passed permitting Lieut.-Col., the Hon. J. M. Gibson, to retire from the command of the 13th Battalion of Hamilton. In view of Col. Gibson's long service in the militia, and particularly his lengthy official connection with rifle associations, and the general encouragement he has given to rifle shootig, Col. Gibson has been made Honorary Colonel of the 13th. He will still remain on the active list. In the militia orders to be issued next Saturday, Major A. H. Moore will be gazetted colonel of the 13th.

Hon. Mr. Dickey is consemplating the adoption of a new policy in connection with the militia force, which will be welcome to many offifficers. It is to apply the principle adopted in Col. Gibson's case to all city regiments, and appointing the commanding officers on retirement to be honorary colonels of their respective corps after long service. This is a practice which has long been in vogue in the Imperial army.

Dundas Has a Blaze.

Dundas, Ont., Oct. 29.—About 1 o'clock this morning "Willow Row," a block of eight cottages in the east end, was consumed by fire. Only one house was occupied, and the occupants saved the furniture and contents. The house was occupied by Mr. G. Larner, and all the cottages consumed were owned by Mr. George Burrows. They were insured.

Dropped Dead at Brantford.

Brantford, Oct. 29.—This morning John Vivian complained to his wife of a pain in his side, and without another word fell dead. He was 35 years of age, and was a spring bed manufacturer.

Remedial Order Condemned.

Kincardine, Oct. 29.—At the annual meeting of the West Bruce Reform Association held here, a resolution of confidence in Mr. Laurier was passed, and the action of the Government in issuing the "Remedial Order" was condemned.

Concession to Ships at Antwerp.

Antwerp, Oct. 29.—The Communal Council at a meeting held last evening voted that ships entering the docks here after the beginning of the year 1896 shall pay to the city the sum of 50 centimes, instead of 94 centimes, as heretofore. The council also voted to suppress the practice of imposing an additional charge in cases where the navigation rights of vessels were different.

Bad for Coal Users.

Pittsburg, Oct. 29.—The failure of Sunday's rain to make any change in the state of the waters in the three rivers is a disastrous blow to coal operators. Along the river front it is freely predicted there will be no rise this fall and the 30,000,000 bushels of coal now lying in the harbor cannot be moved until next spring, when the annual freshet will float it out.

Disorder at Western University.

London, Oct. 29.—The freshmen of the Western University resisted an attemp at hustling yesterday, causing a general fight, in which one student had his leg severely sprained. Two policemen had to be called to stop the row.

Dry Sunday in Detroit.

Detoit, Oct. 29.—Judge W. W. Chaplin of the Recorder's Court has struck terror to the saloonkeepers and hotel men by his announced decision that he will hereafter send to jail without the option of a fine any violator of the liquor law who comes before him. As a result, Sunday was a very dry day.

All Run Down.

This is the condition of thousands. Squanderers have they been of sleep, rest and finally of health. The mad pursuit of place, power and pelf leaves them broken in spirit, weak in body, shattered in nerve. In the world, but no longer of it, their days are spent in desire, impotent and purposeless, for they have bankrupted health. Thousands are on the road. They heed not the warning that nature gives.

Sleeplessness, inertia, despondency, and fatigue add their mournful notes to the "still sad music of humanity." Tired! Tired! Tired! You need aid! Your system requires a staff upon which to lean, and your brain rest for increasing vitals! Health and strength are the alternatives from decay and death.

Coca, combined with Maltine, yields that staff. It will give tone to the nervous system, strength to the shattered nerves, sleep to the weary eyes and rest to the tired brain.

HON. MR. LAURIER'S ONTARIO TOUR.

Hon. Mr. Laurier's three weeks tour in Ontario was an unprecedented political progress. It not only represented enthusiastic demonstrations of party loyalty but a popular ovation; for all political creeds and all classes were well represented in the enthusiastic assemblages that gathered to listen to his statesman-like utterances. Of course Hon. Mr. Laurier's magnetic personality and graceful eloquence had an attractive influence, but there is no doubt that the Liberal policy he represents is regarded with marked favour by a very large body of the electorate. One of the strongest evidences of the success of the Liberal leader's tour have been the efforts made by ministerial journals to discredit Mr. Laurier's success in their editorial columns, which were belied by the reports in their news columns of the enthusiasm with which Mr. Laurier was everywhere received. And there was reason for their attitude, for Mr. Laurier had the iron hand in the velvet glove, and many a trenchant blow he struck that made his political enemies shrink with pain. His forceful arraignment of the government, its corrupt methods, and the mischievous effects of its trade policy were telling.

THE Dominion Government does not govern, it is governed—by circumstances and circumstances show a good deal more decision and wisdom than the said Government.

THE Conservative family in the Eastern Townships of Quebec, Hon. Mr. Ives' special political preserves, is in a sad state of contrarious squabble. Mr. Ives' mediation has no soothing effect. This is a strong contrast to the happy unity and harmony that exists in the Liberal ranks. If the Eastern Townships were only an isolated example of want of unity and harmony and esprit du corps in the Government party it would not be so bad, but the entire ranks seemed to be honeycombed with disaffection.

BROKEN IN HEALTH.

THE INTERESTING STORY OF A LADY IN QU'APPELLE, N.W.T.

Suffered With Severe Headaches, Loss of Appetite and Fatigue on Slight Exertion—Insomnia Added Its Terrors to Her Trouble.

The Vidette, Qu'Appelle, N.W.T.

Throughout this broad Dominion there are thousands of women, prematurely old and constant sufferers, either as a result of too constant application to household work, or from troubles incidental to the sex. To those suffering thus, it is gratifying to know that there has at last been found a remedy that will restore them to health and strength, and bring health and happiness where before had been misery and suffering. Many of our readers who know Mrs. Cargo only as an energetic and capable boarding house keeper, may know that about a year and a half ago she was a confirmed sufferer, feeling but little hope of her recovery to health. Although not confined to bed she dragged on a wretched existence from day to day. Added to her other sufferings was that terrible one, known to some in a mild form, but to few as to Mrs. Cargo—insomnia. This with her other troubles, headache, and a feeling of fatigue on slight exertion was rapidly breaking her down. Many medicines were tried, but none reached the seat of the trouble, and Mrs. Cargo felt like giving up in despair. At last, however she was induced to try a medicine that is exciting much favourable comment the world over—Dr. Williams Pink Pills for Pale People. Mrs. Cargo admits that after the numerous disappointments she had experienced she had but little faith left in any medicine, but before taking the Pink Pills long she found her appetite, which had before been very poor, returning, and this gave her the first ray of hope she had had. Her husband began to notice the improvement in her condition, and another supply of Pink Pills was procured, which were carefully and faithfully taken according to directions. The improvement was so marked that she continued the treatment from January until March, at the end of which time she had gained thirty-seven pounds in weight, and was fully restored to health and has had no return of the trouble since.

Mrs. Cargo says she cannot speak in terms too strong in favour of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and would like us to make known to other poor sufferers the benefit she has derived from the use of this great restoring medicine.

An impoverished condition of the blood, or a disordered state of the nerves is the fruitful source of most ills that affect mankind, and to any thus affected, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills offer a most speedy and certain cure. No other remedy has ever met with such great and continued success, which is one of the strongest proofs that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills accomplish all that is claimed for them. They cure locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, sciatica, neuralgia, rheumatism, nervous headache, palpitation of the heart, nervous prostration, diseases depending upon vitiated blood, such as scrofula, chronic erysipelas, etc. They are also a specific for troubles peculiar to females, curing all forms of weakness. In men they effect a radical cure in all cases arising from mental worry, overwork, or excesses of any nature.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold only in boxes bearing the firm's trade mark. They are never sold in bulk, and any dealer who offers substitutes in this form should be avoided. These pills are manufactured by the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., and Schnectady, N.Y., and may be had of all druggists, or direct by mail at either address, at 50 cents or six boxes for $2.50.

FOOD VALUE OF POTATOES.

How to Make use of the Surplus of this Crop—Adapted to all Kinds of Stock.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR.—The farmers having an abundant crop of potatoes this season and the market being consequently low, I thought a hint along the line of their feeding value may be in place at this time, hence, seeing this item in Hoard's Dairyman, I thought you might be pleased to repeat it in your paper and it would thus reach many of the the farmers of this county, as a means of economy in disposing of the potato crop this this season.

Yours truly,
STEWART R. PAYNE,
Warsaw, Ont.

While potatoes are extensively used in many countries for stock food, their value for this purpose is little known and less appreciated by our people, because most years prices have ruled so high that there was more profit in selling than feeding. Bitter as is the disappointment concerning results, the present offers an opportunity for a practical lesson in the feeding value of potatoes, which if rightly practiced will turn impending loss into a fair profit after all.

WHAT EXPERIMENTS SHOW.

Girard, the French investigator, in experiments with steers and sheep, secured the following result:—

Steers fed 110 lbs. beets per day gained 2.09 lbs. per day.
Steers fed 55 lbs. potatoes per day gained 2.88 lbs. per day.
Steers fed 66 lbs. potatoes per day gained 3.52 lbs. per day.
Sheep fed 8.8 lbs. beets per day gained .124 lbs. per day.
Sheep fed 4.4 lbs. potatoes per day gained .239 lbs. per day.
Sheep fed 6.6 lbs. potatoes per day gained .295 lbs. per day.

In the above experiments potatoes were cooked before feeding, a practice not to be generally followed excepting with swine. In all cases hay and straw were fed additional. The figures show that potatoes were worth considerably more than twice their weight of field beets.

Girard concludes: "The potato, when free from rot, and mature, must be regarded as a food of excellent merit for producing meat."

Fjord, the great investigator of feeding stuffs in Denmark, found as the result of many experiments that four pounds of potatoes furnished as much nutriment to animals as one pound of rye or barley.

HOW TO FEED POTATOES.

Although Girard favoured cooking for steers and sheep, general experience goes to show that they can be most economically used by feeding raw to all farm animals excepting hogs and fowls.

For horses, sheep and dairy cows, potatoes should be sliced in a root cutter or chopped in a box with a sharp spade.

Milch cows may be fed with advantage as much as twenty-five pounds of sliced potatoes per day; if a greater weight than this is fed the potatoes will have an unfavourable influence on the quality of the butter produced.

For sheep three or four pounds of potatoes daily to each member of the flock will prove highly advantageous; fattening sheep may be fed as much as eight pounds per day.

Work horses may be fed ten or twelve pounds per day of sliced potatoes; more than this should not be fed because this food is too "softening." Idle horses and breeding stock can get a somewhat larger amount with advantage.

Hogs do not thrive on raw potatoes. The writer has found that in cooking potatoes for hogs only a little water should be placed in the kettle so as to leave the potatoes almost free from water when the cooking is finished; then by withdrawing the fire the potatoes can be mashed in the kettle and meal mixed with them, making a thick mush or pudding. A thick pudding was found to be more acceptable to the hogs than a thin mush or slop.

The farmer with a large stock of potatoes on hand should feed these to his stock as rapidly as they can be judiciously handled in order to conserve the grain. While potatoes may not be worth more than ten cents a bushel for feeding, they may effect a saving of hundreds of bushels of grain, which at some later time may bring a higher price than is now offered. By feeding a part of the potatoes on hand, the remainder may bring better prices, or at least this action will tend in that direction.

Our figures teach that an acre of good potatoes may be worth as much for feeding as an acre of corn yielding from fifty to seventy-five bushels of grain per acre; viewed in this light, the potato crop is after all not necessarily a losing one.

All we have ever said of the curative virtues of Ayer's Sarsaparilla sinks into insignificance when compared with the statements made by those who have been benefited by the use of this wonderful blood-purifier. Many of the cures seem indeed almost incredible.

WHITE'S FAREWELL.

Letter to the Electors of His Constituency.

HIS REASONS FOR RETIREMENT.

The Pledge Given in 1891 and the Different Phases Assumed by the Manitoba School Question—Explanation as to the Montreal Collectorship —Endorses Mr. Willoughby.

Montreal, Oct. 29.—Mr. R. S. White has issued the following explanation of his resignation as M.P. for Cardwell:

To the Electors of Cardwell:

Gentlemen,—Having resigned the seat in the House of Commons with which you honored me in 1888 and again in 1891, it becomes my duty to acquaint you with the reasons that have moved me to take this step, and thus sever the, to me, always pleasant relations existing between us for now seven years. You may remember that on the occasion of the election of 1891 I gave you a pledge to withdraw my confidence from the Government in the event of the then recently enacted school legislation of Manitoba being made the subject of disallowance by the Dominion Government. My opinion at that time, as affecting education, was that the legislation of Manitoba should not be interfered with by the exercise of veto power, but that its constitutionality, if challenged in any quarter, ought to be left to the decision of the courts. That view was held by the late Sir John Thompson, and, I may say, was shared by the whole parliamentary body, save only a wing of the Opposition.

It is not my intention to recount the various phases this vexed Manitoba school question has undergone since 1891. At every step the courts, and the courts alone, have been allowed to determine the validity of the appeals for redress made by the Roman Catholic minority of the province, until finally, as the result of a judgment of the Judicial Committee of Her Majesty's Privy Council, the Governor-General in council was called upon to act. You are familiar with the steps which have since been taken. To Manitoba has been committed the duty of providing redress for the minority, and, failing action on the part of the authorities of that province, the whole matter will become vested in the Parliament of Canada, under the terms of the constitution. It may be that the Manitoba Government will take such steps as will remove this vexed and difficult question from the Federal domain; or again, that if legislation is introduced in Parliament, it will be of such a scope and character as to allay the fears and disarm the opposition of those who advocate equal rights in matters of education, including in that term a common measure of taxation upon all classes, the certification of teachers, uniform standards of excellence in and official inspection of all state-aided schools, whether they be designated public or separate.

Despite, however, the altered circumstances of the question since 1891, when I gave you the pledge to which I have alluded, I have been unwilling to await the events of the approaching session of Parliament with my hands less free, as I conceive, than those of your representative should be, to deal with the subject in whatever form it may present itself.

As you are aware, my name has been coupled with the office of Collector of Customs at the Port of Montreal, vacant since the month of January, 1893, and which still remains so. Not long since representations were made to the Government by the Board of Trade of this city, setting forth the desirability, in the interest of the business of the port, of appointing a collector at an early day. Inasmuch as an impression has prevailed somewhat widely that the delay in filling the office was due to a reluctance on the part of the Government to submit their policy to the judgment of the electors of Cardwell, by selecting myself for the vacancy, I decided, without solicitation on the part of the Cabinet, and without intimation of my purpose to any of its members, to dispel that impression, so far as I could, by resigning the representation of the county of my own accord.

As a consequence an opportunity will shortly be afforded you of pronouncing upon the public issues of the day, while the Government will be relieved of any embarrassment my presence in Parliament may have caused in naming a collector for the port of Montreal, as desired by the merchants of that city. I am glad to believe that in restoring the trust which you have so long confided to me, it will be committed to hands certainly not less worthy or capable than mine. More than a year ago representatives of the Conservative electors of Cardwell selected as their candidate, when my term of office should expire, my friend, Mr. W. B. Willoughby, a son of the county, whose abilities are great, and whose devotion to its interests has been lifelong. Mr. Willoughby is too intimately known to you to require any eulogy at my hands, but if I have a friend in Cardwell who desires to give me personal gratification, or to repay any debt of kindness there can possibly be due me, he will discharge such obligation with compound interest added by assisting in the election of Mr. Willoughby as my successor. The political issues of the day have not greatly changed since I last appealed for your support.

The Conservative party has, indeed, suffered the irreparable loss of three distinguished leaders, the old Chieftain, Sir John Macdonald, his able successor Sir John Abbott, and the most eminent parliamentarian in Canadian history, Sir John Thompson. But the principles of the party survive, and it is my confident hope that Cardwell will prove in the pending election as true to those principles as she has ever done in the past.

One last word in parting. It is no light thing to voluntarily, albeit from a sense of duty, break the tie which binds a public man to his constituents, and which endears so many faithful friends to him. It is in my case an especially painful one, for I can never forget that when my father, the late Hon. Thomas White, after repeated defeats elsewhere, reached the brink of a general election in 1878 without a constituency, it was the loyal Conservatives of Cardwell who took him on trust as their candidate, made him their member, honored him with their confidence to the day of his death, and so gave him the opportunity of devoting to the service of the country he loved so well all of the talent and patriotism with which he was endowed. Nor can I ever forget that when it pleased God to call him to his last home, it was the same spirit of ardent loyalty and gratitude, and of fidelity to Conservative principles, that moved the men of Cardwell to bestow the representation of the riding upon myself—resident though I was in another province and a stranger, save in name, to everyone of you—in recognition of their esteem for him. In bidding you farewell, let me say that I will never cease to cherish the memory of many happy days spent amongst you, the many warm friendships formed, and the lasting obligations under which you have placed me.

I am, gentlemen, your grateful and obedient servant,

ROBERT S. WHITE.

DIABETES IS CURABLE.

A Well-known Man Writes a Grateful Letter.

Given up to Die He Uses Dodd's Kidney Pills and is Cured of Diabetes.

Kirkfield, Ont., Oct. 30.—About two years ago I left Kansas, returning to Canada, my native land. I am a miller and own a saw and grist-mill in this village. I knew before that I was not a well man, but one day in trying to lift a bag of grain I discovered that my strength had failed. My wife induced me to take medical advice. Our local doctor, as clever as most of them, did all he could for me; diagnosed my case, as did a Toronto specialist, and both pronounced my case to be Diabetes. Getting no benefit from the doctors, I was reading one of your advertisements of Dodd's Kidney Pills. At this time my skin was a yellow, sickly colour, I had lost all ambition, and was so weak that I could only trail myself along, a mile's walk being too much for me.

Well, I commenced using the pills and got help inside of two weeks. This was the latter part of November last. I took eight boxes in eight weeks and am now completely cured—not a symptom left, general health good and all the colour returned to my face. My weight had been during my illness as low as one hundred and twenty pounds; it is now one hundred and seventy pounds. I was bothered with my heart and liver but these troubles have been cured along with my diabetes. My cure is perfect, I can now walk briskly for miles, and I am as well a man as ever I was, although I am now past sixty-two years old. I am well known in all this country; have two sons in Toronto and am a brother of Wm. McKenzie, President of the Toronto Street Railway Co.

I will answer all questions of any one desiring to write me if the writer will enclose a stamp for reply.

Gratefully yours truly,

DUNCAN McKENZIE.

Dodd's Kidney Pills is the only medicine in the world ever known to cure Diabetes.

GETTING RIGHT HOT.

Montreal Board of Trade Council Takes Action re the Collectorship.

Montreal, Oct. 29.—This afternoon the council of the Board of Trade discussed the matter of the collectorship, which has now become a burning question. Twice the Government had been communicated with and a letter was read from Sir Mackenzie Bowell, saying he was glad that the acting collector was doing his work so well and that the appointment would be made as soon as possible.

It is unnecessary to say that this answer was considered very unsatisfactory by the board, and the secretary was authorized to acquaint the Premier of the fact.

The situation is most interesting. Hon. W.B. Ives arrived here last evening, and finding matters looking very grave, Sir Adolphe Caron and Hon. Mr. Haggart were communicated with and they too reached the city this evening.

While thorough in action, Ayer's Pills strengthen rather than stimulate the excretory organs. Leading physicians recommend them because they are free from calomel or other injurious drugs, being composed entirely of the best vegetable aperients.

The things that people see are inside of them and not outside. No two people see the same thing exactly alike. One woman may look out at a beautiful landscape and see all the beauty and restfulness and grandness that there is in it. Another one will look out at the same scene and see nothing. One will find enjoyment in a brilliant company, in music, in dancing, in an exquisitely prepared dinner. Another will enjoy these things half as much—another not at all. The things that people see are inside them. What one sees and what one enjoys depends upon the bodily condition—depends upon the capacity for enjoyment—depends upon the health and the vitality. The sick man has pain or discomfort so impressed upon him that he has no time to think of much else. A weak man has all he can do to struggle for mere existence. He has no strength to use in procuring pleasure. His performances are limited by his strength. He can do only a few things. The man who is perfectly well and vigorous enjoys life to the full. The bedridden invalid enjoys it not at all. The man who is half sick and half well gets out of life about half what he ought to. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes people well. It doesn't do it in a miraculous way. There isn't anything unnatural about it—it is the most natural thing in the world. It simply puts the digestive organs, the stomach, the liver, the bowels, in perfect order and thereby makes the blood pure and rich. It doesn't have to do anything else. Nature does all the rest. All diseases live and thrive on impure blood. Keep a stream of pure, rich, red blood flowing into a diseased spot, and the disease will not stay. A man lives on rich, pure blood, and disease dies on it. That's the difference. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery makes pure, rich blood—makes men and women strong and healthy; brings good appetite, good digestion and builds up solid, healthy flesh.

Cheap Boots and Shoes.

Mr. John McNaughton, Sherbrooke St., is selling his excellent stock of boots and shoes and rubber goods at prices lower than George street merchants. How is this done? you ask. Well, it is easily explained, he has no heavy rent to pay, he has no expensive clerks to pay, he buys and sells, himself, and can, consequently, outsell all cash competition. His great sale is now going on and his receipts last week were the largest on record. His goods are the best to be had. He buys only from the best makers and sells direct to his customers. You will save money by buying your boots and shoes and rubbers from the cash store of John McNaughton, corner Bethune and Sherbrooke streets. Now is the time to buy. LAST NIGHT'S CONCERT.

A Fine Audience and a Fine Programme Presented.

The concert last night in the opera house was a great success, both as to the very large audience present, and the excellence of the programme presented, and was another evidence of the obligation under which Mr. Hoover has placed the people of Peterborough by providing concerts worthy of the appreciation of the most critical of the music-loving public. The house was well filled with an audience representing the best citizenship of the town. The stage was tastefully set for the occasion, potted plants and flowers in abundance softening the bareness that would otherwise have been apparent. The programme was a judicious blending of the classical and popular and was presented by the artists engaged with general acceptability. The concert opened with the grand selection from Handel's Oratorio of Sampson, the recitative "O Loss of Sight," and the aria, "Total Eclipse." To say that Mr. Harold Jarvis did ample justice to this exacting composition is light praise. While his vocal method is, one may say, faultless, his dramatic interpretation of the spirit of his theme was one of the most pleasing features of his performance of this, as, indeed, of all his numbers. His robust tenor voice, inclining to baritone,, was under splendid control, and while vigorous vocalization was attained without harshness, the exquisite softness and delicacy with which it was toned down, as occasion required, indicated the real artist. Mr. Jarvis was rewarded with a hearty recall to which he responded, as he did after all his other numbers. His other selections were "Mona" by Adams and Cowen's beautifully pathetic song, "The Children's Home," which was given with splendid effect, and a dramatic fidelity that was delightful, with a voice of clear, full, vibrant quality, well cultured and well in hand, Mr. Jarvis sings with a soul that makes his music go to the heart. He never was in better form than last night in Peterborough and never pleased an audience better. Mr. Jarvis' singing of "Scots Wha Hae" as an encore was simply magnificent and was a revelation to those who thought they had heard this heroic hymn sung before. Mons. F. Jehin Prume, the celebrated violinist, contributed four splendid numbers during the evening. His first selection was the Introduction and Rondo Cappriciosо of Saint Saens, which was, perhaps, not as well rendered as his succeeding numbers when he became warmed to his work. His second selection was one of his own compositions, the "Faust Fantaisie." This was a brilliant work, performed in so brilliant a manner as to provoke an insistent recall, which was gracefully responded to. Mons. Prume's third selection, "Die Meistersinger," by Wagner, was, perhaps, his best example of legitimate virtuosity, and was performed with a vigour and taste well worthy of praise. But most popular and most expressive of the great violinist's individuality was his last number, a double one. This included a cradle song, composed by himself, played with muted strings—a very sweet and plaintive melody given with artistic delicacy and expression. In Bazzini's "Scherzo Fantastique" Mons. Prume was at his best during the evening. The rollicking fay-like sprightliness of the composition was exquisitely caught, and the whole piece served to show the creditable technical facility which is the distinguishing characteristic of his playing. His double stopping, pearly harmonics and wonderful left hand pizzicato were worthy of particular admiration. Miss Agnes Dunlop, the contralto of the company, sang for her first number Vannah's "Lullaby." In this she scored a decided success, being very cordially recalled, when she responded with a sweetly sung love song. This success was repeated when she sang that pathetic song "The Auld House"—Lady Nairn—and she was compelled to appear again. Miss Dunlop has a powerful contralto voice, which, though it might be of wider range, is excellently cultivated for so young a singer; her method is good and she promises well to be a successful rival to her accomplished sister Mrs. Mackelcan, of Hamilton. Miss Dunlop appeared to excellent advantage in duet with Mr. Jarvis in the singing of his beautiful composition, "Jesus Lover of My Soul," which met with so much favour that it had to be repeated. On the whole the concert was a gratifying success. Special mention should not be omitted of the splendid accompaniments given by Mrs. Blight. She was much assisted by the excellent instrument she used, a Williams' piano, supplied by the branch warerooms of the firm in Peterborough. Its fine tone adapted itself with excellent effect to accompaniments for both voice and violin.

New Gas Mains.

The atmosphere is laden with gas on George street, between Simcoe and Hunter, on account of the old mains being removed and replaced with new ones. The smaller pipes tapping the main and leading into the stores are also having new ones laid in their places on account of rusting out. The prosecution of this work accounts for the disreputable state of George street at present, but the work will be finished this week.

THE SAD DROWNING OF CAPT. REYNOLDS.

HIS CANOE OVERTURNS IN MONDAY'S STORM.

No Trace of the Captain can be Found and his Friends Have Now Given up all Hope of Again Seeing Him Alive.

A report is in circulation to the effect that Captain Reynolds, of the steamer Golden City, was drowned on Monday evening, and by the new facts which are being continually revealed in the case, the rumour is fast gaining such substantiation as makes his friends fear the worst.

The Golden City has been towing logs in the back lakes between Lakefield, Buckhorn and Lindsay since the regular passenger season closed and is at present working in Deer Bay. Captain Reynolds left here on Saturday and after spending Sunday in Lakefield, started to return to his steamer on Monday morning, and drove over to Buckhorn with a young farmer.

He left Buckhorn Monday evening to go on to Deer Bay in the canoe, with the sail up, and as he was accustomed to canoe work nothing further was thought of the matter, until some Indians found the canoe, bottom side up, near Buckhorn, and could run across no trace of the Captain, even after diligent search. They took the canoe to Buckhorn, where their supposition that it belonged to Captain Reynolds was confirmed, and several of his friends immediately paddled down to Deer Bay to ascertain if the crew of the Golden City knew aught of him, but he had not boarded the steamer, and as no trace of him could be found along the shore the searchers reluctantly came to the conclusion that must have been upset by a sudden gust of wind catching the sail, as the water was very rough on Monday.

The Golden City arrived in Lakefield today at noon and a large body of searchers was immediately organized and provided with grappling irons and search lights, in order to thoroughly drag the vicinity of the spot where the Indians found the canoe, but as it may have drifted a very considerable distance during the night succeeding the accident, the search is almost a forlorn hope and the body will hardly be recovered until the forces of nature necessitate its rising to the surface.

Until this morning the more sanguine of Captain Reynolds' friends were hopeful that he had landed somewhere and allowed his canoe to drift off, but all hope has now been abandoned of seeing the kind-hearted and obliging owner of the Golden City again at his steamer's wheel.

The last seen of the Captain was by an Indian, who saw his canoe sailing down the lake.

The sad circumstance has cast a gloom over Lakefield as well as Peterborough, in both of which places Captain Reynolds had many friends. He leaves two children and a widow to mourn his sudden and unexpected demise.

Captain Reynolds has been the owner of the Golden City for the past ten or eleven years and is an old Port Hope boy, many of his relatives still living there. His brother passed through at noon to-day, from that town, enroute to the scene of the disastrous drowning.

THE LOCK WORKS MATTER.

A Meeting of the Directors Held To-day—The Letter of the Bank of Montreal—Rumoured Offer of the Light and Power Company.

A meeting of the Directors of the Peterborough Lock Works Company was held to-day to consider the circumstances arising out of the acceptance by the town of the offer made by Mr. Carnegie on behalf of the Auburn Woollen Mills Company. The following letter from the Bank of Montreal was read:

Oct. 29th, 1895.

To the President of the Peterborough Lock Co'y, Peterborough:

DEAR SIR,—I understand that a directors' meeting of the above company is called for to-morrow morning for the purpose of considering the important question of removing your works from the premises at present occupied. In this connection I beg to state that this bank is prepared to to make a substantial reduction in the rent of the present buildings, and therefore I trust that no irrevocable steps will be taken by your Board until the Company's interests have beenthoroughly considered.

I remain, your obedient servant,
F. W. TAYLOR, pro Manager.

Consequently a committee consisting of Messrs. Carnegie, Brooks and John Burnham was appointed to consider the whole matter, and report to the shareholders.

It is rumoured on the street that the Light and Power Company have offered the Lock Company electric power at the rate of $10 per horse power per year, and the question arises as to which of the two propositions, that of the Auburn Company or the Bank and Light and Power Company, conjointly, is the better.

A Hustling Railroad Man.

It is stated already as the result of a new regime coming into force on the Grand Trunk Railway that much stricter discipline has already been enforced. Its somewhat over-generous system of issuing free passes, which in recent years was left to the option of several officers, will be entirely controlled by the general manager's office. It is understood that instructions have been received from England to cut down the expenses of the mechanical department. It is stated that the C.P.R. officials view with alarm the advent of Mr. Hayes, as he is considered one of the smartest of the Western railway managers. It is expected that he will take a run over the road before Mr. Seargeant's departure for England, some time next month, but will not take control of the road before next January.

Breaking Records.

The present is the zenith of our business record up to date. Sales at this store are larger now than they ever have been before, except at Holiday time, and it is pleasant to be able to write these facts.

Saturday, 19th October, was our most remarkable record-breaker—when the largest selling in our history was done. Last Saturday was a good second—largely exceeding our sales of the same date last year.

It was'nt by a mere happen-so that these great gatherings of ladies got under our roof just at the time that everbody was wanting them. We have been planning for it, and the success of our planning has been phenomenal.

All advertising goes for nothing unless believed. Nothing equals the keen judgment of a woman when it is called upon to weigh the relative value of Bargains.

It looks as if we were going to be very busy every day this week. But on Saturday again we have something in store for the ladies that will likely break another record.

THE WATER MAINS TO GO BENEATH THE SEWER.

The Necessary Castings for the Change Have Arrived.

The castings for the Water Company have arrived, which will enable them to run their mains beneath the sewer, the castings having in them the necessary curve to carry them out of the course of the sewer.

Workmen are already engaged for the Water Company in making arrangements to cut out the necessary lengths of the different mains which cross the sewer and to replace them with the new castings. The work of excavating is now being carried on between Dalhousie and Townsend streets.

FORTNIGHTLY CLUB COLUMN CORRECTIONS.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—Will you kindly correct a couple of misprints which occur in the article on "Maud" in your Saturday's issue?

The quotation from the Psalms should be, "No man careth for my SOUL," not "No man careth for my LOVE;" and what Watson did say of a poet is this: he is "One who finds, not fashions his numbers."

With thanks for the corrections, believe me, Mr. Editor,

Sincerely yours,
M. M. W.

THE EX-SHERIFF RETURNS SOUTH.

He is a Sadder and Wiser Man and Considerably Lighter in Pocket.

Concerning the trip of Ex-Sheriff Denton, of Kentucky, to Canada to arrest one Anderson, an alleged murderer, through information furnished by Detective Morrison, the Port Hope Guide says that "Chief Douglas, on being interviewed today, says Morrison is not at all reliable, and that he never received any paper, from him in reference to the matter, and Mr. Douglas knows from most undoubted authority, that the suspected murderer is a very respectable mechanic, who has been living in Toronto for the past seven years, his wife and family residing there at present. He has been in the employ of the Messrs. Canon, builders, Toronto, for nearly four years, and is now working at the Trinity College School, here. Mr. Denton arrived here by the ten o'clock train from Peterborough last night, and after thoroughly satisfying himself that this was not the man wanted, left for home by the eight o'clock train this morning. Morrison's record while in Port Hope is not a creditable one, as when he came here first he stopped at the Royal Hotel, and failed to pay the landlord his board; he then went to board with a poor women on Brown street, named Mrs. Marvin, and left her out $10; then to another poor woman in ward 1, named Mrs. Firman, and left her out $10.00 also."

This is the second trip which Ex-Sheriff Denton has had to Canada in pursuit of the man Anderson. Once before he came up to Thorold only to find that it was a case of mistaken identity. The Thorold constable, however, was so sure that he had the right man that he offered to stand the expense of Denton's trip if he was mistaken. The money was accordingly paid over when it was ascertained the wrong man had been arrested.

Chief of Police Roszel thinks Denton deserves to lose something for coming on such a wild-goose chase on the authority of which he knew nothing.

WARSAW.

HAVELOCK.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

The village of Havelock having failed to appoint an arbitrator to arbitrate upon the claim of Mr. Mellon for damages for the injury to his property through the cutting or grading of a street, His Honour Judge Weller has appointed Mr. John Brown, of Belmont, to act for the village. Mr. W. E. Roxburgh, of Norwood, will act for Mr. Mellon.

A complaint was tried before Mr. Wm. Mathison, J. P., and Mr. John Brown, J. P., by which two Belmont boys were charged with taking the grapes of Mr. E. Perry, of Belmont. As Mr. Perry had been misinformed, the magistrates dismissed the case after reprimanding two of the witnesses for misleading Mr. Perry into taking the action.

Getting Down to Work.

The Toronto Police Magistrate and the Peterborough Police Magistrate have each rolled up their sleeves. The Toronto Cæsar is after bicycle thieves, whom he sends to Penitentiary for two years, and promises to give four in the future. The Peterborough Cæsar is after orchard thieves and imposes penalties of $10. They are to be commended. A bicycle is something that one cannot tag after one into a man's office or a lady's drawing room. It necessarily must be left in the hands of the public, and the public must be taught honesty, Same with an orchard. A man cannot take his orchard into the back shed every night; neither should he be called upon to sit on his fence with two bull dogs and a shot gun. The magistrates are right. If those penalities do not stop the offences, then put the penalities on the parents of the offenders as well, and if that is not sufficient, bring the clerical advisers of the offenders under the penalty and see how it works.—Cobourg Sentinel Star.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE P. P. HOME.

REPORTS RECEIVED FROM THE SECRETARY AND TREASURER.

The Election of Officers for the Ensuing Year—The Home Appears Neat, Clean and Comfortable—No Deaths During the Past Year.

The annual meeting for the submission of reports and the election of officers in connection with the Peterborough Protestant Home was held yesterday afternoon in the reception room of that institution.

The chair was occupied by Mrs. Vernon, and, after conducting the routine business of the meeting, Miss Roper, the Secretary, submitted the following report of the COMMITTEE OF MANAGEMENT:

The Committee of Management of the Peterborough Protestant Home is happy to be able to state that no changes of any consequence have taken taken place since the last annual meeting, except the occasional coming and going of some of the inmates.

There are at present in the Home nineteen, including men, women and children; altogether during the year twenty-eight have been sheltered. Assistance has been given the Children's Aid Society by taking charge of the children until suitable homes could be found for them.

All praise is due the matron, Miss Londerville, for the care of both young and feeble and for the peace and harmony which prevails amongst the inmates. Fortunately there has been no serious illness amongst the old people during the year.

The Home was inspected as usual in September and everything was found most satisfactory.

Again we have to thank all those who have in any way assisted in the maintenance of the Home, but especially the clergymen and physicians, who are always so ready and willing to visit the inmates, also the editors of the three daily papers for inserting all notices, etc., gratuitously.

A good deal of outdoor relief has been given this year and now that the cold weather is coming on and the winter promises to be a severe one, any cast off clothing will be thankfully received for distribution.

M. C. ROPER,
Secretary.

Adopted.

Miss Roger, the treasurer, submitted the following statement of receipts and disbursements for the year, which was certified to by Messrs. F. E. Bell and J. W. Rennett, auditors:

RECEIPTS.

From Ontario Government		$ 445 29
From inmates and others for board		512 00
Subscriptions	$ 84 26
Interest on bequest	980 00
		1,064 26
		$ 2,121 55

EXPENDITURES.

Balance due Ontario Bank	$ 401 31
Salaries and wages	234 70
Maintenance and outdoor relief	937 56
Light and fuel	23 07
Repairs and furniture	79 58
Medicine	44 50
Sundries	140 30
Balance in bank	260 53
	$ 2,121 55

The report was received and adopted on motion.

The following officers were then elected by acclamation:

President—Mrs. Vernon.
1st Vice-President—Mrs. Hall.
2nd Vice-President—Mrs. Haslitt.
Treasurer—Miss Roger.
Asst. Treas.—Miss Davis.
Secretary—Miss Roper.

The business of the meeting was transacted with that accuracy and despatch which characterizes the annual meetings of the home, and afterwards Miss Launderville, under whose efficient management the internal arrangements at the home are carried on so well, showed a reporter over the building. The different apartments are scrupulously clean and as neat as a new pin. There seems to be a place for everything and everything is in its place.

The large bright kitchen is a spot where the old ladies love to congregate about the warm range, and it is a pleasant sight to see half a dozen of these grey haired inmates exchanging reminescences here, of the days when Peterborough was a village. One old lady, Jennie Trotter, who has been in the Home for the past fourteen years, can remember the time when half a dozen log houses marked the site of the present flourishing town. She is in her 88th year and states that her parents are both buried beneath the Drill Shed, where a cemetery was once located.

There are now ten women, seven men and a child in the Home, and the men have converted the summer kitchen into a smoking room for the winter, and enjoy their quiet pipe there in the afternoons and evenings.

There have been no deaths in the Home during the year, and the only change in the interior arrangements is that the bath room has been moved down-stairs in order to save the labour of carrying the water to so great a distance, waterworks having not as yet been introduced into the building.

LOCAL LEGAL.

COWAN VS. ALLEN—Judgment on appeal by plaintiff and defendant Albert W. Cowan, from an order of Robertson J. in court, dismissing their appeal from the ruling and certificate of the Local Master at Cobourg, upon a reference to him for the administration of the estate of Alexander Cowan, deceased, holding that upon the construction of the will of James Cowan, deceased, Alexander Cowan took, under the will of his father, James Cowan, and estate in fee simple in certain lands, and that an absolute estate in fee simple survived to the estate of Alexander Cowan subject to certain charges. The appellants contend that upon the death of Alexander Cowan they became the owners of the land in question upon the construction of the will of James Cowan, which contained a gift over. Alexander outlived his father but died without issue, leaving a widow. The respondents were the administrators of his estate and the widow of the brother. Haggarty, C.J.O., and Osler, J.A., were of opinion that the appeal should be allowed. Burton and MacLennan, J.J.A., were of the opinion that the appeal should be dismissed. In the result the appeal was dismissed with costs; Moss, Q.C., and R. R. Hall, of Peterborough, for appelants; Shepley, Q.C., for defendant, W. F. Allen. W. R. Riddell for defendant Jeanne Cowan.

What Should Influence You in the Purchase of a
PIANO?

If within the last 40 years we have grown from one small factory to have the largest in Canada, and from one factory wareroom to a branch wareroom in some of the largest cities and towns in the Dominion, is it not a safe argument in favour of our goods?

Can we afford to throw away for a few dollars profit a reputation which we have gained by years of hard, honest work?

In selling a Piano there is something more than the profit on the immediate sale. There is the opportunity of making other sales where goods prove reliable.

Is it unreasonable for us to say that being the manufacturers of reliable instruments we are in the position to save you the dealer's or jobber's profit, and that our guarantee upon a Piano means 100 cents on the dollar?

Band Instruments, small Musical Instruments, newest Sheet Music, and fittings for all instruments always in stock.

WORLD OF SPORTS

New York, Oct. 29.—The seven [illegible] ers who were arrested at the Morris Park race track last Saturday afternoon on the charge of receiving and registering bets were arraigned before Magistrate [illegible] this morning. After hearing the testimony the magistrate discharged the prisoners, as it was not shown that any money had been handled by them.

The bettors were in a quandary at the track to-day. They stood around the basement of the grand stand, that used to be duty as a betting ring under the old order of affairs, afraid to speak to each other. The enclosure was thronged with Central Office men, who kept a strict eye on the pencilliers. It was evident the men feared another raid. They declined to talk about odds, let alone take a chance. No books were visible, and the business done was quite small in comparison with previous days. It was an utter impossibility for a stranger to get the odds or place a wager, and the layers of odds only did business with men they were acquainted with. The attendance was the smallest of the meeting, poor card and the cold, raw weather being responsible. The feature of to-day's program was the race for the Bronx Stakes at ¾ mile. Wernberg, at odds of 6 to 1, won in a gallop. It is said that Pittsburg Phil won a large sum on his newly-acquired sprinter.

The Jockey Club has decided, it is reported, to license the proposed race meeting at the Pimlico track, near Baltimore. The meeting will begin Nov. 11, and last 18 days. The Saratoga management is back of the enterprise. Summaries:

First race, ¾ mile—Hon Ami, 100, Simons, 4 to 1, 1; Titmouse, 95, Underwood, 15 to 1, 2; Sagamore, 97, Grant, 3 to 1, 3. Time 1.15. Sunrise II., Sebastian, Lillie Mills, Whippany, Double or Quits, Rockledge also ran.

Second race, 1 3-16 miles—Belmar, 110, Simms, 6 to 5, 1; Lamplighter, 115, Pickering, 8 to 1, and Lake Shore, 106, Griffin, 4 to 5, ran a dead heat for second place. Time 2.02. Three starters.

Third race, Bronx Stakes, ¾ mile—Wernberg, 116, Doggett, 6 to 1, 1; Helen Nichols, 121, Reiff, 5 to 1, 2; Harry Reed, 123, Simms, 8 to 5, 3. Time 1.11. Ina, Rubicon, Beidemere, Cromwell, Sir Francis, Harrington, Peacemaker also ran.

Fourth race, 1 mile—Hugh Penny, 108, Reiff, 3 to 5, 1; Sir Dixon Jr., 88, O'Leary, 4 to 1, 2; Waltzer, 106, Griffin, 3 to 1, 3. Time 1.41. Lochinvar, Captain T. also ran.

Fifth race, ¾ mile—Wishard, 109, Reiff, 4 to 5, 1; An Revoir, 107, Perkins, 3 to 1, 2; Patrol, 106, Griffin, 6 to 1, 3. Time 1.11¼. Premier, Annie Barron, Emotional, Balmaghie, Predicament, Marsina, Wexford, Irvana, Fifield, Old Age also ran.

Sixth race, 6½ furlongs—Hawarden, 125, Reiff, 8 to 1, 1; Manchester, 137, Simms, 2 to 1, 2; Deerslayer, 125, Doggett, 6 to 1, 3. Time 1.22. Kennebunk, Matt Byrnes, Illusion, Golden Gate, Defender, Kisbern also ran.

Alexander Island results—First race, ½ mile—Markstone, 6 to 1, 1; Philadelphia, even, 2; Saunterer 3. Time .50½.

Second race, ⅝ mile—Perfidy, 1 to 4, 1; Bob, 4 to 5, 2; La Petite 3. Time 1.03½.

Third race, ½ mile—Fluellen, 4 to 5, 1; Masher, 8 to 1, 2; Red Elm 3. Time .50.

Fourth race, ⅝ mile—Bunirus, 6 to 1, 1; Marguerite II., 2 to 5, 2; Eddie M. 3. Time 1.02¼.

Fifth race, 4½ furlongs—Jo Jap, 3 to 1, 1; Irish Lass, even, 2; Jersey 3. Time .55½.

Sixth race, 6½ furlongs—O'Hearn, 3 to 1, 1; Cockade, even, 2; Mohawk 3. Time 1.23½.

Forsythe results—First race, 6½ furlongs—Dr. Garnet 1, Proverb 2, Jack Gore 3. Time 1.20½.

Fifth race, mile—Our Maggie 1, Gunwad 2, Wells Street 3. Time 1.52.

Saugus results—2.15 class, trotting; purse, $300—Keyix 1, Fred B. 2, Benton M. 3, Lady Watson 4. Time—2.15½, 2.14¾, 2.10½, 2.15.

2.21 class, pacing; purse, $300—Tom L. 1, Ralph 2, Merry Belle 3, Lorine, Nellie G. Wild Briar, Enoch Arden also started. Time—2.19¾, 2.21½, 2.18¾, 2.18¾, 2.20½.

Latonia results: The Covington autumn selling stakes was the feature. Sherlock was the favorite in the betting. Loki got away late, but came through in the stretch and won in a gallop by two open lengths.

First race, mile—Canewood 1, Peabody 2, Charley Taber 3. Time 1.43½.

Second race, 1 1-16 miles—Lobengula 1, Egbert 2, Cash Day 3. Time 1.48½.

Third race, 1¼ miles—Pepper 1, Blue and Grey 2, Newcomb 3. Time 2.37¼.

Fourth race, Covington autumn stakes, 5½ furlongs—Loki 1, Mobalaska 2, Blue Ribbon 3. Time 1.08¾.

Fifth race, ⅝ mile—Lufra 1, Shuttlecock 2, Sugar 3. Time 1.03.

Sixth race, mile—Judith 1, Relief 2, Resplendent 3. Time 1.42¾.

A NEW CLUB.

Name Suggested for a New Social Organization in London.

LONDON, (Special) Oct. 28.—It has been facetiously suggested that a new social club in process of organization in this city should be entitled "The Dodd's Kidney Pill Club" as the present members are all enthusiastic advocates of that remedy and in common with many other citizens declare that in all cases of kidney trouble no other agent has been found so completely effective. Most Londoners have at their fingers' ends the particulars of the many marvellous cures through the use of this specific. In every drug store in the city the medicine is kept in large quantities and warmly recommended.

CANADA AND ITALY.

A Proposal From the Land of King Humbert.

FOR THE EXTENSION OF TRADE.

The Dominion Statistician Receives a Letter From the Italian Consul-General in Montreal—Canadian Apples Likely to Find a Good Market in Germany.

Ottawa, Oct. 29.—Statistician George Johnson has received a letter from the Italian Consul-General in Montreal announcing his desire to promote commerce between his country and the Dominion. The conclusion of the treaty between France and Canada has awakened interest in Italy as to the possibilities of trade with this country. Generally speaking the exports are much the same as those for which France receives favored tariff treatment by the new convention, but at present the trade between Italy and Canada is not very extensive. In 1894 Canada exported to Italy $101,622 worth of fish, and spruce and other deals to the value of $7117. Our imports from that country were as follows: Asphalt $94,254; drugs, dyes and medicines $21,286, dried fruits and nuts $11,280; green fruits, oranges and lemons, $330,710; oils, $8922; wines and spirits $12,200; salt $13,843.

Prof. C. E. Faville, director of the Nova Scotia School of Horticulture, has completed a tour of Europe in the interest of the Nova Scotia Fruit Growers' Association. He reports a favorable outlook for a large trade in Canadian apples with Germany, which is about the only European country, except England, to which he believes Canadian apples can profitably be sent. In France our apples have, by virtue of the new treaty, been placed upon a minimum tariff, but he does not see any immediate prospect of much of an apple trade with that country. The export of Nova Scotian apples to England this year will reach about 250,000 barrels. Of the 1894 crop in Nova Scotia half a million barrels were exported to Britain, yielding a cash return of about three quarters of a million dollars. The total value of apple shipments last year was in the neighborhood of a million dollars. Thirty years ago Nova Scotia produced only a few hundred barrels for her own use.

The Mounted Police Department has received reports from different police divisions, which tell of great devastation by prairie fires in the Territories during the past few weeks. In addition to the tracts already mentioned, over which the fire has run, reports to hand show that a stretch of country from Bresaylor settlement, north of Battleford, to Fort Pitt, 45 miles of country, was over-run by fire. This particular fire in its course licked up over seven hundred tons of hay.

The Marine Department is notified that the Government steamer Quadra was safely got off Portland reef and berthed in Victoria. The vessel does not leak, and, therefore, is not likely to be greatly damaged.

Mr. Taylor, M.P., was in town today and paid over to the Militia Department the price of the old drill shed site at Gananoque, which has been purchased by the town council for use as a school ground. With this money the Department proposes to buy another site in a more convenient location and erect a new armory.

CAN MORTGAGE CROPS.

Decision to That Effect at Osgoode Hall—Tucker Appeal Fails.

Toronto, Oct. 30.—At Osgoode Hall yesterday the action of Canada Permanent L. & S. Company v. Todd; Appeal from McDougall, Co. Judge of York, dismissed with costs. It is thus decided that the affidavit of bona fides in a chattel mortgage may be taken before a commissioner, who is acting for the mortgagees, and that the words "a commissioner, etc.," under his signature are sufficient, and also that a chattel mortgage may validly be made of crops to be sown after its date. J. W. McCullough for defendant (appellant); George A. Mackenzie for plaintiffs.

Re West Wellington Provincial Election, McQueen v. Tucker: Appeal and cross-appeal from judgment of Rose and MacMahon, J.J., dismissed with costs, Osler, J. A., dissenting. Mr. George Tucker, the Patron member elected to represent West Wellington in Ontario Legislature in June, 1894, is thus disqualified on the ground of corrupt treating, but the charges against him of bribery and intimidation are not sustained. Robinson, Q.C., and Laidlaw, Q.C., for George Tucker, respondent to petition (appellant); J. K. Kerr, Q.C., E. F. B. Johnston, Q.C., and R. A. Grant for McQueen (petitioner), cross-appellant.

Princess Maud Betrothed

London, Oct. 28.—It is announced that Princess Maud, youngest daughter of the Prince of Wales, is betrothed to Prince Karl, second son of Prince Frederick, heir-apparent to the throne of Denmark. Princess Maud was born Nov. 20, 1869, and Prince Karl was born Aug. 3, 1872, he thus being about three years younger than his betrothed.

A War Veteran Shoots Himself.

Watertown, N.Y., Oct. 28.—Dr. J. B. Carpenter, a war veteran, one of the wealthiest citizens of Gouverneur, and a brother-in-law of ex-Governor Flower, locked himself in a closet this morning, shot himself in the side and died instantly.

Who does not know women and young girls, who are continually in tears? Who always see the dark side? Who have frequent fits of melancholy without any apparent cause? The intelligent physician will know that it is some derangement of the complicated and delicate feminine organs. The young girl suffers, bodily and mentally, in silence. There is undue weariness, unexpected pain, unreasonable tears and fits of temper. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription exerts a wonderful power over woman's delibate organism. It is an invigorating tonic and is specific for the peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and painful derangements of woman. Careless, easy-going doctors frequently treat their women patients for biliousness, nervousness, dyspepsia, liver or kidney troubles, when the real sickness is in the organs distinctly feminine, and no help can come till they are made perfectly strong by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

DR. HARPER SET FREE

CORONER'S INQUEST AT BUFFALO.

An Investigation Into the Death of Miss Anna Kavanaugh of Cardinal, Ont. An Ogdensburgh Doctor Said to be the One Who Performed the Criminal Operation

Buffalo, Oct. 29.—Mrs. Blanchette and Mr. Harper, father of Dr. Harper, who is in jail accused of causing the death of Anna Kavanaugh, were two of the seven spectators in the morgue court room when Coroner Kenny began an inquest into the death of the unfortunate girl.

Dennis E. Deneen, the first witness, said that he was a clerk in the Queen City Bank, and took his meals at the same place with Dr. Harper at No. 237 Franklin-street. He told of his acquaintance with Miss Anna Kavanaugh of Cardinal, Ont., and Miss Hattie Leacy, of Ottawa. He said that he had known the girls about two years.

Mr. Deneen said that Dr. Harper told him that he disliked handling any cases that other doctors had meddled with.

The next letter from Miss Leacy was to the effect that Miss Kavanaugh had taken some medicine and that she was not improving.

Dr. Harper told him that it was dangerous for anyone to take medicine to relieve any trouble of that kind. The witness then asked if anything could be done in Miss Kavanaugh's case, and the doctor replied that he thought she might have injured herself by taking the medicine and by her previous treatment. He could not tell anything about it until he had seen the patient, and that if Miss Kavanaugh would come on here he would look into her case and see if he could do anything. Mr. Deneen then said he would write to the girls in Canada. He did, but received a reply to the effect that something was being done for the unfortunate there, and that they probably would not come to Buffalo.

Later a telegram was received asking if it was too late to come to Buffalo. Deneen visited Dr. Harper again and the physician told him to have the girl come on to Buffalo and he would look into the matter. He said that it was a difficult case, and the charges would probably be "something like $100."

Mr. Deneen told of summoning Miss Kavanaugh and Miss Leacy to Buffalo and of taking them to the Genesee and registering under the names "Miss Benson and Miss Freeman, New Jersey." They sent for Dr. Harper, who said that he could not make an examination at the Genesee, owing to the poor light. After Miss Kavanaugh's removal to No. 176 West Huron-street, Mr Deneen did not go to that house until Tuesday morning just before the girl's death.

The witness swore that he understood that Thomas J. White of Prescott, Canada, was responsible for the girl's condition.

Mr. Deneen said that he thought Mr. White's first name and initials were Thomas J.

Coroner Kenny then produced a paper, which Dr. Harper identified as one written upon by Miss Kavanaugh a few minutes before she died. It contained the names "J. B. White, Prescott, Ont., and two others, which cannot be deciphered. Mr. Deneen stated that he understood that White accomplished Miss Kavanaugh's ruin in Montreal, when she went there with Miss Leacy.

This closed Mr. Deneen's direct examination.

Dr. Harper was then sworn and said: "I feel positive that it was Dr. McGonigal, of Ogdensburg, who performed the criminal operation." Dr. Harper said that there was a third doctor in Canada who had treated Miss Kavanaugh, but he did not know his name. Asked what he knew about Dr. McGonigal, Dr. Harper said: "I do not know Dr. McGonigal, but I have heard of him as a doctor doing criminal work of the kind of work," meaning criminal operations.

Then Coroner Kenny, after excusing the jury until to-morrow, said: "Dr. Harper, I am going to release you upon your own recognizance. Be here promptly to answer any and all questions, and try to clean up this matter."

WORLD OF SPORTS

New York, Oct. 28.—Magistrates Crane and Kudlich, in the Essex Market Court this afternoon, began an examination in the case of the Morris Park race track arrests made last Thursday for alleged violations of the anti-racing laws of the state. The cases against Judges Simmons and McDowell were dismissed, on motion of the prosecution. Fitzpatrick, the clerk of the scales, was discharged from custody, as there seems to be no case made out against him.

It was moved in behalf of the bookmakers that they be discharged, but this motion was denied. Later, however, it was decided to make a test case against one of the bookmakers, and with that end in view Orlando Jones and his clerk were by common consent made the defendants in the test case. The cases against the other bookmakers were dismissed. Jones was discharged and his clerk held for the grand jury.

In the matter of the three charges against Frederick Lawrence of conducting a lottery in violation of section 324 of the Penal Code, registering a bet, with regard to the winners Stakes, in violation of sec. 351, and conducting unlawful races in the city, further examination was waived, and Magistrate Crane then held Mr. Lawrence on those three counts to await the decision of the grand jury continuing his parole.

Harding's Reply to Stanbury.

Harding is very pleased that Stanbury has replied so soon to his challenge. The English champion will row the Australian for £500 a side for the championship of the world, but it must be over the Thames course, as Harding has at present no wish to go abroad. He will allow the colonial £50 expenses. The Englishman proposes next September as the best month to row in. He cannot, without great inconvenience and pecuniary loss, row before then. At present he is taking matters leisurely, whilst all through next spring and summer he has several lucrative engagements to fulfil. If these terms will suit Stanbury the match can be ratified at once.—Newcastle Chronicle.

WORD FROM KOOTENAY.

Good Mining Prospects for the Year and Increased Facilities to Miners.

NELSON (Special), Oct. 21.—The mining prospects for next year in this locality are excellent, and a large influx of prospectors is expected. Miners and others coming in have been in the habit of bringing with them large quantities of Dodd's Kidney Pills, a remedy which they all swear by, and whose virtues they have extolled to such an extent, that the druggists throughout the section have become alive to the necessity of laying in large supplies to meet the greatly increasing demand. The remedy is generally regarded as an indispensable part of a miner's outfit, both for its portability and a value in preserving health which cannot be overestimated.

CANDY FOR CHILDREN.

The Popular Health Magazine says the desire in a child for candy and sweets is a natural one and should not be stifled. Good candy and sweets in moderation, not only do no harm, but are actually beneficial. Too much sweet upsets the stomach and spoils the appetite, but candy in moderation if it is not taken before a meal, is food which children crave naturally, and among the purest and most wholesome is that manufactured by

THE SECRET OUT

THE secret is out. The Government Insurance Blue Books have revealed it. The facts of the case will prove of real value to all those seeking a company where permanent satisfaction can be secured under a Policy of Life Insurance. The telescope has been turned upon those who withdrew from nine prominent companies in 1894.

It is obvious to any one that the proportion of persons who lapse or surrender their policies in any company is a fairly good test of the satisfaction or dissatisfaction existing therein. If policy-holders are receiving satisfactory profit results, if they are being honestly and honourably dealt with, if they cannot do better elsewhere, then it is plain these facts will show themselves in the small number who surrender their policies or allow them to lapse.

To test these conditions, and to discover the company that is giving greatest satisfaction to its policy-holders, as evidenced by their determination to continue their policies, we have made an analysis of the facts, as reported in the blue books containing the business for 1894 of the leading Canadian Companies. We have calculated the ratio per cent. of assurances surrendered to the average business in force in 1894 also the ratio per cent. of assurance lapsed to the average business in force. Intending assurers have here an inside view of Life Assurance that is full of significance. When a company stands out so prominently as does the CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY in this test, it means that its merits are known and recognized by those who become connected with it.

This is but another of those numerous tests in which the CANADA LIFE shows its superiority.

The following table tells the whole story :—

COMPANY.	Per Cent. Surrendered.	Per Cent. Lapsed.	Per Cent. Lapsed and Surrendered.
CANADA LIFE	.70	2.10	2.80
Confederation Life	2.33	4.65	6.98
North American	1.73	6.97	8.70
Ontario Mutual	2.51	6.59	9.10
Sun Life	2.63	8.54	11.17

The above figures are compiled from the Dominion Insurance report, issued by the Superintendent of Insurance, at Ottawa.

Once more, and as usual, the CANADA LIFE COMPANY comes out on top.

COMPARE

The following two Peterborough results with anything else of the kind in existence in the town. Other companies promise, we perform. That is the great difference.

W. H's Life Policy for $10,000, issued April, 1889, Age 23, Annual Premium $177.

Total Cost for 6 years.....1,062 Dollars
Profits Added to Policy.....1,250 Dollars

Y.P.S.C.E. NOTES.

FROM THE INFORMATION COMMITTEE.

"The Floating Society is getting a foothold in Great Britain, one having been formed in Liverpool, and the movement is extending among the seaports in Wales."

"At an Endeavour service held in a town in Victoria, Australia, one young lady walked more than three miles through a severe rain storm in order to attend it."

"From Aug. 29 to Sept. 2 in Adelaide, South Australia, was held the first C. E. Convention, in which all of the Australian colonies joined. This is one of the most important Christian Endeavour events in the entire fourteen years of the history of the movement, and we urge upon all our readers to pray most earnestly that this may be the beginning of a strong, united C. E. movement in the Island Continent."

"Dr. Beven's church at Melbourne, Australia, has been compelled on account of its size to divide its C. E. Society. This is the first case of the kind in Australia."

Eddyville, Ky.—Two Christian Endeavour Societies have been organized in the State penitentiary here. At the organization services there were a number of conversions, and remarkable spiritual interest. The warden says there never has been such a day in the history of the prison.

An Endeavour for the Birds.—A Society in Iowa decided to do something to save the lives of the birds they love. They circulated a pledge for the young women "never to wear birds or parts of birds on their hats or bonnets," and the young men are "never to hunt birds for pleasure, nor use them for targets, and never to indulge in pot-hunting." A committee canvassed the town, receiving many signatures. Their action was adopted by the County Union, and there met with great success. It is hoped that the C. E. Societies all through the land will take up this humane cause.

VILLIERS, OTONABEE.

On Tuesday evening, Oct. 22nd, under the management of the Bethel Y.P.S.C.E., a society was organized in this place with a membership of twenty-two, 15 actives and 7 associates, from which the following officers and convenors were elected:

President—Miss Bathgate.
Vice-President—Miss Williams.
Rec. Secretary—Miss E. M. Weir.
Cor. Secretary—Miss Beulah Nelson.
Treasurer—Miss Jennie Lancaster.
Organist—Miss E. M. Nelson.
Con. of Prayer Meeting Committee—Mr. Morley Nelson.
Con. of Lookout Committee—Miss Phœbe Harris.
Con. of Social Committee—Miss Aggie Elmhurst.
Con. of Music Committee—Miss E. M. Nelson.

We ask for the prayers of all Christian Endeavourers for God's blessing upon this new Society, that through it many may be brought nearer to Him who gave Himself so freely for us.

OFFICERS OF ST. PAUL'S.

The following are the officers for the ensuing term:

Hon. President—Rev. Dr. Torrance.
President—T. H. Martin.
Vice-President—Miss McIntosh.
Corresponding Secretary—Jas. Connal.
Rec. Secretary—W. A. Beaton.
Treasurer—R. Strachan.
Superintendent Junior work—Miss M. Quinn.

Prayer—Miss M. Coulter, convenor, Misses M. Quinn, —. Finnie, B. West, A. Moncrief and Messrs. W. A. Beaton, B. Gerrans.

Music—Miss Courtney, convenor, Misses Mary Patterson, Addie Lee, Jennie Rose, Annie Cameron, Etta Montgomery.

Sunday School—Miss Cromie, convenor, Misses Nethercutt, Donaldson, Martha Jordan, Smart and Mr. Jas. Connal.

Missionary—Miss E. Hall, convenor, Misses E. Thompson, L. Best, L. Moncrief, A. Pearce, E. O. Simpson.

Social—Miss Elspeth Davidson, convenor, Misses B. Thompson, A. Scott, F. Davidson, M. Johnston, K. Menzies, Ina Cummings, Mary Menzies and Mr. W. Lillico.

Good Citizenship—Mr. A. J. Johnston, convenor, Misses Mary Scott, Jennie Mahood, Emma Temple, and Messrs. J. Savigny and T. H. Martin.

Flower and Calling—Miss Sharpe, convenor, Misses J. Stevenson, T. Hope, P. Patterson, B. McKnight, J. Pollock and Maggie Jordan.

General Information—Miss Christie, convener, Misses Battisby, L. Pollock, B. Robson, B. Brown, B. Davidson.

Good Literature—Miss Beckett, convener, Misses M. Pollock, M. Moncrief, L. Wallace, Maggie Jordan, A. Dowling and E. Carter.

Lookout—Miss McIntosh convener. This committee is composed of conveners of above committees. The conveners to look after absent members of their committees. Each committee will also strive to increase their numbers with new members. The final report of work done along this line to be given at end of term.

MARK STREET SOCIETY.

Monday evening we held our regular business meeting, the president presiding. The topic was ably taken up by our first vice-president, Miss E. Smith. There were three new members added to our list. A few thoughts on our plan of work for the present term. Our society has seven committees, of six members each, and no one member on two committees. Each committee is to try and increase its number to eight, that is, outside of its usual work. The convener of each committee is to keep the average attendance of his or her committee and report the same, along with their usual monthly report.

BETHEL—KEENE CIRCUIT.

The meeting of Wednesday evening last was unusually attractive, having our pastor, Rev. J. Liddy, to conduct the topic, "Christian Patriotism and what it requires of us". He taught how we should have a Christian principle and how we should be devoted to it, also that Christian patriotism requires that we as a people should desire to have our country governed by just laws. Righteousness exalteth a nation, but sin is a reproach to any people, Prov. 14—34. Also our laws should be made by God-fearing men, Samuel 23—3. Also that our conduct shall be law-abiding, 1 Pet., 2—13—15. It also requires that we should remove all obstacles of right living out of the way of others as far as we can, Rom. 14, 13—21. He showed that a larger study of God's way from the Bible will give us clearer views of our duties in political life. There was a fair attendance and all felt amply repaid from listening to the reverend gentleman's remarks. There followed immediately the usual prayer meeting and it was taken part in by many who felt it their duty to be patriotic and loyal to their God.

Ivorine for the Teeth.

Ivorine is a dentrifice as delightful and fragrant as it is cleansing. It strengthens the gums, whitens and polishes the teeth, and imparts a fragrant sweetness to the breath. Ivorine never injures the teeth, and has received the highest commendations from profession and public. Druggists have it, 25 cents per bottle.

To Cure Croup.

DEAR SIRS,—I have used Hagyard's Yellow Oil with all my children for croup, and I think it is the best medicine ever made. I am never without it in the house. MRS. T. H. JACKSON, Hilton, Man.

HUNTING NOTES.

The Deer Will Have a Hard Time of it for the Next Two Weeks.

A leash of 22 deer hounds went north today. There will be sweet music heard in the forest when they are let loose.

W. Mulcahey, Andy Gobeen and several other Lindsayites, who have hunted for years past at Base lake, in Galway township, will leave for their old camping ground to-morrow, taking with them about a dozen hounds.

Mr. Fremont Crandell and Mr. Chas. Dalley, U.S. consul at Guelph, left Lindsay on the steamer Marie Louise for Tait's Bay, Harvey, from which point they will make their way through the woods to Pencil Lake, Cavendish township, to enjoy a two weeks' hunt. They may be joined by several other hunters later on.

A Bobcaygeon party, comprising Messrs. W. J. Read, Garner Hunter, W. Bottum, W. McIlmoyle, Constable Blewett, and a couple of Peterborough hunters, left to-day for Long Lake, Harvey, where some of the party have hunted every season for many years past. They will have the Simpson-Grantham party, of Lindsay, for neighbours, whose camp will this year be on Round Lake, about a mile distant.

Dr. Bonnell, of Bobcaygeon, than whom there is no more enthusiastic hunter in the province, nor one better versed in the care and handling of dogs in the woods, hunted on Round, Black Duck and Long Lakes, in Harvey, last season, but goes north this week with W. T. C. Boyd and A. E. Bottum, of Bobcaygeon. Mr. Boyd has a comfortable hunting lodge on Cocklong lake, in Snowden township.

Messrs. Brightman, E. B. Stone and D. W. Dumble leave to-morrow to join a party at Norwood, from where they go to Coe Hill to hunt bear.

NEWS NUGGETS.

Paragraphs Picked Up and Pencilled for Public Perusal.

MOUNT PLEASANT.

From Our Own Correspondent.

The concert which was given in the hall here on Wednesday last, Oct. 23rd, was the best ever presented to a Mount Pleasant audience. Owing to other attractions on that evening, the attendance was not so large as it otherwise would have been. However a goodly number turned out to listen to the excellent music furnished, and which was thoroughly enjoyed by every one present, as was manifested by the frequent outbursts of applause, and number of encores accorded the different performers.

As on every occasion on which they appear, the Misses Belleghem delighted the audience with their duets, and responded to well-merited encores, as did also Miss Clara in her vocal solo, which was rendered with remarkable sweetness and expression.

Mr. H. D. Williamson, the man of music, gave a rich musical treat on his many different instruments, which comprise the cornet, violin, autoharp, ocarina, musical bottles, etc. He is indeed a whole concert in himself.

Mr. A. R. Benson was the funny man of the evening and kept the audience in roars of laughter with his character songs, etc. As a humourous vocalist Mr. Benson has not a superior.

The accompaniments of the evening were played by Miss Melrose, Mr. Fowler and Mr. H. D. Williamson.

Should this excellent array of talent again visit Mount Pleasant this season we bespeak for them a bumper house.

Honest Help.

Thousands of men are suffering because they lack the courage to make known their early errors and to endeavour to remedy them. Nervous weakness, loss of manhood and the many ills due to early discretions, excesses or overwork can be quickly, successfully and permanently cured if you will only let the right people know what ails you. Write to me in confidence and I will tell you free of charge how to get cured. I have nothing to sell, but am desirous of honestly helping you. Perfect secrecy assured. A CONFIDENCE EXISTS Between the People and This Store.

Born of an acquaintance of twenty-three years of mutual service—a certainty that customers are served with the best selections of Fashionable Clothing—and that whatever they purchase they get at the lowest cost it can be given for, honestly.

This confidence increases as we do better, and we can trust the public to discover what is to their own interest.

Whatever the lowest prices for Ready-to-wear Clothing are in any store, it is more than likely there are better values here.

A price that is sheer cost to some is often a price at which we sell.

NOTHING FINER
In Ready-Made Suits and Overcoats can be procured than those represented by the prices here quoted.

Custom Tailoring
Very Fashionable, Extra Fine.

Look in all the windows you like and see if you can find more Satisfying styles of Cloths for Suits or Overcoats, or more Nobby Vestings and Trouserings, than ours. Regular customers of our Custom Tailoring Department come regularly and select here, because they are assured of the best of service, highest in tailoring and lowest in prices.

We start to make to measure Canadian Tweed Suits at $12.50, Scotch Tweed at $15, $17 and $18—being 20 and 25 per cent. less than former years. Trousers $3.00, $3.50, $4 00, $4.50, according to quality of cloth.

STARTLING

SIXTY DAYS SALE

—AT THE—

GOLDEN LION.

Always prepared for all the shopping demands of a careful and exacting people—this store is NEVER BEHIND, and every day adds to its popularity. Our policy is unchanging. Every day's experience proves that OUR VALUES ARE THE BEST in the trade.

It makes no difference what others say about goods, or what others get for them—at this store the aim is straight for one point, viz :—To get the best and give it at the right rate, as low or lower than any other house in Canada! Anything short of the top in Extent of Stock, Excellence of Service, Endeavors for Improvement, would never do for this establishment. The record of the present year finds us far ahead in each of the above three particulars.

ON SATURDAY, NOV. 2nd, we inaugurate a Startling 60 Days' Sale of New Season's Goods that must be cleared out with the utmost expedition. It shall be so. It's Fair's Way. Bargains are common—But the Bargains quoted below are of so startling a character as to command the immediate attention of every possible buyer in Peterborough and vicinity.

SOME OF FAIR'S SIXTY DAYS' OFFERINGS:

FAIR'S DRESS GOODS

Our assortments are not only abundant, but we are offering the best values by many shillings and many inches than we have ever shown before.

—500 Yards 40 inch Melton Cloth 15c., formerly 20c.

—600 Yards 42 inch Twilled Melton Cloth 20c., formerly 25c.

—300 Yards Scotch Tweed Dress Goods 18c., formerly 25c.

—40 inch Plaid Dress Goods 15c., formerly 20c.

—54 inch All Wool Tweed 60c., formerly $1.00.

We have placed on tables in the centre of the store, under the sky light, 55 pieces of high-class Dress Goods (all this season's make) in Black and Colors, to be sold at prices ranging at from 25c. to 75c., former price from 35c. to $1.10 per yard.

For instance we are selling $1.10 quality, very fine Black, with small effect in pattern, at 75c., and the balance consists of Serges, Tweeds, Basket Effects and all the new and popular weaves.

Heavy 36 inch Skirtings, worth 35c., for 25c.

25c. Skirtings for 19c. 22c. Skirting for 15c.

MANTLE DEPARTMENT.

FAIR'S, the People's Mantle House. We cater for high and low, rich and poor. We give the best value because we buy on the best terms in the world's best markets.

Our sales in this department are 50 per cent. larger than any previous season.

On one table we have a lot of high-priced, Heavy Cloth well made Winter Mantles, in Ladies' and Children's which we are clearing at $2.00 and $3.00 per garment.

Bargains in Mantle Cloths, Golf Cloths and Ulsterings. Cut and fitted free.

FAIR'S WINTER MILLINERY

Elegant new styles on exhibition and charming Novelties in full display. Welcome to all, if only to look!

New ideas in Trimmed and Untrimmed Felt Hats and Shapes; Trimmings, Hat and Bonnet Ornaments, &c. You'll see more new Winter Styles here than you ever saw before, and get more for your money, if you happen to buy.

FAIR'S store is progressive, and the new Winter Millinery gives every evidence of leadership, with values supremely good and styles extremely fashionable. Years ago storekeeping was different; who would have thought then of Millinery being sold so cheap But then trains ran slower and we had no telephone or electric light or elevator, now we have all these things and a model store. We never take a back step—that means something; neither are we satisfied with standing still. People appreciate our improvements when they look back and see how the Golden Lion has grown.

STAPLE DEPARTMENT.

There is no department in the whole store as prolific of surprises as this same Staple Department. A thousand and one things here that you want for your home, and which we cannot find space for. We note a few:

—40 Pieces All Wool Grey Flannel 12½c., worth 18c.

ORILLIA DISGRACED.

Six Men Under Arrest Charged With Debauching the Children of Respectable People

Orillia, Oct. 30.—A case is now being tried in the Police Court here involving several people. Yesterday morning the news spread round town that six men, whose ages range from 25 to 50 years, had been arrested for having improper relations with a number of young girls, most of whom are under 15 years. The report proved true and the names of six of the parties are Delaney, Johnson, O'Brien, Cashman, Fruhl and Gill.

The men are being tried separately, Fruhl being on trial this morning; and Gill and O'Brien are under lock and key, while the others are out on bail until their term comes.

The case is considered a very disgraceful affair and there is talk of the impropriety of allowing any of the parties charged out on bail in so serious a matter.

The young girls are the children of respectable parents and the outrage is a subject of indignation in the community.

There is a rumor that others are involved besides those already arrested

Canadian Apples in England.

London, Oct. 30.—Three thousand five hundred barrels of apples received per steamer Madura, from Halifax, were sold here to-day. KingTomkyns brought 15s a barrel, Ribstons 11s to 14s, and various other varieties from 5s 6d to 10s.

Liverpool, Oct. 30.—Twelve thousand barrels of Canadian and American apples, per steamers Etruria, Sagamore, Lake Ontario and Parkmore, were sold here to-day. Canadian Baldwins brought from 13s to 16s a barrel. King's 18s to 20s Northern Spies 13s to 15s, and Greenings 11s 6d to 12s 6d.

Five Killed at a Dance.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 30.—A special from Monolova, Mexico, says a party of 20 young men of prominent families went in wagons from Torreon to attend a dance at a ranch last Monday night. On their return a quarrel took place between the members of the party and a desperate conflict occurred. Five of the party were killed and 10 seriously wounded.

THE HOLMES TRIAL.

Mrs. Pitezel Tells Her Story in the Court Room.

FULLY IDENTIFIES THE PRISONER

The Woman Averts Her Face From the Fixed Gaze of the Prisoner—Detailed Account of Her Wanderings in Search of Husband and Children.

Philadelphia, Oct. 30.—The third day of the Holmes trial opened promptly at 10 o'clock this morning. Holmes came in with the usual half smile upon his face that he has worn every morning, and saluted the court officers cheerfully.

More people were in the court room this morning than any day yet, in anticipation of more sensational evidence than has yet been offered.

The first really important witness called was C. Laforest Perry, assistant to the president of the Fidelity Mutual Life Association, the company which Holmes swindled out of $10,000. Perry was the man who first worked up the insurance swindling case against Holmes and collected much of the evidence that has led to his trial for murder.

Mr. Perry identified the insurance policy for $10,000 taken out in November, 1893, by Pitezel, and the receipt of Jeptha D. Howe, the St. Louis attorney, acknowledging the payment of the money. The policy was paid the swindlers on Sept. 24, 1894, 22 days after Pitezel's death.

Mr. Perry told of the visit of Holmes, Howe and Alice Pitezel to the office of the insurance company prior to the visit to Potter's Field to exhume the body.

The next witness was William E. Geary, an inspector for the insurance company. Geary testified that he took Hedgepeth's statement in the St. Louis Penitentiary. This statement was produced in court and exception to the reading of it was taken by counsel for the defendant. Geary related the search for Holmes from St. Louis to Ogdensburg, N.Y., to Prescott, Canada, through New Hampshire and Burlington, Vermont, and finally to Boston. Geary took no part in the arrest of Holmes in Boston and was dismissed without cross-examination.

R. M. Hanscomb, Deputy Superintendent of Police in Boston, testified that he ordered Holmes' arrest upon receipt of a telegram from Fort Worth, Texas, charging him with stealing a horse.

After a tilt between Messrs. Graham and Rotan, Assistant District Attorney Barlow read Holmes' statement to he jury.

The statement was exceedingly lengthy, and in it Holmes purported to give the details of the conspiracy of Pitezel's movements after the swindle was perpetrated. In his statement Holmes gave it as his opinion that Pitezel and the children were alive and well. The statement was really a marvel of skilful circumstantial mendacity, and is worthy of such an accomplished liar as Holmes has proved himself to be. In it he gives the movements of himself, Pitezel and children, with every attention to all the small incidents that would happen to a man in traveling around the country.

While the statement was being read Inspector Hall of the Toronto police entered the court room accompanied by a man named Ryve, who lives at No. 18 St. Vincent-street, next door to the house occupied by Holmes in Toronto, and where he is accused of having killed the Pitezel girls. Ryves will be used by the Commonwealth to identify Holmes, and will testify that Holmes borrowed a shovel from him. The spade, the Commonwealth will allege, was used by Holmes to dig the graves for the children in the cellar of the Toronto house.

The reading of the statement occupied 40 minutes, and when Mr. Barlow had finished, the court took a recess until 2.15.

MRS. PITEZEL'S STORY

A Thrilling Recital of Her Wanderings in Search of Her Husband.

During the reading of the statement Mrs. Pitezel was brought in and given a seat at the side of the room.

Immediately after the reading of Holmes' deposition, Mrs. Pitezel was placed on the stand. The woman showed the terrible sufferings she has undergone in her face, but she walked unassisted to the stand. She carefully avoided looking at Holmes, but he gazed steadily and composedly at her for at least a minute. It was only when the district attorney asked her if she knew the prisoner, that Mrs. Pitezel for an instant raised her eyes to Holmes' face, and as she answered as she did, and quickly averted her look. Mrs. Pitezel was so weak that it was necessary for a court crier to repeat her answers to Mr. Graham's questions.

Under Mr. Graham's questioning it was slowly drawn from the woman that she knew Holmes, and that her husband had written her from Philadelphia that he expected to see her again.

When Mr. Graham asked Mrs. Pitezel if her husband had any interest in Holmes' castle in Chicago and the Fort Worth property the defence objected.

Mr. Graham stated that he asked the question for the purpose of showing Holmes' motive in killing Pitezel and the children.

The court overruled the objections, and Mrs. Pitezel said Holmes told her that he would put $5000 in the Fort Worth property and pay off a note falling due on September, 1889. The Fort Worth property was in the name of Benton F. Lyman, which was an alias of Pitezel's.

Frequent objections were entered by the defence to Mrs. Pitezel's testifying to matters which she only knew by hearsay. It was often necessary to repeat the questions asked Mrs. Pitezel; for the woman seemed in a stunned condition and it evidently required some mental effort for her to understand and answer interrogatories. Mrs. Pitezel testified that she employed Howe to collect the insurance money by the advice of Holmes. At the time Holmes told her that Pitezel was alive and was going round by Puget Sound.

Holmes told her that her husband had received her last letter, and she replied: "Oh, how could he do so, and get me in trouble."

Holmes told her that it was through his wife at Willemette, Ill., that the insurance company found him.

Alice started for Philadelphia with Howe, Holmes not being along. It was at Holmes' suggestion that the child was sent to Philadelphia, and both men promised to take good care of her. Holmes further promised that his "cousin" Minnie Williams, would be in Philadelphia to look after the girl. Mrs. Pitezel was sick at the time, and in no condition to combat such a man as Holmes. Holmes told her that he had arranged with her husband to have Minnie Williams come on and nurse her if she got very sick.

The next time she saw Holmes was on Sept 27, at her home in St. Louis. The boy had been identified and Holmes told her he had left Alice in Cincinnati, and as she would not want to leave the child alone he offered to take Nellie and Howard, the other two children, to her in Indianapolis. She took the children to the railroad station, and there they met Howe, who gave her $5 of the insurance money. Holmes and the children left, and she did not see Holmes again until Oct. 2, when the prisoner came to her house in St. Louis.

Holmes took her to the office of McDonald & Howe. There were present McDonald, Howe, a man named Cochran, Adolphus Howe, and a woman typewriter.

Howe said, "This is a fraud; I will wash my hands of it." She went out into the hall and someone called her back into McDonald's private office McDonald asked her to sign a paper, which she was opposed to doing. McDonald grew indignant at her suspicions and stated he did not want any reflections cast upon the office, as they did an honorable business. She was finally persuaded into signing the paper by A. R. Harvey.

Howe told her his fee would be $3000, and then cut it down to $2,500 for a cash settlement. Although ignorant of business, the amount struck Mrs. Pitezel as excessive, and she said so to Howe. Holmes borrowed $300 from her and then took her out to the bank. As they went out of the door, Harvey said, "Spring no traps." Holmes took her to the bank under the pretence of paying off a note on the Fort Worth property for $700. She gave him the money, and Holmes gave her a forged note, purporting to be the note he had taken up. All the money she got out of the $10,000 on her husband's life was $560.

When asked what had become of Holmes and Howe after paying her the money, Mrs. Pitezel appeared to be overcome and could not answer for a time. Continuing, she said she went to the ticket office of the railroad company and Holmes extorted another $100 from her on the plea that it would be necessary to pay the children's expenses. Holmes gave her a piece of paper and told her to write a few lines to the children, and advised her to leave St. Louis and go to the home of her parents at Galva, Ill.

Mrs. Pitezel was again overcome here and it was necessary for a friend to give her medicine.

Resuming, she said she next saw Holmes in Detroit on Oct. 14, where he decoyed her under the pretence that she would see her husband.

Another objection was entered to this line of examination by the defence, but it was not sustained by the court.

Dessie and the baby went with her and Holmes met her at the train. Holmes took the party to an hotel and in answer to her enquiries for her children he told her she would hear from them in a few days and that Alice was very busy with her school. Holmes registered the party at the hotel under the name of Adams. She remained at Detroit until Oct. 18.

In explanation of her husband's absence Holmes told her that he could not find a vacant house in Detroit for her to meet her husband in, and that she would not like to see him before a lot of people. Holmes told her the children were in Indianapolis and that they were well and all going to school, and that they had a comfortable home with a widow.

Holmes would never tell her the name of the woman he said the children were with. Holmes borrowed a big trunk from her on the morning of the 18th and started the party to Toronto. Holmes declined to allow her to send Dessie to Indianapolis and the girl went with her to Toronto.

It was by means of the old will-o'-the-wisp story of meeting her husband in Toronto that she went there. At Toronto Holmes took the party to the Union House and registered Mrs. Pitezel as Mrs. Adams again. When she did not met her husband Holmes told her he intended to rent a house and furnish it, and that Pitezel was waiting in Montreal to hear from him to come on. One day Holmes came in and told her two officers in plain clothes were watching the house he had rented, and it would not be safe for Pitezel to show up. Holmes brought her a short note written in cipher, that he said came from one of the children. He read it to her and as far as Mrs. Pitezel could recollect it was as follows:

"Dear Mamma,—We are well and going to school. Howard won't mind Alice. Will got dirty. We have plenty to eat and the woman is real good to us."

Whether this note was really from one of the children Mrs. Pitezel did not know.

On Oct. 25 she went out to do some shopping and accidentally met Holmes on the street. Holmes was greatly startled by meeting her on the street and told her he wanted her to leave Toronto that night. She and the two children left Toronto that night and went to Prescott, Ont., where they stayed at the National Hotel. From there they went to Burlington, Vt., where Holmes met them. He was angry that she did not come on the train he told her to, and said to her, "Whenever I tell you to do anything I want you to do it."

Holmes took the family to a house that he had rented and left them there. At Burlington Holmes told her that she should be known as "Cook." Again

Daily Examiner.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 31, 1895.

ALL of the three papers published at Orangeville are of the opinion that Cardwell will be lost to the Government.

THE Government will have to meet parliament with six vacant seats unless it summons courage enough to bring on the bye-elections before the session.

HIS tens of thousands of adherants and admirers will heartily congratulate Sir Oliver Mowat on his having yesterday entered on his twenty-fourth year as Premier of Ontario without a break.

THE Toronto World is determined to drag Hon. M. Chapleau from the seclusion of his gubernatorial position to enter the stormy arena of of the Dominion Cabinet. The Government wails out the Macedonian cry "Come over and help us."

MR. ROBERT S. WHITE'S resignation of his seat in Cardwell is different from that of Sir Charles Hibbert Tupper. Mr. White is out not for capital, but to stay. Mr. White declines to withdraw his resignation. He has written a long letter to his constituents, in which he explains his position. By very many his letter is regarded as practically amounting to an expression of his dissatisfaction with the Government for so long withholding the promised collectorship of the port of Montreal. He says in effect: "If you hesitate to appoint me, from fear of opening Cardwell, for an election, I will settle the question by resigning." What the Government has feared to bring about has been precipitated by one of their most prominent supporters, disgusted with their dilatoriness and lack of courage.

NEW BRUNSWICK has gone "Blair" with a few dissenting voices. Coalitions are, presumably, unstable affairs; but the New Brunswick case seems to be a violent exception to the rule. The probable truth is that the people of that province see the folly of complicating the difficult task of getting good local Government by adding the quarrels of Federal politics to the mixture. The Blair Government only differs, says the Montreal Star, in reality in this respect from most long standing Provincial Governments in letting the spirit of coalition reach the Council Chamber itself. It is plainly a coalition of the voters that keeps Mowat in power. Hamilton sends him a Minister, but elects two Conservatives to the Federal Parliament. Ottawa does precisely the same thing. A similar condition of things is seen in Nova Scotia and Manitoba, while it is doubtful if strict party lines prevail even in Prince Edward Island; and there they have had a change recently.

THE Toronto Telegram is not given to enthusiasm over Liberalism, and therefore the following from its columns in regard to Hon. Wilfred Laurier's reception in Toronto is of special significance: "No Opposition leader in this country has received a higher compliment than that paid to Wilfrid Laurier by the Liberals, old and young, who walked in the wake of his carriage. It has been the custom for the leaders to supply the torches and for the small boys to do the rest. The Young Liberals have the courage of their affection for an illuminated demonstration. They carry torches themselves, and give no small boys power of attorney to line up the festive scene on behalf of gentlemen who are too proud to shine in the lights which they paid for. The Young Liberals took chances when they risked the daring experiment of a torchlight procession in Toronto. The failure of the demonstration would have harmed their leader more than its success would have helped him in Ontario."

THE French Chamber of Deputies has been for some time looking for an occasion for overthrowing the Government, which has been in office about a year, altogether too long a time to suit the lively political temper of the Gallic people. It was generally expected that a Madagascar disaster would give the opportunity looked for, and the French Chamber waited day after day looking for the account of the failure to reach Antananarivo, which would justify them in guillotining the Ribot Ministry, but instead came news of the triumphant and unopposed entry of the troops into the Malagasy capital. This was exasperating, so, hardly waiting to congratulate the Ministry on the success of its Madagascar policy, the Chamber has cut off its head for the old crime for which ministry after ministry has forfeited its existence, the failure to prosecute corruption in the public service. Canadians are more complacent in regard to frauds and corruption in political life.

THE QUEEN USES THEM.

Her Majesty Queen Victoria is said to Use Proprietary Medicines—Other Queens Testify to their Wonderful Effects—One Says: "I Consider South American Nervine the Only Remedy on the Market for Stomach Disorder.

ONE feature of Queen Victoria's character is her freedom from prejudice. In matters of statesmanship, and equally so in those of the smaller affairs of life, she takes a broad common-sense view of the situation. There is, therefore, nothing wonderful in the report that in her recent illness Her Majesty used, and was greatly benefitted, by a leading proprietary medicine.

Other queens, the queens of the homes of Canada, have followed in the footsteps of Her Majesty, and found in proprietary medicines the avenue to health that they feared they had lost.

Residing near Dundalk, Ont., is Mrs. D. McArthur, one who brightly fills the position of queen in the home of one of the leading farmers in that district. Let her tell her own story: "For fifteen years I was troubled with dyspepsia, and during the winter previous to using South American Nervine I was confined to my bed, and my life despaired of. At intervals I consulted several leading doctors, but with little or no relief, as they claimed my case to be of a chronic nature. I was induced to try South American Nervine, and had taken only a few bottles when health came back to me, and finally I was completely restored. Knowing how desperate was my case, I feel safe in saying that for my stomach disorder there is no remedy like South American Nervine."

A meeting was held at Foster's, Thursday, Oct. 24th, to decide about the building of a Methodist church. There were three offers of suitable building sites, and it was unanimously decided to build on Mr. McFadden's land at the corner. A good start was made towards raising the necessary funds and we believe the church will be completed by next spring.

The Methodists will hold their annual tea meeting in Foster's School House on Tuesday, Nov. 5th. The committees are at work seeing about the programme, etc. A good time may be expected, so let all come.

New and Stylish Furs

IN CAPES we have Mink, Sable, Persian Lamb, Grey Lamb and all popular Furs at moderate prices. High prices do not make good Furs. Good Furs means something else than good Fur and Trimmings. It means that fine finishing touch that is so rare. It means style and "tone." Just examine the "hang" and sweep of our Fur Capes. Then you will realize what good furs are. Don't judge by the prices, but see the stock.

BELMONT AND METHUEN.

Council Meeting.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Pursuant to notice the council met at the town hall, on Saturday, Oct. 12th. Members were all present, J. B. Peoples, reeve, in the chair.

A communication came from Marmora with copies of an agreement made and signed by J. W. Pearce, reeve of Marmora and Lake, J. B. Peoples, reeve of Belmont and Methuen, J. L. Aunger and E. D. Boyd agreeing to abide by the survey of Henry Cane, P. L. S., in the matter of the boundary line between Belmont and Marmora, across lots 6 and 7. The account of $14.98 being the Belmont portion of the expense of the survey.

Moved by Messrs. Aunger and Dexsmith that the council meet on the 16th day of December to pass a bylaw to close up the Belmont portion of the boundary line between Belmont and Marmora, across lot 6, and also to pass a bylaw to open the Belmont portion of the boundary line between Belmont and Marmora, opposite lots 6 and 7, and to confirm the survey of Henry Cane, P. L. S.

Application of Joseph Doupe, in the matter of salary as assessor, he claiming that there was a balance due him of $10.00, but rather than have trouble he would take $5.00, to be paid that day.

Moved by Messrs. Caskey and Sexsmith, that the Doupe application be received and laid over.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Aunger and Sexsmith, that John Johnston be paid $2.50 for repairing of Plateau Creek bridge, Norwood road, west end of con. 8.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Wilson and Caskey, that T. L. Ackerman be paid $5.00 for repairing of Plateau Creek bridge, Norwood road, on east end of con. 8.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Wilson and Sexsmith, that in the claim of Mr. Doupe for extra salary as assessor, that no action be taken.

Moved in amendment by Messrs. Aunger and Caskey, that Mr. Doupe be paid $5 00 as an addition to his salary as assessor for 1895. The reeve voted for the original motion, which was carried.

Moved by Messrs. Sexsmith and Caskey, that the account of $24.10, for repair of Ballyporeen Creek bridge, near Williams' saw mill, be paid.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Caskey and Wilson, that H. Chase be paid the sum of $24.20 for 15 pieces of cedar for covering of bridge at C. Wilde's, and Absalom Brown be paid $1.75 for laying covering of bridge and taking out stone in watering place.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Sexsmith and Caskey, that John Kitchen be paid the sum of 50c. for plank to cover bridge on Norwood road, near the cheese factory.—Carried.

The reeve reported the matter of the claims of J. Allan and J. L. Aunger for sheep killed by dogs.

In the matter of the claim of W. B. Sander for compensation for road in S ½ lot 12, con. 3 Belmont: Moved by Mr. Caskey that the clerk write to the Crown Lands Department and get particulars.—Carried.

In the matter of the application of A. Leeson for use of the road allowance on second concession line, lot 12, Belmont:—Moved by Messrs. Wilson and Caskey that Mr. Leeson have temporary occupation of the road allowance till required by the municipality.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Aunger and Caskey that the matter of the bridge or culvert opposite lot 6 con. 1 be left in the hands of the deputy reeve.—Carried.

Mr. Leeson offered to give the right of way on his land (on condition that the present travelled road be moved off lot 12, con. 3, to the concession line) free of compensation. This offer to remain open for two years, but in the event of his disposing of his property before the two years this offer not to be binding—Received.

From Healey Chase, in the matter of arrears of taxes—to be looked into.

A bylaw to appoint deputy returning officers and polling places, received its several readings. Amount voted October 12th, $28.33; amount previously voted, $1,077.70; amount voted up to date, $1,106.03. Council adjourned to 15th of December.

Another Council Meeting.

Pursuant to notice the council met at the town hall, on Thursday, Oct. 24th. The reeve addressed the council, his reasons for calling the council being that W. B. Saunders had given the reeve notice of an arbitration.

Moved by Messrs. Wilson and Aunger that $7 be paid, made up as follows,—A. Brown, $1, A. Quackerbush, $2; H. Fraser, $4.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Aunger and Dexsmith that the pathmaster repair bridge near Samuel Davis' at the lowest cost.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Aunger and Dexsmith that Frank Post be paid $1 for work on road from Oak Lake road to Wood's.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Aunger and Wilson that W. B. Saunders be paid $30 as compensation for road across lot 12, con. 3, Belmont. Mr. Saunders to withdraw the arbitration.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Caskey and Aunger, that J. Doupe be paid $5 00 as extra salary as assessor.—Carried.

Moved by Messrs. Aunger and Sexsmith, that J. Sampson be paid $25 as compensation for his horse, which broke through crossway south of Norwood road, seventh concession line, and broke its leg.—Carried.

Amount voted 24th of October, $68.00; previously voted, $1,106 03; voted up to date, $1,174.03.

Council adjourned.

Who does not know women and young girls, who are continually in tears? Who always see the dark side? Who have frequent fits of melancholy without any apparent cause? The intelligent physician will know that it is some derangement of the complicated and delicate feminine organs. The young girl suffers, bodily and mentally, in silence. There is undue weariness, unexpected pain, unreasonable tears and fits of temper. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription exerts a wonderful power over woman's delibate organism. It is an invigorating tonic and is specific for the peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and painful derangements of woman. Careless, easy-going doctors frequently treat their women patients for biliousness, nervousness, dyspepsia, liver or kidney troubles, when the real sickness is in the organs distinctly feminine, and no help can come till they are made perfectly strong by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

TWENTY-THREE YEARS A PREMIER.

Sir Oliver Mowat Yesterday Completed His 23rd Year in Office.

Sir Oliver Mowat enters to-day upon his twenty-fourth year as Premier and Attorney-General of Ontario, and in looking back over the period during which he has guided the destinies of the province, one cannot help remarking the lack of sensationalism which has characterized his administration. It speaks greatly for the astuteness of the Little Premier that at the advanced age of 75 he still retains the influence over his followers which in 1863 led to his appointment as Postmaster-General, and later on in 1872 to his present position. If an old common law maxim could be applied to politics, there would be no doubt that Sir Oliver has acquired a prescriptive right to the premiership.

Sir Oliver was born on July 22, 1820. At the age of 17 he entered the law office of Sir John A. Macdonald, and was called to the bar in 1841, shortly afterwards leaving Kingston for Toronto. In 1846 he married Jane, the second daughter of the late John Ewart of Toronto. He was created a Q.C. in 1856. In the same year Hon. J. A. Macdonald appointed him commissioner for consolidating the statutes of Canada and Upper Canada. In 1857 he was elected member for South Oxford, which he represented until 1864. Upon the fall of the Macdonald-Cartier Government in 1867, he was selected, though he had only been one year in the House, to fill the office of Provincial Secretary, in the Brown-Dorion administration, an office which he held only four days. He held the portfolio of Postmaster-General in the Coalition Government of Hon. John Sanfield Macdonald from 1861 to 1864. He was also a member of the memorable Union Conference which framed the Confederation scheme in 1864. In the same year he was appointed Vice-Chancellor of Upper Canada, an office he held until Oct. 31, 1872, when he was appointed member of the Executive Council and Attorney-General, positions he still holds. Sir Oliver is also an ex-officio bencher of the Ontario Law Society, and head of the law firm of Mowat, Downey & Langton, and an honorary LL.D. of Toronto University. For two years he sat in the City Council and has been president of the Canadian Institute. As Vice-Chancellor, he was appointed under 34 Vic., chap. 7, to report upon Estate Bills. He was returned by acclamation to his present seat in North Oxford in Nov., 1872, again in 1875 and was re-elected at the general elections of '79, '83, '86, '90 and '94.

THOSE SEALING CLAIMS.

The Convention at Washington Proceeding in a Satisfactory Way.

Washington, Oct. 30.—The negotiations looking to the preparation for a convention for the settlement of the seizures of the Canadian vessels in Behring Sea, which were begun on Monday last by Sir Julian Pauncefote and Secretary Olney, were resumed this morning. Sir Julian was accompanied by Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Sir Charles Tupper of Ottawa. Two hours were devoted to the consideration of the matter when an adjournment was taken until to-morrow. The proceedings were characterized by the utmost good feeling and the work of completing the convention is proceeding in a satisfactory manner.

The convention will provide, it is said, for a mixed commission to assess the damages due to the owners of vessels seized prior to the meeting of the Paris Tribunal.

Rheumatism Runs Riot

When there is lactic acid in the blood, liniments and lotions will be of no permanent benefit. A cure can be accomplished only by neutralizing this acid and for this purpose Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best medicine because Hood's Sarsaparilla is the only true blood purifier prominently in the public eye.

Brodie's $5000 Purse.

Chicago, Oct. 28.—Steve Brodie is disgusted at the finale fiasco, and has determined to see whether Corbett and Fitzsimmons really want to fight. He accordingly offers a purse of $5,000 to be contested for in private with 20 men on a side. He has posted a forfeit of $500, and says he stands ready to pull off the fight. Brodie admits that he is not unaware of the advertising that such a scheme will bring him, but is willing to pay $5000 to see who is the champion.

"I am worth $7000," said he, "and can afford to spend a small part of it out of curiosity. I'm tired hearing these fellows talk, and want them to fight. Here are $5000 for one of them to pick up. I won't charge a cent to the 40 men who will be admitted, and won't make a cent out of the fight. If they want to fight here is the money. If they don't want to fight they are newspaper fighters, not prize fighters."

When asked where he expected to pull off the mill, Brodie declined to name the exact locality. "You may say," he said, "that it will take place in the State of New York. I have pulled off fights there before, and can do it again. I won't advertise it. I will simply notify the men where to come, and the first the public will know of it will be when it learns the result."

John L. Hitting Hard.

John L. Sullivan nearly knocked Paddy Ryan out when the twain boxed last night in New York. Ryan and Sullivan, of course, both deny this, but persons in a position to know say that John L. drove his right into Paddy's face with something like his old-time pile-driving strength.

Catarrh can be successfully treated only by purifying the blood, and the one true blood purifier is Hood's Sarsaparilla.

What Should Influence You in the Purchase of a

PIANO?

If within the last 40 years we have grown from one small factory to have the largest in Canada, and from one factory wareroom to a branch warerooms in some of the largest cities and towns in the Dominion, is it not a safe argument in favour of our goods?

Can we afford to throw away for a few dollars profit a reputation which we have gained by years of hard, honest work?

In selling a Piano there is something more than the profit on the immediate sale. There is the opportunity of making other sales where goods prove reliable.

Is it unreasonable for us to say that being the manufacturers of reliable instruments we are in the position to save you the dealer's or jobber's profit, and that our guarantee upon a Piano means 100 cents on the dollar?

Cheap Boots and Shoes.

Mr. John McNaughton, Sherbrooke St., is selling his excellent stock of boots and shoes and rubber goods at prices lower than George street merchants. How is this done? you ask. Well, it is easily explained, he has no heavy rent to pay, he has no expensive clerks to pay, he buys and sells, himself, and can, consequently, outsell all cash competition. His great sale is now going on and his receipts last week were the largest on record. His goods are the best to be had. He buys only from the best makers and sells direct to his customers. You will save money by buying your boots and shoes and rubbers from the cash store of John McNaughton, corner Bethune and Sherbrooke streets. Now is the time to buy. HALLOWE'EN.

A Mysterious Festival—Now Generally Sacred to the Mischievous Small Boy.

To-night is Hallowe'en—the eve of All Saints' Day. This night is surrounded with a great amount of superstition and superstitious ceremony, which has degenerated in these degenerated days into horse play, and often more malicious than mischievous pranks. It was the custom of the early church to supplant a heathen holiday with a Christian festival, whenever possible. So when All-Saints Day was instituted, November 1st, the day of the heathen thanksgiving to the Sun Gods, was chosen as the time. But the modern boy links no religious associations with his observance of the night. Instead of invoking spirits and performing spells and incantations, with the parings of apples, or eating an apple before a looking glass, to discover the name of their future life partner, they are making a dark onslaughts on cabbage gardens and committing raids on removable gates and loosely-hanging signs. Hallowe'en is generally regarded as a relic of pagan days, and the small boy acts as though it was his special mission to verify the correctness of this theory. The citizens of Peterborough would do well to make everything snug about the premises this evening and put everything portable under lock.

BENSFORT BRIDGE.

Otonabee People the First to Use it.

The people of Otonabee seem to have a higher appreciation of the benefit of this bridge than their representatives. The three first persons to use the bridge were from that township. Mr. Powers, of Otonabee, was first to cross on the 23rd, on horse back, and when he got on the bridge he woke the echoes with his lusty cheers. The second was Mr. R. Hallihan, also of Otonabee, who crossed on the 24th with a buggy. On Friday, Mr. R. Corkery, another Otonabee man, crossed with a team and waggon. The first South Monaghan man to cross the bridge was Mr. Robert Thorne on Saturday; afterwards, J. Buckham, W. R. Morrison, T. Weaver and a number of others. Since then several have crossed. The Commissioners are busy and expect to have the approaches in good shape on Saturday of this week.

In connection with the report of the opening, which appeared last Thursday, the name of Mr. Wm. R. Morrison was omitted from the list of Commissioners, and Mr. Stirton's name was incorrectly printed Stenton.

28 lbs. Yellow Sugar, $1.00, at Waller & Co's.

Lamps.

China Hall is running off a job lot of Vase Lamps, worth from $2.50 to $5.00, for $1.50 all round. Don't miss this bargain.

The Great Fight.

In case the Fitzsimmons Corbett fight should be brought off to-day, full reports will be given at the Pullman House to-night.

Captain Reynolds' Drowning.

Up to noon to-day the body of Captain Reynold's had not been recovered, but the search for the remains is being diligently prosecuted. Much sympathy is expressed for his bereaved family.

Will Begin Early.

On account of the length of the programme, the I. O. G. T. social to-night will commence at 7.45. Members and those invited will confer a favour on the committee by being sharp on time. A pleasant evening is anticipated.

The Fault of Your Ledger

Need not anger you any more. Lay it aside and get one of our flat-opening, can't-break-the cover ledgers. Not expensive—but we know something about making ledgers that others don't know. Day books, cash books, journals, etc., same style.—A. H. STRATTON & Co.

The Lock Works Question.

At a meeting of the special committee appointed to deal with the Lock Works question last night, the bylaw was drawn up in accordance with the requirements of the company. The town solicitor was present and aided the committee with his suggestions. The bylaw will be introduced at the council meeting on Monday night.

"Be Cautious."

On buying China, Glassware, Silverware, &c., see that you get the best value for your money. Prices that may seem low, compared with last year or two years ago, would be high compared with this year's values. China Hall is leading in low prices, as it always has, and it will pay you to buy direct from us anything you may need in the above lines, as we will positively sell the same goods lower than any other house in the trade.

Used Tobacco For Thirty Years.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 10, 1894.

UNCLE SAM'S TOBACCO CURE, CHICAGO, ILL. GENTLEMEN:—Regarding my opinion of the "Uncle Sam's Tobacco Cure," I would say: I have used the "filthy weed" for over thirty years, but after using the "Uncle Sam's Tobacco Cure" one week, I lost all taste or desire for it. This is some two months ago. Respectfully, JOHN G. LEE. Call at J. Lynch's drug store, Hunter street, and get a box of tablets.

Catching and Shipping "Mud Cats."

Quite a number of fishermen are just now engaged in angling for "mudcats," an occupation which they find both pleasant and profitable. Sometimes this marketable species of the finny tribe are hauled out in great numbers, but so far this fall the catch with the greater number of the fishermen has not been large. The fish are shipped in barrels to Buffalo and other cities on the American side, and find ready sale on the markets. Very good prices are realised at all times, and when the season is favourable those engaged in the business seem to be compensated for their labour.

"The Cat's Paw" Coming.

Manager Bradburn, of the Opera House, announces with great pleasure the fact that he has secured the great laughing success of the age, "A Cat's Paw." This company will appear Monday, Nov. 11th, when will undoubtedly occur an event that will bring forth our most discriminating and fashionable theatre-goers, it being the first presentation of "A Cat's Paw," the one great laugh-maker of the season. The comedy is from the pen of that prince of all humorists, Max O'Rell. Mr. Samuel Edwards, who enacts the part of Jonathan Perkins, a wealthy glue manufacturer, is one of the most genuinely funny comedians on the American stage. Watch for large posters.

"D" COMPANY'S GRAND BANQUET LAST NIGHT.

IT WAS HELD AT THE ORIENTAL HOTEL.

An Excellent Menu and an Entertaining Programme—A Grand Day in Town on the 24th of May Next.

No. 4 Company of the Rangers has been noted for the past six or seven years for the grandness of its annual suppers and the one which was held by the members of that company last evening was quite equal to, if not ahead, of any of its predecessors.

It was held in the dining room of the Oriental, which was most beautifully decorated for the occasion with flags, bunting and mottoes. The cut flowers and potted plants on the tables also contributed to beautify and enliven the room.

Capt. Lech occupied the chair. At his right were Lt.-Col. Bell, Adjutant Mason and Capt. Hayes, and at his left Lieut. Vernon McGill. The menu, which is appended comprised all the delicacies of the season, prepared in a manner, which reflected great credit on Miue Host Graham, of the Oriental.

After full justice had been done the excellent menu, cigars were lighted and chairs drawn back. As the tiny spirals of smoke began to ascend and the men were comfortably settled, the toast list of the evening was opened:

The first toast proposed by Capt. Lech, was that of the "Queen," and a hearty bumper was drunk to her health after the National Anthem had been rendered.

In proposing the toast of "Our Commanding Officer," Capt. Lech coupled with the toast the phrase "the most popular officer we ever expect to have."

The Colonel stated in his response that if he was deserving of the compliment it was one of the highest that could be paid him, as in order to be a popular commanding officer, it was necessary to exercise a wise discipline, as his popularity would soon ware if he did not inspire

CONFIDENCE AND RESPECT.

A commanding officer who was too easy going could not possibly be popular. Obedience was the first duty of a soldier, whether he was an officer or a private. Unpleasant duties had to be performed by all at times, but nothing unfair to a man would be asked of him. If such happened to be the case, however, obedience was still the first law, but redress could certainly be afterwards obtained. The Colonel then stated that a great effort would be made to bring two or more outside battalions to Peterborough on the 24th of May next. Heretofore, this project had failed through the authorities being dilatory in

FORWARDING THE PROPOSITION.

This year the idea would be pushed early in the season, and he urged the men to talk up the project in order to awaken the necessary amount of enthusiasm required to make the day a grand success. In speaking of Colonel Gibson's retirement from the command of the 13th Battalion, Colonel Bell stated that this officer's career in military circles had been almost identical with his own, both having entered as privates in 1866, and worked upward through all the ranks to that of commanding officer. He only hoped that when he retired from the command, he would leave the 57th in as effective a state as the 13th of Hamilton.

Col. Bell then proposed the health of the officers of the Company, and urged the men to do their utmost to back them up to make the company a good one. Capt. Lech had been almost on the point of leaving the company this fall, but had been persuaded to remain on for a time. He hoped that he would reconsider his determination of withdrawing from the company, and remain on with Lieut. McGill to work the men up to such a pitch of perfection that the cup would be carried off next year.

Capt. Lech, in responding, stated that he was proud of his company, proud of the way in which they pulled together under his subordinate Lieut. McGill and the non-commissioned officers in his enforced absence through press of business. They had come very near winning the cup this year, and he was sure they would carry it off next season. The holding of inspection earlier in the year would probably enable him to remain on at the head of his company. No. 4 had received more recruits this year than in any one previous season, and yet notwithstand this fact the company had done splendidly at inspection.

Lieut. McGill did not think he was at all worthy of the praise given him by the Colonel, but he hoped to merit it better in the future, Although the cup had not been won this year, he hoped by earnest endeavour it would be carried off by No. 4 next season.

The toast of the non-commissioned officers of No. 4 brought Sergeants Distin and Smith and Corporals Evans and Trennum to their feet.

Pte. Thorndyke made a rattling little speech to turn out next spring and do their utmost to win the cup.

The names of Sgt.-Major Peters and Bandmaster F. Miller were coupled with the toast of "The Seargeants' Mess and the Band." The Sergeant-Major in responding told the men he would be very glad to take as many, as wished, in hand for the winter classes. He would be glad to help them all he could. He guaranteed if No. 4 Company would put itself in his hands during the winter and attend class regularly that the cup would fall to No. 4 next year.

Bandmaster Miller also made an able response to the toast.

Captain Hayes' humourous ditty called for a hearty chorus and was greatly appreciated.

In response to a unanimous call Sgt.-Major Peters then gave "Dot Leetle German Band" which had BECOME SUCH A FAVOURITE

with the Battalion.

Pte. Sherwood's battle song of the exploits of "Cardigan the Fearless" was most appropriate and greatly appreciated.

Pte. Dugan and Capt. Hayes then sang "Killaloo" in a manner which brought down the house.

"The Old Brigade" was the title of a well rendered solo by Capt. Lech, in response to a hearty call for a song from him.

The name of Capt. Hayes was mentioned in connection with the toast of "The other companies." When responding Captain Hayes related the history of the incident of how No. 4 earned its name of the "Eating Company." He hoped in conclusion that if his own company did not carry off the cup next year,

THAT NO 4 WOULD.

The toast of "The Press" was most kindly received and was responded to by the representativss of the local papers who were present.

The health of the privates of No. 4 was proposed by Capt. Hayes, who stated that No. 4 owed much to its privates, as well as to its officers.

Pte. Duggan, as senior private, responded.

Ptes. Hall and Ferguson were called upon to respond to the toast of "The Ladies." Lieut. McGill was also named in connection with this toast.

The toast of "The Baby of the Company" was proposed by Col. Bell. The name of Pte. A. Hall was connected with the toast.

Sergt.-Major Peters was then called on for a recital of his experiences in the Northwest rebellion, which proved most interesting, indeed. His thrilling experiences and narrow escapes on board the barges on which his company embarked at Fish Creek formed a theme which held the attention of all for fully half an hour.

Adjutant Mason, who came in just before the close of the entertainment, made a few remarks anent the pleasantness of the occasion, after which the gathering broke up, with three cheers for the company, three for the officers of it, three for the 57th, three more for the commanding officer, and three for the Queen.

All we have ever said of the curative virtues of Ayer's Sarsaparilla sinks into insignificance when compared with the statements made by those who have been benefited by the use of this wonderful blood-purifier. Many of the cures seem indeed almost incredible.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH, EMILY.

A Splendid New Church at Downeyville — Religious History of the Parish.

The Lindsay Post of Wednesday printed fine photo-engravings of the new Roman Catholic church of St. Luke's, Emily, and a portrait of the pastor, Rev. C. S. Bretherton, well-known in Peterborough, together with an interesting sketch of the history of the parish :

The northern portion of the township of Emily, which constitutes the parish of St. Luke, was one of the earliest settled districts in Central Ontario. The first settlers came into this country with the Robinson immigrants in 1825, and, tempted by the fertility of the soil in Emily, took up land there. The spiritual necessities of the settlers were not well attended to at that time, for pastors were scattered and few, there being in 1825 only six Catholic priests in all Ontario. The first regular pastoral visits to Emily were made by Rev. James Crowley, who went to live near Peterborough in 1828. Only a few visits were made by Father Crowley, but these occasions were times of rejoicing for the settlers. These were known as "Stations," and consisted in the celebration of mass and the administration of sacraments in the cabin of some settler in a central portion of the settlement. Father Crowley was succeeded in the pastorate of Peterborough mission by Rev. Jas. Bennett, in Dec. 1832, and Father Bennett by Rev. Timothy O'Meara, in Sept. 1833. The Peterborough mission in that day reached from Peterborough and Cobourg westward to Bowmanville, and northward as far as Orillia, and in the trackless condition of the country at that time pastoral visitations were made with great difficulty. Fathers Bennett and O'Meara made only one visit each to Ops, and it is probable a visit to Emily was made at the same time. After the appointment of Father Butler to the Peterborough mission in 1835, more frequent and regular attendance to the people of Emily was the rule, and the older members of the parish of many religious occasions at which Father Butler officiated. The succeeding pastors were Rev. Hugh Fitzpatrick, of the parish of Lindsay, who ministered to the mission, and about 1840 erected the first church, a mile west of the present church, which was followed by a substantial frame church, erected in 1858 on the present site by Rev. Father Coyle. Rev. Father McEvay, (uncle of Mgr. McEvay, of Hamilton, and formerly rector of St. Peter's Cathedral, went to Lindsay as pastor in 1844, followed by Rev. Dr. Chisholm in 1848, and he served the mission of St. Luke's till the appointment, in 1851, of the first resident priest of St. Luke's, Rev. Father Bourke, who received faculties for Emily and Eniamore. With the presence of a resident pastor in the parish. A fair amount of worldly thrift rewarded the labours of the settlers, but in times of sickness, when immediate attendance by the pastor at the death-bed was imperative, the trip to Peterborough through a dense wilderness took up too much time on many occasions, and the settler died without which are the desire of every Catholic. But the priest's residence in the settlement ended this, and christenings, marriages and other religious ceremonies were performed when the occasion arose. On the death of Father Bourke, in 1857, Rev. Bernard Coyle succeeded and filled the pastorate for twenty years. To him succeeded Rev. Father Hogan, and to him Rev. Father Connolly, who rendered most important services to the parish. He built a new residence and his desire to add to it a new or renewed church was only prevented by his transference to another parish. The work of completing the new church was reserved for Father Bretherton, and to say that the work has been well done is to state but a small part of the truth. At the small cost of between four and five thousand dollars the staunch and well-built frame of the old structure has been bricked and presents on the exterior a very handsome appearance, while the interior finish has been done in the most modern and durable manner. No small part of the credit due for the economical and belongs to the Very Rev. Vicar Gen. Laurent, who spent many valuable hours around the church during the past summer. The ripe judgment and experience of the vicar general as a builder of churches have been of inestimable value to the people of Emily, and have been generously and freely accorded to the gentlemen in charge of the work and the esteemed pastor, Father Bretherton.

HAVE PLEASANT RECOLLECTIONS

A NEW ERA BEGAN

Rev. Father Bretherton is a comparatively young man—40 years of age. He was ordained by Bishop Janet, April 5th, 1883 and was the first priest to receive orders at the cathedral church of the new diocese of Peterborough. Father Bretherton accompanied Bishop Janet to Rome in 1885. He was appointed to the pastorate of St. Luke's, Emily, in February, 1894, and since has shown a strong capacity for administrative and executive, as well as pastoral work.

THE NORTH WARD BRANCH OF THE GEORGE STREET CHURCH.

The Contract Has Been Awarded and the Work is Already Under Way.

Mr. H. C. Stabler, was, last evening, awarded the contract for the erection of the new George street Methodist church branch, on the corner of Barnardo avenue and Conger street, the price, it is understood, being $1,600. There were five tenders in all, but Mr. Stabler's was accepted.

The new edifice will be a neat red brick structure, 35 x 55 feet in size and will sit back about 100 feet from Barnardo avenue, in order that if the congregation grows, as is expected, a larger building can be erected in front of it at some future time. The present building will be divided into an auditorium and two class rooms and will be surmounted with a cupola and provided with old English windows.

Mr. Stabler had his men at work early this morning and before dinner the lines were all staked out and the work of excavating had begun. It is expected that the edifice will be ready for occupying by the beginning of the year.

A PLEASANT EVENING.

The Baptist Young People of the Park Street Church Hold a Social.

There was a large assemblage at the Park street Baptist church last evening, it being the occasion of the holding of a social under the auspices of the B. Y. P. U. of C. E. in connection with the church. The chair was most ably occupied during the evening by Mr. A. L. Grover, and the following most excellent and varied programme was rendered :

A STRANGE COBOURG SHOOTING SENSATION

A COBOURG LAWYER SHOT.

"I Will Finish You This Time," Said His Assailant as He Fired.

Cobourg, Ont., Oct. 31.—A probably fatal shooting affair took place here last evening about 8 o'clock. Mr. H.F. Holland, a prominent lawyer of Cobourg had occasion to call at Lawyer J. Y. Cruickshank's office about 8 o'clock.

Upon entering, Mr. Holland was startled at finding Mr. Cruickshanks in a leaning position in a chair and apparently stunned.

When asked what was the matter, Mr. Cruickshanks managed to make it understood to Mr. Holland that Mr. John Phillips, an old resident of the town, had walked into his office about ten minutes to 8 and deliberately fired two shots at him in quick succession. Phillips then turned and making the remark: "I will finish you this time," turned to go out.

Mr. Cruickshanks then said: "I guess you have finished me," whereupon Phillips turned and fired the third shot.

The first bullet struck Mr. Cruickshanks in the neck, fracturing his windpipe, the second one fractured his right cheek bone, while the third one fractured the right hand between the thumb and first finger.

Mr. Holland immediately summoned Drs. O'Gorman, Watters and Brunet, and notified the police, who have been in constant search for Phillips ever since, but no trace of him can be found.

The motive for the shooting is not yet known. At 12.30 to-night the doctors report Mr. Cruickchanks in a very critical condition, but resting easily. They are unable to locate the bullets.

THE PROVINCIAL W.C.T.U.

Mrs. President Paton's Vigourous Address on Sabbath Observance—Her Opinion of Bicycle Riding.

On Wednesday the attention of the W. C. T. U., now in session in Hamilton, was taken up with a discussion of the Sunday laws. Mrs. Geo. Paton, the energetic president of the local W.C.T.U., represents Peterborough, and the Globe thus reports her address on the subject of Sunday observance :—

"Mrs. Paton, of Peterborough, a sturdy and hardworking member of the union, turned the discussion to the subject of bicycles, calling attention to the increasing habit of bicycle riding on Sunday. Near her own place of residence there were any amount of pleasure resorts, she said, and every Sunday there could be seen numbers of young men, with occasionally young women with them, riding off to these. "There aren't prayer meetings or services at those resorts," she said. "This bicycle riding upon the Sabbath Day is a far worse thing than any railway trains or steamboats running." Mrs. Paton went on to give utterance to a sturdy conservatism with respect to the new vehicle, saying that she did not think it a very becoming thing for young ladies to ride bicycles —. "You'll have to get after some of the officers," the President interjected, and Mrs. Paton concluded by expressing a vigourous dislike to bloomers."

PERSONAL.

Miss Rudkins and Miss Connal are in Toronto to-day.

Dr. Emmerson, of Claude, is in town to-day visiting friends.

Mr. Grenville P. Kleiser is in town, registered at the Huffman House.

Miss Agnes Dunlop and Mr. Harold Jarvis sing at the Caledonian Society's concert in Montreal to-night.

Mrs. W. H. Graham, of Kingston, is in town visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Denne, George street.

Mr. Alex. White and bride, of Hastings, are spending a few days in town with the former's brother, Mr. Elrick White, Rubidge street.

The Campbellford Herald says : Mr. J. Smith and wife, of Peterborough, were here a few days of the past week, visiting at the residence of Mr. Geo. Dickson.

Mr. W. R. Coggeshall, representing the Canadian Entertainment Bureau, Toronto, is in town to make arrangements for a series of five entertainments during the coming season.

Rev. E. M. Smith, D. D., Principal of Montpelier Seminary, Vermont, was visiting the Rev. W. C. Beer yesterday and delivered a very interesting address at the prayer meeting in Mark street church last night.

Dr. Moher, of Trenton, who studied here with Dr. Brennan a number of years ago and who graduated from Trinity University later on, and has since acquired a large practice in Trenton, has made arrangements to take over the practice of Dr. Brennan, in Peterborough, some time next month, the latter leaving for South Africa in December. Dr. Moher made many friends in Peterborough when studying in town, and being a clever practitioner, will, no doubt, worthily fill the gap caused by the regretted departure of Dr. Brennan.

While thorough in action, Ayer's Pills strengthen rather than stimulate the excretory organs. Leading physicians recommend them because they are free from calomel or other injurious drugs, being composed entirely of the best vegetable aperients.

THE HOLMES TRIAL.

he put the unhappy woman off with lies and held out to her the hope that her husband would appear in a day or two. Mrs. Pitezel rebelled and accused Holmes of lying to her. He denied that he had ever told her a lie in his life, and succeeded in allaying her suspicions.

Holmes disappeared from the scene for a day or two, and when he returned he told her that the children were in Toronto. He dilated upon how happy the children were in the house he had taken in Toronto. Holmes told her to write to her husband, and he pretended to take the letter to him. He brought back a letter in cipher, which he pretended was from Pitezel. She recognized the figures as Holmes', and told him so, and he admitted that it was his writing, but said that he had been compelled to copy it for Pitezel, as the latter had been drinking. Holmes wrote to her from Boston to come to Lowell. In the letter Holmes told her that there was a bottle of dynamite in the cellar under the potato bin. He asked her to take the bottle from the cellar up in the attic and leave it there. He also added that there would be no danger. Mrs. Pitezel found that bottle, but instead of carrying it up three flights of stairs into the attic, she put it under the casement.

Holmes would not allow her to mail any letters herself, but took them from her and promised to post them for her.

A bunch of these letters to the children that Holmes had never mailed were shown to Mrs. Pitezel, and she readily identified them. Holmes not only did not mail the letters, but opened and read them. In Burlington Holmes was known as Judson.

Mrs. Pitezel seemed about to break down when asked to identify the handwriting of her dead girls in letters to herself, but she bore up bravely, and amidst a death-like silence in the court room named the writer of each letter as it was shown to her.

After she had identified the letters the recollection that they were written by her murdered children overpowered her for a moment, and she sobbed quietly. With strong determination she recovered herself and nodded to Mr. Graham to go on with his examination.

She left Burlington for Boston, she said, in company with a man named White, who brought her a letter from Holmes. In Boston she saw Holmes under arrest and he said to her: "You need not take it so hard. Ben and I are the ones who will have to suffer."

Mr. Graham asked: "When did you last see or hear from your husband?"

"In a voice choking with emotion, Mrs. Pitezel replied: "I have never seen my husband since the 29th of July, or heard from him in his own handwriting since Aug 29."

Then Mr. Graham asked: "Have you ever seen any of your three children since you gave them to this man?"

This question was too much, and amidst her sobs, Mrs. Pitezel replied "I have never seen my little girls except lying side by side in the morgue at Toronto; and I have never seen Howard, but I saw some of his little things in the coroner's office at Indianapolis.

There was more than one moistened eye in the court while the sobbing woman was speaking.

The defence, realizing the probable effect the sight of a bereaved and suffering mother would have upon the sensibilities of the jury, interposed an objection.

Mr. Graham was so vehement in his reply to the defence's objection that he was rebuked by the court, which sustained his line of questioning.

This concluded Mrs. Pitezel's direct testimony, which had consumed two hours and 40 minutes.

The defence then began its cross-examination, which was conducted by Rotan.

Throughout the intensely dramatic and pathetic recital of seeing her children's bodies by Mrs. Pitezel. Holmes, to all appearance, was little affected, and was the most indifferent person in the room. He busied himself making notes for his counsel in the cross-examination.

The cross-examination of Mrs. Pitezel covered much the same ground as her direct testimony, and developed nothing favorable to the defence, but, if anything, strengthened the story of Holmes' cold-blooded knavery. Mrs. Pitezel was still on the stand when court took a recess until 7 o'clock.

After her trying ordeal of three hours on the stand this afternoon, Mrs. Pitezel was postrated, but she recovered sufficiently to be in court again at 7 o'clock, when her cross-examination was proceeded with.

Before Mr. Rotan began his examination of the witness, Holmes talked eagerly with him for some time and was evidently advising him as to the line of questioning he should pursue.

The witness was asked a number of questions about the disposition of the insurance money. The evident object of the defence was to show that she paid out but $3000 of the insurance, and that she got $1700, instead of only $500, as she stated this afternoon.

It was indirectly shown by the testimony of the witness that Holmes has several times paid the rent for the Pitezel family, and grocery and provision bills.

Witness further said that her husband had told her that Holmes owed him this money and if he did not provide for his (Pitezel's) family while he was in prison, he would make it hot for Holmes.

By indirect admissions, Mrs. Pitezel showed that Pitezel was practically dependent upon Holmes for support. Pitezel told her of the scheme to defraud the insurance company, but he did not tell when or where it would be perpetrated.

At this point Holmes called Mr. Rotan to him and coached him again about the line of examination.

Mrs. Pitezel was shown a note for $18,000 signed with the name of "Benton F. Lyman" (an alias of Pitezel's) and she identified the signature as that of her husband. It was to pay this note that she gave Holmes the $5000, and in return she was to have full possession of the Fort Worth property. Holmes supplied the money for Pitezel to set up business.

Mr. Rotan then digressed to the day Mrs. Pitezel met Holmes in a store in Toronto, and when he seemed to be so startled by her appearance.

Mr. Rotan asked Mrs. Pitezel if she had not stated on several occasions that she believed Holmes was so startled by the sight of her, because her children were in the store at the time.

Mr. Graham objected to the question and the court sustained him. The defence gave notice of an exception to the court's decision.

Sh and her two children left Toronto about 7.30 or 8.30 on the evening of Oct. 25. They reached Prescott about 4 o'clock in the morning and Ogdensburg about 6 o'clock.

She repeated her testimony as to Holmes borrowing the big trunk from her in Detroit.

Mrs. Pitezel was asked if she did not see it at Prescott.

The witness hesitated a moment and said she did not. Then under some pressure she said she did see it at Prescott on the platform as she got off the train.

She was asked if a man had not called at the house in Burlington on the second day of her arival and enquired for someone, and being told they did not live there, went away. She replied that no one called.

This ended the cross-examination, and Mr. Graham again took the witness in hand. She identified the portrait of her husband and thevalise he had when he left home.

After being on the stand for an hour this evening, Mrs. Pitezel's extmination was ended and she feebly staggered to her seat with the assistance of two court officers, and in a few minutes left the court room.

It was a general relief to everyone when Mrs. Pitezel had finished, as her sufferings were so apparent that it was painful to watch her.

Jeanette (Dessie) Pitezel was called to the stand. She corroborated her mother's testimony that it was at Holmes' suggesion that Alice was sent o Philadelphia. The girl's testimony was in the main corroborative of her mother's testimony, as it bore on their journeyings.

While Dessie was giving her evidence Mrs. Pitezel returned to the room and took a seat back of the witness' stand.

Under cross-examination Dessie admitted that her father had instructed her to use a cipher in writing to him and he wrote to her in cipher. He did this in the event of their mails being tampered with, and he thought the Indiana detectives were after him at the time. Her father told her he expected to make some money by a fraudulent scheme, but whatthe nature of the scheme was Pitezel did not tell the witness.

Dessie was on the stand for 50 minutes, and then her mother was recalled by District Attorney Graham. In reply to a question she said Holmes came to the house at Burlington and went downin the cellar. She went with him. Holmes tried to get her to go up stairs, on the ground that she would catch cold. Then she said that she was used to going down in the cellar and would not catch cold. Holmes got her to leave the cellar to procure a hammer and some nails, with which he proposed to fix a broken window. When she returned Holmes had raised some boards that were on the floor.

At this point the defence entered an objection. The court sustained the objection and Mr. Graham attempted to explain that he proposed to show that Holmes had dug what it was believed he intended for a grave in the cellar of another house, and that it was what he probably intended doing in the present case.

Here the defence objected to Mr. Graham making his explanation within the jury's hearing and the court sustained the objection again.

At this point court adjourned until to-morrow.

A NEW CLUB.

Name Suggested for a New Social Organization in London.

LONDON, (Special) Oct. 28.—It has been facetiously suggested that a new social club in process of organization in this city should be entitled "The Dodd's Kidney Pill Club" as the present members are all enthusiastic advocates of that remedy and in common with many other citizens declare that in all cases of kidney trouble no other agent has been found so completely effective. Most Londoners have at their fingers' ends the particulars of the many marvellous cures through the use of this specific. In every drug store in the city the medicine is kept in large quantities and warmly recommended.

THE HYAMS TRIAL.

The Defence Will Make Application for Prisoners' Release New Evidence on Both Sides.

Toronto, Oct. 29.—Francis L. Wellman of New York, senior counsel for the defence in the Hyams murder trial, arrived in the city yesterday morning. Mr. Wellman will spend probably three days here, during which he and Mr. E. F. B. Johnston will review the pros and cons of the vast mass of evidence which was taken at the May trial, and make every preparation possible for the second hearing of the case.

The rumor that an application for the release of the twins would be made by the British Minister at Washington is said by the counsel for the defence to be without foundation in itself.

Mr. Johnston, in conversation with a World reporter last evening, stated that it was his intention enough to apply to the Attorney-General's Department for a discontinuance of the prosecution of his clients.

"It will be a great expense to the defence and a great expense to the county to have another trial," said Mr. Johnston. "The verdict last time was practically one of acquittal, when the jury stood 11 to 1 in favor of the defence. We have secured some new evidence, and expect an acquittal. We are sure of a disagreement at least, and as the Crown cannot hope to convict our clients, no good end can be served by harassing these men with the expense and worry of another long trial. This is the ground upon which we will ask for a nulle prosequi."

"Should your application be refused, will you apply to the court for a postponement of the hearing?" queried the reporter.

"No," answered Mr. Johnston. "We will go right on and fight it out."

Crown Attorney Dewart is busy with the preparation of the Crown's side of the case. When spoken to about the threatened application, Mr. Dewart intimated that the Crown had no fear of its success. "The case will commence on Tuesday," said Mr. Dewart, "as soon as His Lordship has addressed the grand jury."

The Crown Attorney intimated that the evidence of the attempt to insure Mrs. Hyams' life, which was excluded by Judge Street at the May trial, would be tendered again. Some new evidence has been secured, the lines of which the defence would be made fully acquainted with at once.

MARKET REPORTS.

Flour—The market is quiet, with prices firm, owing to the difficulty in getting wheat. Straight rollers quoted at $3.15 to $3.25, Toronto freights.

Bran—Market is quiet. Bran unchanged at $11.50, Toronto freight. Shorts $14 to $15.50.

Wheat—Prices still rule strong, in consequence of the very limited offerings. There is said to be a good deal held by farmers, but they seem to expect higher prices. Red will bring 68c to 69c outside, and white 70c. No. 1 Manitoba hard is quoted at 70½c, Toronto freights.

Peas—The market is strong, with sales north and west at 52c, and on Midland at 53c. Liverpool is lower to-day.

Oats—The market is steady, with a fair demand. Sales of mixed at 23c to 23½c west, and white at 23½c to 24c, the latter for middle freights.

Barley—Business quiet, with prices steady. No. 1 is quoted at 42c to 43c. Feed barley quoted outside at 30c to 31c, and No. 2 at 35c.

Buckwheat—The market is steady, there being sales at 30c east.

Rye—The demand is fair, with sales today at 45c, outside.

Oatmeal—Business quiet, with prices unchanged at $3.10 on track, and small lots at $3.25 to $3.30.

Corn—Canadian corn is quoted outside at at 38c, and it offers here at 42c.

Jobbing prices: Chickens, fresh, 25c to 30c per pair, ducks 50c to 70c, geese at 4½c to 6c, and turkeys 7c to 8c.

Dressed hogs sold at $4.75 to $5. Smoked hams 10½c to 11c, bellies 10½c to 11c, backs 10½c to 10c, rolls 7½c to 7¾c. Mess pork $14 to $14.50. Short cut $15 to $15.50. Clear shoulder mess $13 to $13.50. Long clear bacon 7½c to 7¾c. Lard, tierces, 8c; tubs, 8¼c; pails, 8½c.

Beef unchanged, forequarters 1½c to 4½c, and hinds 4c to 7c; mutton, 3c to 5c; veal, 5c to 7c; lambs, 4½c to 6c.

CANADA-NEW ZEALAND SS. LINE

The Huddart Agreement Before the Assembly at Auckland for Ratification - £70,000 Subsidy

Auckland, N Z., Oct. 29.—The agreement entered upon by Mr. Huddart and the treasurer of the colony, for a manthly mail service between New Zealand and Vancouver, was laid on the table in the Assembly to-day for ratification. The amount of the subsidy to be granted by the colony. If Wellington or Auckland is chosen as the terminus of the line will be 30,000 pounds annually.

If a port of Australia be chosen as the terminus, the subsidy will be 20,000 pounds. The contractor will have the option of deciding whether the steamer will call at Suva and Honolulu. It is stipulated that the first trip from New Zealand shall begin not later than Dec. 1, 1896. The steamers will not employ colored labor.

THAT MISSO-CHINESE TREATY.

The Times' Story Appears After All to Have Been Well Founded.

London, Oct. 29.—A despatch to The Globe from Hong Kong says that Wong Chi Chuan was appointed last fall by an imperial edict to go on a special mission to Russia, ostensibly to congratulate the new Czar Nicholas II. upon his succession to the throne, but really to convey to St. Petersburg a secret treaty conceding the right to Russia to carry the Siberian railway through Manchuria to Vladivostock, and to construct a branch railway from Tsitiskar and Moukden to Vladivostock.

The despatch in other respects confirms The Times' Hong Kong despatch of Oct. 25, asserting the existence of a treaty between Russia and China, giving especial military and commercial advantages to the former, adding that a Russian fleet of 14 vessels arrived at Port Arthur yesterday.

Cossacks at Pekin.

Berlin, Oct. 29.—A despatch from St. Petersburg to The Cologne Gazette says that officers who are financial experts have been added to the Russian Embassy at Pekin, together with a permanent body of 200 Cossacks.

THE POET LAUREATE.

Speculation as to Whether Alfred Austin or Mr. Henley Will Be Chosen.

London, Oct 29.—Since the statement was made recently in The Daily News that Lord Salisbury intended to choose a poet laureate from the ranks of journalism to succeed the late Lord Tennyson, many conjectures have been indulged in as to who would be selected to fill the office. A statement made by The Bookman that Alfred Austin has been appointed is probably a guess based upon the assertion of The Daily News.

The Bookman, after saying that it had been informed on what appears to be reliable authority that Mr. Austin had been selected for the office, adds that the appointment will be formally announced next month.

It may be stated that The Bookman is a supporter of the Liberal party and has no access to Government news. Lately it stated that Mr. Henley would be the next poet laureate. It is presumed that his name and that of Mr. Austin are mentioned because both are Conservatives and journalists.

GIVES BAIL FOR $400,000.

Mr. James J. Van Alen Decides to Meet the Writ in the Colt Matter.

Newport, L.I., Oct. 29.—Mr. James J. Van Alen has decided to meet the writ of arrest issued in the suit of Colonel Colt against him for $200,000 for alienation of his wife's affections.

He gave bail, it is said, in the sum of $400,000, having mortgaged his Newport property to a trust company in New York for that amount.

The utmost secrecy prevails. The reporters have been politely but firmly requested not to call upon Mr. Van Alen.

Condition of the Brazilian.

Quebec, Oct. 30.—Newe received here from Cap a l'Aigle, near Murray Bay, says: "Steamer Lord Stanley arrived alongside of the steamship Brazilian at midnight, and returned to Quebec to obtain pumps, taking in tow a schooner with over 100 sheep aboard. The wrecking steamer Relief arrived this morning and surveyors think she will be sufficient to lighten the Brazilian, and if the weather continues fair prospects of floating are good."

Mrs. Kellar's Story Unshaken.

Oswego, N.Y., Oct. 29.—The defence in the Kellar case closed at noon today. Mrs. Kellar was on the witness stand for nearly seven hours, and altogether subjected to the most rigid cross-examination. Her story stands unshaken in any material part. The general opinion is that Mrs. Kellar killed Kempthon because of jealousy, but there is no evidence to support this theory.

WORD FROM KOOTENAY.

Good Mining Prospects for the Year and Increased Facilities to Miners.

NELSON (Special), Oct. 21.—The mining prospects for next year in this locality are excellent, and a large influx of prospectors is expected. Miners and others coming in have been in the habit of bringing with them large quantities of Dodd's Kidney Pills, a remedy which they all swear by, and whose virtues they have extolled to such an extent, that the druggists throughout the section have become alive to the necessity of laying in large supplies to meet the greatly increasing demand. The remedy is generally regarded as an indispensable part of a miner's outfit, both for its portability and a value in preserving health which cannot be overestimated.

GENTLEMEN,—I recommend Milburn's Cod Liver Oil Emulsion with pleasure. Last July I took Congestion of the Lungs and was in bed four weeks. Dr. Lawson, of Hamiota, attended me and sent a bottle of Milburn's Emulsion. It is the very best made and soon restored me back to health again. Truly yours, ALF. SMITH, Wheatlands, Man.

A woman's headaches may come from several causes. She may have a headache arising from nervousness, or from digestive disturbances; just the same as a man might suffer for the same reasons. Nine cases in ten, however, her headaches come from disorders peculiar to her sex. Possibly the apparent cause of the headache will be nervousness or indigestion, while the cause of these is not thought of. The organs distinctly feminine are more vital than any other organs in a woman's body. Any trouble of those affects the whole body. It may show itself in the symptoms which are characteristic of a dozen disorders. Thousands of times, women have been treated for the disorders thought to be indicated by these symptoms, when the real trouble was much deeper and more serious. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was compounded for the sole purpose of relieving womankind of the ills and pains very commonly considered the uncomfortable inheritance of her sex. It cures where really good physicians have failed. Thousands of women have testified that after taking treatment from several physicians without benefit, the "Favorite Prescription" cured them completely and quickly. It has been used for over thirty years, and has an unbroken record of success. The afflicted woman will find immediate relief and ultimate cure in the "Favorite Prescription." There is no doubt about it—there is no question about it. The woman who hesitates is invited to send 31 one-cent stamps for customs and cost of mailing a copy of Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. This celebrated work contains full information about Dr. Pierce's medicines, with the reproduced photographs of hundreds of people who have been cured by these world-famed remedies, also giving their names and addresses, besides plain, clear information about all of the organs of the human body and their functions. It has reached the unprecedented sale of 680,000 copies at $1.50 a copy. Thus the expense of preparation has been defrayed, and now 500,000 copies will be absolutely given away. Remember that this book is not a mere advertising pamphlet, but a genuine standard work of 1008 large pages, over 300 illustrations, some of them in colors. CANDY FOR CHILDREN.

The Popular Health Magazine says the desire in a child for candy and sweets is a natural one and should not be stifled. Good candy and sweets in moderation, not only do no harm, but are actually beneficial. Too much sweet upsets the stomach and spoils the appetite, but candy in moderation if it is not taken before a meal, is food which children crave naturally, and among the purest and most wholesome is that manufactured by

THE WHEEL.

There will be a great afternoon's sport in the Driving Park within the next few days as a number of Toronto's crack bicycle riders are in town and propose going after the records. Those who are already here are Harley Davidson, Will McIntosh, Percy Brown, Sam Gibbons, R. E. McColl, J. H. Grats and their trainer, the well-known Payson Davidson and W. L. Stiemal, of Buffalo.

A great many dropped into the Huffman House, to-day, to have a look at the "quad" which is ridden by four riders and can be sent along at a terrific pace. An effort will be made to break all records from one up to twenty miles, as soon as the track gets into shape and the mud dries up. A number of the local men will avail themselves of the presence of these fast men and try and make a few good records also.

The Globe of to-day says: The lease of life of the records is a short one at the best, but the marks which have been erected for others to fire at by T. B. McCarthy and Angus McLeod at the Island will go toppling over like ninepins when Davidson gets his quad. in working order at Peterborough, for which place the Bantford flyer and a corps of pacemakers left last night. The party will stay there until they have lowered every Canadian record from a quarter up to a hundred miles. Steimal of Buffalo, as announced exclusively in the Globe yesterday, is in charge of the quad., which will be mounted by McIntosh, Gibbons, Brown and the Bison City rider. Grats and McCall, the crack tandem pair, were also with the party, and are prepared to slay the tandem records. Sam Gibbons will make an attempt to break Radway's century record.

CURLIANA.

The following officers of Belleville Curling Club were elected at their last meeting, for this season:—

Secretary-Treasurer—Mr. T. W. R. McRae.
Committee—Mr. E. H. LaRoche, chairman; Mr. W. H. Bigger, M.P.P., Mr. F. Lewis, Mr. M. Wright, Mr. J. F. Wills, Mr. F. Dolan.
Skips—Mr. E. H. LaRoche, Mr. D. B. Robertson, Mr. J. F. Wills, Mr. T. W. R. McRae.

A meeting of the Colts' Association of the Midland District has been called for Nov. 11th, but it will probably be about the 18th before the representatives will gather at Belleville. It is probable that the Association this year will embrace Peterborough, Belleville, Campbellford, Millbrook, Cobourg, Port Hope and Lindsay.

The local Colts will meet for organization next week.

All Run Down.

This is the condition of thousands. Squanderers have they been of sleep, rest and finally of health. The mad pursuit of place, power and pelf leaves them broken in spirit, weak in body, shattered in nerve. In the world, but no longer of it, their days are spent in desire, impotent and purposeless, for they have bankrupted health. Thousands are on the road. They heed not the warning that nature gives.

Sleeplessness, inertia, despondency, and fatigue add their mournful notes to the "still sad music of humanity." Tired! Tired! Tired! You need aid! Your system requires a staff upon which to lean, and your brain rest for increasing vigils! Health and strength are the alternatives from decay and death.

Coca, combined with Maltine, affords that staff. It will give tone to the nervous system, strength to the shattered nerves, sleep to the weary eyes and rest to the tired brain.

15c a Minute

is what few people are privileged to make. You can do it by buying a pound of Osk-K-osh tea. For the present you can get it for twenty five cents. One thing is sure, a tea that is used every day by a great number of intelligent and prosperous people, and which is admitted to be a good article is cheap at twenty-five cents, and is a safe investment for those who use tea. One dollar will purchase four pounds at our Peterborough store, 370 George street, as at Montreal, Ottawa, Kingston and Toronto

The Wabash Railway Trains

running every day in the year between Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City are the finest known to the railway service; they are complete and solid vestibuled from end to end, the entire train being a moving palace of connected apartments, all furnished with the most luxurious elegance and perfection of accommodation known to car builder's art. They include free reclining, palace, sleeping, and dining cars of the latest and best patterns. Call on or write any railway agent for tickets and all information, or address J. A. RICHARDSON, Canadian passenger agent, north-west corner King and Yonge street Toronto

The Wild Flowers of Canada.

The Montreal Star has completed the publication of "The Wild Flowers of Canada," containing 288 plates all painted in natural colors." "The Wild Flowers of Canada," as published by the Star, are receiving unstinted commendation all over the Continent of America and in Great Britain as well. Every teacher in Canada, every pupil who wants to be some day in the front rank should have "The Wild Flowers of Canada," as published by the Star. We understand the demand for them has been such that they are running out of print.

GEORGE STREET, PETERBOROUGH

BETHANY.

(From Our Own Correspondent.

The anniversary services at Fleetwood took place last Sunday, and the services both morning and evening were well attended. Rev. J. C. Bell, of Little Britain, delivered the anniversary discourses. The following evening was the scene of much enjoyment. The annual "fowl supper" was given, and many turned out to enjoy it. The school house, where the supper was served, was a scene of activity from 5 until 7 p.m. Then the whole company repaired to the church and an excellent programme was given to an appreciative audience. The songs by the children of the Sunday school were excellent and much enjoyed. The White Bros. and company rendered some fine selections, both in vocal and instrumental music. The White Bros. with guitar and mandolin, with their sister as organist, gave musical treats, which added much to the enjoyment of the evening. Rev. C. H. Coon, of Janetville, gave a stirring patriotic address, which was received with rounds of applause. Altogether, the evening was voted by all a most enjoyable one.

The Methodist church at Lifford, a short distance from this place, is at present undergoing repairs. There will be a decided improvement in its interior arrangements.

There was a slight snowfall on Saturday night and Sunday, and some of the roots that had not been taken in were nipped by the frost.

The potato and turnip crop in this vicinity is abundant.

The Presbyterians of this place expect their pastor soon. We wish him success.

Miss Martha Westlick of this place is at present in Toronto Hospital, ill with typhoid fever. Late reports of her condition are favourable. She is the daughter of Wm. Westlick, blacksmith.

The sawmill of F. W. Galbraith is shut down, but we occasionally hear the whistle and the roll of machinery which tells us that our genial townsman is at work.

Mrs. Allin and son, Cephas, wife and son of Rev. Roger Allin, Bethany, who are at present in San Diego, Southern California, for their health, send home very cheering reports. They expect to return to Canada in the spring.

Struck a New Idea.

The Bordeaux Claret Co., struck a new and fruitful idea when it conceived the notion of putting a cheap wine upon the market at prices which would bring it within the reach of all. For the long profit and the slow sale is not as good business as the small profit and the great sale, and $3 and $4 per dozen quarts appeals to the whole people, whereas $8 for a wine not one whit better—if as good—could only appeal to a section of the people. Wine upon the poor man's table; good wholesome wine, which will do him and his family good, at a little over the price of poor beer. The famous Medoc Wines. Selling enormously all over Canada. Address—Bordeaux Claret Co., 80 Hospital street, Montreal.

All shades in fancy wools kept in stock at Miss Melville's; also latest patterns in Battenburg work. 494 George street. Stamping done.

Callahan's Last Jump.

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Oct. 27.—Patrick King Callahan, more familiarly known as "King" Callahan, the professional bridge jumper, leaped from the Poughkeepsie bridge into the Hudson River, a distance of 212 feet, at an early hour this morning. He died to-night.

Dairy School for Manitoba.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 26.—The Provincial Government has decided to start a dairy school in this city on Jan. 1 next.

Horses and Cattle Burned.

Windle Cuts Records.

Chillicothe, O., Oct. 29.—W. W. Windle took three world's bicycle records from John S. Johnson this afternoon. He cut the half-mile record from 51 to 48 seconds, one-third mile from 32 2-5 to 30 4-5 seconds, and quarter-mile from 23 to 22 4-5 seconds. The records are official.

JUST LOVELY!

Have you seen the latest stylish kind of Photographs Sproule is taking now?

"Yes, I've had some taken, and I think they're just lovely," so natural, with such exquisite tone and finish to them. He calls them the PLATINO process."

"I know—I had several specimens from England, but did not know Mr. Sproule had introduced them here. He seems to keep in touch with the best artists, don't he? My husband and I sit for PLATINOS to-morrow. You shall have one.;

NO SHOP-WORN GOODS TO SELL AT LOW PRICES

—AT—

D. O. LeGendre's

PEOPLE'S DRY GOODS STORE.

No one can afford to sell you goods at COST—much less BELOW COST—therefore when you see lines of goods offered at such low prices you may be sure that there is something WORN OUT about the goods.

We invite the people to call and examine our lines of DRESS AND MANTLE GOODS, all new, fresh goods, which are selling at HARD TIME PRICES.

It may seem to up-town ladies a long distance to walk to our place of business, but it will surely pay them to come down opposite the Market Building to do your Dry Goods trading.

STARTLING

SIXTY DAYS SALE

—AT THE—

GOLDEN LION.

Always prepared for all the shopping demands of a careful and exacting people—this store is NEVER BEHIND, and every day adds to its popularity. Our policy is unchanging. Every day's experience proves that OUR VALUES ARE THE BEST in the trade.

It makes no difference what others say about goods, or what others get for them—at this store the aim is straight for one point, viz :—To get the best and give it at the right rate, as low or lower than any other house in Canada! Anything short of the top in Extent of Stock, Excellence of Service, Endeavors for Improvement, would never do for this establishment. The record of the present year finds us far ahead in each of the above three particulars.

ON SATURDAY, NOV. 2nd, we inaugurate a Startling 60 Days' Sale of New Season's Goods that must be cleared out with the utmost expedition. It shall be so. It's Fair's Way. Bargains are common—But the Bargains quoted below are of so startling a character as to command the immediate attention of every possible buyer in Peterborough and vicinity.

SOME OF FAIR'S SIXTY DAYS' OFFERINGS:

FAIR'S DRESS GOODS

Our assortments are not only abundant, but we are offering the best values by many shillings and many inches than we have ever shown before.

—500 Yards 40 inch Melton Cloth 15c., formerly 20c.

—600 Yards 42 inch Twilled Melton Cloth 20c., formerly 25c.

—300 Yards Scotch Tweed Dress Goods 18c., formerly 25c.

—40 inch Plaid Dress Goods 15c., formerly 20c.

—54 inch All Wool Tweed 60c., formerly $1.00.

We have placed on tables in the centre of the store, under the sky light, 55 pieces of high-class Dress Goods (all this season's make) in Black and Colors, to be sold at prices ranging at from 25c. to 75c., former price from 35c. to $1.10 per yard.

For instance we are selling $1.10 quality, very fine Black, with small effect in pattern, at 75c., and the balance consists of Serges, Tweeds, Basket Effects and all the new and popular weaves.

Heavy 36 inch Skirtings, worth 35c., for 25c.

25c. Skirtings for 19c. 22c. Skirting for 15c.

MANTLE DEPARTMENT.

FAIR'S, the People's Mantle House. We cater for high and low, rich and poor. We give the best value because we buy on the best terms in the world's best markets.

Our sales in this department are 50 per cent. larger than any previous season.

On one table we have a lot of high-priced, Heavy Cloth well made Winter Mantles, in Ladies' and Children's which we are clearing at $2.00 and $3.00 per garment.

Bargains in Mantle Cloths, Golf Cloths and Ulsterings. Cut and fitted free.

FAIR'S WINTER MILLINERY

Elegant new styles on exhibition and charming Novelties in full display. Welcome to all, if only to look!

New ideas in Trimmed and Untrimmed Felt Hats and Shapes; Trimmings, Hat and Bonnet Ornaments, &c. You'll see more new Winter Styles here than you ever saw before, and get more for your money, if you happen to buy.

FAIR'S store is progressive, and the new Winter Millinery gives every evidence of leadership, with values supremely good and styles extremely fashionable. Years ago storekeeping was different; who would have thought then of Millinery being sold so cheap But then trains ran slower and we had no telephone or electric light or elevator, now we have all these things and a model store. We never take a back step—that means something; neither are we satisfied with standing still. People appreciate our improvements when they look back and see how the Golden Lion has grown.

STAPLE DEPARTMENT.

There is no department in the whole store as prolific of surprises as this same Staple Department. A thousand and one things here that you want for your home, and which we cannot find space for. We note a few:

—40 Pieces All Wool Grey Flannel 12½c., worth 18c.

—25 Pieces All Wool Grey Flannel 15c., worth 20c.

—25 Pieces All Wool Grey Flannel 20c., worth 25c.

—Ladies' Ribbed Wool Drawers $1.00, worth $1.25.

Children's Ribbed Undervests and Combination Suits, all prices.

FAIR'S BLANKETS

This season we have had a splendid sale of Blankets, and judging from the quantity going out they must be exceptional value.

—50 Pairs Flannelette Blankets, 75c., worth $1.00.

—White Wool Blankets at the following prices:—$1.90, $2.10, $2.25, $2.85, $2.90, $3.10, $3.50, and so on upwards according to weight and quality.

FAIR'S GLOVES AND HOSIERY

You can't buy your Gloves and Hosiery too soon now. It will be cold before very long. Do not wait till the snow is deep. Give us your hands and we will fit them.

—3 Dozen Ladies' Cashmere Gauntlets at 10c., worth 25c. and 35c.

—200 Pairs Ladies' Kid Gloves 48c., worth 75c., in Tans and Blacks.

HOSIERY.

—30 Dozen Ladies' Seamless Cashmere Hose 25c., worth 35c.

—20 Dozen Ladies' Ribbed Cashmere Hose 35c., worth 45c.

—A big drive in Boy's Heavy Ribbed Stockings at 25c. and 30c. per pair.

SILKS.

—40 Pieces of China Silks, all shades, at 20c., worth 30c.

CARPET DEPARTMENT.

We lead easily in Carpets and Floor Coverings. This season's exhibit will testify to our never flagging energy and enterprise in anticipating the increasing demand for high art and honest values. No other season have goods been so low. New markets with new prices have come to the front superceding old prices and giving all the satisfaction that is required for modern wear.

We have set aside over 700 yards of our Best Make Brussels and Tapestry Carpets to be cleared out at reductions that will make them vanish quickly, and which consist of the following lots:—

—300 yards best 5-frame Brussels, with Borders, worth $1.25 and $1.35 to be sold at $1.00 per yard.

—250 yards best 4-frame Brussels, worth $1.00 and $1.10, to be sold at 85c. per yard.

—A very special lot of medium Brussels Carpet worth $1.15 and $1.20, to be cleared out at 75c. per yard.

—150 yards best Tapestry Carpets to be sold at 55c. per yard, and many other odd lots in Tapestries and Reversible Unions at 35c and 50c. per yard.

A large assortment of Axminster, Velvets, Brussels and Tapestry Rugs to be cleared out as follows:—

$4.00 Rugs for $3.00.
$3.25 Rugs for $2.25.
$3.00 Rugs for $2.00.
$2.00 Rugs for $1.50.

See our last shipment of Japanese Rugs and Squares in the Osaka quality, from the Small Door Mat to the Large Crumb Cloth Size.

—50 Pairs New Chenile Portiers at $3.50 per pair, worth $4.50.

DON'T BE SKEPTICAL.

We know the prices we have made will tax credibility severely. It is hard to believe the prices we tell pertain to new and fresh goods, but, nevertheless, it is true. We merely ask you to test our statements; when that is done, you will do the rest.

COME HERE FOR BARGAINS any day in the week and you will get such surprises as will forever preclude the possibility of going elsewhere while this great sale continues.

P. N. Corsets in all the popular makes. Umbrellas re-covered while you wait.

THE BARGAIN

OF THE SEASON IN DRESS GOODS

IS NOW AT

TURNBULL'S

We will have for Saturday's trade about 1200 yds of heavy Scotch double-fold Tweed Dress Goods in good styles and colours, which we will sell at 25c a yard. The regular price for this line, was, if bought in the ordinary way, 65 cents. They are so far ahead of the usual 25c lines that competition is impossible.

Do not fail to see them early as they are sure to sell as quickly as gray cottons.

REMEMBER—They will not be opened out till Saturday noon.

Yarns and Blankets.

See our windows of Yarns and Blankets this week and note prices. We always lead in anything we handle.

HOLMES FACES FATE

Jauntily and Cheerfully Entered the Court Room.

BUT HE BROKE DOWN AND WEPT

When Miss Yohe Was Brought Into Court to Testify Against Him—Prisoner Cross-Examined Her Himself and Showed Good Deal of Cleverness.

Philadelphia, Oct. 31.—The fourth day of the Holmes trial opened with the prisoner looking as fresh and bright as when he was first arraigned in court. When placed in the dock he scanned a letter, and that the man is not wholly nerveless was shown by the way the paper shook in his hand.

After court opened, there was quite a wait for the district attorney. Holmes passed the interval by consulting with his counsel and chatting and laughing with the court officers.

Sydney L. Samuels, a Fort Worth, Tex., lawyer, was the first witness today, he was shown a note for the $16,000 signed by Pitezel under the name of Benton T. Lyman, and to take up which Holmes got the $5000 from Mrs. Pitezel. Witness identified the handwriting in the body of the note as his own.

William H. Geary, the agent of the Fidelity Insurance Company, who testified yesterday, was again called to the stand.

Mr. Graham put Mr. Geary on the stand for the purpose of proving that the prisoner has a wife in Williamette, Ills., as well as the woman who is in this city now, whom he married under the name of Howard. As it was the evident intention of Mr. Graham in proving the identity of the woman in Williamette as Holmes' wife, that he might be thus free to place "Mrs. Howard" on the stand, the defence made a vigorous objection to Geary testifying. The objection was overruled and Geary testified to the fact of seeing and talking to a woman in Williamette who was known as Holmes' wife and so acknowledged to be by him.

A letter from Holmes to the woman in Williamette, in which he speaks of their marriage, was read to the jury.

The defence entered a general objection to any and all testimony bearing upon the question of Holmes' marriages.

Just after this Holmes, for the first time since the trial, gave way, and so acute was his emotion that he wept.

A fair, blonde-haired girl was led towards the witness stand. When Holmes saw her he started, his pallid face flushed and then grew ghastly pale. He beckoned eagerly to his attorneys and with tears running down his cheeks talked with great earnestness to them.

The witness was asked her name, and gave it as Georgiana Yohe. Then the reason for Holmes' eagerness was apparent. It was the girl whom he married under the name of H. M. Howard. Holmes urged his lawyers to use every means in their power to prevent the witness from testifying, but their efforts were useless, as the court overruled all their exceptions and ordered the examination to go on.

The witness kept her eyes cast down and, like Mrs. Pitezel, a court officer repeated her low answers to the jury. Never once did she glance at the man she once thought her husband. He, on the contrary, looked longingly towards her, and occasionally he wiped a tear away.

Miss Yohe testified that she knew the prisoner under the names of Holmes and Howard. She met him in St. Louis and while he was in jail engaged Thomas B. Harvey and Howe as lawyers to defend him.

Mr. Graham made no reference to any marriage between the prisoner and Miss Yohe, but went on and asked her if she was in Philadelphia with him in August, 1894.

She said she was, and then he asked her if she remembered a man calling to see Holmes at 1905 North 11th-street on Saturday night, September 1. This man, Holmes has since told her, was Pitezel. Holmes said at the time that he had an engagement with the man the next day. The next day he was out of the house from 10.30 to 3.30 or 4 o'clock.

Mr. Rotan here broke in and stated to the court that the prisoner asked permission to be allowed to cross-examine the witness.

Mr. Graham objected and the court said the matter would be decided when it came up.

When Mr. Graham resumed his examination he seemed to bring out something that he did not like. He asked the witness when the prisoner returned on the Sunday afternoon if he said anything about going away.

She replied that he had spoken of this before and the only thing it was necessary to do was to pack up.

This reply seemed to nettle Mr. Graham.

When they left this city Sunday night they went to Indianapolis. Holmes remained with her for a day or two in Indianapolis and then went to St. Louis.

He returned to Indianapolis, and from there to Franklin, Ind., the home of her parents, and from there to Indianapolis again. There he told her that he had received a telegram calling him to Philadelphia, to close a deal with the Pennsylvania Railroad, and he came here. He remained away several days. This was the time Holmes was identifying Pitezel's body.

After Holmes returned from Philadelphia he went to St. Louis.

While giving her testimony, Miss Yohe occasionally raised her hand to her brow, as if bewildered or tired.

When Holmes came back from St. Louis he told her that he had sold his property in Fort Worth for $35,000, of which he said $10,000 was in cash.

Holmes told her of identifying Pitezel's body, but from his account of the matter to her, he was only drawn into the case accidentally by meeting Howe on the train to Philadelphia. Of the money he said he got from the Fort Worth sale, but which was really the insurance money, he told her that he had sent $5000 to his broker, of Chicago, and that he had kept the the balance himself. He gave her about $2000 in money and several valuable presents.

After this, Miss Yohe's story and journey progressed more rapidly. Holmes took her to Prescott, Ogdensburg and Burlington, Vt., in fact, over exactly the same route as he took Mrs. Pitezel and her children.

The defence objected to the introduction of all the testimony after the departure from Toronto, and took exception to the court when it ruled against them.

During all this journey, although they were probably tarveling at or near the same time, Miss Yohe never saw the Pitezel family. She identified the picture of Pitezel as the man she had known in Fort Worth as B. T. Lyman. Holmes was in Fort Worth at the time she saw Pitezel there, and was passing under the name of Pratt. He told her he had assumed this name on account of some business troubles.

Mr. Graham said he was through with the witness, and then Mr. Rotan stated to the court that his client insisted upon cross-examining the witness himself.

Judge Arnold gave his permission, and Holmes arose quickly to his feet. His voice was steady and stronger than it had been at any time since the trial, as he began to question the witness. Holmes' questions were directed to showing that it was no sudden determination which led him to leave the house at North 110th-street on that Sunday afternoon, but that the matter was fixed and dried beforehand.

Holmes' manner was courteous and gentle and he led Miss Yohe on from question to question.

Miss Yohe admitted that they had talked of leaving that day and when Holmes came home in the afternoon she had already half packed her trunk.

In answer to the question she said Holmes appeared excited and nervous. By the prisoner bringing out this point, it would seem that Holmes had decided upon the suicide theory as a defence, as that is about the only reason he would have for wishing to bring out the fact that his manner was different from the ordinary. Holmes brought these facts out with much cleverness, and then he traced the journey on from Indianapolis to Burlington, over which District Attorney Graham had taken Miss Yohe.

Holmes' object was not very apparent, but he stated with much earnestness to the court that the points he wished to bring out were of much importance to him.

Holmes gave notice that he would probably call Miss Yohe as his witness later.

At 1 o'clock the court took a recess until 2 o'clock.

Miss Yohe was one of the Commonwealth's star witnesses, but her testimony was not as damaging to Holmes as had been predicted. Practically the only point of any particular importance brought out was the fact that the man who called upon Holmes was out of the house for a good part of the following day. As to the rest of her testimony, it was unimportant as bearing directly upon the murder.

W. B. McKillip of Burligton, Vt., was the first witness this afternoon He identified a photograph of the house in Burlington, Vt., that Holmes had rented for Mrs. Pitezel under the name of Judson.

Mrs. Pitezel was called to the stand again to identify the tie, shirt and trousers her husband had on when he left home, and then she was excused. Dessie also identified the articles.

Dr. Mattern, who testified yesterday, was re-called for the purpose of identifying the clothing as that taken from the body of Pitezel.

Sergt. W. F. Sower, one of the policemen called in at the time Pitezel's body was found, identified the latter's picture as that of the man he saw dead at 1316 Callowhill-street.

Dessie Pitezel was re-called to the stand and identified pictures of her dead sisters and brother.

Mr. Rotan protested against this on the ground that it had no bearing on the case and was only for effect upon the jury.

Detective Thomas E. Crawford was next called. He testified that he went to Boston to bring Holmes to that city. The prisoner had two tin boxes full of papers, which were obtained in the office of detectives here.

Detective Geyer said that he had an interview with Holmes in this city after the latter was brought here from Boston. Geyer said to Holmes that he understood tat the body found at 1316 Callowhill-street was a substituted body. Holmes told him that on Sunday, Sept. 2, he went to New York and got the body from a medical student he knew, brought it to this city in a trunk the same afternoon, and met Pitezel at the Western Union office at 16th and Chesnut-street's, and gave him the check for the trunk.

Holmes told him that the next time he met Pitezel was in the postoffice at Detroit. Holmes said that he had given Pitezel instructions how to prepare the body for swindle. He was to place it on its back, one hand upon the breast, one by the side, and to place some liquid in the mouth and cause an explosion. This liquid was a wash for cleaning clothes that they were making. He also told him to burn the breast and arm. He also instructed Pitezel how, by working the arms of the corpse, he could inject chloroform into the stomach.

At a subsequent interview Holmes retracted the above statement and told Geyer that the body was that of Pitezel

On hearing this Geyer said: "Holmes, if that was Pitezel's body, you murdered him and killed the three children."

"No, I didn't, Mr. Geyer," replied Holmes. "I will tell you about it."

Holmes then told Geyer the story that Pitezel committed suicide and of his finding him dead on Sunday morning.

Holmes went to the house and found that Pitezel had killed himself, by laying a cloth across his face and allowing chloroform to drip from a bottle upon the towel.

In explanation of the whereabouts of the children Holmes said they had gone to London with Minnie Williams When asked where their trunks were Holmes said he left them in a hotel in West Madison-avenue in Detroit. At another interview Holmes contradicted himself by stating that he had given the boy Howard in charge of a man named Hatch at Indianapolis and that he had never seen any of them since he sent the girls from Toronto.

Mr. Graham proposed now to have Geyer tell of the finding of the children's bodies.

The defence objected strenuously and the jury was taken from the room while the argument on the question was made.

The arguments consumed an hour and then Judge Arnold rendered his decision. He ruled the evidence out on the ground that the killing of the children had no direct bearing on the case for which the prisoner was arraigned.

While the judge was speaking Holmes kept his eyes intently on his face and when he heard the words that may give him a fighting show for his life his face lit up and he swallowed a lump in his throat that had been nearly choking him.

The jury was brought back and Geyer resumed his place on the stand for cross-examination. This was very brief and then Mr. Graham tried to work what looked like a clever trick to introduce his evidence of the killing of the children.

Judge Arnold said that he considered that statement had already been sufficiently disproved.

Geyer then stepped aside and Superintendent of Police Lynden was called to the stand. Superintendent Lynden had an interview with Holmes on Jan. 6, 1895. In this interview Holmes repeated to Lynden the story of Pitezel's suicide much as he had told Geyer.

The Situation Very Grave.

Vienna, Oct. 31.—The Paris correspondent of The Wiener Journal telegraphs to his paper a report of an interview with the Japanese Ambassador at Paris, in which that diplomat says that the situation is one of the greatest gravity. If the alleged Russo-Chinese treaty exists, it will be necessary, he says, to compel China to at least open Port Arthur to all nations. The same correspondent says he has been told by an American statesman that public opinion in the United States is in sympathy with Russia, but that if America should act it would do so alone.

FOUR MILLION BUSHELS

Of Wheat in Manitoba Elevators — Big Packing House For Selkirk.

Winnipeg, Oct. 31.—It is estimated that four million bushels of wheat are now stored in Manitoba elevators and about the same quantity has already been shipped. The price has again dropped, 43c being the highest paid to-day.

AMERICAN ATROCITIES.

Our good Yankee neighbours, who are so prompt, at the slightest provocation, to invoke the Monroe doctrine, would be better employed in enforcing the doctrine of decency in the treatment of the coloured element of the population. Very naturally the indignation of Christendom was aroused over the Chinese and Armenia atrocities, but in degree, if not in extent, what can be more atrociously barbarous and inhuman than the horrible torture and murder of a negro in Texas? Texas is to be applauded for having prevented a prize fight in its territory, but a hundred prize fights would not compare in brutal cruelty to the act of lashing a negro to a stake and slowly roasting him to death, as recorded in recent despatches. And this was not done in a corner, but in the presence of 2,000 persons. The crime for which this terrible punishment was inflicted is sufficiently revolting to arouse the most fervent indignation, but, certainly, a civilized state has laws that can reach such crimes. A few days ago another negro who had been suspected of an outrage, was mutilated by having his fingers cut off, one after the other, and then slowly strangled in the presence of a large mob. Can a community that is capable of such revolting inhumanities lay claim to the title of civilized? Observance of law and order is one of the first essentials of civilization. Missionary enterprise would not be amiss in directing attention to some of the Southern States. Mob law, accompanied by blood-thirsty passions that would do credit to cannibals, prevail on occasions. Recognition of the supremacy of the law seems to be about the only remedy for such terrible crimes as these referred to. The sacred name of Liberty which involves the idea of equal rights to every class of citizens, meets the eye or falls on the ear continually in the Republic to the south of us, and it is difficult to understand how the millions of Christian citizens of the United States can remain passive when the barbarism of heathendom asserts itself with such terrible results.

MISSIONARY CHIVALRY.

Missionaries to heathen lands must be credited with the courage of their convictions and with being tremendously in earnest. The terrible massacres of the heralds of the Cross in China have exercised no deterrent effects. A few days ago a band of Methodist missionaries were ready to go to the Flowery Empire, and yesterday in Toronto, at a meeting of the Church Missionary Association several missionaries, including ladies who are to take the places of those recently murdered, were bidden farewell. The days of martial chivalry may be past, but the martyr spirit of religious chivalry is still strong in the breasts of soldiers of the King. And the firm policy of Britain in demanding redress for the wanton slaughter of missionaries in China is our basis of a hope that such terrible events will not be repeated, and that the devoted missionaries will not suffer violent molestation in their apostolic mission of casting the light of the Gospel of Peace on the dark places of paganism.

ANOTHER evidence of the dove-like harmony existing among Conservatives. The World, the Junior Conservative organ, says it "has beaten the Mail—and Empire out of its circulation, out of its advertising and the recognition of the public."

DON, in Saturday Night, doesn't cast a very favorable horoscope for the Conservative party in the coming elections. He says: "If it were possible for the Conservatives of Canada to meet in convention and reorganize the Ministry, the party might yet be saved the humiliation of a defeat. But such is not our custom in Canada." Saturday Night thinks the Dominion Government is "dying from inanition and lack of brains." This is the candour of a friend, not the carping of an enemy.

MINISTERS AT THE SOUND.

Hon. Messrs Foster and Ouimet Welcomed and Banqueted

Owen Sound, Ont., Oct. 31.—Hallowe'en day will long be remembered by residents of this town as the occasion of an official visit of the Hon. G. E. Foster, Minister of Finance, and Hon. J. A. Ouimet, Minister of Public Works, who had come in response to an invitation from the Town Council, not for the purpose of opening a political campaign, as has been supposed in some circles, but simply to investigate the town's claims to a Government dry-dock, and the condition of the handsome new harbor.

The distinguished gentlemen reached here at 1 p.m., accompanied by J. W. Leonard, superintendent of the C.P.R., and Louis Coste, Engineer of Public Works, Ottawa, and were met at the station by a deputation of leading citizens and a brass band and escorted to the Paterson Hotel, where they subsequently lunched in company with Mayor Kennedy, ex-Mayor McLauchlin, Reeve Chisholm, James Masson, M.P., T. I. Thompson, James Maitland and others.

In the afternoon, the Ministers, accompanied by the members of the council and railway officials, boarded the tug Ainsley and made a thorough inspection of the harbor, taking soundings at various points, and steamed to the site of the old Poison Iron Works, about one mile north of the harbor, where it is proposed to locate the new dry-dock, but owing to the unfavorable condition of the weather the party did not land.

On returning to the harbor the Ministers visited the C.P.R. Company's steamship Alberta, under the escort of Captain McAllister, and were then driven to the hotel, where they expressed themselves as highly pleased with what they had seen and the hospitality accorded them by the good people of this enterprising little city.

In the evening the visiting Ministers were banqueted at the town hall by the members of the Board of Trade, in conjunction with the Town Council.

The municipal hall was tastefully decorated and the banqueting boards appropriately arranged for the accommodation of the 200 guests who had assembled to do honor to Hon. Mr. Foster and Hon. Mr. Ouimet.

At the head of the first table sat Mayor Kennedy, who made a most admirable chairman. The vice-chairmen were Reeve J. Chisholm and Deputy Reeve T. I. Thompson.

Surrounding the Mayor on either side were the invited guests. Louis Coste, J. W. Leonard, Samuel Lloyd, president of the Board of Trade; James Masson, Q.C., M.P.; James Cleland, M.L.A.; S. J. Parker, Ewing Buchan, Manager Bank of Hamilton,; E. W. Wand, G. W. Creighton, president and W. S. Middlebro, secretary North Grey Conservative Association; ex-Mayor McLauchlin, Professor of Holland; Dr. McCullough, president Reform Association; Captain McKnight, registrar; A. J. Spencer, town treasurer; Ben Allen, ex-M.P.; W. J. Graham, inland revenue collector; Dr. Cameron, John Wright, M. S. Hoddle, manager Merchants' Bank; John Fox, James McLoud, A. J. McKay, W. P. Telford, and several others, constituting a most representative gathering of prominent commercial and professional interests of the neighborhood

The menu was a particularly attractive one and at the conclusion of its discussion the Citizens' Own Band entertained the guests and the ladies of the town who had honored the occasion with their presence with a few happy selections.

The customary toasts to the Queen, the Governor-General and Lieut.-Governor, were proposed and heartily responded to.

In connection with the toast of the army and navy, Captain McKnight was particularly happy in his response, as was also Captain Spencer; and the interests of Canadian veterans were afforded an able championship.

In toasting the distinguished guests of the day Mayor Kennedy read an elaborate address of welcome, in which were minutely detailed the advantages as well as requirements of Owen Sound, and embodied the thanks of the community for the attendance of the Ministers, and their thorough inspection of the harbor and proposed dry-dock to-day.

President Lloyd of the Board of Trade also read an address in which particular stress was laid on the harbor requirements of the town.

In rising to respond Hon. Mr. Ouimet was tendered a rousing reception. The speaker was particularly flattering in his remarks concerning Owen Sound and its enterprises, as he had found out, and assured the citizens that the Government would assuredly do its utmost to legislate advantageously for the best interests of all, in all of its actions pertaining to the harbor and shipping interests of these coasts. He was particularly gratified to note the presence of a mixed assembly of Conservatives and Liberals and congratulated the people on their united efforts to acquire what they felt was expedient to their prosperity.

The Minister of Public Works spoke at length on the advantages and prospects of the Dominion and its many magnificent rail and water communications, but felt that there was a growing and reasonable demand for improvements of the water routes of the country. He was willing that the improvements should be made, and allow the Finance Minister to devise means to settle the accounts, but at the present time the financial condition of the country was such that the Government was only justified in incurring indebtedness that is of vital interest to its people. Owen Sound, because of its geographical position and the fact that it was the centre of the greatest shipping and commercial interests of Northern Ontario, and its wonderful achievements during the past ten years, had created a desire in his mind to see what was most wanted by the community by way of harbor improvements, that he may be in a position to act intelligently in the premises without unnecessary delay. He paid a high tribute to conditions as they exist along the waterfront and promised that the requirements of the people would be accorded his closest attention; though he recalled the vast amounts that had already been expended on this harbour's improvements, and closed by promising to spend the long holiday promised him by Hon. Wilfrid Laurier along the picturesque shores of Georgian Bay.

Hon. Mr. Foster received a hearty ovation when he arose to respond to the welcoming address. It was the occasion of his first visit to Owen Sound and he expressed his unbounded delight at what he had seen during his investigation of the town's natural and artificial advantages, and in a speech lasting nearly an hour, outlined what he believed to be the future glorious condition of Canada in general; and her shipping interests in particular. Mr. Foster drew a pretty comparison between Canada and other countries, contending that with respect

COBOURG TRAGEDY.

Mr. Cruickshanks Dies From the Wounds Inflicted.

HIS SLAYER COMMITS SUICIDE.

John Phillips' Body Found Lying Across His Child's Grave and a Revolver at His Side—The Motive for the Shooting Was an Adverse Decision in Court.

Cobourg, Oct. 31.—Mr. John Young Cruickshanks, the lawyer who was shot last night by John Phillips, died this evening. He was born at Plainville, in Hamilton township, about 10 miles from here, and was the son of Thomas C. Cruickshanks, a wealthy and highly respected farmer of that township. He was educated at Victoria University, whence he graduated a B.A., also received the degree of M.A. from the same university. After acting for some years as principal of the Colborne High School, he began the practice of law.

In politics he was a Conservative, being secretary of the Conservative Association for this riding. He was a member of the Ancient Order of Foresters, unmaried, and about 38 years of age.

The body of Phillips was found this morning in St. Peter's cemetery, lying over his daughter's grave with his brains blown out. A revolver by his side told too plainly that a suicide had taken place.

Mr. Baker, who had gone to the cemetery to arrange for a funeral tomorrow, discovered the remains and at once notified Chief of Police Rankin and County Crown Attorney Kerr.

Phillips was about 55 years of age and an old resident of Cobourg.

The motive for which the shooting took place is as follows: Mr. Cruickshanks has been conducting a case in the Division Court against Phillips relating to a lot of land which Cruickshanks' client claimed he had paid for and not received any deed; this property adjoined Mr. Phillips' property. The case was decided against Mr. Phillips in the court this week, whereupon he entered Mr. Cruickshanks' office yesterday and is said to have used abusive language to Mr. Cruickshanks. Mr. Cruickshanks at once entered action for $10,000 for slander against Mr. Phillips. This so enraged Mr. Phillips that he committed the deed already described.

MR. WHITE'S APPOINTMENT

As Collector of Customs at Montreal to be Made at Once

Montreal, Oct. 31.—After a sojourn of two days, Hon. Sir A. P. Caron, Mr. Haggart and W. B. Ives have returned to the capital. It is not likely that the honorable gentlemen ever before heard so much plain talk from their very best friends as has been their lot during the last forty-eight hours. They were told that unless Robert S. White, ex-M.P., for Cardwell, is appointed collector for the port of Montreal not only Montreal Centre could not be carried, but that no respectable candidate could be brought forward.

The Ministers returned to Ottawa after promising that Mr. White shall be the collector at once, and that Judge Foster will be the next new senator for the Bedford district.

It is also intimated that Sir William Hingston has consented to accept the Government candidature in Montreal centre, but this is doubtful, as he has taken little or no active part in politics.

Before leaving Sir A. P. Caron said "I think everything is now all right."

SUPPOSED SEPARATE SCHOOLS.

The Roman Catholics Said to Have Discovered a Scheme to Circumvent the Manitoba Law.

Winnipeg, Oct. 31.—The Roman Catholic hierarchy has found a way of geting public funds for the support of church schools, despite the enactment of the Manitoba Legislature forbidding collection of municipal taxes therefor. The plan adopted is to get the council of a municipality where Roman Catholics are in a sufficient majority to vote a stated sum for charitable purposes, to be disposed of by certain officers as exigencies arise. The Separate school is put forth as the exigency, and the money paid over. Some taxpayers object to this kind of charity and are taking action in the courts to compel a refund of the money.

If the case is not successful no doubt the law will be amended again.

Serious trouble has broken out in the 19th Batt. A number of men claim there has been irregularity in the management of the battalion funds, and until there is an investigation they refuse to sign the pay roll. Col. Holmes, D.A.G., has promised an investigation.

A SCARLETT REUNION.

Toronto People Who Mourned Each Other as Dead Have a Gathering

Oakland, Cal., Oct. 31.—Among the overland passenger arrivals in Oakland Monday morning, was E ward Scarlett of Toronto, Canada, who had been hastily summoned to the city by a letter from his sister, Miss Kittie B. Scarlett, whom he had mourned as dead for some years.

Edward is the son of the late Sir James Scarlett, formerly a wealthy and influential citizen of Toronto. The family of Sir James left Toronto some 14 years ago, taking up their residence in South California. The father died shortly afterward and Edward returned to Toronto.

Through some misunderstanding, Mrs Scarlett received no tidings of his absence and was led to believe he was dead.

He in turn thought the same of his family, as letters to their Southern California address failed to reach them. Yesterday there was a happy re-union.

Who does not know women and young girls, who are continually in tears? Who always see the dark side? Who have frequent fits of melancholy without any apparent cause? The intelligent physician will know that it is some derangement of the complicated and delicate feminine organs. The young girl suffers, bodily and mentally, in silence. There is undue weariness, unexpected pain, unreasonable tears and fits of temper. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription exerts a wonderful power over woman's delibate organism. It is an invigorating tonic and is specific for the peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and painful derangements of woman. Careless, easy-going doctors frequently treat their woman patients for biliousness, nervousness, dyspepsia, liver or kidney troubles, when the real sickness is in the organs distinctly feminine, and no help can come till they are made perfectly strong by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Send 31 cents in one-cent stamps to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N.Y., and receive Dr. Pierce's 1008 page COMMON SENSE MEDICAL ADVISER, illustrated.

A SPEECH BY LORD SALISBURY

The Duke of Devonshire Says the Country, in View of Eastern Matters, May Need the Sympathy of Both Political Parties—Agricultural Depression.

London, Oct. 31.—Lord Salisbury made a speech at Watford yesterday, in which he referred to the agricultural question, saying:

"Since the repeal of the corn laws we have had the strongest cause to lament that, though the protectionists resisted, their warnings had not been listened to more carefully. The repealers laughed at the idea of its injuring husbandry; but a lowering of prices resulted and free trade has almost killed husbandry in several countries."

The speaker did not blame those who had passed the free trade measure, but said they should have thought more of the peculiar burden under which the land labored, and should have lightened the weight of those burdens when it could have been done with ease.

Lord Salisbury said that the great question in domestic affairs was social amelioration and not the pulling of the legislative machine to pieces. He dealt again at great length with the depression of husbandry. The last years, he said, had been years of threatening and increasing ruin, largely due to economic and climatic reasons. It was evident that a change must take place in the cultivation of the country. The first consideration was a relief from taxation, and the Government ought to try and assist the farmers in the matter of transportation and facilities of communication.

London, Oct. 31.—Lord Salisbury, speaking at Watford last evening said: "My mouth is rather tightly closed upon foreign affairs, but if you are asked to judge the foreign policy of the Government, I exhort you to remember that we inherited that policy. We did not originate it but for the sake of having a continuity of policy in the face of foreign nations, we expected to do our best to carry it loyally to an issue."

The Duke of Devonshire, speaking at Leeds yesterday, said: "It is idle to discuss the fact that in both Eastern Europe and Western Asia events are occurring and questions are arising which may affect great interests in this country, and the time may be approaching when it will be necessary for us to appeal to all political parties for sympathy.'"

London, Oct. 31.—The announcement of a secret treaty between Russia and China, reported in a Times despatch from Hong Kong, which has been cabled back to the Orient, is not credited by the Japanese Cabinet. The opinion of the Japanese Government is that the report is due to some special and interested motive.

Great activity prevails among the Russian troops on the Austrian and Armenian frontier. It is reported that two army corps are concentrating around Rowno.

Japs Evacuating.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 31.—The Novoe Vremya has information that the Japanese are evacuating the Liao Tung territory. The paper is also informed that large detachments of Mohammedan insurgents have combined and captured the town of Lan Chau Fu, the capital of the Province of Kan Su, defeating the Chinese and scattering them in all directions. It is asserted that it is the intention of the insurgents to form an independent kingdom in the teritory they have taken possession of. Numbers of secret societies in Central China have joined the insurgent Mohammedans

DEAR SIRS,—For quite a long time my blood was very bad, large sores would break out on me from a small scratch. I started to take your B. B. B. which completely cured me. I recommend Burdock Blood Bitters to all suffering from bad blood. OLIVE COLE, Lynedoch, Ont.

THE QUEEN USES THEM.

Her Majesty Queen Victoria is said to Use Proprietary Medicines—Other Queens Testify to their Wonderful Effects—One Says: "I Consider South American Nervine the Only Remedy on the Market for Stomach Disorder.

ONE feature of Queen Victoria's character is her freedom from prejudice. In matters of statesmanship, and equally so in those of the smaller affairs of life, she takes a broad common-sense view of the situation. There is, therefore, nothing wonderful in the report that in her recent illness Her Majesty used, and was greatly benefitted, by a leading proprietary medicine.

Other queens, the queens of the homes of Canada, have followed in the footsteps of Her Majesty, and found in proprietary medicines the avenue to health that they feared they had lost.

Residing near Dundalk, Ont., is Mrs. D. McArthur, one who brightly fills the position of queen in the home of one of the leading farmers in that district. Let her tell her own story: "For fifteen years I was troubled with dyspepsia, and during the winter previous to using South American Nervine I was confined to my bed, and my life despaired of. At intervals I consulted several leading doctors, but with little or no relief, as they claimed my case to be of a chronic nature. I was induced to try South American Nervine, and had taken only a few bottles when health came back to me, and finally I was completely restored. Knowing how desperate was my case, I feel safe in saying that for my stomach disorder there is no remedy like South American Nervine." Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

Not Merely Relief But Cure.

It is said of many remedies that they relieve for a time but the disease afterwards returns. Burdock Blood Bitters being a radical cure, not only relieves but permanently cures dyspepsia, constipation, biliousness, sick headache, bad blood, etc

What Should Influence You in the Purchase of a

PIANO?

If within the last 40 years we have grown from one small factory to have the largest in Canada, and from one factory wareroom to a branch wareroom in some of the largest cities and towns in the Dominion, is it not a safe argument in favour of our goods?

Can we afford to throw away for a few dollars profit a reputation which we have gained by years of hard, honest work?

In selling a Piano there is something more than the profit on the immediate sale. There is the opportunity of making other sales where goods prove reliable.

Is it unreasonable for us to say that being the manufacturers of reliable instruments we are in the position to save you the dealer's or jobber's profit, and that our guarantee upon a Piano means 100 cents on the dollar?

Band Instruments, small Musical Instruments, newest Sheet Music, and fittings for all instruments always in stock.

MR. KLEISER'S RECITAL.

Highly Successful Entertainment Under the Auspices of the "Woodmen of the World."

Notwithstanding the bad weather there was a fair sized audience at the Opera House last night to enjoy a splendid entertainment, presented under the auspices of the local camp of the Woodmen of the World, by Mr. Grenville Kleiser, head of the elocution department of the Toronto College of Music, and one of the cleverest elocutionary impersonators on this continent. His selection last night from his extensive repertoire was a monologue, in which Mr. Kleiser very cleverly impersonated the dozen or so characters in "Our American Cousin." Without attempting to refer in detail to this most captivating performance, it should be said that Mr. Kleiser was particularly happy in his impersonation of "Asa Trenchad, our American cousin," "Lord Dundreary," "Abel Murcott," and "Binny, the butler." Still the artist's versatile powers of facial and vocal metamorphosis invested every character with so marked an individuality that one felt that his monologue was "as good as a play." Those in the audience who had seen "Our American Cousin" presented on the stage were delighted with Mr. Kleiser's happy treatment of the subject, and those who had never heard it, gained from his clever presentation a more intelligent idea of the play than they would gain from the average dramatic representation.

THE WOODMEN OF THE WORLD.

At the conclusion of the monologue, Mr. Hawthorne, Canadian organizer for the Woodmen of the World, gave a brief address explanatory of the origin, objects and aims of the organization, which is a beneficiary society organized in Omaha in 1890. In 1892 the society was established in Canada, twelve camps having been organized. But some difficulty with the Provincial Inspector of Insurance led to an application for incorporation to the Dominion Parliament which was obtained after the representatives of the Society had satisfied the Committee of Banking and Commerce as to its ability to meet its claims. To show the public recognition of the claims of the society to confidence it was stated that the Order had now 2,500 selected members in Canada, and, including the United States, a total membership of 56,000. Particular care was taken in the selection of members, and all hazardous occupations were excluded, which accounted for the unusually low death rate. The Order in this country was purely Canadian, levying its own assessment and paying its own death claims. All the members have a voice in the management and all officers are required to give ample security. On the grave of every deceased member a monument worth $100 was placed by the society and the grave was annually decorated. The widows and orphans of deceased Woodmen were a special care and neither was allowed to suffer for the necessaries of life. After referring to the teachings of the Order, Mr. Hawthorne heartily commended the society to his audience.

Mr. Kleiser then delighted the audience with two splendid readings, one that intensely amusing skit representing the discomfiture of an over-confident young man about to propose matrimony to a young lady. Mr. Kleiser was exceedingly effective and entertaining last night and thoroughly satisfied his audience.

Pleasing variety to the programme was furnished by several brilliantly performed piano selections by Mr. John Armstrong, who is a local pianist of more than average ability.

Used Tobacco For Thirty Years.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 10, 1894.

UNCLE SAM'S TOBACCO CURE, CHICAGO, ILL. GENTLEMEN:—Regarding my opinion of the "Uncle Sam's Tobacco Cure," I would say: I have used the "filthy weed" for over thirty years, but after using the "Uncle Sam's Tobacco Cure" one week, I lost all taste or desire for it. This is some two months ago. Respectfully, JOHN G. LEE. Call at J. Lynch's drug store, Hunter street, and get a box of tablets.

No Earthquake Here.

Although reports come in from various points of the effects of an earthquake which were felt yesterday, there were no signs of anything of the sort in Peterborough. Nothing was known at the Toronto observatory of an earthquake, though it appears to have been felt at various points in the Province. If the disturbance which is reported in the Western States and at Chatham in Ontario reached Toronto, it was of to slight a character as not to be noticeable except by the magnetic photographic apparatus, the registerings of which are not known just yet.

A Substantial Allowance.

On Saturday afternoon, 19th inst., a meeting of the East Peterborough Agricultural Society was held in the town hall, Norwood, to consider recommendations made by the judges for extra prizes, to adjust any errors that might appear in the prize list, and receive protests. No protests were, however, made. The secretary reported a substantial balance after all liabilities had been paid. In consideration of increasing work devolving on the secretary-treasurer an addition of $25 was made to his salary. For the special services rendered by Mr. O'Reilly $5 was voted to him. The secretary was instructed not to pay the premiums on blood horses and sheep where satisfactory pedigrees had not been submitted.

A Successful Pastor.

The numerous friends of Rev. C. B. Kenrick, incumbent of St. Mark's, Port Hope, while they will be pleased with his success in his new field of labour, will not be surprised that his energy and earnestness have already yielded substantial fruit. It is only a few months since he assumed the care of St. Mark's, yet in that time the church has been handsomely restored, and the re-opening services will be conducted by the Lord Bishop of Toronto, on Thursday, November 7th, at 8 o'clock. Rev. H. Symonds, rector of St. Luke's, will preach the sermon at the service on the following Sunday. To show how warm a place Mr. Kenrick holds in the hearts of his late parishioners in Peterborough, it may be mentioned that handsome gifts for the beautifying of the restored church came from members of St. John's congregation.

CONUNDRUM DINNER AT ST. ANDREW'S.

IT WAS A GREAT SUCCESS AND HUNDREDS WERE THERE.

A Most Excellent Menu. Followed by a Musical Programme to Which None Could Take Exception.

An event which had been looked forward to for some time was the Conundrum Dinner under the auspices of the choir of St. Andrew's church. It was held last evening in the Sunday school apartments of the church, and the "realization" far outstripped the "expectations." Fully five hundred were seated at the tables between the hours of five and eight, and in the evening many more came to the concert. Great praise is indeed due Mr. G. W. Mulligan and his assistants for the success which attended the entertainment. The menu was a most excellent one, and some of the orders which were sent in were provocative of much laughter, but a second chance at the conundrums was generally given if the first proved too discouraging.

The bill of fare is appended:

Menu.

1. Close Shave.
2. Unruly Member.
3. Son of Noah.
4. A Country in Europe.
5. Causes of Neighbourhood Contentions.
6. A Silly Dude.

7. Poor Man's Staff.
8. Pride of Boston.
9. Women of Grit.
10. Precious Stones.

11. Bust of a Great Commentator.
12. Chips off the Old Block.

13. Tramp Cake.
14. Geological Specimens.
15. Tree Cake.
16. Musical Nuts.
17. Something to Adore.

18. Printers' Horror.
19. Home for the Skippers.

20. Nature's Offering.
21. Boston's Overthrow.
22. No Grounds of Complaint.

Shortly after eight o'clock the tables were cleared away, and the musical programme introduced by the pastor, Rev. Mr. MacWilliams, who made a few brief remarks incidental to the pleasure it gave him to see so many in attendance at the entertainment.

St. Andrew's choir than sang Shelley's "The King of Love My Shepherd is," in a manner most harmonious and in which the innate beauties of the composition were shown to the fullest advantage.

The male chorus, whose selections were most popular during the evening, rendered "O I am a Merry Sailor Lad," so well as to merit a spontaneous demand for an encore, which, however, was not granted. The chorus is composed of: First Tenors, Messrs. Brown, Jones, Steers and Miller. Second Tenors, Messrs. King, Squires, Mein and McKeown. First Base, Messrs. Daly, Davis, Miller and Shelton. Low bass, Messrs. Mulligan, Corbin, Skitch and Turner. After having once organized and shown their capability such a chorus but ought to give the Peterborough public other opportunities of hearing their excellent work. During the evening the chorus also sang "Home Sweet Home" and "Let the Hills and Vales Resound" later on in the evening.

SHOULD NOT DISBAND

Miss Mary Grant's selections from Faust on the piano were played with a brilliancy of execution, which marked her as one of Peterborough's first pianists. The lightness of her touch and her technique were especially noticeable and gave evidence of a talent fully developed by careful study and cultivation. In a room of better acoustic qualities Miss Grant would doubtless more fully impress an audience with her powers.

The double trio from "Emmanuel" given by Mrs. Mein, Mrs. Johnston, Miss Montgomery, Miss Lee, Miss Wrighton and Miss Carey, of St. Paul's choir, was one of the features of the evening. The excellent manner of its production reflected great credit on the performers and indicated that they had profited well by the excellent training they had received from the choir-master, Mr. John Crane. The phrasing and attack were particularly commendable; the harmony which characterized the production of the selection applies both to the beautiful blending of voices and the artistic shading the subject demanded.

Mrs. Seward and Mrs. Kernegan, of the George street choir, sang Compana's "Communion" as a duet, very sweetly, their voices being to the treatment of a composition of this nature, requiring a clear, soft, yet powerful, note to bring out its full beauty.

Hermes' "O Rose so Sweet" was contributed by a ladies' chorus, composed of: First Sopranos—The Misses Belleghem, Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Mein. Second Sopranos—Mrs. MacWilliams, Miss Heubeck, Miss Fowler and Miss Stevens. Altos—Mrs. Mulligan, Miss Gladman, Mrs. Stapleton and Miss Montgomery. The way in which the chorus handled this piece, as well as Marston's "Blossom Time," fully exemplified the amount of latent talent existing in Peterborough. Their voices combined with those of the male chorus are capable of handling music of a indeed. Although members of both choruses are trained in the church choirs of the town, yet such work while keeping them in practice, will never develop them as fully as the study of an oratoria or cantata.

VERY HIGH STANDARD,

Mr. G. W. Mulligan's "Death of Nelson," demanded attention, as his clear and robust voice is shown to great advantage in solo work of songs such as these.

A quartette composed of Misses Hall and Stevens and Messrs. Miller and Davis, from the Charlotte street choir, rendered Thompson's beautiful "Flowerland" in a most effective manner. The Charlotte street choir is at present one of the very best in Peterborough, and last evening's rendition illustrated the high class of music which the choir is capable of giving. Full justice was done the subject, and the voices blended remarkably well in its production.

Rev. J. J. Rae and Rev. W. R. Young, B. A., were both present and made a few brief remarks appropriate to the occasion, add the large audience dispersed at the conclusion of the National Anthem.

Honest Help.

"TAFFY AND FUN"

At the Good Templars' Hallowe'en Social.

Two weeks ago it was decided that City Lodge should hold a "Taffy Pull and Fun Social" on Hallowe'en, and it was left with the gentlemen to supply all the programme. Although given such short notice, the boys went to work, and last night presented a programme that they need not be ashamed of, considering the fact that only two practices were held. The programme was run off as follows:

Voluntary	W J Stubbs
Selection	I O G T Harmony Club
Solo	W J Stubbs
Dialogue	"Patrick's Cross Examination"
Solo	J Howland
Round	"Come to Dinner"
Solo	Mr Reynolds
Pugilistic Drill	Four Boys
Solo	H Sabin
Chorus	"Oh Maria"
Silent Oration	Mr Girly
Round	"Three Blind Mice"

CONUNDRUMS—TAFFY.

Selection	String Band
Axe Drill
Song and Chorus	G G Green

This brought to a close this very successful social, which was in every respect appropriate to the night. The hall was filled and the audience showed their appreciation of the different numbers in rounds of applause. A collection was taken up to defray expenses, and a handsome surplus remained when these were deducted. The ladies of the lodge will give another social in about a month, and will use every effort to surpass the attempt of the lords of creation.

The number of members of City Lodge continues to swell. A dozen have been initiated in the last three meetings, and fifteen or twenty signified their intention of joining next Thursday. Come along and you will be made welcome.

All we have ever said of the curative virtues of Ayer's Sarsaparilla sinks into insignificance when compared with the statements made by those who have been benefited by the use of this wonderful blood-purifier. Many of the cures seem indeed almost incredible.

The Search for Capt. Reynolds.

Although every effort is being made to recover the body of Captain Reynolds, who was drowned on Monday last, the searchers have so far been unsuccessful. Dynamite has been used, but with no avail. The search has been kept up night and day since Tuesday, but not even a trace has been discovered of the missing man, although several rumors have been afloat to the contrary.

All Saints' Day.

Holy Communion was celebrated this morning in St. John's church at 7 o'clock, and this evening service will be held at 8 o'clock. Special music has been prepared for the occasion and the full choir will be present. The sermon will be delivered by Rev. Carl Smith. The service, besides being comemorative of All Saints' Day, will also have a reference to the restoration of the church, which was reopened just thirteen years ago.

Methodist Missions.

The Missionary Committee of the Bay of Quinte Conference met in Wesley hall, Cobourg, on Tuesday, last, and made the apportionments to the missions within the bounds of the Conference. The General Board of Missions of the Methodist church apportioned $5,020 for domestic missions, and $1,350 for Indian missions in this Conference. These sums were divided among twenty-nine domestic missions and four Indian missions. Elairton is the only mission in this district receiving anything from this fund.

Struck a New Idea.

The Bordeaux Claret Co., struck a new and fruitful idea when it conceived the notion of putting a cheap wine upon the market at prices which would bring it within the reach of all. For the long profit and the slow sale is not as good business as the small profit and the great sale, and $3 and $4 per dozen quarts appeals to the whole people, whereas $8 for a wine not one whit better—if as good—could only appeal to a section of the people. Wine upon the poor man's table; good wholesome wine, which will do him and his family good, at a little over the price of poor beer. The famous Medoc Wines. Selling enormously all over Ca ada. Powers of a J. P.

By an Act of the Dominion Parliament, passed last session, there have been some important changes made as to arresting without a warrant. Now a Peace Officer may arrest without a warrant any one whom he finds committing any criminal offence, and any person may arrest without a warra[illegible] any one whom he finds committing a c[illegible]minal offence by night. The owner of any property on or with respect to which any person is authorized by such owner, may arrest without a warrant the person so found, who shall forthwith be taken before a Justice of the Peace to be dealt with according to law. Two Justices of the Peace have power, when sitting together, to try persons for theft, obtaining money or property by false pretences, or unlawfully receiving stolen property, when the value of the property alleged to have been stolen, obtained or received, does not exceed, in the judgment of the magistrate, $10.—Telegram.

A PLEASING AND ENJOYABLE EVENT.

Rev. Mr. Gilmour and Bride Accorded a Reception.

Rev. J. L. Gilmour and Mrs. Gilmour, (nee Miss Burnham, of town,) have taken up their residence in Brockville, where Mr. Gilmour is in charge of the Baptist church. Concerning the reception which was accorded them on their return from the wedding trip, the Brockville Times says:—

"A most pleasing and enjoyable event took place in the basement of the Baptist church last evening, when a reception was tendered to the pastor, Rev. J. L. Gilmour and Mrs. Gilmour, who returned last Friday from their wedding journey. The reception was largely attended, and was a striking tribute of the high esteem in which Rev. Mr. Gilmour is held, as well as a proof of the warm welcome to Brockville which Mrs. Gilmour is assured of. The large number of new friends she made last evening and their words of welcome to her must have been convincing to her upon that point. At about nine o'clock, Mr. Simpson, superintendent of the Sunday School, took the chair and made a brief and appropriate address of welcome to Rev. Mr. Gilmour and Mrs. Gilmour, on behalf of the congregation. After a few words from Rev. L. A. Betts, who spoke felicitously and humorously, Principal Pakenham, of the Collegiate Institute, who, as a former resident of Peterborough, is an old friend of both Mr. and Mrs. Gilmour, made a most happily worded address, in the course of which he paid a high tribute to Mr. Gilmour as a man of good heart and good head. Mr. Gilmour made his thanks for himself and for his wife, for the great kindness shown them both. During the evening there were several musical selections and refreshments were served by the ladies.

Mr. Aunger is now in receipt of a box of beautiful specimens of copper, nickle, etc., from these mines, and they will go far to replenish his collection.

Fire in Manvers.

Mr. Joseph Staples of Manvers, who lives about midway between Frankville and Janetville, met with a very severe loss by fire on Friday evening last. His barns, stables and outhouses, together with contents, were totally consumed. In the barn was housed the season's crop, consisting of about a thousand bushels of grain, and a large quantity of straw, hay, etc. A number of fine pigs and fowl were also burned. The origin of the fire is supposed to be the upsetting of a lantern. His son Lewis had gone out to fix up the horses for the night. Setting the lantern on the floor, he took a pony out to water, and while at the pump he noticed a bright light, and rushing back found the stable on fire. The remaining horses were saved with much difficulty. It is supposed that a hen knocked the lantern over. Mr. Staples loss will be a severe one, and will foot up to over $3,000; insurance, $1,700.—Lindsay Watchman.

Caught at Last.

Early last spring it was discovered that a number cottages at Sturgeon Point—Lindsay's well-known summer resort—had been entered by parties then unknown, and miscellaneous articles of considerable value were missed after a careful inventory of the contents had been taken. The cottagers felt that some energetic steps should be taken to discover the thieves and make an example of them in order to ensure the future safety of property left at Sturgeon Point for six months of the year, and they placed the matter in the hands of the police who have been working very quietly ever since, with the result that on Tuesday last a man by the name of Newman Tripp was brought before County Magistrate Deacon by County Constable Crawford, charged with having in his possession property that had been stolen from Mr. E. B. W. McGaffrey's cottage. He was remanded until Saturday. Severe reprisal, it will be remembered, was meted out to the tramps who entered the Stony Lake cottages last winter.

VERY QUIET LAST NIGHT.

But few Gates Were Molested and few of the Boys Were Out.

The sloppiness of things in general somewhat dampened the ardor of Peterborough's rising generation last night, and but few of the youngsters were abroad, as the fun of carrying of a gate is considerably abated, if a necessary condition is that one is drenched to the skin in the act.

No complaints were received at the police station last night, nor had any been made up to twelve o'clock to-day, so that the few tricks which were played were doubtless rather harmless ones.

A cutter was left leaning up against the door of Donovan's grocery on Charlotte street, and this morning Mr. Frank Mason found the box of the Singer sewing machine delivery sleigh reposing in the door way of his greenhouse. A great many moveable gates were brought into the house by their respective owners, and consequently the residential portion of the town bore a rather strange appearance early in the evening. A number of horse blocks in the West End were moved around the corner, but they were too bulky to take far. A gate or two dangled from the lamp posts in the outskirts, but no fences were torn down or other riotous boisterousness indulged in.

Officers Elected in Hamilton Yesterday.

The W. C. T. U., now in session in Hamilton, held their elections yesterday, and showed their conservatism and their appreciation of earnest and effective effort by practically re-electing their entire staff of Provincial officers. Mrs. May R. Thornley, of London, who since 1893, has been the devoted and sagacious president of the Ontario Union; Mrs. Wylie for eleven years, the Corresponding Secretary; Miss Ella Cosford, who for three years has been Recording Secretary, and Miss Jennie MacArthur, who for six years has handled the cash of the Provincial Union, were all re-elected. A change was made in the vice-presidency, but Mrs. Cavers, of Galt, who has been chosen to fill that post, is an experienced officer, who was Mrs. Thornley's predecessor in the president's chair, holding that office for four or five years. The other work done was not of great importance, some not very important changes to the constitution being made, a couple of reports being read, and a school of methods held. In the evening Mrs. Ella Boole, of Staten Island, N.Y., gave an inspiring address.

LAST NIGHT'S BLAZE.

Sheds in the Rear of Mark Wainright's Burnt.

At about nine o'clock last evening the fire brigade was summoned to the residence of Mr. Mark Wainwright's on London and Bethune streets, where the sheds in the rear were found to be ablaze.

On account of the large amount of straw in the sheds the flames were with difficulty suppressed. The damage amounts to about eighty or ninety dollars and is understood to be fully covered by insurance.

The building is owned by Mr. Wm. Millburn, and the fire is thought to have been started by boys out on a Hallow'een lark. The rain did much to prevent the spread of the fire before the arrival of the brigade.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Geo. A. Cox is in town to-day.

Mrs. Bogue has returned home after a few weeks visit in Toronto.

Miss Emma Kearns, of Rochester, N.Y., is visiting relatives in town.

Miss Hendren is visiting Mrs. Samuel Henderson, Port Hope.

CRUEL BLOOMER WAR.

STILL RAGING EAST, WEST, NORTH AND SOUTH.

Lively Pros and Bitter Cons—Mississippi Valley Doctors Prescribe Bikes, but They Protest With Vigor Against Bloomers—A Rather Curious Chicago Incident.

A Detroit correspondent telegraphs: The junior medical organization of the United States, known as the Mississippi Valley Medical Association, to-day (Sept. 6), placed the seal of its approval on bicycle riding for men and women, but condemned bloomers. Dr. I. N. Love of St. Louis, in a paper, the subject of which was "The Bicycle from a Medical Standpoint," told how he had investigated the subject thoroughly and arrived at the conclusion that the bicycle was the greatest thing known for exercise when properly used.

Concerning the bloomers, he said: "Let us protest against it. It is a blot on the landscape. It is inartistic, disgusting and revolting."

The other doctors approved his remarks. The women doctors of the convention heartily thanked him and coincided with him and gave applause to his statement that any woman in bloomers should be arreested.

'PHONE GIRLS IN BLOOMERS

Ordered not to Wear Them, but They Will not Obey.

This comes from Chicago: An edict recently issued by the Chicago Telephone Company has been conspicuously bulletined at headquarters, the rendezvous of 199 "hello" girls, and bears the official signature of the general manager. It reads:

Operators will not be permitted to report at this building at any hour of the day or night in bloomer costume, nor to assume that attire before departure for home.

"We still wear bloomers under the skirt," quietly said Miss Edith Brandt, one of the leaders of the innovation. "Skirts are a nuisance, anyway," she added. "If there were no order against bloomers, I really do not see why they should not be worn in the operating room."

BIKE AN BLOOMERS.

Here is a French bicycle joke: One of the Paris papers gives an account of a funeral a la bicycle, and, after describing the coffin, clergyman, choir and mourners, all on wheels, they call it a veritable fin de cycle!—Boston Herald.

Along old ocean's shifting sands,
'Neath summer's silvery moons,
Beskirted gallants squeeze the hands
Of girls in pantaloons.
—New York Recorderr.

"When Mamie rides her bicycle in bloomers, does she seem shy?"

"No; but you ought to see the horses she meets!"—Browning, King & Co.'s Monthly.

A bicyclist chased by a Chinese mob does not speak slightingly of a cycle in Cathay.—Boston Transcript.

"Why's a bike like a woman?"
The Merry Idiot cried.
"Because it's so hard to learn,"
The jilted man replied.

"Because sometimes it's very fast,"
The cynic murmured low;
"Because," the cynic rash declared,
"It's always on the go."

"Because it runs right through the dust,"
A husband sadly vowed;
"Oh! because it's fascinating!"
The bloomer girl allowed.

Then loud laughed the Merry Idiot,
"My reason crowns the cup!
Because it very often needs
A right good blowing up!"
Kate M. Cleary, in Puck.

Woman's first duty to man is to be beautiful. If she insists upon the rights she can be as ugly as she pleases to be, and wear the dizziest style of bloomers.—New Orleans Picayune.

Women are more seemly riders than most men, but perhaps the germ of the new costume is to be found in the dress of the little girls who ride gracefully and modestly with skirts that hardly reach below the knee, and are so modest that no one remarks that it is not fitting. The skirt is indispensible, but must be short, and the bloomers are not graceful. The modiste who can invent just what is fitting will find a fortune at her hands.—Boston Herald.

She rode her wheel
With active zeal.
Although there were many rumors
That she was mad
Because she had
No creases in her bloomers.

WORLD OF SPORTS.

Little Rock, Ark., Oct. 31.—From all appearances Bob Fitzsimmons is not likely to be at liberty to participate in a prize fight for several days to come. He may be detained here for a week, while the Attorney-General and the lawyers for the Hot Springs Athletic Club argue the legal points in the case. But even if it were assured that Fitzsimmons would be discharged from custody to-morrow there is still the absolute certainty that the redoubtable Governor Clarke would be on his trail again with some species of legal wepon within five minutes.

It was 9.30 o'clock this morning when Fitzsimmons and Julian arrived in the city over the Cotton Belt Railroad, in the custody of Sheriff Dillard of Texarkana, who made the arrest. The party was driven to the Capital Hotel.

Julian spoke bitterly of the reports that had been telegraphed over the country to the effect that Fitzsimmons had thrown himself in the way of Sheriff Dillard, when he might have surrendered to Sheriff Houpt of Garland County, and been taken safely to Hot Springs. "That statement," he declared, "is a lie, pure and simple. We knew nothing of either of the sheriffs. The Hot Springs people sent us no word of anything of the kind at the time I left there ten days ago up to the present moment."

At 2 o'clock the pugilist and his manager appeared before Judge J. W. Martin in the Circuit Court. Mayor Waters of Hot Springs had telegraphed Julian that the attorneys of the club could not reach Little Rock until to-morrow and consequently when Assistant Attorney-General Memmingway requested a continuance until to-morrow afternoon because of the absence of Attorney-General Kingsworthy, there was no opposition. The pugilist and party returned to the hotel in the custody of a deputy sheriff.

Under the law Fitzsimmons and Julian may be held in bonds not exceeding $5000 each to keep the peace.

Governor Clarke was happy this afternoon. "I have declared all along," he said, "that there would be no prize fighting in Arkansas on Oct. 31. As you see there has been none. The resources at my disposal are fully equal to any emergency and prize fighters and their patrons will save time and money by keeping out of the state."

A Hot Springs despatch says that Corbett went to the ring-side in the morning and will claim the state, but the other party deny that he did.

Hammer Throwing Extraordinary.

San Francisco, Oct. 31.—Thomas Carroll of the Caledonian Club of this city, yesterday threw the 8-lb. hammer 212 feet, breaking the world's record of 210 feet 3 inches, made by William Coulson of the New York A.C. Carroll then threw the 12-lb. hammer 163 feet 5 3-4 inches, breaking the world's record of 164 feet 2 inches. Robert Edgran of Berkeley threw the 8-lb. hammer 178 feet 4 inches and the 12-lb. hammer 134 feet, breaking the amateur record of 124 feet. Carroll then threw the 16-lb. hammer 132 feet 3 3-4 inches, breaking the record of 123 feet 6 3-4 inches. He threw the 21-lb hammer 90 feet 5 inches, breaking the record of 90 feet 3 inches. Edgren threw the 16-lb. hammer 113 feet 9 1-2 inches, breaking the record of Hickok of 113 feet.

A NEW CLUB.

Name Suggested for a New Social Organization in London.

LONDON, (Special) Oct. 28.—It has been facetiously suggested that a new social club in process of organization in this city should be entitled "The Dodd's Kidney Pill Club" as the present members are all enthusiastic advocates of that remedy and in common with many other citizens declare that in all cases of kidney trouble no other agent has been found so completely effective. Most Londoners have at their fingers' ends the particulars of the many marvellous cures through the use of this specific. In every drug store in the city the medicine is kept in large quantities and warmly recommended.

OF THE SUN'S SUCCESS.

The Press is now the principal medium by which the MERITS of the various Life Assurance Companies are made known to the public.

The Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, allots its profits to policies according to age and in proportion to premiums paid.

Mr. James W., of this agency, age 68, holds a policy (No. 28,038), for $1000 on the ALL LIFE PLAN in the SUN. On the First of April last he had been insured for 5 years and received results as follows:—

1st.—A Bonus Addition to the Sum Assured of $189
or, 2nd—A Reduction for the Next 5 years of $35.80 Yearly.
or, 3rd.—A single cash payment of $138.25.

The undersigned would like to see an example of profits approaching the above given by ANY OTHER LIFE COMPANY under similar conditions. The profit earning powers of the SUN are unexcelled.

THE GRAND TRUNK.

Semi-Annual Meeting of the Shareholders in London.

A VERY SATISFACTORY REPORT.

The New President, Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, Outlines the Future Policy of the Road, Which Will be One of Rigid Economy—A Bit of a Broom.

London, Oct. 30.—The semi-annual meeting of the directors and shareholders of the Grand Trunk Railway Company was held at the Cannon-street Hotel.

There was a large attendance, the room being crowded. Sir Charles Rivers-Wilson, president of the company, presided.

Upon taking the chair, he expressed, on behalf of himself and his colleagues in the directorate, the gratitude they felt for his election to the position. It was not without hesitation, he said, that he had accepted his position. He had relied upon the high character of the board, and the goodwill of the shareholders, and had not been wanting in efforts to justify the confidence they had reposed in him.

The account of the company, he said, had been greatly amplified and improved, and it would be the constant aim of the directors to keep in touch with the proprietors—the shareholders—in matters respecting the position of the finances of the company.

The new board, he said, had taken into consideration the previous unsatisfactory state of affairs, and then decided upon a future general policy of strict economy in their administration, close supervision of the working staff and careful selection of officers.

They had also resolved not to be led astray by ambitious or other motives, into the field of extension, amalgamation or development, which if not conducted with prudence might reach disastrous results. (Cheers.)

They had resolved, too, that if they ever enter into an enterprise they would do so only upon satisfactory proof that it would result in profit to the company.

He had observed, too, he said, that a singular interest had been manifested in the affairs of the company throughout his trip to Canada.

The negotiations which had been proceeding with the Central Vermont Railroad had not yet resulted in an agreement, but he was not without hope that they would yet reach a satisfactory conclusion.

For the last fortnight there had been a distinct increase in the earnings of the Chicago and Grand Trunk Railway, which he believed was in consequence of the equipment of the road with new cars.

The board, he said, were anxious to avoid recrimination and to draw a lesson from the experience and profit by the mistakes of the past. The chief error of the past had been in being too sanguine of the success of the new undertakings. If some of these had not been undertaken the finances of the company would have been in a much healthier condition. The board had been unable to disencumber themselves from some of them, and must therefore try to work them, if possible, at a profit.

There had been an agreement on rates within the last day or two, and he had telegraphed the general manager in Montreal, instructing him to affix his signature and the seal of the company thereto. He had reason to believe that the agreement would be signed by all the other trunk lines today.

Sir Charles Wilson then moved the adoption of the report of the board, and the motion was seconded by Mr. Joseph Price.

Mr. Baker, a shareholder of Bristol, complained of the manner in which the president of the company was elected and called attention to the fact that he had submitted at the last meeting an amendment to the bylaws, prescribing the mode of election.

Shareholder Allen interrupted Mr. Baker, and reminded him that the motion he had submitted at the last meeting had been lost.

Mr. Baker, continuing his remarks, said the directors ought to set an example by accepting less in fees.

He criticised the report of the accounts as scandalous. If any one had been badly treated, he declared, it was Sir Henry Tyler.

This declaration caused a great uproar, in which hisses were mingled with cries of "sit down," "let the cat out of the bag," "what do you want, Baker," etc.

When order was restored, Mr. Baker resumed his remarks, concluding by saying that there would be no better chance to consolidate the interests and capital of the company than the present.

Mr. Girdlestone said there had been a very happy change in the governors of the company.

Mr. Haygate made a very charitable and optimistic speech, amid continued stamping and cries of "time," and "sit down," etc.

Mr. Leal taxed Mr. Haygate with defending the previous policy, which he held as an absolute abomination.

The chairman (Sir Charles Wilson), replying to intimations of extravagance, said that there had been no undue expenditure in London, and declared tha it was totally inadvisable for part of the directors of the company to reside in Canada. Only £20,000 worth of stock was held there, while the company was controlled in London.

The report of accounts was adopted unanimously.

Mr. L. J. Seargeant, general manager of the company in Montreal, was elected a director.

A proposal for a vote of thanks and the sum of 100 guineas to Robert Household was lost. A vote of thanks to the board and staff was then passed.

THE workman often eats his lunch on the same bench where he does his work. The office man snatches a few minutes from his occupation and turns his desk into a dining-table. Neither gets the exercise he needs, neither takes the proper time for eating. It is small wonder that the digestion of both gets out of order.

Nature works as hard as she can, but there are some things she cannot stand. If a man gets some foreign substance into the works of his watch, he doesn't expect the watch to run until the impediment is removed. His own digestive system is a much more wonderful and delicate mechanism than that of his watch, and yet he neglects it and abuses it. He lets it get out of order, and refuses to help it. In the end his neglect reacts with terrible force upon himself. The reaction comes on gradually, however, so that sometimes he scarcely suspects the cause.

The cause of nine-tenths of the sickness of the world is constipation—a condition so common that four people out of five take it as a matter of course. From this one cause come indigestion; disorders of the stomach, liver and kidneys; biliousness, headaches, flatulence, heartburn, impurity of the blood and the serious complications that follow. To begin with, constipation is a little thing, and a little thing will cure it. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are tiny, sugar-coated granules. They give to nature just the little help she needs. They are as gentle as they are efficient, and will perfectly cure the worst cases of constipation. There is nothing in the world like them, so there can be nothing "just as good." WORLD OF SPORTS.

Morris Park, Oct. 30.—This was the third and last day of the New York Steeplechase Association's first fall meeting. It could scarcely be called a success as the betting talent take very little interest in cross-country races. The card was very poor and scarcely 500 persons were on the grounds. Summaries:

First race, hurdle, 2 1-2 miles—Fugitive, 144, Veach, 7 to 10, 1; Maretti, 127, Callahan, 6 to 1, 2; Daybreak, 142, Brasil, 8 to 1, 3. Time 4.58. Poteen also ran.

Second race, hurdle, 2 1-2 miles—Caracus, 164, Peerse, 8 to 5, 1; San Joaquin, 145, Veach, 2 to 1, 2; Winship, 139, Chandler, 8 to 1, 3. Time 4.47. Southerner, Rose Howard, also ran.

Third race, steeplechase, about four miles—Duke of Abercorn, 144, Persse, 2 to 1, 1; Woodford, 148, McInerney, 4 to 1, 2; Sam D., 140, Hueston, 15 to 1, 3. Time 7.55. The Peer, Chevy Chase, Stockton also ran.

Fourth race, steeplechase, about 3 miles—Richards, 128, Hueston, 6 to 1, 1; May Blossom, 135, Green, 8 to 5, 2; Lafayette, 145, Bracken, 4 to 5, 3. Time 6.02. Venus also ran.

Fifth race, on flat, 2 miles—Emma C., 134, Taral, even, 1; Deerslayer 137, Doggett, 8 to 5, 2; Kilkenny, 142, Chandler, 2 to 1, 3. Time 3.34. Marcus, Campayne, Red Cloud, Harry Alonzo also ran.

They Cannot Fight To day

Texarkana, Oct. 30.—Fitzsimmons passed through here at 3.10 this afternoon. Little Rock officers, backed up by the sheriff, of this county, arrested him as soon as the train reached Arkansas territory. Sheriff Houpt of Hot Springs claimed prior arrest, but was ignored by the first named officers, who disputed his right on authority of the Governor. Sheriff Houpt said the plan was that he and Fitzsimmons would enter the State of Arkansas on the baggage car; that as soon as the line was reached they would jump from the train, run over into Arkansas and he would arrest Fitzsimmone and take him to a place where he would be required to give a bond, and where the fight would come off between 6 and 10 o'clock in the morning. The plan failed to work, because the Governor's officers refused to recognize Houpt's authority, a warrant having been issued for him to-day on complaint of the Attorney-General, charging him with aiding in a conspiracy. The militia has been ordered out at Little Rock.

Parson Davies on the Fight.

Parson Davies is evidently sanguine that the big fight will come off at Hot Springs. The Sullivan combination, which he is handling, left Detroit Tuesday night for Hot Springs, having assurances that the mill would be surely pulled off. In Davies' party are: John L. Sullivan, ex-champion of the world; Paddy Ryan, ex-champion of America; Jimmy Barry, champion bantam weight of America; Joe Choynski, the California heavyweight, and Tommy Ryan, champion welterweight of the world, and the lot were transported to Arkansas. Parson Davies says, according to the telegram from Vendig, the fight scheduled for to-day will probably take place about Nov. 5.

Speaking of the fight Davies says that if Corbett and Fitzsimmons do not come together the general public will take no stock in either of them. He says that it will be bad policy not to fight, even if the contest has to be pulled off in private.

"I think Corbett will win," said Mr. Davies in Detroit, " for several reasons. In the first place Jim is quicker and seven years younger. He is heavier and taller, and is much shiftier on his feet than Fitzsimmons. It will be a good fight, but I think Corbett has a sure thing, providing he is anywhere near the shape he was when he went against Sullivan. The betting will be 10 to 6 or 7 in favor of Jim."

In regard to the Maher-O'Donnell "go" Davies said that he picked Maher for a winner. Of course the Parson is confident that Tommy Ryan will win his contest with Smith, which is the third fight scheduled for the carnival.

Windle's New World's Record.

Chillicothe, Ohio, Oct. 30.—W. W. Windle took three world's bicycle records from John S. Johnson yesterday afternoon. He cut the half-mile record from 51s. to 48s., one-third mile from 32 2-5s. to 30 3-5s. and quarter-mile from 23s. to 22 4-5s. A. B. Howson, state L.A.W. official, was present and the records are official: ,(

Chapman Won the Queen's Race.

The Queen City Bicycle Club's 10-mile handicap race took place at Dufferin Park yesterday afternoon. The first to finish were: R. M. Chapman, scratch, 1; J. Orr, 1 min. 20 sec., 2; J. P. Khuck, scratch, 3. R. M. Chapman secured time prize. Time 34 1-2 min.

Good Mining Prospects for the Year and Increased Facilities to Miners.

NELSON (Special), Oct. 21.—The mining prospects for next year in this locality are excellent, and a large influx of prospectors is expected. Miners and others coming in have been in the habit of bringing with them large quantities of Dodd's Kidney Pills, a remedy which they all swear by, and whose virtues they have extolled to such an extent, that the druggists throughout the section have become alive to the necessity of laying in large supplies to meet the greatly increasing demand. The remedy is generally regarded as an indispensable part of a miner's outfit, both for its portability and a value in preserving health which cannot be overestimated.

THE SECRET OUT

THE secret is out. The Government Insurance Blue Books have revealed it. The facts of the case will prove of real value to all those seeking a company where permanent satisfaction can be secured under a Policy of Life Insurance. The telescope has been turned upon those who withdrew from various prominent companies in 1894.

It is obvious to any one that the proportion of persons who lapse or surrender their policies in any company is a fairly good test of the satisfaction or dissatisfaction existing therein. If policy-holders are receiving satisfactory profit results, if they are being honestly and honourably dealt with, if they cannot do better elsewhere, then it is plain these facts will show themselves in the small number who surrender their policies or allow them to lapse.

To test these conditions, and to discover the company that is giving greatest satisfaction to its policy-holders, as evidenced by their determination to continue their policies, we have made an analysis of the facts, as reported in the blue books containing the business for 1894 of the leading Canadian Companies. We have calculated the ratio per cent. of assurances surrendered to the average business in force in 1894 also the ratio per cent. of assurance lapsed to the average business in force. Intending assurers have here an inside view of Life Assurance that is full of significance. When a company stands out so prominently as does the CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY in this test, it means that its merits are known and recognized by those who become connected with it.

This is but another of those numerous tests in which the CANADA LIFE shows its superiority.

The following table tells the whole story :—

COMPANY.	Per Cent. Surrendered.	PerCent. Lapsed.	Per Cent. Lapsed and Surrendered.
CANADA LIFE.....	.70	2.10	2.80
Confederation Life	2.33	4.65	6.98
North American	1.73	6.97	8.70
Ontario Mutual	2.51	6.59	9.10
Sun Life.....	2.63	8.54	11.17

The above figures are compiled from the Dominion Insurance report, issued by the Superintendent of Insurance, at Ottawa.

Once more, and as usual, the CANADA LIFE COMPANY comes out on top.

COMPARE

The following two Peterborough results with anything else of the kind in existence in the town. Other companies promise, we perform. That is the great difference.

W. H's Life Policy for $10,000, issued April, 1889, Age 23, Annual Premium $177.

Total Cost for 6 years.....1,062 Dollars
Profits Added to Policy .....1,250 Dollars

Nearly 200 Dollars more than Insurance Cost.

A. E's Life Policy for $5,000, issued April, 1886, Age 22, Annual Premium $86.

Total Cost for 9 years..... 774 Dollars
Profits Added to Policy .....1,000 Dollars

VISITED REV. R. B. BEAVIS,

Who is from Asphodel, but is now a Missionary on the Coast.

Mr. J. Lambert Payne, private secretary to Sir Mackenzie Bowell, who accompanied the Premier and Hon. T. Mayne Daly, Minister of the Interior on their trip to the Pacific Coast, is writing a series of interesting articles on the trip in the Montreal Star. He makes the following reference in a recent article to Rev. R. B. Beavis, a native of Asphodel:

Next day the Quadra bore us into the little bay, at the far end of which lies the village of Bella Bella. Here again we found only a few men at home, and the others off at the Skeena and Fraser fisheries. This was a picturesque and comparatively clean place, and some evidences of progress were apparaent in a new water power saw mill which the Indians had erected for their own purposes. There was also a well kept mission school, in charge of Rev. Mr. Beavis, to which the Premier and Minister of the Interior gave special attention. We looked in at the little Methodist church and found it clean and inviting. There were hymn books in the Indian tongue, and we were informed that Mr. Beavis preached to the people in that language every Sunday. He also had a well-stocked dispensary, supplied by the Indian Department, and seemed to possess a general knowledge of elementary surgery and medicine. He told us that the dispensary had been a great service to him and was much prized by the Indians. His young wife and child were the only other white persons in the village, and knowing that they had left eastern Ontario for this philanthropic work, we thought they must feel the isolation and sacrifice keenly at times.

SAM JONES AND THE MASONS.

The Southern Odd Fellow gives the following illustration of how Rev. Sam. P. Jones regards fraternal societies. The illustration is taken from a sermon preached in St. Louis, and is given in Sam Jones' characteristic style:

Before I ever was a Christian I learned one thing, and I want you to hear this. I was away from home and was robbed on a train. I had all the money me and my friend both had. He didn't have any and they got mine—and we got off at a station. That was when I was a sinner and that was twenty-five years ago. He was a steward in the Methodist Church, and I was just a plain, common, simple sinner; that was all I was. When we got off at the station we stayed around there for a moment or two. He says: "Sam, I wonder if there is a Mason in this town?" I said: "A Mason?" He said: "Yes." "Well," I said, "what do you want with a Mason?" He says: "I can get some money if I can find a Mason." I said: "Ain't you a Methodist?" He said: "Yes." I said: "Why don't you go to the Methodists?" "Oh, shucks," he said, "I will go to the Masons." And he struck out, and after a very few minutes came back, and I said, "How did you come out?" "All right," he said, "I got it." "Who did you get it from?" "From a Mason." He says, "Sam, if you want to go to heaven, you join the Methodists; but if you want a hold on earth you join the Masons." So when I started in I just joined both, and to-night I am a Methodist and a Mason, and I am getting along well for both worlds.

All Run Down.

This is the condition of thousands. Squanderers have they been of sleep, rest and finally of health. The mad pursuit of place, power and pelf leaves them broken in spirit, weak in body, shattered in nerve. In the world, but no longer of it, their days are spent in desire, impotent and purposeless, for they have bankrupted health. Thousands are on the road. They heed not the warning that nature gives.

Sleeplessness, inertia, despondency, and fatigue add their mournful notes to the "still sad music of humanity." Tired! Tired! Tired! You need aid! Your system requires a staff upon which to lean, and your brain rest for increasing vigils! Health and strength are the alternatives from decay and death.

Cocoa, combined with Maltine, affords that staff. It will give tone to the nervous system, strength to the shattered nerves, sleep to the weary eyes and rest to the tired brain.

THE WHEEL.

As the bicycle track at the Driving Park is still too soft for fast work, the riders, who are down from Toronto to pace Harley Davidson in his efforts to break all existing records, were unable to do anything to-day in the way of wheeling and did up the town in the Irish jaunting car instead.

In a chat with Payson Davidson, the Brantford team's capable trainer, he expressed the opinion that as soon as the track was in shape Harley would be able to negotiate the mile in about 1.56. If this can be done and other records broken, it will make assurance doubly sure concerning the bringing of the big C. W. A. meet to Peterborough next year.

Numberless discussions have arisen regarding the best time which has yet been made on a "quad." Mr. Davidson says he saw the World's record broken at Asbury Park in 1.50 and a trifle faster time was made in Buffalo the other day.

In view of the impending attack by Davidson on the figures which constitute the records they are herewith published:

Quarter-mile flying, paced, 26 2-5, A. McLeod.
Quarter-mile flying, unpaced, 26, H. Davidson.
Quarter-mile standing, unpaced, 28 4-5, H. Davidson.
Half-mile flying, unpaced, 1.02 1-5, A. McLeod.
Half-mile flying, paced, 59 1-5, T. B. McCarthy.
One mile flying, paced, 1.58 1-5, J. Wills.
Two miles flying start, 4.20 2-5, T. B. McCarthy.
Three miles flying, 6.40 2-5, T. B. McCarthy.
Four miles flying, 9.01, H. Davidson.
Five miles flying, 11.24 2-5, T. B. McCarthy.

Colin Harbottle was asked to make the trip to Peterborough as one of the quad. team, but his determination to give up racing forever was not to be shaken. He is of the opinion that Gibbons, Brown and McIntosh will find it not an easy task to make the quad.

The greatest success, says the Globe, in the way of record breaking ought to attend the efforts of Davidson at Peterborough, as everything is in his favor. He has a quad., good riders and a fast track. The Peterborough track was not built for bicycle racing, but has not been used by the horses this year, and with constant attention and care it has been brought to the highest pitch of perfection. It is a half mile, and was chosen by Davidson on account of Coulter's fastexhibition mile of 1 57 4-5 at the circuit meet.

RUGBY FOOTBALL.

The local team is in fine shape for the football match at the Driving Park to-morrow afternoon with the crack team from Trinity University, Toronto. If the weather is fine there will be a double attraction at the track as the Toronto men will go after some of the records. The following men will play for Peterborough in the game:

Back, Rogers.
Half backs, Mackenzie, Adams and Lefevre.
Quarter back, King.
Scrimmage, Keogh, Lambe, MacGachen.
Wings—right—Kerr, Montgomery, Poussette. Left—Wilgar, Rev. E. V. Stephenson, Hicks, Gordon.

WESTWOOD.

From Our Own Correspondent.

There was a very keene and exciting game of football played here Saturday afternoon between the Triple Alliance football team of Norwood and our home team. The Triple Alliance team was composed of High School students, Model school students and one player from the village, and although they are continually practiscing, and were in fine shape, they couldn't down our "old reliables." Westwood lost the toss and had to kick against a gale of wind, but our boys, who never knew defeat, fought every inch of ground like veterans, and succeeded in saving their goal and holding their own during first half time. After they changed goals the wind had gone down, and then our team had by far the best of the game. Shot after shot was fired on the Norwood goal, and at one time the ball was about half way through. The Norwood boys towards the last of the match could play nothing but a defence game, scarcely ever getting the ball from their goal. Our team have never practised together since Sept. 21st, when they played their last match. If our boys were in practice Norwood would be strictly out of it. The best of good humour prevailed throughout the match, and both teams conducted themselves like gentlemen, giving the referee, Mr. Melville Miller, no trouble, who did his part most excellently. It would scarcely be fair to particularize the playing of any of the teams, suffice it to say they all did their best and played to win. Neither teams scored, so the match was a tie. This is the way the teams lined up:—

The fall exhibitions are all over, and the farmers in this vicinity are now busy with their fall ploughing and taking out roots. The farmers here have been unusually successful this year at the exhibitions, taking prize after prize for their numerous exhibits. Among the extensive and successful exhibitors might be mentioned Squire Brackenridge & Sons, Birdsall & Son., Read Bros., G. Blezard, B. Cardwell, Jas. Doherty, Thos. O'Neil, Jos. Thompson, A. Cameron and others.

While thorough in action, Ayer's Pills strengthen rather than stimulate the excretory organs. Leading physicians recommend them because they are free from calomel or other injurious drugs, being composed entirely of the best vegetable aperients.

A LEADING CANADIAN CLERGYMAN

Tells How He Was Cured of Nervous Prostration and Indigestion.

SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE.

The Greatest Discovery of the Century Cured Not Only Rev. W. S. Barker, But Also Cured His Wife.

If among any class of the community caution marks the words of testimony publicly uttered, this is the case in a marked degree with the clergy. Their training and daily experience compel them to weigh carefully questions on which they write or talk. They are thinkers and they speak on a subject after it has been brought home to them by practical experience, or the keen logic of facts.

These are reasons that necessarily give weight to the strong testimony borne by the Rev. W. S. Barker, of Campbellford, Ont., touching South American Nervine. His own words are these: "I have much pleasure in recommending the great South American Nervine Tonic to all who are afflicted, as I have been, with nervous prostration and indigestion. I found very great relief from the very first bottle, which was strongly recommended to me by my druggist. I also induced my wife to use it, who, I must say, was completely run down and was suffering very much from general debility. She found great relief from South American Nervine, and also cheerfully recommends it to her fellow sufferers."

In any effort to cure the disease the important matter is that the disease be understood. Now, it is a scientific fact, demonstrated beyond question that all disease comes through a derangement of the nerve centres located near the base of the brain, and having entire control over the stomach, liver, heart, lungs and all internal organs. Nervine immediately acts upon these, and this is how severe cases of prostration and indigestion and general debility, such as was suffered by the Rev. W. S. Barker and his wife, are quickly and effectively cured. Sold by H. S. McDonald.

STARTLING

SIXTY DAYS SALE

—AT THE—

GOLDEN LION.

Always prepared for all the shopping demands of a careful and exacting people—this store is NEVER BEHIND, and every day adds to its popularity. Our policy is unchanging. Every day's experience proves that OUR VALUES ARE THE BEST in the trade.

It makes no difference what others say about goods, or what others get for them—at this store the aim is straight for one point, viz :—To get the best and give it at the right rate, as low or lower than any other house in Canada! Anything short of the top in Extent of Stock, Excellence of Service, Endeavors for Improvement, would never do for this establishment. The record of the present year finds us far ahead in each of the above three particulars.

ON SATURDAY, NOV. 2nd, we inaugurate a Startling 60 Days' Sale of New Season's Goods that must be cleared out with the utmost expedition. It shall be so. It's Fair's Way. Bargains are common—But the Bargains quoted below are of so startling a character as to command the immediate attention of every possible buyer in Peterborough and vicinity.

SOME OF FAIR'S SIXTY DAYS' OFFERINGS:

FAIR'S DRESS GOODS

Our assortments are not only abundant, but we are offering the best values by many shillings and many inches than we have ever shown before.

—500 Yards 40 inch Melton Cloth 15c., formerly 20c.

—600 Yards 42 inch Twilled Melton Cloth 20c., formerly 25c.

—300 Yards Scotch Tweed Dress Goods 18c., formerly 25c.

—40 inch Plaid Dress Goods 15c., formerly 20c.

—54 inch All Wool Tweed 60c., formerly $1.00.

We have placed on tables in the centre of the store, under the sky light, 55 pieces of high-class Dress Goods (all this season's make) in Black and Colors, to be sold at prices ranging at from 25c. to 75c., former price from 35c. to $1.10 per yard.

For instance we are selling $1.10 quality, very fine Black, with small effect in pattern, at 75c., and the balance consists of Serges, Tweeds, Basket Effects and all the new and popular weaves.

25c. Skirtings for 19c. 22c. Skirting for 15c.

MANTLE DEPARTMENT.

FAIR'S, the People's Mantle House. We cater for high and low, rich and poor. We give the best value because we buy on the best terms in the world's best markets.

Our sales in this department are 50 per cent. larger than any previous season.

On one table we have a lot of high-priced, Heavy Cloth well made Winter Mantles, in Ladies' and Children's which we are clearing at $2.00 and $3.00 per garment.

Bargains in Mantle Cloths, Golf Cloths and Ulsterings. Cut and fitted free.

FAIR'S WINTER MILLINERY

Elegant new styles on exhibition and charming Novelties in full display. Welcome to all, if only to look!

New ideas in Trimmed and Untrimmed Felt Hats and Shapes; Trimmings, Hat and Bonnet Ornaments, &c. You'll see more new Winter Styles here than you ever saw before, and get more for your money, if you happen to buy.

FAIR'S store is progressive, and the new Winter Millinery gives every evidence of leadership, with values supremely good and styles extremely fashionable. Years ago storekeeping was different; who would have thought then of Millinery being sold so cheap But then trains ran slower and we had no telephone or electric light or elevator, now we have all these things and a model store. We never take a back step—that means something; neither are we satisfied with standing still. People appreciate our improvements when they look back and see how the Golden Lion has grown.

STAPLE DEPARTMENT.

There is no department in the whole store as prolific of surprises as this same Staple Department. A thousand and one things here that you want for your home, and which we cannot find space for. We note a few:

CARPET DEPARTMENT.

We lead easily in Carpets and Floor Coverings. This season's exhibit will testify to our never flagging energy and enterprise in anticipating the increasing demand for high art and honest values. No other season have goods been so low. New markets with new prices have come to the front superceding old prices and giving all the satisfaction that is required for modern wear.

We have set aside over 700 yards of our Best Make Brussels and Tapestry Carpets to be cleared out at reductions that will make them vanish quickly, and which consist of the following lots:—

—300 yards best 5-frame Brussels, with Borders, worth $1.25 and $1.35 to be sold at $1.00 per yard.

—250 yards best 4-frame Brussels, worth $1.00 and $1.10, to be sold at 85c. per yard.

—A very special lot of medium Brussels Carpet worth $1.15 and $1.20, to be cleared out at 75c. per yard.

—150 yards best Tapestry Carpets to be sold at 55c. per yard, and many other odd lots in Tapestries and Reversible Unions at 35c and 50c. per yard.

A large assortment of Axminster, Velvets, Brussels and Tapestry Rugs to be cleared out as follows:—

$4.00 Rugs for $3.00.
$3.25 Rugs for $2.25.
$3.00 Rugs for $2.00.
$2.00 Rugs for $1.50.

See our last shipment of Japanese Rugs and Squares in the Osaka quality, from the Small Door Mat to the Large Crumb Cloth Size.

—50 Pairs New Chenile Portiers at $3.50 per pair, worth $4.50.

DON'T BE SKEPTICAL.

We know the prices we have made will tax credibility severely. It is hard to believe the prices we tell pertain to new and fresh goods, but, nevertheless, it is true. We merely ask you to test our statements; when that is done, you will do the rest.

COME HERE FOR BARGAINS any day in the week and you will get such surprises as will forever preclude the possibility of going elsewhere while this great sale continues.

P. N. Corsets in all the popular makes. Umbrellas re-covered while you wait.

TURNBULL'S

Gloves and Hosiery

There is perhaps nothing a lady is more particular about than her Gloves and Hosiery, for herself and family.

Some six months ago we were looking ahead and placed large orders in European factories for this fall's trade. In doing this we get closer prices and have the goods made to exactly suit the Canadian trade; being careful to have the fingers proportionate length, the cuffs to suit dresses, and neatly stitched backs. We have light weights for early fall wear, and heavier for winter. As we select our own cloth there is none better for wear.

See the extra nice Glove we can give you for 25c a pair.

Other lines as low as 10c and upwards to 50c.

In Cashmere Hose we have selected both medium and extra heavy weights, in plain weave and soft finish, one and one ribs for both ladies and children. Two and one ribs, made of extra heavy Scotch and Canadian yarns for boys who wears knickers, also a full range of a heavy make from 10c a pair for children's to 15c for ladies.'

MANTLES.

Our Mantle Cloths are rolling out fast, and so they should as they are grand value. See our New Mantles just arrived this week to sort up our unusually well assorted stock.

Ladies will do well to remember that Turnbull's is the leading Mantle house in Peterborough.

Holmes Enters the Box in the Court at Philadelphia.

PROSECUTION'S CASE CONCLUDED

The Prisoner's Counsel Claim That No Case Against Him Has Been Made Out—Mrs. Pitezel Believes Holmes Hypnotized Herself and the Whole Family.

Philadelphia, Nov. 1.—The defence in the Holmes trial will be suicide. That this would be the defence has been foreshadowed for several days by the questions asked by Holmes' attorneys. That Pitezel committed suicide is the only defence that could be offered, as Holmes has admitted that he was at the house the day the man died, and that he found his body and arranged it as it was discovered two days afterward.

Holmes' attorneys refuse to say whether or not they will put the accused upon the stand, but it is more than probable they will, as the prisoner is anxious to testify.

The trial opened with more promptness this morning than any day yet. Holmes still retains his unruffled appearance and shows no effect of the strain he has undergone.

Mrs. Pitezel was the first witness placed upon the stand. As upon the previous occasions when she has been upon the stand, Mrs. Pitezel's replies to the questions asked her were repeated to the jury by a court officer, but she looked stronger and more composed to-day than at any previous time.

After a single question, Mrs. Pitezel was turned over to Mr. Shoemaker for cross-examination. Mrs. Pitezel said she knew a man named Collier, and that he was an intimate friend of her husband.

Mr. Graham objected to several questions asked and then Mrs. Pitezel in reply to the question, said that she had been arrested in Boston, on a charge which she believed they called conspiracy.

These questions revived bitter memories, and Mrs. Pitezel had much to do to restrain her tears.

Mrs. Pitezel said that she was kept in prison here seven months on the charge and was then released. She denied that she had entered into any conspiracy to defraud any one, but what she did she did to protect her husband.

Here Mr. Graham interposed an objection and accused Messrs. Shoemaker and Rotan of trying to add to the burdens of Mrs. Pitezel by alleging that she was in the insurance swindle.

They denied this, and in answer to the question of Judge Arnold, Mr. Rotan said that they wanted to show that in her journeyings around the country, Mrs. Pitezel knew that she was trying to evade the officers of the law and was not seeking her husband.

Judge Arnold in replying to Mr. Rotan said: "Then you want to prove that she was not 'ri by, but Svengali; that she led him on instead of being led by him ?"

This answer seemed to disconcert Mr. Rotan, and a moment afterwards the cross examination of Mrs. Pitezel was concluded.

Mr. Graham then asked her if she was not discharged from prison here without an indictment being found against her and with no stain upon her character, and she answered, "Yes."

The strain upon Mrs. Pitezel upon the stand broke her down, and when she was taken into the corridor she became hysterical, and her screams penetrated to the court room. She was carried into the district attorney's office and restoratives applied, and she became quieter.

The next witness called was Edward H. Cass, the Chicago special agent of the Fidelity Insurance Company.

The defence suspected some kind of a trap, and objected to Mr. Cass.

Mr. Graham stated that all he wanted Mr. Cass to do was to identify the letter written to the witness by Holmes when the search for some one to identify the body was being made.

The objection was overruled, and Mr. Cass was admitted as a witness. He testified that he called upon Holmes' Willamette wife to learn from her, if possible, anything about her husband's whereabouts, so that he could get him to identify Pitezel's body.

Mr. Cass was shown the letters which Holmes wrote him and identified them. These letters have already been published.

The next witness called was John King, who was a reluctant witness. It was only after repeated questioning that he said he was not employed at present. Then after some more prodding he admitted that he has been engaged in getting out a sensational book that purports to give Holmes' own story. Then Mr. King was asked from whom he got the manuscript.

The defence here objected strongly but unavailingly, and Mr. King said that he got manuscripts from Mr. Shoemaker, one of the defendant's lawyers.

Mr. Rotan tried to get the witness to say that a number of changes were made in the book after he received the original manuscript, but Mr. King said there was none.

Miss Amy Long, a typewriter, was called. Miss Long testified that she copied the manuscript for the book, and that she got it from Shoemaker.

The defence took an exception to all the testimony offered in connection with the book.

Miss Long was shown a specimen of Holmes' handwriting and said that it resembled the writing of the manuscript she copied.

Mr. Rotan asked the witness if the handwriting of the manuscript was all the same. She said she thought so.

Holmes seemed greatly interested in the evidence, and taking the book, showed Mr. Rotan parts in it to submit to Miss Long.

Holmes leadpencilled certain passages, but when Mr. Rotan was about to give the book to Miss Long, Mr. Graham objected to the marks. They were erased and the book given to Miss Long, and she was asked to read the passages and say if she remembered copying them. She said she thought they were different.

O. L. Peary of the insurance company was recalled and identified some handwriting of Holmes.

Detective Geyer identified some manuscript, which he took from Holmes' cell about five weeks ago. At the time he got the manuscript he was sent to the cell to search specially for poison, but found none.

Dr. Henry Leffman, an expert chemist, took the stand and described the different effects upon the human body of chloroform taken internally and inhaled.

Philadelphia, Nov. 1.—After some comparatively unimportant medical testimony, the case against Holmes closed this afternoon. The case is considered wofully weak, as far as direct evidence is concerned, and Holmes' own admission that he was in the house on the fatal Sunday is the only circumstantial evidence worth anything.

There seems to be no defence, and Holmes' own black record has strengthened the case for the people.

Mr. Rotan succeeded in getting Miss Yohe back to the stand, and she said that she married the prisoner in Denver on January 17, 1894. She said she never heard of the Willamette marriage, but she did hear of a wife of Holmes' in Gilmorton, N.H. To the prosecution she said that Holmes had told his family that he had married Miss Yohe while his mind was a blank, due to an injury received in a railroad wreck. She was a patroness of the hospital in which he was, and married him before he was entirely recovered. This was all a lie.

Then Miss Yohe related the deceptions practised upon her by Holmes to secure her hand. He told her mother that an uncle had died and left him considerable property, and that he was going to assume his uncle's name, H. W. Howard. Holmes told Miss Yohe that the only relative he had in the world was an aunt in Africa, whereas in reality he has a number of relatives in New Hampshire.

During the recital, Holmes looked much disconcerted, and hung his head as if ashamed. Mr. Rotan asked Miss Yohe whether or not she was sure she was not Holmes' wife. Miss Yohe did not reply, and for the first time turned her eyes towards Holmes. There was much distress in the look, but something also that was far different from hate. Miss Yohe was then dismissed.

Mr. Rotan made application to discharge the prisoner, but Judge Arnold ruled that it must go to the jury.

The Prosecution's Case Closed.

Mr. Rotan and Mr. Shoemaker returned to court at 3.15 o'clock and held a five-minutes' consultation with Judge Arnold and Mr. Graham. At its conclusion the judge directed that Holmes be brought back to court. Before the prisoner was brought in it was announced that the defence would rest its case on the Commonwealth's testimony.

Holmes was brought in directly, and although it must have been a trying moment for him he showed no evidence of discomposure. Mr. Rotan stated to the court the conclusion he and Mr. Shoemaker had arrived at. Mr. Rotan said they had arrived at this conclusion because lack of time prevented them bringing important witnesses from a distance, and also because they felt that the Commonwealth had not made out its case.

The defence was willing to rest, with the proviso, however, that the court did not hasten them with their speeches and would allow the case to go over until to-morrow morning.

This was agreeable to Mr. Graham and it was agreed that the closing arguments on both sides should be made to-morrow and the case given to the jury, and the court then adjourned until to-morrow morning.

Holmes Hypnotized them All.

Philadelphia, Nov. 1.—A morning paper publishes a lengthy interview with Mrs. Pitezel. In the course of her talk she said:

"Sometimes I think I shall go crazy thinking of all that has happened, and all that I have lost.

"No; I do not believe that my husband intended to do wicked things. I believe he was so much under the influence of Holmes that he could not help himself, and had to do what Holmes told him."

"Do you mean that Holmes used any unusual power over him? Would you say Holmes hypnotized him?"

"I think it must have been so," was the slowly spoken reply. "People say Holmes can hypnotize, and I am inclined to believe it. Oh, yes, yes; it must be hypnotism,—else why is it that he has such a strange influence over us all? My daughter here," laying her hand lovingly on Bessie's shoulder, "says that she felt more confused to-day than she did yesterday, and it was always when Holmes looked in her eyes. I never look at him if I can help it," and with a shudder the widow covered her eyes with her trembling hands.

"Is it because you fear him, and hate him?"

"I fear him, yes; because he is a terrible man; but hate him? Oh, I don't know. We are told not to hate anybody, and I try not to," and in agony of tears the poor stricken woman tried to stifle her aversion and to cling to the teachings of a Christian faith.

"How is it that you trusted Holmes so implicitly and for so long? During all that time did you feel no misgivings?"

"Yes, I often did, but the things he told me to do were the things my husband had directed, and I thought I was obeying my husband when I was obeying him all the time. I said to my husband several times, 'Ben, I wish you would settle up all this business. Suppose anything should happen to you (he had twice been almost killed while working on the cars), I shouldn't know what to do. I wish you would settle up everything and have nothing to do with that man Holmes; I dislike him.' Then he would ask me why I disliked Holmes, and I could give no real reasons, only I felt that something was wrong.

"The first year after we went to Chicago my husband was kind and good, and our home was most happy. Afterward, of course, you know, he began to drink, and that worried me very much. If my husband was here to-day he would shoot that man, and then give himself up to the law, and I would stand by him and be happy to do so."

THE ORILLIA DISGRACE.

Four of the Men Sent for Trial Without Bail The Others Out on Bail.

Orillia, Nov. 1.—In the case of the six men charged with having improper relations with young girls here, four of them, viz., Gill, Johnston, Fruhl and O'Brien, were returned to be tried by the County Judge at Barrie, without bail. Delaney and Cushman are out on $2000, to be tried on Monday next.

The girls are said to be all under 14 years, and four of the men are over 40 years old. The cases have been tried with closed doors, even the press being excluded, and for the present few particulars are to be had.

Nervous Prostration

It is now a well established fact in medical science that nervousness is due to impure blood. Therefore the true way to cure nervousness is by purifying and enriching the blood. The great blood purifier is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read this letter:

"For the last two years I have been a great sufferer with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart. I was weak in my limbs and had smothered sensations. At last my physician advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla which I did, and I am happy to say that I am now strong and well. I am still using Hood's Sarsaparilla and would not be without it. I recommend it to all who are suffering with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart." MRS. DALTON, 58 Alice St., Toronto, Ontario. Get Hood's, because

THE BYE-ELECTIONS.

Six ridings have now no representatives in the Dominion Parliament: North Ontario, vacant owing to the death of its late representative, Mr. Madill. West Huron, vacant owing to the appointment of Hon. J. C. Patterson to the Lieutenant-Governorship of Manitoba. Cardwell, vacant owing to the resignation of Mr. R. S. White. Jacques Cartier, vacant owing to the appointment of Mr. Gironard to the Supreme Court. Missisquoi, vacant owing to the acceptance by Mr. Baker of the office of Solicitor-General. Montreal Centre, vacant owing to the appointment of Hon. Mr. Curran to the Superior Court. Those familiar with the political situation think the only one of these vacancies that offers even a fighting chance for the return of a Government candidate is Missisquoi, where Mr. Baker will appeal for re-election as Solicitor-General, the "unwritten law" being, generally, no opposition to the return of a minister seeking re-election. All the other ridings may safely be labelled "doubtful" for the Government. But there is no certainty that there will be bye-election. The Government might not feel safe in meeting Parliament with these seats vacant, associated, as such a circumstance would be, with a charge of cowardice, that might have a more damaging effect than the loss of the votes on a division, and other resource for the Government is to bring on a general election, though they are pledged to hold another session. The Government is not of the heroic mould to keep such a promise, if they could convince themselves that it would be to the party interest to break it. Expediency, not principle, is the guiding star of the Ottawa aggregation of hesitating incapables named a ministry.

HON FINANCE MINISTER FOSTER and his colleagues contemplate a descent on Ontario, to sow tariff tares among Mr. Laurier's wheat.

THERE seems to be a better prospect of a set-to between the British Lion and the Russian Bear, than of a battle between Corbett and Fitzsimmons.

IF the United States thinks the Monroe doctrine is becoming weak from lack of exercise, Spain-oppressed Cuba, is suggested as a good field for practice.

WHEN once a man gets into the Senate he dozes off comfortably to sleep and assumes a moribund condition. But the candidates for vacancies are very much alive—to the necessity of getting their sleeping berths before the elections.

JUDGING by the snarling of its friends the government is suffering more harm from delaying to fill Senate vacancies, than the country. The country may manage to rub along without a few senators for a year or two longer, but with the government it seems to be a case of "appoint senators or "bust."

A FOOTBALL player was nearly killed in New Haven, Conn., the other day, during a game. But, bless you, that won't damp the ardor of enthusiasts. The slaughter of missionaries in China doesn't deter other missionaries, and it will take something more serious than a few players killed in a scrimmage to dampen the fervor of the enthusiasts in the game of football. "Taking chances" applies to football as well as the more serious game of life.

THIS is the style of some American fire-eating newspapers. The New York Commercial-Advertiser says:—"If Mr. Cleveland will not voluntarily act, the arrogant despoilers of Venezuela are likely to receive a message, couched in unmistakable terms, from the representatives of the American people. The Monroe doctrine must be upheld if it is necessary to put a million American bayonets behind it!" Don't, please.

FORTNIGHTLY CLUB COLUMN.

No. XXXVI.

Studies in Tennyson.

NO. 5—"IN MEMORIAM."

The poem entitled "In Memoriam" is a monument erected by friendship to the memory of a gifted son of the historian Hallam.—F. W. Robertson.

A study of Tennyson's "In Memoriam," in order adequately to fulfil its object, must be as truly a study of the age as of the poem. For the poem stands inseparably related to what is deepest and most vital in the thought of its time; of an age whose devout minds are confessedly eager and earnest in the quest of eternal truth it is preeminently the poetical exponent.—Genung.

"In Memoriam" is the greatest religious poem of our age, and the most difficult, yet even the casual reader will find some compensation for the difficulties of the poem as a whole, in the numerous stanzas and separate poems, which can be tho roughly enjoyed without reference to the other parts. The poem is like a necklace of pearls, which though most beautiful strung together, have yet their individual beauty and value. Examples of this feature of the poem are to be found in the beautiful introductory poem, commencing:

"Strong, Son of God, immortal Love."

No. 28—"The time draws near the birth of Christ."
No. 54—"Oh yet we trust that somehow good."
No. 55—"The wish that of the living whole."
No. 96—"You say, but with no touch of scorn."
No. 106—"Ring out wild bells to the wild sky."
No. 131—"O living will that shalt endure."

Of separate verses we may quote one or two gems "of purest ray:"

"I held it truth, with him who sings
To one clear harp in divers tones,
That men may rise on stepping stones
Of their dead selves to higher things."

"I hold it true, what'er befall;
I feel it, when I sorrow most;
'Tis better to have loved and lost
Than never to have loved at all."

The poem is dedicated to the memory of a gifted friend, Arthur Hallam, the son of the great historian of the middle ages, who died in 1833. "In Memoriam" was not however published until 1850. During all this time the poem was growing, and gradually as it grew, Tennyson, connected with it all his deepest thoughts about God and man, and science, and life and immortality. He had not merely read of the difficulties of faith. He had felt them all. Doubtless he had often discussed the ever recurrent problems of faith with his friend, and I think he writes of himself no less than of Arthur Hallam, when he says,

"You say, but with no touch of scorn,
Sweet hearted, you, whose light blue eyes
Are tender over drowning flies,
You tell me doubt is devil-born.

I know not; one indeed I knew
In many a subtle question versed,
Who touched a jarring lyre at first.
But ever strove to make it true.

Perfect in faith, but pure in deeds,
At last he beat his music out.
There lives more faith in honest doubt,
Believe me, than in half the creeds.

He fought his doubts and gathered strength,
He would not make his judgment blind,
He faced the spectres of the mind
And laid them; thus he came at length,

To find a stronger faith his own;
And power was with him in the night,
Which makes the darkness and the light,
And dwells not in the light alone,

But in the darkness and the cloud
As over Sinai's peaks of old,
While Israel made their Gods of gold,
Altho' the trumpet blew so loud."

(The two last lines of the third verse are often quoted by those who have not read the whole poem. Tennyson has no admiration for doubt in itself, but often it is along the dark pathway of doubt that strong men pass from a mere formal faith, to a living consciousness and trust in God.)

The poem then is not built up on any definite plan. It embodies in separate, short pieces the poet's deepest thoughts, linking them to the memory of the friend who in life had shared them.

Strange friend, past, present and to be;
Loved deeplier, darklier understood
Behold I dream a dream of good,
And mingle all the world with thee."

Yet the poem is not altogether devoid of plan. Mr. Genung, whose excellent monograph on "In Memoriam" will be found in the public library, offers the following analysis:

PROLOGUE.

Introductory stage	Poems I—XXVII
First cycle	Poems XXVIII—LXXVII
Second cycle	" LXXVIII—CIII
Third cycle	Poems CIV—CXXI

EPILOGUE.

The cycles are marked by notes of time in the poem. Let the reader notice mention of three Christmastides in poems 28, 78 and 104 respectively. Each cycle has its own characteristic thought. Thus the thought of the Introductory Stage, is Love shall be cherished, though its object be removed. Of the First cycle, "He whom death removed still lives and his love in the unseen world is as undying as the love left desolate here." In the Second cycle the leading thought is a "reverent consideration of the question, what may be held as to present spiritual intercourse with the immortal dead." In the Third cycle the poet no longer confines himself to a single friendship or a narrow circle but takes in the whole race of men, which, though it be in the far future, "he sees raised and ennobled by the same love which has hitherto brought him such good.

"No longer half akin to brute,
For all we thought and loved and did,
And hoped, and suffer'd, is but seed
Of what in them is flower and fruit.

Whereof the man that with me trod
This planet, was a noble type
Appearing ere the times were ripe
That friend of mine who lives in God,

That God, which ever lives and loves,
One God, one law, one element
And one far-off Divine event
To which the whole creation moves.

Looked at again these three cycles are seen to deal with the Past, the Present and the Future, and the under[illegible]nt of feeling gradually moves through [illegible]responding moods of Despair, [illegible] and Hopeful Faith. "In Memoriam," says Mr. Robertson, "is divided into a number of cabinet-like compartments, which, with fine and delicate shades of difference, exhibit the various phases through which the bereaved spirit passes from the first shock of despair, dull, hopeless misery and rebellion, up to the dawn of hope, acquiescent trust, and even calm happiness again."

"In Memoriam" readily lends itself to quotations, but we must forbear, concluding with the eloquent remarks of Mr. Robertson, of Brighton: "To a coarser class of minds 'In Memoriam' appears too melancholy; one long monotone of grief. It is simply one of the most victorious songs that ever poet chanted, with the mysterious undertone, no doubt of sadness which belongs to all human joy, in front of the mysteries of death and sorrow; but that belongs to 'Paradise Regained' as well as to 'Paradise Lost'; to every true note indeed, of human triumph except a Bacchanalian drinking song."

ENCOURAGEMENT FOR WHEAT GROWERS.

Decrease of Reserve Stock and Short Crops in Foreign Countries Indicate a Stiffening of Canadian Prices.

There seems to be some reason for expecting better prices to come hand in hand with the marketing of Manitoba's big grain crop. In the first place, so good an authority as Beerbohm, the Liverpool expert, says that the world's wheat reserves have been severely cut into during the past year. He estimates that on October 1st the total wheat reserves amounted to 168,112,000 bushels, while last year on the same date it stood at 171,010,000 bushels. On October 1, 1893, it was only some four millions less than this last figure. Thus it is seen that the world's surplus wheat stores have decreased by nearly 32,000,000 bushels the last year. This is one very fair measure of the market to which Canada must take her bonanza crop. A curious phase of the situation is that in many of the wheat importing countries the wheat stores have actually increased instead of decreasing; and this, says the New York Sun, "the great deficiency in the world's reserve wheat supply is for the present unfelt by them and results in a feeble importing demand. This is the reason for the exceedingly low price which prevails at this time, and not until consumption has [illegible] upon the disproportion[illegible] of these outside countries is an impending demand likely to arise there and price advances."

Accurate estimates of the present year's crop are naturally a little more difficult to obtain. That the Russian crop as an example "is, from Trade News of Liverpool expects a large crop." It says that upon the barely measured estimate of the area under wheat in Russia, it is futile to look for a crop of the small size of previous years." The New York Sun, however, makes a different report. It says that "from Russia, officials of [illegible] that the crop [illegible] there, but [illegible] reported there and hands of merchants [illegible] is not up to the average. [illegible] Russia, of course, [illegible] but the "average" [illegible] alone. However Beerbohm [illegible] the whole world's harvest [illegible] the subject with the declaration that "all the exporting countries together will not have exportable wheat enough to satisfy the demands of the importing countries."

All these reports bear an encouraging face. When the reserve is lowered and the crop falls behind the average, the scarcity prices must get a chance to stiffen up a bit, sooner or later. And this condition happily coincides with Manitoba's bonanza harvest.

Mrs. Kellar a Life Prisoner.

Oswego, N.Y., Oct. 31.—Mrs. Kellar, who was convicted last night of murder in the second degree, for the killing of a man named Alexander Kempthorn, was sentenced by Judge McLennan to be confined for life in the state prison for women at Auburn. She sobbed bitterly and left the court room in hysterics.

Who does not know women and young girls, who are continually in tears? Who always see the dark side? Who have frequent fits of melancholy without any apparent cause? The intelligent physician will know that it is some derangement of the complicated and delicate feminine organs. The young girl suffers, bodily and mentally, in silence. There is undue weariness, pain, unreasonable tears and nits [illegible] Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription exerts a wonderful power over woman's delicate organism. It is an invigorating tonic and is specific for the peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and painful derangements of woman. Careless, easy-going doctors frequently treat their women patients for biliousness, nervousness, dyspepsia, liver or kidney troubles, when the real sickness is in the organs distinctly feminine, and no help can come till they are made perfectly strong by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

"I AM AS WELL AS I WISH TO BE."

Miss Blake, of Hamilton, Ont., after Using Paine's Celery Compound, is a Picture of Womanly Vigor and Beauty.

A STORY FOR ALL WHO STAND IN NEED OF PERFECT HEALTH.

Miss Isabella Blake, of 398 Hughson street, Hamilton, Ont., is one of the fairest and best known young women in the ambitious city. To-day, she is a picture of womanly health, vigour and beauty, and joyfully declares, "I am now a new woman, can enjoy life, and am as well as I wish to be."

When Miss Blake makes the declaration that she is a "new woman," she does not wish it to be understood that she has entered the ranks, and adopted the fads of those light-brained women who would usurp the legitimate positions of men, and go through life clad in half masculine attire, with the fixed idea of altering the plans of an all-wise Providence, and turning the world upside down. Ah! no; this is far from what Miss Blake wishes to imply when she makes the statement that she is a "new woman."

The "new woman" that the world values is not the modern creature that dons the open vest, exposed shirt front, four-in-hand tie, straight and high collar, stiff Derby hat, who walks out on our streets with cane in hand, giving evidence of empty brain and unsatisfied vanity. The true "new woman," is perfectly represented by Miss Blake, made healthy, vigorous, strong and active by the use of Paine's Celery Compound. This is the "woman" that sensible and rational beings honour and appreciate—the type of "woman" that graces home, friends and the world at large.

Miss Blake, though a young woman, can relate a tale of sad experience. In past years [illegible] have stood in her way, hastening destruction; [illegible] now [illegible] assiduous care [illegible] to the rough grasp of disease; and at times, the cold touch of the destroyer, death has made her shiver, and caused her to think of the dark gloom of the silent tomb.

When Miss Blake's heart was faint, sick and void of hope; when all the doctors and medicines failed to do good, and when threatened with that relentless foe, consumption, an angel of mercy suggested the use of a remedy that has brought new life to thousands of poor sufferers in the past. Yes, it is Paine's Celery Compound that is recommended; it is used, and in short time makes a "new woman" from the material that the grave had battled for.

These facts, dear reader, are not overdrawn or colored in the least. Miss Blake and her friends will gladly vouch for the truth of the statement that Paine's Celery Compound, and it alone, under God's blessing, was the agent that saved life at a critical juncture. The following letter from Miss Blake is surely of sufficient weight to convince the most hardened unbeliever:

"For years I suffered greatly, and was under the care of doctors, who finally told me I was going into consumption. I was becoming worse through the use of medicines, and I gave up my doctors. While in a very critical condition, not able to sleep or eat, always faint and weak, appetite and digestion bad, and my system run down and little life left in me, I commenced to use Paine's Celery Compound. After taking one bottle I felt much relieved. I have used in all seven or eight bottles, and am now a new woman, can enjoy life, and am as well as I wish to be. Many thanks for your great medicine."

Doctors Say it is our Secret.

[illegible] I recommend Milburn's [illegible] to [illegible] with success. [illegible] Constipation [illegible] a bottle [illegible] prepared [illegible] to [illegible] yours, [illegible]

Relief in Six Hours.

Distressing Kidney and Bladder disease relieved in six hours by the "GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN KIDNEY CURE." This new remedy is a great surprise on account of its [illegible] promptness in relieving pain in the [illegible] kidneys and back. If you want quick relief and cure this is your remedy. Sold by H. S. Macdonald."

What Should Influence You in the Purchase of a

PIANO?

If within the last 40 years we have grown from one small factory to have the largest in Canada, and from one factory warerooom to a branch warerooms in some of the largest cities and towns in the Dominion, is it not a safe argument in favour of our goods?

Can we afford to throw away for a few dollars profit a reputation which we have gained by years of hard, honest work?

In selling a Piano there is something more than the profit on the immediate sale. There is the opportunity of making other sales where goods prove reliable.

Is it unreasonable for us to say that being the manufacturers of reliable instruments we are in the position to save you the dealer's or jobber's profit, and that our guarantee upon a Piano means 100 cents on the dollar?

ENCOURAGEMENT FOR WHEAT GROWERS.

Decrease of Reserve Stock and Short Crops in Foreign Countries Indicate a Stiffening of Canadian Prices.

There seems to be some reason for expecting better prices to come hand in hand with the marketing of Manitoba's big grain crop. In the first place, so good an authority as Beerbohm, the Liverpool expert, says that the world's wheat reserves have been severely cut into during the past year. MADE FURTHER INROADS upon the disproportionate supplies of these outside countries is an importing demand likely to arise there and prices advance."

Accurate estimates of the present year's crop are naturally a little more difficult to obtain. Take the Russian crop as an example. The Corn Trade News of Liverpool expects a large crop. It says that "upon the largely increased estimate of the area under wheat in Russia, it is futile to look for a crop of the small size of previous years." The New York Sun, however, makes a different report. It says that "crop figures, official or otherwise, are more difficult to obtain from Russia than elsewhere, but interior receipts there and advices in the hands of merchants indicate that the crop is not up to the average." Last year's yield in Russia was, of course, abnormally high; but the "average" cannot refer to it alone. However, Beerbohm calculates that the whole world's harvest stands this year at about 2,395,600,000 bushels, a decrease from last year of 162,400,000 bushels.

THE HARVEST OF 1893

was larger than the present, too, by over 62,600,000 bushels. In Britain, Italy, Germany and Argentina, the crops showed a decided falling off in comparison with a year ago; and the American Minister to Argentina reports another encouraging fact in this connection, viz.,—that the wheat acreage for the coming year is to be fifteen per cent. less than at present. Beerbohm's figures are corroborated, too, in effect, by Dornbusch, an English authority, who reckons this year's deficiency at 111,704,000 bushels; while the Bulletin des Halles of Paris, which, the New York Sun tells us, "last year correctly estimated the crop, and has the most highly organized system of correspondence with experts of any statistical authority, puts the deficiency at 270,000,000 bushels." The Precurseur, of Antwerp, closes a general discussion of the subject with the declaration that "all the exporting countries together will not have exportable wheat enough to satisfy the demands of the importing countries."

All these reports bear an encouraging face. When the reserve is lowered and the crop falls behind the average, the surely prices must get a chance to stiffen up a bit, sooner or later. And this condition happily coincides with Manitoba's bonanza harvest.

This is the "woman" that sensible and rational beings honour and appreciate—the type of "woman" that blesses home, friends and the world at large.

Miss Blake, though a young woman, can relate a tale of sad experiences. In the past, lions have stood in her way threatening destruction; she knows what sore afflictions are, owing to the rough grasp of disease; and at times, the cold touch of the destroyer, death has made her shiver, and caused her to think of the dark gloom of the silent tomb.

When Miss Blake's heart was faint, sick and void of hope; when all the doctors and medicines failed to do good, and when threatened with that relentless foe, consumption, an angel of mercy suggested the use of a remedy that has brought new life to thousands of poor sufferers in the past. Yes, it is Paine's Celery Compound that is recommended; it is used, and in short time makes a 'new woman" from the material that the grave had battled for.

These facts, dear reader, are not overdrawn or colored in the least. Miss Blake and her friends will gladly vouch for the truth of the statement that Paine's Celery Compound, and it alone, under God's blessing, was the agent that saved life at a critical juncture. The following letter from Miss Blake is surely of sufficient weight to convince the most hardened unbeliever:—

"For years I suffered greatly, and was under the care of doctors, who finally told me I was going into consumption. I was becoming worse through the use of medicines, and I gave up my doctors. While in a very critical condition, not able to sleep or rest, always faint and weak, appetite and digestion bad, and my system run down and little life left in me, I commenced to use Paine's Celery Compound. After taking one bottle I felt much relieved. I have used in all seven or eight bottles, and am now a new woman, can enjoy life, and am as well as I wish to be. Many thanks for your great medicine."

Doctors Say it is the Best.

GENTLEMEN,—I recommend Milburn's Cod Liver Oil Emulsion with pleasure. Last July I took Congestion of the Lungs and was in bed four weeks. Dr. Lawson, of Hamiota, attended me and sent a bottle of Milburn's Emulsion. It is the very best made and soon restored me back to health again. Truly yours, ALF. SMITH, Wheatlands, Man.

EYES TO SEE AND SEE NOT.

That is the case with many people. They need spectacles, and the strange part of it is that some folks never know how bad their eyes are until they have them tested. Have been going through life without seeing as much as they ought to see—perhaps suffering from headaches and tired eyes.

If you will call at Sanderson's Jewellery Store, George street, your eyes will be examined free of charge. If you need Glasses they will be supplied at a reasonable price. Do not neglect this matter and so be like those who have MARS TO HEAR AND HEAR NOT.

What Should Influence You in the Purchase of a

PIANO?

If within the last 40 years we have grown from one small factory to have the largest in Canada, and from one factory warerooms to a branch warerooms in some of the largest cities and towns in the Dominion, is it not a safe argument in favour of our goods?

Can we afford to throw away for a few dollars profit a reputation which we have gained by years of hard, honest work?

In selling a Piano there is something more than the profit on the immediate sale. There is the opportunity of making other sales where goods prove reliable.

Is it unreasonable for us to say that being the manufacturers of reliable instruments we are in the position to save you the dealer's or jobber's profit, and that our guarantee upon a Piano means 100 cents on the dollar?

Band Instruments, small Musical Instruments, newest Sheet Music, and fittings for all instruments always in stock.

OPPOSED TO CESSPOOLS IN THE STREETS OF THE TOWN.

Third Ward Residents up in Arms—The Matter to Come Before the Council.

Residents in the vicinity of the corner of Water and McDonel streets are considerably moved over the proposed construction of a cesspool in the street.

The town council gave its permission for the work last week, but it is understood that the matter will be re-opened on Monday night and an effort made to have the resolution rescinded.

Although five feet of earth would be placed over the cesspool those opposed to it point out that the cleaning out of the place would be a public nuisance and that offensive odor would certainly arise from it. The precedent, too, they say, is a bad one and as everyone would sooner have their cesspool in the street instead of on their property, that the thoroughfares would soon be honeycombed with them.

If dry earth closets were used in connection with the property with which the cesspool is connected, those at present objecting would not be so opposed to what they consider will be a nuisance, but as it is understood that the entire drainage from the house is to enter the cesspool a vigorous opposition will be made to its construction. The aid of the Health Officer has been invoked and altogether a good deal of interest has been generated.

THE SATURDAY MARKET.

The Prices are Advancing and the Attendance Still Large.

The market was not quite so large as it was last Saturday, but still it was a good one, and of a size to put to shame any of those in the adjoining towns. South Monaghan was well represented, and the merchants report seeing many faces from that township which they do not generally see until the ice forms across the river.

Chickens were a little stiffer in price this morning and brought 30 and 40c, ducks are down to 25c. per pair, though the larger ones bring as high as 40c. Geese have advanced to 50 and 60c., and turkeys are bringing from 50 to 75c. Butter now ranges all the way from 15 to 20c. per lb. and eggs have advanced to 15c. Potatoes are still down to 30c., though the best varieties can be sold as high as 40c. Apples are plentiful, at from 40 to 60c. a bag, and cabbage is bringing from 25 to 30c. a dozen.

A DAY OF THANKOFFERING

For the Work Accomplished by the Baptist Missionaries.

The Home and Foreign Missionary branches of the Women's Missionary Society of the Baptist Church have asked that Tuesday be set aside in the churches of that denomination as a day of general thankoffering for the work which the society has been privileged in performing during the year.

The Murray street church is one of the many which will comply with the Missionary Society's request and a meeting for the purpose mentioned will be held on Tuesday evening.

There will also be social features in connection with the meeting, and after the rendering of a programme the ladies will serve refreshments.

PERSONAL.

Mr. Herbert Bell is home for a few holidays from Trinity University, Toronto.

Mr. F. D. Kerr of Peterborough, spent Sunday last under the parental roof, says the Cobourg World.

Mr. William Cluxton has quite recovered from his recent illness and is again able to attend to his office business.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Cox returned to Toronto yesterday afternoon, accompanied by their neice, Miss Maggie Cox.

Mr. W. H. Law, manager of the Central Bridge Works, returned from Toronto, yesterday afternoon, after a short absence on business.

Miss Maud Macfarlane, who is attending the Model School in Norwood, is home on a short visit with her parents, on Homewood avenue.

Mr. Fredric Nichols, General Manager of the Canadian General Electric Co., returned to Toronto, yesterday, after spending a few days in town on business.

Miss Effie Elaine Rext, the well-known reciter, and Mr. Shipman, manager of the Canadian Entertainment bureau, were married in Toronto on Saturday last.

Mr. Jas. Rayside, M. P. P. for Glengarry, died at his residence, South Lancaster, Nov. 1, aged 59 years. He was a staunch Liberal and represented Glengarry in the Local Legislature since 1882.

William McCarthy, Ashburnham, who has been very low with inflammation of the abdomen, is slightly improving under the skilful treatment of Dr. Goldsmith, and is now considered out of danger.

Mr. Stewart Wright, Stewart street, Ashburnham, who was taken very suddenly ill this morning while on the market, was taken to his home, and is very much improved this afternoon.

Mention of Miss Maggie Fowler's fine solo work was inadvertently omitted in the report of the St. Andrew's choir concert, Thursday evening. Her full, clear notes were heard to great advantage in "The King of Love my Shepherd is."

Mr. H. Sutherland, Manager of the Temperance and General Life, accompanied by Mr. J. O. McCarthy, Superintendent of Agencies, was in town yesterday in connection with a change in the agency here. Mr. H. P. Lindsay, of the local office, has been made special agent for the district of Northumberland, Durham, Peterborough, Victoria and Haliburton, and Mr. J. H. Fife, of Lindsay, is transferred to the office here, as Peterborough agent. Mr. Fife is the younger son of Dr. Fife and will be welcomed back to town. Mr. Lindsay is well known as an earnest, untiring, successful insurance agent, and it is pleasing to see that his company appreciates his faithful work in the past.

Used Tobacco For Thirty Years.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 10, 1894.

UNCLE SAM'S TOBACCO CURE, CHICAGO, ILL. GENTLEMEN:—Regarding my opinion of the "Uncle Sam's Tobacco Cure," I would say: I have used the "filthy weed" for over thirty years, but after using the "Uncle Sam's Tobacco Cure" one week, I lost all taste or desire for it. This is some two months ago. Respectfully, JOHN G. LEE. Call at J. Lynch's drug store, Hunter street, and get a box of tablets.

Wise Old Fellow.

A good tea at any price suited him. He always shut his eyes to the price. He was wiser than some people who imagine if they do not pay a big figure they cannot get good goods. There are exceptions to all rules. The exception at the present time is a regular forty cent tea for the low price of twenty-five cents. Osh-k-osh is the name. Big sales and steady sales tell it is a good tea. Remember we are selling this 40c. tea for twenty-five cents. 370 George street, Peterborough. Stroud Bros., direct importers. Also at Montreal, Ottawa, Kingston and Toronto. 3ts

IS A GENERAL ELECTION AT HAND?

Hon. Dr. Montague declared distinctly at London, no later than last night, that the Government was not afraid to bring on the bye elections. But there is good reason to believe that this was only a little specimen of the Doctor's windy "bluff." The indications are that there will be no session of Parliament before the general elections, the Government being mortally afraid to open the vacant constituencies to bye elections. It is very confidently asserted by those who pretend to know, that the elections are near at hand, and that they will take place between Christmas and New Year's.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH NOTES.

The Thirteenth Anniversary of the Opening of the Restored Church Observed Yesterday—To be Continued on Sunday.

Yesterday was the parochial anniversary of St. John's, the day on which the restored church was opened thirteen years ago, All Saints day, Nov. 1st, 1882. In contrast with the gloomy November weather yesterday, Nov. 1st, 1882, was a beautifully mild day, with the sun shining down warmly through a mellow haze. Yesterday and last night the occasion was duly commemorated by early communion service at 7 o'clock, and by a service in the evening at 8 o'clock. There was not a very large congregation, but a beautiful inspiriting service was conducted by the Rector and Rev. R. V. Stephenson, Rev. Carl Smith preaching a most appropriate and forcible sermom from the text:

"These are they which came out of great tribulation and have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb."

During the service the Rector extended greetings to those present, and spoke of all the mercies of the past thirteen years, during which they had had the privilege of worshipping in the church, and for the great progress which, under God's blessing, had marked the several interests of St. John's.

Feeling reference was also made to the absent ones, who had been removed from the congregation, but were now in the immediate presence of God, and no doubt in communion and sympathy with their brethren in the Church Militant.

He also announced that the commemorative services would be continued on Sunday, with an early celebration of the Holy Communion at 8 o'clock, and Morning Prayer at 10 o'clock and parochial Communion with sermon at 11; the services would be of a character to correspond with the spirit of the occasion.

Last night's service was marked by the excellent production of special music by the choir, under the direction of Rev. E. V. Stephenson. The Magnificat and Nunc Dimittis were Simper's, and the grand offertory anthem was Stainer's "Who are These?" The music was unusually effective and inspiring.

—The corset wearer makes her own record in the misshape of her body. Unless she wears a corset as near as possible in conformity with the lines of the body, the injuries are manifold. The P. N. Corset does not interfere with natural breathing, or injure the muscles, bones or skin; while it gives the figure that sharpness of outline most natural to the wearer. Only for sale by ROBT. FAIR, at the Golden Lion.

—Owing to the after boom which held in the final drive of logs for Messrs. Gilmour & Co. having burst at Kent's Creek, the logs drifted a considerable distance into the creek. The alligator worked all night in order to bag them at the mouth of the river, where they were taken in tow by the City of Peterborough on Wednesday. They are now in or about Humphrey's Bar, River Trent, at which place they will be cut loose.

A NEW CLUB.

Name Suggested for a New Social Organization in London.

LONDON, (Special) Oct. 28.—It has been facetiously suggested that a new social club in process of organization in this city should be entitled "The Dodd's Kidney Pill Club" as the present members are all enthusiastic advocates of that remedy and in common with many other citizens declare that in all cases of kidney trouble no other agent has been found so completely effective. Most Londoners have at their fingers' ends the particulars of the many marvellous cures through the use of this specific. In every drug store in the city the medicine is kept in large quantities and warmly recommended.

The Forester's Concert.

The grand annual concert of Courts Peterborough and Langton of the Canadian Order of Foresters, which is always looked forward to every fall, is announced to take place on November 15th, in the Opera House. That the programme will be a grand one is shown by the many different artists who will assist, and its excellence is vouched for by the names of these artists, who have reputations equal to any on the lyric stage to-day. Mr. Sims Fax is well known as one of the best humourists in Canada, and Miss Maud Trenglass Stevenson's admirable work is too well known in Peterborough to need comment. Mr. Thos. Dunn, too, is a prime favourite here, as is Miss Hendren, who also assists. Mrs. Thos. Dunn has been engaged as pianiste and accompanist. 1d

New Pump Factory in Peterborough

Mr. G. Walter Green, of Millbrook, an experienced pump maker, has opened a new pump factory at No. 174 Charlotte street, near English's canoe factory. Mr. Green manufactures thirteen different kinds of wooden pumps, among them being The Eureka Force Pump for watering stock, and the Combination Pump for general house purposes, both of which were on exhibition at the recent fall show, and attracted much attention. Mr. Green also handles the Brantford Ideal Windmill, the only mill with roller and ball bearings, and fully protected from the frost and weather. Farmers would do well to consult Mr. Green and inspect his pumps and windmills before winter sets in. w

HOW LITTLE TOTS ARE NOW EDUCATED.

PETERBOROUGH'S TINY KINDERGARTENERS DURING SCHOOL HOURS.

The Departments Crowded This Year by a Host of Little Ones Whose Lessons are Taught Them in Such a Manner That the Idea of Work is Never Conveyed to Them.

Peterborough's Kindergartens are becoming one of the most noticeable features of her admirable educational system, which has already acquired a more than local fame.

This year the Kindergarten departments are unusually well attended and the probability is that next year arrangements will have to be made to increase the accommodation for the bright little toddlers who each morning assemble at the Central or South Ward schools. The Central school has first rate accommodation for the little ones, and by the first of December the South Ward will have facilities surpassed by none in the Province. Next year it is expected that departments will be established in connection with the other schools.

The lessons can hardly be called work for the exercises so abound with pleasure that the youngsters forget themselves

IN THEIR ENJOYMENT.

"School" to these little ones is not suggestive of a strict teacher and a spelling book and hard sums and, perchance, a strap, but of kind and loving teachers such as Kindergarten teachers must be, of songs and games and pleasurable work at their sewing or folding or weaving. How little do they know that they are being educated! And yet they are, for in Kindergarten schools the child unconsciously receives his training.

The other morning an EXAMINER reporter strolled into one of the Kindergarten departments. The children were standing around a large circle outlined on the floor and were having their games. They were playing "blacksmith," in which game one little boy represents the swarthy blacksmith, and two others are the horse. The blacksmith draws the pony's foot between his knees and then while all the children are singing, "strike, boys, strike, boys, while the iron is red hot," he hammers the horse shoe on.

The children wholly enter into the spirit of the games and so thoroughly do they seem to that the pleasure finds its way into the onlooker's heart, and he forgets himself in the interests of the proceedings. After the games are over work at the tables is recommenced and here again the visitor loses himself in wonderment. At one table the children are sewing picture-cards and deftly do they handle the needle; at another they are folding papers into all sorts of pretty designs. The dexterity with which they fold and twist and turn their squares, careful to make the edges even and the creases neat, more than puzzled our representative. At the baby-table the wee'uns were playing with small square tablets of varnished wood. These are almost everywhere perforated with small round holes, into which the children stand little sticks of various colours. The tablet is supposed to represent a farm, the sticks serve as pickets for a fence, and also answer for animals, trees, waggon, etc. One bright-eyed little maid had completed the fence and had placed within the enclosure four upright sticks. With head on one side she thoughtfully began to name them: "This is a cow, this is a pig, this is a man, and, this, (hesitating) is a—doll."

Friday morning differs from other mornings in that the children bring to school small lunch baskets filled with whatever goodies mothers may have wished to place in them. As the noon-hour approaches "lunch" is partaken of. The reverence with which the children bow their heads while grace is repeated, their unselfishness in offering part of what they have brought to their companions, their politeness of manner at table might contain a lesson for many an old person.

Amidst all the pleasures of "school" the child learns lessons that are at once elevating and refining, and he is led to observe carefully all around him. Nature is studied and the little one learns to see unity everywhere. He can also tell whether a drawing is symmetrical or not, and whether the sequence in his folding or drawing is unbroken.

The Kindergarten departments will repay a visit at any time and a couple of hours cannot be passed more pleasantly than in watching the progress of the little ones and the patience with which they are taught.

A SHORT TALK WITH OUR SOLDIER BOYS.

Have a Big Day on the 24th by all Means.

THE QUEEN'S OWN, HIGHLANDERS AND ROYAL GRENADIERS.

Invitations Should be Sent to all Three and if They Come Peterborough Would be the Scene of a Grand Military Spectacle and Thousands of Excursionists Would be Brought Into Town.

It is thought by some of those connected with the local military circles that it is a big mistake to call in the uniforms and accoutrements every fall. They advance as an argument in support of their contention, that many of the men get the tunics cut down or let out, as the case may be, and thereby have a neatly-fitting uniform. Now a man will get tired of doing this thing year after year and when the trouble and expense could be so easily averted by allowing each to hold his uniform as long as he was identified with the Company. The knowledge that he can turn out at a moment's notice in a neatly-fitting tunic is also quite an incentive to a man to keep up his connection with a regiment, as the trouble of looking up a uniform is considerable. Another argument in favor of the idea is that having a uniform in his possession is a constant reminder to a man that he is of the force, and when the spring drill begins it will seem quite natural to don the red coat again and march down to the first parade, whereas many of the old men drop out year after year simply through putting off the time of going down to the drill shed for the first time. After once the uniforms have been picked over, too, a man is doubtful if he can as readily pick out a good fit.

The matter will doubtless come up for discussion at the next general meeting of the officers, when steps may be taken to follow the example set by the city regiments in this matter.

In advocating the project of inviting several outside battalions to Peterborough and having a big day on the 24th of May, Colonel Bell is taking a step which all will acquiesce in saying is one that will meet with popular approval. It is a long time since Peterborough has had a big military demonstration, and if the iron is struck now whilst the men are all hot and eager for such an event, the day will without doubt prove most successful. The Rangers always regard the First of July as their outing day, and occasionally considerable hard feeling has been engendered between them and the civilians through the fact that three or four hundred men leaving Peterborough when there is a celebration taking place in town makes the affair flat, particularly so as the volunteers are who, on other occasions, would do the most to help such a demonstration along. All this feeling, however, would be wiped out if the redcoats put their shoulder to the wheel and endeavour to make a big success of a Queen's Birthday celebration in Peterborough.

The Queen's Own, 48th Highlanders and the Royal Grenadiers, of Toronto, have never all been away on a trip together and if the local corps would be the first in the field to extend a cordial invation to all of the crack battalions to come to Peterborough on the 24th they would in all probability be successful and it would keep the railroads busy bringing in the excursionists to witness so grand a military display as would of a necessity result. The action of Col. Bell in bringing this proposition before the men at all of the recently held military dinners speaks highly for the enthusiasm which animates that officer when anything tending to the advancement of interest in military matters can be gained.

The 57th is in need of a new stand of colours, and though the subject of raising funds to secure a new set was mooted last winter the idea was never carried through nor any practical scheme resolved upon.

IF A SUGGESTION

would not be taken amiss, the EXAMINER would like to propose that an entertainment on a large scale be given in the way of a Cosmorama, Panopticon or Kirmess. Such affairs prove huge successes in other places, and doubtless would in Peterborough. Belleville recently realized five or six hundred dollars for her public library out of a Cosmorama, which lasted three days. The expenses connected therewith are small, and if the ladies of Peterborough would but take the matter up its success would be instantaneous.

This year the companies commanded by Captain Schofield and Captain Hayes will not hold their annual dinner, but, instead, will devote the money to the beautifying of their respective quarters in the drill shed. Though the the idea certainly has its good points, it is doubtful if they can compare with those possessed by the annual dinner scheme, when the men and officers derive so much benefit from the numberless hints which are dropped, when the speech-making begins. It would be a hard matter indeed, however, to decide whether the advantages obtained by pursuing the latter course are really so very great after all, as the knowledge that comfortable quarters are possessed at the Drill shed is a great attraction for the men.

No information is as yet obtainable as to the date when the non commissioned officers class will be formed for the winter under Sergt.-Major Peters' instruction, but it is known that a large number will attend to qualify for the wearing of the stripes. There will also be a big exodus to the Military School during the winter, and it would not be surprising to see twenty-five or thirty of Peterborough's young men take a course at the school, if there is room for them, in January.

Struck a New Idea.

The Bordeaux Claret Co., struck a new and fruitful idea when it conceived the notion of putting a cheap wine upon the market at prices which would bring it within the reach of all. For the long profit and the slow sale is not as good business as the small profit and the great sale, and $3 and $4 per dozen quarts appeals to the whole people, whereas $8 for a wine not one whit better—if as good—could only appeal to a section of the people. Wine upon the poor man's table; good wholesome wine, which will do him and his family good, at a little over the price of poor beer. The famous Medoc Wines. Selling enormously all over Canada. Address—Bordeaux Claret Co., 30 Hospital street, Montreal.

YKE NOTE SOU DED IN LONDON

At the Opening of the New Club House of the Young Conservatives—Hon. G. E. Foster and Hon Dr. Montague the Orators of the Evening.

London, Nov. 1.—The new club house of the Young Men's Conservative Association of London was formally opened to-day. The event was the occasion of a celebration that began early in the forenoon and continued till the small hours of the following morning.

First there was the welcome to the Ministers and visitors as they arrived by train. Leading members of the club were on hand with carriages to meet them.

Hon. John Haggart and Hon. Dr. Montague arrived at 11.30 by the Toronto train.

Hon. G. E. Foster came an hour or two later, having come across the country from Owen Sound.

After an informal reception at the Tecumseh House the Ministers went to the London Club, where they had luncheon.

At 3 o'clock the rooms at the new club house were thrown open for the reception of members and guests.

During the afternoon refreshments were served to members and guests, and all the while a string quartette favored the gathering with a variegated bill of fare.

The public meeting held in the auditorium in the evening was largely attended, the chamber being filled to its utmost capacity. Shortly after 8 o'clock the curtain rose and there was presented to the audience a big array of local and visiting celebrities.

The feature of Sir John Carling's appearance before the audience to formally open the club was the ovation he received on rising from his chair. Sir John is evidently a man of heroic proportions in the estimation of the people of London. In his five minutes' speech he referred in a general way to the Government policy and closing he declared the club formally open.

Major Thomas Beattie, candidate-elect for London, and Mr. Ingram, M.P., each favored the audience with a few appropriate remarks.

When the chairman called on the "hero of Haldimand," to address the audience, Hon. Dr. Montague arose and was received with loud cheering. It was against the advice of his physician that he attended the meeting, but he could not resist the temptation to be present on so memorable an occasion. One thing that pleased him to-day was the presence of so many ladies at the reception. It was a source of no little pleasure to him to have been called upon during the afternoon to preside at the formation of a Maple Leaf League for the promotion of Conservative and national principles. This league was to be composed exclusively of ladies. The speech made very complimentary remarks to the ladies generally and he predicted success for the Maple Leaf League of London. "We are going to have some bye-elections in Ontario shortly," said Dr. Montague, "and I especially invite Mr. Laurier to come along and take part in them. In considering Mr. Laurier and his policy I would like to ask two questions: Who are Mr. Laurier's companions and what are Mr. Laurier's opinions? One of his companions is Hon. Mr. Longley, a gentleman who ran a campaign in Nova Scotia on the cry of secession and the disruption of the Dominion. No matter how dramatically Mr. Laurier may strike his heart in expressing his loyalty to Canada, all his patriotism counts for nothing when it is remembered that he is responsible for such disloyalists as Mr. Longley and other annexationists. Other companions of Mr. Laurier are Mr. John McMillan of South Huron and Joseph Israel Tarte. The mention of the latter's name caused roars of laughter, as did also a quotation from a speech of Mr. Tarte's in 1877, when he referred to Mr. Laurier as a man veneered on the outside and a commonplace and mediocre ability. As to Mr. Laurier's opinions, where does he stand on the Manitoba school question? He says the Government should appoint a commission. During the two last sessions Mr. Laurier attacked the Government because we had not settled this same question years ago. (Laughter.) On the trade question he has declared for a sort of free trade policy. Up to 1876 he was an out and out protectionist. In 1878 he was a commercial unionist. In 1889 he was for commercial reciprocity, and a few years after he was for free trade as they have it in England. Now it is being secretly circulated that the industries of Canada will not be disturbed if the Liberals are returned to power. This is all false, as Hon. Mr. Longley has said it is the manufacturers of Canada that the Liberals are after, and they will destroy them if they get the power to do it.

There is no uncertainty as to the policy of the Conservative party, Protection to Canadian industries is the backbone of the policy. We will give up the markets of Canada to no one who does not give us similar advantages in return.

A word or two as to the Sault Canal. We were attacken in Parliament for changes being made in the canal as it progressed. It was said that boodle was behind the changes. Last week The Globe devoted four pages to the canal, congratulating the Government on having made these very changes. Two years ago half the cheese sent to England was consumed by the British people, while it supplied only one per cent. of the butter. We asked for a vote of $20,000 to help to introduce our butter, as we had introduced our cheese, into England. For that we were attacked, but we kept on in our course, adopting the cold storage system. The result is that this year we have sent twice as much butter to England as last year, and to-day dealers in Montreal cannot get enough Canadian creamery butter to be sent to England. Now our butter is on a firm basis in England. We are building up a great trade. This is the written opinion of Mr. Derbyshire, president of the Creamery Association. We intend continuing in the same policy of helping our farmers to extend their markets.

The Finance Minister, Hon. G. E. Foster, was loudly cheered on rising to address the meeting. He had no idea of the magnificent spectacle awaiting him in London. He congratulated the Young Liberal Conservatives on the temple they had erected as a centre of politics in western Ontario. He congratulated the ladies on the interest manifested by them in the success of the Liberal Conservative party.

The hon. gentleman directed the attention of his audience to a few questions concerning Canada. In the first place in measuring the progress of this country with that of the countries of Europe, we must remember that the latter have been in the process of developmnt for century after century; some of them for more than a thousand years. Two centuries covers the development of the greater part of Canada and it is not more than 30 years back since Canada began her progress as a whole and united country. And, yet, who of us would change Canada, with its brilliant prospects, for any of the old countries of Europe? One thing noticeable in regard to Canada to-day is the fact that the country is at rest as to the status the Dominion occupies as a nation. The public mind is at rest on this question, because there is a deep and universal feeling abroad that the future of Canada is within the hands of its own people to mold, and develop, and that around it and about it, keeping it in perfect safety, is the grand old Imperial unity of the empire. (Hear, hear.) The position of Canada is different from what it was 10 years ago in another point of view. Ten years ago no one thought of us as an important factor in Imperial interests. No one pointed to Canada on the map and said, "Behold, the centre of the empire. Behold the Imperial pathway to the Pacific and the eastern half of the empire." Canada to-day possesses in mense resources not dreamed of a few years ago—great mineral resources, acres of virgin soil destined to become the granary of the world. Canada holds the key as to geographical position, standing as she does right in the centre of the pathway from the old isles of Europe to the east and the vast island continents of the Pacific, where a new empire is growing up in splendor.

Another question for Canadians to consider is how came we to be what we are? Our progress is due to our laying down and carrying out certain lines of policy; to the building of inter-colonial and trans-continental railways, the construction and deepening of our canal system. The building of great lines of communication by water and land was the beginning of the Canadian national policy. Following that policy of railway and canal development came the policy for developing Canadian industries. Under that policy the industries of Canada are growing continuously and rapidly. Our products are being sold in nearly every country in the world. It is the glorious duty of the Liberal-Conservative party to continue in this policy and to carry it out to its legitimate conclusion.

Allusion has been made to a question which now appears on the political horizon, the vexed Manitoba school question, as it is called. One thing I wish to point out is this: That question is not one for which the Liberal-Conservative party is responsible. The constitution of Canada is responsible for the introduction of the question in the political horizon. The Liberal Conservative party proposes to abide by the constitution of the country and keep the compacts of that constitution (Hear, hear). We must take conditions as we find them; we must take the conditions under which we live, geographical, racial, religious, and deal with them as they actually exist. By mutual conciliation and compromise, it became possible for us to become a confederation. It is only by mutual conciliation and compromise that we can hope to remain a confederation However deep-rooted my prejudices may be as a public man and as the keeper of an executive trust, I must say to myself, "Your prejudice must remain quiescent when the rights and liberties of any section of the people of this confederation are concerned." Our position is as clear as the sunlight as regards this school question; but who can tell us what position Mr. Laurier assumes in regard to it.

The leader of the Opposition condemned the Government because it didn't settle the question years ago. Now he pleads with the people of Ontario for a commission to examine into the facts and thereby delay its settlement. The Government pleads that even-handed justice be done in the matter. We take all opportunities to induce the Manitoba Government to right the wrongs complained of so far as they reasonably should be righted. Our Government goes further and plainly states that if in the end the minority has a grievance which is not righted by the power which can best remedy it, viz., the Manitoba Government, then it is the duty of the Liberal-Conservative Government to take all reasonable and proper methods to have the wrong righted. (Applause.)

Hon. John Haggart was next called. As the hour was growing late he refrained from making a long speech. He referred to the general policy of the Government and predicted that the Government would in the coming election be sustained by as large a majority as existed in the present House.

After the proceedings were brought to a close the Ministers and members of the club went to the Tecumseh House, where a banquet was held in honor of the event of the day.

A Wide Range.

A preparation which enriches and purifies the blood and assists nature in repairing wasted tissue must have a wide range of usefulness.

Such a preparation is Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites of Lime and Soda. The uses of Scott's Emulsion are not confined to wasting diseases, like consumption, scrofula or anæmia. They embrace nearly all those minor ailments associated with loss of flesh.

THE SEALING CLAIMS.

Sir Mackenzie Bowell Thinks They Will be Adjusted Amicably.

Ottawa, Nov. 1.—Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Sir C. H. Tupper, returned from Washington to-day. Speaking to your correspondent this afternoon the Premier stated that the Minister of Justice and himself had been cordially received at Washington. While not in a position to indicate the nature of the conference had with Secretary Olney, he (Sir Mackenzie) had every reason to believe that an amicable basis would be reached, under which the claims of British Columbia sealers for compensation on account of Behring Sea seizures would be submitted to arbitration. The Premier added that every desire was manifested by Secretary Olney to have the matter brought to as speedy a settlement as possible.

The Premier has evidently little doubt as to the result of the next general elections. Next week Sir Mackenzie leaves his comfortable quarters at the Russell House, where he has been located for so many years, to take up his residence at 281 O'Connor-street. His widowed daughter, Mrs. McCarthy, will keep house for him. The Premier will have Messrs. Daly and Dickey as near neighbors. Clearly Sir Mackenzie has got a different tip as to the result of the approaching appeal to the country than the one Laurier gave a few days ago.

The Canada Gazette to-morrow will contain the announcement of the appointment of Lieut. H. W. Wilberforce of the 2nd Dragoon Guards to be aide de camp to His Excellency the Governor-General.

F. D. Shaw is appointed sub-collector of customs at Lethbridge.

Controller Wallace says there is no truth in the report sent out from here that about 20 customs officers are to be suspended in Montreal shortly.

The Supreme Court was not in session to-day. To-morrow the last two cases on the Maritime list will be disposed of and will bring the present term to a close. It has lasted exactly one month. A special sitting will be held next week, when the Delap v. Charlebois railway case will be taken up.

The body must be well nourished now, to prevent sickness. If your appetite is poor take Hood's Sarsaparilla.

CYCLISTS AT EASE.

LIVELY SCENES BY NIGHT AT A RESORT FOR WHEELMEN.

Wheelwomen in Skirts or in Bloomers, Tight or Loose, to be Seen There as Well—The Boarding-House Brigade—Public Demeanor of the Trousered Woman.

Bicyclists, both male and female, says The New York Sun, are gregarious creatures, and like to scorch in bunches, to wheel in companies, and to drink and refresh themselves where the atmosphere is charged with cycling talk, and the scene shows bloomers, knickerbockers, golf stockings and strange headgear. Up town on the west side may be found one haven of the evening riders. It is a strange conglomerate picture that the place supplies. It is full of lights and shadows, animation, eagerness, dignity and abandon, old age and dyspepsia and youth, champagne and salads, beer and sandwiches, all mixed in a jumble, elbow to elbow brushed by pushing, stoical waiters, blazed on by the glare of huge electric globes and be cooled by whizzing fans.

There they sit, a gigantic kaleidoscopic picture of color, form, fashion, those in the swim and those out of it, all with the same desire to taste cooling liquids and rest after the ride. In no other place in the city does the bicycle element so predominate. In the larger hall and extension, filled with the regulation tables of a beer garden, and the high-backed, uncomfortable chairs, space is at a premium every night, and the half dozen that do not ride wheels may be picked out with ease. The bicycle face marks the riders, and it needs no glance at the costumes to select and classify each bicyclist. The bicycle face shows as well over a stein of foaming lager as it does over the rim of a dainty champagne glass. Men and women both have it. Whether picking at the wing of a bird, or munching a frankfurter, it shines forth with equal clearness.

THE BOARDING HOUSE BRIGADE.

At the approach of a bicyclist, Theodore, the head waiter, grows beaming, and with eye, smile, and outstretched hand, bids him welcome. Theodore is ever polite and attentive, but he reserves his special bows and graces for the wearers of bloomers and knickerbockers, and will hustle for a chair for a newly-arrived wheelwoman when a plain citizen receives only profuse apologies for being kept standing. It is late at night, after 10 o'clock, that the place takes on its brightest hues, and the waiters trip merrily along. There seems to be a tonic injected into them about this hour. In the first part of the evening they slouch about with steins and sandwiches in that lazy, indolent manner that shows how indifferent they are to creature comfort and how small their hopes of a tip.

"Beer drinkers don't give nickels away," said one of them, "for every nickel means a glass of beer, but the wine and mixed drink people are generous."

Business begins about 6 o'clock with what is known as the boarding-house brigade. The chief use of the brigade is to fill in the clinks and keep the bar lively. It is composed of men and women who are wheel mad, and as soon as offices and stores close at 5 o'clock, take a train up town, mount and ride until 6 o'clock or a little after, then bolt a beer or cocktail, and hasten home to get ready for the boarding-house dinner. The brigade drinks standing, and the wheels are rarely checked, one of the number standing guard over the stack while the others wet their whistles.

An hour later the bicycle clubmen appear, the barkeepers mix Rickeys, Remsen coolers, gin fizzes, and cobblers and the waiters in the big barroom look pleased. The New York clubman never stands when he can sit, and almost always tips the attendant and checks his wheel, to the delight of the small boy who has charge of the rack outside. From this time on everything is kept stirring. About 8 o'clock boys and girls come trooping in for lemonades, sarsaparilla and pop, and with their merry chatter and loudly-told jokes. They have the place to themselves save for a stray couple or two, who seem to be out of the regular order.

At 10 the advance guard of the great lively crowd that is to follow finds their way into the hall and pick out the chairs as though they were of the easiest pattern. Soon the place is jammed to the doors and all the standing room taken up. They are thirsty—they want drinks before the waiter can get to them for their orders, and the men of the parties look hot and worried until the ice-choked tumblers are before them. Then comes a rest. These people have the time to burn, now that the first thirst is satisfied.

A queer assemblage, truly. The whole room is a blaze of light; glasses are clinking; everyone is talking at the same time, with the exception of the proprietor. Calm and stoical, he wanders through the rooms, looking as cool as a cucumber, until his eye lights on some politician, and then he too, joins in the mucic. But it is in the people and their costumes that interest abounds. Who are they? Men from every profession save that of the preacher. Doctors, lawyers, engineers, bankers, merchants, authors, poets and idlers, all have the bicycle craze, the bicycle face, and the bicycle thirst. The women are all grades, women of the world, the half-world, the stage, shop, store, office and the home. It is a heterogenous mass of humanity, clad in diversified and wonderful garb.

Some of the women are picturesque in their dress; others dowdy; some unique, some bewitching, some chic, and others ugly. Bloomers there are by the hundred, in all stages of evolution, from the Turkish trousers concealed by long petticoats, to close-fitting bloomers with an abbreviated lambrequin fastened to the waist. The men are usually togged up in a cross between the bicycle suit and a golfing dress. Sweaters predominate, and so do golf stockings and golf caps, tipped at what is known as the road angle. This tip gives a certain air of real ginger to the wearer which, when properly interpreted, means "I'm right in it and I'm going to buy largely and frequently if necessary." It also allows the long curled hair above the forehead to escape in a bang-like fluff that is considered fetching by the young gallants of the wheel. Some of the men swagger up and down a few times before choosing a seat. They are all of athletic build, and know it. There are others who get their legs beneath the first vacant table they find, for they are not athletic in build and their rather limbs cannot stand the combined glare of bright eyes and electric light.

No timidity of this kind ever phases the bicycle girl. She comes in as if she owned the place, and no matter how well she be dressed, or how grotesque she may look in trousers, she thinks she is all right and that everyone must agree with her.

At one table sits a party of four, two men and two girls. Nice, healthy-looking girls they are, too, but the bloomers they wear are not very innocent-looking. If they ever wore them to a church bicycle tea the parson would receive a shock. They are big girls of the English type with light hair. Every wrinkle and crease of the dark brown suits is filled out. The knickerbockers are worn with high leggings, tan shoes, brown derbies, pink shirt waists, and little apologies for a skirt about 12 inches long that hang from the waist in a sort of mute shamefaced way. They are discussing champagne and lobsters, and the men with them look as if they would like to buy the place, for everybody is interested in their table. Are the girls abashed? Not a bit. They laugh and joke with the best of them and have a good time and, when they go out, give a little feminine wriggle to the shamefaced skirt that causes a subdued twitter to echo after them. But they are cool, even if their escorts did move quickly toward the door.

Then comes the big blonde woman, who carries her 170 pounds moulded to a faultless figure, and who is always attended by a short, slim man. Her biking costume is perfect as to fit, if her skirt is only knee-deep. She, too, drinks the sparkling champagne and fails to see the many glances of admiration thrown in her direction. Over at another table sits a politician and his friend, imbibing iced liquors and talking with a woman in knickerbockers. A doctor sits near, and would hardly be recognized by his patients in his negligé shirt and short trousers, as he sips his beer. Youths with women, whose history is better left untold; men of family with one or more members thereof; a criminal lawyer with a party of friends; a group of artists—all form part of this nightly show at the wheelmen's resting place. Outside, beneath a bright light, is the rack of wheels. Up to midnight this is kept continually full. The boy who has the care of the wheels depends on the generosity of his patrons for a living, and counts it a poor night's work that does not leave $7 or $8 in his pocket from tips.

Hood's is Wonderful.

No less than wonderful are the cures accomplished by Hood's Sarsaparilla, even after other preparations and physicians' prescriptions have failed. The reason, however is simple. W. E. McCALL.

"If Eric is in robust health, and has slept well, and is at the top of his condition at his departure from Greenland, his ships will reach Newfoundland. But, take out Eric and put in a stronger man—Biorn or Thorfin—and the ships with just as much ease will reach Labrador and New England."

Emerson was right. The stronger a man is the fuller his chest is, the sounder his heart and brain and lungs are, the further he will sail on the ocean, the higher he will sail in his balloon, and the deeper he will dive into the intricacies of his business or profession. A man's glory is his strength. The world has small use for weaklings, and, it must be said, sickly people have little use for the world. But, sickness is generally an unnecessary evil. It is almost a crime against nature to be ill. If you are ill and feel repentant, anxious to undo the mischief, take Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Don't be despondent because your grandfather died of consumption or bronchitis, or some other equally frightful throat or lung trouble. There is no need of hereditary consumption. Purify your blood with "Golden Medical Discovery," then take more of it to thoroughly strengthen and build up your whole body through the purity and strength of your blood.

There is nothing miraculous about the "Discovery." It is a compound of curatives skillfully blended. It will cure 98 per cent. of all cases of consumption if it is honestly used.

Would you know yourself? Send 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of customs and mailing only, and get Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. In the reading of this book of 1008 pages is a medical education. It is a complete family doctor book, written in plain language that everybody can understand, and profusely illustrated. CANDY FOR CHILDREN.

The Popular Health Magazine says the desire in a child for candy and sweets is a natural one and should not be stifled. Good candy and sweets in moderation, not only do no harm, but are actually beneficial. Too much sweet upsets the stomach and spoils the appetite, but candy in moderation if it is not taken before a meal is food which children crave naturally, and among the purest and most wholesome is that manufactured by

THE WHEEL.

There was quite a crowd of wheeling enthusiasts down at the Driving Park this forenoon watching Harley Davidson and his pacers getting in some practice. If the track dries off sufficiently an effort will probably be made this afternoon to lower the records. A trial would probably have taken place this morning, but for an accident which happened the "quad," one of the cranks giving away.

RUGBY FOOTBALL.

The following members of the Rugby team of Trinity University, Toronto, arrived this morning and registered at the Huffman :—Rev. H. Bedford Jones, W. H. White, F. A. Chadwick, W. G. Swague, H. L. Becker, C. H. Bradburn, J. W. Cooper, H. S. Southorn, N. C. Jones, E. G. Warren, M. D. Baldwin, T. Bushell, D. Campbell and H. B. Gwynne.

Great difficulty was experienced in bringing the team to Peterborough, as, instead of remaining in Port Hope last night after playing the T. C. S. team there, the Toronto men returned home. After much persuasion they agreed to come down this morning and kept their promise. Yesterday they beat the T. C. S. team so badly that the score has been suppressed so a very fast game may be expected this afternoon. The match will be refereed by Rev. Mr. Mackenzie, of Lakefield, an expert at the game.

CURLIANA.

Some unknown lover of the sport of curling, and member of the Sarnia curling club, had donated four pretty silver medals to the club, to be worn by the members of the curling rink which will win in a series of games to be played here on the ice this winter.—Sarnia Post. The Peterborough clubs have not yet heard of anyone, known or unknown, insisting upon a like course here, though the members would doubtless be persuaded to allow a like trophy to be put up for competition.

There are three essential requisites for the game of curling, viz., a sheet of ice, curling stones and men to use them. These three are indispensable, brooms or besoms are convenient, but most of us have seen a curler polishing the ice in front of a lagging stone with his bonnet "aff his ain head," and, while rubbers help to keep a fellow on his feet, many curlers dispense with boots, and play the game in their sox, and in this way manage to keep their feet. The matter of an ice sheet is in the hands of King John of the Frost family, and from time immemorable he has given Canadians a fair share of the requisite and may still be depended on for a needful supply of the genuine article—hard and keen. Canada can, and does, supply the men endowed with strength of arm, keenness of eye, sound judgment and indomitable courage, and this year the game promises to boom in Peterborough with a vengeance. Already the skips are making up their rinks for the season's matches.

All Run Down.

This is the condition of thousands. Squanderers have they been of sleep, rest and finally of health. The mad pursuit of place, power and self leaves them broken in spirit, weak in body, shattered in nerve. In the world, but no longer of it, their days are spent in desire, impotent and purposeless, for they have bankrupted health. Thousands are on the road. They heed not the warning that nature gives.

Sleeplessness, inertia, despondency, and fatigue add their mournful notes to the "still sad music of humanity." Tired! Tired! Tired! You need aid! Your system requires a staff upon which to lean, and your brain rest for increasing vigils! Health and strength are the alternatives from decay and death.

Cocoa, combined with Maltine, affords that staff. It will give tone to the nervous system, strength to the shattered nerves, sleep to the weary eyes and rest to the tired brain.

FIRST DEGREE MURDER

Is the Verdict in the Case of Theodore Durrant

WHO MURDERED BLANCHE LAMONT

The Sensational Trial Which Has Agitated San Francisco for Months at Last Closed—A Brief History of the Crime Which Will Cost Durrant His Life.

San Francisco, Nov. 1.—The trial of Theodore Durrant for the murder of Blanche Lamont, which has been one of the sensations here for several months, is at last closed. The case went to the jury at 3.25 p.m. to-day, and the first ballot resulted in a verdict of murder in the first degree.

As Durrant heard the words which sealed his fate, he partially rose from his seat. The look on his face was one of defiance and it was apparent that he had it in mind to address the jury. The first cry from his mother changed his mind if he had such intention. He sat down, turned to his mother and took her fondly in his arms. He seemed oblivious to the fact that a verdict which meant death to him had been returned; oblivious to everything except the weeping woman who had sat patiently by his side through the long trial cheering him with words of hope.

The verdict of the jury meets with general approbation. Durrant takes it coolly and says he has not yet lost hope.

Durrant was born in Toronto and the story of his crime is as follows :

On the third of April last Blanche Lamont left her home at 8.30 a.m. and went to the High School for the morning session. In the afternoon she attended the Normal School for cooking class, which she left about 3 o'clock. As she walked from the school in company with Miss Minnie Edwards, a young man stepped up to her, raised his hat and escorted her to the car at Clay and Powell-streets. The two sat on the east side of the dummy and rode in that position to Market-street.

En route to Market-street Miss Edwards sat inside of the car and paid close attention to Miss Lamont and her escort. She saw them last at Market and Powell, where she left the car, and proceeded down Market to Fourth-street.

As the car on which Miss Lamont and Miss Edwards rode passed the corner of Powell and California Misses May Lanigan and Alice Pleasant, who attended the Normal School, and saw Miss Lamont there that day, noticed the young lady and her escort sitting on the outside of the car.

Blanche Lamont was never again seen alive by any one who knew her. She failed to return home and her disappearance was reported to the police. They not only failed to find her, but were unable to get a clue which would show whether she had been murdered or had eloped. The latter was the most accepted theory.

It became known that a young man man had escorted the missing girl from the school, but his identity was not established at the time

On April 13 the mangled body of Minnie Williams, who had been to church on the night of Friday, the 12th, was found in the library of Emanuel Church. This discovery led to an investigation, and the finding of the remains of Blanche Lamont on the top floor of the tower of the church. She had been strangled to death, and the marks of the murderer's fingers were plainly to be seen on the neck.

When the murder of Minnie Williams became known suspicion was directed towards Theodore Durrant, and when detectives went to his house they found evidence in his clothing to warrant his arrest.

The two school girls previously identified him as the man they had seen leave the Normal School with Miss Lamont on the afternoon of April 3.

WORD FROM KOOTENAY.

Good Mining Prospects for the Year and Increased Facilities to Miners.

NELSON (Special), Oct. 21.—The mining prospects for next year in this locality are excellent, and a large influx of prospectors is expected. Miners and others coming in have been in the habit of bringing with them large quantities of Dodd's Kidney Pills, a remedy which they all swear by, and whose virtues they have extolled to such an extent, that the druggists throughout the section have become alive to the necessity of laying in large supplies to meet the greatly increasing demand. The remedy is generally regarded as an indispensable part of a miner's outfit, both for its portability and a value in preserving health which cannot be overestimated.

Gone After Bear.

The Norwood Register says : T. Fraser has gone back to his old hunting ground at La Valley Lake, Faraday township, Hastings county, and the following persons were to accompany him : Rev. W. R. Young, pastor of the George street Methodist church, Peterborough; D. W. Dumble, police magistrate, Peterborough; E. B. Stone, barrister, etc., Peterborough; D. B. Brightman, Rochester, N. Y.; John Neilson, operator, Bonaventure station, Montreal : Mr. McGuire, Belleville; Samuel Scott, deputy reeve of Asphodel, and John Preston and David Brackenridge, also of Asphodel. They left by the midnight train on Wednesday. During their stay in Faraday township the party will be the guests of Garrat Vadder. The Register's facts do not seem to exactly fit.

A Former Resident Thought to be Dying of Bright's Disease, Uses Dodd's Kidney Pills and Appears on the Street in Perfect Health.

(Special to the Examiner.)

Listowell, Nov. 2nd, 1895—"The press despatch, first read here in a Toronto paper, but dated from Negpawa, Manitoba, has caused quite as much local furore as in the town of its origin. The subject, Mrs. T. H. McKee, formerly lived here and has a large number of sympathizing friends who had for months past believed her to be dying or dead. A recovery from Bright's disease and and reappearance so remarkable—so much past common belief—naturally resulted in many enquiries for confirmation of the facts."

Similar press despatches having been of such frequent occurrence, during the past months, coming from various parts of Canada, the management of this paper had decided not to permit their publication without verification. To this end every despatch hitherto published has been investigated with a most gratifying result. In every case where we have written we got prompt replies, very friendly in their tone, and in many cases stating that their case has been under, instead of over stated. It is found also, they state, that from those remarkable cures the sales of Dodd's Kidney Pills in the surrounding country has doubled and quadrupled during the past year, and that these pills are successfully used in as many cases as there are names of diseases in the catalogue. The proprietors of Dodd's Kidney Pills were equally prompt in placing all the data for the successful issue of our investigation and we have ourselves become convinced of the sterling merits of this wonderful medicine.

Dodd's Kidney Pills is the only medicine or treatment in the world that has ever cured Bright's disease.

THE WHEEL.

There was quite a crowd of wheeling enthusiasts down at the Driving Park this forenoon watching Harley Davidson and his pacers getting in some practice. If the track dries off sufficiently an effort will probably be made this afternoon to lower the records. A trial would probably have taken place this morning, but for an accident which happened the "quad," one of the cranks giving away.

RUGBY FOOTBALL.

The following members of the Rugby team of Trinity University, Toronto, arrived this morning and registered at the Huffman:—Rev. H. Bedford Jones, W. H. White, F. A. Chadwick, W. G. Swayne, H. L. Eesker, C. H. Bradburn, J. W. Cooper, H. S. Southorn, N. C. Jones, E. G. Warren, M. D. Baldwin, T. Bushell, D. Campbell and H. B. Gwynne.

Great difficulty was experienced in bringing the team to Peterborough, as, instead of remaining in Port Hope last night after playing the T. C. S. team there, the Toronto men returned home. After much persuasion they agreed to come down this morning and kept their promise. Yesterday they beat the T. C. S. team so badly that the score has been suppressed as a very fast game may be expected this afternoon. The match will be refereed by Rev. Mr. Mackenzie, of Lakefield, an expert at the game.

CURLIANA.

Some unknown lover of the sport of curling, and member of the Sarnia curling club, had donated four pretty silver medals to the club, to be worn by the members of the curling rink which will win in a series of games to be played here on the ice this winter.—Sarnia Post. The Peterborough clubs have not yet heard of anyone, known or unknown, insisting upon a like course here, though the members would doubtless be persuaded to allow a like trophy to be put up for competition.

There are three essential requisites for the game of curling, viz., a sheet of ice, curling stones and men to use them. These three are indispensable, brooms or besoms are convenient, but most of us have seen a curler polishing the ice in front of a stone with his bonnet "aff his ain head," and, while rubbers help to keep a man on his feet, many curlers dispense with them and play the game in their sox, and in this way manage to keep their feet. The history of an ice sheet is in the hands of the John of the Frost family, and from all we can learn he has given Canadians plenty of the requisite and may still have a good deal on hand for a needful supply of the article—hard and keen. Canada can always supply the men endowed with muscle of arm, keenness of eye, steadiness of nerve and indomitable courage. Let the game promises to boom in Peterborough with a vengeance. Already the skips are making up their rinks for the season's matches.

FIRST DEGREE MURDER

is the Verdict in the Case of Theodore Durrant

WHO MURDERED BLANCHE LAMONT

WANTED.

The Sensational Trial Which Has Agitated San Francisco for Months at Last Closed. A Brief History of the Crime Which Will Cost Durrant His Life.

San Francisco, Nov. 1.—The trial of Theodore Durrant for the murder of Blanche Lamont, which has been one of the sensations here for several months, is at last closed. The case went to the jury a 3.45 p.m. to-day, and the first ballot resulted in a verdict of murder in the first degree.

As Durrant heard the words which sealed his fate, he partially rose from his seat. The look on his face was one of defiance and it was apparent that he had it in mind to address the jury. The first fury from his mother changed his mind if he had such intention. He sat down, turned to his mother and took her fondly in his arms. He seemed oblivious to the fact that a verdict which meant death to him had been returned: oblivious to everything except the weeping woman who had sat patiently by his side through the long trial cheering him with words of hope.

The verdict of the jury meets with general approbation. Durrant takes it coolly and says he has not yet lost hope.

Durrant was born in Toronto and the story of his crime is as follows:

On the third of April last Blanche Lamont left her home at 8.30 a.m. and went to the High School for the morning session. In the afternoon she attended the Normal School for cooking class, which she left about 3 o'clock. As she walked from the school in company with Miss Minnie Edwards, a young man stepped up to her, raised his hat and escorted her to the car at Clay and Powell-streets. The two sat on the east side of the dummy and rode in that position to Market-street. En route to Market-street Miss Edwards sat inside of the car and paid close attention to Miss Lamont and her escort. She saw them last at Market and Powell, where she left the car, and proceeded down Market to Fourth-street.

As the car on which Miss Lamont and Miss Edwards rode passed the corner of Powell and California Misses May Lanigan and Alice Pleasant, who attended the Normal School, and saw Miss Lamont there that day, noticed the young lady and her escort sitting on the outside of the car.

Blanche Lamont was never again seen alive by any one who knew her. She failed to return home and her disappearance was reported to the police. They not only failed to find her, but were unable to get a clue which would show whether she had been murdered or had eloped. The latter was the most accepted theory.

It became known that a young man had escorted the missing girl from the school, but his identity was not established at the time.

On April 18 the mangled body of Minnie Williams, who had been to church on the night of Friday, the 12th, was found in the library of Emanuel Church. This discovery led to an investigation, and the finding of the remains of Blanche Lamont on the top floor of the tower of the church. She had been strangled to death, and the marks of the murderer's fingers were plainly to be seen on the neck.

When the murder of Minnie Williams became known suspicion was directed towards Theodore Durrant, and when detectives went to his house they found evidence in his clothing to warrant his arrest.

The two school girls previously identified him as the man they had seen leave the Normal School with Miss Lamont on the afternoon of April 3.

WORD FROM KOOTENAY.

Good Mining Prospects for the Year and Increased Facilities to Miners.

NELSON (Special), Oct. 21.—The mining prospects for next year in this locality are excellent, and a large influx of prospectors is expected. Miners and others coming in have been in the habit of bringing with them large quantities of Dodd's Kidney Pills, a remedy which they all swear by, and whose virtues they have extolled to such an extent, that the druggists throughout the section have become alive to the necessity of laying in large supplies to meet the greatly increasing demand. The remedy is generally regarded as an indispensable part of a miner's outfit, both for its portability and a value in preserving health which cannot be overestimated.

HOLMES IS GUILTY

The Jurymen Reached a Verdict on the First Ballot

Touching It Up For All It Is Worth!

Holmes Found Guilty of Murder in the First Degree.

The jury in the case of Holmes, charged with the murder of Pitezel, returned to the court room at 10 o'clock this morning. The court room was crowded to the doors when the jury filed in. Holmes was brought in from the cells at 10.15 o'clock. He looked around the court room and bowed to his friends. He was pale, but appeared to be in good spirits. He was accompanied by his counsel, Messrs. Rolph, Mills and Ellis. Mr. Rolph, when the latter came in, shook hands with him. Mr. Rolph, when the latter came in, shook hands with him. Mr. Rolph then left the court, and as he left he laid his hand in an appealing way on his lawyer's arm.

Mr. Rolph then left the court at 2.50 o'clock. He said: "Gentlemen, of the jury, there is no one in this court room who has a greater right of interest in the proceedings than I have. I am opening the door, and it is for you to say whether you will return to the court room or not."

Gloves and Hosiery

There is perhaps nothing a lady is more particular about than her Gloves and Hosiery, for herself and family.

Some six months ago we were looking ahead and placed large orders in European factories for this fall's trade. In doing this we get closer prices and have the goods made to exactly suit the Canadian trade; being careful to have the fingers proportionate length, the cuffs to suit dresses, and neatly stitched backs. We have light weights for early fall wear, and heavier for winter. As we select our own cloth there is none better for wear.

See the extra nice Glove we can give you for 25c a pair.

Other lines as low as 10c and upwards to 50c.

In Cashmere Hose we have selected both medium and extra heavy weights, in plain weave and soft finish, one and one ribs for both ladies and children. Two and one ribs, made of extra heavy Scotch and Canadian yarns for boys who wears knickers, also a full range of a heavy make from 10c a pair for children's to 15c for ladies.'

VERDICT OF GUILTY

Close of the Shortis Trial at Beauharnois, Quebec.

DECISION REACHED ON SUNDAY.

The Valleyfield Murderer's Plea of Insanity Fails—Prisoner Heard the Words of the Jury With Stolid Indifference—Sentence Postponed Until To-Day—The Scene in Court.

Beauharnois, Que., Nov. 3.—It seemed as if the whole male portion of the population of this village had turned out en masse and gone to the Court House this morning to hear the verdict in the Shortis case. All the counsel were present.

The judge ascended the Bench at 9.10 a.m. After the roll call, the jury were asked if they had found a verdict.

A deathlike stillness prevailed and the clerk repeated his question in both languages.

"Guilty" and "culpable" were the fatal words that came from the dozen throats in the jury box.

Judge Mathieu then put the three questions he had left for them to decide upon.

(1) "Did the prisoner murder John Loy on March 1st, last?"

"Yes."

(2) "At the time of the murder was the prisoner in a state of mind which rendered him incapable of judging the nature and quality of his acts, or knowing that such act or murder was wrong?"

"No."

(3) "Is the accused guilty or not guilty?"

"Guilty."

During these proceeding the prisoner stood erect and stolid, not a muscle moved. As the assemblage rose to leave the court, the prisoner made some enquiries of Dr. Anglin about some music catalogs. His father was seated in front on the dock, and apparently steeled himself for the ordeal. He arose, after the verdict, looking dazed, and followed his unfortunate son into the jail. The heart-broken mother was not present; she spent the morning before the altar of St. Clement's Church.

Judge Mathieu announced that sentence will be passed Monday at 10 a.m.

The counsel for the defence say they intend to appeal.

The proceedings consisted of Mr. MacMaster's address on behalf of the Crown and Judge Mathieu's charge to the jury in French and English. Mr. MacMaster claimed that prisoner was a spoilt boy from boyhood, who gradually developed into a self-willed monster. The learned counsel paid particular attention to the expert evidence, which, he said, was of no more value than that of ordinary witnesses. They had declared that prisoner was afflicted with a number of mental defects, but the evidence adduced disproved them all.

Judge Mathieu's charge was a full summary of the evidence, and wholly impartial. He expunged the testimony of Miss Anderson, who was termed his swetheart, and her brother, and did not hold the expert testimony to be proof positive of the prisoner's insanity.

Express Train Wrecked.

Pittsburg, Nov. 3.—Two persons were killed outright and 25 or 30 passengers injured by the wrecking of the Cincinnati express at Elm Grove, near Wheeling, on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad this morning. The dead are: Mrs. Hare, not yet fully identified. Child named Barkley, parents live in Wheeling. The injured are not seriously hurt.

The accident was caused by the breaking of a flange on the combination car, which caused the derailment of that car, together with two coaches and a parlor car. The cars derailed turned completely over and were demolished. A relief train was sent from Wheeling with doctors.

One Killed, 22 Injured.

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 3.—A Missouri, Kansas & Texas passenger train was wrecked between Dallas and Hillsboro about 10 o'clock this morning. Engineer Mike Murphy was killed and 22 passengers were injured.

MANITOBA GRAIN MOVING.

Six and a Half Million Bushels Already Shipped.

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 3.—The grain exchange officials estimate that fully six and a half million bushels of wheat of this year's crop have already been shipped out of the province, for which two and a half million dollars were received by the farmers.

A computation just made of the value of buildings erected and under contract to be completed this fall in this city makes a total of $544,655. The buildings are of the most substantial character, and include half a dozen handsome business blocks.

HOLMES IS GUILTY.

The Jurymen Reached a Verdict on the First Ballot

APPLICATION FOR A NEW TRIAL

The Verdict Received With Silence—The Prisoner Turned Pale as a Corpse on Hearing Words Which Mean Death to Him Unless a New Trial Reverses the Decision.

Philadelphia, Nov. 3.—Herman W. Mudgett, or as he is better known, H. H. Holmes, was on Saturday, convicted of murder in the first degree for killing Benjamin F. Pitezel in this city on Sept. 2, 1894.

The jury needed but one ballot to reach this decision. The jury retired at 5.45 o'clock at the conclusion of Judge Arnold's charge. At 8.35 word was sent to Judge Arnold that the jury was ready to return its verdict.

The prisoner was brought in and placed in the dock. He was as impassive as ever. The jurymen came in and took their places, and it needed but little skill as a mind-reader to know what the word would be that the foreman would pronounce.

The Court ordered Holmes to rise, and then in reply to the question of the Court the foreman of the jury pronounced the fatal words: "Guilty of murder in the first degree." The verdict was greeted with absolute silence.

The charge of the judge must have foreshadowed what his fate would be; but the word "guilty" fell upon Holmes with stunning force. He made no outcry, exhibited no emotion of any kind—the blow was too stunning for noisy outbreaks. He sat down, and while the jury was polled each man answered to his name, and as each pronounced his sentence, Holmes stared vacantly before him. His face was that of a corpse. It was as absolutely expressionless as a mask. Only a nervous twitching of the eyelids and the contraction and dilation of the eyes showed that it was a living, breathing man that sat in the dock.

As the effect of the blow began to die away Holmes slowly recovered. He realized that his counsel was making a motion for a new trial. His under lip fell and he ran his tongue across it, moistening the dryness; and clasping his hands together he leaned forward to listen to the judge's decision. When Judge Arnold said that he would hear the application for a new trial on Monday, Nov. 18, an expression of something like hope broke across his dull face. Turning to the court officers he said in an eager wisper: "Monday, Nov. 18?" These were the only words he uttered.

Judge Arnold then expressed to Mr. Rotan and Mr. Shoemaker his appreciation of how difficult their task had been and he complimented them that they had been able to make as good a show of the defence as they did. He intimated that their withdrawal from the case was a device of the prisoner. In a manly, honest way, Mr. Rotan gave the court to understand that their withdrawal was no device of their own, but was done from a sincere conviction because they believed they had not been given time to prepare their case. Judge Arnold then ordered the prisoner removed.

By this time Holmes had recovered much of his composure and he walked from the court room with the quick, springy step that is natural to him. The judge thanked the jury for their attention, and discharged them, and so ended the trial of the most notorious and infamous murderer that has ever been convicted in the courts of Philadelphia, and probably in the United States.

Saturday's Proceedings in Court.

Philadelphia, Nov. 3.—Interest in the Holmes trail has steadily grown since the case began Monday, and each day the crowd has been larger. Long before the prisoner appeared on Saturday, the court-room was packed with people.

When the court opened, Mr. Rotan stated to Judge Arnold that Mr. Shoemaker was too ill to appear, but that he was willing that he (Mr. Rotan) should make the closing argument alone, providing that the court would not grant a delay.

Mr. Rotan sought to have Judge Arnold instruct the jury in his summing up to disregard all reference made of the killing of the Pitezel children by Mr. Graham in his speech at the beginning of the trial.

This Judge Arnold refused to do.

Then Mr. Graham arose and began his closing address to the jury. The district attorney began by quietly congratulating the jury upon their prospect of a speedy release from their confinement of the jury box. He stated to them that he had voluntarily relinquished his right to make a final argument, and that he had left that privilege to the defendant's attorney. He merely asked them to reason with him over the evidence offered. He said that this evidence indubitably pointed to the guilt of the prisoner but the Pennsylvania commonwealth sought no victim, and if the sense of right and justice led them to believe that he was innocent, then it was their duty to acquit him, and that speedily.

The commonwealth, he said, had proved every step of its case from the very beginning, and had made the chain of evidence perfect. Mr. Graham then returned to the evidence taken, and reading from it, reviewed it. He skimmed quietly over the testimony of the more unimportant witnesses, and refreshed the jury's memory of the evidence.

On the more important testimony Mr. Graham dealt at greater length for the jury's benefit. He exposed with cold criticism and occasionally lashing scorn Holmes' tangle of lies in the many statements he made.

It was when he came to the testimony given by Mrs. Pitezel that Mr. Graham poured out upon the prisoner the vials of his contempt, scorn and denunciation. Beneath the district attorney's bitter words Holmes shrank a little, and sinking his head affected to be busy taking notes of Mr. Graham's words.

Mr. Graham spoke two hours and forty minutes, and it being 1.30 o'clock when he finished, a recess was taken until 2.30 o'clock.

The crush to get into the court at the afternoon session was tremendous, and an instant after the doors were open the room was filled to overflowing. When Holmes came into court his pale face wore a more serious expression than it has yet borne, and as soon as he got into the dock, he began to scan his notes. He paid no attention to the great crowd and seemed utterly oblivious to the hundreds of eyes focused upon him. He consulted with Mr. Rotan, when the latter came into court, and as he talked he laid his hand in an appealing sort of way on his lawyer's arm.

Mr. Rotan began his argument at 2.50 o'clock. He said: "Gentlemen, of the jury, there is no one in this court room who feels a greater weight of responsibility than I have. You have a human life in your hands, and if you are not guided by the evidence you violate your oath. If you allow the references to persons that have crept into the case, before it came up through the public print you do him an injustice. You must look upon this man as if clothed in armor—in the armor of innocence, until he is proved guilty. You must try this man from the evidence given from the stand, and not by anything said by counsel outside.

When Mr. Rotan had concluded, Judge Arnold charged the jury. The judge explained the various grades of murder, and particularly premeditated murder. He advised the jury that in the case before them there could only be one grade of murder for them to consider, and that was murder in the first degree. He told the jury that the evidence in this case was entirely circumstantial, but that was not unusual, as many murder cases are decided by circumstantial evidence. In the present case he told the jury that there were three points for them to consider: First, is Benjamin F. Pitezel dead? Second, if dead, did he die a violent death? Third, if he died a violent death did he commit suicide, or did the defendant kill him? Then Judge Arnold reviewed the evidence.

When the part of the doctor's testimony was reached, that Pitezel had been killed by poison and that it could not have been self-administered, Judge Arnold queried: "If the poison was not self-administered, then the question is who did administer it to him?" Holmes shrank a little in his chair as he heard this ominous query.

Referring to Mrs. Pitezel's story, Judge Arnold said that it proved the truth of the old saying that "truth is stranger than fiction." He also said that if the woman's story was true it was the most wonderful exhibition of the power of mind that he had ever seen, and was stranger than any novel he had ever read.

For the motive of the crime, if the jury believed Mrs. Pitezel's story, then they had it in the desire to obtain the insurance money from her. Next Judge Arnold came to the question of whether it was a murder or a suicide. Judge Arnold said that the jury could judge from the cross-examination of Miss Yohe relative to Holmes' departure on Sunday afternoon whether it was what is known in law as a flight.

Finishing his review of the evidence, Judge Arnold said that the adoption of suicide as a plea of defence was no uncommon one in trials. Judge Arnold gave the jury the usual instructions that if they thought the evidence did not warrant it, or they had any reasonable doubt, then they should acquit the prisoner; or, if they believed the evidence, to convict him. He also charged them to dismiss from their minds any impressions of any other crimes charged against the prisoner and try him only on the case before them.

The Judge also read certain law points submitted by the defence, and which they wished him to charge the jury upon. One of these points made was that there was reasonable doubt that Pitezel was killed.

On coming to this, the Judge stated that he refused this, as there was no reasonable doubt that Pitezel was killed.

The Judge's charge was on the whole unfavorable to the prisoner. Holmes listened quietly to it, but he seemed nervous. The Judge concluded his charge at 5.45, and the jury retired. A recess was then taken, the Judge announcing to the jury that he would remain in the building.

Story of One of Holmes' Crimes.

Philidelphia, Nov. 2.—Herman W. Mudgett, alias H. H. Holmes, was arraigned in the Criminal Court of Philadelphia for the murder on Sunday, September 2, 1894, at No. 1316, Callowhill-street, of Benjamin F. Pitezel.

Holmes and Pitezel had been friends for years. Pitezel was an illiterate man and was the tool of the superior intelligence of Holmes, being used by the latter to assist him in more than one dishonest scheme. The two planned to swindle the Fidelity Mutual Life Association of Philadelphia out of $10,000. The plot was for Pitezel to take out the policy and then to represent that he died. A bogus corpse was to be substituted for his supposed body. The plot progressed so that Pitezel came to this city and rented the house at No. 1316 Callowhill-street under the name of Benjamin F. Perry.

Pitezel was a man who drank, and when intoxicated he talked of the various schemes that he and Holmes had been in. Then it was, probably, that Holmes conceived the idea of killing him. The theory of the prosecution was that Pitezel must have been in a drunken stupor when Holmes went to the house, and while he was in that condition he chloroformed him to death. Then Holmes arranged the body so as to make it appear as if an explosion had taken place and Pitezel had been killed by it.

Then Holmes, taking Miss Yohe, whom he married, with two other wives living, fled from Philadelphia that night to Indianapolis. Holmes easily persuaded Mrs. Pitezel, who was cognizant of the swindling scheme, that her husband was not dead. He came on here with J. D. Howe, a St. Louis lawyer, and Alice Pitezel, a daughter of the dead man. They identified the body buried in Potter's Field as that of Pitezel and the $10,000 insurance money was paid. Holmes met Mrs. Pitezel and swindled her out of her share, save $500. The woman's share was to have been $10,000, less $25 paid for funeral expenses.

The plot to swindle the insurance company was unexpectedly revealed by a criminal in a Missouri Penitentiary, and a search for Holmes began. With the knowledge of his guilt he fled from city to city, bearing in his train three of the Pitezel children, Mrs. Pitezel and his wife. Not one did he allow these three separate parties to meet. At Indianapolis he is accused of killing the boy Howard. At Toronto he left behind him two more ghastly evidences of his flight in the shape of the two murdered Pitezel children.

It is claimed by the District Attorney of Philadelphia that Holmes' arrest shortly after the killing of the two Pitezel children in Toronto saved the remaining members of the Pitezel family from extermination, for by their deaths only could he come into the possession of the property held by them as Pitezel's heirs.

Weak, Tired, Nervous

Women, who seem to be all worn out, will find in purified blood, made rich and healthy by Hood's Sarsaparilla, permanent relief and strength. The following is from a well known nurse:

"I have suffered for years with female complaints and kidney troubles and I have had a great deal of medical advice during that time, but have received little or no benefit. A friend advised me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and I began to use it, together with Hood's Pills. I have realized more benefit from these medicines than from anything else I have ever taken. From my personal experience I believe Hood's Sarsaparilla to be a most complete blood purifier." MRS. C. CROMPTON, 71 Cumberland St., Toronto, Ontario.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 4. 1895.

THE Conservative Government is nothing if not patriotic. It is expected to carry London with a club—and a Maple (Leaf) club at that.

THE contests in Cardwell, Montreal Centre, et al, will be bye elections. The general elections will be good bye elections to the Ministry.

THE earthquake was felt very lightly in Canada, but the Dominion Government expect distinct shocks in no less than six places on the date of the bye elections.

HON. DR. MONTAGUE calls Mr. Laurier's platform a "kaleidoscopic policy." If the ventose doctor sees stars now what will meet his view when the general elections strike him?

GREAT BRITAIN'S action in declining to any longer admit United States naval cadets to the Royal School of Naval Architecture at Greenwich is regarded by the New York Herald as a recognition by the British of their folly in teaching U. S. naval contractors to design better ships than they themselves can turn out.

WITH thirty or forty of the Government's parliamentary supporters running for "cover," represented by a Senate seat or an office, it is unreasonable to expect Lt.-Governor Chapleau to desert the safe seclusion of Spencerwood. He evidently argues that it is better to enjoy the good things he has than fly to others which he knows not of.

THE United States imported $77,738,727 worth of sugar last year, that being $51,000,000 less than in the preceding year. Coffee imports came to $96,000,000, about $6,000,000 more than in 1894. The total exports in 1894 were $869,404,937; and in 1895, $793,393,599. The imports in 1894 amounted to $654,994,622; and in 1895 to $731,969,965.

THE Montreal Board of Trade has not unreasonably complained of the long existing vacancy in the Collectorship of Customs. In a letter to the Premier it states its case in very strong terms, and plainly says that the non-appointment of a collector is detrimental to the prestige of the chief port of the Dominion. It is to be hoped the Board likes its reply from Sir Mackenzie Bowell, who tells it that the appointment will be attended to "at the earliest practicable moment." It will be interesting to see when that "moment" will arrive.

ACCORDING to The Commercial of Winnipeg, Oct. 21st, it costs 34½ cents to transport a bushel of wheat from Brandon to to the Liverpool docks at the rate now in force. The details are interesting:—Freight to Fort William, 11.40 cents; elevating and inspection at Fort William, .35; freight and insurance to Buffalo, 6.50; elevating at Buffalo, 1.00; canal to New York, 3.00; elevating and charges at New York, 1.50; freight and insurance to London, 6.50; loss of weight in transit, .50; extras not included, 3.00; total 34.25 cents. This does not include loading cars at Brandon or unloading at Liverpool, but includes cost from leaving Brandon to touching dock at Liverpool.

SATURDAY'S Globe has a capital cartoon representing Sir Mackenzie Bowell as a dilapidated Ethiopian, on a fruitless fishing expedition, tramping through a southern swamp, surrounded by converging alligators, with appetites, at whose threatening demonstrations he exclaims: "Golly! what dis nigga gwine ter do?" The two largest and most dangerous saurians are labelled "Cardwell" and "Montreal Centre," while the West Huron, Jacques Cartier, Mississquoi and North Ontario alligators present a most menacing front. The pictures of the reptiles plainly indicate that they have a "vacancy" in their interior for a "nigger" about Sir Mackenzie's size, and all seem determined to have "a piece of him." Uneasy lies the head that is no head.

It's a wonderful age we live in. The end of the nineteenth century "breaks the record" for doing things in new ways. We have the ridiculous spectacle of the rehearsal in New York of the Marlborough-Vanderbilt wedding ceremony and now comes news of a burial service being said at a grave by a phonograph—the most solemn possible ritual performed by machinery. And there was not the excuse there was at the funeral of a prominent citizen in Kingston, where, no minister being available, all being present at the unveiling of Sir John Macdonald's monument, the undertaker was compelled to read the burial service. Verily "the world do move" and it might not be impertinent to enquire as to whither we are drifting. Burying the dead by machinery and proxy, rehearsing a wedding ceremony like a variety show programme, a performance which might make the dead of a past generation turn uneasily in their dusty beds.

THE HONEY LOCUST AS A HEDGE SHRUB.

Experiments Demonstrate Its Unsuitability.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—In the 1894 Ottawa Experimental Farm Report they give their experience with thirty different kinds of trees and shrubs for hedges. Amongst these is the honey locust, whose qualities are given below, and I understand it will soon be offered by agents to the farmers of this county. If you would kindly publish the report in THE WEEKLY EXAMINER, farmers will know before purchasing how unsuitable it is for a hedge and this knowledge may save some of them from being deceived, if that is possible.

Yours truly,
J. M. DRUMMOND.

The following is the report referred to:

"Honey Locust.—Planted in 1889, height 4 feet 3 inches, width near base 4 feet. This tree has a beautiful fern-like foliage, but it is too tender for the Ottawa district. Trees planted singly are occasionally found to be quite hardy, but in hedges they kill out more or less, making the hedge irregular and unsightly. This tree is also a very strong grower, and hence requires more frequent clipping to keep it in shape than most others, which makes it less desirable for this purpose. It is quite hardy in western Ontario, where it is being used in some localities to a considerable extent for farm hedges. Its rapid growth makes it very unsuitable for this purpose, as the cost of labour required to keep a hedge of honey locust in good shape would be much more than the price of ordinary fencing, and if neglected each specimen struggles to become a tree; the more vigorous rapidly outgrow and smother the weaker ones, and the plantation soon becomes unsightly."

HUSTLING HAVELOCK.

From a Correspondent.

Nothing definite can be ascertained respecting the village candidates for municipal honours for 1896. Reeve Joyce has been interviewed regarding his intentions of offering himself again as a candidate, but is decidedly non-committal. "It will depend on circumstances," he stated to your correspondent, "and those circumstances depend on what use is made against myself and the council in connection with the arbitration between Mr. Thos. Mellon and the municipality. Personally, I am not ambitious for another term—having served the village during the past three years to the best of my ability. I am quite willing to step down and out, and let some other man try his hand, provided I am allowed to do so in the way that any man should who has given a fair share of his time to the best of his ability to help on a new corporation. I am not seeking the reeveship again, but I have no reason to fear another contest if it is necessary." Among the names I have heard mentioned as men who will make good reeves are Mr. Jas. Bryans, Mr. Alex Macauley, Dr. Jeffs and Councillor Knox."

It is also stated that none of the present councillors are anxious for re-election. This would be a loss to the village, as nearly all of them have the confidence of the electors, and have gained considerable knowledge of municipal matters.

The village clerk, Mr. Richard Philips, who has held the position for the past two years, has stated that he will not accept the position again next year, his business requiring all his attention.

Mr. McClelland, who was to have started a new jewellery store in the village has not yet opened out. Some difficulty has arisen between him and Mr. Ackerman, of Norwood, respecting premises which have been fitted up for him, and it is stated the matter is to be threshed out in the courts.

Two dentists from Norwood visit the village weekly in their professional capacity—Mr. T. R. Oliver on Tuesdays, and Mr. W. S. Hall on Fridays.

Mrs. Richard Phillips, who has been visiting friends at a distance for a week or more, returned home Saturday.

Mr. Thos. Beggley, of Peterborough, has been awarded the contract for bricking the English church rectory.

The regular communication of Havelock Lodge A.F. & A.M. was held last Friday night in their new lodge room, and a lot of good work was done.

Quite a number of parties have gone north from here deer hunting.

Hallow'een was celebrated here in due and ancient style. The boys, instead of painting the town red, painted it white. A procession of about 50 of the youngsters armed with the painters paste pail, started out in the evening on a tour round the village and treated the store windows and buildings to a coat of whitewash. Signs were removed and some of them broken, and other amusements indulged in. The village constables did not interfere, with the gamins, and they held high carnival for a few hours to their heart's content.

Mr. James Graham, proprietor of the Graham House, is putting a new addition to the rear of the hotel. He has also built a fine new stable in the yard, and made other improvements which had been demanded for some time. The dining room of the hotel has been covered with a new and cosy looking carpet, which improves the appearance of the room very much.

A NEW CLUB.

Name Suggested for a New Social Organization in London.

LONDON, (Special) Oct. 28.—It has been facetiously suggested that a new social club in process of organization in this city should be entitled "The Dodd's Kidney Pill Club" as the present members are all enthusiastic advocates of that remedy and in common with many other citizens declare that in all cases of kidney trouble no other agent has been found so completely effective. Most Londoners have at their fingers' ends the particulars of the many marvellous cures through the use of this specific. In every drug store in the city the medicine is kept in large quantities and warmly recommended.

Fort William, Ont.

Mr. William Day, of Fort William, Ont. says: Two years ago my wife was very ill with dyspepsia. No remedy that she could find gave any relief. Finally she tried Burdock Blood Bitters, and after taking six bottles was entirely cured. That is now more than two years ago and she has had no return of the malady. I also have had occasion to use B. B. B. and I cannot speak too highly in its favour. I always recommend it to my friends and in every case with good results. Yours truly, WM. DAY.

THE FRENCH TREATY

Importers Protesting Against the Regulations.

CIRCULAR SENT TO COLLECTORS.

The Clause Requiring Proof Other Than the Invoices Causes a Storm of Harsh Criticism From Importers —A Chinese Firm in Montreal in Trouble Over Opium.

Ottawa, Nov. 3.—The Department of Customs has come in for considerable harsh criticism of late from merchants importing wines and other goods under the new French treaty. These importations were made early in the summer, and the goods left in bond pending the formal proclamation of the treaty. When the treaty was proclaimed to be in force, there was a rush of entries and in very many cases it was found that the importers had neglected to secure any evidence that the goods, chiefly wines, came from France. Such evidence was insisted on, but the insistence raised no end of a storm among importers. Many of them openly declared that the Customs requirements destroyed all the advantages of the treaty, and complaints to that effect poured into the Department all last week. The outcome has been the issue of a circular to collectors throughout the Dominion, which it is hoped will remove all difficulty. The departmental instructions are designed to facilitate entry by affording importers time to furnish proof that their goods are really entitled to the benefits of the treaty. The circular reads:

"It having come to the notice of this department that wines and other goods claimed to be of French origin, or the origin of some one of the countries named in the memorandum, are being entered at various ports under the French treaty without the production of proper evidence of the origin thereof, you are hereby notified that the invoices of such wines and other goods must be accompanied by a British Consul's certificate or other equally conclusive and satisfactory proof showing the origin thereof.

"In cases of importations of such goods already in the country, where the Consul's certificate has not been obtained, entry may be accepted under the treaty upon condition that the importer gives his undertaking that such certificate or equally conclusive and satisfactory proof will be furnished within a reasonable time to be named, and in default of which to amend the entry and pay the additional duty, such undertaking to be written on the face of the entry and signed by the importer; and as to all importations to arrive, the consul's certificate or equally conclusive and satisfactory proof of the origin of the goods must be furnished with the invoice at the time of entry."

The maritime list of appeals was concluded in the Supreme Court Saturday, the last case on the list having been settled out of court. Mowat v. Boston Marine Insurance Co. was argued on appeal from the decision of the New Brunswick Supreme Court on a special case.

The action was on a marine policy insuring appellant's goods on a schooner for a particular voyage. It was an open policy and on the certificate was a clause providing that the company should not be liable for partial loss, except from special perils. The policy itself limited the liability to a percentage. The court below held that the certificate governed and gave judgment for the company. Judgment was reserved. Palmer Q.C., for appellant; Weldon, Q.C., for respondent.

The court adjourned until Wednesday next, the 6th, when the case of Delap v. Charlebois will be argued.

A Chinese firm in Montreal, Quon Lung & Co., is in trouble with the customs over the possession of about 55 pounds of prepared opium. The report of the officer who made the seizure of the drug and arrested Quon Lung, states that the opium was undoubtedly smuggled. The opium was prepared for smoking and is valued at $10 a pound, the duty being $5 a pound.

WM. McCURDY DEAD.

A Man From Vienna, Ont., Falls From a C.P.R. Train Near Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Nov. 3.—William McCurdy died in the General Hospital here to-day, the result of an accident on the C.P.R. a short distance east of the city. McCurdy came west two months ago from Vienna, Ont., to work in the harvest fields. He was employed near Brandon. Being unable to collect his wages he attempted to steal a ride home. He got this far on the way, when he fell off, and his leg was severed. He was taken to the hospital, where the wound was dressed, but he succumbed to the shock. McCurdy was about 24 years old.

What Should Influence You in the Purchase of a

PIANO?

If within the last 40 years we have grown from one small factory to have the largest in Canada, and from one factory wareroom to a branch wareroom in some of the largest cities and towns in the Dominion, is it not a safe argument in favour of our goods?

Can we afford to throw away for a few dollars profit a reputation which we have gained by years of hard, honest work?

In selling a Piano there is something more than the profit on the immediate sale. There is the opportunity of making other sales where goods prove reliable.

Is it unreasonable for us to say that being the manufacturers of reliable instruments we are in the position to save you the dealer's or jobber's profit, and that our guarantee upon a Piano means 100 cents on the dollar?

Band Instruments, small Musical Instruments, newest Sheet Music, and fittings for all instruments always in stock.

Daily Examiner.

MONDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1895.

DAILY MOTTO.

[Under this heading it is proposed to give a few lines suggesting some wise, good or helpful thought for thoughtful people.

Mr. John Morley, in an address on popular culture, refers to the value of the habit of devoting a few moments daily to meditation. "You may," he says, "have often heard from others, or may have found out, how good it is to have on your shelves, however scantily furnished they may be, three or four of those books to which it is well to give ten minutes every morning before going down into the battle and choking dust of the day. Men will name these books for themselves. One will choose the Bible, another Goethe, one Imitation of Christ, another Wordsworth. Perhaps it matters little what it be, so long as your writer has cheerful seriousness, elevation, calm, and above all, a sense of use and strength, which shall open out the day before you and bestow gifts of fortitude and mastery."]

Nov. 4.—"For every good deed of ours, the world will be the better always, and perhaps no day does a man walk down a street cheerfully, and like a child of God, without some passengers being brightened by his face, and unknowingly to himself catching from its look a something of religion."

"Be sure no earnest work
Of any honest creature, howbeit weak,
Imperfect, ill-adapted, fails so much.
It is not gathered as a grain of sand
To enlarge the sum of human action used
For carrying out God's end."

A Centenarian.

At the Indian Village on Chemong lake, there resides an Indian patriarch, who on close investigation as to events that he can remember, must be touching on a hundred years of age. His name is Johnston, and he is the grandfather of the Johnstons who have distinguished themselves on many occasions as paddlers. Mr. Johnston is still in good health, and retains all his faculties. He can graphically describe a trip made on these lakes by Sir John Colborne when he was Governor of Upper Canada, how the Governor was rowed by a four-oared crew in a big punt.

ADULTERATED MILK.

The Cheese Factories After the Patrons Three Cases Disposed of.

Five of the county farmers were before Police Magistrate Edmison this morning charged with adulterating the milk which they sent to the cheese factory.

Charles Simpson, Belmont; Robert Brown, Trent Bridge, and Thos. Pugh, Otonabee, all settled by paying over $15 to the respective factories complaining, and paying the costs imposed by the magistrate.

Frederick Payne, of Dummer, pleaded "not guilty" to the charge, and though it was clearly proven by the tester, that the milk had been adulterated, yet the magistrate reserved judgment, as he was inclined to the belief that someone had tampered with the milk with the express object of getting Mr. Payne into trouble. Mr. and Mrs. Payne both swore that the milk to their knowledge had never been adulterated, and as their name for probity stands very high in the community this testimony was considered to relieve them of the blame in the matter.

The case against John Taylor, of Otonabee, is being tried this afternoon.

HARLEY DAVIDSON GONE OVER TO BUFFALO TO-DAY.

He Will try and get Another Quad to Replace the Present one.

Harley Davidson left for Buffalo this morning to see if he could pick up a "quad" to replace the one which was broken at the track on Saturday morning. He will probably return to town on Tuesday.

On Saturday afternoon it was demonstrated that the tandems are not fast enough to pace the crack young rider, as in an exhibition half-mile he was continually calling to them to "go on." The half-mile was made in one minute and seven seconds and this is good time when it is taken into consideration that the track was soft and sticky and that Davidson had to ride on the outer edge where it was the firmest and was not even stripped.

It was no day to ride for a record, but as the crowd wished to see Davidson ride he was persuaded by Geo. Horkins to give an exhibition half.

A NEW SCHOOL SECTION.

There is One Needed Just North of the Town Limits.

On Friday evening last a number of the representative farmers of the township of Smith gathered at the residence of Mr. John Sanderson to discuss the advisability of forming another school section in the township, just north of the town limits.

It seems that the present school, which is situated about two miles out on the Chemong Road, is thought to be too far away to suit the convenience of the scholars who reside just outside the town, and as it is, the school is said to be very much overcrowded and many children who have arrived at the proper age are, therefore, not sent to be educated.

There would be about fifty scholars in the proposed new section, and it is thought that the present section will offer no objection to the division, as otherwise the school will assuredly have to be enlarged and another teacher engaged. Messrs. John J. Hartley, A. E. Dixon and Solomon Northey have been appointed a committee to enquire into the preliminaries.

No Sliding Scale.

We say frankly that we do not attempt to push prices so low for Oak Hall Clothing that quality must be sacrificed. We are anxious that Oak Hall Clothing should be reliable, rather than cheap. No sliding scale of prices at Oak Hall. No "cutting," except the stylish cuts our tailors give them.—Oak Hall, Peterborough.

"Be Cautious."

On buying China, Glassware, Silverware, &c., see that you get the best value for your money. Prices that may seem low, compared with last year or two years ago, would be high compared with this year's values. China Hall is leading in low prices, as it always has, and it will pay you to buy direct from us anything you may need in the above lines, as we will positively sell the same goods lower than any other house in the trade

Thrown from the C. P. R. Bridge.

Yesterday afternoon as one of the large grey hounds owned at the Grand Central Hotel was crossing the C. P. R. bridge, a train caught it on the ties, and throwing it high in the air, caught it again, and threw it into the water. The dog swam ashore, and is to-day apparently none the worse of the incident. In case of its being killed the loss would have been no small one, as the hound is from imported stock, and is considered one of the best types in Canada.

UNCLE SAM'S TOBACCO CURE, CHICAGO, ILL. GENTLEMEN:—Regarding my opinion of the "Uncle Sam's Tobacco Cure," I would say: I have used the "filthy weed" for over thirty years, but after using the "Uncle Sam's Tobacco Cure" one week, I lost all taste or desire for it. This is some two months ago. Respectfully, JOHN G. LEE. Call at J. Lynch's drug store, Hunter street, and get a box of tablets.

for the closing end of this year, will be the clearing boom now on at the Peterborough Bookstore, to be kept booming during the whole of the month of November, or until such time as the entire heavy stock has all been captured by bargain seekers. Prices have been literally cut in two—the object being to make a speedy clearance during this fine Indian Summer weather, and thus make room for a big holiday stock to arrive for Xmas. Cornice poles and window shades are included in the boom—prices for which will be rock bottom. A. H. STRATTON & Co.

Almost a Fatality.

On Saturday last Mr. Angus Watt, residing in Haliburton, met with an accident that was nearly fatal. He was engaged in hauling the dead carcass of a beef, by the means of a pully suspended to a high cross beam into a position that it could be skinned and dressed. He was standing under the cross beam and pulling with all his strength on the rope, when the gear which connected the pulley with the beam broke, and the pulley descended with a sickening thud on Mr. Watt's head. He was struck to the ground, and became unconscious. Dr. Giles was immediately sent for, who found that the unfortunate man was in a comatose, unconscious condition, that there were two serious bruises on the frontal bone near the frontal sinus, and that there was contusion and slight congestion of the brain. The blow inflicted by the pulley was a very heavy one, and Mr. Watt may be grateful that his skull was strong that no fracture could take place.

"CHRIST IN SOCIAL AND BUSINESS LIFE."

REV. J. J. RAE TAKES THIS AS THE SUBJECT OF A SERMON.

The Words "I Can't" and "It's Impracticable" Responsible for the State of the World To-day—A Powerful Address on an Interesting Subject.

There was a large congregation in attendance at the Charlotte street church last night, and the seating capacity was taxed to its utmost limit.

The subject of the sermon was "Christ in Social and Business Life," and the text was taken from John xvii., 15, "I pray not that thou shouldest take them out of the world but that thou shouldst keep them from the evil.' In opening Rev. J. J. Rae, the pastor, asked the question, what relation Christ sustained to when in this world. Christ entered into social life, was reckoned as a wine bibber and as a friend of publicans and sinners. He expected human hospitality and appreciated it, and on several occasions himself became a sumptuous entertainer. He entered into business life sufficiently to give recognition to business honour, business integrity, courtesy and to the claims of human brotherhood.

In both social and business life, with the most withering scorn he exposed and denounced fraud, pretence and sham, and yet this Christ was put to death at the hands of men. Would men do otherwise if He were in the world to-day? This may, perhaps, said he, be best answered by querying, would He do otherwise were He in the world to-day? Christ did not enter of business principles, or lay down rules for the reformation of social life, and we shall not attempt to do so or enlighten practical business men who know vastly more of their own affairs than any, not directly engaged in business, can ever hope to attain. His confidence for the world's reform is the confidence of all true reformers to-day, which confidence is two fold. First in Divine power and second in earnest human purpose.

Dependence on power outside ourselves, continued Mr. Rae, is the secret of civilization. We cannot run farther or faster than the Aborginal Indian, but we can run from Halifax to Victoria without fatigue by dependence on POWER OUTSIDE OURSELVES.

We can't accomplish as much by individual effort perhaps as in the past, but one man stands at Niagara Falls and chains down 1-10 of one per cent, of its power and offers to light the city of New York on one side and Chicago on the other by dependence on power outside himself. So this is the secret of moral civilization. God is the power outside ourselves and He is at our service in this work.

The examples of individuals and moral reforms which had been accomplished through dependence on divine power were here cited.

In the second place this divine power is valueless without the strong mechanism of earnest human purpose. Man is God's dynamo, through which the currents of divine power are to be SENT INTO THE WORLD.

The failure of the past in the reformation of social and business life can all be credited to the absence of this human purpose, "I can't" has cursed the world, "It is impracticable," has ruined age after age. Look at the world to-day. You say the world ought to be converted to Jesus Christ. It can't be done. It is impracticable you say, to convert this Dominion of Canada. The same answer is given. You say convert this town. "It can't be done." You say, take one step in advance anyway—cannot the Town Council retain its good men and supply the best men in the town for the management of the town's interests. "It can't be done. It's impracticable." You go and you say stop drinking, stop gambling, stop swearing, stop evidencing bad temper and you are met with the same answer, "I can't. I'd like to but I can't."

TO THE INDIVIDUAL

We meet all these statements by this. Whatever is right may be done. Whatever is right is invincible. God waits to-day for the men who will say "it can be done." Christ intends to redeem this world. Not to pick off a few to salvation eternal, but to redeem the institution. The time of perfect revolution, concluded Mr. Rae, will come when the individual will rise and say "I can do right," "I can say the right," "I can be right."

So near is glory to our dust,
So close is God to man;
When duty whispers low "thou must,"
The soul replies "I can."

God is waiting to save the world, waiting for the men through whom the world can be saved. The question of the hour is "Am I one of God's men?"

Next Sunday evening Rev. Mr. Rae will speak on "Christ and the Sabbath Day."

THE MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION.

A Special Evening to be Devoted to Sermons to Young Men.

The Ministerial Association held its regular monthly meeting this morning at the residence of Rev. A. MacWilliams.

It was agreed that Sunday evening, November 17th, should be set apart in each church for the deliverance of special sermons to young men and the following plan of pulpit exchange was arranged for that evening:

Murray street—Rev. Mr. Beer.
Mark street—Rev. J. C. Trotter.
St. Andrew's—Rev. W. R. Young, B. A.
George street—Rev. Dr. Torrance.
St. Paul's—Rev. J. J. Rae.
Charlotte street—Rev. A. MacWilliams.

It was decided that the annual Thanksgiving service be held at 11 o'clock a. m. and that the collections be equally divided between the Children's Aid Society and the Peterborough Protestant Home.

Rev. Mr. Cragg read a paper on "Whom does the Lord Jesus make Himself." The essay was full of grand thought and was favourably commented upon by all present.

Rev. Mr. Kitts, a returned missionary from China briefly addressed those present just previous to adjournment. The next meeting will be held at the George street church parsonage.

THE ANNUAL SERMON TO THE TRUE BLUES.

A Large Procession is Formed and Marches to St. Andrew's Church.

The members of Queen's Own Lodge of Loyal True Blues attended divine worship last evening in a body at St. Andrew's church.

Invitations had been issued to the Orange and 'Prentice Boys' lodges in the district, and deputations were present from Nos. 49 and 80, Peterborough; No. 321 Downer's Corners, and No. 457, Nassau L.O.L., and Lodge No. 7 of the 'Prentice Boys.

The Marshall of the day was Mr. George Sloan, Deputy Grand Master of the True Blues. Past Grand Master Robert Weir, of the Black Knights of Ireland, and Past County Master W. J. Green, were also in attendance.

The procession formed at the True Blues' Hall and, headed by the Fire Brigade Band, marched to St. Andrew's church, where it had been arranged that Rev. A. MacWilliams was to preach to them their annual sermon. Unfortunately the pastor of St. Andrew's was too ill to occupy his pulpit, but his place was filled most acceptably by Rev. A. F. Tully, of Smith, who gave the assembled members of the different orders some valuable advice in the course of his remarks, the sermon being based on the text: "To the law and to the testimony; if they speak not according to this word, it is because there is no light in them." Isaiah viii., 20.

At the conclusion of the service the procession was re-formed and, headed by the band, marched back to the True Blues' Hall, where it disbanded. A large number of the members of the Lakefield lodge of True Blues drove down to attend the service.

The music by St. Andrew's choir during the evening was of a high order and was correspondingly appreciated. "The King of Love My Shepherd Is," and "O Lord How Manifold" were the two anthems sung, and the manner of their production reflected great credit on Mr. G. W. Mulligan, the painstaking choirmaster.

THE LeBRUN - STRICKLAND PARTY.

The Camp Now Complete—All are at Belle Chasse.

The Le Brun-Strickland hunting party is now complete, as this morning Messrs. H. LeBrun, W. H. Beadburn, H. C. Winch, H. Phelan, R. A. Morrow, Arthur Stevenson, W. Gould and George Cochrane left for Belle Chasse, Mr. LeBrun's lodge at Stoney Lake, where Messrs. Strickland, Hatton and Ruddy are awaiting them.

The steamer Undine has been placed at the disposal of the party and will be of great assistance in taking the hunters from the camp to the scene of operations each day.

Mr. C. LeBrun will also go back to Stony Lake for a week later on and join the party.

Tommy Hooper has been engaged as cook and the services of two guides have been secured, so that the entire party numbers fourteen, not including the crew of the Undine.

On Saturday afternoon Mr. Geo. Hatton sent a fine hind quarter of a buck, which he had shot, in to Mr. Alex. Elliott.

HALLOWE'EN VANDALISM.

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—It is about time the Council should take notice of and protect the town against wanton destruction of property. Not much harm could be done by boys, but if such as claim to be men find amusement in causing loss to property, such deserve treatment as thieves. Serious consequences may be the results if property holders have to protect their property against vandalism, which has to be done in future if our town guardians do not take notice thereof.

Thanking you. Yours truly,

L. A. W.

PERSONAL.

Rev. A. MacWilliams is confined to his room through the effects of a heavy cold.

Mrs. John Webster has returned from Warkworth, where she was called by the death of her mother.

Mr. Allan Charles, of the Paris branch of the Bank of Commerce, who is absent on sick leave, spent Sunday in town as the guest of Mr. MacGachan, of the Bank of Montreal.

At the conclusion of the W. C. T. U. Convention in Hamilton, a memorial service was conducted in honour of those members who had died during the year. Among these was Mrs. (Dr.) Tassie, Peterborough.

Rev. W. R. Young, pastor of the George street Methodist church and representative of the Bay of Quinte Conference, on the Board of Management of Alma College, St. Thomas, left for that city to-day to attend the meeting of the Board.

The Bobcaygeon Independent says:—"County Engineer Belcher and County Solicitor Stratton, of Peterborough, were in town on Sunday, on their way home from Kinmount, where they had been on business in connection with that old sore, the inter-county dispute over boundary bridges.

A cough which persists day after day, should not be neglected any longer. It means something more than a mere local irritation, and the sooner it is relieved the better. Take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is prompt to act and sure to cure.

Like a Swelling Tide.

Is the increasing demand for Osh-k-Osh Tea. This is the best forty cent tea on the Canadian market. This is no idle talk boast. It stays at the head of the head of its class, and is being sold at the low figure of twenty-five cents. Like our thirty-five cent tea, it is a leader; but unlike it in this respect—you can always buy our thirty-five cent tea for thirty-five cents, but shortly you will have to pay forty cents for Osh-k-Osh. Stroud Bros., 370 George street, Peterborough, also at Montreal, Ottawa, Kingston and Toronto. m

Gates Not Recovered.

Although no complaints were made to the police concerning the mischief which the boys wrought on Hallowe'en, it is understood to have been considerable. A number of gates were carried away and thrown into Whyte's pond. Their recovery will entail considerable expense, and it is probable that the matter will come before the magistrate. In this case the fun has been carried too far. There may not be any harm in hanging a gate on a lamp post, but it is quite a different matter to totally destroy it or to make away with it entirely. It is at this point that the law steps in as a factor in settling the damages.

Illegal Fishing.

"It would seem," says the Lakefield News, "that there have been a good many violations of the Fishery Act this season at Stony Lake with regard to catching salmon with nets and a number of the fishermen will no doubt pay a big price for their sport. On Tuesday Mr. George Fitzgerald, Dominion Fishery Inspector made conviction against some twelve or thirteen Peterborough men of illegal fishing, and a fine of $1 was imposed in each case. Mr. Jas. Moore, Ontario Government Inspector, also has information out against about fifteen offenders and captured a large quantity of netting. The cases will come up before Mr. John Hull, J.P., in a day or so." The Peterborough offenders were camping parties who were caught catching the lake trout out of season and considered that one dollar was a small amount to pay for the fun which they had.

A Great Book Free.

When Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., published the first edition of his great work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, he announced that after 680,000 copies had been sold at the regular price, $1.50 per copy, the profit on which would repay him for the great amount of labour and money expended in producing it, he would distribute the next half million free. As this number of copies has already been sold, he is now giving away absolutely free, 500,000 copies of this most complete, interesting and valuable common sense medical work ever published—the recipient only being required to mail to him, at above address, thirty one (31) one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only, and the book will be sent post paid. It is a veritable medical library, complete in one volume. Contains 1008 pages, profusely illustrated. The Free Edition is precisely the same as that sold at $1.50, except only that the books are in strong manilla paper covers instead of cloth. Send NOW before all are given away.

CHURCH CHIMES.

Rev. Mr. Pady conducted services at the Park street Baptist church yesterday.

Efforts are being made to commence occasional services at two new stations in the country.

The annual tea and sale of work by the Ladies' Aid of St. Luke's, will be given on Tuesday, Dec. 3rd.

Mrs. Barrie sang the solo "One Day Nearer Home" in excellent voice, in the George street Methodist church yesterday.

The Women's Auxiliary of St. Luke's Church is arranging for an "at home," when Miss Symonds will give an address on work amongst the Indians.

There will be divine service at Auburn on Thursday next at 7.30 p.m., and on Friday at the same hour in St. Luke's church, when Rev. W. L. Baynes Reid will deliver an address.

On Friday next Rev. H. Symonds will deliver the second of a course of lectures given on behalf of St. Hilda's College (the Ladies College affiliated to Trinity University) in St. George's Hall, Toronto.

On Thanksgiving evening special services will be held in the Park street Baptist church. The sermon will be delivered by Rev. W. S. McAlpin, B.A., of the Kenilworth Avenue Baptist church, Toronto.

The rector of St. Luke's will preach the re-opening sermons at St. Mark's church, Port Hope, on Sunday next, and the services at St. Luke's will be conducted in the morning by Rev. Carl Smith, and in the evening by Rev. E. V. Stephenson, of St. John's church, Peterborough.

The continuation of the anniversary services at St. John's were, so to speak, successful from every point of view. At the Parochial Communion, served at 11 o'clock, there was a good attendance and a very large number communicated. Rev. E. V. Stephenson preached an excellently appropriate sermon. The music was of a high order.

Items of Interest to Local Sportsmen —Athletic and Field Sports.

RUGBY FOOTBALL.

Peterborough's first game of Rugby football this season was played at the Driving Park on Saturday afternoon when the home team was defeated by the first fifteen from Trinity University, Toronto, by the score of 10—6.

The game was devoid of that brilliancy which characterized it as played in Peterborough last year. "Pap" Moore's great runs down the field were missed, as was the work of Liefe at quarter, Strickland in the scrimmage and Bell, Moore and McIntosh on the wings. The local team needs a good shaking up before it will be in any kind of shape to play with a fast team. The scrimmage is not heavy enough for one thing and Trinity had just there. LeFevre's weight would tell in this position and this is where he should be found in the next match. The local wings held their own in the second half far better than in the first, and Rev. Stephenson particularly distinguished himself.

The passing back from the quarter to the halves was not as accurate as it should have been, though Sam Adams knew what to do with the ball when he did get it and his kicking was one of the features of the day. LeFevre's long punts down the field when he took advantage of the free kicks which were awarded Peterborough, were a revelation and if Trinity had not possessed so good a full back the score would probably have been different, but Southorn invariably returned the ball and sent it far into Peterborough's territory. Southorn formerly played with Hamilton and was by far on the field Saturday, though he had three splendid half-backs in front of him.

The game began at a quarter to three, the two teams lining up as follows:

Trinity		Peterborough.
Southorn	back	Dave Rogers
Campbell	halves	LeFevre
Chadwick		McKenzie
Rev Bedford-Jones		S Adams
N C Jones	quarter	Lionel King
Gynn	scrimmage	McGachan
Warren		Keogh
Swayne		Wilgar
Baldwin	wings	Stephenson
Cooper		Kerr
Beecher		Poussette
White		Lambe
Packenham		Gordon
Bushel		Hicks
Bradburn		Montgomery

Referee—Rev Mr McKenzie.

At the start Peterborough had rather the best of it for the first ten minutes and the battle raged all along Trinity's twenty-five yard line, but the heavier weight of Trinity began to tell after this and the ball was gradually worked down into Peterborough's territory and when the scrimmage was just on the home team's twenty-five yard line a local man became too anxious and was discovered offside. The visitors were awarded and the ball sailed fairly over the goal and Trinity scored first blood. Score 2—0.

A FREE KICK

It was Peterborough's kick off, but Lefevre's long punt was finally returned by Southorn and Trinity's forwards, following up, forced Rogers to rouge. Score 3—0.

The local men steadied down after this and did some creditable work, LeFevre making a good catch and King doing some good work at quarter, whilst Adams and McKenzie contrived to do some effective passing. Just here it might be well to suggest that the local team should devote more attention to the passing game. Little, indeed, of it was done by either Peterborough or Trinity on Saturday, and it is a feature which makes the game far more interesting to watch and is at the same time most effective.

Trinity again scored, when one of her men with the ball and the try was converted into a goal. Score, 9 0.

Immediately afterwards Trinity rushed the ball down on Peterborough's goal again and once more Rogers had to rouge. Score, 10-0.

Half time was soon after announced and the two teams changed goals and the big crowd of spectators grew more interested, as Peterborough had the name of doing great things on the home stretch. The boys seemed to know that something exceptionally brilliant was required of them, and they worked hard to prevent Trinity running up a larger score against them. Trinity's heavy scrimmage, however, forced the lighter local men slowly, but surely, back to Peterborough's 25 yard line, and things were looking pretty blue for the home team, when McKenzie, who had several times for taking advantage of every opportunity for a run, suddenly saw a chance, and with the ball snugly stowed away under his arm, made a dash down the field with all the brilliancy which used to characterize Moore's rushes. As he successfully dodged or downed those who sought to tackle him a cheer passed down the whole line. Rev. Bedford-Jones, however, could not be evaded, and with a low tackle brought McKenzie to the earth. Just as he fell, however, he passed to Montgomery who was just at his heels and "Monty," equal to the emergency, secured the ball and though half a dozen hands were on him managed to wiggle across the line for a touch and try. Score, 10—4.

LeFevre successfully converted the try into a goal by one of his famous kicks. Score, 10—6.

Try as they would, encouraged by the cheers of the crowd, Peterborough could not score another point, although Trinity very nearly scored a goal by a flying kick from the field, the ball striking the post and bounding back.

NOTES.

Rev. Mr. Mackenzie, of Lakefield, refereed the game in a most satisfactory manner, and being an expert at the game may possibly be induced to play with Peterborough in her next match.

Poussette had a hard man to hold on his wing, and half the amusement of the afternoon was furnished by these two.

Trinity came down one man short and were helped out by Mr. Frank Packenham, who played on a wing for them.

It is possible that W. J. Drope may again go into training and take his old place in the scrimmage.

The number of spectators in attendance is a proof of the fact that the popularity of Rugby Football is on the increase in Peterborough.

The local team does not play the same game along the side line which told to such advantage last year.

Messrs. Geo. A. Horkins and W. J. Drope kindly officiated as line judges during the afternoon.

There was a large number of ladies in attendance.

THREE TRAMPS FROM HAVELOCK.

They are Brought Before the County Police Magistrate.

Constable Williams, of Havelock, came up to town Saturday evening with three tramps giving the names respectively of James Charlton Williams, Ned Kelly and Ed. O'Brien, charged by Mr. George Beebe with being drunk and disorderly and breaking into his house.

The men, it appears, are on their way to Lakefield, working on the Trent Valley Canal and got off on a big drunk at Havelock. They entered Mr. Beebe's house, and sitting down refused, he says, to leave, hence the arrest and charge.

The men have plenty of money on their persons, and can remember nothing of the occurrence being drunk at the time. Williams, especially, who is one of Her Majesty's pensioners, seems to feel the disgrace of being locked up very much.

The case comes before the Magistrate to-morrow morning.

RAILWAY NOTES.

Sparks of News From the Whirling Wheels—Interesting Cinders for the Eye.

G. T. R. conductors say that more hunters are passing over the line this season than ever before.

The Barrie and Allandale Electric Street Railway Co., limited, has been incorporated, with a capital stock of $50,000.

During 1894 a total of 6,447 persons were killed and 31,889 injured on the railways of the United States. Of the killed 1,823 were employees, 324 passengers and 4,300 were "other persons."

It is said the G. T. R. shops at Brockville and Belleville will be removed to Kingston and if so, Belleville will claim a refund of the $25,000 bonus given the G. T. R. some years ago to secure the shops there.

A Shameful Practice.

Many tooth preparations contain substances that speedily destroy the enamel and beauty of the teeth. For this reason the greatest care should be exercised in the selection of a dentrifice. Ivorine for the teeth is offered with the assurance that it is absolutely free from objectionable ingredients. An admirable cleanser is Ivorine, imparting dazzling whiteness to the teeth, firmness to the gums, and renders the breath sweet and fragrant.

"Remarkable Cure of Dropsy and Dyspepsia."

Mr. Samuel T. Casey, Belleville, writes: "In the spring of 1884 I began to be troubled with dyspepsia, which gradually became more and more distressing. I used various domestic remedies, and applied to my family physician, but received no benefit. By this time my trouble assumed the form of dropsy. I was unable to use any food whatever, except boiled bread and milk; my limbs were swollen to twice their natural size. Northrop & Lyman's Vegetable Discovery having been recommended to me, I tried a bottle with but little hope of relief; and now, after using eight bottles my dropsy and dyspepsia are cured. Although now 79 years of age I can enjoy my meals as well as ever, and my general health is good. I am well known in this section of Canada, having lived here fifty-seven years; and you have liberty to use my name in recommendation of your Vegetable Discovery, which has done such wonders in my case."

WORLD OF SPORTS.

Little Rock, Ark., Nov. 1.—Both the Corbett and Fitzsimmons cases have been postponed until to-morrow. Chancellor Martin this morning issued a temporary injunction restraining all the pugilists, their backers and trainers, the Hot Springs A.C., and the officers of Hot Springs from bringing off any fight. This settles any fighting in Arkansas for at least 90 days, when the writ is returnable. It was intended to pull off the Maher and O'Donnell mill Monday at Hot Springs, and for Smith and Ryan to try conclusions at the same place on the following day.

Fitzsimmons, Corbett, Brady and Julian are to-night asleep in their respective hotels, guarded by deputy sheriffs.

The Racing Results

Athletic and General Notes

Pugilist Jack Dempsey died yesterday at Portland, Oregon.

A well-known sporting man who arrived in New York from London on last Saturday, says that while abroad he met Peter Jackson several times. "Peter is not dissipating as much as he used to," said the sporting man, "but he is not taking care of himself by any means. I asked him what he thought of the coming contest between Fitzsimmons and Corbett. He said that it would be a fine match, one of skill and possibly endurance. He thinks Corbett clever, but is certain that Fitz will overbalance this by his hitting abilities, Peter is going to open a public house, and has abandoned the ring forever."

BRADLEY WANTS FIFTY DOLLARS.

For Board of the Wrecked Crew of the Severn and Salvage of Goods—Decision Reserved

Wiarton, Ont., Nov. 1.—The adjourned hearing of the Bradley case, wherein the accused was charged with the unlawful detention of goods, was held before Magistrate ark this afternoon, continuing from 2 o'clock until 9 this evening, with a short adjournment at 6 o'clock.

Considerable interest was manifested, as Bradley has been in town under surveillance since Monday, and has been during that time freely expressing his opinions and prejudices.

W. H. Gordon, acting for the prosecution, called three witnesses, Capt. Silversides, Mate James Mann and Seaman Malcolm Morrison.

The captain's evidence was characteristic of what he did not remember rather than what has passed between himself and the prisoner, but in the evidence of Mann it was adduced that Bradley had been paid $25.50 for board of seven people for one week; services in saving goods from the wreck and supply of tobacco. Payment had been made in two installments. For the first no receipt was taken, but when the second payment was made the bill was itemised and receipted.

The day previous to last payment Bradley had told the mate that he claimed $50 for saving life, and for damage to his boat, while bringing goods from the wreck, but no more was said about it until some minutes after the receipt mentioned had been given. Payment of the additional amount was refused and Bradley was arrested for retaining the goods, and while he has been here Constable St. John, vested with authority from the local bench, has taken possession of the goods and removed them to Stokes' Bay.

The defence, represented by Mr. A.E. Bull, offered no evidence, contending that the charge was not proven, and that the prosecution witnesses admitted they were cognizant of the claim, and went on to show from the Wreckage Act that Bradley was entitled for remuneration for life saving and salvage, as the amount paid him had been for specific charges of board, work and tobacco.

The Magistrate reserved decision until 9 o'clock to-morrow morning.

WILL THEY GET IT?

Rumoured Establishment by a Canadian Firm of a Branch in Albany, N. Y.

ALBANY (Special) Nov. 4.—The outcry in certain quarters against the high tariff still goes on, but it is to the tariff that Albany is likely to owe the addition of another industry to her numerous existing ones. A Canadian firm located in Toronto has, it is understood, been interviewed by an Albany business man, with a view to establishing in this city a manufactory of the staple kidney remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills. As the business done by the Canadian firm throughout the United States has assumed very large porportions, owing to the recognition by the American public of the great value of this staple, it is probable that arrangements will be satisfactorily entered into. The annual output is very large and is rapidly increasing.

THAT ALASKA BOUNDARY.

Prof. Duffield of the United States Geodetic Survey Disputes the Canadian Claim.

Washington, Nov. 3.—Prof. Duffield, Superintendent of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, speaking of a despatch from Ottawa to the effect that the United States had refused protection to the gold seekers on the Yukon for the reason that the territory was within Canadian jurisdiction, said he did not understand that this Government had ever made such an admission. "On the other hand," continued the professor, "I understand that all the assertions by the Government are directly to the contrary. This bureau was never asked until last week, so far as the records show, for a statement giving the location of the boundary line, and it is not likely that any department would take such a position as that described in the Ottawa despatch without seeking information in regard to the lines."

"Can you give the information?"

"We have the data to establish the line running north on the 141st meridian of longitude from Mount St. Elias to the Arctic Ocean. It is along this line that the gold country is located. In 1889 Mr. Ogilesby ran the line for the Canadian Government. We know the position of his stakes at the crossing of Forty-Mile Creek and the Yukon River, at the junction of which streams the Canadians are erecting a fort. The field notes we are working on now were taken this summer by a surveying party which has not yet returned, and in ten days or two weeks the computations will have been finished."

Prof. Duffield stated that all the essential points of a delimitation of the boundary between Alaska and Canada had been marked, and that all that remained to be done was for the high contracting parties to determine how the clause of the treaty relating to the line ten marine leagues from the shore was to run. That was a subject of diplomatic negotiation; scientific skill could be applied to the method after it had been agreed upon. He pointed out the fact that old maps in the possession of the survey had the Yukon River run north and empty into the Arctic Ocean, when, as a matter of fact, the stream's course was westerly, emptying into Morton's Sound on the west coast. The Yukon River there forms a delta of numberless mouths.

Prof. Duffield is inclined to believe that Oglesby's line of the 141st meridian is about seven miles too far west.

INSURED AT DEATH'S DOOR.

Dr. Francey Admitted That He Made a False Statement.

Toronto, Nov. 3

The case of the Equitable Assurance Co. against George E. Alger for cancellation of the policy for $7000 on the life of his late wife came to an abrupt termination on Saturday at Osgoode Hall. After hearing the evidence of Dr. Francey, who made the false declaration that Mrs. Alger was in good health and afterwards left the country, Mr. B. B. Osler informed Mr. Justice MacMahon that his client would consent to cancellation of the policy.

Dr. Francey, whose attendance from the United States had been secured under a promise of safe conduct, entered the box at 10 o'clock, and in a shamefaced manner admitted that he had examined Mrs. Alger in April, 1894, and found her to be suffering from phthisis in an advanced stage. Then a long pause took place to allow of books which the doctor had forgotten being brought from the boarding house.

In the meantime Mr. G. S. Macdonald, Alger's solicitor, was sworn and contradicted emphatically a statement made on the previous day by Dr. Eastwood, that he had made an assertion that there would be $3000 to divide if the case resulted favorably. Witness said he never expected to get anything beyond his fees.

Then, to the surprise of those present, Mr. Osler arose and stated that his client would consent to judgment for the company, although he entirely denied any fraud. It was impossible, however, to get over the fact that the evidence showed a breach of the warranty contained in the policy that a true declaration had been made.

Detective Murray immediately arrested Alger on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the Equitable Assurance Co. of $7000, and left on Saturday afternoon with his prisoner for Whitby jail.

Detective Murray returned from Whitby on Saturday night and on Sunday was engaged with Mr. John E. Farwell, Crown Attorney of Whitby, who returned to that town in the evening. Messrs. Macdonald and Fitch, Alger's solicitors, made an ineffectual attempt to obtain bail for their client It is understood that not less than $3000 will be accepted. The defendant Alger will be brought before Major Harper, the Whitby Police Magistrate, on Friday next, when he will probably be committed for trial. The next Whitby Assizes commence on Nov. 12, but it is doubtful if the case can be brought to trial on that day.

Dr. Francey is now in Whitby, where he will remain under safe conduct until the case is disposed of. Before absconding he practiced medicine there for seven years.

ROME TREMBLED.

The Eternal City's Inhabitants Terrified by an Earthquake Shock—Great Damage to Property.

Rome, Nov. 1.—This city was visited by violent shocks of earthquake at 5.40 o'clock this morning. People were roused from their slumbers and fled to the open squares, and the greatest consternation prevailed.

The convent of Santa Maria Maggiore was greatly damaged. A portion of the outer wall was overthrown and part of the ceiling has fallen. One of the inmates, a monk, was injured.

The shocks were confined to the Province of Rome. They were felt very strongly at the Castelli Romani, but the damage done there was not serious. Two clocks in the observatory stopped the moment the tremblings began, each indicating the hour 5.33.

The shocks created a great panic among the inmates of the prison and a mutiny was attempted. Troops were quickly called to the assistance of the keepers and in a short time the mutiny was suppressed and order restored.

The Pope was awakened by the shocks. He was perfectly calm, and after rising made haste to enquire the news from the city.

Investigation discloses the fact that the damage done by the quakes is much greater than was at first supposed.

Four palaces and the Bank of Italy were so shaken that they are rendered unsafe for occupancy.

The Palazzo Odescalchi, one of the finest palaces in Rome, and five other structures of that character, are seriously damaged.

The building of the Ministry of Finance was slightly damaged.

The quakes rang all the bells in the city, and doors were shaken and windows smashed everywhere.

"The Common People."

MME. ADAM'S SALON.

A VISIT TO ONE OF THE MOST INTERESTING OF WOMEN.

The Bjornson Cult in Paris—Why the Famous Editor of La Nouvelle Revue Rejoiced When She Heard That Her First Consort Was Dead.

Madame Adam, editor of La Nouvelle Revue, and one of the most interesting personalities among contemporary women in France, says a London sketch correspondent, lives in the Boulevard Malesherbes, that seemingly endless thoroughfare running from the Madelein past the Church of St. Augustin, to the Porte 'd Asmeres. She has, however, a pretty country house outside of Paris, to which she frequently retires when her engagements permit. From this rural retreat she wrote to me in response to several letters of introduction which I had presented, regretting that her absense from town prevented her calling, and asking me, in view of my short stay in Paris, to waive ceremony and come to one of her popular reunions on the following Sunday evening. These Sunday evening gatherings include all that is best and brightest in the French capital, and invitations to them are eagerly sought. In the little theatre attached to the house plays are acted by more or less distinguished—and invariably clever—amateurs. These plays are repeated for three Sundays in succession to enable Madame Adams' immense circle to witness them without overcrowding and on the occasion for which I was invited was to take place, according to the program, the first representation of "Un Gant" (Traduction Monnier), in other words, of "The Gauntlet," by Bjornstjerne Bjornson, done into French.

Madame Adam smilingly made me at home, and waited while I took off my cloak. "Venez, ma fille," she said kindly, as I returned to her, and, leading me up the room, she found me a comfortable seat near the stage, introducing me to my neighbors, and set me completely at my at my ease. Her daughter, Madame Segond, a handsome woman with dark hair, very regular features and clear, pale complexion, who looked quite too young to be—as, in effect, she is—the mother of a grown-up girl, helped, with the aid of Mlle. Segond, to receive and entertain the guests.

When the play—in which M. Barbier, a very young man, with a slight dark mustache, distinguished himself as Alf, and Mlle. de Kapatsinski was much applauded as Svava—was finished, Madame Adam merrily asked for votes from the women present as to the question involved.

"Who takes Sava's side?" she cried. "Hands up please!"

Two alone had the courage to testify in favor of the heroine. The others discreetly abstained from recording their opinion. Then we all trooped to supper in the oak-paneled dining room overhead, whence we moved into the red salon, with its plentiful but subdued light and handsome bric-a-brac. The party speedily broke up into groups by the code of morality enforced by the Norwegian dramatist and to listen to some excellent music. The greater number of the guests gathered round the stately hostess, but after a time she broke from them and flitted from one to another, praising this man, rallying that, detained on every side by those anxious for a word with her. She was full of life and animation—the very soul and centre of the reunion.

I asked Mme. Adam: "Do you find the Northern dramatists interesting?"

"Immensely! Little as they have in common with Parisian life and French character, the great movement of the present day comes to us from the North—Tolstoi, Tourgenieff, Bjornson, Ibsen—and this because the east and the south are already exhausted, the great Christian movement having come from the east. Every sixth century God sends us revelations. These revolations become gradually absorbed in some form of worship (ces revelations petit a petit deviennent absorbees dans le culte), thereby losing their original value, and we need fresh revelations to stimulate us."

"Which do you prefer, Madame, Ibsen or Bjornson?"

"Bjornson, with whom I am in constant correspondence; but Ibsen I look on as a great moral teacher. I delight in taking in hand authors whom their plays for representation, for, after all, the public must be considered to a certain extent. "The Gauntlet," for instance, had to be considerably altered before even I had the courage to present it to a French audience. Bjornson himself was nervous as to the result of my undertaking."

When asked about her own career, Mme. Adam said: "I took to writing in the first instance because I was so desperately unhappy in my married life. There, it must out. I wanted to forget my sorrows and to occupy my mind."

"But, if I may ask the question without discretion, how did you come to marry a man so unsuited to you?"

"I never wished to marry him, but I was very young—a mere child—and very inexperienced. My parents had always told me that if a man kissed me on the lips I should be dishonored if I did not marry him. They had decided that I was to wed M. Lamessine, and, to arrange the match, they let him know—we were then engaged—that this idea had been strongly impressed upon me. He promptly acted upon their hint, and I no longer hesitated before the sacrifice. My first marriage was the beginning of years of terrible suffering, my one ray of sunshine being my passionate love for my child. At last I could stand the life no longer and sued for a separation. I came to Paris and lived with my father and mother. Will you be shocked when I tell you that I never was so happy as when I heard of my first husband's death? It was a day of rejoicing! Several years after I married again. Men have been the trial of my existence, and the sincere ones the most troublesome."

How We Get Sunburnt.

The stimulus of the sun's direct rays and that arising from the friction of the fresh air causes increased activity in the capillaries supplying the surface with blood. When this stimulus is continued for any considerable time these vessels become gorged, and minute portions of the blood force their way into the layer immediately under the epidermis, or outer skin. It is the presence of the red corpuscles of the blood which gives the ruddy flesh tint seen through the outer skin. At the same time the sweat glands and oil glands, whose function it is to lubricate the surface and keep it moist and cool, become exhausted by overstimulus; the outer skin gets hard and dry, and soon begins to peal off in the familiar way, taking the minute particles of extravasated blood along with it. Direct sunlight also has a darkening effect upon the actual coloring pigments of the skin, but this action is distinct from actual tanning, and manifests itself in the form of freckles. The permanent bronze or ruddiness of complexion seen in sailors or travelers in hot countries is the result of a long-continued combination of the two processes.—Mirror.

A woman never really knows the meaning of happiness and content until she is the mother of a healthy, happy child. She never reaches the full degree of womanly development until she has felt the pleasing responsibilities of maternity. All this happiness may be marred or may be turned into misery if the child is not a healthy child. The health of the child depends on the health of the mother, both before and after birth. Heredity is strong, and it is every woman's duty to give her children the best possible chance in life. Nothing that she could possibly give them can be as valuable as health. Wealth cannot be enjoyed without health. Nothing can be enjoyed without health. Health is life. People who are not healthy are only half alive. The child who starts out with a robust body and vigorous, virile health, has everything to be thankful for and nothing to be afraid of. You cannot expect such a child to spring from a weak and sickly mother. Most all of woman's weakness and particularly the weakness that most strongly influences the health of children, comes from some derangement or disease of the distinctly feminine organs. All such trouble is as unnecessary as it is terribly distressing. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription will cure all troubles of this nature. There is no guess-work about this statement, and there is no qualification. The "Favorite Prescription" should be used promptly and persistently until the symptoms entirely disappear. In every case, it restores perfect health and strength and assists in the healthful and regular performances of all the natural functions. The "Favorite Prescription" should be taken regularly by every woman during the entire period of gestation. It gives strength to all the organs involved, lessens the pains and danger of childbirth and insures the health of both mother and child.

If you care to know all about the "Favorite Prescription," and to read the testimony of hundreds of grateful women, send 21 one-cent stamps to cover customs and mailing only, and receive free a copy of Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser—1008 pages, profusely illustrated. THE SECRET OUT

THE secret is out. The Government Insurance Blue Books have revealed it. The facts of the case will prove of real value to all those seeking a company where permanent satisfaction can be secured under a Policy of Life Insurance. The telescope has been turned upon those who withdrew from [illegible] prominent companies in 1894.

It is obvious to any one that the proportion of persons who lapse or surrender their policies in any company is a fairly good test of the satisfaction or dissatisfaction existing therein. If policy-holders are receiving satisfactory profit results, if they are being honestly and honourably dealt with, if they cannot do better elsewhere, then it is plain these facts will show themselves in the small number who surrender their policies or allow them to lapse.

To test these conditions, and to discover the company that is giving greatest satisfaction to its policy-holders, as evidenced by their determination to continue their policies, we have made an analysis of the facts, as reported in the blue books containing the business for 1894 of the leading Canadian Companies. We have calculated the ratio per cent. of assurances surrendered to the average business in force in 1894 also the ratio per cent. of assurance lapsed to the average business in force. Intending assurers have here an inside view of Life Assurance that is full of significance. When a company stands out so prominently as does the CAANDA LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY in this test, it means that its merits are known and recognized by those who become connected with it.

This is but another of those numerous tests in which the CANADA LIFE shows its superiority.

The following table tells the whole story:—

COMPANY.	Per Cent. Surrendered.	PerCent. Lapsed.	Per Cent. Lapsed and Surrendered.
CANADA LIFE	.70	2.10	2.80
Confederation Life	2.33	4.65	6.98
North American	1.73	6.97	8.70
Ontario Mutual	2.51	6.59	9.10
Sun Life	2.63	8.54	11.17

The above figures are compiled from the Dominion Insurance report, issued by the Superintendent of Insurance, at Ottawa.

Once more, and as usual, the CANADA LIFE COMPANY comes out on top.

A NOVEL SNOW PLOUGH.

There is in course of construction in Mr. David Chamoers' blacksmith shop, and nearly finished, a rather novel looking snow-plough, to be operated this winter on the roads over which logs are drawn in Howry & Sons' limits, near Gooderham. It consists of a front and hind "bob," each about five feet long and five feet wide, and connected by two three-inch pine planks eighteen inches wide and eighteen feet long, set on edge on the bobs. To the outside of the planks, near the centre, is attached, one on each side, a pair of iron mould-boards with 28-inch cutting surfaces or blades on the lower edge, sloping from front to rear, and capable of being raised and lowered by means of screws so as to simply clean the road or cut grooves in it from one-quarter of an inch to three inches deep and about six feet apart at their outside edges, these grooves to contain water sprinkled from a tank for the purpose of making a hard, icy track. A V-shaped "comb" fastened to the front bob keeps the centre of the track clear, and at the rear of the machine are two lateral moveable "wings," for the purpose of clearing away the snow at the sides of the road to allow the bunks of sleighs free passageway. The wings have an extreme spread of 13 feet, and can be folded up snugly when the bird is at rest. The total length of the machine is 18 feet and it weighs nearly a ton. The wood work, with the exception of the two planks mentioned, is maple and oak, and the braces are inch iron. It will cost about $175, but will pay for itself in a short time in the extra work accomplished on account of the increased "slipperiness" resulting from its use on the roads. Mr. Jas. Hamilton, superintending its construction, procured the iron work from Alpena, Michigan, where he has had considerable experience lumbering, and where these ploughs are quite common. This is the first one built in this part of the country, but there are a few in the Georgian Bay district.—Fenelon Falls Gazette.

THE PRICES OF HIDES.

There was a further decline in the prices of hides last week. In Montreal the prices declined 1c. to 6c. for No. 1 green hides. In Toronto dealers are paying 6c. for green hides and asking 7c. for No. 1. At the close of the month of August the local dealers were quoting 8c. for green hides, and offering cars of cured at 9½c. This is a big drop in two months in the prices of hides at the time of the year when hides are about at their best value. But dealers hold that the situation in the outside markets warrants this decline. The latest trade papers from the west received say the market in Chicago for country hides is erratic: "Buff hides are being manipulated on all sides. One party bought 5,000 last week, and two days later disposed of 2,000 of them at 7¼c. and of 2,000 later at 7c. The efforts of the dealers continue to be directed towards the depression in prices in the country, but with little success so far, as 7c. is asked for hides there at points taking from 18 to 23c. rates of freight to Chicago. There was considerable trading done, both eastern and western tanners buying. Some 20,000 were sold. Boot and shoe manufacturers are still running to a limited extent, and though their stocks of leather are low, they are buying as little as possible. The jobbing business in leather shows signs of apathy, but an awakening is looked for in a week or so. The trading in leather is light. Large purchasers refuse to meet sellers, and many continue to offer prices from 1c. to 2c. below the prices quoted by sellers for all lines of sole."

Do You Tire Quickly?

Fatigue is the natural sequence of labor. If, however, it follows moderate or slight exertion it is the sign and evidence that the nervous system has lost tone and vigor, and requires assistance. Suicidal is a resort to stimulants, since these only increase the enervation. Aid cannot be obtained in this way, but through medication judiciously employed in restoring through the nervous system the digestive function, upon which primarily, health depends. The whole range of medicine fails to produce a preparation possessing in equal degree the tonic and nutritive qualities of Maltine with Coca Wine. By its action on the nervous system all the important functions of the body are stimulated and increased; the digestive process is performed efficiently and without discomfort, insuring the proper nourishment of the body. Maltine with Coca Wine is sold by all druggists.

THE MURRAY CASE.

OUR REPORTER INTERVIEWS MR. MURRAY, OF GRAVENHURST.

His Case is Verified—The Grand Trunk Railway Actually Paid his Claim, and he Afterwards Recovered from Paralysis by Using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Newspaper readers will remember a case much talked of about three years ago—that of Samuel Murray, of Gravenhurst.

The story was to the effect that from a neglected injury blood poisoning had finally resulted in paralysis; that after being confined to his bed for a year, he was pronounced incurable; that he had been paid total disability insurance by the Grand Trunk Railway Company, as well as by the Brotherhood of Trainmen, and that he was finally given up to die.

Later on his fellow townsmen were surprised by his unexpected reappearance, apparently as well as ever.

All these alleged facts were published by the proprietors of of a patent medicine appearing in the papers all over Canada.

Quite recently another series of such reports of alleged cures have been crowding the columns of city papers, and in the public interest we had determined to investigate whenever possible. Our first opportunity presented itself on noticing the name of this gentleman on the register of one of the city hotels.

A man in the prime of life was pointed out to our reporter, tall, hale, wiry and much bronzed by the sun and weather, with nothing to suggest a history of any great constitutional strain.

"You will pardon me, I know," said our reporter, "but we think it due to the public to be assured of the exact truth of the statements made in your case; that you re-affirm or deny them; and state your motive for permitting them to appear in the newspapers."

"Most certainly," smilingly answered Mr. Murray, "there is an inaccuracy in the statement, but I think it was unintentional. The Brotherhood paid me benefits, but not for disability, as I was getting better when it was offered, and I refused it. The other points are simply far short of the whole truth. The whole can never be told. I was expecting the end—almost hopefully—until my wife urged me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I felt benefit soon after commencing, and twelve boxes made a complete cure. People were surprised, pleased and wondering."

"I am glad to hear it," said our reporter. "But your motive?"

"Well, it was not to see my name in print." I always hated that part of it. I thought to do some poor sufferer some good, and I hope it will induce others to try these pills," said Mr. Murray.

"But you don't look as though you ever had a day's illness in your life."

"No," he replied, "I am well, and I stay so—have lately passed examination for life insurance. I am a lumberman and work the year round in wet, snow and heat. But thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills, I never feel a twinge of the old trouble. I have never since needed or taken either this or other treatment, and I owe my life to Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Dodd's Kidney Pills is the only treatment that has ever cured Paralysis at such a stage.—Toronto Star.

BAD RAILWAY SMASH.

One Man Killed and a Number of Trainmen and Passengers Injured.

Malden, Mass., Nov. 5.—A bad railway accident occurred a mile below this city this afternoon. The 5.10 passenger train, due at Edgeworth, had nine loaded passenger cars for Reading. As it approached the Edgeworth station to-night a shifting engine with 14 cars was crossing from the outward track to the inward track when the 5.10 from Boston, known as No. 67, crashed into the shifter. Both engines were wrecked. Two passengers cars jumped the track and about eight cars of the shifter were piled up in a heap, completely blocking both tracks. The first car on the passenger train was a combination smoking and passenger car. It was filled with passengers and nearly all the windows in it were broken.

When the crash came there was a wild rush for the door. The freight cars were wrecked.

Engineer Parker of the passenger train and Engineer Tibbits of the shifter both jumped, together with their firemen, when they saw that a collision was inevitable. They were injured.

John Flarrety of Boston, the head brakeman of the shifting gang, was in an empty box car which was wrecked and was caught in the wreckage, his head being severed from his body.

Nova Scotia Vessel Wrecked.

Nassau, Nov. 1.—The schooner Ocean Lily of Halifax, Capt. Watts, with a cargo of logwood from Port Au Prince for New York, was wrecked on the Hogsties, Bahamas, on Oct. 24. The vessel is a total loss. Capt. Watts and his crew have arrived at Inagua. The captain reports that the cargo of the Ocean Lily is salvable.

A Japanese Capture.

Hong Kong, Nov. 1.—The Japanese have captured Katchi, a great inland town of Formosa, which has been in possession of the Black Flags, and the position of the latter is now desperate.

How to get "Sunlight" Books.

Send 12 "Sunlight" Soap wrappers to Lever Bros., Ltd., 43 Scott St., Toronto, who will send postpaid a paper bound book, 160 pages. For 6 "Life-buoy" Carbolic Soap wrappers, a similar book will be sent. This is a splendid opportunity to obtain good reading. Send your name and address written carefully. Remember "Sunlight" sells at 6 cts. per twin-bar, and "Lifebuoy" at 10 cts. One cent postage will bring your wrappers by leaving the ends open.

Life-Saving Sleeves.

A new use has been found for bathing sleeves, through the ingenuity of an enterprising inventor, which promises great results.

The "bustle" inside the sleeves has up to date been adopted somewhat warily, as hardly filling a long-felt want. But now a silk life-preserver is to take its place, which can be inflated at will, and enables the wearer to float in perfect ease on the water.

Sailing parties, made up largely of ladies, will leave the man at the helm very much at ease, with each female member of the company transformed into an animated life-preserver; for if one moves carelessly on the deck and goes flown overboard there is no danger of a tragedy. The balloons will also add no little to the sail area in light winds.

The life-saving sleeve will doubtless prove a big thing, and all that it is cracked up to be.

TURNBULL'S

Gloves and Hosiery

There is perhaps nothing a lady is more particular about than her Gloves and Hosiery, for herself and family.

Some six months ago we were looking ahead and placed large orders in European factories for this fall's trade. In doing this we get closer prices and have the goods made to exactly suit the Canadian trade; being careful to have the fingers proportionate length, the cuffs to suit dresses, and neatly stitched backs. We have light weights for early fall wear, and heavier for winter. As we select our own cloth there is none better for wear.

See the extra nice Glove we can give you for 25c a pair.

Other lines as low as 10c and upwards to 50c.

In Cashmere Hose we have selected both medium and extra heavy weights, in plain weave and soft finish, one and one ribs for both ladies and children. Two and one ribs, made of extra heavy Scotch and Canadian yarns for boys who wears knickers, also a full range of a heavy make from 10c a pair for children's to 15c for ladies.'

MANTLES.

Our Mantle Cloths are rolling out fast, and so they should as they are grand value. See our New Mantles just arrived this week to sort up our unusually well assorted stock.

REFORMS IN FRANCE

As Outlined in the New Cabinet's Declaration.

HER ALLIANCES WILL BE KEPT

Scandals to be Investigated and Corruption Stamped Out The Army Will be Kept in Good Shape and Development of the Country's Interests Promoted.

Paris, Nov. 4.—This afternoon Premier Bourgeois began reading the declaration of policy of the new Ministry in the Chamber of Deputies. The Radical Deputies cheered the Premier repeatedly, but the members of the Centre remained frigidly silent throughout the address.

M. Bourgeois began by announcing that the Cabinet would obey the wishes of the Chamber in opening a supplementary enquiry into the Southern Railway scandals, no matter what might be the result, and would deposit upon the table of the Chamber a complete collection of the documents in the case, so as to enable parliament to pronouce political and moral judgment in the matter.

The address was greeted with great applause by the Left.

M. Bourgeois also said it was the intention of the Government to introduce a bill prohibiting Senators and members of the Chamber of Deputies from holding positions as directors of any companies having contracts with the State, under the penalty of losing their seats. It was also proposed, he said, to modify the law concerning accused persons, making thir preliminary examinations public as far as possible.

Numerous crises and grave and tragic events, M. Bourgeois said, had retarded legislative reforms which various commissions had prepared long ago, and the nation now awaits the methodical and resolute effort necessary to obviate the existing deadlock.

The essential questions were: First, to vote the budget upon the normal rate. With reference to the army, he said, the Government would give satisfaction to the desire of the nation for a perfect organization and supervision of expenditures. He complimented the troops in Madagascar in their admirable march to Antananarivo, and said that France had acquired alliances which re-established the universal equilibrium. The Government, he said, would remain faithful to those alliances and pursue the pacific development of France's rights and interests.

The Government, he announced, would support a bill for the imposition of a progressive probate tax, and measures for reform in the laws regulating the sale and use of intoxicating drinks, providing that hygienic fluids shall not be taxed, and to entirely correct the anti-democratic inequalities in the fiscal system by an income tax. He would also defend bills relating to the co-operative insurance, to organize a system of workingmen's pensions, and would prepare a definite settlement of the relations between church and state.

The Government, he said, did not intend to interfere with the economic regime, but would merely ask that measures be passed, destined to defend the agriculturists against certain international speculations and to regulate international speculations in gold mines.

M. Bourgeois expressed his belief that a Republican majority existed in the Chamber, willing to support a government actuated by the old Republican spirit.

He demanded the confidence of the Chamber for the Government, not that it might live, but that it might act.

At the request of M. Bourgeois, the Chamber adjourned until Thursday.

DEEP WATERWAYS.

President Cleveland Appoints Three Eminent Gentlemen to Meet a Canadian Commission.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Under authority of act of Congress providing for a joint Canadian and United States Commission to enquire and report on the feasibility of establishing deep waterways between the great lakes and the Atlantic Ocean, the President has appointed James B. Angell of Michigan, John R. Russell of Massachusetts and Lyman G Cooley of Illinois as American commissioners.

The authority given for the appointment of the commissioners is contained in the Sundry Civil Appropriation Bill for the current fiscal year, which reads as follows:

"The President of the United States is authorized to appoint, immediately after the passage of this Act, three persons who shall have power to meet and confer with any similar committee that may be appointed by the Government of Great Britain or of the Dominion of Canada, and who shall make inquiry and report whether it is feasible to build such canals as shall enable vessels engaged in ocean commerce to pass to and fro between the great lakes and the Atlantic ocean, with an adequate and controllable supply of water for continual use; where such canals can be most conveniently located, the probable cost of the same, with estimates in detail, and if any part of the same should be built in the territory of Canada, what regulations or treaty arrangements will be necessary between the United States and Great Britain to preserve the free use of such canal to the people of this country at all times and all necessary facts and considerations relating to the construction and future use of deep water channels between the great lakes and the Atlantic ocean. The persons so appointed shall serve without compensation in any form, but they shall be paid their actual travelling and other necessary expenses, not exceeding in all $10,000, for which purpose the said sum of $10,000 or so much thereof as may be necessary, is hereby appropriated.

"The President, in his discretion, may detail as one of such persons an officer of the army or navy."

The gentlemen selected by Mr. Cleveland to represent the United States are of national reputation. Prof. Angell is president of the University of Michigan, and was one of the American representatives on the Canadian Fisheries Commission. Mr. Russell, is the well-known Massachusetts Democratic politician and lawyer. Mr. Cooley is a prominent Chicago capitalist, who has given much attention to the transportation on the great lakes.

EUGENE FIELD IS DEAD.

Heart Disease Takes Off the Literary Lion of Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Eugene Field died of heart disease Sunday night about 10 o'clock, at his residence in Buena Park.

Eugene Field has earned a unique reputation as a writer of verse.

His strong points were humor and pathos. He was distinguished by his love for children, who inspired much of his writings.

Field was a contemporary in western journalism of James Whitcomb Riley and Bill Nye, and had in the spirit and peculiarly western qualities of his work something in common with both.

They all saw together the vicissitudes of pioneer journalism in western towns, and absorbed the spirit of the humorous crudities of that unformed stage of American society. It remained a distinct quality of Field's verse.

Field was perhaps the one Chicago man of letters to enjoy a national popularity, and had been the literary lion of that city.

Eugene Field was born in St. Louis in 1850. When six years old his mother died, and he was placed in charge of a cousin at Amherst, Mass.

When 17 he entered Williams College. Shortly after his graduation from this school his father died in St. Louis, and Eugene went west and completed his education in the State University of Missouri.

When he attained his majority he fell into a large fortune, which he at once began to spend in the purchase of books. To make easy the pursuit he went to Europe and returned laden with spoils from the book shops of London and Paris, but with scarcely any of his fortune.

Then he turned to newspaper work, and enlisted on the local staff of the St. Louis Journal, of which he soon became city editor. In 1875 he drifted to St. Joseph, Mo., afterward returning to St. Louis, where he wrote editorial paragraphs for The Times, and The Times-Journal, when the two papers combined. In 1880 he took a table on the Kansas City Times and a year later went to Denver and was managing editor of the Tribune of that city.

In 1883 Mr. Field went to Chicago and began his work of writing editorial matter for the News, filling a place he had held ever since.

His principle works are "Culture's Garland," "Memoranda of the Gradual Rise of Literature in Chicago," with introduction by Julian Hawthorne.

TROUNCED HER HUSBAND.

Margaret Mather, the Well-known Actress Plays a Role in Real Life.

Milwaukee, Nov. 4.—Just 30 days ago Margaret Mather-Pabst, for years one of the best known actresses in America, horsewhipped her husband, Col. Gustav Pabst, son of the wealthy brewer, on one of the thoroughfares of Milwaukee.

Saturday A. A. L. Smith, Col. Pabst's attorney, announced that his client had decided to bring a suit for divorce. Mrs. Pabst has retained eminent counsel to defend her in the person of Gen. Horatio C. King, for years a leading member of the New York bar.

Col. Pabst and Margaret Mather were married in January, 1892, at Kenosha, Wis. The colonel's father was very much displeased with the union made by his son, and for this reason Col. Pabst took his bride to Terre Haute, Ind. He said he would make his home there, and would engage in the wholesale liquor business.

For a time the young colonel and his wife lived happily together. Col. Pabst was a devoted husband, and Mrs. Pabst was a doting wife. Time passed, and harmony was jarred. There were quarrels, but they were kept comparatively quiet.

But on Wednesday afternoon, Oct. 2, there was an occurrence that shattered the love idol. Col. Pabst and his wife were driving on Twenty-seventh street, when they became involved in a quarrel. Mrs. Pabst seized a whip and struck her husband with it. He leaped from the buggy and walked rapidly down the street, but did not escape a further castigation, as his wife jumped to the ground and followed him. She repeatedly struck him with the whip, and pursued him for four blocks, when he succeeded in wrenching the whip from her hands. As he did that she struck him in the face with her fist.

The exact cause of the quarrel could not be learned, but it was reported that it grew out of a social feud in the Pabst family. The story that went around was to the effect that some members of the Pabst family had cut Mrs. Margaret Mather-Pabst, and that her husband asked her to accompany him to a party which was to be attended by her social enemies.

When Mrs. Pabst was interviewed the day of the encounter she denounced the story as a "cruel, cruel falsehood."

Col. Pabst at that time said: "There is absolutely no foundation whatever for this story. It is made out of whole cloth. My wife did not strike me, and we have had no quarrel whatever. I cannot understand how the story arose, and I certainly ought to know if I have been horsewhipped."

As Col. Pabst's father is worth $15,000,000, the interests of the plaintiff are certain to be well cared for.

Do You Tire Quickly?

Fatigue is the natural sequence of labor. If, however, it follows moderate or slight exertion it is the sign and evidence that the nervous system has lost tone and vigor, and requires assistance. Suicidal is a resort to stimulants, since these only increase the enervation. Aid cannot be obtained in this way, but through medication judiciously employed in restoring through the nervous system the digestive function, upon which primarily, health depends. The whole range of medicine fails to produce a preparation possessing in equal degree the tonic and nutritive qualities of Maltine with Coca Wine. By its action on the nervous system all the important functions of the body are stimulated and increased; the digestive process is performed efficiently and without discomfort, insuring the proper nourishment of the body. Maltine with Coca Wine is sold by all druggists.

A JUDICIAL CHANGE.

Judge Brooks Retires From the Superior Court of Quebec.

A SHERBROOKE LAWYER SUCCEEDS

Mr E. S. White's Appointment Not Yet Made—Subsidy Requested for the Beaver ss. Line—Canadian Trade With Scandinavian Countries Parcel Post to Hong Kong.

Ottawa, Nov. 4.—The Cabinet was in session for three hours this afternoon. At the close it was announced that the resignation of Judge Brooks, as Superior Court judge of the St. Francis district of Quebec, had been accepted and William White, Q.C., of Sherbrooke appointed to the vacancy thereby created.

Mr. White is acknowledged to be one of the best lawyers in the province, and his appointment will be generally approved.

No announcement was made respecting the collectorship of customs of Montreal, it is stated that the question did not come up for consideration, but the genral impression is that the matter will be settled this week by the appointment thereto of R. S. White, ex-M.P.

A project as important to Ontario and generally to Western Canada as it is to New Brunswick and the east was submitted to the Government today by an influential delgation from St. John and Montreal. The delegation consisted of Messrs. Chesley and Hazen M.P.'s; William Pugsley, Mayor Robertson and W. C. Pitfield of St. John; Hugh McLennan of Montreal, and Mr. Cameron, representing the Beaver line of steamships. These gentlemen had a lengthy conference with Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Hon. Mr. Foster. In brief, their request was that a subsidy of $25,000 be granted to the Beaver Line of steamships to run a fortnightly line of steamers between St. John and Liverpool during the winter. In the course of discussion, in which the advantages of the proposed line were thoroughly put forth, the Premier pointed out that the company, in order to compete with lines running from New York, Boston or Portland, would require to give rates just as low as from these American ports. A steamship line seeking to make a Canadian winter port a success should place cattle or freight from western Canada as cheaply in Liverpool as a company running from any of the ports named.

The deputation gave the Ministers assurances that rates from the west by the proposed line would be as favorable as from any American port. The Ministers promised to give the matter careful and early consideration.

The legal representatives of Hon. N. C. Wallace had been instructed to enter an action for libel against The Montreal Herald on account of certain reflections made in that journal in connection with Mr. Wallace's administration of the Customs Department. The Herald having apologized for the publication of the article, it is likely that the legal proceedings will be dropped.

The attention of the Fisheries Department has been called to the encroachemnt by Americans on the halibut fisheries of Hecate Strait, which lies between the Queen Charlotte Island group and the mainland of British Columbia. The channel is from 45 to 90 miles wide and about 150 miles long, and comprises within its area one of the best halibut banks of the world. American fishing companies have been sending their vessels this summer to this locality, although exclusively Canadian territorial waters, and it has been suggested to the department that steps should be taken towards placing these fishing vessels on a licensing basis.

Canada is rapidly extending her lines of communication, postal and otherwise. Postmasters have just been notified that a direct parcel post service between Canada and the British colony of Hong Kong has gone into effect via Vancouver. The rates are very reasonable, only 16 cents per pound.

It is understood that Consul-General Ryley has been informed that the Government will order the release of the Gloucester fishing schooner Nicholson, which has been found guilty of contravening the convention of 1818, on payment of a fine of $1000, the Government waiving all proceedings in the Admiralty Court for confiscation of the vessel.

Mr. Sontum, commercial agent for Canada in Sweden and Denmark, sends a very interesting report to the Department of Trade and Commerce on trade prospects in thos countries. He says that shipments of Canadian woodenware, office furniture, axe handles, etc., have given great satisfaction in Norway. Canadian manufactured tobacco and cigarettes are being sold right along in the Scandinavian countries, as well as in Germany, Holland and Switzerland, and orders are steadily increasing.

A shipment of Canadian dried and evaporated apples did not turn out satisfactory and the suggestion is made that care should be taken hereafter in packing, boxes being preferable to barrels. Canadian flour and oatmeal are increasing in favor in Scandinavian countries.

Reports recieved by the Marine Department of live stock shipments from Montreal to date are most satisfactory. Of cattle 38,469 head have been shipped, as against 72,280 last year; horses, 11,896, as against 5095; sheep, 171,252, as against 119,341.

LUCKY NEWFOUNDLAND.

Coal Deposits Discovered in the Ancient Colony Three Troughs Supposed to Contain 12,000,000 Tons Each.

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 4.—Statistics of surprising importance are presented in connection with the newly discovered coal deposits. They cover a total area of twelve by six miles and consist of three distinct troughs, one of which is ten miles long and a mile wide. The deposits are within four miles of the water and are quite adjacent to shipping, passing through the St. Lawrence River. It is expected that the deposits will greatly improve the colony's future. It is estimated that the quantity of coal in the trough is nearly twelve million tons, and the others are supposed to be equally rich. The find will do much to extricate the colony from its present embarrassments, if it can be worked advantageously.

The lighthouse on Harbor Grace Island, one of the principal lighthouses of the colony, partly foundered on Saturday.

Tired but Sleepless

Is a condition which gradually wears away the strength. Let the blood be purified and enriched by Hood's Sarsaparilla and this condition will cease.

"For two or three years I was subject to poor spells. I always felt tired, could not sleep at night and the little I could eat did not do me any good. I read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and decided to try it. Before I had finished two bottles I began to feel better and in a short time I felt all right and had gained 21 pounds in weight. I am stronger and healthier than I have ever been in my life." JOHN W. COUGHLIN, Wallaceburg, Ontario.

TARIFF TWADDLE.

The Mail and Empire quotes figures to show that what a woman wears in Canada costs less now than it did before the protective system was introduced. Calico is six cents a yard now, while it used to be fifteen cents; silk has fallen from a dollar to from thirty to forty cents; and a similar reduction has taken place in ribbons, stockings and jerseys. Some articles of food show a similar fall in price, sugar being only four cents a pound instead of ten, and tea less than half of what it used to be. The answer to all this, says the Brantford Expositor, is obvious, complete and irrefutable. It is (1) that the fall in prices is due to other causes and not to protection, and (2) that if the present high duties were lowered we would get these articles at still less cost. The calico that can be bought for six cents a yard here, can be bought for two or three in the cities of the United States, and a similar remark would hold good of silk and ribbons, and, probably, also of stockings and jerseys. The cost of refined sugar is increased in Canada by exactly the amount of the duty on imported sugar, for it is purely protective. It adds nothing and was not intended to add anything to the revenue of the country. The fall in the price of cottons, sugars and other articles of ordinary consumption is due to improved methods of manufacture, and of the resulting benefit to the consumers the latter are unable to take full advantage owing to the interposition of the tariff. The Mail and Empire must think its readers are blockheads.

MR. M. C. CAMERON, Huron's veteran politician, has been enthusiastically nominated by the Liberals of West Huron as their candidate. The government need not look for a supporter from this riding.

THE gist of the Ministerial speeches at London last night, says the Hamilton Herald, was that the Conservative party means to stick by the Old Flag and the Old Policy. Only the Old Man is missing. And his absence makes quite a gap.

THE Ottawa Board of Trade has approved the proposal to reduce the number of aldermen in each ward in that city from three to two. If it were also provided that one-half the number should be elected by the city as a whole the Capital would have quite the idea.

HON MR. FOSTER is speaking at London, met the charge that Canada had not made the progress it should have done, by comparing the progress of this country with that of Britain, France, Germany, etc. The comparison is a happy one. Of course no person expects a ten-year-old boy to grow faster than a man of fifty.

REFERRING to the depression in Britain Lord Salisbury stated at a public meeting on Wednesday that "the first consideration was a relief from taxation." Conservative methods in England do not appear to run in the same grooves as those of Canada. The prescription of Dr. Foster, our Finance Minister, is to treat the fever by piling on more blankets—to cure hard times by locking up more money in taxes. Mr. Foster has a great head, and the electors have grown to think so much of his head that they will have it at the next elections.

HON. Joseph Chamberlain, Imperial Secretary of State for the Colonies, is considering the details of his great scheme for the development of the Colonies. But he has no chance in Canada. According to Mr. Foster the Dominion Government has done all the developing needed. At London he said he would like to talk for "hours and hours on our development." But if the Hon. Minister confined himself to a consideration of the development brought about by the policy of his Government, his speech would be a mighty short one. In spite of the government brake of trade isolation and high taxation that has been retarding the wheels of the car of progress for the past eighteen years, Canada, by virtue of her immense natural resources and the energy of her people has advanced, but not to the extent she would have done had she been given a chance.

BLOOD THICKER THAN WATER.

(New York Herald.)

Journals which have taken the most sinister views of the designs of England upon Venezuela have suddenly announced that they were with England and against Russia. They perceived that the interests of the United States in the far East were not hostile to those of Great Britain and her inevitable ally, Japan, but in many points identical with theirs.

They saw that the cause of England and of Japan as against Russia was the cause of civilization, and they bravely said so—bravely, because it must have taken some courage to reverse the opinions they had lately been expressing on the conduct of Great Britain in Venezuela.

England, after all, is England, whether in British Guiana or in the China Seas. Her policy is directed by the same ideas and same men. And blood is thicker than water, and our kin beyond the sea are closer to us than any Tartars or Romanoffs can ever be. So far as the relations of England and the United States are concerned nothing but good has come of this last incident.

Indiana Peat Beds Still Burning. A Town in Great Danger.

Whiting, Ind., Nov. 4.—The prairie fires which have been burning south of here for the past two weeks have reached the border of this place. About 2000 acres between here and Hammond have been burned. Most of this territory is covered with peat, which is still burning. At one time it seemed that the entire town of Robertsdale, with the Sheffield racing property, would be destroyed, but the combined efforts of the departments saved the colleges and fought the flames back.

Ship's Cargo on Fire.

Liverpool, Nov. 4.—The British steamer Cuban, Capt. Bertie, from New Orleans Oct. 17, for this port, arrived at her dock to-day with her cargo on fire. The fire was discovered on Wednesday last in the cotton stowed under the awning deck, and since that time steam has been constantly injected into her hold. The damaged part of her cargo will be discharged as quickly as possible.

Two Fires at Owen Sound.

Owen Sound, Nov. 5.—Fire broke out this morning in the pottery works owned by John Lemon, badly damaging the building and contents. Insured in the Perth Mutual for $1900.

This afternoon the residence of William Robinson, C.E., was totally destroyed by fire. Insured in the North British and Mercantile for $2000.

Sanitarium Destroyed.

Tiffin, Ohio, Nov. 5.—The Green Springs Sanitarium, located 12 miles north of Tiffin, was destroyed by fire Sunday. The 60 guests, many of whom were cripples and helpless invalids, were removed, but lost their clothes and valuables. It will be rebuilt. Loss $12,000.

Much Lumber Burned.

Alpena, Mich., Nov. 4.—Fire last night in the lumber piles along the docks destroyed one million feet of lumber, and the same number of lath, owned by W. L. and H. D. Churchill, John Millen and Johnson & Collins. The burned lumber was fully insured.

Blaze at Strathroy.

Strathroy, Ont., Nov. 5.—Fire this afternoon in George J. Newton & Co.'s grocery store did considerable damage to the stock and fixtures. Loss $5000; covered by insurance.

Thirty Buildings Burned.

Arcadia, Ia., Nov. 4.—Fire here last night destroyed 30 buildings, including the opera house, postoffice, an hotel and several stores. Loss $55,000, partly insured.

Apples at Auction in England.

Liverpool, Nov. 4.—There was a sale here to-day of 9608 barrels of apples brought here by the steamers Germanic, Cambroman and Roman. Baldwins sold at 12s. 6d. to 15s. per barrel; greenings, 10s. 9d. to 11s. 6d.; Newton pippins, 12s. 6d. to 20s.; Boston Baldwins, 12s. 6d., and Ben Davis, 17s. 9d.

London, Nov. 5.—Six thousand barrels brought by the American Line steamer New York were sold at auction here to-day. The prices obtained were: Newton pippins, 16s. to 21s.; Baldwins, 11s. 6d. to 12s. 6d.; greenings, 13s.; Nova Scotia King Tomkyns, 14s. to 16s.; ribstones, 9s. to 15s.

Sick Soldiers From Madagascar.

Algiers, Nov. 5.—The transport steamer Cachar arrived here to-day bringing a large number of invalid soldiers from Madagascar. Forty-five died on the voyage.

American Ship on a Rock.

London, Nov. 4.—The American ship Granite State, Captain Fulton, bound for Swansea, struck on Rundlestone rocks, near Pensance, to-day and was beached at Porth Curroboy to prevent her foundering. She is full of water, and it is feared will be a total wreck.

Riddled With Bullets.

Beebe, Ark., Nov. 5.—Albert England was taken from the officers at two o'clock Sunday morning by a mob and riddled with bullets near Vienna, 20 miles west of this place. He had stolen some clothing from a store, and this was the only charge against him.

BRITISH MARKETS.

Liverpool, Nov. 4.—Wheat, spring, no stock; red, 5s 4½d to 5s 5½d; No. 1 California, 5s 5½d to 5s 6¼d; corn, 2s 4d; peas, 4s 11½d; pork, 56s 3d; lard, 29s 0d; heavy bacon, 27s 6d; do, light, 32s 0d; tallow, no stock; cheese, white, 45s.; do, colored, 46s.

London, Nov. 4.—Opening—Wheat off coast dull, on passage unchanged. English country markets quiet and steady. Maize off coast quiet, on passage quiet but steady.

Liverpool—Spot wheat easy; futures steady at 5s 3d for Nov. and 5s 3¼d for Dec. Maize quiet at 3s 4½d for Nov. and 3s 4¾d for Dec.

Liverpool—Close—Wheat futures easy at 5s 2¾d for Nov. and 5s 3d for Dec. Maize quiet at 3s 3¾d for Nov. and 3s 4¼d for Dec. Flour, 18s 6d.

MISS SHIELDS CAN SHOOT.

When Her Enraged Lover Tried to Kill Her She Returned the Fire.

Charleston, W. Va., Nov. 4.—There was a remarkable street duel in Eagle yesterday. Erwin Hartley saw his sweetheart, Bettie Shields, in the street with a young man last Wednesday and demanded an explanation. The explanation was given, but it was not satisfactory, and Hartley declared that he would make trouble for Miss Shields.

After brooding over the matter for three days Hartley decided to shoot Miss Shields. He met her in the street yesterday, and pulling a pistol from his pocket, fired at her. The bullet cut the skin of Miss Shields' neck, when she took a pistol her brother had loaned her and fired three shots at Hartley, each of them taking effect and making wounds which may result fatally.

Hartley is the son of a well-to-do merchant and has stood high in the community, this being his first escapade.

Miss Shields is the daughter of Franklin Shields, and is very popular among the younger persons. She is eighteen years of age. She learned to shoot by going to the woods with her brothers and put the pistol in her pocket yesterday because she had been informed that Hartley was desperate and had made threats against her.

Mr. Jacob B. Brown, of Grahamville, S.C., was troubled with chills and fever, and unable to procure relief, until he began to take Ayer's Pills. He is now enjoying excellent health and is a warm and sincere advocate of Ayer's Pills, for all complaints of stomach liver, or bowels.

Your Health Goes Wrong When Unfiltered Blood Slips Past the Kidneys —Dodd's Kidney Pills Prevent This.

The kidneys are filters.

As soon as the kidneys fail sick they stop doing their work. They stop filtering the blood.

There is poison in unfiltered blood and it is sure to work havoc somewhere.

The weakest link in the chain of life is generally the objective point of poison in the blood.

When the kidneys are off guard these enemies slip past.

The kidneys are faithful when not weak or overworked.

Then, when the signs of weak kidneys appear use Dodd's Kidney Pills.

They always cure by helping the kidneys to do kidney work.

Your heart pumps the blood through and through the kidneys about twenty times every hour.

If you feel tired, nervous, chilly, dizzy. If you have headache, backache, swelling of the feet or ankles, puffiness of the eyelids, and if you are rapidly losing flesh without other cause,

Then you need and should at once resort to kidney treatment.

Dodd's Kidney Pills is the best kidney treatment in the known world.

They give immediate relief and it is also permanent, because you stay relieved.

Any kidney ailment is dangerous, because you may be in the last stages of it before you know it.

Dodd's Kidney Pills is the only medicine in the world that will cure kidney disease in all its forms.

THE AUSTIN REGATTA

Trial Heats in the Singles and Doubles.

THE CAUDAUR BROTHERS BEATEN

Teemer and Rogers Defeat the Griffin Boys in a Good Race—Hanlan and Peterson Third—Letter From the Ex-Champion—General Notes of Sport

Austin, Tex., Nov. 4.—Murky heavens and threatening rain marred the pleasure of the opening day of the regatta. The first event was between the English oarsmen, George Bubear, W. Haines, Jack Wingate and W. T Barry, single-scull, ¾ mile, three turns, and four times over the course, the first two over the finishing line to row in the final single scull for the Fox Challenge Cup, the championship of the world, and $100. The first over the line was Bubear, Haines second. Time 21.48.

The second event was the trial heat, double-scull, between Jake and G. Gaudaur, Teemer and Rogers, Peterson and Hanlan, distance three miles, with one turn, winners to row the Englishmen in the final heat for $1000 and the championship of the world. The first over the line was Teemer and Rogers, leading the Gaudaur brothers two boat lengths, with Peterson and Hanlan four boat lengths away. Time 18.21. The world's record is 18.20.

The Englishmen will row double-scull tomorrow to determine which double crew shall row in the final heat against the Americans.

Pools on the different finals have been sold as follows:

Single-scull for the championship of the world—Even on Gaudaur, 8 to 5 Teemer, 2 to 1, Peterson, 2 to 1 Bubear, 2 to 1 Hanlan, 4 to 1 Barry, 6 to 1 Rogers, 10 to 1 Haines, 15 to 1 Wingate.

For second place—Teemer 1 to 2, Peterson 6 to 5, Bubear even, Hanlan 6 to 5, Barry 8 to 2, Rogers 2 to 1, Haines 4 to 1, Wingate 6 to 1.

Double-scull event, championship of the world—To win—3 to 2, Peterson and Hanlan, 8 to 5 Gaudaur brothers, 8 to 5 Bubear and Barry, 2 to 1 Teemer and Rogers, 15 to 1 Wingate and Haines.

For second place—Peterson and Hanlan 3 to 5, Gaudaur brothers 3 to 5, Bubear and Barry 4 to 5, Teemer and Rogers even, Wingate and Haines 5 to 1.

The officers were: Referee—Ed Smith. Starter, John Crotty.

Under the date of Oct. 31, Ed Hanlan writes from Austin: I have had a good look at the two four-oared crews, and think the only chance the Americans have to beat the boys from Old England will be their condition. The Gaudaur men save me body swing and me two in the boat row alike. On the other side, the English crew row well, with a good body swing, and the chance they have of being beaten is their lack of condition.

The race of the regatta should be the double-scull race. To save my life, I cannot pick the winner. There will be the Gaudaur double, Teemer and Rogers, the two English doubles and Peterson and myself, and the more I see of the doubles rowing the less I know about it.

The single-scull race should be between Gaudaur and Teemer, for they are the only men here that are in first-class condition. As for myself, I have taken off too much weight in so short a time, and I am not as strong as I should be, although I am feeling well, and could not wish for better health. My double-scull partner, Peterson, has had less work than myself yet. I think our chances to win the doubles are good.

Should any of the rowing clubs of Toronto require some first-class boats, now is their chance. The English crew have the finest lot of boats I ever saw, and will sell them at cost price.

Turf Events.

Morris Park, Nov. 4.—The legitimate racing season of 1895 closes in the East tomorrow. It has been wonderfully successful, in spite of the countless difficulties which have had to be overcome since the "anti-gambling" law went into effect. Steeplechasing was started on a new basis this year. The jumpers were not very well patronized, however, but still the association feels satisfied with the result of the experiment. The principal drawback has been the lack of good horses. There have been so few 'chasers developed that most of the races naturally lacked interest.

The jockeys were a fair lot, considering the handicap they labored under. The best is unquestionably Brazil, who is a really fine horseman. He is an Irishman, who has ridden in Australia and India. Of the younger boys, Higgins gives the best promise. He came from Canada, and began his racing in this country at Saratoga, where he rode two or three really good races.

A fine crop of 2-year-olds was brought out this year. Probably this has been the best 2-year-old year since His Highness' time. When the season started they appeared to be a very unsatisfactory lot, but before long it was seen that they were surprisingly good youngsters. The 3-year-olds are beneath contempt. There is hardly a good selling plater among them. The aged division containing two or three first-class horses, such as Henry of Navarre and Clifford, but the rank and file are below par, and one cannot expect much better for some years to come.

The program for to-morrow's wind-up at Morris Park contains only one stake event, the White Plains handicap, with $1500 added, for 2-year-olds, over the Eclipse course, six furlongs, and a two miles steeplechase. The entries:

First race, ¾ mile—Hamilton 100, Doc Griffin, Mollie W., Wellarge, Dr. Rob 98, Tania, Madge D., Cuff, Nil Desperandum, Signora, Karma, Question 92.

Second race, ¾ mile—Wernberg 134, Hugh Penny 123, Peacemaker 112, Harrington 110, Woodvine 108, Patrol 104, Silver II. 95, Emotional, Cutler Joe 88.

Third race, White Plains handicap, ¾ mile—Hazlet 117, Merry Prince 116, Silver II., Mack Briggs 103, Hamilton II., Palmerston, 95, Titmouse 90, Tremargo 88.

Fourth race, 1⅛ miles—Helen Nichols 111, Lucania 105, Brandywine 100, Sir Francis 97, Refugee 94.

Fifth race, mile—Manchester 110, Leonawell, Charade 107, Marshall 104, Merry Duke, Eclipse 101, Doggett, Sir Francis, Defargilla 98, Sun Up, Sir Dixon Jr. 92, Bombasette 89.

Sixth race, ¾ mile—Gotham, Sun Up, Monaco 122, Abingdon, Deerslayer 117, Phoebus 114.

Seventh race, steeplechase handicap, 2 miles—Duke of Abercorn 162, Kilkenny 152, Woodford 150, May Blossom 148, Campaign 144, Richards 142, Bickle 138, Marotti 125.

New York, Nov. 4.—The stewards of the Jockey Club have granted a license to the Saratoga Association to conduct a race meeting at the Pimlico track from Nov. 11 to 30.

St. Asaph results—First race, ¾ mile—Grassmere, 1 to 3, 1; May Pinkerton, out place, 2; Lady Watson 3. Time 1.25.

Second race, 6½ furlongs—Belle of Fernoy, 5 to 2, 1; Cheddar, 1 to 3, 2; Foxglove 3. Time 1.28.

Third race, 5½ furlongs—Lumberman, 4 to 5, 1; Courtney, 6 to 1, 2; Berwyn 3. Time 1.13.

Fourth race, ⅝ miles—Blizzard, 1 to 2, 1; Nero, 3 to 1, 2; Doreas L. 3. Time .52.

Fifth race, ⅝ mile—Renaissance, 1 to 2, 1; Samaritan, 7 to 10, 2; Siva 3. Time 1.36.

Sixth race, 5½ furlongs—Lilliput, 2 to 1, 1; Flakewood, 7 to 5, 2; Granger 3. Time 1.15¼.

Morris Park, Nov. 2.—Rainy and disagreeable weather prevailed in this vicinity to-day, and as a consequence not more than a handful of spectators visited the track to witness the sport. The card, which was ordinarily a good one, was cut to ribbons by withdrawals, the track being fetlock-deep with mud. The race for the Belmont Stakes was the principal event on the program, and was won by Belmar, after a stirring finish with Counter Tenor, who was the favorite. This makes Belmar's fifth consecutive victory. Summaries:

First race, ⅝ mile—Refugee, 128, Griffin, 7 to 1; Wishard, 129, Reiff, even, 2; Marshan, 117, Ballard, 12 to 1, 3. Time .59. Tom Harding, Bellicose also ran.

Second race, 1 mile—Ina, 110, Reiff, 8 to 5, 1; Emma C., 122, Taral, 11 to 10, 2; Bombazette, 107, Littlefield, 4 to 1, 3. Time 1.46⅛. Lady McClana, Thyra also ran.

Third race, ⅝ mile—Sapolo, 111, Gifford, 6 to 1, 1; Doc Grimes, 110, Reiff, 8 to 1, 2; Trebargo, 111, Congdon, 20 to 1, 3. Time 1.13⅘. Mr. Reel, Golf, Dr. Bobb, Sunrise II., Sebastian, Little Mills also ran.

Fourth race, the Belmont Stakes, 1¼ miles—Belmar, 119, Taral, 5 to 1, 1; Counter Tenor, 126, Reiff, 4 to 5, 2; Nanki Pooh, 124, Simma, 4 to 1, 3. Time 2.11⅘. Brandywine, Monaco also ran.

Fifth race, 1 mile—Doggett, 90, Hewatt, 4 to 5, 1; Marshall, 112, Ballard, 3 to 1, 2; Phoebus, 81, Maher, 4 to 1, 3. Time 1.45. Abingdon, Golden Gate also ran.

Sixth race, 1 mile—Patrol, 113, Griffin, 8 to 5, 1; Carib, 112, Reiff, even, 2; Defender, 90, Doggett, 8 to 1, 3. Time 1.46. Wexford, Bessie Browning, Bon Ami, Tamoka also ran.

Alexander Island results—First race, ½ mile—Philadelphia, 8 to 5, 1; Beckton, 2 to 1, place, 2; Argyle III., 3. Time .53⅘.

Fifth race, 1⅛ miles—Black Silk 1, Staffa 2, Fayette 3. Time 1.57.

Dr. George H. Bailey of Maine clings to the opinion that the 2-minute trotter is a thing of the distant future. His friend, Mr. David A. Smart of New Bedford took issue with him, and the result was a wager of $100 a side that a horse will trot to a record of 2.00 in 1898.—Turf, Field and Farm.

A cough which persists day after day, should not be neglected any longer. It means something more than a mere local irritation, and the sooner it is relieved the better. Take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is prompt to act and sure to cure.

Exposure to cold, damp winds, may result in pneumonia unless the system is kept invigorated with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

... to be Tryed a Colony.

Antanarivo, the capital of Madagascar, is a city of 80,000 inhabitants, and is situated at about the centre of the island, about 190 miles west of the city of Tamatave. It is in a mountainous region, about 7,000 feet above the level of the sea. It is built upon three hills. France, the new owner of Madagascar, made an attempt once to start a colony in the island, the Frenchmen settling on the southeast coast. The colony for a time was successful, for the French adventurers had the sagacity and foresight of marrying the beautiful girls of the country. But they lost their wisdom when a French vessel bound to the neighboring island of Bourbon was wrecked on the coast near Fort Dauphin. That ship was conveying as passengers about 26 girls destined for the Bourbon colonists. The settlers at Madagascar discarded their native wives and married their country women. On the night of the wedding ceremony, which was performed for all at the same time, the abandoned Madagascar girls sents their relatives and their slaves, who killed the greater part of the French colonists. Those who escaped were lost at sea, and thus ended the first attempt of French colonization in Madagascar. —Chicago Inter-Ocean

A Shameful Practice.

Many tooth preparations contain substances that speedily destroy the enamel and beauty of the teeth. For this reason the greatest care should be exercised in the selection of a dentrifice. Ivorine for the teeth is offered with the assurance that it is absolutely free from objectionable ingredients. An admirable cleanser is Ivorine, imparting dazzling whiteness to the teeth, firmness to the gums, and renders the breath sweet and fragrant.

What Should Influence You In the Purchase of a

PIANO?

If within the last 40 years we have grown from one small factory to have the largest in Canada, and from one factory warerooom to a branch warerooom in some of the largest cities and towns in the Dominion, is it not a safe argument in favour of our goods?

Can we afford to throw away for a few dollars profit a reputation which we have gained by years of hard, honest work?

In selling a Piano there is something more than the profit on the immediate sale. There is the opportunity of making other sales where goods prove reliable.

Is it unreasonable for us to say that being the manufacturers of reliable instruments we are in the position to save you the dealer's or jobber's profit, and that our guarantee upon a Piano means 100 cents on the dollar?

Band Instruments, small Musical Instruments, newest Sheet Music, and fittings for all instruments always in stock.

The ticket is attracting a great deal of attention.

Rev. Father Gnam Heard From.

"Nothing heretofore used by me relieves a cough or breaks up a cold so quickly as the new medicine, Pinemalt. It acts almost magically in hoarseness and sore throat making it a boon to singers and speakers. Pinemalt should be in every house." Rev. P. J. Gnam, Parish Priest, Petrolia and Wyoming, March, 1895. The reason is that the New Medicine does not disappoint. It does its work quickly and pleasantly. In lingering cases ask druggist for Pinemalt and Hypophosphites instead of plain Pinemalt.

Still Flourishing.

It is pleasing to note that our friend Simons is doing a flourishing business in his new quarters. We notice by his books, which are open to the public to inspect, that he has not only filled orders during the past month from Kenlis, N.W.T., Beavermouth, B.C., and Keewatin, as well as local trade, but has also made several suits for the J. L. Clarke Dramatic Company, which were shipped to them last week. This speaks well, not only for the splendid stock of cloths which this firm carry, but for the workmanship, cut and finish of garments which draw orders from theatrical people, who, as is well known, are very hard to please in their wearing apparel. If you desire any garment for the coming holidays, made in style and up-to-date, we know of no firm more capable of filling your order satisfactorily than Pete Simons & Co.

THE BURNING QUESTION OF FIRE PROTECTION

Discussed by the Ashburnham Village Council—Referred to a Special Committee—The Town Fire Protection Account Disputed—Not According to the Agreement of 1872.

The Ashburnham village council met in regular session last night. Present—Messrs. H. Calcutt, in the chair, and Craig, Rutherford and Smith.

After routine the following

ACCOUNTS

were presented:

Dickson Company	$30 89
G A Craig	1 50
John Kerr	4 80
Pay sheet No. 30	6 25
" " 31	6 75
" " 32	15 75

MEDICAL HEALTH OFFICER.

Dr. Clarke was appointed Medical Health Officer at a salary of $50 per annum.

The clerk was instructed to advertise for tenders for snow-ploughing.

THE FIRE PROTECTION QUESTION.

This burning question was brought up by the presentation of the town account for fire protection, which had been furnished at the request of the council, as follows:

To ten per cent. of maintenance of Fire Department for 1893, exclusive of hydrants	$356 29
To ten per cent of cost of maintenance of Fire Department for 1894, exclusive of hydrants, etc	380 50
Total	$736 79

In connection with this account the chairman read the bylaw passed in 1872, emboying the agreement with the town of Peterborough. The first clause reads thus:

That this corporation will aid the corporation of the Town of Peterborough in the purchasing of a steam fire engine and the necessary quantity of hose to the amount of one tenth part of of the cost of said engine and hose, and that this corporation will also aid the corporation of the Town of Peterborough in a like proportion of the annual cost of keeping the said engine and hose in repair, and paying the salary of an engineer and caretaker of the same, provided that this corporation shall have a voice in the management of said engine.

A statement was also submitted giving the amount paid by Ashburnham since the agreement was entered into in 1872, which was $3,604.23. This included a payment of $650, Dec. 15th, 1892, and $150.00 Feb. 6th, 1893.

Councillor Smith set forth the claims of the village that, according to the agreement, it is only bound to pay one tenth of the cost of the fire engine, which the village claims to have paid, and one-tenth of the cost of its maintenance and a like proportion of the salary of the engineer; whereas it is claimed that the town has charged the village with one-tenth of the maintenance of the entire fire department, less hydrants, and that the village, according to the agreement, has been allowed no voice in the management of the fire engine. Mr. Smith concluded by suggesting that the amount of $3,604.23, paid by the village under the agreement, would pretty well pay for the whole outfit.

Mr. Peck, treasurer, explained that in 1884 the town treasurer was willing to accept payment and did accept payment at an average rate of $131 per year, and at that rate, according to the payments since made, the town would owe the village some $561. The matter was finally disposed of by Councillor Smith moving, seconded by Mr. Craig,—That the Clerk be instructed to acknowledge the receipt of statement of an account of the town of Peterborough in the matter of fire protection, and draw the Town Clerk's attention to the fact that their account is not based on the agreement between the two corporations; also that the whole Council and Mr. Peck, Village Treasurer, be a committee to confer with the Fire and Light Committee of the town of Peterborough at their earliest convenience.—Carried.

The Methodist Sunday School was allowed the free use of the Town Hall on Christmas night.

The Street Inspector was instructed to clean out the ditch on Woodbine street.

The Council adjourned.

Mrs. J. C. Sherin of Lakefield, District Organizer of the Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist church, will visit the Mark street Auxiliary to-morrow—Wednesday—afternoon at 3 o'clock. There will also be a public meeting in the same place in the evening, at which a suitable programme will be rendered, and Mrs. Sherin will deliver an address. The members of the George and Charlotte street Auxiliaries are cordially invited to attend, and also all interested in mission work.

Used Tobacco For Thirty Years.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 10, 1894.

UNCLE SAM'S TOBACCO CURE, CHICAGO, ILL. GENTLEMEN:—Regarding my opinion of the "Uncle Sam's Tobacco Cure," I would say: I have used the "filthy weed" for over thirty years, but after using the "Uncle Sam's Tobacco Cure" one week, I lost all taste or desire for it. This is some two months ago. Respectfully, JOHN G. LEE. Call at J. Lynch's drug store, Hunter street, and get a box of tablets.

Let Off Easily.

J. C. Williams, Edw. O'Brien and Edw. Kelly, the three navvies who were brought up from Havelock on Saturday afternoon, charged with being drunk and disorderly and breaking into the premises of Mr. Bebee, of that village, were before the County Police Magistrate this morning. On the payment of $2.00 each, to cover the expenses of bringing witnesses to town, the men were allowed to go on suspended sentence. They intend seeking work on the Trent Valley Canal, and the housebreaking was the result of a drunken bout.

The Wall Paper Attraction

for the closing end of this year, will be the clearing boom now on at the Peterborough Bookstore, to be kept booming during the whole of the month of November, or until such time as the entire heavy stock has all been captured by bargain seekers. Prices have been literally cut in two—the object being to make a speedy clearance during this fine Indian Summer weather, and thus make room for a big holiday stock to arrive for Xmas. Cornice poles and window shades are included in the boom—prices for which will be rock bottom. A. H. STRATTON & Co.

Ontario Sabbath Schools.

The new Central Executive Committee of the Sabbath School Association of Ontario, appointed at the recent convention in Cooke's church, Toronto, has met and organized for the year. No less than 17 members attended the meetings and standing sub-committees on finance, on normal work and on primary work were appointed. It was announced that the convention was attended by over 800 delegates. The cash receipts during the convention were $498.27 and the amounts pledged by counties, etc., $1,334.50. A verbatim report of the proceedings and addresses at the convention will be published about the end of November in a volume of about 200 pages.

ROBBERY AT MILLBROOK.

BURGLARS FORCE THE G. T. R. STATION DOOR BUT GET NOTHING.

The Safe is Dragged into the Middle of the Floor, but the Intruders are Frightened Off.

That a gang of burglars is travelling through the country on bicycles, and successfully operating on safes in different localities, has been proven beyond a doubt, and the detectives are doing their utmost to track down the riders of the silent steeds, who carry on their nefarious work, and have been able so successfully to elude detection so far.

Last night, or rather early this morning, a portion of the gang visited Millbrook, and while they secured nothing, every evidence of their presence was observable when G. T. R. Agent Cochrane went on duty to-day.

On arriving at the station he found that the door had been forced and the lock broken. The safe was dragged into the middle of the floor, but was unharmed, and though the ticket cabinet was broken open nothing inside it had been molested.

The theory is that the burglary was committed at about half past three this morning, and that the freight from Port Hope coming by just as the operations were about to be instituted on the safe, frightened the scoundrels off before they could effect their purpose.

G.T.R. Agent Hayden states that the local station is open for robbery at any time and thieves are welcome to what they can get, as the remittances are made at nine o'clock every evening, after which little or nothing is taken in for tickets.

A LAWSUIT THAT IS OF AGE.

Cobourg has a Case That has Dragged for Twenty-one Years.

At the Cobourg Assizes what was left of a law case lasted several days. This case is no mean rival in staying powers to Dickens' memorable Jarndyce vs. Jarndyce. It is not yet concluded and promises fair to last as long as there is any money in it for the lawyers. The following is the report of the latest trial:

Irvine vs. McCauley lasted several days. This was an action brought by the late Hon. George Irvine of Quebec to recover possession of 100 acres in Murray township as trustee for the McLellan estate. Twenty-one years ago proceedings were stayed to abide the result of another case, which was decided only a year ago. Everybody, connected with the action when it was started, is now dead, and the taking of evidence from the documents was long and tedious. The paper title to the land is in the plaintiffs. The defendants claim by length of possession. Messrs. Clute, Q. C., and Delany for plaintiff; Messrs. Shepley, Q. C., and Huyke for defence.

ST. JOHN'S Y. P. A.

A Deputation Received From the King's Daughters.

At the regular meeting of St. John's Young People's Association last evening, a deputation from the church society known as the King's Daughters was received, and as the two organizations work along almost identical lines, it was resolved that as much of the work as possible be performed in conjunction.

A reception committee was appointed to decorate the Opera House on Thursday, and though a number of communications were received in reference to the purchase of a piano by the Association, no definite conclusion was reached in this matter.

NEWS NUGGETS.

Paragraphs Picked Up and Pencilled for Public Perusal.

—Board of Education to-night.

—There was no police court this morning.

—Rugby Football practice in the rink to-night at 7.30.

—Belleville's amateur minstrels are re-organising under the direction of Mr. Geo. Fax.

—The Belleville branch of the Stroud Tea Company was burglarized on Sunday. Only about five dollars was secured.

—No use of talking, the Sir Robert Peel must be the best 5c cigar in town, as other dealers have tried to get them but failed. They are only to be had at W. MORGAN'S.

—The roads are getting into shape again to the delight of the wheelmen. On Sunday a large number rode out to Chemong, and although it was soft in the swamp the rest of the road was good.

—THE EXAMINER sympathizes with the Woodstock Sentinel-Review in the loss by robbery of $19.45, from its safe. It shows double depravity when such honestly-earned money is "swiped."

—Miss Jennie G. Drennan has secured a verdict of $1,500 against the city of Kingston for damages sustained by falling on an icy crossing on Princess street, at the corner of Montreal street.

—The total value of all the real and personal property of Stratford is $4,530,710, an increase of $65,200 over last year. The total population of Stratford is 10,506, an increase of 141 over last year, and of 27.9 over 1893.

See if it Won't Work a Miracle.

Thousands have been benefited by Wilson's celebrated Invalid's Port. While it soothes, it strengthens; while it makes a pleasant drink, it at the same time builds up the run down system. For Wilson's Invalids' Port is a fine old generous wine, full bodied, which is guaranteed to make blood, and to add a new feeling of strength and hope to the hypochondriac. It is a great deal more valuable than the ordinary tonics, for while it sharpens the appetite it at the same time has the power to make new flesh and muscles. All over the country this wine is in demand, replacing many of the worthless nostrums, which have been impudently called tonics and blood makers. A big bracing tonic. Sold by all dealers at $7.50 per case of 12 quart bottles half case $4 or 75 cts per bottle. Address, Bordeaux Claret Co., 30 Hospital street, Montreal.

—The Josephine Kid Glove Cleaner is unlike any other—that's the good of it. Ladies will not do without it at twice the cost once they use it. Sold by Robt. Fair, sign of the Golden Lion, headquarters for Perrin Freres' celebrated Kid Gloves in newest styles for all occasions.

Ingenious Swindlers.

A couple of ingenious swindlers are reported to be doing London, says the Free Press. They do not travel together, but divide each day's proceeds. Going to a house they produce a pair of spectacles having no case, and say they found the glasses in some other city and will sell them for $1.50. The frames appear to be gold and some fine work is shown on them. Victims come easy, sales generally being made at 75 cents. The spectacles turn out to be worthless after a short time, and are purchased by the swindlers for $2.50 a dozen.

Milk Adulteration in Otonabee.

The charge of milk adulteration preferred against John Taylor, of Otonabee, was heard before County Police Magistrate Edmison yesterday afternoon, and on request of Messrs. Stratton & Hall, who appeared for the defence, judgment has been reserved until Saturday. Taylor acknowledged that his milk can stood out on the stand all one Saturday night when it rained, and that the water was allowed to remain in the can all day Sunday in the sun and the milk afterwards poured into it. When received at the factory the milk had soured. The magistrate holds that the trouble was caused more through great negligence than criminal intent. On Saturday Mr. W. A. Stratton will present a number of references on the subject for Mr. Edmison's consideration.

A Great Book Free.

When Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., published the first edition of his great work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, he announced that after 680,000 copies had been sold at the regular price, $1.50 per copy, the profit on which would repay him for the great amount of labour and money expended in producing it, he would distribute the next half million free. As this number of copies has already been sold, he is now giving away absolutely free, 500,000 copies of this most complete, interesting and valuable common sense medical work ever published — the recipient only being required to mail to him, at above address, thirty one (31) one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only, and the book will be sent post paid. It is a veritable medical library, complete in one volume. Contains 1008 pages, profusely illustrated. The Free Edition is precisely the same as that sold at $1.50, except only that the books are in strong manilla paper covers instead of cloth. Send NOW before all are given away.

SOCIAL EVENING AT THE SOUTH WARD MISSION.

The Woman's Auxiliary Entertain Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Smith.

The Woman's Auxiliary of St. John's South Ward Mission met last evening for the purpose of spending a social evening with Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Carl Smith, whose works will be principally connected with that portion of the town from which the Mission derives support.

There was no programme of any kind, although Rev. J. C. Davidson, rector of St. John's, made a few brief remarks welcoming Mr. and Mrs. Smith to the parish, and afterwards delivered an address to the members of the Auxiliary, dwelling on the assistance which they could render in church work.

During the evening refreshments were served and the social nature of the reception was such as enabled the new curate to become well acquainted with the ladies of the congregation.

WELL ENDORSED.

THE COUNCIL HOLDS A CESSPOOL SESSION.

AN APPLICATION FOR ONE REFUSED.

Communications and Accounts Dealt With—A Brick Sewer From the Bridge to Rink Street—Grant for Mechanic's Institute Classes Solicited.

There was some doubt as to whether there would be a council meeting last night, and in consequence several of the members were absent. Those in attendance were the Mayor and Councillors Cahill, Best, Denne, Mills, Dawson, Cobb, Sawers, Mason and Brady.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed after which the following were received and referred as appended:—

From T. Parrington, bailiff to the collector of taxes, asking that a grant be given him in return for his services in collecting, and pointing out that all the reimbursements he received are the fees collected under warrants, which he has been most lenient in executing.

Referred to the Finance Committee.

From Wm. Breckenridge, asking that a crossing at the west end of Chamberlen street be replaced, and complaining that his team had only received 4½ days work all summer.

Referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

From Ledger Letellier, asking reimbursement for six sheep destroyed on his premises by dogs on Sunday.

Referred to the town solicitor, although Councillor Brady thought the matter should be thrown out and the communication not considered at all.

From E. B. Edwards, stating that he had written the President of the C. P. R. concerning the removal of the sheds on Wolfe street, and as his letter had not been answered, asking further instructions.

Referred to the Property Committee.

From Messrs. Grant & Winch, contractors, notifying the council that the Bank of Toronto was authorized to receive all payments due them.

Referred to the town solicitor.

From Dennis Donovan, asking a remission of his taxes.

Referred to the Court of Revision.

From T. G. Hazlitt, in re taxes on premises known as No. 165 Hunter street, and stating that Michael Brousseau was responsible for the payment thereof.

Referred to the Court of Revision.

From John McNaughton, asking for the construction of a crossing in front of some of his property.

Referred to the Street and Bridge Committee.

THE SEWERAGE COMMITTEE

reported that as authorized they had arranged with Messrs. Rutherford & Bogue, the contractors of No. 2 section of the outfall sewer, to construct that portion of their contract, from Rink street to the bridge, of brick instead of pipe. This portion is to be paid for pro rata with the other portion of their contract, namely at the rate of $3.22 per foot.

Adopted on motion of the chairman, Councillor Best, and Councillor Denne.

THE FINANCE COMMITTEE

recommended the payment of the following accounts:

P Grady	$ 5 00
Chas Gunsolus	3 00
F L Robinson	4 00
T Fitzgerald	3 00
Fitzgerald & Co	22 90
Mrs W Frith	6 00
Greer & Bradburn	2 10
J W Metheral	10 85
Kingan & Allen	20 30

Adopted on motion of the chairman, Councillor Cahill and Councillor Best.

On motion of Councillor Dawson, Mr. McCollum was heard in reference to a grant to the Mechanic's Institute.

Mr. McCollum stated that the class for which the grant of $200 was asked consisted of the mechanics of the town. The money was needed for the purpose of purchasing models, etc. He was making nothing out of the class beyond a charge of 25 cents an hour to each pupil. Peterborough, he stated, was recognized as a manufacturing town and if the citizens were educated along this line it would be unnecessary to go abroad for expert workmen. The better education a mechanic had the more wages he would command and the less likelihood would there be of strikes. Scores of young men were walking the streets at night who could be studying if the proper models were obtainable for the better prosecution of their studies.

On motion of Councillors Brady, and Dawson the matter was referred to the Finance Committee for their consideration.

Councillors Cahill and Best moved that Rev. Dr. Torrance be permitted to have a cesspool constructed on King street. The work to be performed to the satisfaction of the Street and Bridge Committee.

Councillor Best stated that he understood complaints had been made already about the cesspool on Water street, but that he understood this one was only a temporary one, as connection with the sewer would soon be obtainable in this part of the town.

Councillor Dawson stated that he wished to regarding the cesspool on Water street. When he had moved that permission be granted to construct it, he did so only because he saw that if it was placed in the yard it would contaminate a well in the immediate vicinity. He understood that the cesspool would be tapped and run into the sewer.

Councillor Cahill stated that it was just on these grounds he supported the motion to allow Rev. Dr. Torrance to construct one. It would be tapped as soon as the sewer was put in.

Councillor Mason objected strongly to having any cesspools whatever on the street. He pointed out that if it wasn't lined with cement it would contaminate any well, and if it was in the street it would have to be cleaned out from time to time and the roadway torn up.

Councillor Mills also objected to the streets being honey combed with cesspools. He stated that the line could not be drawn too soon, as if these cesspools were opened up one after the other at different parts of the year, a stench would constantly prevail along the street.

Councillor Dawson stated that the cesspool would not be constructed on Water street, as the person asking permission to have it put there had decided to GIVE UP THE IDEA.

Councillor Cahill drew attention to the fact that Dr. Torrance's cesspool would be just on the outside of his fence and the difference could not be appreciable.

Councillor Cahill's motion was defeated by a vote of 5 to 4.

Councillor Best stated that he hoped the public would understand that at a small expense sewerage would be obtainable in the spring, and petitions for the construction of connecting drains were now in order.

On motion of Councillors Best and Cahill a cheque for $100 will be issued to R. S. Davidson for the construction of the Gilmour street drain.

On motion Mr. Wm. Pope will be allowed the use of the town scraper, providing he employ the man who usually looks after it.

On motion of Councillor Mason, Mr. A. Saunders was invited to speak on the license question. He complained that though he paid a license fee of $30 he was not accorded protection. Others, he said, bought and sold on the streets, making a profit and used to pay no fee. He stated that if he did not get protection his license fee had been taken from him under false pretences. The Chief of Police, he thought, should look after those who affecting this question.

Councillor Brady suggested that Mr. Saunders should furnish the Chief with the necessary information regarding these unlicensed peddlers, but Mr. Saunders did not think he was called upon to do this. He had paid for his license and thought he should be protected.

Councillor Denne thought Mr. Saunders was justified in complaining.

The matter was referred to the License Committee.

Councillor Best rose to state that the Town Engineer, the Street and Bridge Inspector and himself had been examining the bridge across the creek on George street and estimated that to tear it up and put in one hundred feet of pipe with flange joints and saddle piers would cost between eight and nine hundred dollars, and it was thought a better method would be to narrow the creek down to about twenty-five feet and put in just one section of pipe, stretching between two stone abutments. A stone pier could be put in the centre and a new and more modern bridge constructed. The old bridge would have to be renewed in four or five years anyway, and the pipes taken up, and he thought the matter should be attended to at once. A new bridge would cost about fourteen or fifteen hundred dollars. His motion, seconded by Councillor Denne, was carried to the effect that the Sewerage and Street and Bridge Committee be instructed to visit the bridge and report.

The Council then adjourned.

WORLD OF SPORTS

Varsity Won from Queens.

Varsity defeated Queen's in the first match of the Ontario Rugby Union final round Saturday at Rosedale by 19 points to 2. The half-time score was Queen's 2, Varsity 1.

The game was played in perfect weather with about 3000 spectators present. Varsity won the toss and decided to kick with the sun behind them and give the visitors the slight advantage of a southeast breeze.

Varsity surprised her supporters by stopping Queen's rushes at the outset, and for 15 minutes play was near midfield. The local men lost ground by picking out of scrimmage, free kicks for Queen's landing the ball near the line. Curtis made his mark and played for McRae, who missed the goal, but it was a rouge. Curtis soon kicked to touch in goal and the visitors led by 3 to 0, this proving their last point. Varsity's first came from Counsell's punt, McRae touching down.

In the second half the visitors were easily outplayed. Counsell started to punt with effect, soon forced a rouge and the score was 2 all. The next was Bradley's try, the forwards rushing the ball over. No goal. Counsell punted to touch in goal and in short order Barr scored a try and Elliott kicked the goal. Queen's braced up and had a look in. They looked dangerous, but Belanger saved miraculously. Hobbs had his chest seriously hurt and went off with Elliott. Just before the whistle blew, Barr followed up Kingston's punt and fell on the ball for a try. Elliott kicked the difficult goal.

Next Saturday the teams meet in Kingston tao decide the championship, Varsity having 17 points advantage.

Tigers Win the Junior Championship.

Hamilton, Nov. 2.—Hamilton juniors defeated Kingston Granites in the championship final this afternoon by 28 points to 7. The score at the end of the first half, in which the Granites had the advantage of the wind, was 9 to 3 in Hamilton's favor. The Granites had three rouges, while the young Tigers' score was made up of a try, a goal, two touches in goal and one rouge. In the second half the Granites' only score was made just before the close of the play, when a touch without try was allowed them, making four points. The Tigers secured two tries, from each of which a goal was kicked, two safety touches, one touch in goal, and two rouges. Rayner and Dalton played the star game for the Granites, while Burns, Newman and McIlroy did the best work for Hamilton. H. C. Pope was referee, and W. A. Bucke umpire; both of London.

McGill and Montreal Tied for First Place.

Montreal, Nov. 2.—The unexpected which happens in football as well as in love, and it was the unexpected that happened to Montreal this afternoon, when McGill defeated them by 8 to 6. The half-time score was 7 to 5. It was tough, too, for just after the time whistle blew E. James got the ball from a throw in from touch, and forced his way pluckily over McGill's line. It would have meant Montreal's victory had his try been allowed. Anyway, the best team won, and Montreal is not the first football team that has lost a game by feeling too confident that it would win.

This makes McGill and Montreal a tie for first place in the Quebec Union.

Varsity Defeats Osgoode Hall.

The old rivals, Varsity and Osgoode Hall, went on the field at 3.30. They played a swift and exciting game, resulting in favor of Varsity by a score of 2 to 0. It was one of the fastest and cleanest that have been played on the lawn this year, and a large assembly witnessed the match. Referee Crawford blew the whistle at 4 o'clock, and the teams lined up as follows:

At the kick-off Osgoode made a beautiful rush for goal, but failed to score. They continued to press Varsity's goal for several minutes, and it looked as if they were going to have things their own way; but Varsity settled down, and from then until call of time had much the better of the game. A short time before the end of the first half Burns, who was playing a strong game, was badly hurt, and had to retire, Munro, Varsity's centre, going off to even up. Almost immediately after resuming play Cooper scored for Varsity, and this ended the scoring for the first half. In the second Varsity made a most determined attach on the Osgoodites' citadel, and, although Osgoode's [illegible] showed up strong, Cooper, by a [illegible] again sent the ball whizzing [illegible] goal. For Osgoode, Buckingham and Sims, on the forward line, Burns at half and Little at back were most conspicuous. Of the Varsity team, all the forwards played a magnificent game, while the defence was almost impregnable.

For the Hough Cup.

Seaforth, Nov. 2.—To-day the Berlin Collegiate Institute Football team played Seaforth Collegiate Institute for the Hough Cup, which appears to have become a fixture here, having been in possession of Seaforth for several years. The ground was wet and slippy, but the home team clearly demonstrated their superiority by scoring 7 goals to their opponents' 1.

ON NOVEMBER 26

The People of the United States are Requested to Unite in Thanksgiving.

Washington, Nov. 5.—The customary thanksgiving proclamation has been issued by the President as follows:

A proclamation to the people of the United States:

The constant goodness and forbearance of Almighty God, which have been vouchsafed to the American people during the year which is just passed, call for their sincere acknowledgment and devout gratitude. To the end therefore that we may with thankful hearts unite in extolling the loving care of our Heavenly Father, I, Grover Cleveland, President of the United States, do hereby appoint and set apart Thursday, the 28th day of the present month of November, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer, to be kept and observed by all our people.

On that day let us forego our usual occupations, and in our accustomed places of worship join in rendering thanks to the Giver of every good and and perfect gift for the bounteous returns that have rewarded our labors in the fields and in the busy marts of trade, for the peace and order that have prevailed throughout the land, for our protection from pestilence and dire calamity, and for the other blessings that have been showered upon us from an open hand.

And with our thanksgiving let us humbly beseech the Lord to so incline the hearts of our people unto Him that He will not leave us nor forsake us as a nation, but will continue to us His mercy and protecting care, guiding us in the path of national prosperity and happiness, enduring with rectitude and virtue and keeping alive within us a patriotic love for the free institutions which have been given to us as our national heritage.

And let us also on the day of our thanksgiving especially remember the poor and needy, and by deeds of charity let us show the sincerity of our gratitude.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States to be affixed.

(Signed) GROVER CLEVELAND.

Done at the city of Washington, this fourth day of November in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and ninety-five, and in the one hundred and twentieth year of the Independence of the United States.

By the President:

RICHARD OLNEY,
Secretary of State.

SIXTY HOURS OVERDUE

A Steamer From Fort William With a Valuable Cargo Missing.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Nov. 5.—The steamer Missoula of the Wilson Line is 60 hours overdue here from Fort William, Ont., having left that port Thursday last. Although several boats have been over the course since Thursday, nothing has been seen of the missing steamer. An expedition left at noon to search for the Missoula. It is believed the steamer's machinery has become disabled, or that she has gone ashore in the foggy weather, which has prevailed the past few days. There have been no storms which would cause her to founder. The steamer carries a crew of 16 or 18 men, and her cargo is valued at $130,000.

They Were Lunatics' Bodies.

Kingston, Nov. 5.—The bodies stolen from the Roman Catholic vault in St. Mary's Cemetery were those of James Tough and James Behan, lunatics, who died in Rockwood Asylum last Tuesday. No trace can be secured of the remains.

British Steamer Wrecked.

London, Nov. 4.—The British steamer Inchulva, Captain Garthwaite, from Cardiff, Sept. 17, for Acapulco, has been wrecked at Santa Maria. The vessel and cargo are a total loss. The Inchulva was of 2229 tons gross and 1453 net.

Safety of Missionaries Assured.

Constantinople, Nov. 4.—United States Minister Terrell has obtained from the Porte a repetion of the instructions given to the Governor of Bitlis, Armenia, to protect the American missionaries at that place, and regards their safety as now assured.

MR. GREENWAY'S REPLY.

The Second Remedial Order Will, it is Thought, be Treated in the Same Way as the First.

Winnipeg, Nov. 5.—A prominent rural politician gives it as his opinion that the Manitoba Legislature will be called next month to consider the Greenway Government's reply to the last Remedial Order. Manitoba's answer will therefore take the form of a resolution of the Legislature, as was the case with the first order.

It is believed the second reply will be to the same effect as the first one, and will formally protest against Federal interference. This reply having been sent, it is understood Mr. Greenway will appeal to the electorate for endorsation of his policy.

Lieut.-Governor Mackintosh is in the city. He was asked regarding the rumor circulated by The London Advertiser to the effect that he was about to return to Ottawa with the ultimate object of succeeding Mr. Daly in the Cabinet, and to sit as a member for Ottawa. His Honor said no such proposition had been made. The Advertiser was evidently romancing.

The compilation of the Provincial Voters' Lists closed to-day. The number of voters enrolled in the three city divisions is about 7500, which is about 580 in excess of the number on the lists four years ago. But as the Conservatives took little interest in the registration, there are no doubt a large number of qualified voters left off. These, however, will be put on at the Court of Revision, and fraudulent names struck off at the same time.

WILL THEY GET IT?

Rumoured Establishment by a Canadian Firm of a Branch in Albany, N. Y.

ALBANY (Special) Nov. 4.—The outcry in certain quarters against the high tariff still goes on, but it is to the tariff that Albany is likely to owe the addition of another industry to her numerous existing ones. A Canadian firm located in Toronto has, it is understood, been interviewed by an Albany business man, with a view to establishing in this city a manufactory of the staple kidney remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills. As the business done by the Canadian firm throughout the United States has assumed very large porportions, owing to the recognition by the American public of the great value of this staple, it is probable that arrangements will be satisfactorily entered into. The annual output is very large and is rapidly increasing.

N. INGRAM
Lessee

Lakefield, Jan 16 1895. dw

THE pain that sometimes strikes a man at the most inopportune moment is due to indigestion. It may come in the midst of a dinner and make the feast a mockery. It is a reminder that he may not eat what he chooses, nor when he chooses. He is a slave to the weakness of his stomach. Frequently he doesn't even know whether the thing he eats is going to agree with him or not. The things that please his palate most are often the worst for him to eat. Even the simplest food is likely to cause him misery and sleeplessness. His first trouble was very slight—very simple—very easy to cure. He ate something indigestible and it stuck some place in his digestive system. He ate more things and they stuck. Part of his digestion stopped altogether—that is constipation.

Constipation is so common that more than half the people in America are troubled with it. It is so serious that nine tenths of the sickness of the world is traceable directly to this common cause. A man's health and strength depend upon what he gets out of his food. This depends on his digestion. Constipation stops digestion. Anybody can see that. The commonest kind of common sense will tell you that. When digestion stops, nutrition stops, and the whole body is thrown out of order.

The way to start digestion is to remove the obstruction. The way to do that is to take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are a positive cure for constipation and its attendant ills—headaches, sour stomach, flatulence, dizziness, biliousness and "heartburn." They are very gentle in their action. They simply assist nature. They give no violent wrench to the system. They cause no pain, nor griping, nor discomfort of any kind.

You can get a free sample of from 4 to 7 doses, by addressing World's Dispensary Medical Association, No. 663 Main Street, Buffalo, N. Y.

MODERN RURAL HOME

THIS ONE HAS A VESTIBULE AND RECEPTION HALL.

The Building Will Cost About $2,700 but It Has Been Done for $2,500—The House is Well Plumbed and Heated by Furnace.

Not long since everyone building a home thought he must have a reception hall. The natural consequence was the overworking of the idea of such a hall. It developed into such a state that the hall became simply a large room with a stairway in it, and certainly an undesirable place in which to receive anyone. The one thing necessary to convert such a hall into a desirable and satisfactory reception room is a vestibule. The accompanying plans show how this may be done.

FIG. 1.—PERSPECTIVE VIEW OF RURAL COTTAGE

The vestibule is built in front of the reception hall and furnishes a direct view to the front. Into this vestibule one may enter, remove his wraps and walk into the sitting room or reception hall, as we will call it, and thence into the parlor or dining-room, or may pass on through the lobby into the kitchen or to the cellar stairs. By placing a door from the vestibule into the parlor one could gain a certain amount of independence. The reception hall, parlor, and dining-room are of good size, and being connected by wide sliding doors they may be thrown together when occasion makes this desirable. In the reception hall is a cosy, arched recess containing an open fireplace. There is also an open fireplace in the dining-room and in the chamber above. These are furnished with mantels of neat design.

The kitchen is convenient of access and at the same time so arranged as to prevent the noise and smell of cooking from entering the other rooms, having two doors between it and any room connected with it. The pantry, between the kitchen and dining-room, is well fitted with shelves, bins and china closet. A side panel connects the drain table in the pantry with the sink in the kitchen. The kitchen is provided with a bricked-in range with water back and boiler, and cold water supply is had from a tank placed in the attic and supplied from the cistern by a force pump in the cellar. The back stairs to the second story are inclosed, having doors at bottom and top to prevent smells from reaching that floor. The bay window in the dining-room is roofed-in square, with a projection above containing three windows from the chamber on the second floor. The front window in the parlor has a polished plate glass 64x52 inches, hung with weights and arranged to slide up into the wall, with a 20-inch art stained glass transom over.

On the second floor are found four good rooms, besides a bath room and closets. A stairway leads from the hall to the attic overhead. The house is trimmed throughout in white pine in natural color, except the kitchen, which is trimmed in yellow pine. The frame is of the usual western construction, containing first-class materials throughout. The walls are covered outside with shiplap sheathing and building paper, and weatherboarded with clear white pine siding, and inside with three coats of lime plastering. The house is well plumbed, and heated by a furnace connected with all the principal rooms. The dimensions are 8 1-2x42 feet, except projection of porches. Height of ceilings: Cellar 7 feet, first story 10 feet, second story 8 1-2 feet. Several houses have been erected after this plan; in one instance for $2,500 complete, except furnace. But a fair average price would be $2,700 to $2,800. Our illustration Fig. 1 presents a perspective view of the cottage. Fig. 2 shows the first floor plan and Fig. 3 the second.—Farm and Home.

The largest mass of pure rock-salt in the world lies under the Province of Galicia, Hungary. It is known to be 500 miles long, 20 miles broad and 250 feet in thickness.

There are now in England 66,750 publicans, 27,274 occasional retailers of spirits, 30,496 retailers of beer and cider to be consumed on the premises, 12,376 holders of off-licenses, and 1015 occasional license holders.

There are 12,000,000 silk hats made annually in the United Kingdom, worth four million sterling.

Every ten days of fog in London, it is calculated, costs 25,000 people on beds of sickness, and kills 2500.

The Russians have a singular method of extorting disclosures from prisoners. In their food is mixed a drug which has the effect of rendering them delirious, and in this state they are watched and interrogated, when secrets are divulged.

The British Isles comprise no fewer than 1000 separate islands and islets, without counting mere jutting rocks or isolated pinnacles.

Property to the value of over $4,500,000 is left on the railway carriages of Great Britain every year.

India's Railways.

The Director General of Railways in India reports that some 45 different railway projects have recently been approved by the Government, and are now in course of construction. The various lines will, when completed, aggregate 6,163 miles of railway. The private enterprises are encouraged by certain concessions from the Government, such as free use of land and provision of rolling stock. The Parliamentary Commission, which has investigated into the resources of India, has reported that 60,000 miles of railway are needed in India to develop the resources of the country.

Pneumatic Hat Making.

A felt hat is now made by a pneumatic process. A conical cup perforated with holes is provided. The air beneath is exhausted, while by a curious device the felt is forced evenly to all parts of the outside of the receiver, and by the strong pressure and rush of the air, is thrown upon the frame and distributed, thus forming the basis for the hat.

A NEW CLUB.

Name Suggested for a New Social Organization in London.

LONDON, (Special) Oct. 28.—It has been facetiously suggested that a new social club in process of organization in this city should be entitled "The Dodd's Kidney Pill Club" as the present members are all enthusiastic advocates of that remedy and in common with many other citizens declare that in all cases of kidney trouble no other agent has been found so completely effective. Most Londoners have at their fingers' ends the particulars of the many marvellous cures through the use of this specific. In every drug store in the city the medicine is kept in large quantities and warmly recommended.

Mutilated Shoes.

The braiding, binding or lining of a dress has not a little to do with the ill-appearance of many shoes against which they rub. By the friction with coarse braiding, etc., fine shoes are made shabby in a short time. The handsome exterior of more than one pair of costly shoes has also been mutilated by a too stiffly starched petticoat. White petticoats usually have sharp cotton edges which are generally, it is alleged, "as stiff as a board," and which rub the shoe in a detrimental manner. Although white petticoats are no longer deemed "ultra" fashionable, still they are worn by a large number of women. In view of these facts women should not starch their petticoats so stiffly and dressmakers should put as little edging as possible on all skirts. If they would do this, shoe manufacturers all over the land would "rise up and call them blessed," for it can be said for manufacturers that they are not so anxious for "the almighty dollar" as to not wish every lady wearer of their shoes full satisfaction in every respect for patronizing their respective barns.

Scott's Sarsaparilla

IS A MOTHER'S REMEDY regulating and strengthening the maternal functions. It purifies the female system of those obnoxious weaknesses and debilitating humors. It expels the first symptoms of hereditary humors in children and youths that may curse their origin in past generations. It searches out and renders the system free from disease-breeding germs.

"THE KIND THAT CURES."

There are not many forms of disease upon which Scott's Sarsaparilla does not act favorably, because pure blood carries to the diseased parts restoring and building up properties. This medicine makes pure blood which builds up where disease has torn down, and expels from the impurities upon which it feeds.

THE SECRET OUT

THE secret is out. The Government Insurance Blue Books have revealed it. The facts of the case will prove of real value to all those seeking a company where permanent satisfaction can be secured under a Policy of Life Insurance. The telescope has been turned upon those who withdrew from six prominent companies in 1894.

It is obvious to any one that the proportion of persons who lapse or surrender their policies in any company is a fairly good test of the satisfaction or dissatisfaction existing therein. If policy-holders are receiving satisfactory profit results, if they are being honestly and honourably dealt with, if they cannot do better elsewhere, then it is plain these facts will show themselves in the small number who surrender their policies or allow them to lapse.

To test these conditions, and to discover the company that is giving greatest satisfaction to its policy-holders, as evidenced by their determination to continue their policies, we have made an analysis of the facts, as reported in the blue books containing the business for 1894 of the leading Canadian Companies. We have calculated the ratio per cent. of assurances surrendered to the average business in force in 1894 also the ratio per cent. of assurance lapsed to the average business in force. Intending assurers have here an inside view of Life Assurance that is full of significance. When a company stands out so prominently as does the CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY in this test, it means that its merits are known and recognized by those who become connected with it.

This is but another of those numerous tests in which the CANADA LIFE shows its superiority.

The following table tells the whole story :—

COMPANY.	Per Cent. Surrendered.	Per Cent. Lapsed.	Per Cent. Lapsed and Surrendered.
CANADA LIFE	.70	2.10	2.80
Confederation Life	2.33	4.65	6.98
North American	1.73	6.97	8.70
Ontario Mutual	2.51	6.59	9.10
Sun Life	2.63	8.54	11.17

The above figures are compiled from the Dominion Insurance report, issued by the Superintendent of Insurance, at Ottawa.

Once more, and as usual, the CANADA LIFE COMPANY comes out on top.

COMPARE

The following two Peterborough results with anything else of the kind in existence in the town. Other companies promise, we perform. That is the great difference.

The Popular Health Magazine says the desire in a child for candy and sweets is a natural one and should not be stifled. "NEW CATHOLIC CHURCH AT DOWNEYVILLE, ONT."

[THE EXAMINER has received the following letter from V. Rev. Dean John S. O'Connor, of Chesterville, a former resident of Peterborough and uncle of Mr. J. P. Shevlin, 229 King street.]

To the Editor of the Examiner:

DEAR SIR,—Through the kindness of a dear friend, I have been favoured with a copy of THE EXAMINER of 31st ult., containing an article from the Lindsay Post of a recent date, giving a report anent the splendid new church at Downeyville, Ont., with a brief historical sketch of that mission; and naturally connecting it with the parent mission of Peterborough, to which it erstwhile belonged.

Now, Mr. Editor, as I am, perhaps, the oldest native of your embryo city, who can vouch from actual knowledge, as to the correctness, so far as it goes, of that historical sketch, I trust the writer thereof in the Lindsay Post, and your readers generally, will pardon me while I succinctly point out wherein it is lacking. It correctly states that Peterborough was the first Catholic mission established in that section of what was then known as Upper Canada, and that Father James Crowley became its regular pastor early in 1825. Also that Father Crowley aforesaid went to reside near Peterborough, (just east of the Little Lake, as it was then designated,) in 1828. Here I would remark that it must have been very early, indeed, in that year when Father Crowley settled there, for my family records establish that he baptised me, an infant at the time of two weeks old, on 26th of Feb'y, 1828.

Said article in Lindsay Post also correctly states that Father Crowley was succeeded in Peterborough mission from December, 1832, until September, 1833, by Rev'd James Bennett; who, in turn, was there followed by Rev'd Timothy O'Meara, who continued in charge until the spring of 1835, when he gave place to the Rev'd John Butler, who was appointed to Peterborough mission by the late Right Rev'd Bishop Macdonell, of Kingston.

Although but little more than seven years old at the time, I distinctly remember Father Butler's installation in the old frame chapel on Henthorn's hill, and his introduction to the small congregation there assembled as their future pastor, and what helps me to fix that event in my memory is the historical fact that the late Right Reverend and Honorable Alexander MacDonell, first Bishop of Upper Canada, towered in stature over Father Butler, "the little priest," as the people styled him. Small wonder that, since Bishop Macdonell stood six feet four inches in height, and was of powerful physique, whereas good Father Butler was of slight build and barely touched five feet four inches in attitude.

In giving the territorial boundaries of Peterborough Mission, the correspondent of the Lindsay Post should have stated that they reached from the Iron Mines of Marmora township on the east, to Bowmanville on the west and north-west, including Orillia and Lindsay, while northward they stopped at the "Back Lakes." And in this connection I have a vivid recollection from schoolboy days, of often seeing the good Father Butler starting off on horseback, the best mode of journeying through the back woods in those days, on his "Easter Stations," which not unfrequently extended over three weeks at a stretch, east, south, north and west.

I shall not, however, further encroach upon your valuable space at present, with these reminiscences, pleasing though they be to old Peterboroughians like your humble servant, and useful as they undoubtedly shall prove to the future impartial historian of Peterborough, but I shall content myself just here with the expression of my great joy at noting the grand strides onward made by my native town, from the date of its foundation in 1825 down to 1895.

Yours truly,
JOHN S. O'CONNOR.

Chesterville, Nov. 3rd, 1895.

Nothing Hunts Out Corns

Like tight boots. Corns are very small affairs, but apply to them a pair of tight boots and all other concerns of life sink into insignificance. Tight boots and Putnam's Corn Extractor (the great and only sure cure for corns) may go together, and comfort will be their partner; but don't fail to use Putnam's Corn Extractor Frauds, poisonous and dangerous substitutes are in the market. Beware of them. Polson & Co., proprietors, Kingston.

MISS VANDERBILT'S HYMENEAL HARNESS.

A Description of the Trousseau of the "Dook's Bride—Something Lovely for the Ladies to Read.

On Saturday THE EXAMINER presented a cut of the wedding gown to be worn by Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt on the occasion of her marriage to the Duke of Marlborough. Here is a description of the same:

The gown was what dressmakers call a model, that is, a sample bridal gown. When the dress had been selected, Mrs. Vanderbilt furnished the lace with which it was to be trimmed. The lace, the design for which was suggested by Mrs. Vanderbilt, was made in Brussels. The idea carried out in its making is a combination of the designs of the point d'Angleterre and point applique lace. The body of the gown is cream satin. The colour of the lace matches it. The skirt of the gown is of comfortable walking length. The waist is high necked with very full sleeves, close fitting below the elbow, and reaching over the hand in the shape of a gauntlet.

The lace with which the gown is trimmed is twelve inches deep. In trimming the skirt the lace was uncut, being arranged in four horizontal rows across the front and sides of the skirt, almost concealing the satin. Over the lace, on the right side of the skirt, falls a spray of orange blossoms.

The front of the waist is, as the dressmakers say, "billowed" with chiffion. Over the chiffion are drapings of the lace gathered in a high standing collar. Triple revers of lace fall over the sleeves from the shoulder to the elbow, and upon the left shoulder, over the lace, is a spray of orange blossoms.

The train to the gown is five yards long, and is fastened to the shoulders just below the neckband. The satin of the train is pleated in double box pleats, and is edged with embroidery in seed pearls and silver, following the design of bunches of rose leaves tied together with a lover's knot. The bridal veil is of Brussels net, to be fastened to the coiffure with a tiara of orange blossoms. The train is of the regulation length prescribed for the gowns worn by the women presented at the English court, and the Duchess of Marlborough will wear her bridal gown when presented to the Queen. And the battle of Malpaquet and other fields was won for this.

A BATCH OF STRONG RESOLUTIONS.

A Wide Field Covered by the W. C. T. U.

At the meeting of the Provincial W. C. T. U. at Hamilton, almost every moral subject was dealt with. The following comprehensive series of resolutions was adopted with little or no discussion:

That a female physician should be appointed at the Mercer Reformatory; that smoking on the streets should be stopped, being offensive to the general public; the open bar in the House of Commons was condemned; the proposed opening of the canals on Sunday was strongly disapproved of; the action of the Regina Fair directors in opening the fair on Sunday was protested against; the growing spirit of independence in Canadian politics was hailed with joy; the work of the Children's Protective Society was endorsed; the stand taken by the Order of Oddfellows in excluding liquor sellers and gamblers from membership was acknowledged with gratitude; the expression of opinion by the Patrons in favour of prohibition was viewed with pleasure; indignation was expressed at the trifling manner in which the question of the age of consent in connection with the Seduction Act was discussed in parliament; thanks were tendered the Government for passing the Factory Act; confidence was expressed that in case the Privy Council finds that the Dominion Parliament has the power to prohibit, the Government will fulfil its promise made in February, 1894; the use of opium and other narcotics among women was protested against.

THE WHEEL.

Harley Davidson returned from Buffalo this morning, where he was unable to secure the "quad," which he expected to get for pacing purposes.

The first go at the records will take place sometime this afternoon, presumably at about four o'clock, and quite a crowd is down at the track to witness the event.

The track has been freshly raked over, and though not as firm as usual, yet is in fairly good shape.

Mr. Percy Brown, one of the pacers, has a capital photo of the start in the tandem race last fall, which shows up the racers, judges, starters and scorers very plainly.

How to get 'Sunlight" Books.

Send 12 'Sunlight" Soap wrappers to Lever Bros., Ltd., 43 Scott St., Toronto, who will send postpaid a paper bound book, 160 pages. For 6 "Life-buoy" Carbolic Soap wrappers, a similar book will be sent. This is a splendid opportunity to obtain good reading. Send your name and address written carefully. Remember "Sunlight' sells at 6 cts. per twin-bar, and "Lifebuoy" at 10 cts. One cent postage will bring your wrappers by leaving the ends open.

A BULLET IN HIS HEAD.

H. Graham of Denison-Avenue Shot in the Eye—"Didn't Know it Was Loaded."

Toronto, Nov. 5.—Yesterday Evening another was added to the already long list of "didn't know it was loaded" shooting affrays. H. Graham, the victim, narrowly escaped death and will be totally blind in one eye. Graham is foreman in the factor at Sheppard and Richmond-streets. Last evening a boy named Henrick, also employed in the factory, went to a stable near by and got a 22 calibre rifle, belonging to his brother, which he intended to take home when the factory closed down.

Henrick was carrying the rifle over his shoulder, when he and Graham met on a stairway. "Look out," said Henrick, at the same time pointing the weapon at Graham and pulling the trigger. Graham was taken too much by surprise to make any defensive move. The ball struck him fairly in the left eye, completely destroying the sight, but by an almost miraculous circumstance missing the brain.

Dr. Cuthbertson, who was called, ordered Graham's removal to his father's home, 149 Denison-avenue. Other medical men were summoned and an effort made to find the bullet, but it was considered too dangerous to do much probing. It is not thought that the wound will result fatally.

FRENCH SOLDIERS ROBBED.

Money and Food for the Troops in Madagascar Gobbled by Speculators.

Paris, Nov. 4.—M. Guieysse has been appointed Minister of the Colonies in the new Cabinet in consequence of the refusal of M. Leveille to accept that portfolio.

The Petit Republique says that the money subscribed in France towards the purchase of presents for French troops in Madagascar did not reach them, but fell into the hands of speculators.

Le Journal asserts that the food and other articles supplied by public generosity were not distributed to the troops, as intended, but were sold to them at exorbitant rates.

ISN'T IT QUEER

How some people can afford to give away valuable articles of household furniture and jewelery with their goods, and at the same time publicly proclaim that their goods are marked down to the "lowest living profit" or "half their regular value?"

Some of our lady customers have asked us why we can't do the same thing. We have to tell them frankly "we can't afford to do it—the small profit we have on our goods gives them better every day value than the "scheme" merchant has to offer them."

It's a Mistake

To suppose that anybody can sell you two dollar's worth of goods for one dollar.

IT'S A MISTAKE to suppose that you can get the BEST value in goods and have a gift thrown in. The gift costs money.

If you don't wan't to be humbugged into paying for something you don't want buy the goods right, without the gift, which you can always do at this store. We allow no margins for gifts,—that's settled. But you can buy from us just now

Gloves and Hosiery

There is perhaps nothing a lady is more particular about than her Gloves and Hosiery, for herself and family.

Some six months ago we were looking ahead and placed large orders in European factories for this fall's trade. In doing this we get closer prices and have the goods made to exactly suit the Canadian trade; being careful to have the fingers proportionate length, the cuffs to suit dresses, and neatly stitched backs. We have light weights for early fall wear, and heavier for winter. As we select our own cloth there is none better for wear.

See the extra nice Glove we can give you for 25c a pair.

Other lines as low as 10c and upwards to 50c.

In Cashmere Hose we have selected both medium and extra heavy weights, in plain weave and soft finish, one and one ribs for both ladies and children. Two and one ribs, made of extra heavy Scotch and Canadian yarns for boys who wears knickers, also a full range of a heavy make from 10c a pair for children's to 15c for ladies.'

MANTLES.

Our Mantle Cloths are rolling out fast, and so they should as they are grand value. See our New Mantles just arrived this week to sort up our unusually well assorted stock.

HYAMS TWINS' TRIAL

A Jury Secured With But Little Difficulty.

A GREAT ARRAY OF LEGAL TALENT

Sixty-Seven Names Called Before Twelve Acceptable Men Were Secured for the Jury Panel Judge Ferguson's Address to the Grand Jury—Prisoners Cool.

Toronto, Ont., Nov. 6.—The above twelve good men and true, were sworn at 5.50 o'clock last evening to determine upon the guilt or innocence of the dapper little twins, Harry Place Hyams and Dallas Theodore Hyams, so far as they may have been connected with the mysterious death of William Chinnock Wells, in the warehouse of the accused in Colborne-street in this city on the morning of Jan. 16, 1893.

That much of the proceedings in the second hearing of this famous case was accomplished yesterday afternoon in the stuffy little court room of the county building in Adelaide-street east, Mr. Justice Ferguson was on the Bench.

The counsel engaged on the case are from among the most brilliant legal minds on the American continent and their presence will have much to do with the interest which will follow the prosecution of the accused young men during the next few weeks. At a table immediately in front of the box occupied by the 12 jurymen are seated Deputy Attorney-General Cartwright, Mr. B. B. Osler, Q.C., and Crown Attorneys Dewart and Curry, representing the Crown, while further away, though directly in line with the jury box, are located the gentlemen whose abilities are centered on proving the innocence of the young men who sit in the prisoner's dock, W. Lount, Q.C., and Mr. W. G. Murdoch, representing Harry Hyams, and Mr. E. F. B. Johnston, Q.C., and Mr. T. Horn, representing Dallas Hyams. Associated with these counsellors are Mr. Francis L. Wellman and Mr. W. W. Gooch of New York. As in the first trial of this cause, the American lawyers will have no voice in the proceedings, being merely permitted to consult with and advise the local barristers in their conduct of the defendants' case.

So well known are the circumstances which led up to the imprisonment of Harry P. Hyams and his twin brother Dallas T. Hyams that an extended history of the case is not necessary at this time, but a brief resume will suffice to cover the ground.

It will be remembered that the city was startled early on Monday morning, January 16, 1893, by the announced death of William C. Wells, a young man engaged in a clerical capacity with the firm of Hyams Bros. composed of Harry P. Hyams and Dallas T. Hyams, storage warehousemen, doing business under the firm name and style of The Toronto Warehousing Company, at 28 Colborne-street in this city, it being reported that the young man's death had been caused by the falling of a heavy weight, connected with the elevator in the building. So plausible did this story appear to the officers that an inquest was not deemed necessary and the remains of the unfortunate young man were laid to rest and the matter for the time being forgotten by all save those who had a direct interest in the unfortunate proceedings.

It developed later that young Wells had carried life insurance to the amount of $33,000, thirty thousand of which sum had been secured at the instance of the Hyamses, the beneficiary being Miss Martha Wells, sister of the deceased, and at that time engaged to marry Harry Hyams. The premium on this policy was far greater than the young man could afford to carry, but it was agreed that the Hyams Bros. should pay all premiums as they became due and should also pay to Wells the sum of $2500 at the expiration of five years, in consideration of the policy being then transferred to them. The policy had not been in existence more than one month when a proposition to accept $800 cash in hand was made to Wells to transfer the policy then and there. To this proposition Wells acquiesced and the money was paid over, it subsequently transpiring that the sum was but a portion of moneys previously loaned the Hyamses by Wells and for which a note of hand had been executed. Within the succeeding month, young Wells met his death, but the transfer above agreed to had never been executed by the real beneficiary, Miss Martha Wells, and therefore never became part of the records of the Life Insurance Company.

Shortly after the death of Wells Harry Hyams married Miss Martha and the Hyams boys succeeded in obtaining the full amount of the policy as well as other moneys belonging to Mrs. Harry Hyams. These facts were brought to light through the subsequent efforts of the Hyamses to insure the life of Mrs. Martha Hyams for the enormous sum of $200,000, and a knowledge of the fact that they had also endeavored to induce one Ebenezer Aylesworth, a brother-in-law of young Wells, to insure his life in a manner entirely similar to that adopted in the case of the dead boy. Other mysterious circumstances were brought to light through the efforts of The World and in January last the full details of the case were chronicled in these columns. These disclosures led to the subsequent arrest of Harry P. Hyams and Dallas T. Hyams, and the prisoners were in due course held for trial. Their trial commenced at the Spring Assizes, before Mr. Justice Street, on May 15 last, and after fifteen days of legal struggling, the jury reported its inability to agree, and they were discharged, the prisoners being returned to the custody of the sheriff without bail. The jury in the case stood 11 to 1 for acquittal, though they subsequently stated they were unanimous in the belief of the guilt of the prisoners, but were averse to sending them to the gallows in the face of the testimony presented by the crown.

It was shortly after 2 o'clock, and immediately following the disappearance of the grand jury that a commotion in the east aisle announced the coming of the accused men. A buzz of excitement was heard throughout the room as the little fellows stepped into view. First came Dallas, faultlessly attired in a black cut-away coat and vest, closely buttoned around his slender frame, a pair of light trousers carefully pressed, highly polished shoes, a spotless white shirt and standing collar, relieved by a neat blue tie, making up the visible portion of his garments. Harry following closely was similarly attired. The brothers at once took their places in the prisoners' dock, where they smilingly received their counsel. Considerable surprise was expressed at the physical appearance of the brothers. There was a noticeable absence of that prison pallor so common with prisoners after months of confinement and it was evident on all sides that but little in the way of worry had come to them during their ten months of separation from their fellowmen.

Throughout the proceedings yesterday, if the prisoners were in the slightest more than passably interested they certainly did not show it in their demeanor, nor was there that change of countenance so noticeable in persons accused of a high crime when confronted with the details of their alleged offense as they are unfolded bit by bit through the operations of a court of justice; on the contrary the twins were apparently among the least concerned in the room and only once did they seem to take an active interest in the procedings and that was during the examination of Juror J. B. Carlile, who confessed to having taken a somewhat active part in the prosecution of the case. As Mr. Carlile remarked, in response to a question by Mr. Johnston touching upon his qualifications as an unprejudiced juror, "I think it would be in the interest of the prisoners to leave me off the jury," Dallas laughed heartily and appeared to greatly enjoy the juror's denunciation of himself and brother.

The following comparative table will serve to show the disposition of the talesman as they were called to the jury box, both yesterday and during the trial of last May:

	Second trial.	First trial.
Number of jurors on panel	108	85
Answered to their names	85	80
Challenged by Harry Hyams	17	20
Challenged by Dallas Hyams	19	20
Challenged by the Crown	8	0
Stood aside by Crown	14	16
Excused on account of illness	0	1
Excused on account of deafness	0	1
Excused because had mind made up	0	1
Challenged for cause	1	0

A comparison of these tables will show that less difficulty was experienced yesterday than on the occasion of the former trial

The selection of the jury yesterday is an assurance that the trial will be proceeded with to-day without further preliminaries. The presentation of the Crown's case to the jury will be made immediately after the sitting of the Court at 10 o'clock this morning, by Mr. Osler, senior prosecutor, and it is likely that the first witness examined will be Ebenezer Aylesworth, the brother-in-law of young Wells, and it is hardly likely that his examination will have been concluded before the hour agreed upon for adjournment, 5 p.m.

The announcement is made that fully 50 new witnesses will be examined during the progress of the trial and it is not expected that the end will be reached and the fate of the accused men known to the world much before the first of the coming month, and whatever that result may be it will assuredly come in the nature of a relief to the thousands who have for months past taken a deep interest in this, Canada's greatest murder trial, and its plethora of sensationalism.

At precisely 2.10 p.m. the work of selecting the jury began. At the May trial this part of the proceedings occupied a comparatively short time, and it was thought by many that Mr. Osler's opening address would be delivered before the court rose. One hundred and eight jurymen had been summoned to appear, and when Sheriff Widdifield called the roll at 12 o'clock noon, 85 answered to their names; 67 of these entered the jury box before 12 men were up able to both sides had been chosen, the work of which three hours and 40 minutes were expended.

After the names of the entire panel had been called, the first twelve men on the list filled up the seats in the jury box. Samuel Edmunds, the first man to face the counsel and prisoners was peremptorily challenged by Mr. Lount on behalf of H. P. Hyams. John Watson was acceptable to the defence, but was asked by Mr. Osler to stand aside. Then came Alfred Stong, who was acceptable to all parties and was accordingly sworn and took his seat as juror No. 1.

When a juror was challenged or asked to stand aside, his place in the jury box was at once filled by another from the general panel, the jury box in this way being kept full.

Although at present a resident of Scarboro, Richard Baker, the fourth man called, lived for a number of years as a neighbor of Willie Wells and was also a member of the same church. The defence had no doubt became acquainted with this fact and promptly challenged Mr. Baker. Two more challenges by the defence and one challenge by the crown, and Foreman Culham was accepted as juror No. 2.

Of the next six men, the defence objected to four and the crown to two. Peter Brynton followed and informed his lordship that he had a doctor's certificate showing that he was physically unable to serve. He was excused. W. G. Chisholm and Anthony Bowes respectively the 16th and 21st men, were sworn as jurors three and four.

The defence challenged the two succeeding men, and Alfred Carley was duly installed as juror No. 5.

Charles W. Coleman, watchmaker, Selby-street, asked to be excused on the ground of partial deafness. Mr. Osler thought the objection a very important one and suggested that his lordship swear Mr. Coleman and examine him as to his lack of qualifications as a juryman. The statutes were consulted and Mr. Osler's suggestion adopted. "What is your lack of qualification as a juryman?" was His Lordship's first question.

"Difficulty in hearing."

Mr. Coleman explained that he was quite deaf in his right ear, but could hear fairly well in ordinary conversation. His Lordship put a few questions in a low tone of voice to Mr. Coleman, who heard only a portion of what was said to him. Crown and defence agreed that it would be unwise to accept him, and Coleman stepped out with a beam of satisfaction on his face that showed plainly that for once in his life he followed the Scripture injunction to "rejoice in his infirmities."

The 31st man called was W. T. Cook, carriage maker, 18 Breadalbane-street, Both sides accepted him, and he settled himself into the chair in the corner of the box in a manner calculated to impress an observer with his appreciation of the most comfortable chair of the 12. W. J. Creber and William Frisbie, who followed, were both accepted, the only occasion on which three or even two consecutive jurors were accepted.

With 33 men called and eight chosen, the task of securing a jury looked like a matter of very short time. The next 20 called, however, did not yield a single man to whom neither side had objections; 16 of these were challenged by the defence, and four asked to stand aside.

When W. J. Fegan told His Lordship that his mind was prejudiced, Mr. Lount requested the Crown to stand him aside. "We will do no such thing," replied Mr. Osler, "it is for the defence to say what they think of the juryman, then the Crown will pass upon him. Mr. Lount appealed to His Lordship, but Mr. Osler's position was upheld and the defence peremptorily challenged the juror.

Alfred Colby was also prejudiced and the defence challenged him for cause, but afterwards withdrew this and challenged him peremptorily. B. F. Mulholland was accepted as juror No. 9. S. L. Forbes was challenged and W. Gallagher installed as juror ten.

H. B. Gee, who was born in Pickering, the early home of Wells, and spent the greater part of his life in that township, did not want to serve on the jury, because his sympathy was with the deceased. "I knew Wells from early childhood," said Mr. Gee, "as he was raised by a relative of my own." Again Mr. Lount insisted on the Crown asking the juror to stand aside, but Mr. Osler stoutly refused to comply with his wishes. Mr. Johnston then challenged Gee for cause, his ground being thatt Gee was not indifferent between the prisoners and Her Majesty. Messrs. Mulholland and Gallagher, the last two jurymen selected, were sworn to hear the evidence and decide whether or not Gee was indifferent. In answer to Mr. Johnston Gee repeated his objections. Cross-examined by Mr. Osler, he said that if he took the oath administered to jurymen, he thought he could lay aside all prejudices and render a verdict upon the evidence. The defence and Crown all waived the right to address the triers, and Judge Ferguson's words were few. Messrs. Mulholland and Gallagher returned to the juryroom with a decision that Gee was incapable to sit as a juryman, owing to his sympathies.

Five more men were rejected without any incident worthy of note. The sixth in order after Gee was J. B Carlisle, insurance agent. He was challenged for cause on behalf of Dallas. Mulholland and Gallagher were again constituted a court of enquiry. Carlisle admitted taking quite an interest in the case and furnishing to the press information unfavorable to the defence. This information, said Mr. Carlisle, had nothing to do with Wells' death, but referred to subsequent insurance, in which the twins were interested.

"You have strong feelings on the matter, have you not?" said Mr. Johnston.

"Yes, I have," answered Mr. Carlisle, "anyway, it wouldn't be in the interests of the prisoners to have me on the jury."

To Mr. Osler he said he could arrive at an unprejudiced verdict on the evidence submitted.

"What subsequent insurance was that about which you say you gave the press certain information?" asked Mr. Osler.

The defence objected to the question and a lengthy argument followed. His Lordship ruled that as the defence opened the matter, and Carlisle's prejudice arose out of this subsequent insurance, Mr. Osler's question was a proper one.

Seeing that the facts connected with the attempt to insure Mrs. Hyams' life woud thus be related to the jurymen, the defence endeavored to extricate themselves from the trap into which their own tactics had led them, by challenging Carlisle peremptorily on behalf or Harry Hyams. Mr. Osler insisted on the trial for cause proceeding, unless the defence consented to withdraw their challenge for cause, and allow a decision of non-indifference to be recorded. Rather than endanger the lives of their clients by the recital of the story of the attempted $300,000 insurance on Mrs. Hyams, the defence receded from their position and consented to Mr. Osler's demands.

Carlisle stepped out and J. T. Devin, the next man called, was accepted. One chair only remained vacant, and the third applicant, Richard Deacon, was chosen to fill it.

A few words of instruction to the jurymen by His Lordship followed, and the jury was given in charge for the night of six constables.

It was difficult to believe, after closely observing the twins as they took their places in the dock, that there existed any foundation for the recent report that they were suffering with insomnia.

Catarrh in the Head

Is a dangerous disease because it is liable to result in loss of hearing or smell, or develop into consumption. Read the following:

"My wife has been a sufferer from catarrh for the past four years and the disease had gone so far that her eyesight was affected so that for nearly a year she was unable to read for more than five minutes at a time. She suffered severe pains in the head and at times was almost distracted. About Christmas, she commenced taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, and since that time has steadily improved. She has taken six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and is on the road to a complete cure. I cannot speak too highly of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and I cheerfully recommend it." W. H. WOBBLING.

The wobbles that afflict the Ministry are, in the language of the orthodox wedding notice, "numerous and costly," but the latter quality is an evidence of the patient forbearance rather than the generosity of those who attend to the financing. The decision to go to the country before their official life had come to a close was evinced by a general preparation for a campaign. Ant just as the disgruntled were ready to demand the settlement of last election's balances the campaign was called off and an unexpected session occurred.

An order in Council was passed granting $2,500,000 to the Hudson Bay Railway Company, but a wobble during the session seriously mangled the order.

An order in Council was passed during the session giving the Canadian Pacific Railway Company an extra $100,000 a year. After its passage the Ministry denied in the House having done so, but owned up after the adjournment.

They prohibited the mixture of smutted wheat with No. 1 Manitoba hard. Then they permitted it; next they denied having done so, and finally, if the word may be used, prohibited it.

These last wobblings, all within a month, made a remarkable time record, but not equal to the resignation and return of the Minister of Justice, a wobble performed easily within 36 hours.

They fixed the car inspection fee for grain at 60 cents, and reduced it again to 40 cents.

For several years they tried to appoint the member for Cardwell to the Montreal collectorship, but wobbled at the opening of the constituency till the member opened it for them.

While the Premier was offering a Supreme Court Judgeship to Mr. Angers some other members of his Cabinet appointed Mr. Girouard.

The Ministry decided to cut down the pay of the militia, but a deputation caused a wobble of unusual promptness.

Their tariff revision was a grand series of wobbles, during which the Minister of Finance amused the country by explaining that everything he attempted was a clerical error.

They started out to devise a system with a free breakfast table attachment, but finished with a tax on sugar designed to effect the greatest increase in cost with the least revenue.

They retreated from the first "remedial order" and issued a mild second edition, yet they caused the Cabinet Ministers in favour of remedial legislation to resign, and the member most strongly opposed to it to retain his office.

They promised half a score of Senatorships two years or more ago, but have wobbled out of filling their promises.

The Sault Ste. Marie Canal plans were the subject of a wobble immediately after the contracts were let, with the usual result.

The Ministers sent Messrs. Connolly and McGreevy to jail, but were afraid to keep them there during a short sentence.

They promised Mr. W B. Scarth the Lieutenant-Governorship of Manitoba and gave the position to Mr. J. C. Patterson.

A fishing plant on Georgian Bay was seized, and a commission of inquiry found what was intended to be found. A backdown has been effected by the appointment of another commission.

The Ministry started to move the observatory from Toronto to Ottawa and left it where it was.

The spirited immigration policy ended in a wobble.

An officer of the New Westminster Penitentiary was dismissed for cause, reinstated, and then transferred to another institution.

Mr. Chapleau was forced out of the Cabinet by the men who are coaxing him to come back again.

They decided not to ratify the French treaty in its present form, and afterwards did so.

They sent a trade commissioner to the West Indies, who was never heard of afterwards. West Indies trade has since fallen off.

It is said that the Premier has difficulty in unlocking his desk owing to the impulse to turn the key backward before the bolt has moved far enough, but this is doubtless a mere fiction.

It would be unfair to omit that in building the Lachine bridge the one unchanging policy has been maintained.—Globe.

CONSIDERING the character of some of the Ministers the Conservatives may well lay claim to being governed by "fixed" principals.

HIS SHOP OPENED UP.

Closed for Two Months in the Expectation of Death.

A Richmond, Ont., Harness Maker Unexpectedly Turns Up and Resumes Business at His Old Stand After Being Cured of Bright's Disease With Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Richmond, Nov. 6th.—This not very distant suburb of the Canadian capital has been highly wrought up during the past few days over the recovery of a well-known business man here, Mr. J. McCarthy, who being declared to be in an advanced stage of Bright's disease of the kidneys, had been given up to die.

Curious to know the particulars of a case creating so much local interest, your correspondent made haste to call and introduce himself to Mr. McCarthy, and found him in his shop and willing to talk of his case.

"I have called to see Mr. McCarthy; are you that gentleman?"

"Yes, sir," said he, "what can I do for you?"

"Hearing that there was something very unusual about your recovery from a seemingly fatal illness I have called to learn the facts," said I.

"Well, sir," replied he, "I am never too busy to talk about my doctor, I mean Dodd's Kidney Pills, for, with the blessing God, they have saved my life."

"Is it true that you had been given up to die, and that your doctors both named your trouble Bright's disease?" asked I.

"Yes, sir," he answered, "although ailing for some time it was only about seven months ago that my case became serious. After doctoring here and in Ottawa about four months I had to close my shop fearing that I must die of Bright's disease.

"About ten weeks ago Mr. McCord, a farmer living out near here, advised me to use Dodd's Kidney Pills as they had cured him of diabetes, and so I commenced. After using two boxes all distress left me. I have used twelve boxes in all; have just re-opened my shop and expect to do business at the old stand for some years yet, as I am just coming 50 years of age. There is no use trying to describe my sufferings. You can understand when I tell you that my weight ran down from 165 to 129 pounds. I am nearly up to my old weight, but feel as well as ever in my life, and I am perfectly cured."

Dodd's Kidney Pills is the only medicine ever known to cure Bright's disease.

THE CANADIAN MAGAZINE.

It is exceedingly pleasant to notice how many of our public men are taking an active interest in Canadian literature. In the November CANADIAN MAGAZINE, Hon. Wm. Proudfoot, Justice, of Toronto, writes of the Legend of St. Alban, the only historic saint now possessed by the English Church, and aims to show that the story has no foundation in truth. Attorney-General Longley, of Nova Scotia, contributes a most readable sketch of the British House of Commons, with thoughts suggested by a recent visit there. The illustrations in this month's issue are a considerable improvement, the article on Kingston Penitentiary being very fully embellished with well executed pictures of the various departments of that great institution. F. H. Brigden, a leading Canadian artist, gives some beautiful historical drawings in connection with a story of Old Quebec, entitled "Adele Berthier." Principal Grant, of Kingston, reviews J. Castell Hopkin's "Life of Mr. Gladstone," and Harry W. Brown criticises the two recent volumes of poetry by Arthur J. Stringer. Madge Merton's "Nondescript" is a department which is exceedingly interesting, especially to ladies. The announcement is made that Roberts, LeMoine, Bourinot, Agnes Maule Machar, Jean Blewett, "Kit," and others, will contribute to the Xmas number of this our national magazine.

Do You Tire Quickly?

Fatigue is the natural sequence of labor. If, however, it follows moderate or slight exertion it is the sign and evidence that the nervous system has lost tone and vigor, and requires assistance. Suicidal is a resort to stimulants, since these only increase the enervation. Aid cannot be obtained in this way, but through medication judiciously employed in restoring through the nervous system the digestive function, upon which primarily, health depends. The whole range of medicine fails to produce a preparation possessing in equal degree the tonic and nutritive qualities of Maltine with Coca Wine. By its action on the nervous system all the important functions of the body are stimulated and increased; the digestive process is performed efficiently and without discomfort, insuring the proper nourishment of the body. Maltine with Coca Wine is sold by all druggists.

NOTES FROM THE CAPITAL.

Ottawa, Nov. 6.—Sir A. P. Caron is at present in Montreal, but is expected home to-night. Current report attributes his frequent visits to Montreal to pending political changes. A prominent Montrealer who who was here yesterday told your correspondent that he would wager any amount of money that before many weeks are over Lieut.-Governor Chapleau would be a member of the Dominion Government. That this will be an effective stroke on the part of Sir Mackenzie Bowell is evidenced by the alarm which has been created in Liberal circles. There is no man in the province of Quebec who is more feared by the Grits than Mr. Chapleau, and it would be a very unpalatable pill to them to see him back in harness again.

Mr. MacDowall, M.P., has drawn the attention of the Fisheries Department to the depletion of the fisheries in many of the lakes in the District of Saskatchewan and has urged that steps be taken to restock these lakes for the benefit of the Indians. The only way in which this can be done seems to be by the establishment of subsidiary hatcheries in the territories, and Prof. Prince will recommend that a hatchery be located in a central point in the territories, with a view to keeping up the fish supply in the lakes.

It is currently reported that the silk will shortly be conferred upon a number of barristers of more than 10 years' standing resident in different parts of of Canada. At to-day's meeting of the Cabinet the following Nova Scotia barristers were created Queen's Counsel: Hon. G. H. Murray, Arthur Drysdale, Colin Chisholm, Charles E. Tanner, W. E. Roscoe, William B. A. Ritchie and Edwin Ruggles.

During Sir. C. H. Tupper's tenure of office as Minister of Marine and Fisheries he was instrumental in making many changes, with a view to improving the character of navigation in Canadian waters. One of the projects which Sir Charles established was a tidal survey for the Dominion, W. B. Dawson, a thoroughly competent and experienced man, and a brother of Dr. Dawson, director of the geological survey, being placed in charge of the work. During the season just closing Mr. Dawson and his staff have been busily engaged in connection with the work at seven tidal stations now in operation in the St. Lawrence, the Gulf and on the Atlantic coast. At each of these stations there is placed a self-registering tide gauge of the most improved character, and information secured at these points is now being collected and will shortly be published for the information of mariners. This year's tidal gauges at St. John and at Father Point have been completed, and a new tide gauge has been erected at Halifax. Mr. Dawson is now preparing tide tables for Halifax and Quebec for next year, from records already obtained. This will be the first time that tide tables have been published for any Canadian port from direct observation, as in the past all information of this nature for Canadian ports has been calculated by differences from distant places, usually from the other side of the Atlantic, and of that account the information has not been very accurate. There are special difficulties in connection with the observations of tides in winter in Canada, and to prevent gauges from freezing, special arrangements have been made for heating them. Mr. Dawson's particular work during the past season has been in surveying the currents of the St. Lawrence. He was engaged in this duty for three months with the government steamer Lansdowne, a special examination being made of the currents between the Gaspe coast and Anticosti, and also in endeavoring to ascertain whether any chance currents could be traced across the Gulf of St. Lawrence. Work of this character, which helps to make navigation safer, is of direct benefit to the whole country. Thus western Canada has as much interest in this branch of work of the department as the east. For example, rates which from Manitoba for England; are directly affected by any improvements, as insurance rates depend largely on the state of navigation.

Interviews with leading business men and bankers were held to-day, and The Free Press states that the prospects for trade in this section are very healthy, and that there was never a securer more confident feeling in Ottawa.

The Department of Railways and Canals to-day received a report of the St. Mary's River Canal transactons for October. The total number of vessels which passed through in the 31 days was 4151, with an aggregate tonnage of 251,994.

NEWS FROM WINNIPEG.

Manitoba Will Soon Reply to Ottawa—Wool Growing in Alberta

Winnipeg, Nov. 5.—In reference to the early meeting of the Legislature to consider the Government's reply to the second Remedial Order, Hon. Robert Watson said to-day that the House will not likely met until the first week in January. A formal reply, however, will be sent shortly.

The fact that Lieut.-Governor Dewdney of British Columbia passed through to-day on the way to Ottawa gave rise to a rumor that he is on an important political mission. It is hinted that he may re-enter the Cabinet.

Wool growing in the west seems to be developing as rapidly as any other industry. The exports this season are close on one million pounds, at an average price of 10 1-2 cents per pound. Most of the wool was grown on Alberta ranches, and the quality is pronounced first-class.

There is said to be a strong probability of Madame Albani Gye visiting Winnipeg soon. The prima donna has expressed a desire to see the prairie capital.

Cattle shipments are practically ended for this season. Gordon and Ironsides shipped 32,000 cattle; 10,000 sheep; 7000 hogs. They also brought 4000 cattle from the east to feed on western ranches.

The Assizes opened to-day before Chief Justice Taylor. There is a lengthy criminal docket, including arson, attempted murder, incest, seduction, libel, and crimes of lesser gravity.

The grand jury has returned a true bill against Farr for arson and attempted murder.

John Robinson has been assessed $1500 damages for displaying a libellous placard. He was mulcted in $50 damages for the same offense at the former Assizes.

MR. WALLACE AT GORRIE.

The Grand Master Dedicates a Fine and Commodious Orange Hall.

Gorrie, Nov. 5.—Hon. N. Clarke Wallace, M.W. G.M., of the Grand Lodge of British North America, and Mr Robert Birmingham, Grand Secretary, officiated at the dedication of the fine and commodious new Orange Hall here to-day. There was a large turnout of the brethren from the neighboring district and the occasion passed off in fine style. The Grand Master and Grand Secretary made speeches of a patriotic and appropriate character, and a musical and literary entertainment was given.

Foolish Reports in United States Papers.

A SCARE WORKED UP OVER NOTHING

Report From Inspector Constantine, Who is in Command of the Mounted Police Detachment at Fort Cudahy—The Best of Feeling Between the Police and People.

Ottawa, Nov. 5.—Just now United States newspapers are lashing themselves into a perfect frenzy over the presence in the Yukon district of a detachment of Canadian mounted police, 20 men in all, officers included. To-day the department here received the first report of Inspector Constantine, who is in command of the force there, and from which some idea can be gathered of what the police are doing and the difficulties they have to contend with. The report is dated Sept. 5, and it has taken exactly two months to reach the capital. Constantine's previous communication was a brief note, dated July 27, or three days after he and his men arrived at Fort Cudahy.

In the interval a dozen constables had been up in the woods cutting logs for huts, while the remainder were clearing the ground for the proposed barracks.

The police post is located at the Junction of Forty Mile Creek with the Yukon River. The whole country thereabouts is covered with dense moss ranging from five to ten feet in thickness, and when this is cleared away ground is struck. The earth, where covered, being frozen solid the year round. Constantine says the winter quarters will be completed by the end of September. Meantime all the stores have been safely housed and protected.

Yankee reports about the construction of forts and stockades he characterizes as simply nonsense. Since the arrival of the police at Fort Cudahy the feeling of mistrust with which they were greeted had passed away and the men were on friendly terms with the population of the town, which this winter will number about 2000.

The output from the mines around Fort Cudahy this season will be about $300,000, all the result of placer mining. The Government's action in sending the force in and asserting British ownership of this district is more than justified by the collection of over $7000 for customs and other dues, and this amount Inspector Constantine remitted to Ottawa.

Last year the commandant brought back with him over $3000 collected as revenue.

Surveyor Ogilvie arrived at the Fort the middle of August and at the time the mail left was busily engaged in a survey of town sites. The Yukon River was expected to freeze up the middle of September.

CHASED BY THE PETREL.

Yankee Fish Poachers in Lake Erie Have a Lively Time

Cleveland, Ohio, Nov. 6.—A special to The Press from Sandusky says: Yesterday afternoon, the Canadian cruiser Petrel seized a lot of gill nets and fish owned by Sandusky fishermen. The fishermen assert that the nets were in American waters. Had it not been for the swiftness of the tugs, they would also have been seized, as the Petrel chased them a mile. Fishermen say they will demand an investigation.

Prince Edward County's Apple Crop.

Mr. David Cantelon of Huron, who is buying apples for the British and Manitoba markets, is making his principal purchases this year in Prince Edward County. He has already sold 5000 barrels to one firm in Edinburgh and a similar order to a Manitoba house. At present he is paying $1.25 to $1.50 for choice hand-picked varieties, the buyer to do the packing and supply barrels. Mr. Cantelon thinks Prince Edward will produce 70,000 to 80,000 barrels this year, which means that $100,000 will come into that county for apples alone.

PRESSURE ON THE PORTE.

The Powers Demand Immediate Answer in Regard to the Reforms.

London, Nov. 5.—The papers here in their issues this morning give prominence to a despatch from Rome giving the context of a despatch received there from Constantinople. The despatch, which is dated Nov. 5, says that, owing to news regarding constantly recurring disturbances to the detriment of Christians of all nationalities in various parts of the Turkish Empire, the Ambassadors of the Great Powers went separately to the Porte to urge the immediate adoption of adequate measures to bring about the restoration of order and to declare that if such measures were not adopted the powers would decide in concert upon the steps to be taken.

The Ambassadors requested Said Pasha, the Foreign Minister, to state what the Government intended doing to terminate the state of anarchy at present prevailing.

The Post, commenting on the news from Constantinople, says that the demands made by the Ambassadors on the Porte far exceed what is required by the treaty of Berlin. The results of the reported step cannot fail to be most portentous, and it must most earnestly be hoped that they will be considered before the powers finally embark upon the policy foreshadowed. They have hinted a threat which meant nothing less than the occupation of Turkey.

The Daily News will say that this is the beginning of the end. Joint intervention by the powers which signed the treaty of Berlin would be the end of Turkish independence. It would be a good thing, too. Turkey is now within measurable distance of disruption and partition.

A Shameful Practice.

Many tooth preparations contain substances that speedily destroy the enamel and beauty of the teeth. For this reason the greatest care should be exercised in the selection of a dentrifice. Ivorine for the teeth is offered with the assurance that it is absolutely free from objectionable ingredients. An admirable cleanser is Ivorine, imparting dazzling whiteness to the teeth, firmness to the gums, and renders the breath sweet and fragrant.

Cupid breaks his bow at the sight of a face full of pimples and blotches. Hollow cheeks, sunken eyes, and a sallow complexion will defy his best intentions. Beauty is more than skin deep. The skin is merely the surface on which is written in plain characters the condition of the body. The skin is not a thing by itself, and skin diseases are frequently not skin diseases at all. All the lotions and bleaches and creams and powders in the world won't make a good complexion if the digestion is wrong. If the stomach is sour, and the liver torpid, and the bowels constipated, the skin will show it. No use trying to treat the skin for such a condition. The only way to relieve it is to cleanse the system and purify the blood. As long as the heart is pumping impurities to every part of the body, just so long these impurities will show through the skin.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is good for the complexion because it makes the whole body healthy—because it clears and purifies the blood, makes the digestion strong and clears out impurities of all kinds By increasing the abilty to assimilate nutritious food, and by the infusion of its own ingredients, it enriches the blood and so makes solid, healthy flesh. It fills out the hollows, rubs out wrinkles and substitutes for sallowness a rosy, healthy glow. There is no mystery about it. It isn't a miracle. It is merely the result of a combination of rational, natural common sense with expert medical knowledge. It cures diseases of the lungs, liver, stomach, bowels, skin and scalp, simply because all these diseases spring from the same cause—a disordered digestion and consequent impure blood. Don't let prejudice and scepticism cheat you out of your health. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will positively cure you, if suffering from diseases named above.

If you want to know hundreds of great medical truths, send 31 one-cent stamps to cover customs and mailing only, and we will send you FREE a copy of Dr. Pierce's 1008 page book, "Common Sense Medical Adviser." Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

What Should Influence You in the Purchase of a

PIANO?

If within the last 40 years we have grown from one small factory to have the largest in Canada, and from one factory wareroom to a branch wareroom in some of the largest cities and towns in the Dominion, is it not a safe argument in favour of our goods?

Can we afford to throw away for a few dollars profit a reputation which we have gained by years of hard, honest work?

In selling a Piano there is something more than the profit on the immediate sale. There is the opportunity of making other sales where goods prove reliable.

Is it unreasonable for us to say that being the manufacturers of reliable instruments we are in the position to save you the dealer's or jobber's profit, and that our guarantee upon a Piano means 100 cents on the dollar?

CAPT. REYNOLDS' BODY WAS RECOVERED

As Announced by Bulletin at the Examiner Office Yesterday.

The searchers, who have been looking for Captain Reynolds ever since his reported drowning on Tuesday last, were rewarded yesterday afternoon at about one o'clock, when grappling hooks manipulated by Messrs. James and Andrew Montgomery caught in the clothing of the unfortunate man and brought his body to the surface.

There were a large number of boats and the Golden City in the immediate vicinity and the remains were at once placed in the steamer and taken to Lakefield.

When the body was recovered from the water it was lying in about eight feet of water, a mile below the Buckhorn bridge on the Harvey side. The water had been lowered fully four feet by the putting in of the stop-logs at Buckhorn and the taking of them out at Lovesick. This greatly facilitated the searchers in their work.

It is now known that Captain Reynolds removed his fur overcoat when getting into the canoe, but when found his undercoat was also off, so that it is surmised he must have removed it when in the water, in order to be lighter.

It is understood that a considerable quantity of money was in the coat pocket and an effort is now being made to recover it.

The canoe when found had the sail tied down to the thwart and this fact is what is responsible for the accident. The most expert canoeist could not tie down his sail without running the greatest risk, as when in that condition if a puff of wind comes there is nothing for it but an upset.

Captain Reynolds' funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at three o'clock, under Masonic auspices. A number of the members of Peterborough Lodge will be in attendance. All the town members of the craft who wish to attend the funeral, are requested to be at the Masonic Hall to-morrow at one o'clock, where conveyances will be at their disposal.

Astronomical Notes.

The planet Mercury can be seen every morning for the rest of this week. It can be seen to best advantage about an hour before sunrise. Early in the morning at this season the eastern sky presents a beautiful appearance, as all the large stars and chief constellations are adjacent to one another and shine with remarkable brilliance. The following constellations show up well before the rising of the sun: Orion, Taurus, Gemini, Virgo, Leo, Auriga, Canis Major and Canis Minor, which contain the following well known stars: Castor, Pollux, Sirius, Aldebaran, Procyon, Betelgeux, Rigel and Capella. The following planets are also very prominent: Mars, Saturn, Jupiter, Mercury. This evening at 10:30 o'clock the variable star Algol will reach its minimum. At its maximum it is about as bright as the north star, and is located in the north-eastern part of the heavens

THE FIFTH AT DOWNERS' CORNERS.

An Exceedingly Large Attendance—Successful Banquet—Addresses and Music—Mr. Sawers' Stormy Reception—Trial and Conviction of Guy Fawkes.

The celebration of the discovery of the plot of Guy Fawkes to blow up the British Houses of Parliament was conducted with great eclat at Downers' Corners, on Tuesday night, under the auspices of L. O. L. No. 321. The hall was crowded to the doors, very many being unable to obtain admission. An excellent tea, well prepared, was served in the shed from 5 to 7.30. Inside the hall, Mr. Dawson Kennedy occupied the chair.

The first address was that given by Rev. H. Symonds, who made many thoughtful remarks appropriate to the occasion celebrated. He referred to the superior degree of liberty enjoyed by the subjects of Great Britain and made an eloquent plea for unity.

The chairman then called upon Mr. C. W. Sawers, town, who was accorded a stormy reception, disapprobation being expressed by hearty hissing, and on this account the hearing he received was not of the most attentive. He expressed his pleasure at being present, and said that Protestant children should be told of the persecutions suffered by their forefathers. His remarks under the circumstances were not lengthy.

Mr. W. H. G. Armstrong, Peterborough, made a most earnest speech, dealing chiefly with Mr. Sawers in denunciation of his erratic course on the Manitoba School Question, and practically denying his right to speak for Orangemen in an Orange assembly. He concluded his vigorous castigation of Mr. Sawers by asking, "What business has Sawers here anyway?"—a question that was received with cheers, hisses and counter cheers, a circumstance that added decidedly to the life of the occasion for the time being.

Mr. Joseph Batten made a brief address, in which he deplored the unfortunate divisions among Orangemen, and urged them to unite solidly in defence of their principles.

Rev. J. J. Rae concluded the speaking with a very apt and thoughtful address, in which he elaborated eloquently the idea that the development of a strong individual manhood in the citizen was the hope of society, the church and the state, and that so far as the Orange order developed this strong manhood, so far was it worthy of encouragement, and that the success of the church as a moral agency depended upon similar conditions.

After a few remarks by Mr. Geo. Sloan, Deputy Grand Master of the True Blues, the trial, conviction and sentence of Guy Fawkes took place. Mr. J. Graham Weir was prosecuting attorney, Mr. Dawson Kennedy was counsel for the defence, and Mr. Joseph Saunders filled the position of judge.

During the evening the Y.M.C.A. Harmony Club rendered several selections in excellent style.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

A Large and Enthusiastic Meeting Held Last Evening in the Rooms.

The Board of Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association assembled in their parlour last night to receive the monthly reports of committees and transact business.

The meeting was a large one, eleven directors being present, and the reports, showing the attendance at the rooms and various meetings to be steadily and rapidly growing, were received with enthusiasm.

The Young Men's Meeting last Sunday numbered 90, the Workers' Training Class 12, with the other meetings well sustained. It is not an uncommon occurrence to have from 40 to 50 young men drop into the reading and game rooms in the course of an evening.

The Executive Committee reported that they had curtailed expenses in certain directions in order that some attractive features might be added. This was approved.

The Junior Department recently organized was commended for their enterprise in fitting up their room without entailing any extra expense on the Association proper.

A special meeting of the Board is called for Friday night to discuss matters of vital importance to the Association and its work.

A HIGH CLASS COMEDY.

"A Cat's Paw" Delighted a Fair Sized Audience at Duncombe's Opera House Last Night.

There was only a fair sized audience at the Duncombe Opera House last night to witness the first production in Canada of Max O'Rell's comedy, "A Cat's Paw."

Those who were present, however, enjoyed a rich treat. In the hands of Mr. Samuel Edwards and his clever company, the piece was excellently rendered. Mr. Edwards in the character of "Jonathan Perkins," a retired glue manufacturer, is a comedian of more than ordinary merit, and his clever work was greatly relished by those present. The star is surrounded by a capable company and "A Cat's Paw" which is a high class comedy, made a decided hit with the audience. The company will likely play a return engagement here shortly, and if they do they will be sure of a crowded house.—Times, St. Thomas, Oct. 30th.

This Company will appear in the Opera House here on Monday evening, the 11th inst. See Toronto papers this week.

THE SCHOOL BOARD'S REGULAR MEETING.

A COMPREHENSIVE REPORT FROM THE SUPERVISION COMMITTEE

Inspector Wherry Presents a Report Which, it is Thought, Hits the Nail on the Head—His Suggestions to be Considered.

At the regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education last night there were present—Dr. Burnham, chairman, and Messrs. Ferguson, McBain, Denne, Peter Hamilton, Dr. Caldwell, Jas. Edgecumbe, L. M. Hayes, John McKee and W. H. Hill.

In the Inspector's report the members thought that the right key had been struck, and it was referred to the Supervision Committee.

The report of the Supervision Committee, through its chairman, Mr. John McKee, was voluminous, and represented a great deal of valuable information gathered by Mr. McKee.

COMMUNICATIONS

were received and disposed of as appended:

From D. A. Shaw, applying for the position of teacher of drawing.

Referred to the Committee on Appointments.

THE PROPERTY COMMITTEE

through its chairman, Mr. Peter Hamilton, reported that agreeably to instructions received from the Board, we have purchased the school desks required to furnish the rooms requiring desks in the south ward school. The following report which we received from the Public School Inspector, guided us as to the requisite quantity required:

In addition to the desks purchased he recommended the purchase of four wooden tables, also one large pendulum clock for principal's room, and three small ones for assistants' rooms, which we would recommend.

We can scarcely say positively that the new South Ward school will be ready for school purposes on 1st December, but we have hopes that it will be in such shape that at least the entrance class will be able to take possession of their room, as at present the presence of two large classes in the principal's room, numbering over seventy pupils, is detrimental to the pupils, both mentally and physically, and does not permit of the principal giving reasonable attention to the work required.

The insurance on the South Ward school expired on the 1st November. We have had the building reinsured for $10,000 and contents for $2,000. In estimating this amount due consideration was given to the new addition.

The report was adopted.

THE SUPERVISION COMMITTEE

beg leave to report in reference to the matter referred to them as follows:

1. Your committee have made careful inquiry in the question of purchasing works of reference for the public schools, and being of the opinion that such works would add greatly to the efficiency of the schools by affording the teachers the means whereby the pupils may be trained in the habit of obtaining knowledge for themselves, and as sources of information for both teachers and pupils, we recommend their purchase.

We are of the opinion that Blackies' Encyclopedia and Dictionery are well adapted to the wants of the schools, and that the offer of the Bryant Company to supply four sets of the work and four dictionaries is reasonably low. We would therefore respectfully recommend that the purchase be made, and each of the four schools be supplied with a set of the works.

2. Your committee would recommend that the classes for 1896 be arranged as follows:

(a) That the senior third class of seventeen pupils be removed from the West Ward School to the Central School.

(b) That the boundaries remain as at present for that school.

(c) That the boundaries remain unaltered for the Central and South Ward schools (as shown on the map); but that all the pupils living in the part of the town known as the Gore, be required to attend the South Ward School.

(d) That all the pupils of all classes living in the district prescribed for the South School attend that school, thus relieving the Central School of the following:

Six senior fourth class pupils, thirty-three junior fourth class pupils, fifteen senior third class pupils, eleven junior third class pupils, also about twenty pupils in the lower classes. This distribution would make it possible to relieve the Primary rooms in the South School, the West School, and the Central School, and as there are now in each of these divisions about 80 pupils, such relief will be timely, both in enabling the teachers to do justice to the pupils, and in providing accommodation for those who will enter during the spring.

With these few changes the classes in the four schools might be advantageously arranged as shown in the accompanying sheet.

3. Your committee beg leave to submit the following report in reply to the questions of the Hon., the Minister of Education, respecting truancy in the town:

1. Truancy, though it prevails to a limited extent among the children of the town, is not general, being confined to the cases of some dozen incorrigibles.

The practise is owing in a few of these cases to the indifference of the parents. In by far the greater number of cases, however, the parents are anxious to keep their children at school and fail in doing so, solely through inability to control them.

3. (a) We are of the opinion that it would be unwise and unjust to punish the children since the parents are at fault in not exercising sufficient firmness.

(b) The magistrate will not prosecute to the extent of imposing a fine, but contents himself with dismissing the defendant with caution on promise of amendment being made. Many pupils and parents having been brought before him against whom the charge of violating the Act was clear, but in no instance was a fine imposed.

(c) The Board of Education takes an active interest in enforcing the law. For two years a Public School Inspector has been employed solely for the town, one of whose chief duties is to watch closely the attendance of pupils and report promptly to the Truant Officer in any cases of truancy. He reports also to the Board the number that have occurred during the month.

(d) Your Committee are of the opinion that, if enforced, the penalties would be sufficient in all, except the cases of the few habitual truancies, and that these, in the interests of the other pupils, should be removed to some other school specially provided for them.

(e) The duties of the pupils regarding compulsory attendance are read to them by the teachers from time to time.

(f) Your Committee are of opinion that the visits of the truant officer—usually a policeman—would have an injurious effect upon the pupils—nearly all of whom are well disposed—a tendency to make them feel that they were suspected and placed under police surveillance.

4. We are of the opinion that while the plan of setting apart one school as a truant school could be operated successfully and beneficially in large cities, it is impracticable in the small ones: (1) because the smallness of the number of truants would not warrant the necessary outlay and (2) because the incorrigibles coming from all grades could not be taught efficiently by one teacher. As a more practicable plan we would suggest that each county join with the cities and towns situated within it, in providing one such school, the cost being borne conjointly by the county and these separate municipalities.

5. The following plan now in operation in the schools of this town, is our opinion, operates efficiently, so far as pupils registered are concerned,—The teacher on noticing the absence of the pupil at once sends a written enquiry to the parent as to the cause of absence. If the answer is not forthcoming or is unsatisfactory, she immediately reports to the Inspector, who in turn reports the case to the Truant Officer. In this way truants are quickly discovered and brought to book, one day usually sufficing.

In the case of the pupils who do not enter school, no provision is made under the Act by which the trustees are enabled to detect cases of its violation except once a year, through the returns of the census taker. In the intervals between censuses a whole year's absence from school is possible.

We are of the opinion that the defect might be remedied by inserting in the Act a clause making it compulsory for every parent or guardian to register with the clerk the names and ages of all minors under his charge at least twice a year, say in March and September.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

JOHN MCKEE,
Chairman.

The report was adopted.

INSPECTOR'S REPORT

To the Chairman and Members of the Board of Education:

GENTLEMEN,—In submitting for your consideration a statement of the condition and progress of the schools during the month just ended, it affords me great pleasure to report a very satisfactory month's work.

The attendance of pupils has been excellent, the average, as is shown in the accompanying statement, reaching over ninety per cent. of the total number enrolled. Under any circumstances, this would speak well for the vigilance of the teachers, and the zeal of the pupils. When the inclemency of the weather is taken into account, even greater credit must be accorded.

The absence of truancy during the month affords still further ground for congratulations. Except in two instances—and these occurred towards the first of the month—all cases of absence have been satisfactorily explained as due either to illness or unavoidable detention by the parents. While much of the credit is due to the parents for this satisfactory state of affairs, unstinted praise must, in justice, be awarded the pupils for their promptness and regularity. I have strong hopes that the unwearying efforts of the truant officers in tracing and securing delinquents, and the promptness of the teachers in reporting cases of absence, have taught the few habitual offenders a wholesome lesson; and that, guided by their own good sense, these boys will be among the most regular in attendance.

The order and discipline in the schools, except in the instance referred to in my last report, are really excellent. In these cases, however, further experience has fully confirmed my first impression, both as to the seriousness of the laxity and the cause of it. And, though it is a somewhat hopeful sign that improvement has been made, still the children are led to attribute the changes to the outside influence, and neither teacher nor pupils are possessed of the idea of the moral necessity of order. However time and reflection on the part of the teacher may bring about a more desirable condition.

In my former statement reference was made to the subjects of reading and mental arithmetic, and I have since had no occasion to change my opinion, as then expressed, that these subjects had not been well taught. The pupils are lamentably backward in both. The teachers, however, have taken the matter vigorously in hand, and, a most encouraging feature is the marked improvement made during the month. Still a heavy task remains to be accomplished, and, even with the most strenuous efforts a long period must be required to bring the pupils to a state of efficiency.

In this connection I would respectfully suggest that a principle, which is already in operation to some extent in the schools, might profitably be made of more general application. I refer to the plan of allowing teachers to interchange classes, each teaching the subjects in which he is most proficient. It is the plan so successfully adopted in all the High Schools and Collegiate Institutes of the Province, and which business men apply with good results in the shop, the office and the factory. It has already been fairly tried and proved in the case of the two entrance classes in the Central School, and to a more limited extent in the classes under charge of Mr. Yenny and Miss Mark. With your approval I will endeavour to make it more general.

A matter which I cannot but regard as a serious defect in the organization of the schools has lately pressed itself upon my notice; and as it seems to demand immediate adjustment, I would respectfully point it out as worthy of your consideration. I refer to the congested state of the primary classes. As proof of the deplorably overcrowded condition of these classes, a plain statement of the facts will, I think, be sufficient:—Of the 1,490 pupils now enrolled (including the Kindergartens) but 744 have got beyond the first book, while 746, or over 50 per cent., are still in these classes. A comparison of the statistics given in the reports of the Minister of Education for the last two years, shows that, while in Peterborough the pupils in these primary classes contribute 48 per cent. of the whole, they reach but 39 per cent. of an average in nine other places about equal in population. That is, the first book pupils with us are about half of the whole, while in other towns of similar advantages they do not exceed two-fifths. The facts tell most unfavourably against our schools; for no better test can be had than the progress of the pupils, and where progress has been made there cannot result such a stagnation in the primary divisions. After a careful examination of the circumstances, I am of the opinion that the cause is to be found in the bad distribution of the teachers. Considering the fact that in these classes the 746 pupils are distributed among twelve teachers, giving to each an average of 62, while in the higher classes, the fifteen teachers have each an average of 49 pupils, and remembering that small pupils are enabled to make progress only when they receive much individual attention from the teacher, I think the wonder is that matters are not even worse than they are. Experience has demonstrated clearly that no teacher can secure good results with an infant class numbering above forty. Both the interests of the children and economy of outlay, demand, I am sure, a re-arrangement upon this basis. With such classification, under a good, energetic teacher, pupils should reach the Second Book in two-and-a-half years, after entering school. Now, as a matter of fact they spend five, on the average, in covering the same ground. Two years saved is an important item in the child's life; and, if it is remembered that by reducing the time required for each child to pass through the Public schools, we reduce the cost proportionally, the economy of progress will be evident. The additional accommodation which will be afforded by the opening of the new rooms, renders an arrangement of the kind suggested quite practicable. Indeed, the opportunity may not again offer, and in my opinion, it would be unwise to neglect it.

As an alteration in the classes just before the close of a term would injure the prospects of the pupils at the examinations, I would recommend, in view of the fact that several weeks must still elapse before the new building is ready for occupation, that existing arrangements be continued until after the New Year. It might be well, however, to make an exception in the case of the division under charge of Mr. Yennie. With two large classes (about seventy pupils in all) now in his room it is impossible to do justice either to himself or the pupils. If the Third Class could be placed under charge of an additional teacher, as soon as a room is ready, I am convinced that better progress will be made.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

ALEX. WHERRY, Inspector.

SOME RESOLUTIONS.

On motion of Messrs. Hill and Hayes, Mr. Lang, the janitor, was allowed $15.00 for extra services rendered at the Departmental Examinations during the mid-summer vacation.

On motion of Messrs. McBain and Ferguson, the Property Committee were authorized to erect a fence around the South Ward school and to make the necessary repairs at the gymnasium.

Messrs. Hill & Ferguson moved that Contractor Rutherford be notified that the Board is not satisfied with the progress of the work at the South Ward school, and that the penalty clause in the contract will be strictly carried out.

Carried.

The Board then adjourned.

ANNOUNCEMENT TO THE PUBLIC:

We, the manufacturers of the above Brand of Ladies' and Gentlemen's Underwear, wish to state to the public of Peterborough and vicinity, that we have appointed Messrs. Hall, Gilchrist & Co., our Sole Agents for the sale of all the lines we manufacture, notwithstanding that another firm in Peterborough has been trying to lead the public to believe, that they were buying these goods direct and at less money than our own recognized agents, and said firm has been offering a few lines bought through other sources as a bait, at less than the goods can be legitimately sold for.

We have now placed Messrs. Hall, Gilchrist & Co. in a position to sell as low, or even lower it need be, than any house getting these goods from any outside source, without prejudice, to their principles, of doing business on a One Price System.

The Public will always find a great advantage in dealing with our recognized Agents. Firstly, on account of being able to get every style and size we make in every line; and Secondly, on account of our arrangements which will enable them to Undersell any Such Competition.

THE FLOWER SOCIAL.

Under the Auspices of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Catholic Association.

A flower social was held last evening by the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Catholic Association, and as the auxiliary is composed of some of the most charming young ladies of the Cathedral congregation, it goes without saying that the affair was a huge success.

The social was held in the apartments of the Catholic Order of Foresters, and the rooms were most daintily and beautifully decorated for the occasion. Wreaths of flowers and evergreens were entwined over the doors and windows and prettily festooned at the ends of the ball room. On the platform were cut flowers and palms, and the effect was most artistic indeed.

As each lady and gentleman entered the room they were presented with a boutonierre and at about nine o'clock the music struck up and a programme of 24 dances was carried out.

During the evening refreshments were served and altogether the affair was one the most successful of its nature ever held. The success was due to the indefatigable efforts of the members of the following committees:

Management Committee:—Mrs. J. J. Lynch, Mrs. Geo. Ball, Miss Katie Lynch, Miss Katie Mahoney, Miss Houlihan and Miss McCabe.

Refreshment Committee:—Miss Pope, Miss Miles, Miss Maggie Ryan, Miss Carew, the Misses Cahill, Miss May Grace, Miss O'Connell, Miss McAuliffe and Miss Maggie Kelly.

Music Committee—Miss Lillie Hurley, Miss M. Butler, Miss Maud Doherty, Miss Maud Kelly, Miss M. McCabe, Miss M. Begley, and Miss Maggie Kelly.

Although it was late when the affair broke up, all went home well pleased with the evening's enjoyment and sorry that a couple of more hours could not have been spent in amusement.

At the close, Dr. Brennan made a few remarks, and on behalf of the Ladies' Auxiliary, thanked those present for their attendance.

A LEADING CANADIAN CLERGYMAN

Tells How He Was Cured of Nervous Prostration and Indigestion.

SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE.

The Greatest Discovery of the Century Cured Not Only Rev. W. S. Barker, But Also Cured His Wife.

If among any class of the community caution marks the words of testimony publicly uttered, this is the case in a marked degree with the clergy. Their training and daily experience compel them to weigh carefully questions on which they write or talk. They are thinkers and they speak on a subject after it has been brought home to them by practical experience, or the keen logic of facts.

These are reasons that necessarily give weight to the strong testimony borne by the Rev. W. S. Barker, of Campbellford, Ont., touching South American Nervine. His own words are these: "I have much pleasure in recommending the great South American Nervine Tonic to all who are afflicted, as I have been, with nervous prostration and indigestion. I found very great relief from the very first bottle, which was strongly recommended to me by my druggist. I also induced my wife to use it, who, I must say, was completely run down and was suffering very much from general debility. She found great relief from South American Nervine, and also cheerfully recommends it to her fellow sufferers."

In any effort to cure the disease the important matter is that the disease be understood. Now, it is a scientific fact, demonstrated beyond question that all disease comes through a derangement of the nerve centres, located near the base of the brain, and having entire control over the stomach, liver, heart, lungs and all internal organs. Nervine immediately acts upon these, and this is how severe cases of prostration and indigestion and general debility, such as was suffered by the Rev. W. S. Barker and his wife, are quickly and effectively cured. Sold by H. S. McDonald.

Tricks in all Trades.

"The prices of bicycles, according to the manufacturers' lists, have not diminished much," said a New Yorker who is up in the secrets of the trade, "but riders in New York are getting wheels a good deal cheaper by means of an ingenious system recently adopted by retail dealers. You know each dealer in bicycles signs an agreement not to sell a new machine below the figures marked on the price list. Well, in Gotham this agreement is rigidly adhered to in its letter, but knocked galley-west when it comes to its intention. The scheme is simply this: When a person enters a bicycle dealer's establishment in search of a wheel he is shown the collection. He asks the prices, and is told that this make is $100, that one $11, the other $120, and so on. If he demurs at the price, as he is pretty apt to do, the dealer tells him that if he will call again next day there may be a good second-hand wheel in at a lower price. The visitor leaves, and then the dealer puts the bicycle that most suited his fancy on the rent list and hires it out to the first one who calls for a machine by the hour. When the inquirer calls again he is shown the same wheel that he wanted the day before, but the price is only $65. The two or three hours' use as a hired wheel has made it a second-hand article. This trick is being universally played in New York, and I reckon dealers in Washington and elsewhere will get on to it in course of time."—Washington Star.

Stuffed Calico Cats.

The stuffed calico cats, made of print cloth, stamped with the picture of a tabby and stuffed with cotton into quite a life-like counterfeit of the animal, which were a common toy with the children a few years ago, have been put to a novel use lately in Lincoln County, Me. THE LONDON TIMES.

The Walter Family Great Printers as Well as Publishers.

Like his father, Mr. Walter was a great printer, and continued to develop the art of printing until in 1814 he revolutionized the resources of journalism by introducing the steam printing press, the invention of a young German named Koenig. This he did in spite of the menaces of his workmen, who threatened to destroy his presses. There are those still alive who remember John Walter the second standing before his surprised and half-crazed employes with the first steam printed copy of The Times in his hand, telling them that it was too late to fight against the new invention. That alone did more for literature than all that had preceded it since the days of Gutenberg. It instantly quadrupled the power of The Times and inaugurated a new epoch.

Well might the great Duke of Wellington write in 1828: "It does no harm that the world should know that there exists in this country a press directed by persons willing and endowed with talents to discuss and sift to the bottom all transactions of a public nature;" for at that time utterances of The Times were sometimes the subject of diplomatic remonstrances between nations, so great was its reputation for accuracy, and so authoritative its sources of information. The conqueror of Napoleon had learned long before that he could not conquer the new citadel of British public opinion. He hated journalism, but the astounding achievements of The Times forced that tribute from his unwilling pen.

There is no more extraordinary illustration of the influence wielded by Mr. Walter than the part he played in the defence of Queen Caroline. The Times made George IV. powerless to harm the royal victim. The king and his supine ministers had a servile House of Lords and an army of perjured witnesses enlisted in the persecution of the queen; but The Times declared for her, and aroused the multitude to such a pitch of sympathy that the plot was abandoned.

Until 1816 Mr. Walter lived almost exclusively in his comfortable residence at Printing House Square, but in that year he bought Bearwood, a large estate forming an outlying part of Windsor Forest. Here he went to live, traveling 31 miles each way to and from London, by stagecoach, twice a week. He converted Bearwood into a princely domain, half park, half farm. Then commenced the patriarchal system which has helped to give The Times establishment an atmosphere unlike anything else in the world. The children of the Bearwood tenants and laborers were taken into the service of the great paper as soon as they were old enough to work, and served until they died, as compositors, pressmen, mechanics, and what not. Their children and their children's children succeeded them. To-day you may see three generations of the same family, all born at Bearwood, working side by side in The Times. Generation after generation is born into the establishment and dies out of it. Every brick in the huge building was made at Bearwood. From roof to cellar The Times is a monument of the hereditary system. Now and then the manager receives a note from the master of the school built at Bearwood by Mr. Walter, saying that William Jones or John Smith has made good progress at his studies and is almost old enough to go to London and begin work in the office.

There is no such thing as solidarty in the English press. Each newspaper develops its own individuality, and will not yield an inch of its character to any other journal. This is a peculiarly British quality, and is not confined to journalism. The Times has always been conducted on the abstract theory that its readers never take any other paper. Its battles for popular rights have nearly always been undertaken single-handed. And this has developed in its management a sense of self-reliance and indifference to current criticism that has not infrequently been mistaken for brutal stolidity. No clique can disturb its councils. It is the incarnation of self-conscious strength.

"Defuelisation" is a new word added to the language in a story told by Senator Palmer about an Illinois farmer, who, for several years had been selling him wood for $6 a cord. "This year," says Senator Palmer, "he came to me with a load and I told him that I did not want it. He offered it at $3 a cord. I still refused, and he wanted to know why I would not take it at $2. I told him I was using soft coal, for which I paid $1.37 a ton. 'Gosh!' he exclaimed, 'I heard you was trying to demonetize silver, and now you are trying to defuelize wood.'"

Rumoured Establishment by a Canadian Firm of a Branch in Albany, N. Y.

ALBANY (Special) Nov. 4.—The outcry in certain quarters against the high tariff still goes on, but it is to the tariff that Albany is likely to owe the addition of another industry to her numerous existing ones. A Canadian firm located in Toronto has, it is understood, been interviewed by an Albany business man, with a view to establishing in this city a manufactory of the staple kidney remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills. As the business done by the Canadian firm throughout the United States has assumed very large proportions, owing to the recognition by the American public of the great value of this staple, it is probable that arrangements will be satisfactorily entered into. The annual output is very large and is rapidly increasing.

RUBBER FOR BICYCLES.

$5,000,000 Worth of Crude Rubber Bought by Wheel Makers in Eighteen Months.

The spread of the bicycle fever has had a marked effect on the rubber trade in this country within the past year or two, and especially within a few months. The rubber required for the tires of bicycles amounts in the aggregate to hundreds of tons annually, and the demand for it increases almost in geometrical progression, for as soon as one member of a family buys a wheel the others, as a general thing, soon do likewise. The demands of the bicycle factories were not felt particularly in the United States until last year, when the extraordinary rush to buy wheels caused the manufacturers to call for large quantities of rubber for use in the manufacture of tires for the new wheels in the first instance, and then for more to supply the place of tires punctured. Then, as the wheeling fad still extended itself, came further calls, until it is said by a well-known rubber man that the bicycle business has made a difference within 18 months of probably $5,000,000 to the crude rubber trade.

Previous to that time the sales to bicycle men attracted no special attention here, among the many industries in which rubber is used, but it is probable that in Europe the gradual growth in the demand had been felt somewhat earlier. When the demand was felt here in its full strength during the present year it drew on some of the old stock. The year 1894 was a poor business year, and at the end of December there were more than 2,000,000 pounds of Para rubber on hand in the United States. Old stock in the rubber trade does not mean the same as it does in some other businesses. Old rubber is more valuable than new, being at present recorded at 82 cents a pound, while the price of new rubber is 77 cents. The tire manufacturers require the best rubber, that is, Para. For the outer rim the finest grade is not used, as one that takes up more amalgam serves better, but for the air tube the best rubber is essential.

Figures as to the amount used by the bicycle factories are difficult to get at, but it is estimated that they used 1,000,000 or 1,500,000 pounds more during the past year than in the previous year. Some importers have endeavored to get data as to the probable consumption by these buyers during the coming year, but they find this is not easy to do. Apparently, the bicycle makers are not giving out much about their business. It is estimated, however, that the increase in the consumption by these factories this coming year will be double the increase of last year. The factories are getting ready now for the 1896 wheels, but not many of them are buying rubber for those wheels, as the tire is about the last thing they put in place. They are buying rubber for the immediate deliveries, which are large.

The price of rubber has advanced 7 or 8 cents a pound since June, but the bicycle makers do not seem to be paying much attention to that. Some of them think the advance may continue, but others look for a decline. In this latter view they are not encouraged by the sellers, but it is said that the disposition to hold off and buy only as needs require is pretty general. Rubber was down to 61 cents in 1889, and has varied between 60 and 70 cents up to this year, but some rubber manufacturers point out that the price has been pushed high owing to various causes in other times, only to fall again suddenly. It is said that most of the rubber bought by the bicycle makers now is for the immediate orders and the replacing of used-up tires, but at the same time the makers have begun work on next season's wheel output much earlier than usual. It has been the custom, it is said, for the manufacturers to wait until the bicycle show in Madison Square Garden in the winter before beginning to turn out the following season's supply of wheels, but they were caught so short this past year by the unprecedented demand for machines that they have begun already preparations for the 1896 output.

CONSUMPTION

The world's consumption of rubber is about 30,000 tons annually, and of this amount about 14,000 tons is used in the United States. It is said. Of the Para production this country gets more than half. Para's total exports of rubber in 1894 amounted to 40,876,000 pounds, and of this amount 21,171,000 pounds came to the United States.

TOULI'S LATEST WIFE.

In the Course of His Life Has Had Thirty Spouses.

A French traveler in Asia sends Le Temps an account of the last wedding of the octogenarian Prince Touli, son of the late Emperor Min Mang of Anam, and great-uncle of the actual 16-year-old sovereign of whom he was Regent. Touli's palace is a grove of bamboos and giant bananas. He has been, in the course of his life, the husband of 30 spouses, of whom but 24 survive—not enough to watch over his tomb and praise him when he is dead. He is doing, therefore, all he can to fill the places of the half-dozen departed ones with six young beauties likely to survive him for a great many years.

Touli had his palace decked out on one of his recent wedding days with flags, French and Anamite. He stood at the outer door to welcome his guests. The bridegroom's head-dress was a long piece of violet crepe wound round his head with one end falling over his shoulder, a tunic of crimson silk devoid of folds and reaching to the knees, and wide yellow trousers. He was bent in two from age, but went through all the polite ceremonial the occasion required without apparent fatigue.

There was a wedding breakfast, but the bride did not come in to it, or any of the 24 wives. The menu was of alternate French and Anamite dishes. As the fete was a family affair, no domestics were admitted to it. All the service was performed by Touli's sons. They were of all ages, from 12 to 50. They served with sweet seriousness. Touli said that there were 35 sons present, not to speak of grandsons and he had so many daughters that he forgot the number. His first son is a mandarin reported to be a great scholar, and the second is Conservitor of Imperial Tombs. Both seem to look up with reverence to Touli, and watched attentively for his orders.

THIS WONDERFUL PLANET.

Science Has Discovered a Third Revolution for the Earth.

It is a popular belief that his old earth of ours has only two revolutions, i.e., one round the sun, and the other a daily one on its own axis. This belief, however, has, I am afraid, to be buried with the other false notions that at different times have been held by scientists and their following; for the earth will have to be accredited with another turning "round" that will revolutionize the theory of geology and explain, with a far greater degree of logic and reason, many things that under the old theory were inexplicable. Perhaps many are aware that there have been slight deviations in the latitude of places, amounting to as much as two minutes in 100 years, according to our first astronomers. Up to the present, the motion of the earth was thought to be oscilatory; but it is now proved beyond doubt that such is not the case, and that the movement is constantly in the same direction. The poles of this third revolution, if I am not mistaken, are thought to be somewhat about the 35th deg. E. long. and 145th deg. W. long. but until further search and careful observation these positions cannot positively be stated.

Thus, if this movement of two minutes per 10 0years be the average, then an entire revolution would be completed in about two millions of years. This revolution would cause the countries and seas that would be equatorial to these points to pass a little to the east or west of the present poles just as the case may be; while others would pass directly under the Polar Star, and would for thousands and thousands of years have the rigor of a polar winter to bear. Now this would acount for the different glacial epochs that are met with in the historical geology of England, and would fully explain the reason of submarine deposits on mountain tops, as these mountains in their course would undergo the same process as seas and flat countries would in their voyage via the North Pole. Thus, mountains that were miles above the level of the sea at the North Pole would be miles below on the equator and thus would receive the building up that has been a puzzle to many people.

So with England in the carboniferous ages. For thousands of years it enjoyed a series of tropical summers; and then for long ages it was submerged in the sea, which carried and deposited sediment that has ultimately been enough to raise its head again above the waters. This, being repeatedly accomplished, has left a complete geogical account of the past history of our little island, and no link is wanting in the chain of evidence which will ultimately prove that this is the sole cause of the changes in our geologic history. Now, in my opinion, this theory of a latitudinal rotation will go far to prove in a more feasible and sensible manner both the ages of the world and the manner in which these ages have been passed. Instead of elevation and depression of continents and seas explaining the different epochs, we now have the natural theory of revolution, with a very well-known natural law at its back to put it through its examination.

A NEW CLUB.

The Suggested for a New Social Organization in London.

LONDON, (Special) Oct. 28.—It has been facetiously suggested that a new social club in process of organization in this city should be entitled "The Dodd's Kidney Pill Club" as the present members are all enthusiastic advocates of that remedy and in common with many other citizens declare that in all cases of kidney trouble no other agent has been found so completely effective. Most Londoners have at their fingers' ends the particulars of the many marvellous cures through the use of this specific. In every drug store in the city the medicine is kept in large quantities and warmly recommended.

To destroy worms and expel them from children or adults use Dr. Low's Worm Syrup.

Comparative Value of Foods.

Prof. Atwater's exhaustive studies and experiments in this line have led him to the conclusion that the greatest nutritive value in any kind of food of the same specific cost is to be found in cornmeal. He finds that in ten pounds of the latter there are slightly over eight pounds of actual nutriment; in eight and one-third pounds of wheat flour there are over six and three-fourts pounds of nutriment, in five pounds of white sugar there are four and one-half pounds of nutriment; in twenty pounds of potatoes there are three and three-fourths pounds of nutriment; in 25 cents' worth of fat salt pork there are three and one-half pounds of nutriment—in the same value of wheat bread there are two and one-fourth pounds; in the neck of beef a pound and three-fourths; in skimmed milk cheese the same as the latter; in whole milk cheese a trifle more than one and one-half pounds; in butter one and one-half pounds; in smoked ham and leg of mutton about the same; in eggs at 25 cents a dozen about seven ounces, and in oysters at 35 cents a quart about three ounces.—New York Tribune.

CHRONIC HEADACHE.

The change in my Mother's condition marvellous.

Scott's Sarsaparilla is a Boon.

MONTREAL, August 29th, 1895.

GENTLEMEN:—There is such a change in my mother's health that I cannot restrain myself from writing you. She suffered for years past with a chronic headache, accompanied with a disordered stomach. She was weak and irritable, and we thought she was going into a decline. For three weeks she has been taking a course of Scott's Sarsaparilla, which was recommended to her by Mr. McGale, Druggist, Montreal. Her headache is now but a memory, her appetite is good, and she has gained five pounds in weight in twelve days. She is a different woman, and I feel that you, in God's hands, have been the means of restoring her to health. I shall always recommend Scott's Sarsaparilla to sufferers from head or digestive troubles. Thanking you again, I close.

Yours sincerely,
Hortense Gavlliere.

Scott's Sarsaparilla is a concentrated extract, pleasant to the taste, and is taken in small doses. It is the finest remedy for disorders of the stomach and liver, palpitation, scrofulous sores, eczema and skin diseases arising from impurities of the blood. It builds up the weak, the strong it maintains in health. $1 of all druggists.

THE SECRET OUT

THE secret is out. The Government Insurance Blue Books have revealed it. The facts of the case will prove of real value to all those seeking a company where permanent satisfaction can be secured under a Policy of Life Insurance. The telescope has been turned upon those who withdrew from six prominent companies in 1894.

It is obvious to any one that the proportion of persons who lapse or surrender their policies in any company is a fairly good test of the satisfaction or dissatisfaction existing therein. If policy-holders are receiving satisfactory profit results, if they are being honestly and honourably dealt with, if they cannot do better elsewhere, then it is plain these facts will show themselves in the small number who surrender their policies or allow them to lapse.

To test these conditions, and to discover the company that is giving greatest satisfaction to its policy-holders, as evidenced by their determination to continue their policies, we have made an analysis of the facts, as reported in the blue books containing the business for 1894 of the leading Canadian Companies. We have calculated the ratio per cent. of assurances surrendered to the average business in force in 1894 also the ratio per cent. of assurance lapsed to the average business in force. Intending assurers have here an inside view of Life Assurance that is full of significance. When a company stands out so prominently as does the CAANDA LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY in this test, it means that its merits are known and recognized by those who become connected with it.

This is but another of those numerous tests in which the CANADA LIFE shows its superiority.

The following table tells the whole story :—

COMPANY.	Per Cent. Surrendered.	PerCent. Lapsed.	Per Cent. Lapsed and Surrendered.
CANADA LIFE	.70	2.10	2.80
Confederation Life	2.33	4.65	6.98
North American	1.73	6.97	8.70
Ontario Mutual	2.51	6.59	9.10
Sun Life	2.63	8.54	11.17

The above figures are compiled from the Dominion Insurance report, issued by the Superintendent of Insurance, at Ottawa.

Once more, and as usual, the CANADA LIFE COMPANY comes out on top.

COMPARE

The following two Peterborough results with anything else of the kind in existence in the town. Other companies promise, we perform. That is the great difference.

Which is as follows: John R. Bouchier, Sutton, banker; William Cable, Beverley-street, lithographer; Charles Carnegie, Jarvis-street, watchmaker; Geo. A. Case, Spadina-avenue, estate agent; James Cherry, King, farmer; Joseph Connolly, Boswell-avenue, architect; James Doherty, Stouffville, merchant; Timothy Eaton, Spadina-road, merchant; Richard Ellis, Roxborough-avenue, jeweler; Thomas G. Foster, Bloor-street, merchant; Albert Quants, Markham, farmer; Robert A. Riddell, Georgina, farmer.

During the course of his address to the grand jury His Lordship, Judge Ferguson, said that in looking over the calendar for the court he could find no cause for congratulation in the decrease of crime in the country. As laid before him the calendar presented a very considerable number of crimes for one county. His Lordship, in continuing, said he did not desire to pass any remarks about the increase of crime in the county, as it would be unwise for any individual to offer an explanation for what all know to be a fact.

On the law relating to murder, and more especially as applied to the case of Frank Smith and William Broom, charged with the murder of Mary Atkins, who died from injuries said to have been inflicted by the accused while they were attempting to commit an assault upon her, His Lordship instructed the jury. The evidence in this case would be largely circumstantial. "But," said he, "circumstantial evidence is just as good as direct evidence. Statistics show that fewer mistakes have been made in cases where circumstantial evidence brought conviction than in cases of direct evidence. Don't make light of any evidence because it is circumstantial."

The other cases on the calendar were dealt with in turn and the law relating to each made clear to the jurymen. His Lordship's remarks on each case were necessarily few, as the list is the most formidable ever presented in the history of York County, and does not contain any charge on a conviction for which a sentence of 10 years in prison can not be passed. In conclusion His Lordship advised the members of the jury to settle themselves to hard work at once, as some time would be required to pass upon all that was to be brought before them.

Great Fire in New York.

New York, Nov. 6.—An explosion occurred at 3.40 last evening in White's express office, on the corner of Crosby and Bleeker-streets. The Empire State Bank Building, the Manhattan Bank building, a modern supposedly fireproof structure, and other valuable buildings were destroyed.

The total damage is estimated at $2,000,000.

A Great Book Free.

When Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., published the first edition of his great work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, he announced that after 680 000 copies had been sold at the regular price, $1.50 per copy, the profit on which would repay him for the great amount of labour and money expended in producing it, he would distribute the next half million free. As this number of copies has already been sold, he is now giving away absolutely free, 500,000 copies of this most complete, interesting and valuable common sense medical work ever published — the recipient only being required to mail to him, at above address, thirty one (31) one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only, and the book will be sent post paid. It is a veritable medical library, complete in one volume. Contains 1008 pages, profusely illustrated. The Free Edition is precisely the same as that sold at $1.50, except only that the books are in strong manilla paper covers instead of cloth. Send NOW before all are given away.

Acts Like Magic.

DEAR SIRS,—I can truly say that Burdock Blood Bitters acts like magic. It drove all the pimples and blotches from my face, cleansed my blood and increased my weight by simply using one bottle. J. E EDWARDS, Arnprior, Ont.

Y.P.S.C.E. NOTES.

BETHEL—KEENE CIRCUIT.

On Wednesday last after our regular Endeavour meeting, which was conducted by J. O. Fife, Samuel Armstrong and Miss Laura Nelson, in a very able manner, we had excellent reports of work done by the different committees during the last term. Also the report of the society, which showed an increase in membership of 24, 7 active 17 associate, also 8 associate's joining as active members, making a total membership of 86, 48 active, 38 associate. The officers for the ensuing six months are as follows:

President—Miss Nettie Shearer.
Vice. Pres.—Jas. Shearer.
Cor. Sec.—Miss E. Armstrong.
Rec. Sec.—J. O. Fife.
Organist—Miss Louise Fife.
Treas.—Miss Addie Palin.

CONVENORS OF COMMITTEES.

Prayer Meeting—H. Patterson.
Lookout—Jas. Shearer.
Social—J. O. Fife.
Entertainment—Miss A. Patterson.
Sunday School—Miss Adeline Fife.
Missionary—Willie Fife.
Temperance—Miss Eva Manly.
Calling—Miss Lizzie Nelson.

KEENE E. L. OF C. E.

We had a good attendance at our meeting, Tuesday, Oct. 22nd. Miss Kirby lead the Bible reading, Master David Edwards took up the topic, "Christian Patriotism," and Rev. Mr. Liddy conducted the prayer meeting. A pleasing feature of the evening's programme was a well-rendered chorus by the members of the Junior C.E.

Oct. 29th the topic "Obedience" was ably taken up by Mr. Eason, Miss Jennie Nelson conducting the Bible reading, and after a short season of prayer we held our consecration services. Three new members were added to our list.

Thursday, Oct. 24th, the Juniors held an unusually attractive meeting, Miss Jennie McGregor occupying the chair, while Mollie Shaw and Percy Campbell read very creditable essays on "Our Country," and Miss Campbell sang an appropriate solo. This, with the singing of Patriotic songs, made it altogether a very enjoyable evening.

On Oct. 31st Mrs. Harrison, in a very pleasing manner talked to the children from the topic "Obedience." The attendance was good.

ST. PAUL'S.

At the monthly business meeting held this week reports from the officers and committees for the past term were read. Some of these reports were excellent reflecting great credit on the committees. The new conveners of committees then gave an outline of work suggested for the present term. This, no doubt, will be productive of much good. The president has originated a novel idea for spurring on the committees to active work. It is in the form of a wheel. A spoke for each committee. A coloured card fitting in a slit on the spoke distinguishes each committee. At the monthly business meeting if a committee has no report or has done no work in the month, the coloured card is taken out, leaving the spoke bare.

Every committee is to do Lookout work this term, and at the monthly meeting a star will be inserted in the rim of the wheel for every new member brought in by the members of the committee, the star to be placed near the spoke of the committee bringing in the member.

A strong effort will be made to increase the membership, as well as to faithfully carry on the work of the various committees.

Next Monday night, the topic is "Promises." It will be a memory meeting and Bibles and hymn books will be prohibited.

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY

Held their monthly business meeting on Monday evening. The attendance was fair. Miss Fowler occupied the chair. After the opening exercises the business of the evening was conducted, some of the reports showing excellent work indeed. After the business was concluded the meeting was open and a number took part. Mr. Mulligan sang, "Jesus, Saviour, Pilot Me," in good voice.

The society intend holding a social about the end of this month.

The society also appointed a Christian Citizenship and Temperance Committee, the members of which are: Mr. Anderson, convener; Rev. A. MacWilliams, Mr. Stevens, Miss Waddell and Miss Bathgate.

CHAIN OF PRAYER.

At the local union Executive meeting held on Tuesday evening, it was unanimously decided that the matter of the world's C. E. chain of prayer be brought before various societies in the union, asking for their co-operation and sympathy with this new phase of united work. All Christian Endeavourers believe in the power of prayer. What is more inspiring than the fact that hundreds of thousands of Christians forming a belt around the world are each praying for certain specified objects. Any who desire to become a link in this powerful chain can do so by at once sending their name to the editor of this column. Address C. E. Editor, box 865. We cannot explain in fewer words the object in view than by giving you the words of the covenant:—"Trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ and realizing the untold blessing of fervent, united prayer, we, the individual links in the world's Christian Endeavour prayer chain, covenant and agree to make it our practice to offer a petition, however brief, for one another and for the cause of Christian Endeavour every day. We also covenant to bear in mind at the usual time of our evening devotions such causes as are brought to the attention of the prayer chain as objects for our united petition." The topics for prayer will be published in this column. Send your names at once.

See if it Won't Work a Miracle.

Thousands have been benefited by Wilson's celebrated Invalid's Port. While it soothes, it strengthens; while it makes a pleasant drink, it at the same time builds up the run down system. For Wilson's Invalids' Port is a fine old generous wine, full bodied, which is guaranteed to make blood, and to add a new feeling of strength and hope to the hypochondriac. It is a great deal more valuable than the ordinary tonics, for while it sharpens the appetite it at the same time has the power to make new flesh and muscles. All over the country this wine is in demand, replacing many of the worthless nostrums, which have been impudently called tonics and blood makers. A big bracing tonic. Sold by all dealers at $7.50 per case of 12 quart bottles half case $4 or 75 cts per bottle. Address, Bordeaux Claret Co., 30 Hospital street, Montreal.

Items of Interest to Local Sportsmen —Aquatic and Field Sports.

LACROSSE.

The members of the lacrosse club and those interested in that organization have arranged to occupy apartments in the Cox Block, on George and Brock streets, and to fix them up as a gymnasium. The idea is a most commendable one and it would be well if every young athlete in town would send in his name to Secretary McDonough and join the club. It will be a splendid thing for the lacrosse boys, too, as it will keep their muscles supple during the long winter months, and they will, therefore, be in fine shape when they step on the field next spring.

THE WHEEL.

Quite a number were down at the bicycle track yesterday afternoon to witness Harley Davidson make a trial half mile in 1:03. The record is 59 2 5, but the track was not in fit shape for a successful attempt to lower it. For a distance of about eight feet all around the inside of the track had been freshly harrowed and not rolled, so the fast young rider had to ride on the outside of the track. Last night, however, the track was rolled, and this afternoon some records are being surely broken.

The "quad" is not of much use yet, as it is too new a machine and the boys are not used to it. The gearings, too, were a little out out, yesterday, but it will pace Davidson to-day.

The two tandem teams are cracker-jacks and both did a fast quarter yesterday. McColl and Gratz will push Brown and Gibbons hard in pulling down the tandem records, and the spectators should not be surprised if the little fellows prove the best, as they are going very fast.

MYSTERIOUS DISAPPEARANCE.

Jas. Brown of Hastings Has Been Missing for Some Days.

(Hastings Star.)

Mr. Jas. Brown, who lives about two miles out of the village, has been missing since Monday night, the 28th ult. He came into town on the said Monday, and being given to drinking was badly intoxicated by evening. He was met on the bridge about 12 o'clock at night by Constable Hill, going southward. He was afterwards seen on the north side, going towards Lynn's livery stable, and afterwards going towards Mr. P. Howard's stables. About one o'clock Tuesday morning someone was heard shouting by Mr. and Mrs. Granger and Mr. J. G. Carey in the neighborhood of Mr. Granger's boat house. The woods have been scoured and on Sabbath afternoon the race was run off, but no traces have yet been found. Whether in the darkness he fell into the river and drowned or has gone into the woods and perished is yet to be revealed. We understand on one or two occasions he has as mysteriously disappeared and after a time has turned up all right. His wife is very much distracted and is deserving of much sympathy.

Nothing Hunts Out Corns

Like tight boots. Corns are very small affairs, but apply to them a pair of tight boots and all other concerns of life sink into insignificance. Tight boots and Putnam's Corn Extractor (the great and only sure cure for corns) may go together, and comfort will be their partner; but don't fail to use Putnam's Corn Extractor. Frauds, poisonous and dangerous substitutes are in the market. Beware of them. Polson & Co., proprietors, Kingston.

The Bethel Methodist tea was a grand success, being favoured with good weather. Large numbers attended from here. The proceeds of supper and collection, amounting to $109, is for the building fund.

The Kleiser entertainment last Friday evening under the auspices of the Omemee High and Public Schools, proved a grand success.

The singing of Miss Lily Jackson of Peterborough, here last Sunday in the Presbyterian church was quite a treat and surprise to all who heard her render the beautiful sacred solo "City of Rest," which was sung in a most artistic manner, with clearness and sweetness of voice seldom heard.

Miss Mabel Rowan, pupil of the Toronto Conservatory, rendered several piano solos with great acceptance at Mount Pleasant on Thursday night last, whose concert was a grand success although the weather was somewhat unfavourable.

DIRECT IMPORTER,

ISN'T IT QUEER

How some people can afford to give away valuable articles of household furniture and jewelery with their goods, and at the same time publicly proclaim that their goods are marked down to the "lowest living profit" or "half their regular value?"

Some of our lady customers have asked us why we can't do the same thing. We have to tell them frankly "we can't afford to do it—the small profit we have on our goods gives them better every day value than the "scheme" merchant has to offer them."

It's a Mistake

To suppose that anybody can sell you two dollar's worth of goods for one dollar.

IT'S A MISTAKE to suppose that you can get the BEST value in goods and have a gift thrown in. The gift costs money.

If you don't wan't to be humbugged into paying for something you don't want buy the goods right, without the gift, which you can always do at this store. We allow no margins for gifts,—that's settled. But you can buy from us just now

WOOL BLANKETS at Mill Prices.

Going fast, as you may imagine, and don't need any prize package to help them go. Same thing is true about our—

TURNBULL'S

Gloves and Hosiery

There is perhaps nothing a lady is more particular about than her Gloves and Hosiery, for herself and family.

Some six months ago we were looking ahead and placed large orders in European factories for this fall's trade. In doing this we get closer prices and have the goods made to exactly suit the Canadian trade; being careful to have the fingers proportionate length, the cuffs to suit dresses, and neatly stitched backs. We have light weights for early fall wear, and heavier for winter. As we select our own cloth there is none better for wear.

See the extra nice Glove we can give you for 25c a pair.

Other lines as low as 10c and upwards to 50c.

In Cashmere Hose we have selected both medium and extra heavy weights, in plain weave and soft finish, one and one ribs for both ladies and children. Two and one ribs, made of extra heavy Scotch and Canadian yarns for boys who wears knickers, also a full range of a heavy make from 10c a pair for children's to 15c for ladies.'

MANTLES.

Our Mantle Cloths are rolling out fast, and so they should as they are grand value. See our New Mantles just arrived this week to sort up our unusually well assorted stock.

Ladies will do well to remember that Turnbull's is the leading Mantle house in Peterborough.

THE HYAMS' TRIAL.

Mr. B. B. Osler Outlines His Case to the Jury.

THE TAKING OF TESTIMONY BEGUN.

Dr. Edmund E. King Tells of the Finding of the Body of Willie Wells—A Change of Program Causes a Falling Off in the Attendance.

Toronto, Nov. 7.—A number of the witnesses for the prosecution succeeded most admirably in delaying the proceedings in the Hyams trial yesterday morning. They seemingly failed to grasp the fact that the little blue documents commanding their presence are peremptory in their nature, and were far away from the busy scenes of the court room when their presence was essential to the uninterrupted success of the proceedings.

Immediately on taking his seat yesterday morning, His Lordship announced that he had not arrived at any conclusion regarding the convening of an additional Criminal Court, and then excused all jurymen not engaged in the present case from further duty until Monday, the 18th inst.

The twins came upon the scene dressed as on yesterday, though slightly paler, as if in expectancy of the able chief prosecutor's opening statement they had passed a sleepless night. The prisoners were accompanied to their dock by two burly constables with drawn clubs.

The Crown prosecutor lost but little time in presenting his statement to the jury. It was an able presentation of facts as the Crown expects to prove them during the progress of the trial, and was eagerly listened to until the last word had been spoken. Mr. Osler spoke for an hour and three-quarters, saying in substance as follows:

Gentlemen of the jury,—Civilization brings with it a class of crime differing from the crimes of brutality pure and simple. We get in modern days complex motives, skilfully and craftily designed plans for making money—plans which involve the taking off of life with every attempt to obscure the appearance of criminal design. This class of crime is most dangerous to the community, and it is a class of crime which takes all the skill that jurors can bring to bear upon weighing the evidence to bring home punishment. Crimes of this sort are intended to have the appearance of innocency. You have to endeavor to get at the true inwardness of the transaction. You must be prepared to find the appearance of innocence. You must be prepared to find whether they are appearances or reality. Crimes of this sort can only be brought home by circumstantial evidence. Some people say, "I would never convict on circumstantial evidence." The moment that becomes the attitude of the jurors the most dangerous class of crime goes unpunished. The murder of design is always a matter of circumstantial evidence; the murder of passion is probably the only murder which you can prove by direct evidence. So that it is your absolute duty to give just as much attention to the circumstances leading to a conclusion of guilt as to evidence of the witness in the box who swears that he saw the transaction. Now let me make one other preliminary remark. You are here to judge solely upon the evidence. You cannot but have read of this transaction in the newspapers. You all know of the previous trial. You all have knowledge perhaps more or less of the details of the transaction, perhaps you have discussed it with your families and your friends. Perhaps you have come more or less to the conclusion on that which your minds have received. You are here to get rid of impressions, except those you have received from the witnesses in the box.

The Crown has to make out its case, the Crown has to satisfy beyond reasonable doubt of the guilt of the prisoners. No man is to be adjudged guilty on suspicion, however grave that suspicion may be. If the Crown fails to satisfy you that there is guilt, then no matter how grievously the prisoners may be suspected they are entitled under our laws to be discharged. But if the circumstances related in the witness box bring to your minds that conclusion of guilt that is in some respects automatic, then you have to render that conclusion no matter what the consequences may be. We are here merely performing the functions the law has assigned to us. It is not your verdict that affects the prisoners, it is the law as the result of your verdict. You must perform your duty fearlessly and courageously, and you have to perform your duty without regard for the lives of the accused. Sympathy has no part in this trial. If sympathy had any part in it I might just as well appeal for your sympathy for the poor young man lying dead that morning as my friend has for the men in the dock.

He then asked, in view of all these things he had brought to their attention, was there or was there not relationship between these arrangements and the death? Were they not simply a preparation?

The next matter Mr. Osler dealt with was the hoist in the warehouse. This hoist had for years served its purpose for Imrie & Graham, who did a large business. But with the Hyamses, who had no business at all to speak of, the hoist was being continually tinkered with and repaired. Then, in connection with this, there were the continual and aggressively pronounced warnings to Wells to take care of the hoist for fear of accident; there was the putting on of gates, ostensibly to prevent accident; then there was the taking off of the front board of the weight shaft in the cellar. Further, on the top flat they had a platform, built close to the elevator shaft by which they could take off the weight and put on a lighter one. They ordered a lighter weight, although they were told it was utterly worthless, as it was only half the weight of the cage. But it was necessary to their purpose that they should get this other weight, because the hook which held the old weight was so pressed in and safe that the weight would not come off it at all. Their whole intention in getting this light weight was so that they might be able to get a hook which they could manipulate. Now, having regard to all the circumstances, the jury, Mr. Osler said, would have to consider what importance they would give to these matters concerning the hoist. Was there a relationship. Were they a preparation for the death of Willie Wells?

Continuing, Mr. Osler said there was a mechanical situation fitting in with the financial. What happened preparatory to the moving on the 16th? Immediately prior to that H. P. Hyams began to change his courtship to Martha Wells. He had told her before that he could not marry till his mother's death; now he wanted an immediate marriage. He was eager, she was hanging back for his mother's consent. At the warehouse, on the Monday morning of the death there were to be present Miss Latimer, Mr. Aylesworth and Willie Wells, all employes. H. P. Hyams had a meeting with Martha Wells on the preceding evening (Sunday), and had arranged for Willie Wells to be down at the warehouse early next morning. He left a list of nine names, of men in the east end of the city, whom Aylesworth, by his instructions, was to see before coming down to the warehouse in the morning. On Saturday evening also he had seen Miss Latimer and left a similar message for her, keeping her away. So that this murder, if murder it was, was so arranged that Aylesworth and Miss Latimer were to be absent when it was committed.

The defence, Mr. Osler said, would place much stress on time, and would try to show that H. P. Hyams was not there. The Crown would place all the evidence before the jury, and would submit that there was no great importance in the question of time. It was shown that Harry Hyams had taken the weight off the head, and by doing so had injured his hands. He had taken the weight off before any other person was around. The Crown would submit that the man who could be there to take the weight off the head could also be there to put it on. The question of time, therefore, was not very material. Continuing, Mr. Osler asked was that death by design or accident? That brought one, as it were, to the mechanical part of the case. He pointed to the motives and said if it were accident, then accident had intervened to carry out what motive had intended.

Speaking of the injury to the skull, Mr. Osler stated that the medical evidence both for the prosecution and the defence agreed that the head when it was struck was lying on the ground. There was no question of this. There was a consensus of opinion, too, that the breaking of the skull was by force applied to the right side. How did it come that a young man in health and strength was lying prone when such a blow was received? The medical evidence for the prosecution would claim that there was a knock-down blow, or rather two blows, showing different lines of force, before the crushing blow was received.

Mr. Osler was proceeding to outline the contention of the defence on this point when Mr. Lount objected.

Mr. Osler contended that if the hook was not properly attached to the weight, and the weight ascended askew it would not go into the completed shaft at the top, and it would not be necessary for anyone to look up the shaft to see the weight. If the weight were descending the Crown would show that there was not play enough in the shaft or slack enough in the rope to enable the weight to come off. The crown asserted that a weight of 200 pounds could not have struck the man a second time. Had he been standing up at the time, the law of mechanics proved that the weight, being so heavy and having such momentum, would have struck the ground before the body. Mr. Osler presented to the jury the statements made of the occurrence at the time by the brothers, which were contradictory. The Crown would, Mr. Osler said, show that there were spots of blood on Dallas' trousers. It would show that sometime afterwards, when some threat of disclosure was made, Dallas told Expressman Fox to go to Humphrey, the undertaker, and tell him to keep his mouth shut. It would show that the brothers, being asked to go down to the uncle of the deceased and explain how it was, declined to go, and that they told the women that they did not want to hear about it or to talk about it any more. The policies in the Connecticut Mutual and the New York Life, amounting to $30,000, were paid to Martha Wells, who soon afterward married Harry P. Hyams, and gave to him and his brother all the money except $300, which went to pay the expenses of the funeral of her brother, and between $4000 and $5000, which went as a gift to her sister, Miss Aylesworth.

The taking of evidence was begun with the testimony of Francis Baker, architect. Plans of the Colborne-street warehouse, where the killing took place, were produced and sworn to by the witness as having been drawn by him. The witness spoke with a decidedly English accent. He described the building in question as a very modest-looking warehouse on the north side of Colborne-street. As the present arrangements are there is no connection between the ground floor of the building and the basement. In this respect a change had been made since the time of the accident. The elevator shaft had also been cut off at the first floor and did not continue into the basement as in January, 1893. The plans were made shortly before the opening of the trial in May last.

J. F. Bryce, photographer, swore to having made several photographs of the different floors of the Colborne-street warehouse on Feb. 16, 1895, a few days after the arrest of the twins.

With the opening of the court for the afternoon session Dr. E. E. King took the witness stand. The court crier announced that any Crown witnesses who were not present when their names were called were likely to be arrested on bench warrants.

Responding to queries propounded by Mr. Osler, Dr. King stated that he had known the Hyamses, Harry particularly, since 1891. They lived with other members of their family at 55 Gould-street. He did not know how long they had lived in this city, or where they had come from. He remembered having had a call from Harry on the morning of Jan. 16, 1893, at his office, corner Queen and Bond-streets, and being requested by him to "Hurry up to Colborne-street; there has been an accident there and I don't know whether the man is dead or not."

The witness hurried down on foot, Harry preceding him. Arriving at the warehouse he found Dallas on the ground floor, leaning against an office railing and believed that Harry was also there, but no one else. Asked where the accident occurred and we three went down into the basement, where we found the body of a young man lying prone on his back, dead. Would judge that life had been extinct but a short time, as body was still warm. The body was lying south of a straight line from the south side of the elevator shaft, in an easterly and westerly direction, and inclined somewhat obliquely. The body was well extended, and gave me the impression that it had been dragged there. The head was inclined slightly to the left so that the right ear was easily visible. The head was about 18 inches from nearest point of elevator shaft, and about two feet one or two inches from weight shaft. The arms were carelessly hanging, one across the body and one alongside. Was positive that they were bare when I first saw the body. Was also positive that there were no spectacles or eyeglasses on the deceased's face, nor did I see any lying about the floor.

When he was in the basement he was told that deceased had been struck by the weight, which they had removed from the head. The Hyamses told witness that the weight had fallen down the shaft, but nothing further was said with reference to details, other than that the hoist had been out of order and the weight had caught.

The witness thought the weight had not struck the buffer block in its fall, nor was there any mark of violence of any kind on the block, though there was some blood. Had the weight struck the block, there would have been a difference in the condition of the blood thereon.

At this stage of the proceedings a make-believe skull was produced by Mr. Osler and some time was taken up by the witness in an explanation of the temporal occipital parietal protuberance, in other words, that is the portion of the deceased's head that was resting on the floor at the time he first saw the body. The doctor then went into a minute explanation of the wounds as he had found them when making his first examination of the body.

The doctor remembered having seen blood on the hands and cuffs of Harry but none above the buffer block.

Cross-examined by Mr. Johnston, the witness explained that he believed the wound over the eye was caused from inward pressure, brought about by external head wound, which he believed had been caused by the falling weight. When Harry Hyams called to see me on Jan. 16, was about 9 o'clock in the morning. Noticed no blood on his clothing at that time. Was satisfied he had gone to the warehouse and returned to his office by 10 o'clock. Harry had been in a serious condition for some time prior to the death of Wells, and had been obliged to undergo three very complicated surgical operations. First thing Dallas said when witness reached the warehouse was: "Thank God you've come," and thought Harry had said to him at his office, he didn't know whether young Wells was yet dead. Condition of head was just such as if weight of the size used in elevator had fallen on it from a distance. Both brothers told witness that neither of them had been present and that they could not give any detailed account of the accident. The dragging of the body from the weight shaft to where it lay when I found it was quite discernible, there being an unmistakable streak of blood in that direction. The prisoners had admitted moving the body, claiming it was necessary in order to get it out from under the heavy weight. When I pronounced life extinct in the body, the Hyamses were much exercised and asked me to make absolutely certain of it. Saw no blood on Dallas' clothes, nor was there any evidence to me of a struggle having taken place.

Witness had summoned Coroner Aikins immediately on returning to his office and had told the Hyamses of his intention to do so, and they had expressed no disapproval of such course. He had been in the Colborne-street building in the neighborhood of 10 or 15 minutes, and was positive that it was about 9 o'clock when Harry called at his office.

On re-direct examination the doctor told Mr. Osler that in notifying the coroner he had instructed that the body should not be removed or touched until after the arrival of the coroner. He then went into details of his business with the Hyamses.

"Have you attended them since then?" asked Mr. Osler.

"Since the accident?"

"Since the killing?"

"Since the 16th of January, 1893, I have attended Harry Hyams a number of times," replied the doctor, and he explained that Harry had never fully recovered from the effects of the operations, and that he needed medical assistance quite frequently.

During the re-direct examination the doctor admitted that a former statement of his fixing the time of Harry Hyams' visit to his office at between 9 and 10 o'clock was probably correct. Being brought down closely by the Crown prosecutor, the witness stated that the top of the buffer block was wet, as with fresh blood, when he made his examination of the cellar. He was willing to swear that he had telephoned the coroner, notifying him of the occurrence.

To Mr. Johnston witness said he thought it was nearer 9 than 10 o'clock when Harry called at his office. The doctor had been in the witness box just three hours when his examination was concluded, and the court shortly thereafter adjourned until 10 o'clock this morning.

A Great Book Free.

When Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., published the first edition of his great work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, he announced that after 680,000 copies had been sold at the regular price, $1.50 per copy, the profit on which would repay him for the great amount of labour and money expended in producing it, he would distribute the next half million free. As this number of copies has already been sold, he is now giving away absolutely free, 500,000 copies of this most complete, interesting and valuable common sense medical work ever published — the recipient only being required to mail to him, at above address, thirty one (31) one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only, and the book will be sent post paid. It is a veritable medical library, complete in one volume. Contains 1008 pages, profusely illustrated. The Free Edition is precisely the same as that sold at $1.50, except only that the books are in strong manilla paper covers instead of cloth. Send NOW before all are given away.

Purified Blood

Saved an operation in the following case. Hood's Sarsaparilla cures when all others fail. It makes pure blood.

"A year ago my father, William Thompson, was taken suddenly ill with inflammation of the bladder. He suffered a great deal and was very low for some time. At last the doctor said he would not get well unless an operation was performed. At this time we read about Hood's Sarsaparilla and decided to try it. Before he used half a bottle his appetite had come back to him, whereas before he could eat but little. When he had taken three bottles of the medicine he was as well as ever." FRANCIS J. THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1895.

THE Republican party made a clean sweep in Tuesday's elections in the United States, capturing almost everything in sight, except Tammany in New York City.

SIR OLIVER MOWAT can't be accused of being in politics for the money in it. When he entered politics he relinquished an income at least twice as large as he has received for his position of Premier.

MR. J. ISRAEL TARTE, in a letter over his own signature in the Montreal Monde, denies that he had anything to do with the Baie des Chaleurs transaction. He says he is getting his political papers in order, and there will be a surprise for many people.

U. S. Commissioner of Labour Carroll D. Wright estimates that the loss to em employees in establishments in which lock-outs and strikes occurred in the United States during the thirteen and a half years ending June 30th, 1894, amounted to $190,493,382, and to employers to $94,825,847.

THE British Government is contemplating legislation that will prove a serious blow to the live stock trade of Canada' The legislative programme includes a bill to permanently exclude all foreign live stock except for slaughter at the British ports. It is expected that live sheep will also be shut out of that market.

THE Canadian ferry route across the Atlantic from some of the ports of the Maritime Provinces, is shorter by a large part of a day than any route terminating in the United States. The mails go by the shortest route, with the mails goes the passenger traffic, and therefore the favourite route of the future is between Canada and the British Isles.

THE "sick man," Turkey, is very sick at present. He has long delayed promised reforms and still continues his policy of the heartless massacre of his subjects. He has done so a little too long. The great powers of Europe are determined that he shall be brought to time. The tyrannous reign of the unspeakable Turk seems to be nearing an end.

THE United States is in a serious scare over an invasion by a force of twenty Canadian mounted police who have advanced northward to the junction of the Forty-mile Creek with the great Yukon river with the intention of establishing a post there. The American papers have magnified this peaceful proceeding into a hostile demonstration dangerously near their Alaskian frontier.

THE Liberals have selected a very strong man to contest Jacques Cartier in the bye-election, Mr. Napoleon Charbonneau. He is a Liberal of the sterling kind and order which Mr. Laurier has declared to be his model. Mr. Charbonneau will be a fitting successor to Mr. Lafamme. who so well represented the constituency in Parliament. Mr. Girouard would not accept the Conservative nomination because it was not unanimous. Conservative candidates must not be too exacting. In the present divided condition of the party there will be some difficulty in procuring unanimous nominations.

THE craze in London for speculation in African gold stocks, or "Kaffirs," as they are called, is one of the most extraordinary spectacles the commercial world has ever seen. Twelve of the principal companies operating in South Africa had shares on the London market on October 1, whose market value altogether was $634,367,500, against a par value of only $98,915,500. In the recent slump these shares have lost $120,000,000 in value despite the efforts of Barnato, Rhodes & Co. to sustain the market. It will be seen, however, that the inflation is still enormous. The entire gold product of all the companies in the district does not now exceed about $40,000,000 a year. Two-thirds or more of this must go to the expenses, so that there is not enough being got out of the mines to pay 2 per cent. on this aggregate market value of twelve companies.

THERE exist rather strained relations between the two Conservative organs in Toronto. The Mail-Empire aimed, by reducing the city price of its daily edition to a cent, to give a death blow to the World. In comment on this the World remarks:—"As for the Mail's threat to deal a 'death blow' to the World, the public need not be reminded that the same newspaper set out to deal a 'death blow' to Canada as a country, to Sir John Macdonald as a statesman, and to the Conservative party as a political force in this country. In all this it failed ignobly. It will fail just as ignobly in its efforts to give the World a 'death blow.' Not only has the World received 7,000 of the Empire's subscribers, but a great many of the Mail subscribers who could not stomach another flop-over have gone to the Globe." This is nothing to us; it is a little family squabble that is typical of the strained family relations existing among other members of the Conservative family.

A NEWSPAPER RULING.

"If a newspaper, magazine, book or any article is put in at a person's door without his knowledge or consent and he does not use it, he is not liable in any way for it and is not bound to either return or notify the parties who have put it there."

Judge Morson gave out this ruling a week ago in the Division Court, Toronto, in the case in which Dr. Phillips, of Yorkville avenue, was sued by the Appleton Company for $6 subscription to the Popular Science Monthly. The company claimed that they had delivered the work at the doctor's house. The doctor said that he neither got it or consented to take it.

Judgment was given for the doctor, with costs.

YOUNG'S POINT.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

Mr. T. Phelan, Bay Mills, Mich., is visiting his cousins here.

Mr. D. Lundy is a guest at the Lakeview House.

Mrs. J. Chalmers, Peterborough, has returned home after a short visit with friends here.

Miss J. Phelan, Lakefield, paid a visit with friends here last week.

Mr. W. J. Young has purchased the residence of the late J. Bleutt, Sr.

Miss Maud Scollard is visiting friends in Selwyn.

The Mary Ellen is busily engaged towing wood and lumber from Bridgenorth, Deer Bay, and Young's Point to Lakefield.

Quite a number of our sports have gone back north deer hunting. We wish them much success.

Our village has lost some of the beauties of its scenery; owing to the violent winds of last week the beautiful tints of yellow and crimson which formed such a pleasing background to the water has, to a great extent, been displaced by leafless trees.

Mr. Richard Heard has turned out quite a large quantity of cider with his mill here this fall. The mill is conveniently placed in close connection to his shop and no matter how cold the day is "Dick" can make the juice of the "forbidden fruit."

There is some talk of a concert and oyster supper to be given at the close of the cheese factory here.

The water in the lake and river is extremely low at present, being much lower than at a corresponding date last year.

Pedro playing is becoming quite the rage now, and many find it a pleasant way to while away the long evenings which are now here.

The members of the Methodist church have erected a wire fence around the church property.

A large block of logs, composed of about forty-five thousand, belonging to the Gilmour Co., has passed through, it being the last drive of the season. Mr. Carrigan is clerk and Mr. J. McCormick foreman, and we can say he has a very quiet and orderly gang of men under his supervision and they deserve much credit for the manner in which they carried themselves while going through our village. Owing to the unfavourable weather, it being so late in the season and the water being too cold for the men to work, Mr. McCormick was obliged to tie the block at Moodie's Island, between here and Lakefield, until navigation opens in the spring, when they will take it to Trenton.

BAILLIEBORO.

From Our Own Correspondent.

The anniversary of the frustration of the Gunpowder Plot was celebrated here on Tuesday night with elaborate ceremonies.

The Baillieboro Brass Band, strengthened by three or four members of the Fire Brigade Band, Peterborough, headed a procession to Bewdley and escorted that lodge to the village, where a procession, comprising the Bewdley, Fraserville and local lodges, was formed, and after covering the principal points of the village, proceeded to the hall, where addresses were delivered by Col. McLean and Police Magistrate Holland, Port Hope, Rural Dean Allan and others.

In the evening another procession was formed—a torchlight—and an effigy of Guy Fawkes, in charge of grotesquely clad mounted guard, was paraded through the principal streets and then suspended from a pole and burned, to the accompaniment of suitable music by the band and the several fife and drum bands present. This ended the demonstration that signalised the frustration of the great plot.

Do You Tire Quickly?

Fatigue is the natural sequence of labor. If, however, it follows moderate or slight exertion it is the sign and evidence that the nervous system has lost tone and vigor, and requires assistance. Suicidal is a resort to stimulants, since these only increase the enervation. Aid cannot be obtained in this way, but through medication judiciously employed in restoring through the nervous system the digestive function, upon which primarily, health depends. The whole range of medicine fails to produce a preparation possessing in equal degree the tonic and nutritive qualities of Maltine with Coca Wine. By its action on the nervous system all the important functions of the body are stimulated and increased; the digestive process is performed efficiently and without discomfort, insuring the proper nourishment of the body. Maltine with Coca Wine is sold by all druggists.

PROFUSION OF FLOWERS AND MUSIC

Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt Made Duchess of Marlborough in the Church of St. Thomas—A Brilliant Scene The Bridal Gown and the Presents.

New York, Nov. 6.—The much-talked of wedding of Miss Consuelo Vanderbilt and the Duke of Marlborough took place to-day in St. Thomas' Church. The hour set for the beginning of the ceremony was 12 o'clock. At that hour the church was thronged with the representatives of New York's smartest society, gathered to witness the ceremony. The church was gorgeously decorated for the occasion, the floral display being, without doubt, the most lavish that New York has ever known.

The church was beautifully decorated throughout. Across the chancel stood three high gothic arches of bride roses and lilies, with a background of asparagus ferns. The chancel rail was concealed by lilies of the valley, while the gates were hidden under farleyensis ferns and white calayeas palms, and trailing vines were placed on the window ledges on the back of the chancel. In the rear of the chancel was a mass of palms and white and pink flowers, such as roses, azaleas, lilies and chrysanthemums. On the altar were four tall vases, filled with various kinds of lilies. On either side of the chancel rail were banks of fern with growing bushes of bridesmaid roses interspersed. The ushers were: F. Brockholst Cutting, Richard T. Wilson, jr., Reginald Ronalds, Herbert D. Robbins and Hamilton Wilkes Carey. The full choir of the church was in the choir alcoves, George William Warren, the organist of the church, assisted by a harpist, had charge of the music. At 10.15 o'clock the concert began and continued until 11.15. The full New York Symphony Orchestra was stationed in the gallery at the northeastern corner of the church. Under the direction of Walter Damrosch, they filled in the three quarters of an hour before the arrival of the bridal party. The Duke of Marlborough and his best man, his cousin, the Hon. Ivor Guest, took their posts at the right of the chancel, and awaited the coming of the bride. The Duke wore a frock suit of dark gray cloth, a white Ascot tie, patent leather shoes and white gloves.

THE DUKE OF MARLBOROUGH.

The bridesmaids led the bridal procession, walking two and two in the following order: Miss Catherine Duer and Miss Elsa Bronson, Miss Laura Jay and Miss May Goelet, Miss Daisy Post and Miss Marie Winthrop, Miss Edith Morton and Miss Evelyn Burden. Then came Miss Vanderbilt on the arm of her father, carrying in her left hand the bridal bouquet. The bridesmaids took their positions at either side of the chancel. The bridegroom stepped forward and took the right hand of Miss Vanderbilt and led her to the chancel steps. The marriage rite of the Episcopalian Church then followed, Bishop Littlejohn officiating.

Imediately after he had given his daughter away Mr. Vanderbilt quietly left the church. When the marriage ceremony was over the Duke and his bride went to the vestry and signed the marriage register. At the same time each of the bridesmaids took a basket of nosegays and marched back up the aisle distributing them among the guests. As the Duke and his bride re-entered the church the orchestra played the wedding march from Tannhauser,

The bridesmaids returned to the chancel and the bridal party marched down the aisle, the ushers leading.

The bridesmaids followed them, and then came the Duke and his bride. After them came Mrs. Vanderbilt, on the arm of Mr. Guest. The party immediately entered carriages, and drove to Mrs. Vanderbilt's house, where the reception and breakfast followed.

One feature of the wedding which has excited much comment was the fact that few of W. K. Vanderbilt's family were invitetd either to the church or to the breakfast.

The reason for this is said to have its foundation in the coolness between Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt and the Vanderbilt family, as the result of her recent divorce from her husband.

The fact that Mrs. Vanderbilt did not invite her husband's brothers and sisters to the marriage of her daughter caused much talk, but little surprise.

The wedding breakfast was served in the large dining room. Eighteen covers were laid at the table of the bridal party. The service was of gold. Each guest received the customary wedding cake in a small box, having on its cover a coronet and the letters C. & M intertwined. One hundred persons were present at the breakfast. This included the clergy, several representatives of the British Legation at Washington, the bridal party and their immediate families, and Miss Vanderbilt's nearest friends.

Among those present at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. John Jacob Astor, Mr. and Mrs. August Belmont, Perry Belmont, Mr. and Mrs. Townsend Burden, Mr. and Mrs. J. Abercrombie Burden, General and Mrs. Butterfield, Sir Roderick Cameron, Legrand B. Cannon, Mr. and Mrs. C. Oliver Iselin, the Rev. and Mrs. Morgan Dix, Hamilton Fish, jr., Mr. and Mrs. J. Pierpont Morgan, Mrs. Levi P. Morton, the Misses Morton, and Mr. and Mrs. Elbridge T. Gerry.

Miss Vanderbilt has been the recipient of many beautiful and valuable wedding presents. Her mother has given her a long string of magnificent pearls that once belonged to the Empress Catharine of Russia, a ring with an emerald and diamond setting and a traveling case with toilet articles of dull gold.

The Duke of Marlborough has made a number of beautiful presents, chief among which is a girdle of gold, set with diamonds.

W. K. Vanderbilt, jr., has given his sister a quartet moon solidly set with diamonds. Her brother Harold has given her a circlet of diamonds to be worn on the head.

Among the other presents were: A turquoise and diamond marquise ring, Miss Catharine Duer; a blue enamel watch set with diamonds, the Hon. Ivor Guest; a ring set with sapphires and diamonds, Percy Belmont; a golden mesh purse with a circular fastening of gold, set with diamonds, Mrs. William Astor; vinaigrette of crystal, with diamond settings, R. T. Wilson, jr.; an old Spanish fan, Miss Morton; a face of lace with pearl sticks and watteau medallions, set in lace, Mr. and Mrs. William A. Duer; a silver repousse plate, Mrs. Richard Irwin; a silver loving cup, Mr. and Mrs. John Jacob Astor; an antique silver box, Peter Goelet Gerry; a Sevres cup, Jules Vatable; a Louis XVI. table, ornamented with Roman garlands and rhinestones, Miss Cadwalader Evans; a pendant heart, encrusted with diamonds, Miss May Goelet.

The bridal gown was a poem in cream satin, tulle, point d'Angleterre and point applique lace. The skirt was of unusual length, as it just cleared the floor, save where the long train five yards in measurement swept the aisle. The waist was high necked, with very full sleeves, close fitting below the elbow and reaching over the hand in the shape of a gauntlet. The front of the gown was a mass of lace stripes, frills and flounces, intermingled with half hidden wreaths and garlands of orange blossoms. The waist was a mass of chiffon and crepe waves, arranged gracefully with sprays of orange blossoms. Revers of handsome lace fell over the sleeves from the shoulders to the elbow. The train was a marvel, and in itself was as handsome as a piece of tapestry. It shimmered forth in box pleats, seed pearls and silver galloon. The border was an exquisite framing of silver and white, and it shone with rare splendor. It seemed to cast a circle of light about the bride. The design within the border was bunches of rose leaves, tied with a lover's knot. The great veil was of the finest and daintiest of Brussels net and fastened to the regal coiffure by a tiara of orange blossoms.

Blenheim Servants Dined.

When a baby comes to the house real happiness comes. Worry and work and care and anxiety count for nothing against the smoothly dainty, clinging touch of the little hands and the sound of the little voice. The highest function given to human beings is bringing healthy, happy children into the world. Nothing equals that — nothing compensates for the loss of it. The woman who has not borne a child has never come to the real fullness of womanhood. Over thirty years ago the needs of women appealed to Dr. Pierce, now chief consulting physician to the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, of Buffalo, N. Y. The result of his study improved by thirty years of practice is embodied in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It serves but one purpose. It strengthens, purifies and makes healthy the organs distinctly feminine. It gives weak women the strength and health necessary for the production of healthy children and it makes the bearing of those children easy. It is sure to cure any weakness or derangement peculiar to women; stops pain, soothes inflammation, strengthens, purifies, invigorates. Thousands of homes have been made happy by its use. Thousands of letters like this one from Mrs. W. P. Cain, of Clinton, Allegheny Co., Pa., who writes: "I was affected with all sorts of female trouble. I tried three doctors, and seven kinds of patent medicine, and found no relief. My husband said 'try Dr. Pierce's medicine.' I told him I might as well throw his money in the fire as to try anything more. I had lost all hope. I had not taken more than half a bottle when I could eat and sleep well. I took four bottles of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, and several vials of his 'Pellets.' One year after I gave birth to a fine baby girl. I got along so much better than when my other child was born. Three of my friends are taking your medicines, and are improving." Yours truly.

Mrs. W. P. Cain.

CANDY FOR CHILDREN.

The Popular Health Magazine says the desire in a child for candy and sweets is a natural one and should not be stifled. Good candy and sweets in moderation, not only do no harm, but are actually beneficial. Too much sweet upsets the stomach and spoils the appetite, but candy in moderation if it is not taken before a meal, is food which children crave naturally, and among the purest and most wholesome is that manufactured by

THE BICYCLE RECORDS NOT YET BROKEN.

Harley Davidson Fails as Yet to Cut the Figures.

The hundred or so enthusiastic wheelmen who assembled at the Driving Park yesterday to witness Harley Davidson endeavour to lower some of the existing records were disappointed, as owing to the fact that the "quad" once more broke down, the tandems had to be used for pacing purposes, and though they "hit up" a great clip they are not fast enough to get Harley over the line. It appears, in less than record time.

The pacing was done by different teams yesterday. McIntosh and Steimal were the first pair and pick-ups were afterwards made by McCall and Grats, Brown and Penseyres, Walker and Gibbons.

The worry concerning the quad and the way he works at the repairing of it must naturally fall upon Davidson, who, although he possesses abundance of energy, ought to allow others to look after these details and not harrass himself with them.

As soon as the track dries out sufficiently another effort will be made to accomplish the purpose which brought the cyclists to town.

Yesterday the track, though not soft, was sticky. A bright breezy day would yet get it into shape, but it is a pity Davidson could not have arranged to get here a month or so ago.

Sam Gibbons made an attempt yesterday to lower the unpaced record for five miles but was unable to accomplish it, although he rode a fast clip, and covered the distance in 15.07.

A "smoker" will probably be given at the rink by the Bicycle Club for the visiting wheelmen on either Friday or Saturday, and it is hoped that it will be liberally patronized by all.

Davidson made the following time yesterday afternoon:

DISTANCE.	MIN.	SEC.
First half	1	11
One mile	2	21
One mile and a half	3	25
Two mile	4	51
Two mile and a half	6	13
Three mile	7	34
Three mile and a half	8	27½
Four mile	10	flat.
Four mile and a half	11	21
Five mile	12	30

It is McCarthy's record of 11 2-5 which he is after.

Yesterday at Fountain Ferry, Otto Zeigler took away Johnson's only remaining track record of note—the paced standing start mile; time, 1.51½; record, 1.52 1-5. Willie DeCardy, who was in Peterborough last September, beat Titus' record of 20.54 4-5 for the standing paced ten miles; time, 20.45. Two quads paced Zeigler, and three paced DeCardy.

STORING DUALIN.

Tons of it to be Used in Trent Valley Canal Construction—A Chat About Explosives.

Last evening a representative of the Hamilton Powder Co. of Montreal, applied to the Council and obtained permission to store the explosive known as dualin in the powder magazine. He wishes to store his dualin in the magazine from time to time, to be transported as needed to points on the Trent Valley Canal contracts, to be used in rock blasting.

The representative, after the conclusion of the session, had an interesting chat with a few of the Councillors about explosives generally. He says that if dualin or dynamite is carefully and properly packed there is no more danger in transportation than in transporting potatoes. He has been 23 years in the business and has never yet met with an accident. The chief cause of explosion in transit is leakage from improper packing, and the carrying of detonators with the dynamite or dualin. They should be shipped separately and only brought together like the two parts of a Seidlitz powder at the place of using.

The dualin he wishes to store in the powder magazine at present is used chiefly on the Onderdonk contract of the Trent Valley Canal at Balsam Lake. Fifty cases — 500 pounds — are used daily. The work on the rock cutting which is through a stratum of shale is going forward rapidly. The cut is 23 feet deep and the rock is lifted in two sections, each series of holes drilled being about 12 feet in depth. Hundreds of tons of rock are hurled out a single blast.

The gentleman also gave the councillors some pointers as to the keeping of powder in stores, as is allowed to be done for immediate sale. He says that in some towns in the United States such powder is kept in a copper box, or box of similiar material, a nominal fee being paid. This box is placed at a point near the door of the shop and the location registered in the Fire Department. In case of a fire in a shop where powder is sold, the firemen know exactly where to look for the box and the first duty is to open the door and remove it. Thus is obviated the danger arising from the explosion of larger or smaller quantities of powder at unknown points in the building during the progress of a fire.

SPAULDING'S BAY TO BE BRIDGED.

TO EFFECT A SAVING IN SEWERAGE CONSTRUCTION.

The Report of the Special Committee—A New Bridge to be Built at Once—Tenders to be Advertised for.

The council met in special session last to consider the question of a new bridge across Spaulding's Bay, referred to the Street and Bridge and Sewerage Committee at the last meeting of the council. There were present, the Mayor in the chair and Messrs. Cahill, Best, Deene, Mills, Dawson and Cobb.

The reading of the minutes was on motion dispensed with.

Mr. Best, chairman, presented the report of the committee as follows:

To the Mayor and Council of the Town of Peterborough:

GENTLEMEN,—Your Street and Bridge and Sewerage Committees beg leave to report that they inspected the bridge on George street at Townsend St., and came to the conclusion that it would not be advisable to place the steel pipe connection between No. 2 and No. 3 sections of the sewer through the present bridge, as it would be a piece of expensive work that would not be permanent. We therefore recommend that a new bridge be constructed and that the width of the bridge be contracted so as to lessen the length of the steel pipe by about 30 feet and thus save expense in making connections between No. 2 and 3 sections of the sewer, and that the Town Engineer prepare plans under instructions from the Street and Bridge Committee and that that Committee advertise for tenders for the construction of the bridge and report to the council; and that the money to meet the expense be borrowed in the meantime and that a by-law be prepared and submitted to the ratepayers for their approval to issue debentures to raise the money. All of which is respectfully submitted.

HENRY BEST, Chairman.

PETERBOROUGH, Nov. 6th, 1895

The engineer also submitted a draft plan of the proposed bridge, which is estimated to cost in the neighbourhood of $1,800. The new bridge will have solid masonry piers, steel beams and timber cross beams.

Mr. Best pointed out that by building the bridge there would be a saving of $600 in the cost of steel pipe for sewer-construction, by reducing the length to 25 or 30 feet, and in addition we should secure a much better and more permanent job.

In a general conversational discussion the councillors claimed that a new bridge was true economy. The old bridge was in a very much decayed condition, and a new bridge would have to be constructed—many thought—next summer at any rate. It was considered wise to make a permanent job, especially as such a bridge would save so much on sewer construction.

After considerable discussion as to ways and means of providing the money for the work, in which it came out that about $2,000 of the $21,000 voted for sewerage construction was still unexpended, the matter was settled thus:

On motion of Mr. Best and Mr. Dawson, the report was adopted.

Council adjourned.

IN DARKEST CANADA.

A Horrible Revelation from the Lips of a Mere Child.

Two young girls named Lillie Hadden, aged 15, and Mary E. Hewson, aged 17, hailing from Millbrook and Port Hope, respectively, were up in the police court this morning charged with vagrancy—having no visible means of support, no employment, and no fixed place of abode.

They were arrested last night between seven and eight o'clock, on the Hunter street bridge, where they were having quite a gay time, smoking cigarettes and accosting young men as they passed.

When taken to the police station the younger girl claimed that the two were sisters, and that she had been sent up from Millbrook to bring the elder one home. This morning, however, she broke down, told her true name, and confessed to having led a life of shame since she was 13 years of age—truly a horrible revelation to hear from the lips of a mere child.

Mr. R. S. Davidson, J. P., was on the bench, and remanded the two girls until Tuesday.

AN OPEN MEETING

Of the Mark Street Branch of the Women's Missionary Society.

The routine business of the regular meeting of the branch of the Women's Missionary Society in connection with the Mark street Methodist church, Ashburnham, was pleasantly varied yesterday by the presence of Mrs. Sherin of Lakefield, who in the evening delivered a most practical address to the ladies of the congregation, a large number of whom assembled in the church.

The progress which the Society had made during the past few years was enlarged up by Mrs. Sherin, who urged her hearers to greater exertion in assisting to forward the great work which the ladies of the Methodist church have undertaken.

The opening devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. Mr. Beer, after which the hymn "Cornoration," was sung, and Mrs. Shields and Mrs. Beer led in prayer. The following programme was then rendered:—

Vocal solo.....Mrs Houston

CUSTOMS RETURNS.

Comparison Between October of 1894 and 1895.

The customs returns for the port of Peterborough for October of 1895 as compared with the October of the previous year are as follows:—

IMPORTS.

	Value.	Duty.
October, 1894	$22,930 00	$4,027 60
" 1895	15,160 00	2,841 03
Decrease	$7,870 00	$1,188 58

EXPORTS.

October, 1894	$48,296 00
" 1895	48,796 00
Increase	$500 00

The reason assigned for the decrease in the imports, as compared with those of last year, is that the local merchants ordered their stock a month or six weeks earlier this year than last. The returns are considered very large, as coming from an inland town.

See if it Won't Work a Miracle.

Thousands have been benefited by Wilson's celebrated Invalid's Port. While it soothes, it strengthens; while it makes a pleasant drink, it at the same time builds up the run down system. For Wilson's Invalids' Port is a fine old generous wine, full bodied, which is guaranteed to make blood, and to add a new feeling of strength and hope to the hypochondriac. It is a great deal more valuable than the ordinary tonics, for while it sharpens the appetite it at the same time has the power to make new flesh and muscles. All over the country this wine is in demand, replacing many of the worthless nostrums, which have been impudently called tonics and blood makers. A big bracing tonic. Sold by all dealers at $7.50 per case of 12 quart bottles half case $4 or 75 cts per bottle. Address, Bordeaux Claret Co., 30 Hospital street, Montreal.

Indian Summer.

The weather for the past four or five days is supposed by many to be Indian summer, that mythical period which can not be definitely located. In answer to a question as to Indian summer, one writer said its beginning and ending was unknown, but that when it terminated it was only twenty-four hours from winter.

Enlarging the Collection.

Mr. M. M. Boyd, of Bobcaygeon, who is now in the far west, sent home a fine specimen of a Rocky Mountain wild cat. This will be a great addition to Mr. Boyd's large collection of animals. While at the express office, in Lindsay, a great many took advantage of the chance to see the live wild cat in its secure cage.

Cornice poles and window shades are included in the boom—prices for which will be rock bottom. A. H. STRATTON & Co.

Gilmour Street Drain.

Work on the drain on Gilmour street, built by private persons assisted by a grant of $100 from the Town Council, has been completed. And none to soon, the street having been obstructed for nearly five weeks by the earth thrown from the trench, and the sidewalk is still heaped with stones taken from the trench, so as to be almost impassable. Seeing that these stones have been lying there for weeks the residents opposite think the town should lose no time in removing them to the stone yard. Persons interested in the drain claim that the town is to blame for the delay that dragged the work along so slowly.

THE FORTNIGHTLY CLUB.

A Largely Attended Public Meeting—Early Civilizations, Evolution and the Age of the Physical World Discussed.

Tuesday evening the Council Chamber was taxed to its utmost capacity, the occasion being the first regular open meeting of the Fortnightly Club. The subject of the paper, which was read by Sheriff Hall, was "When the World was Young." Needless to say, the paper was exceedingly instructive and interesting.

The following is a brief abstract of the paper and of the discussion it provoked:

For some forty years scientists generally have held that man was evolved from some animal lower in the scale of being, probably from some extinct type. This view, however, is not by any means that of all scientists, nor of some of the most eminent. They also hold that man, when he first appeared, was a savage of the lowest type, and point, in evidence, to his remains as found in the drift deposits and caves, where are also found the bones of extinct animals, together with rude stone implements. These remains which, however, do not indicate a very low form of intellect, have been found only in Western Europe and other outlying parts of the world, while it is universally acknowledged that man did not first appear there, but somewhere in Central or Southern Asia. It is there we should look, if we wish to learn what manner of man our original ancestor was. Here we do not find with no instincts above those of a beast, but wherever the veil is lifted that hides the past, we find man an intelligent being having as large a brain, and being as capable of using it, as the average inhabitant of our civilized lands to-day. It is only when we recede from this centre that signs of savagery and barbarism appear.

The civilization of the ancient Babylonians and Egyptians was of a high order, and those who imagine that these old people were ignorant and degraded, will have to revise their opinions in the light of recent discoveries. In the case of both of these nations the first glimpse we obtain shows them in possession of a high degree of civilization, with complete systems of religion and considerable advancement in art. The Balylonians were distinctly a reading and writing people. Libraries appear in connection with their temples, and were free to the public. Their books as a rule were written on thin clay tablets, thousands of which are in the British and other museums. Education was general, boys and girls studying together.

THE POSITION OF WOMEN

was much the same as it is now with us. She retained her own property on her marriage, and could acquire and hold other property apart from her husband. In some arts the Babylonians excelled, especially in the manufacture of delicate textile fabrics and in the engraving of gems, while in the act of weaving linen the Egyptians have never been surpassed, if equalled.

We find then that as far as it is possible to trace man's history, he is discovered not as a savage "with the marks of his lowly origin strong upon him," but as a highly intelligent being, early subduing the earth for himself, and able to turn to his own use the boundless resources that nature had provided for him.

Sheriff Hall was followed by Mr. W. L. Innes, who spoke briefly on the ages of the world from a geological point of view. By means of a large chart the speaker illustrated the periods of life on the earth and the character of the fossils of each. He accepted the theory that the world was 20,000,000 years old and that man was from 7,000 to 10,000 years of age.

Mr. Drope drew attention to the diversity of opinion held in regard to the age of the earth, some scientists holding that it is not more than 100,000 years old. The speaker referred to the fact that Sir Wm. Dawson, a Canadian, had the honour of first discovering a fossil, a jelly-fish, the lowest type of life, belonging to the Eozoic age.

Mr. McCallum spoke of the manifest decline in many arts that characterized modern civilization, mentioning in particular engineering, moulding and building.

Mr. Dennistoun, Mr. J. H. Burnham and Mr. Jeffries also spoke briefly on the subject of the paper.

The next meeting of the club, which will also be public, takes place in the same Chamber on Tuesday evening, Nov. 26th. The subject of the paper is Christian Socialism, to be read by Rev. H. Symonds, M.A.

The Club has made arrangements with Prof. Clark of Trinity University, Toronto, to address the citizens of Peterborough under its auspices on "The Formation of Opinion." The lecture will probably be given on Thursday evening, Dec. 5th. Further announcements will be made.

Honest Help.

Thousands of men are suffering because they lack the courage to make known their early errors and to endeavour to remedy them. Nervous weakness, loss of manhood and the many ills due to early discretions, excesses or overwork can be quickly, successfully and permanently cured if you will only let the right people know what ails you. Write to me in confidence and I will tell you free of charge how to get cured. I have nothing to sell, but am desirous of honestly helping you. Perfect secrecy assured. Describe your case and address with stamp:—L. A. Edwards, P. O. Box 55, Jarvis, Ont.

Lamps.

"Be Cautious."

On buying China, Glassware, Silverware, &c., see that you get the best value for your money. Prices that may seem low, compared with last year or two years ago, would be high compared with this year's values. China Hall is leading in low prices, as it always has, and it will pay you to buy direct from us anything you may need in the above lines, as we will positively sell the same goods lower than any other house in the trade

MONTHLY MEETING OF THE SEPARATE SCHOOL BOARD.

School Reports for October—Payment of Accounts Recommended.

At the regular meeting of the Separate School Board last night the following members were in attendance: Dr. Brennan, chairman, and Messrs. Quinlan, LeHane, Goselin, Doris, Sheehy and Hickey.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and confirmed.

OTHER BUSINESS.

Mr. Quinlan, Chairman of the Property Committee, reported making sale of some old furniture and a pump. The total amount received was $11.05. Received and on motion of Mr. Quinlan, seconded by Mr. LeHane, the report was adopted.

Before closing the meeting the chairman stated that possibly he would not be present at the next meeting but hoped to be able to attend the December meeting; however in case he would not be with the Board again, he thanked the members for the kind manner in which he was treated during his four years occupancy of the chair.

The Board then adjourned.

RAILWAY ROBBERS BROUGHT TO BOOK.

Ticket Clerk and Operator Plead Guilty to Robbing the C. P. R. — Tickets Neither Stamped Nor Punched — A Seven Years' Offence.

A despatch from Three Rivers, P. Q., dated Nov. 6th, says: The hearing of the charges of conspiracy laid by the C. P. R. against Conductor B. E. Campbell and Ticket Clerk and Operator Quelette took place this afternoon before Magistrate Eesilets of this city. The private prosecutors were represented by Mr. Lafleur of Montreal, and Mr. Olivier of Three Rivers, the prisoners being defended by Mr. Cook of this place.

The specific charge was that certain tickets had been sold to passengers on the Grand Piles train by Prisoner Quelette and not stamped, were collected on the train by Conductor Campbell and not cancelled by punching as required by the rules of the company, but were returned to Quelette for resale. According to the evidence adduced on behalf of the prosecutors it was proven conclusively that a private arrangement existed between the conductor and ticket clerk to divide the proceeds of such tickets resold. The company claimed that the tickets in question were only once accounted for.

The evidence for the Crown was so overwhelming that both prisoners pleaded guilty, and elected to be dealt with summarily. His Honor, Judge Desilets, remanded the accused for sentence until Friday next, the 8th inst.

The maximum penalty for the offence is seven years at hard labor in the Provincial penitentiary.

NEWS NUGGETS.

Paragraphs Picked Up and Pencilled for Public Perusal.

—Lindsay will have a new poorhouse.

—The paring bee is now in full swing in the country.

—Deer hunting stories will soon be the feature of popular "hang-outs" in town.

—There are four cases of scarlet fever in the isolation wards of the Nicholls' Hospital.

—Campbellford is pestered by a light-fingered gentleman who visits church porches during services.

—See the town's advertisement in another column calling for tenders for the construction of the new Spaulding's Bay bridge.

—Mr. J. J. Turner met with a serious accident to his wheel when down witnessing the record trials the other day. The front rim was badly buckled.

—The Newcombe Piano Company, through their agent, Mr. Shaw, have kindly loaned the St. John's Young People's Association a magnificent grand piano for their concert to-night.

—Mr. John Best of Donegal street, while trimming some grape vines this week cut off two canes which had a growth of eleven feet and a half—all this year. This remarkable growth was partly due to the fact that these canes were not bearing fruit this year.

—Kingston resorts to flogging as a punishment for incorrigible boys. On Tuesday a lad twelve years old was brought to the Kingston police court, by his mother, who said she could do nothing with him, and the magistrate ordered the lad whipped by the police.

—The Josephine Kid Glove Cleaner is unlike any other—that's the good of it. Ladies will not do without it at twice the cost once they use it. Sold by Robt. Fair, sign of the Golden Lion, headquarters for Perrin Freres' celebrated Kid Gloves in newest styles for all occasions.

—Miss Harris, daughter of Mr. Jos. Harris, Englishtown, Port Hope, met with a peculiar and unfortunate accident on Tuesday. She was endeavouring to shake a coal stove and the lever at first resisted her efforts, then suddenly gave way, causing her to fall and break her arm.

A cough which persists day after day, should not be neglected any longer. It means something more than a mere local irritation, and the sooner it is relieved the better. Take Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It is prompt to act and sure to cure.

WORLD OF SPORTS.

Austin, Tex., Nov. 5.—There was an immense crowd in attendance upon to-day's races, and they saw fine sport. The first race was a half-mile dash for a purse of $100. Teemer won, Jake Gaudaur 2, Rogers 3. The other starters were Barry, Haines, Wiggins, Peterson, Hanlan. Teemer won by half a length. Time 3.02¼.

The third race trial heat between English doubles for position in the final three-mile against Teemer and Rogers, American crew, was won by Bubear and Barry by half a length. Time 19.34¼. This was a very close race, and Haines and Wiggins led clear to the last quarter, when Bubear and Barry's spurt forged them ahead.

Bubear and Barry will now have to row Teemer and Rogers to-morrow for a purse and the championship, and as their time to-day was 19.34¼ against Teemer and Rogers' corrected time yesterday of 18,02¼, the sports are choosing the Americans 4½ winners and giving odds.

John L. on the Fiasco.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Parson Davies and the party he took to Hot Springs have returned from the seat of the war of words. John L. Sullivan was in the party. "I'm thick and sore of this fighting burlesque that I'm compelled to stay over and rest out," said big John. "It ain't so very long ago that I used to be in the business myself, and, say, I could always find a way to fight any fellow that wanted to fight. I ain't saying which one of these fighters did not want to fight, but it's a sure thing one of 'em was scared. You can pick him out, if you like. I won't tell you which one it is."

The ex-champion goes East to-day. Peter Maher was more thoroughly out of sorts at the fight fiasco than anyone who has been to Hot Springs.

"I have been pulled about from Europe to Dallas and then to Hot Springs, all to no purpose," said he.

The Irish fighter left last night for Pittsburg, where he says he will look over the field with his backer and then take a fresh start. Every one who came in from the selected battle ground tells the same story of two men fighting a war of words when they should have been battling somewhere for a championship.

Lady Watson Won the Match Race.

Saugus, Nov. 5.—Three good matches were on the card at Franklin Park to-day. The track was in excellent condition, the weather good and the attendance fair. The event of the day was the 2.40 trot between Lady Watson and Benton M., both horses having trotted better than 2.16. Lady Watson was the favorite and won the first heat by a nose. The second heat was a surprise. Benton M. had a length the lead at the start and held it to the finish, with the mare a neck behind. The race was then postponed until 1 o'clock Thursday. Summaries:

Match race, purse $600:
Little Purdy, blk.m., by Black Sultan (Packard) 1 1 1
Billy Is., b.g. (Haight) 2 2 2
Time—2.35, 2.26¼, 2.32¼.

Match race, purse $200:
Maude Eclair, r.m., (Sullivan and Haight) 1 1 1
Johnny Goldsmith, b.g. (Draper).... 2 2 2
Time—2.32, 2.32, 2.32.

Match race, purse $500:
Lady Watson, b.m., by Sim Watson (McNeill) 1 2
Benton M., b.m. (Hanson) 2 1
Time—2.13¼, 2.12¾.

New York, Nov. 5.—With the seventh race to-day closed the first meeting of the Westchester Jockey Club and the racing season in this State. The weather was so fine that 3500 persons went to the track to witness the very good racing. The White Plains handicap for 2-year-olds went to Hamlet, the prohibitive favorite, who won without the semblance of an effort. Quite a number of owners have expressed themselves as probable participants in the Saratoga Racing Association meeting at Pimlico. Summaries:

First race, ¾ mile—Tremargo, 99, Curtis, 4 to 1, 1; Karma, 92, Somers, 11 to 5, 2; Medica, 97, Bennett, 10 to 1, 3. Time 1.00¾. Hamilton II., Dr. Robb, Golf, Signora II., Celestina, Nil Desperandum, Tanis also ran.

A LEADING CANADIAN CLERGYMAN

Tells How He Was Cured of Nervous Prostration and Indigestion.

SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE.

The Greatest Discovery of the Century Cured Not Only Rev. W. S. Barker, But Also Cured His Wife.

If among any class of the community caution marks the words of testimony publicly uttered, this is the case in a marked degree with the clergy. Their training and daily experience compel them to weigh carefully questions on which they write or talk. They are thinkers and they speak on a subject after it has been brought home to them by practical experience, or the keen logic of facts.

These are reasons that necessarily give weight to the strong testimony borne by the Rev. W. S. Barker, of Campbellford, Ont., touching South American Nervine. His own words are these: "I have much pleasure in recommending the great South American Nervine Tonic to all who are afflicted, as I have been, with nervous prostration and indigestion. I found very great relief from the very first bottle, which was strongly recommended to me by my druggist. I also induced my wife to use it, who, I must say, was completely run down and was suffering very much from general debility. She found great relief from South American Nervine, and also cheerfully recommends it to her fellow sufferers."

In any effort to cure the disease the important matter is that the disease be understood. Now, it is a scientific fact, demonstrated beyond question that all disease comes through a derangement of the nerve centres located near the base of the brain, and having entire control over the stomach, liver, heart, lungs and all internal organs. Nervine immediately acts upon these, and this is how severe cases of prostration and indigestion and general debility, such as was suffered by the Rev. W. S. Barker and his wife, are quickly and effectively cured. Sold by H. S. McDonald.

AN OLD MAN'S MEMORIES.

James K. Markle of West Flamboro Remembers the War of 1812.

James K. Markle is a fine old man who takes a trip down to Dundas occasionally from Bullock's Corners, and sometimes goes as far as Hamilton on the dummy railway. To look at him you would never think that he was 88 years of age. But, as he says himself, he was born at ten oclock in the morning of the 31st of July, 1807, according to his grandfather's own handwriting. This interesting event occurred at Bullock's Corners, and with the exception of seven years spent in East Flamboro, Mr. Markle has lived in West Flamboro Township ever since. He was in Dundas with his daddy in 1816—79 years ago. Not many men can say that. He says that Dundas at that time consisted of three houses, a hog pen, a grist mill and a log mill with one run of stones. The wheel was run by the water from the creek which still runs through Dundas, only that in those days there was as much water running through the town in summer as there is now in the spring. He has only been out of Canada four times. He says he was the fifth man who signed for the Banner newspaper, and he has been taking it ever since, although he always votes Conservative. At this rate it will take some time to make a good Reformer of him. He has several great grandchildren. His grandfather came over to Niagara from Pennsylvania, crossing the Niagara river when it was frozen, after going back for his household goods, the ice broke and all he saved was his whip and his cap; he drew 600 acres of land from the Government on what is known as the Governor's road, running into Ancaster. Mr. Markle says he remembers the war of 1812. He also remembers when the Indians were thick around here. At Hopkins' Falls over 50 Indians were at one time encamped, staying there from April to December. His father had 200 bushels of potatoes pitted on the farm where Jacob Tunis now lives, but the Indians discovered them and all that his father found when he went to dig them up was seven bushels. His father sold the farm to Rees Tunis, whose grandson Jacob Tunis is. Mr. Markle has a fondness for the old brass buttons which were so fashionable when he was young. He wears on his clothes brass buttons which he got when he was 21, and he has worn them steadily on each succeeding suit of clothes ever since. The first time he voted was 52 years ago, but he forgets who the candidates were. That winter the snow fell three feet, beginning on the 29th of November, and not being bare all winter. This was the first year they had a municipal council in the township. Isaiah Millard lived in Carlisle and came for him to vote for him for councillor, the voting being at Waterdown. This was the time the law came into operation allowing people to vote if they paid taxes. Formerly no person could vote unless he had a deed of his land. Mr. Markle is still an active old man who has lived for 88 years within a few miles of Dundas, and has seen many changes on all hands. The Markles were originally from Pennsylvania, and a fine class of settlers they have made, and like so many others who came over from Pennsylvania, have done well in Canada.—Dundas Banner.

Finally she tried Burdock Blood Bitters, and after taking six bottles was entirely cured. That is now more than two years ago and she has had no return of the malady. I also have had occasion to use B. B. B. and I cannot speak too highly in its favour. I always recommend it to my friends and in every case with good results. Yours truly, Wm. Day.

REFORMS PROMISED.

The New French Cabinet Gives an Outline of What It Will Do.

Paris, Nov. 5.—The new Ministers held a meeting last evening and decided upon a searching investigation into the Southern Railway scandals; to submit the Carmeaux Glass Workers' strike to arbitration; to modify the Madagascar treaty; to create a colonial army, and to introduce in the budget for 1896 a provision increasing an income tax.

It was also decided to offer the foreign portfolio to M. Decrais, formerly French ambassador to England.

Fast Railroading.

New Orleans, Nov. 3.—The initial trip of the fast trans-Continental train of the Sunset route, Southern Pacific, which left New Orleans on Thursday morning last, arrived at Los Angeles this evening on time, traversing the distance in 2 days, 9 hours and 45 minutes. San Francisco was reached on time in 3 days, 2 hours and 45 minutes. This is said to be the fastest time ever made in the history of railroads over all equal distances.

WILL THEY GET IT?

Rumoured Establishment by a Canadian Firm of a Branch in Albany, N. Y.

Albany (Special) Nov. 4.—The outcry in certain quarters against the high tariff still goes on, but it is to the tariff that Albany is likely to owe the addition of another industry to her numerous existing ones. A Canadian firm located in Toronto has, it is understood, been interviewed by an Albany business man, with a view to establishing in this city a manufactory of the staple kidney remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills. As the business done by the Canadian firm throughout the United States has assumed very large proportions, owing to the recognition by the American public of the great value of this staple, it is probable that arrangements will be satisfactorily entered into. The annual output is very large and is rapidly increasing.

TWO-HANDED WHIST.

A New Style of Playing Makes It Much Like the Ordinary Game.

Two-handed whist is being played at some clubs and private parties, and a variation has been introduced which makes it resemble more than ever the regular four-handed game and has infused new interest in it. The game is played by dealing to each of the two players one-half of the cards, one at a time, as in the regular game. The cards are then placed on the table in piles of two, so that each player has thirteen piles. The top card of each pile is turned up at the beginning of the game. This leaves thirteen cards in each hand exposed. Play begins with the non-dealer, who plays one of his exposed cards, and as soon as the trick is taken, he turns up the card that was beneath it. In this way all the cards are finally exposed and played.

As two cards make a trick, there are naturally twenty-six tricks in all, thirteen of which it takes to make a book, after scoring which every trick counts one point. Thus, while it is possible to make thirteen points in one deal, it is also possible to have no count whatever, and in actual play it frequently happens that neither player makes a point in a particular deal.

The variation of the game is to arrange the cards as before described, when the non-dealer begins the play. As soon as he has made the play, he turns up and exposes the card which was uncovered. The first player then plays another card on the same trick, again exposing the face of the card underneath the one played, if there be one, and the second player has the last play. This, of course, makes only thirteen tricks, and the regular rules of whist govern in counting the game.

The chief recommendation of the game is, of course, that it is played by two persons, and makes an interesting pastime. There is more of an element of chance in it than there is in the regular game, as, naturally, it is impossible to tell the location of the cards turned down until they are exposed to view, and in the American cover the presence of the principal cards in the hands of their partners and their opponents. In spite of this uncertainty, there is always a chance for considerable headwork and often for well considered and brilliant plays. New York Tribune.

SPORT OF A TYPHOON.

Loss of a Ship on the Japan Coast—Experience of the Crew.

Five shipwrecked sailors landed yesterday from the Pacific Mail steamer City of Peking and told the remarkable story of the loss of the ship Henrietta on the coast of Japan.

One Thursday, five weeks ago, the Henrietta was running before a fair wind, bound from Yokohama to Kobe. The weather was beautiful until about the middle of the day, when the captain saw a small black cloud on the horizon. Sail was taken in quickly, but the work had barely been done when the storm struck and keeled the vessel until her yards were deep in the water. It was one of the most awful typhoons ever witnessed by the captain or the men on board, and as it came they could see the whirling, wriggling mass of its centre. One moment it was bright and sunny on the ship's deck and the next it was almost pitch dark, the sea was in foam, the fierce wind was carrying things away and the drops of rain, thrown like small shot, were stinging the faces of the men.

Stripped as she was, the Henrietta was pushed on before the storm and toward the dreaded lee shore. Finally the captain did the only thing that he could—got his anchors out and tried to save himself from being bundled up on the beach.

When the centre of the typhoon passed the wind still blew too fiercely and too directly off shore to make it possible to make sail. There the Henrietta remained at anchor for four terrible days. It was Thursday when the anchors were dropped, and it was Sunday when the crisis came. All these days were days of fear, for the anchors were constantly dragging, and there was no telling when the ship would ground and be torn to pieces by a sea that no vessel could possibly weather in such a situation.

"In those four days I never slept; I never thought of sleeping," said Seaman Johns yesterday in telling the story. "There was not a man on board who paid the least attention to his watch, for we were so anxious the mate could not have driven us to our bunks. Luckily for us, the storm went down so that the sea ceased to sweep over us. If it had not the ship would have gone to pieces right there."

On the fateful Sunday the anchor chains parted and the ship began to drift in shore before the storm. The captain tried to stop the ship with a kedge anchor made fast to a hawser, but this was promptly parted, and there was then nothing for it but to make the best of the inevitable.

Captain Ross concluded that if he was to be swept in shore he would go there bow on. The men were ordered to set the main topmast staysail, the fore topmast staysail, the jib and the spanker. Before the wind the Henrietta ran straight for the shore. She flew along faster than any yacht—faster than a transatlantic liner—and went into the sand with such force that when the crew had recovered from the shock they found that the ship stood upright in high or low tide as if she were in a dry dock. The next day was calm, and Japanese lighters came to remove the cargo. The vessel was a total loss.—San Francisco Chronicle.

Trained Fishing Lobster.

The following fish story is told by a Cape Cod paper: "The trained fishing lobster belonging to David Spattlewick, first mate of the brig "Adele M.," is the sensation of the hour along the water front. The intelligent crustacean is fastened to the bow of the brig by a silk line about sixty yards in length and his average catch is twenty striped bass a day. After he has caught one, he returns to the brig and pulls a second line, which rings a bell on the deck, and either Mrs. Spattlewick or one of the crew lowers a net into which the lobster drops his prize."

IN SPAIN'S CAPITAL.

Madrid is Not a Great Place but It Has Some Good Points.

The city of Madrid is one of the minor capitals of Europe architecturally, and the environment provided by nature for such monuments as it possesses is none of the best. The surrounding landscape is monotonous and bare. The few parks are pretty in themselves, and the famous promenade, known as the Prado, is broad and pretentious, but these attractions are insufficient to counterbalance the shabbiness of dusty, ill-kept streets and dwellings in a dull, nondescript style. Life in Madrid is rendered diverting upon occasions of public rejoicing by the presence of the court, otherwise it is the same as in other large modern cities, like New York or London, only not so bright. The bull ring alone may claim to be better managed in Madrid than anywhere else. This and the ball game called peleta, which was brought recently from the Basque Provinces, are the only important national spectacles, old and picturesque institutions, which survive in the centre of Spanish political life.

There is little in Madrid itself, then, which makes it a temptation to wander from the highways of European travel. Very few of the buildings and collections, aside from the great museum, are worthy of a capital city. The most that can be said for the royal palace, an enormous building designed by a Piedmontese architect, Sacchetti, is that it has more simplicity than was usual in the late renaissance period from which it dates, and that under one of the ravishing skies of which Spain is prodigal in spring and summer, it has a regal dignity which is impressive, if the purely artistic features of the scheme are not.

Of the armory attached to the palace it is impossible to speak more cordially. It contains a fine collection of antique mail and weapons, finer, I think, than either of those at Turin and Paris. It has the virture, moreover, uncommon in Spain, of being very well arranged. The Academy of San Ferdinand has some good pictures by Murillo, and by a much later man, Goya, who is always interesting; and in the square before the royal palace there is an equestrian bronze of Philip IV., by the Florentine Tacca, which is in a measure comparable with the statues of Verrocchio and Donatello. In naming this slender body of creditable things I have fairly summarized, I believe, those monuments in Madrid which do not, at any rate, conflict with the glory concentrated in the museum of the Prado. They are few enough.—Harper's Magazine.

A NEW CLUB.

Name Suggested for a New Social Organization in London.

LONDON, (Special) Oct. 28.—It has been facetiously suggested that a new social club in process of organization in this city should be entitled "The Dodd's Kidney Pill Club" as the present members are all enthusiastic advocates of that remedy and in common with many other citizens declare that in all cases of kidney trouble no other agent has been found so completely effective. Most Londoners have at their fingers' ends the particulars of the many marvellous cures through the use of this specific. In every drug store in the city the medicine is kept in large quantities and warmly recommended.

The Bicycle Neck.

There is scarcely a husband who, during the past four months, has not urged his wife to learn to ride a wheel. There is scarcely a husband of the lot who does not now regret that he so urged her. He has found that it has added to her nervous impairment at the ratio of about 50 per cent., and in addition thereto he has caught the "husband neck." This strange malady is caused by the constant craning of the neck, generally to the left, to see if the wife of one's bosom is safe. Even after the husband has found that his wife has really become a skilled rider the habit remains. He can no more help turning his head at short intervals than he can help imagining that all sorts of dire disasters are befalling her.—Brooklyn Life.

Racked with Rheumatism

Unable to Walk, owing to excruciating pain.

After ten years' terrible torture, Cured by Scott's Sarsaparilla.

A. H. Christiansen, writing from the Clifton House, Niagara Falls, says: "I owe you more than I can ever pay. For ten years I suffered the tortures of the damned with rheumatism. Father had it before me, and I believe it is an hereditary disease. My knee joints would get inflamed and if I was out in any "weather" I was sure to be laid up, which to a travelling man is a calamity. In a score of Canadian towns local doctors treated me, some giving relief, others none. I read that Sarsaparilla was a rheumatic cure, and I asked a druggist for "a bottle of the best Sarsaparilla on the market." He gave me Scott's, remarking that it was an improvement on all others, and that he could honestly recommend it. I have taken four bottles, and am as free from pain as a man can hope to be. I was out in a rainstorm two days ago and never felt a twinge. As I said before, to Scott's Sarsaparilla I owe more than I can ever repay."

The best remedy for rheumatism, sciatica, and neuralgic pains—all arising from the presence of poison in the blood—is Scott's Sarsaparilla, a modern concentrated medicine, prompt in its curative effects. Doses from one half to one teaspoonful. At $1 per bottle of your druggist.

THE SECRET OUT

THE secret is out. The Government Insurance Blue Books have revealed it. The facts of the case will prove of real value to all those seeking a company where permanent satisfaction can be secured under a Policy of Life Insurance. The telescope has been turned upon those who withdrew from the prominent companies in 1894.

It is obvious to any one that the proportion of persons who lapse or surrender their policies in any company is a fairly good test of the satisfaction or dissatisfaction existing therein. If policy-holders are receiving satisfactory profit results, if they are being honestly and honourably dealt with, if they cannot do better elsewhere, then it is plain these facts will show themselves in the small number who surrender their policies or allow them to lapse.

To test these conditions, and to discover the company that is giving greatest satisfaction to its policy-holders, as evidenced by their determination to continue their policies, we have made an analysis of the facts, as reported in the blue books containing the business for 1894 of the leading Canadian Companies. We have calculated the ratio per cent. of assurances surrendered to the average business in force in 1894 also the ratio per cent. of assurance lapsed to the average business in force. Intending assurers have here an inside view of Life Assurance that is full of significance. When a company stands out so prominently as does the CAANDA LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY in this test, it means that its merits are known and recognized by those who become connected with it.

This is but another of those numerous tests in which the CANADA LIFE shows its superiority.

The following table tells the whole story :—

COMPANY.	Per Cent. Surrendered.	Per Cent. Lapsed.	Per Cent. Lapsed and Surrendered.
CANADA LIFE	.70	2.10	2.80
Confederation Life	2.38	4.65	6.98
North American	1.73	6.97	8.70
Ontario Mutual	2.51	6.59	9.10
Sun Life	2.63	8.54	11.17

The above figures are compiled from the Dominion Insurance report, issued by the Superintendent of Insurance, at Ottawa.

Once more, and as usual, the CANADA LIFE COMPANY comes out on top.

COMPARE

The following two Peterborough results with anything else of the kind in existence in the town. Other companies promise, we perform. That is the great difference.

KEEP OUT ENEMIES.

Poisons in the Blood Are Our Most Deadly Enemies.

The Kidneys Stand Like Sentinels to Guard the Citadel of Life—When Weak and Failing Relieve These Guards by Using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Most diseases are caused by poison to the blood.

The poison should be kept out.

The kidneys are supposed to do this. That is what they are there for.

And they generally do. But when they are sick they can't; and then we get sick.

The kidneys may get sick from overwork, worry, excess, high living, etc.

The reason so many of our great men die from Bright's disease is that so many overwork themselves.

Bright's disease is only one of the many diseases the root of which lies in the kidneys.

Other folks suffer from diabetes, rheumatism, gout, gravel, sleeplessness, anæmia, nervousness, headache, neuralgia, etc.

All these diseases would go if the poison could be got out of your blood—if the kidneys would only do their work.

If you would take Dodd's Kidney Pills your kidneys would brace up and recommence to do their work.

It is not the fault, but the overworking of the kidneys that does the mischief.

You should do the best you know to help them.

It is such an easy piece of knowledge to remember.

Your kidneys are simply filters. They need looking to now and then like other filters. If they are kept clean and healthy they will keep your blood clean and healthy, and you will be strong and healthy.

Dodd's Kidney Pills give fresh life and power to the kidneys. They cause the kidneys to purify the blood, to make it redder and healthier and more nourishing. They put new life into your body, new colour into your blood, new ambition into you mind, new youth into your joints and muscles.

They do not work miracles.

But they cure diseases.

A few doses will relieve. A few boxes will cure.

We can refer any victim of Bright's disease to hundreds of people who were given up to die, and Dodd's Kidney Pills cured them.

Grafton's are proving it right along that they sell the best class of Ready Made Clothing, at the lowest prices.

THE RING.

The Corbett-Fitzsimmons fight is apparently off, but the first round in the Marlborough-Vanderbilt matrimonial "mill" began in New York yesterday. Marlborough was the first inside the ropes, but Vanderbilt was rather shy and only got one finger into the ring. There was no gate money, but the stakes were very heavy. Vanderbilt gets first blood (blue) but Marlborough gets the bullion.

CRICKET.

According to the Toronto World "Charley" Attewell, who was "pro" for the Peterborough cricket club for the seasons of 1889 and 1890, has been engaged by the Rosedale (Toronto) club for next year. Attwell bowled a bad ball to play and his breaks broke the heart of many a batsman. Rosedale has a good man.

THE WHEEL.

Corney Meehan, of the Wanderers rode from Hamilton to Toronto in 2 hours and 56 minutes yesterday, creating a new record,

Hensel's plucky record ride of 14 hours for the 180 miles from Toronto to Kingston has long constituted a record, but Bergoine, the winner of the national road race of a couple of years ago, has designs on it, and will try to displace it shortly. Bergoine was formerly Mr. Sam Ewing's partner in the wheel business in Toronto.

Gardiner made a world's record at Louisville on Monday, riding a mile paced in 1.42 2-5. Coulter reduced the paced ½ record from 1.21 to 1.18 1-5.

The century record of McDonnel of Rochester, made over the Buffalo course a few days ago, was cut from 4.40.09 to 4.31.18 by L. George of Brockport. He was paced part of the way.

Gordon and Boake, the Class A men of the Athenæum Club, Toronto, think that they can put up a record on a tandem of 11 hours for the trip from Toronto to Kingston, and will endeavour to do so some time within the next two weeks.

RUGBY FOOTBALL.

As many of our readers know very little about Rugby football, and are all at sea as to the meaning of "punt," "try," "touch-down," "rouge," "safe-touch," and other terms used in describing the progress of the game, we print the following description in the hope that it may prove interesting. The game is played by fifteen men on each side. The grounds are one hundred and ten yards long by sixty-five wide, and in the centre of each goal line is a goal, composed of two upright posts more than twenty feet high, placed eighteen feet six inches apart, and with a cross bar ten feet from the ground. The side lines are the touch lines, and the end lines are goal lines, while the space in touch but behind the goal line, is known as touch-in-goal. A punt is made by letting the ball drop from the hands and kicking it before it touches the ground; a drop kick by letting the ball fall from the hands, and kicking it as it rises from the ground. A kickout is a drop kick made not more than twenty-five yards from the kicker's goal line. It is a foul to knock or throw the ball forward with the hand or arm. The ball may, however, be passed to the side or back. A "touch-down" is when a player having possession of the ball, stops it so that it is "dead," i. e., motionless. A touch-down within the goal line entitles the side making it to a "try," a free kick at the goal from exactly opposite where the touch-down was made. A goal may also be made from the field by kicking the ball over the cross-bar, except from a punt, a kick-out, or kick-off. The ball must not touch any player in its flight, however. A "rouge is when a player getting possession of the ball in his own goal makes a touch-down there; or when the ball is in touch-in-goal; or when a foul is made in goal. A "safety touch" is when a player kicks, carries or passes the ball from the grounds, and he or one of his side rogues it. A "fair-catch" is a catch made direct from the kick or foul of an opponent. When a player makes a fair-catch he is awarded a free kick if he marks the spot with his heel. The rules as to kicking-off are the same as in association football. The ball shall be kicked out by the side into whose goal it had gone after a rogue or safety-touch, or after a tackle-in-goal, i.e., when the ball is "fairly-held" in goal before the opponent in possession of it can touch down. The ball must not pitch in "touch" from either a kick-off or a kick-out. When a ball is fairly held it must be "scrimmaged," i. e., one of the side to which it belongs must bring it into play by placing the ball "dead" in front of him. The ball must be knocked out of a scrimmage with the feet, and must not be touched by the hand or lain on, and no player on either side shall be in front of the ball. Infraction of any of these rules gives the side not offending a free kick. When the ball goes into touch off a player it shall belong to the opposite side; when it is carried in to touch, to the side possessing it, it shall immediately be brought into play by the side to which it belongs, at right angles to where it went out, by bounding or throwing it into the grounds, or by a scrimmage from five to fifteen yards from the touch line. A player is off side if he is in front of the ball during a scrimmage or if the ball has been last touched by one of his own side. "Hacking," "tripping," "scragging" and tackling an opponent below the knee are forbidden under penalty of a free kick. The game is decided by points. A goal kicked from a try scores six points, from a drop kick five, from a flying-kick or free-kick, two. A try scores four, a tackle-in-goal four, a safety-touch two, and a rouge one. The officials are a referee, whose functions are much the same as in other games; an umpire, who is the final judge as to off side, backing, charging, and obstructing, and is supposed to assist the referee in enforcing all the rules; and touch and goal judges, whose duties are obvious. The foregoing are the principal regulations of Rugby football, and they may be studied with advantage by some of the players as well as by the spectators. The niceties can be learned only by seeing the game well played.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS.

TRADE IN ENGLAND.

London, Nov. 4.—Business is slightly better here and at Liverpool, and prices are a shade firmer. United States cattle 5½d; Canadian cattle, 4¾d to 5d; sheep, 5½d to 5¾d per pound, dead weight.

GLASGOW.

Messrs. Roberton, Johnston and Roberton, Glasgow, write as follows under date October 23:—

At Yorkhill this week the supplies of States and Canadian cattle were lighter. The greater number of the cattle were of good quality, and made a fair price, while the trade was also good for inferior sorts.

There was a small supply of home and Irish cattle in the market to-day. All classes were in good demand, and made last week's prices.

The number of sheep in the market was smaller than the previous week, and included a number of Canadians. Good quality sheep made an advance of ½d per pound, while other sorts met a fair demand at last week's quotations:

Best Scotch cattle, 63s to 64s per cwt.; secondary, 60s to 62s per cwt.; best States, 54s to 56s per cwt; best Canadians, 54s to 56s per cwt; best sheep, 8½ to 8¾ per lb; secondary, 7½d to 7¾d per lb.

MONTREAL.

Montreal, Nov. 4.—(Special.)—As the live stock export season draws nearer to a close, cable advices get worse and the markets continues weak, cables to-day noting a further decline of 4c per pound on both cattle and sheep, and the indications are at present that the season is going to wind up far more unprofitably for shippers than was anticipated some four or five weeks ago. The local markets for export stock to-day were dull, owing to the fact that there were no suitable cattle offered for this trade, and in consequence shippers held off. The demand for sheep continues good for shipment, and all the offerings met with a ready sale at 3 to 3½c.

The shipments of cattle for the season up to date show an increase of 9,070 head, as compared with the corresponding time last year. Sheep show an increase of 51,911 head, and horses an increase of 6,901 head. The demand for ocean freight has been good during the past week, and all the space from this port for the balance of the season has been taken up.

The feature of the live stock market at Point St. Charles was the weak feeling on hogs, and prices declined 25c per hundred pounds, which is due principally to the decided increase in receipts of dressed hogs during the past week. The offerings this morning were 300, for which the demand was slow, at 4c per pound live weight. In cattle, trade was dull, and the market was dull and the market was without any new feature of note. There were ten loads of butchers' cattle offered, but local dealers show no inclination to take hold, consequently sales were slow, in fact some of the dealers had to send their stock to the East End market. The feeling, however, was about steady, and prices ranged from 2 to 3c per pound, as to quality. The receipts of sheep and lambs were small, and trade was quiet.

At the East End abattoir market this morning the offerings were 600 cattle, 250 sheep, 350 lambs and 200 calves. There was a fair attendance of buyers, but the supply was in excess of the requirements, and trade on the whole was slow, with no material change in values to note. The scarcity of choice beeves continues, and buyers of such stock find it difficult to fill their wants.

TORONTO CATTLE MARKET.

Toronto, Nov. 1.—Offerings were heavier to-day, and the feeling as a consequence was not so firm, although prices were not altered. Trade was quiet in every line but those of hogs and feeders. There were 70 car loads of stuff in to-day, which included 1,518 sheep and lambs, 3,000 hogs, a dozen milch cows and 13 calves.

Export Cattle—One car load of cattle sold to-day for 3 5-8c per lb, which was the top figure paid. Mr. James Eakins was the principal buyer, he taking about seven car loads for shipment at prices ruling from 3 1-2c to 3 5-8c per lb. He would pay as high as 4c per lb for really choice shippers, but these are hard to get. Taken all round the trade was a little quieter to-day. Cables are not so encouraging.

Lambs—Quiet. They ruled at from $3.80 to $3 per cwt., most of the deals being at the latter figure.

Hogs—Offerings were heavy, but Mr. Harris succeeded in getting away with all. The best price paid for choice straight hogs, weighed off the cars, was 4c per lb. Heavy and light hogs sold for 3½c per lb. Stores are not wanted. Some sows sold from 3c to 3½c per lb. Stags are slow at 2c to 2½c per lb. All kinds except stores are wanted at the figures quoted.

Horses—For the fertiliser factory Mr. Harris received a few car loads of horses to-day, for which he is paying from $3 to $3.25 per head.

DIRECT IMPORTER,

ISN'T IT QUEER

How some people can afford to give away valuable articles of household furniture and jewelery with their goods, and at the same time publicly proclaim that their goods are marked down to the "lowest living profit" or "half their regular value?"

Some of our lady customers have asked us why we can't do the same thing. We have to tell them frankly "we can't afford to do it—the small profit we have on our goods gives them better every day value than the "scheme" merchant has to offer them."

It's a Mistake

To suppose that anybody can sell you two dollar's worth of goods for one dollar.

IT'S A MISTAKE to suppose that you can get the BEST value in goods and have a gift thrown in. The gift costs money.

If you don't want to be humbugged into paying for something you don't want buy the goods right, without the gift, which you can always do at this store. We allow no margins for gifts,—that's settled. But you can buy from us just now

Gloves and Hosiery

There is perhaps nothing a lady is more particular about than her Gloves and Hosiery, for herself and family.

Some six months ago we were looking ahead and placed large orders in European factories for this fall's trade. In doing this we get closer prices and have the goods made to exactly suit the Canadian trade; being careful to have the fingers proportionate length, the cuffs to suit dresses, and neatly stitched backs. We have light weights for early fall wear, and heavier for winter. As we select our own cloth there is none better for wear.

See the extra nice Glove we can give you for 25c a pair.

Other lines as low as 10c and upwards to 50c.

In Cashmere Hose we have selected both medium and extra heavy weights, in plain weave and soft finish, one and one ribs for both ladies and children. Two and one ribs, made of extra heavy Scotch and Canadian yarns for boys who wears knickers, also a full range of a heavy make from 10c a pair for children's to 15c for ladies.'

THE HYAMS TRIAL.

Fox, the Expressman, on the Witness Stand.

THE UNDERTAKER ALSO TESTIFIES

Peculiar Message Sent by Dallas Hyams to the Undertaker—Mrs. Aylesworth Makes Her Appearance in Court —Outline of the Policy of the Crown.

Toronto Nov. 8.—One of and one-half witnesses were all that the principal actors in the Hyams murder trial were able to dispose of during the six hours' session yesterday; that is to say, the evidence of one witness was completed, while the second was still on the stand when the hour for adjournment had arrived. It was not an interesting day, so far as the spectators were concerned, as the testimony dealt entirely with the circumstances existing in and about the warehouse directly after the killing of Willie Wells.

During the early part of the afternoon session, there came into the court room, taking a seat directly behind the prisoners' dock, a little lady dressed in the deepest mourning, her face hidden from view by a heavy veil. This interested spectator of the proceedings was Mrs. Ebenezer Aylesworth, wife of the Crown's principal witness, and sister of the dead boy and Mrs. Harry Hyams. Notwithstanding her close proximity to the prisoners, neither of the twins was aware of her presence, and Mrs. Aylesworth departed quietly with her husband at the adjournment of the session.

Almost the entire morning session was devoted to the examination of Undertaker Humphrey, who, it cannot be said, owing to his inclination to contradict himself whenever closely pressed by counsel, made a good witness. Mr. Humphrey seems to be possessed of a memory wonderfully vivid on some important points and sadly deficient on other matters of equally grave importance. He remained, however, unshaken in his testimony concerning the hour of his call to the fatal cellar on the morning of the "occurrence," and, in this, made an excellent witness for the Crown.

The last 20 minutes of the morning and the entire afternoon sesion were taken up with the testimony and cross-examination of Expressman Joseph Fox, the only party, other than the prisoners, Coroner Aikins and Dr. King, who saw the body of Wells as it lay bathed in its life-blood on the morning of his tragic death. Fox was necessarily a Crown witness, owing to his immediate knowledge of the circumstances of the tragedy, and the business carried on by the prisoners, but his cheery smile of recognition as he passed the dock where the prisoners sat on leaving the Court at the noon recess, his frequent glances while in the witness box to the faces of his former employers, and his ready replies and hearty assent to all that Mr. Lount, counsel for the defence, asked or suggested, plainly indicated that he was not without a great deal of sympathy for the diminutive twins.

Undertaker B. D. Humphrey, who removed the body of young Wells from the warehouse after the killing, and conducteed the funeral to Oshawa, was the first witness to take the stand when court opened. Mr. Humphrey said it was 12 o'clock on Jan. 16, '93, when he reached the warehouse in answer to a telephone message from Expressman Fox. The time he was sure of, as he was going to dinner when the telephone rang. He answered it personally, and took a car to the warehouse. When he reached there he found Fox and one of the twins waiting for him. Fox showed him to the cellar where he saw Wells' body lying. They met Hyams on the stairway. Hyams said to the witness that in trying to lift the weight off Wells' head he tore his hands.

Witness waited until Coroner Aikins arrived. He had been there about 20 minutes when the coroner came. One of the prisoners told the witness that the weight had fallen and killed Wells. He also told Dr. Aikins the same story. To refresh Mr. Humphrey's memory as to the exact words of the conversation of that occasion, Mr. Osler had recourse to the testimony of the witness given before the Police Magistrate. Mr. Lount jumped to his feet and said he "decidedly objected" to the course pursued by Mr. Osler in this matter. A brief argument followed, with the ruling of His Lordship in favor of the Crown counsel. Continuing, Mr. Humphrey said that one of the prisoners told the coroner that the weight came off the hook and fell from the shaft. Just how it struck Wells they did not know, but they heard the weight fall, and they supposed Wells was looking up the shaft at the time. With another reference to the Police Court depositions to recall the conversation in the cellar on the morning of the tragedy, the witness said it was stated to the coroner by one of the prisoners that the weight fell from the third floor.

In speaking of the condition of the body, the witness said that apart from the neck and head there was not a bruise or break.

Witness agreed with Dr. King that the head was of a conical shape, but stated that the apex of the cone was to the face, and not to the back of the skull. There was a break over the right eye, large enough to admit the laying in of two fingers. The right eye was not visible, having been driven in. The left eye was protruding as a result of the pressure from the other side. The top of the head was split down the centre and across. The legs were lying out almost perfectly straight. The clothes were in a natural position, not disarranged. Brain matter was exuding from the head, but the witness did not notice any on the floor. There was a pool of blood about the head, but witness did not notice any anywhere else. The body was prepared for burial, and afterwards interred at Oshawa. Mr Osler was beginning to question the witness as to the exhuming of the body, with a view to proving that the skull produced in court was that of Wells. To save time Messrs. Johnson and Lount admitted the fact.

Mr. Osler then asked the witness if he remembered receiving a message from the prisoners just prior to the appearance of the article in The World which a few days later led to the arrest of the prisoners. Expresaman Fox delivered the message to the witness. Mr. Osler requested Mr. Humphrey now to repeat the words of the message, which at the last trial were shown to be: "Dallas says to keep your mouth shut."

Questioned by Mr. Johnston, Witness Humphrey stated that he first thought of the conversation had with the Hyamses in the fatal cellar when the body first was taken to his morgue and again when the matter was reopened in the columns of The World in January, 1895. When in the fatal cellar he was paying attention to all that transpired and what was said, though not particularly so, as he was there attending to business. Will swear that it was one of the Hyamses who stated that the weight had fallen three stories.

At this point Mr. Johnston commenced to pick flaws in the witness' testimony as compared with the latter's statements at the former trial, wherein he appeared unable to determine just who it was who had made the remarks concerning the falling of the weight. Counsel and witnesses became engaged in a little wordy entanglement, but His Lordship poured on the troubled waters the necessary oil and explained to the witness that in cross-examination, counsel were justified in asking questions that oftentimes may seem to be "impudent or absurd."

When matters had become straightened out again Mr. Humphrey explained that he had never regarded the distance the weight fell as of any great importance, and that he might now be mistaken in having attributed the source of his information on that score to the Hyamses. Mr. Johnston thought the point of the greatest interest to the defence, and induced the witness to state that he could not tell who it was who had made the remark—Hyams, Fox or Dr. Aikins.

The witness could not remember having been alone with the remains of the deceased while in the Colborne-street cellar and could not say positively as to the clothing worn by the deceased.

"How do you know it was about 12 o'clock noon when you first went to the Colborne-street cellar on January 16, 1893?" asked Mr. Johnston, branching off on a new tack, after having tested the witness' memory on certain other matters.

"Because it was dinner time; my men had gone home and I heard the clock strike 12 times as I stepped out on to Yonge-street," replied the witness. The attorney tried to break the witness down on this important point, but did not succeed, Mr. Humphrey giving as a further reason that the cravings of a neglected stomach also told him it was past his dinner hour. During the course of this examination the clock at St. James' Cathedral had chimed out the noon hour, and the attorney thought it a matter of great moment that the witness had not heard it. Mr. Humphrey replied that he had been paying special attention to his examiner and had not heard the bell, but knew it was very close to the middle of the day.

Picking up diagrams showing position of the body as drawn by witness at this trial and at the trial last May Mr. Johnston pointed out a considerable difference. The witness explained that he was not expert in line drawing and would not undertake to mark any number of diagrams exactly alike. He then proceeded to draw another diagram, turning his back to the Crown's table, where as Mr. Johnston remarked he "would be removed from the influence of Mr. Osler's eyes." The latest effort of the witness as an artist must have been satisfactory, for Mr. Johnston had no further questions to ask on the subject.

On re-examination by Mr. Osler, Mr. Humphrey said the stove was on the south side. The feet were lying partly towards it. At the time the falling of the weight was spoken of, an explanation was being made to the coroner by H. T. Hyams. This was the only occasion on which he heard any conversation about the accident or how it occurred. Mr. Humhprey, on stepping down, was informed that his presence would be required again after Expressman Fox had given his testimony.

Joseph Fox, the man whose testimony covers a wider range than that of any other of the Crown's long list of witnesses, touching as it does upon almost every phase of the Crown's case, was next called. Fox said he was an expressman, usually doing business from the Melinda-street express stand. On the morning of the tragedy he called at the Colborne-street warehouse. In answer to Mr. Osler's request the witness described the external appearance of the building. Two doors, an east and a west one, lead from the street. The doors were the ordinary glass doors with the "Toronto Warehousing Co." painted on the glass. A large window extended from one door to another. The glass in the doors was frosted but he did not recollect about the frosting on the windows.

On the morning in question he went to the west door and found it locked. He then tried the east door and found it locked also. He was turning to go away, when Harry Hyams came to the east door and called him back. Witness went inside, and noticed H. T. Hyams' hands had some blood on them. Witness asked what was the matter. Hyams answered: "We have had an awful accident and Willie Wells is killed." Witness asked how it happened and Hyams answered: "We were doing something to the elevator and it broke loose and killed Willie. Witness started for the basement to see for himself and Hyams told him not to go until the coroner came. Hyams told the witness that Dr. King had been there. Witness went into the basement and saw the body lying on the face with the back uppermost. It was lying he thought with the head about two feet from the foot of the weight shaft. The legs extended towards the southeast. The body was lying perfectly flat on the stomach with the right side of the face turned slightly upwards. Both arms were extended alongside the body, and a little out from it.

For the fourth time since the beginning of the trial Joseph Fox failed to respond to his name when called at the opening of the afternoon session. Five minutes after the cathedral bells had tolled 2 o'clock, the stalwart form of the expressman entered the eastern door. Continuing his evidence the witness said that there was no overcoat and hat on the body. There were a pair of old gloves on the hands. He had frequently seen Wells wearing these gloves when he was carrying coal. The witness was sure of this as he took the gloves from off the hands. There were also a pair of glasses on the face. Mr. Osler showed the witness a photo of the deceased, illustrating the manner in which the glasses were worn by Wells. The right glass was broken, and a portion of the frame which was also broken penetrated Wells' face.

Undertaker Humphrey's assistant was present when the gloves and glasses were taken off the witness and given to Harry Hyams. This was after the coroner had given the order for the removal of the body. The glass on the left side of the spectacles was not broken. As near as the witness could recollect the right eye appeared to have been crushed outward.

The witness retracted this last statement after being shown his evidence at the May trial, and said the left eye was driven outward and the right eye crushed in out of sight.

The piece of hard wood before referred to as the buffer block was lying, Fox thought, at the foot of the shaft where the weight came down. There was some blood on it, and a morning or two afterwards the witness picked it up and noticed a dinge in it. The weight was standing on end quite close to the south east corner of the cage, but not touching it. The position of the weight was not changed from the time the witness reached the basement until the body was taken away.

The two pieces of iron which were used by the prisoners as light weights for the elevator, were lying, on the morning of the tragedy, in the basement, near the south east corner of the elevator shaft. There was also a chisel, a hammer and an old ax in the basement. The ax had been used in the warehouse for purposes of cutting wood.

The body was removed from the warehouse a few minutes after 12 o'clock. The coroner was called by Fox, who was instructed to do this by H. P. Hyams. He also instructed the witness to telephone for an undertaker, and he called Mr. Humphrey. While he was telephoning for these parties H. P. Hyams was the only person left in the building. Dallas was not there. Returning to the question of what was said by H. P. Hyams as to how the accident occurred, Fox said that Harry told him that "Dallas and Willie Wells were fixing the elevator, and the weight broke loose and killed Willie." He also said that Dallas had gone home in a hack or coupe.

At this point Mr. Osler had occasion to refer again to the witness' testimony at the previous trial. Mr. Lount renewed the objection that had already been overruled half a dozen times. Mr. Osler contended that if his witness did not give a satisfactory or gave a contradictory statement he was entitled to show the witness his answer to the same question at the previous examination, and if the witness still was unsatisfactory in his answer, he was entitled to put the same question in leading form. In support of his contention, Mr. Osler quoted the case of Queen v. Williams, which appeared to cover the ground perfectly. Mr. Lount contended that the law as set forth in that decision was bad, but as usual His Lordship ruled in favor of the Crown counsel.

In continuation of his testimony, Fox said he saw a dint in the floor as well as in the buffer. They appeared to have been made some time prior to the accident, especially that in the buffer. The presence of the buffer at the foot of the weight shaft always prevented the elevator cage from going properly to the top floor. Witness often told the prisoners to take it away as it was a nuisance, but it still remained, despite its uselessness.

Referring to the occupancy of the warehouse by the prisoners prior to the tragedy, Fox said they had been there a few months. Aylesworth, Wells and Miss Lattimer were employed there. Miss Lattimer did nothing but address envelopes and Aylesworth and Wells went out getting "reports." The witness never saw very much in the warehouse. What there was there consisted of about three "jags" of furniture and groceries taken there by the witness himself.

The elevator was used to hoist up goods and furniture. The ropes of the elevator were fixed before the occurrence, he fancied, and some gates were also put on. Shewn the small weight witness said he took it down and had it cut in two at the request of Dallas Hyams. Witness told Harry Hyams the weight was no use. A landing platform was made on the second floor where the heavy weight could be caught. The other weight was too light to balance the cage and witness refused to draw up goods, as it was too hard work.

The witness thought he changed the light weight in the cellar. The light weight would not hold the cage unless the brake was on; otherwise the cage would come down. Saw Dallas Hyams experimenting with the light weight. Could not remember just when Harry Hyams had asked him to send for a carpenter before the accident and after the platform was put in. It was an old fashioned elevator that works on a double wheel at the top.

Besides himself, never saw any one but Wells riding in the elevator.

Harry Hyams and a messenger boy were sweeping up the cellar when witness came in the day after Wells had been killed. Witness washed the blood off the weight. It was nearly at noon.

Questioned by Mr. Osler if he had ever taken any message to Undertaker Humphrey since the occurrence, he said Dallas Hyams told him to go up to Humphrey and tell him to keep his mouth shut, and to pay no attention to what some people might say about him, as they were trying to blackmail him. People had bothered witness at his home and he told Dallas Hyams, who said to "Let the people go to H——." This took place more than a year after the occurrence and witness went to see Humphrey and delivered his message.

Fox's examination in chief occupied exactly two hours. At 2.59 p.m. Mr. Lount began the cross-examination.

Daily Examiner.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1895.

IT MUST BE STOPPED.

In speaking of the reckless expenditure and waste of money which has brought Montreal into deep water financially, The Star of that city recently remarked that it did not pay a community to allow public money to be wasted or stolen. The same remark will apply to the nation as well as to the community. For over sixteen years the government retainers have been allowed to exploit the Canadian treasury at their own sweet will, with the result that some eight or ten millions of the increase of Canada's debt since 1878 is represented by waste and boodling. Here are some of the items:

Quebec harbor works.....(nearly)	$1,000,000
St Charles Branch (I C R).....	1,500 000
Tay Canal	476,000
Cedardonk (C P R).....	1,118,000
Caraquet Railway.....	224,000
Little Rapids lock	124,000
Galops Rapids channel	600,000
Curran Bridge.....	270,000
Harrisland job, St John.....	100,000
Frederic on bridge.....	272 000
Hard pan claims.....	272,000
Total.....	$6,050,000

In comment on this startling bill of particulars the Halifax Chronicle says: The people of Canada cannot allow such waste and stealing to go on unchecked. And the only way to stop it is to "turn the rascals out"—the incapables who are just now misgoverning at Ottawa,

A CONTRAST.

The Montreal Herald, in referring to the split of the Conservatives in Jaques Cartier that made it impossible to agree upon a candidate, and to the powerlessness of the Conservative leaders at the capital to keep peace in the ranks, says:—"The truth is that Jack is as good as his master at Ottawa nowadays. In the language of a member of Parliament, he is a good deal better; and the consequence is that in so small a matter as a county convention the party finds itself hopelessly divided. The bitter anxiety of the "heelers" outside the convention chamber availed not at all to bring the "heelers" within to a sense of their obligation to the party. The convention adjourned without naming a man to take the place vacated on young Mr. Girouard's retirement.

In the meantime the Liberals of the county in most harmonious convention at Lachine were unanimously acclaiming Mr Charbonneau and taking substantial measures for his election. Straws shows which way the wind blows. Things are coming our way. To employ the nervous vernacular, now is the time to sock it to the Government."

A CONFERENCE is taking place between representatives of fire insurance interests and local insurance men in Toronto on the question of lowering the rates. We should not object to such a conference in Peterborough.

BRITAIN holds her own in the commercial world. For the period 1890 1894 the annual average import and export trade of the United Kingdom was $3,478,000,000; of Germany, $1,725,432,000; of the United States, $1,090,084,000; of France $1,492,328,000.

THE Mail admits the exodus thus: "It cannot be denied that during the past summer a large number of people have left the Province of Ontario to take up their residence in the United States, but the circumstance is not one that need cause alarm, for a number of odd emigration movements have lately been under way in various parts of the continent." And the Mail goes on to quote that American farmers are moving from one state to another. Of course the exodus causes no concern to the organ. The Government has witnessed the expatriation of some million of Canadians, without any apparent undue anxiety. If the National Policy party believed that its nostrum, after nearly eighteen years of trial, had made Canada prosperous, and the best country in the world to live in, they would be the first to denounce the conditions that had translated over a million of Canadians to the United States.

COUNTERFEITERS AT WORK.

The Profits in Exact Proportion to the Baseness of the Imitation.

The Punishment Most Feared by the Counterfeiter is Failure to Foist His Spurious Product on the Innocent Public.

The difference between the base imitation and the true coin is the temptation which incites the counterfeiter. This difference is his profit.

A few years ago a treatment for diseases of the kidneys was modestly placed on the market. A single and simple claim was made for it: "It would cure any kidney disease."

To indicate its origin and its specific nature it was named Dodd's Kidney Pills. As a result of merit this preparation has already reached the enormous sale of over one million boxes.

But this unexampled success has excited the envy and cupidity of a horde of unscrupulous imitators and counterfeiters.

The reason why Dodd's Kidney Pills are thus selected as the subject of fraud and greed is because of the great popular demand that has arisen all over this country.

Of the various methods adopted to deceive and dupe those who are led to seek kidney treatment, the most glaring are as follows:

First—To imitate the size, shape and colour of the pills themselves, show them in glass bottles and to offer them for sale by count.

Second—To put up pills similar in appearance, in boxes made to resemble the genuine, and to create the impression of equality in value, to offer them at the same price.

Third—To hook on the word "kidney" in the naming, thereby seeking to increase the sale of trashy or meritorious cathartic pills, as the case may be.

Fourth—To put up pills to be offered at the same price; to generally imitate the wording and character of our advertising, and naming them by any name as nearly resembling "Dodds" as a fear of legal injunction and escape of jail will permit.

But ordinary caution will guard the buyer. None of these counterfeiters dare name their products Dodd's Kidney Pills. The genuine are neatly put up in large, round, flat wooden boxes, covered with a label in blue and red, with white letters, and for the protection of the public this label is registered.

Dodd's Kidney Pills is the only treatment that will cure kidney disease in advanced ages.

CANADA'S MORTGAGE RECORD.

Big Increase in Foreclosures Reported During the Last Year.

Looking at the tables of the loan companies' returns it is seen that mortgages aggregating $2,908,000 were foreclosed during 1894, the largest amount recorded. The estimated value of mortgaged property held for sale was $6,229,000 an increase of over a million compared with 1893. The amount chargeable against the property was $5,264,000 so that it is not considered worth more than the amount of the mortgage on it. The total value of the real estate under mortgage is $225,000,000. In Ontario the loans secured by real estate amount to $106,514,000 an increase of $6,-240,000 over 1893. Quebec, $9,190,000, an increase of $38,000; Nova Scotia, $1,075,-000, an increase of $95,000. In Ontario, compulsory proceedings to realize on the mortgages were taken in 1,113 cases. The amount overdue and in default on mortgages in Ontario during the year was $3,-170,000. The subscribed capital of the ninety-four companies is $91,963,000.

GALWAY.

(From Our Own Correspondent.

Mr. O. McConnell and Mr. C. McMahon, who went to Manitoba about two months ago, have returned. Their report is very favourable to the Prairie Province, and they are much delighted and benefitted with their visit there.

Mr. W. Kennittle who has travelled a great portion of the Northwest, finally settled in Manitoba about a year and a half ago, and this year reaped his first harvest, which consists of 1,200 bushels of wheat and several hundred bushels of oats. He has also grown a considerable amount of roots. He is well suited with the country and extends a hearty invitation to all young men who have not a permanent home here.

Mr. R. Howden, of Peterborough, has visited this section of country on a few occasions and purchased a large number of beef cattle to be delivered to the several camps belonging to the firm of Howry & Sons. There are yet a few good beef animals unsold which he will likely pick up on his return. He reports having purchased something over 500 head.

One of our sporting youths who composes one of the party camped at Bass Lake at present, was walking through the woods the other day when his keen eye caught an object which he thought was a beautiful specimen of the forest. He at once drew his Winchester and let it have the contents of it, but upon further investigation and to his surprise and disappointment, he found it to be a pine stump turned out at the roots. He says that the roots of the stump, of course, resembled so much the antlers of a deer that the mistake was not so very great after all. But for the welfare of his companions we hope his eyesight will improve a little before the hunting season is over.

Do You Tire Quickly?

Fatigue is the natural sequence of labor. If, however, it follows moderate or slight exertion it is the sign and evidence that the nervous system has lost tone and vigor, and requires assistance. Suicidal is a resort to stimulants, since these only increase the enervation. Aid cannot be obtained in this way, but through medication judiciously employed in restoring through the nervous system the digestive function, upon which primarily, health depends. The whole range of medicine fails to produce a preparation possessing in equal degree the tonic and nutritive qualities of Maltine with Coca Wine. By its action on the nervous system all the important functions of the body are stimulated and increased; the digestive process is performed efficiently and without discomfort, insuring the proper nourishment of the body. Maltine with Coca Wine is sold by all druggists.

Coughs, Colds, Sore throat, Ashhma, Bronchitis, and all Lung Troubles are quickly cured by Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam.

THIRTY-TWO BODIES

Taken From the Ruins of The Detroit Journal Building Yesterday.

Detroit, Nov. 7.—The work of recovering the bodies of the victims of The Journal boiler explosion continued all day to-day. Up to 6 o'clock this morning 18 bodies had been taken out of the ruins, nearly all of them frightfully burned.

As the workers got in to that portion of the debris into which fire had not crept the condition of the corpses recovered was found to be better. Death had come to the victims of the disaster so suddenly that many of them were found in the very attitudes in which they were at the moment of the explosion. Fourteen bodies were taken out of the ruins between 6 o'clock this morning and 5 o'clock this evening, making 32 so far found.

The bodies found to-day were identified as follows:

Jennie Noubar, Catharine Hiller, Bertha Weidbusch, Katie Leonard, John Keeber, Rosa Morgan, John Breitenbecher, Ernest Parkins, Emma Lichtenberg, Wiedbusch, Rosa Bretz, John Francis Derby, Lou Fritz and Joseph Bradley.

Up to 5 o'clock every body taken from the ruins had been identified. One body lacked identification for some time. It was that of Kate Hiller, the 20th recovered, whose brother was proprietor of the book bindery in which so many of the dead women worked.

About 4 o'clock this afternoon a small boy edged his way into the morgue past the guards and when his eyes fell on the charred remains of the unknown he declared it to be his sister. His father was sent for and made the identification sure.

At 3 o'clock the ghastliest find of the day was made. It was the trunk of a woman. The body was bloody and the arms and feet were burned off. The head was seen at some distance from the trunk, severed by a falling timber. Fred Weidbusch looked at the clothing and declared the body was that of one of his two daughters, Annie or Lizzie, he could not tell which, as they dressed alike. "When the other one is found I will know them by measuring their skirts," he said, as he returned to look for the body of his other daughter, the third of the trio of Weidbusch girls, two sisters and a cousin, who met their death there.

An hour afterwards three bodies were found together under the debris in the alley in the rear of The Journal building. There were two men and a girl in the group. The woman's body lay wedged between the other corpses. She was Lou Fritz, apprentice in the machine shop of the Rogers Typograph Supply Company. In her hand she still held the small instrument with which she was working.

On either side of her were Bradley and Derby, the carpenters who were caught while making some alterations to the building. Bradley held in his death grasp the hand axe with which he had been working when the accident occurred, poised as if he was delivering a blow, while Derby's hands firmly grasped the piece of wood which he was apparently steadying for Bradley, when the two men and the girl were blown through the building and covered with debris.

About 6 o'clock the body of George Hiller, who operated the book-bindery, was taken out. He was identified immediately, his body being in a good state of preservation. Death had come from the crushing of his skull.

At this point the work of recovery had to be stopped to permit of the shoring of walls that threatened the safety of the workers.

Nelson Lacroix, a Journal pressman, counted among the missing, turns out to have been sick in bed at the time of the disaster and Lizzie Taylor was confounded with Lizzie Weidbusch.

The cause of the fatality was developed to-day when a piece of one of the boilers was uncovered by the wreckers. The boiler had been torn into in the middle tubes, rivets and plates parting as cleanly as if they were cut by a cold chisel. A piece of this boiler had evidently been driven in each direction by the force of the explosion. The portion found disclosed to the expert engineers who examined it at once that the cause of the explosion was low water.

MATTERS AT OTTAWA

A Full Meeting of Council Held Yesterday.

WINTER PORT SUBSIDY DISCUSSED

Trial Shipments of Poultry by Cold Storage to be Made—Decreased Consumption of Spirits, Beer and Tobacco More False Reports in United States Papers.

Ottawa, Nov. 8.—There was a full meeting of the Council yesterday Sir Frank Smith coming down from Toronto to attend it. No announcements of an important character were made at the close. It is reported that nearly the entire session was taken up considering the request of the St. John deputation for a subsidy of $25,000 for a winter line of steamers between St. John and Liverpool. Some progress was made and a final decision is expected to-morrow.

Prof. Robertson was notified to-day that the foreign freight agent of the C.P.R. had made arrangements for sending two carloads of poultry as a trial shipment for England in cold storage. The Department of Agriculture will furnish cold storage accommodation on the Allan liner Mongolian next week.

The Department of Inland Revenue over which Mr. Wood ably presides, has the honor of being first with its annual report. The revenue of last year, $7,829,348, being lower than the average of the last three years. The quantity of spirits produced in Canada during the year was 2,605,787 proof gallons, as compared with 1,663,344 proof gallons produced in the previous fiscal year. The raw material used in its production was as follows: Malt, 2,820,716 pounds; Indian corn, 32,761,680, rye, 8,709,602; wheat 339,391; oats, 463,969; barley, 14,750. Exports of spirits show a steady increase since 1890, and last year reached a total of 117,218 proof gallons. Temperance advocates will be pleased to learn of a steady decrease in consumption of both spirits and tobacco in Canada per head of the population. In 1894 the average consumption of spirits was .742 gallons; last year .666; of beer 3.722 gallons in 1894, and last year 3.471 gallons; tobacco 2.264 lbs. in 1894, as against 2.163 lbs.

In a recent newspaper despatch it was stated that a crowd of Mormons have just left Salt Lake City to join the colony at Lee's Creek, Alberta, where "the practice of polygamy, although dead in Utah, is said to be permissible under the terms of the contract made with that part of the British possessions to which the Mormons are going." Deputy Minister Burgess, speaking of this statement, about polygamy, said the writer of the despatch either ignorantly or wilfully misrepresents the facts. Not only is the practice of polygamy not permissible under the terms of the contract made with that part of the British possessions to which the Mormons are coming, but the Mormons were aware from the very beginning that the practice of polygamy was absolutely and positively illegal under the criminial laws of Canada, and it was not necessary, as in the case of the United States, to pass any special law aimed at the Mormons in this particular. The colonists, moreover, have time and again, through their leaders, formally intimated that they thoroughly understood the law of Canada in this respect, and that they intend in good faith to abide strictly by it, both in the letter and in the spirit. What is more, the strictest investigation fails to disclose any justification for suspicion that they are not fulfilling their obligations in this respect honorably.

But now Insured in both.

"Should I die while I am in a position to pay my insurance premiums, my family will owe their support to Scott's Sarsaparilla. Two years ago I applied to two companies for insurance, $1000 in each. My face was a mass of pimply blotches and my urine did not stand the test. One doctor in examining me said I could not pass, but that my trouble was curable. He advised an alterative medicine, and I commenced taking Scott's Sarsaparilla. Both companies rejected me, but four months later, after I had taken five bottles of your remedy I am thankful to say both accepted me as a risk—one being a stock company, the other a mutual. The examiner who previously examined me, remarked "I never saw such a change in any man." This is indorsed by Mr. J. Todd, the popular druggist, corner Queen and Crawford Streets, Toronto.

Scott's Sarsaparilla builds up debilitated constitutions, imparts strength, vigor and vitality, clears and purifies the blood. It cures skin diseases, rheumatism, gout, indigestion and all complaints arising from poor or poisoned blood. Of all druggists, $1 per bottle.

Sold by J. D. Tully, Peterborough.

Those who are already in the country have proved themselves industrious, law-abiding and progressive settlers, and if the contingent which is alleged to have started from Utah to join them prove as satisfactory in every way as they have done, Canada will have no cause to regret their coming.

Mr. Schreiber, Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals, speaking to your correspondent regarding the request of the Montreal Board of Trade, that mills along the Lachine Canal be not allowed to take water from the canal until after the close of navigation, said that Mr. Haggart's instructions to the superinteding engineers and the superintendent of the canal were that navigation was to be their first consideration. Following out this policy, the Cornwall mills have not been allowed to take any water from the canal this week. A superintending engineer is at the present time visiting the different canals to see that water is not being drawn off for mill purposes to the detriment of navigation, and if the complaint of the Montreal board is well founded it will be promptly acceded to

The wedding of Miss Corinne Taschereau, daughter of Mr. Justice Taschereau, of the Supreme Court, to Capt. Panet of the Royal Engineers, is to take place at the Sacred Heart Church next Monday.

There is some excitement in Presbyterian circles here over the action of St. Andrew's Church in asking permission of the Presbytery to establish another church in territory which the Stewarton Church considers is under its pastoral care. St. Andrew's congregation, it appears, regards itself as in a measure the custodian of Presbyterianism in the district, which was formerly its glebe property. Stewarton Church contests the ground seeing the Presbyterians residing in the locality mentioned do not complain of any neglect, do not ask for another church, and, because in its opinion the better and more natural course to pursue would be for the wealthy church to aid the weaker sister churches, rather than impede the progress of a church which is doing active work and has already overcome many difficulties. Because it deems the request of St. Andrew's unreasonable and believes the formation of another church only three-quarters of a mile distant will seriously hamper its work, and be no gain to the church at large, the Stewarton Church protests against the action of St. Andrew's and looks to the Presbytery to guard its (Stewartons) welfare and protect its interests. The matter will again be before the presytery early next month. Meantime the sessions of the various churches likely to be affected will consider the application.

TRADE IS BETTER.

A NEW CLUB.

Name Suggested for a New Social Organization in London.

LONDON, (Special) Oct. 28.—It has been facetiously suggested that a new social club in process of organization in this city should be entitled "The Dodd's Kidney Pill Club" as the present members are all enthusiastic advocates of that remedy and in common with many other citizens declare that in all cases of kidney trouble no other agent has been found so completely effective. Most Londoners have at their fingers' ends the particulars of the many marvellous cures through the use of this specific. In every drug store in the city the medicine is kept in large quantities and warmly recommended.

A Shameful Practice.

Many tooth preparations contain substances that speedily destroy the enamel and beauty of the teeth. For this reason the greatest care should be exercised in the selection of a dentrifice. Ivorine for the teeth is offered with the assurance that it is absolutely free from objectionable ingredients. An admirable cleanser is Ivorine, imparting dazzling whiteness to the teeth, firmness to the gums, and renders the breath sweet and fragrant.

NOWADAYS, when women are trying to do everything it is not strange that many things are over-done. It is not strange that there are all kinds of physical and mental disturbances. If the woman who is a doctor, or a lawyer, or a journalist, or in business would not try to be a society woman too it might be different; but the woman who knows when she has done a day's work has yet to be born. Usually a woman's way is to keep doing until she drops.

Working in this way has manifold evils. As an old colored Aunty used to say: "There's always somethin' the matter. If it isn't one thing it's two." The most common trouble resulting from over-exertion, either mentally or physically, is constipation of the bowels, with all its attendant horrors.

There is no human ailment that so saps the energies, so deadens the ambitions, as that coming from the bowels forgetting their vocation, or the liver only working about eight hours out of the twenty-four.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are the most effectual remedy in the market. They work upon the system easily, naturally. There is no unpleasant nausea after taking them. No griping—no pain—no discomfort. They are composed of materials that go through the system gradually, collecting all impurities and like the good little servants that they are, disposing of them effectually.

MRS. ROSANNA M. BLISS, of Colosse, Oswego County, New York, says: "I had suffered much with dizziness, sometimes faintness from too much mental work. Over exertion physically caused constipation of the bowels. I tried liver pills. They gave temporary relief. Two years ago I began using Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. I have, at intervals, used three bottles, and I am now enjoying uninterrupted good health."

Yours truly,

Rosanna M. Bliss.

CANDY FOR CHILDREN.

The Popular Health Magazine says the desire in a child for candy and sweets is a natural one and should not be stifled. Good candy and sweets in moderation, not only do no harm, but are actually beneficial. Too much sweet upsets the stomach and spoils the appetite, but candy in moderation if it is not taken before a meal, is food which children crave naturally, and among the purest and most wholesome is that manufactured by Fortunate Young Ladies.

Two Toronto young ladies, the Misses Jenkinson, are claimants to a very large estate in the old country, the share which they are to get being placed at the enormous figure of $10,000,000. The story of the case is that the property, which consists largely of city property in one of the cities of the United Kingdom, was owned by Lady Anne Whilde, a maiden lady, who died some four years ago. The property has since been tied up, and has grown in value until worth some $20,000,000. Lady Anne Whilde left a will, under the terms of which, it is claimed, the Misses Jenkinson and two other ladies are equal heirs; of these other heirs one has been found, but one is still missing, and search is being made for her. The ladies first learned of the possibility of coming into this inheritance about four years ago through a gentleman in England who is a friend of theirs, learning of the circumstances and apprising them of their claim. Since then a solicitor from New York has taken the matter up, and is pushing the case vigorously. Some delay may be caused through the efforts to find the fourth heir, but they expect soon to be in possession of their inheritance. They are both young, the eldest being about 30 years old.

HARLEY DAVIDSON BREAKS A RECORD.

HE IS NOW THE HALF MILE CHAMPION.

It Will Give the Peterborough Track a Great Name—The Riders May Stay Here Another Week and More Records Remain to be Clipped.

Trainer Payson Davidson was off to Toronto early this morning to bring down everything in the way of fast riders and pacing machines that he could lay his hands on, as his brother, Harley, was successful yesterday in breaking the half mile record for Canada, although the track was slow.

HARLEY DAVIDSON, WHO LOWERED THE CANADIAN HALF MILE RECORD TO 59 SECONDS AT THE DRIVING PARK YESTERDAY.

Paced for the first quarter by Penseyres and Steimal, of Buffalo, and for the second quarter by Gratz and McColl, the little Toronto team, Harley made the half in 1.03 2-5 on the first trial. The next time the same tandem teams pulled him over the line in 1.01 1-5. The Buffalo men then changed off with Gibbons and McIntosh, and at the next start Davidson got away at a terrific clip and was carried the first quarter at when McColl and Gratz took a hold of him for the last quarter, the pick up was not any too good and three or four fifths of a second may have been lost, but when the little fellows got under way they set a pace which no Canadian tandem team ever before equalled, carrying Davidson home from the quarter in 27 seconds.

A shout went up as Harley swept past the tandem in the stretch and came home like a whirlwind. All felt sure that if the record had not been broken it had only escaped by a narrow margin.

Geo. Horkins, official C. W. A. timekeeper, jumped hastily across the track and after a hasty comparison of his watch with those of other timekeepers, exclaimed "He got it, boys!" Three hearty cheers were given for the plucky little rider and then the crowd gathered around to learn the exact time which had been made. The existing record and was held by T. B. McCarthy, who, it will be remembered, broke the record for a half at the time of the big meet here on civic holiday. Davidson clipped the 2-5 off it and established a Canadian record of 59 flat. When McIntosh, one of the pacers heard the result he stated his belief that the record could be lowered another second or two on the next trial, and in speaking he voiced the belief of all who witnessed the trial.

WAS 59 1-5 SECONDS

The pick ups during the trials were all poor for some reason or other, and when one tandem relieved the other in pacing, from one to two seconds were always lost. Thus the continuous pacing by a "quad" would be of advantage and if ever the big machine, which is manipulated by four riders, gets into order, the rest of the records will doubtless fall.

It adds not a little to the satisfaction of all that when the record was broken Davidson was paced by four Canadians. In taking him the last quarter McCall and Gratz broke the tandem record for that distance, doing it in 27 seconds. As Davidson was able to in the stretch the terrific clip at which he can ride may be realized.

When Harley finishes his half he steps off his wheel, not even out of breath, and as fresh as a daisy. He probably did the last quarter in 26 yesterday, and can without doubt do the first quarter in the same time, providing he is properly paced. If he can thus negotiate a half in 52 seconds on a sticky, heavy track, the question arises "What will he do when the track dries out?" There is a strong probability of a world's record being made, as one second clipped off this work will do the trick. Otto Zeigler holds the championship just now at 51 and a fraction.

To-day's rain is just what is needed to take the last remnant of frost out of the track and prevent the dampness continually oozing up and making the path sticky. If it does not freeze to-night, and the sun comes out to-morrow, there will doubtless be hundreds of people down at the Driving Park to see how many records will go.

Yesterday afternoon Davidson tried also to

for two miles but failed, owing probably to the fact that both he and his pacers must necessarily have been fatigued by their previous hard work. His time in the two miles was as follows:

PAYSON DAVIDSON, THE ASTUTE TRAINER OF THE BRANTFORD TEAM.

First half	1.09
Second half	2.17 2-5
Third half	3.31 2-5
Fourth half	4.45

It may be as well to republish the appended schedule of Canadian records in order that any who neglected to preserve them before may do so now:

Quarter-mile flying, paced, 26 2-5, A. McLeod.

Quarter-mile flying, unpaced, 26, H. Davidson.

Quarter-mile, standing, unpaced, 28 4-5, H. Davidson.

Half-mile flying, unpaced, 1.02 1-5, A. McLeod.

Half-mile flying, paced, 59 1-5, T. B. McCarthy.

One mile flying, paced, 1.58 1-5, J. Wills.

Two miles flying start, paced, 4.20 2-5, T. B. McCarthy.

Three miles flying, paced, 6.40 2-5, T. B. McCarthy.

Four miles flying, paced, 9.01, H. Davidson.

Five miles flying, paced, 11.24 2-5, T. B. McCarthy.

The breaking of the record makes Peterborough's claim for next year's C. W. A. meet a strong one, indeed, and if a few more are clipped the meet for Peterborough will be a surety.

The bicyclists are, it appears, making serious inroads into the hearts of Peterborough's young ladies, and what these young ladies don't know about pacing, pick-ups, tandems, quads and records isn't much.

Preparations are in full away for a grand time to-morrow night, when a concert under the auspices of the local Bicycle Club will be given in the Opera House and a promenade and ball held afterwards in the skating rink, in honour of the visiting wheelmen.

Some splendid local talent has already volunteered for the first part of the entertainment. Messrs. Thomas and Michael Dunn, Herbert King, Dan Simons and Johnnie Connors, it is understood, will be amongst those taking part. Fuller announcements will be made in to-morrow's papers.

The officials yesterday were:

Judges—Messrs. Miles Henry and Alf. Terrill.

Timekeepers—Messrs. Geo. A. Horkins (official C. W. A.), R. W. Roy, R. Stevenson, Gus Hay and C. LeBrun.

Starter—Thos. Dunn.

A QUIET CATHEDRAL WEDDING.

Celebration of the Nuptials of Mr. Joseph Redmond and Miss Johanna Foley.

On Wednesday evening last a quiet wedding was solemnized at the Cathedral by Venerable Archdeacon Casey, when Mr. Joseph Redmond, recently of the Elm Grove Stock Farm, Otonabee, was united in marriage with Miss Johanna Foley, daughter of Mrs. Catherine Foley, 371 Stewart street. Having retired from active life Mr. Redmond, who is one of the best known agriculturists in the district, has been living at the City Hotel for some time, but together with Mrs. Redmond has now taken up his residence on Stewart street with Mrs. Foley until spring, when, it is understood, he intends erecting a handsome brick house.

Killed a Bear.

Several persons called at the residence of Mr. Peter Cochrane on Tuesday to see a bear which his father had shot a few days before at his hunting ground in the Stony Lake region. The animal weighed 300 pounds when dressed. Mr. Cochrane came up to his bearship in his lair when only a few feet distant. He levelled his rifle twice at him, and both bullets took effect, one between the eyes. Mr. Cochrane is well advanced in years, but he is as enthusiastic after deer and bear as he was when a young man of twenty.—Campbellford Herald.

FUNERAL OF CAPTAIN REYNOLDS.

The Masons Take Charge of the Services at the Grave.

The funeral of the late Captain Samuel Reynolds took place at Lakefield yesterday afternoon and was very largely attended by friends of the deceased from Peterborough, Port Hope, Millbrook, Omemee, as well as from all parts of the country.

Fully twenty Peterborough members of the Masonic Order, of which the Captain was a member, drove out and conducted the ceremonies of the fraternity at the grave side, Rev. Mr. Limbert taking charge of the other services.

Amongst those in attendance from Port Hope were the deceased's brother, Mr. Levi Reynolds, his sister, Mrs. Hanaman and Martin and Henry Haneman.

The pall-bearers were Messrs. Sparham, Sheldrake, Fred Lillicrap, John Dinwoodie, J. Moore, Wm. Graham and J. J. Turner.

The following lines written on the recent death of a distinguished Freemason are quoted as being particularly appropriate, as Captain Reynolds was a worthy member of the craft:—

The Brother leeps where the daisies no1
And the clover hangs its head,
Where the wild birds come and the wild bees hum
Above his lonely bed.
He fought the fight—he kept the faith
His fame shines bright and clear,
And his memory lives in loving hearts
Which will hold it ever dear—
The Brother sleeps.

The winter snow shall wrap his couch
In a mantle broad and white,
A spotless robe for a spotless soul
Who has kept his armour bright;
And the burning stars which nightly watch
And keep ward over all
Shall keep the grave where the Brother waits
To rise at the Master's call—
The Brother sleeps.

BAPTIST MISSION CIRCLE.

A Highly Successful Thankoffering Occasion.

An open meeting of the Mission Circle of the Baptist church was held on Tuesday night, and the occasion was a very great success. There was a very large attendance and the proceedings were of unusual interest.

After devotional exercises, including a Scripture reading by Mrs. Hounsel, Mrs. T. F. Matthews gave a most interesting map exercise illustrative of the work of the missionaries of the Baptist church among the Indians of the Northwest, by Mr. Prince, a native, and Rev. Mr. Mellie. The map and the descriptive remarks brought home the truths of the subject very clearly.

An unusually excellent reading, "All are God's Children," was given by Miss Fair.

Mrs. Mimms well entertained the meeting with a capital paper on "Family Training in Missions."

This was followed by a fine reading by Miss Aldridge.

Rev. J. E. Trotter, the pastor, made a few apt remarks and a thankoffering was taken, amounting to the handsome sum of $20.

Afterwards a delightful social hour was spent and all were very highly pleased with the thankoffering evening of the mission circle.

INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS.

An Interesting Meeting of City Lodge, No. 404.

Last evening the installation of officers of I.O.G.T.: No. 404, took place. The officers installed are:

Bro Stubbs	C T
Sister Emmerson	P C T
Sister Green	V T
Bro Might	Chap
Bro Dickson	Treas
Bro W J Stubbs	Sec
Sister E Straine	Ass Sec
Bro Hetherington	Fin Sec
Bro Sabin	Marshall
Sister Wicker	Deputy Marshall
Bro V Freeburn	Guard
Bro Green	Sentinel

After the installation ceremonies were concluded, Mrs. (Rev.) W. L. Scott, of Ottawa, a veteran temperance worker, gave a very pleasing and profitable address. She had only words of praise for the organization, whose good points especially in relation to women were indicated. She urged the young men especially, who would soon become voters, to ally themselves with the temperance cause, and to always vote for temperance candidates regardless of party.

One dollar will purchase four pounds at our Peterborough store, 370 George street, as at Montreal, Ottawa, Kingston and Toronto

"SCOTS WHA HAE!"

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY.

Reports for the Year—Increasing Demands on the Charity Funds—Election of Officers—St. Andrew's Day Celebration in the Hands of a Committee

The annual meeting of the St. Andrew's Society was held in the Morgan House on Thursday evening. There was an average attendance at the meeting. The president, Dr. Carmichael, presided. After the minutes of the past quarterly meetings had been read and confirmed, the following accounts were ordered to be paid:

Alex O'Brien	$1 75
Miss Rudkins	10
A P Morgan	85
EXAMINER Printing Co.	2 00

A number of new members were enrolled and others proposed. A report was also read from Mr. John Cunningham, showing quite a number of subscriptions collected by him from new and old members.

The treasurer, Dr. Bell, submitted his annual financial statement for the year, showing a very small balance on hand to the credit of the society. The excessive demands upon the benevolent funds during the past year have almost exhausted the treasury. Every Scotchman, therefore, in the town and county should help on the good work of this society by contributing at once the small subscription of one dollar, which is all that is asked for membership fees.

Dr. Caldwell and Chas. Cameron audited the treasurer's books, and having certified to their correctness, the treasurer's report was passed.

This closed the business for the year 1895, and the election of officers for 1896 was then proceeded with.

On motion of Chas. Cameron, a vote of thanks was passed to the retiring officers. The president on behalf of the retiring officers thanked the meeting for their hearty vote of thanks, and wished it understood that he was not a candidate for re-election. He had endeavoured to discharge the duties of president during 1895 as faithfully as he could, but he hoped they would elect some other gentleman more fitted to fill a position of this kind.

OFFICERS FOR 1896.

The officers for the ensuing year were then elected as follows:—

President—Dr. R. W. Bell.
1st Vice President—Dr. Caldwell.
2nd Vice-President—Thos. Telford.
3rd Vice-President—John Gilchrist.
Physicians—Drs. Caldwell, Carmichael and Bell, of Peterborough, and J. R. Fraser, Lakefield.
Secretary—Wm. Menzies.
Executive Committee for the town—Messrs. R. M. Dennistoun, chairman, C. Cameron, C. N. Brown, W. H. Robertson, A. Mercer, W. Fraser, John Logan, John Cunningham, G. H. Noble, G. M. Rogers, D. A. Shaw, W. Breckenridge, Wm. Ingles.
Executive Committee for the county:—Otonabee township — John Cieghorn, Donald MacFarlane and Adam C. Thompson.
Keene—Jas. McNeil.
Smith—Henry Bowie, W. Graham, Geo. Harvey.
Lakefield—Dr. John R. Fraser, Robert Graham.
Ennismore—A. Morrison, R. Telford.
Monaghan—Joseph Tully, John Fowler.
Asphodel and Belmont—John Breckenridge, Donald Cameron.
Norwood—W. E. Roxburgh.
Havelock—W. Mathieson.
Douro—Jos. Renwick, Thos. Russell.
Harvey—Geo. Smith.

ST. ANDREW'S DAY CELEBRATION.

On motion of Chas. Cameron, the following gentlemen were appointed to take into consideration the celebration of St. Andrew's Day in an appropriate manner:—Dr. Bell, Dr. Caldwell, and Messrs. R. M. Dennistoun, Alex. Gibson and the secretary. This committee was given full power to act, and, if necessary, to report at a special meeting to be convened on Thursday, 14th inst., at the call of the President.

The same committee was also instructed to wait upon Rev. A. MacWilliams with a request for him to preach the annual St. Andrew's sermon on Sunday evening, Dec. 1st.

The meeting then adjourned at the call of the President.

A SUSPECTED FORGER.

He is Evidently Something of a Liar as Well.

Chief Roszel this morning received the following letter from Chief Constable Newton, of Belleville:

"I have under arrest here, charged with forgery and uttering forged cheques, a man who gives the name of Geo. Small, age 46, 5 feet 11 inches, bald on top of head, sandy moustache, small sidewhiskers and English descent, gave name of R. S. Gibson, Brighton, at one hotel, and W. H. Smyth, Deseronto, at another; says he resided in your town for about seven years and was last employed as a cab driver for a man named Nicholls.

As no cabman named Nicholls ever conducted business here and as the man was never connected with the Nicholls' estate, in any capacity, it is evident he is something of a liar.

A Great Book Free.

When Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., published the first edition of his great work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, he announced that after 680,000 copies had been sold at the regular price, $1.50 per copy, the profit on which would repay him for the great amount of labour and money expended in producing it, he would distribute the next half million free. As this number of copies has already been sold, he is now giving away absolutely free, 500,000 copies of this most complete, interesting and valuable common sense medical work ever published — the recipient only being required to mail to him, at above address, thirty one (31) one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only, and the book will be sent post paid. It is a veritable medical library, complete in one volume. Contains 1008 pages, profusely illustrated. The Free Edition is precisely the same as that sold at $1.50, except only that the books are in strong manilla paper covers instead of cloth. Send NOW before all are given away.

—The Josephine Kid Glove Cleaner is unlike any other—that's the good of it. Ladies will not do without it at twice the cost once they use it. Sold by Robt. Fair, sign of the Golden Lion, headquarters for Perrin Freres' celebrated Kid Gloves in newest styles for all occasions.

LAST EVENING'S CONCERT

Under the Auspices of St. John's Young People's Association.

The concert given in the Opera House last evening under the auspices of the Young People's Association of St. John's church, proved a great success. The audience was a large and fashionable one, and the programme sufficiently varied to demand constant attention.

Madame D'Auria's rich and highly cultivated soprano voice has lost none of its fascination since she was last heard in Peterborough, and the audience was almost as much delighted with her pleasing little mannerisms as with her dulcet tones. In the rendition of Arditis "Daisy," the subject was treated in a manner which brought out of the composition and gave Madame D'Auria an opportunity of introducing her charming personality in a manner which won for her instantaneous applause. Fanning's "I've Something Sweet to Tell you," and Eckert's "Swiss Echo," were both treated in a like manner, and given the delicate shading and clearness of enunciation required to make this conception thoroughly appreciated.

Miss Britta Stott is one of Toronto's newest elocutionists, but gives promise of great talent. Her opening number was a scene from Dion Boucicault's "London Assurance," and was given with a delightful freedom from staginess, which won her audience from the outset. "The Quaker" gave Miss Stott an opportunity of displaying a pair of pretty feet in the minuet, and her graceful figure added not a little to the ensemble. Full justice was done a portion of "Romeo and Juliet," being the third scene in Act IV, where the heroine dwells on the horrible result of her act if the sleeping draught should prove or, on the other hand, if the effects would pass away too soon to render her ruse effective. The following attitudes of emotion were given in such a way as to ensure Miss Stott a warm welcome in Peterborough should she again visit the Opera House,—Triumph, lamentation, threatening, fear, curiosity, indifference, invitation, rejection, remonstrance, shame, challenge, defiance, boasting, bashfulness, sympathy, mourning, admiration, disdain, entreaty, despair, justice, deceit, command, submission, affection, hate, determination, indecision, appeal, anguish, reverence, ridicule, revenge, flattery, horror, supplication, vindication, listening, astonishment, blessing, abhorrence, faith.

Mr. Thos. Carter, the humorist, was undoubtedly clever, though his Yorkshire dialect was a little difficult of comprehension at times. His "Old Maid's song," however, was one of the most amusing things ever heard in the opera house and earned for him several recalls. "The Scolding Wife" also was most humorous.

The Young People's Association are deserving of the heartiest congratulations on the success of the concert.

A LEADING CANADIAN CLERGYMAN

Tells How He Was Cured of Nervous Prostration and Indigestion.

SOUTH AMERICAN NERVINE.

The Greatest Discovery of the Century Cured Not Only Rev. W. S. Barker, But Also Cured His Wife.

If among any class of the community caution marks the words of testimony publicly uttered, this is the case in a marked degree with the clergy. Their training and daily experience compel them to weigh carefully questions on which they write or talk. They are thinkers and they speak on a subject after it has been brought home to them by practical experience, or the keen logic of facts.

These are reasons that necessarily give weight to the strong testimony borne by the Rev. W. S. Barker, of Campbellford, Ont., touching South American Nervine. His own words are these: "I have much pleasure in recommending the great South American Nervine Tonic to all who are afflicted, as I have been, with nervous prostration and indigestion. I found very great relief from the very first bottle, which was strongly recommended to me by my druggist. I also induced my wife to use it, who, I must say, was completely run down and was suffering very much from general debility. She found great relief from South American Nervine, and also cheerfully recommends it to her fellow sufferers."

In any effort to cure the disease the important matter is that the disease be understood. Now, it is a scientific fact, demonstrated beyond question that all disease comes through a derangement of the nerve centres located near the base of the brain, and having entire control over the stomach, liver, heart, lungs and all internal organs. Nervine immediately acts upon these, and this is how severe cases of prostration and indigestion and general debility, such as was suffered by the Rev. W. S. Barker and his wife, are quickly and effectively cured. Sold by H. S. McDonald.

BRITAIN'S FUTURE

Hangs Upon the Opinions Which the Autonomous Colonies Hold of Her, Says Mr. Chamberlain.

London, Nov. 6.—A banquet was given here this evening on the occasion of the opening of the Natal Railway, at which Mr. Joseph Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies; Sir Charles Tupper, Canadian High Commissioner; all of the Colonial agents in London, and several members of the House of Lords and the House of Commons were present.

Sir Charles Tupper offered a toast in honor of Mr. Chambelain, referring in very complimentary terms to the Colonial Secretary.

Mr. Chamberlain, upon replying, said that Great Britain was approaching a critical stage in the history of her relations with the autonomous colonies. Upon their opinions of her policy during the next few years—certainly the next generation—would depend the future of the British Empire. This hung together on a thread so slender that even a breath might sever it. Not long ago statesmen despaired of the possibility of maintaining a permanent union, foreseeing that a time would come when the colonies having attained a position of independence, must be expected to claim an entire separation. These great communities had taken rank with the nations of the world. He did not suppose that the idea of compelling them to remain in the Empire was within the range of intelligent speculation. Yet, notwithstanding that the time had come for these conditins to be fulfilled, the expectance of the statesman referred to had not been realized. As the possibility of a separtion had become greater the desire had become less, until it no longer existed. Great Britain on her part was prepared to do all that could fairly be expected of her. The Mother Country rejoiced greatly at the patriotism embracing the whole of Great Britain.

He believed that the slender thread of which he had spoken was capable of carrying a force of sentiment and sympathy which would be a potent factor in the history of the world. Just as a slender wire would carry an electrical force capable of moving machinery. He heard on all hands that Imperial Federation was a vain, empty dream. He would not contest this opinion; but men must be blind who did not see that it was a dream that impressed itself on the mind of the English-speaking race—the sort of dream which, somehow or another, becomes eventually unaccountably realized. The signs of the times were already in the direction of such a movement.

Mr. Chamberlain concluded with an appreciative reference to the African colonies.

Sir Charles Tupper, in proposing a toast to Mr. Chamberlain, said that he and his colleagues had learned of the appointment of that gentleman to the office of Colonial Secretary with sincere pleasure. He heartily thanked the Secretary for the share he had taken in the settlement of the Atlantic fisheries commission. There was no greater field than the Colonial Office for the exercise of the ability of one of the greatest statesmen of the day a strong Minister in a strong Government.

Mr. Jacob B. Brown, of Grahamville, S.C., was troubled with chills and fever, and unable to procure relief, until he began to take Ayer's Pills. He is now enjoying excellent health and is a warm and sincere advocate of Ayer's Pills, for all complaints of stomach liver, or bowels.

THE ENGLISH DOUBLE WON.

Teemer and Rogers Beaten and a New World's Record Made

Austin, Tex., Nov. 6.—The weather was fine to-day, and a large attendance witnessed the regatta races. The great event of the day was the final heat, three miles, with a turn, doub-scull, for the world's championship, and a purse of $1000 between England's champions, Bubear and Barry, and America's flyers, Teemer and Rogers. Both crews were in the pink of condition, and the course was all that could be desired.

The start was made in excellent style, Teemer and Rogers taking water just a hair-breadth first. Bubear and Barry, with a few sweeping strokes, pulled ahead of the Americans, and as they passed the first quarter stake a full boat's length of daylight was between them. The Americans were pulling straight up the course, sticking to their oars at a 38 clip. At the three-quarter mark the Englishmen were only half a length ahead. The Americans continued to gain on them, and both crews rounded the mile and a half flag together. Down the homestretch they were neck and neck. At the three-quarter stake the Englishmen had forged ahead about half a length.

The Americans again exerted themselves, and as they neared the last quarter the boats were about even, and kept that way until within about one-eighth of a mile of the home line. At this point Bubear and Barry spurted and crossed the finishing line a couple of lengths ahead.

The official time was 17.40, which breaks the world's record of 18.02. The time watches were tested to-night and affidavits made to the correctness of the time.

The second important event was a single-scull trial heat, three miles, with three turns, four times over the course, between Jake Gaudaur, Hanlan, Peterson, Rogers and Teemer. Peterson led off, with Rogers second. It was a steadily-pulled and pleasing race, with several changes in the relative positions of the boats until the last stretch was reached. At the last turn of the stake Gaudaur led, with Rogers second Peterson third. Teemer had dropped out. On the home dash Hanlan also quit, leaving Gaudaur, Rogers and Peterson to finish, and they crossed the line in the order named. Time, 19.41.

Gaudaur and Rogers will row off with Bubearand Haines to-morrow for Richard K. Fox's challenge cup, the championship, and $1000.

In the pool rooms to-night the Americans are slight favorites. To-morrow the four-oared race between Bubear, Barry, Haines and Wingate, and J. and C. Gaudaur, Rogers and Teemer, will be pulled off.

Atherton of Hartford, Conn., and Koenig of St. Louis had a mile and a half dash, with a turn, to-day for a special prize. Atherton won in 12.29.

Fort William, Ont.

Mr. William Day, of Fort William, Ont., says: Two years ago my wife was very ill with dyspepsia. No remedy that she could find gave any relief. Finally she tried Burdock Blood Bitters, and after taking six bottles was entirely cured. That is now more than two years ago and she has had no return of the malady. I also have had occasion to use B. B. B. and I cannot speak too highly in its favour. I always recommend it to my friends and in every case with good results. Yours truly, Wm. Day.

Close of the Field Trials.

Chatham, Nov. 7.—Contrary to general expectation, the annual trials of the International Field Trials Club, which were commenced near here on Tuesday, came to an end to-day. They were, on the whole, the most unsatisfactory trials the club has ever had, and perhaps the most unsatisfactory that ever took place on the continent. The dogs were better than they have been for years, but the extreme dryness of the atmosphere and ground rendered anything like scent impossible. The birds, too, were scarce; but it was evident that there were more in the locality than were flushed. Several times the best dogs landed in a bevy, flushing them in all directions, without making a single point. At times, however, some very pretty points were made, particularly yesterday, by Mary Gold, winner of the Derby, when she held a steady point on a tried bird, while quail were rising about her in all directions, and another to-day by Lightfield Deemster in a field of standing corn. The second series in the all-aged stake was continued this morning, and by 3 o'clock in the afternoon the judges were satisfied that they could have no good work on birds, so, going by what they had seen, rendered their decision as follows: First, Don Antonio, owned by Bangham, Windsor, and winner of last year's Derby; second, Bighton Dick, T. G. Davey, London; third, divided between Deemster and Faustina, the former the property of Lord Lonsdale, England, and the latter of T. G. Davey.

WILL THEY GET IT?

Rumoured Establishment by a Canadian Firm of a Branch in Albany, N.Y.

ALBANY (Special) Nov. 4.—The outcry in certain quarters against the high tariff still goes on, but it is to the tariff that Albany is likely to owe the addition of another industry to her numerous existing ones. A Canadian firm located in Toronto has, it is understood, been interviewed by an Albany business man, with a view to establishing in this city a manufactory of the staple kidney remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills. As the business done by the Canadian firm throughout the United States has assumed very large porportions, owing to the recognition by the American public of the great value of this staple, it is probable that arrangements will be satisfactorily entered into. The annual output is very large and is rapidly increasing.

ON BUTTERMAKING.

CONTINUATION OF MRS TWEEDIE'S ARTICLE.

Butter, Bacon and Eggs—Cleanliness and System are the Indispensable Conditions of Success—Some Suggestive Figures.

The following is a second instalment of Mrs. Tweedie's article in the Fortnightly Review :—

But to return to Denmark. It makes £8,456,434 a year from England out of butter, bacon and eggs.

In Denmark can produce these articles at a profit, why cannot we? The climate of England is the same, and our geographical position better. In January, 1893, Denmark was so ice-bound that Elsinore, in the north, was the only port open for some weeks, and the butter was actually sent across to Sweden, from where it traveled for a couple of days to Trondheim, and was then shipped over to England. The soil of England is better, too, than that of Denmark; but, alas, the enterprise is lacking and there is no co-operation. Our farmers have unfortunately not yet realized that they are losing their trade, ruining themselves and their landlords, and until they do so nothing will be done, and the money earned by English manufacturers will necessarily be expended in foreign countries for England's foods. Her towns will increase and her pastoral lands lie idle.

Passing through Copenhagen lately our interest in butter was excited by a few startling figures divulged at a large dinner party. Every one at the table drank the health of "the representatives of England, which is doing so much to enrich Denmark." We became interested at what appeared a very droll toast to our uninitiated mind, and eagerl listened to a few details. Desirous of knowing more of this money-making butter business, through the kindness of Mr. Busck, who has done so much for Danish farmers, we are able to see over a butter factory.

The butter factories are all over Denmark and are all worked on the same principle, so the one we visited and are about to describe gives a very good idea of what is being done so successfully throughout the whole country.

The manufactory lies a little outside the town, and thither we went at about 9 p.m. At that hour the milk arrives from the country. The cows are milked at the farms about 5 o'clock, and after the milk has been thoroughly cooled it is sent off by rail to the factory.

The Copenhagen Milk Supply Company purchases milk from about 50 different farmers, owning among them between four and five thousand cows. These cows are visited fortnightly by a veterinary sugeon, and if any disease breaks out in the meantime the farmer must immediately report the same to the company, which pays for the milk at the same rate as usual and then throws it away. By this plan the farmers has nothing to fear by telling the truth about the condition of his cows and the spread of disease is avoided.

A pledge, of which the following is a copy, is signed by the contractors :—

"I the undersigned contractor to the Copenhagen Milk Supply Company, pledge myself herewith to the best of my ability, to inquire into every case of infectious disease occurring either upon my farm or among the people employed in working for me, and to report every case of the above kind immediately to the company."

In return the company bind themselves as follows :—

"The highest price in the market will be paid for the milk from such farms as usual, if the notice is given in time to prevent any of it from being sold."

In consequence of all these precautions there is guarantee that the stock, at any rate, is healthy.

It is well known by scientific and medical men that tubercular disease in the cow may be conveyed to a human subject by means of its milk, and that tuberculosis and consumption are identical. Further, milk is a very frequent cause of communicating diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles, enteric or typhoid and all zymotic disease. It is therefore necessary to see that no one who is or attending to cows has come, or ever comes in contact with any of these diseases, and to avoid this the company pays its employes full wages and keeps them on if they have been exposed to infection. Should a case of infectious disease appear among any of the farm employes the farmer must at once report the fact to the company and withhold the milk, which will nevertheless be paid for as usual, if these conditions are complied with.

During the summer months it is compulsory for the cattle to be fed out of doors.

Autumn calving is a very important point, and one not sufficiently realized in England. By this means large quantities of milk are available in the winter, when it would otherwise be scarce.

The milk cows of Denmark are usually bred in the country itself, and are small and reddish in color. The Jutland cows are generally black and white, but as a breed they are better for fattening than milking. A full-grown milch cow of Danish breed weighs 800 or 1,000 lbs, and will often yield, if well fed, from ten to twelve times its own weight in milk annually.

In winter the cattle are stall-fed. Corn, bran, hay and rape-seed cake being the chief food; all must be of the very best quality. It has been proved that the better the food the more satisfactory the milk, and therefore, the most paying. It may further be mentioned that all milk is valuable at the factories in proportion to its fatty properties and not in proportion to its quantity, which thus does away with all desire to adulterate it. Should the company find the milk inferior, and therefore unfit for sale, they are entitled to refuse it without giving any compensation to the contractor. As a rule, all the regulations for cleanliness, good diet, ample ventilation, etc., are well attended to by the farmers with the most satisfactory results.

When milking it is essential that the greatest cleanliness should be observed. The milk is strained through a wire sieve covered with a clean woollen cloth. Immediately after milking, and during all seasons of the year, the milk must be cooled down with ice-water to 40 degrees Fahr. About this the company is most particular; 30 lbs. of ice have to be allowed for every 100 lbs. of milk; and a good supply of ice always kept in hand by the farmer.

At most of the butter factories only the cream is delivered to the company, the farmer keeping the milk for his animals; but as every little farmer in the country cannot afford a separator, sometimes all the milk is sent to the factory, or, in some cases, the factory cart fetches it, and the amount of milk is entered in a book when weighed; and as much skimmed milk and butter as may be required by the farmer and his family is returned and debited to his account. Practice has enabled this entry system to be thoroughly and speedily worked.

As the Copenhagen factory supplies both milk and butter to the town, fresh milk is necessary as well as the cream.

The sweet milk arrives, as before said, in the evening and every can is sampled by a woman whose sole duty is to taste milk (just as men taste tea or wine), and in a moment she can detect anything amiss, and the can is put aside for analysis.

All the fresh milk that is approved of is passed through an enormous filter. This filter is filled with three layers of fine gravel, separated by perforated trays, and is most carefully cleaned from day to day. It is first washed with soda, rinsed with several clean waters, and then exposed to a temperature of 32 degrees Fahr., which is sufficient to kill all bacteria. Mr. Busck invented this filter, and insists on having the filtering medium thoroughly sterlizing each time it is used. Every drop of milk that comes to the factory is passed through it before being sold or put aside for butter.

One absolutely stands aghast before a bottle of debris collected from the filter, and thinks, with a shudder, that people generally — indeed always — drink such filth in the London milk. Cow hair, human hair, fragments of corn, of wood, of wool, of anything and everything are filtered from the milk. And this is only the accumulation collected through the openings in the cans during their railway journey to Copenhagen.

While our milk is delivered at the London doors in cans, with only half-closed lids, the Copenhagen milk is bottled and securely sealed down. The bottles are kept scrupulously clean. They are washed by machinery, first with soda and warm water by means of a revolving brush, and then with clean water. When filled with milk, they are corked down with a new cork each time, sealed and placed in ice all night, to be sent out for delivery in the morning.

The bottling arrangements are perfect, as indeed is everything in connection with the dairy. As the bottles are expensive, they have to be paid for by whoever breaks them. Nearly fourteen thousand were broken last year; but then three or four thousand go out every day for the morning delivery alone.

After the delivery of the milk, the rest is set aside for butter-making. It is placed in tall, straight, cylindrical tins and stood in ice for some hours for the cream to rise, when it is skimmed by hand, not by a separator. It then contains 1 per cent. of cream, and is sold as skimmed milk. When passed through a separator it rarely contains so much as half per cent. of cream, and is, therefore, only useful for animal feeding. When the cream has been skimmed from the milk in the cans, it is put into large tubs, and is heated by hot air to 68 degrees Fahr., so as to turn it sour quickly, for fresh cream will not make good butter. The cream stands in these huge tubs for twenty-four hours, and the tubs are so thick that they keep up the temperature almost to 63 degress Fahr.

At the end of twenty-four hours the contents are usually sour enough to make good butter, but, if not, a little cream of the day before has to be added. Once it is ready in point of "ripeness," it is cooled down by being passed over tubes containing ice-water until it becomes 50 degrees Fahr., which is the proper heat for churning.

Women are employed to make the butter. They are charmingly dressed in white, with short sleeves, large aprons, and pretty little white caps. On their feet they wear clogs, because the floor is always wet from the endless streams of washing continually going on. Everything is washed with hot water the moment it is laid aside; and indeed the whole factory is simply a marvel of cleanliness and order.

It is quite pleasant to see the cheerful faces of the women employed, and note the marvellous neatness of their costumes. It is a very healthy life, and they usually keep their situations for years, and the demand for places is far in excess of the vacancies.

The Danish butter girls earn from 6s to 12s a week, and become so expert that it is quite interesting to see their dexterity in bottling, corking, tying up, washing, squeezing, weighing, etc. Women do a very large share of the work in the factory; in fact, all that does not entail carrying heavy weights, for which purpose men are employed, and also for driving the fifty milk vans used by the company. Altogether about 250 people find employment in this one establishment, where they are well paid, lead a healthy life, and are looked after in sickness.

The cream, when it is put into the churns, smells sour and looks quite white, until the coloring matter is added. All butter is artificially colored, otherwise it would look like lard.

This coloring matter is called "rmoufiber," and is made from a root which grows in the east. Making this coloring matter into an ingredient ready for use is another of the trades of Denmark, and is a further source of employment to the people. It is a lovely, deep orange shade, absolutely clear and like syrup, and one teaspoonful colors 75 kilos. of cream.

The churns are worked by machinery, and it takes about half an hour to make a large churn of butter at a temperature of 10. cel. They are usually half full, never more than two-thirds and the Holstein churn is the favorite throughout the country.

One girl can look after three churns at the same time. They have to be very carefully watched, and the temperature must be kept exact. The churn must be stopped the moment the butter is ready, otherwise it may be easily spoiled by being "overworked."

It takes 5 or 6 kilos., or about 11 lbs. of cream to turn out 1 lb. of butter. Of course very rich cream yields more; but this is the average when milk is used from many different farms.

The girl knows the moment the butter is ready by looking at the particles hanging to a stick suspended in the churn.

The butter in Denmark is seldom washed, it being believed that it loses its fine aroma thereby. Where it is washed, the strainer holding the mass is merely passed through a tub containing water which has been thoroughly boiled, and the water thus passing over the butter clears away any particles of buttermilk without washing the butter too much. When taken from the churn the milk is usually only shaken out of the butter through a sieve; then it is laid on huge wooden troughs, where scrupulously clean girls knead the first milk out of it with their hands. Then it is passed on to a "machine butter worker," where it is further manipulated with wooden hands. This accomplished, salt is dredged over it. About 30 grammes, or 1 to 1 1-2 ounces, of salt to 1 kilo. (2 lbs.) of butter. Butter for distant export requires a good deal more salt than this, and butter for the colonies, that has to be packed up in tins, is still more salted, and is also compressed before packing

THE SECRET OUT

THE secret is out. The Government Insurance Blue Books have revealed it. The facts of the case will prove of real value to all those seeking a company where permanent satisfaction can be secured under a Policy of Life Insurance. The telescope has been turned upon those who withdrew from various prominent companies in 1894.

It is obvious to any one that the proportion of persons who lapse or surrender their policies in any company is a fairly good test of the satisfaction or dissatisfaction existing therein. If policy-holders are receiving satisfactory profit results, if they are being honestly and honourably dealt with, if they cannot do better elsewhere, then it is plain these facts will show themselves in the small number who surrender their policies or allow them to lapse.

To test these conditions, and to discover the company that is giving greatest satisfaction to its policy-holders, as evidenced by their determination to continue their policies, we have made an analysis of the facts, as reported in the blue books containing the business for 1894 of the leading Canadian Companies. We have calculated the ratio per cent. of assurances surrendered to the average business in force in 1894 also the ratio per cent. of assurance lapsed to the average business in force. Intending assurers have here an inside view of Life Assurance that is full of significance. When a company stands out so prominently as does the CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY in this test, it means that its merits are known and recognized by those who become connected with it.

This is but another of those numerous tests in which the CANADA LIFE shows its superiority.

The following table tells the whole story :—

COMPANY.	Per Cent. Surrendered.	PerCent. Lapsed.	Per Cent. Lapsed and Surrendered.
CANADA LIFE	.70	2.10	2.80
Confederation Life	2.33	4.65	6.98
North American	1.73	6.97	8.70
Ontario Mutual	2.51	6.59	9.10
Sun Life	2.63	8.54	11.17

The above figures are compiled from the Dominion Insurance report, issued by the Superintendent of Insurance, at Ottawa.

Once more, and as usual, the CANADA LIFE COMPANY comes out on top.

COMPARE

The following two Peterborough results with anything else of the kind in existence in the town. Other companies promise, we perform. That is the great difference.

POSTING LETTERS.

Something About Unstamped Letters.

The rush of business and absent-minded moods are responsible for many letters being posted without stamps. But the number is not so great as would be expected. Of the 800 or 900 letters posted at the Peterborough office daily only about one-tenth of one per cent. is posted without the necessary stamp. The weather or some other general cause seems to influence the senders of letters. Some days there will be five or six unstamped letters slipped into the box, while on the other hand, for days no unstamped letter will be found. When envelopes printed with the address of the sender are used unstamped letters are promptly returned; when no such clue to the identity of the sender exists the unstamped letter is sent on at once to the Dead Letter Office and the sender of an important communication may have to wait for days before he finds out why an usually prompt correspondent has failed to reply.

A CASE OF SUICIDE.

A Victoria County Woman Deliberately Takes her Life.

On Sunday night Mrs. Jas. McKenzie, of the township of Dalton, Victoria county, went to bed as usual, but some time during the night she got up unnoticed and went out, and in the morning she could not be found. A searching party was immediately organized, and after some time the body of the unfortunate woman was found in Head river in about 15 inches of water. Evidence was quite clear that it was a case of suicide. It appears that she had several times before threatened to "do away" with herself, but the family thought nothing of it. Deceased was the widow of the late James McKenzie, who died last June, and leaves seven children in almost destitute circumstances.

RUGBY FOOTBALL.

Letters have been received from Port Hope and from Osgoode Hall, Toronto, asking for games with Peterborough, and if the members of the local club will turn out for practice the management would be encouraged in bringing these outside teams to town. The Lornes, of Toronto, and the T. C. S. team also wish to come to Peterborough, but unless the men show up better at practice the matter will be dropped. A practice will be held on the P.A.A.A. grounds to-morrow afternoon at four o'clock, when some definite conclusion will be reached as regards inviting these teams to town.

Thefts Near Keene.

A Keene correspondent writes: This locality is getting excited over the large number of thefts lately. Several farmers have lost large quantities of grain and poultry without number. The vicinity of Lang has been especially bad during the last few months, and the people are now bound to put a stop to it. On Tuesday night of last week a robe and other things were stolen from a rig in the shed while the owner was at an entertainment, and then the horse and rig turned out on the road to get home the best way it could.

The Wabash Railway Trains

running every day in the year between Detroit, Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City are the finest known to the railway service; they are complete and solid vestibuled from end to end, the entire train being a moving palace of connected apartments, all furnished with the most luxurious elegance and perfection of accommodation known to car builder's art. They include free reclining, palace, sleeping, and dining cars of the latest and best patterns. Call on or write any railway agent for tickets and all information, or address J. A. Touching Up This Territory Triumphantly!

TOUCHING IT UP FOR ALL IT IS WORTH!

Covering bigger and better values than ever in the annals of the Clothing trade of the country. Wake up and walk up. Here we are opening the Fall Trade in Clothing, Boots and Shoes, Hats and Caps. We are ten years on deck and have seen many a sale go down on the business horizon. We are now on our eleventh annual trip, better than ever prepared to bring bargains to your doors, to clothe the poor man with the rich man's dress, and all the same low bed rock prices as of yore. For ten years we have made ten years of progress. Our knowledge of the trade has grown and our ability to supply your wants. Not only are our stores the known and recognized headquarters for the Clothing Trade of the country, but one of the distinguished attractions of the town. Far and near our fame has spread until our names as traders is as familiar in the homes of the County as a red waggon on the township concession lines.

WHAT THE HUNTERS ARE DOING.

The Bernett Party Returns With Three Fine Deer.

Messrs. George and John Bennett, Will Brine and Dixon Best all returned last evening from Stony Lake, where they have been hunting from Bennett's Lodge. Three very fine deer were secured.

Word was received in town this morning to the effect that the LeBrun-Strickland hunting party had already secured five deer, three of which are described as being the finest bucks brought down in years from the north country. Mr. George Hatton is credited with shooting two of them.

Messrs. R. Adams and R. Rae went down near Campbelltown yesterday and were successful in shooting seventeen black squirrels. They were on exhibition in Winch Bros', butcher shop last evening and attracted a good deal of attention. Mr. Will McCallum purchased 15 of them.

Sam Ray and his party are too far back for any news of them to be received until their return.

A party of eight left on Thursday morning last for the deer hunt at Jack's Lake. The party consisted of W. H. Casement, reeve, and Dr. Fraser and Wm. White of Lakefield; J. J. Crowe, license inspector, Richard Crowe, councillor, Jacob White, treasurer, and Christy Crowe, of Dummer, and M. McGregor of Norwood.

SOME DIOCESAN ITEMS.

A Fire in Burnley—The Late Father Quirk's Residence to be Re-built.

The outbuildings occupied as stables by the Rev. Father O'Connell, parish of Burnley, and owned by the Roman Catholic Episcopal corporation of the diocese of Peterborough, were destroyed by fire recently. No insurance on buildings. Loss on contents, $100, covered by insurance.

Forty-one years ago this winter, the material was drawn, and the following summer was built the first brick dwelling erected in Hastings. We refer to the house so long occupied by the late Rev. Father Quirk, now being torn down to be replaced by a handsome structure next summer. Our Catholic friends seem to be throwing much energy in the advancement of the interest of their church and deserve much credit.

SHELLED EGGS BY THE CAN.

A Pointer for Canadian Egg Farmers.

Russia is finding quite a profitable industry in exporting to England for the use of cooks, bakers, hotels and restaurants, eggs emptied from their shells into tin cans, which are hermetically sealed and packed with straw into wooden cases, the taps through which the contents are drawn being added by those using them. Each can holds 1,000 eggs or more. Great care is necessary in selecting the eggs, as a single bad one would spoil the whole lot. Russia is meeting with much success, for eggs from there reach London in excellent condition, but shipments from Italy have been frequently spoiled. It is just possible that Canada might be able to successfully ship eggs prepared in this way.

THE WORLD'S WHEAT CROP.

The Hungarian Government's estimate of the world's wheat crop in 1895 is 2,402,671,000 bushels. Of this tremendous quantity Russia produced the greatest amount, 415,053,000 bushels; United States, 400,000,000; France, 301,000,000; India, 237,456,000; Hungary, 150,861,000; Italy, 114,803,000; Great Britain produced only 40,811,000; and Canada 50,000,000 bushels. These estimates are generally accepted in commercial circles as reliable.

RIVER AND LAKE ITEMS.

The Logging Operations Now Over for the Season.

All the steamers are now at the wharf and will be hauled out for the winter in a few days.

The repairs at the locks are quite completed.

The tail of the big Gilmour drive has now left Rice Lake and is on its way to Hastings down the river Trent. This closes the logging operations for the season.

See if it Won't Work a Miracle.

Thousands have been benefited by Wilson's celebrated Invalid's Port. While it soothes, it strengthens; while it makes a pleasant drink, it at the same time builds up the run down system. For Wilson's Invalids' Port is a fine old generous wine, full bodied, which is guaranteed to make blood, and to add a new feeling of strength and hope to the hypochondriac. It is a great deal more valuable than the ordinary tonics, for while it sharpens the appetite it at the same time has the power to make new flesh and muscles. All over the country this wine is in demand, replacing many of the worthless nostrums, which have been impudently called tonics and blood makers. A big bracing tonic. Sold by all dealers at $7.50 per case of 12 quart bottles half case $4 or 75 cts per bottle. Address, Bordeaux Claret Co., 30 Hospital street, Montreal.

Doctors recommend Norway Pine Syrup because it is the best cure for coughs and colds. Price 25c. and 50c. at druggists.

DIRECT IMPORTER,

ISN'T IT QUEER

How some people can afford to give away valuable articles of household furniture and jewelery with their goods, and at the same time publicly proclaim that their goods are marked down to the "lowest living profit" or "half their regular value?"

Some of our lady customers have asked us why we can't do the same thing. We have to tell them frankly "we can't afford to do it—the small profit we have on our goods gives them better every day value than the "scheme" merchant has to offer them."

It's a Mistake

To suppose that anybody can sell you two dollar's worth of goods for one dollar.

IT'S A MISTAKE to suppose that you can get the BEST value in goods and have a gift thrown in. The gift costs money.

If you don't wan't to be humbugged into paying for something you don't want buy the goods right, without the gift, which you can always do at this store. We allow no margins for gifts,—that's settled. But you can buy from us just now

Gloves and Hosiery

There is perhaps nothing a lady is more particular about than her Gloves and Hosiery, for herself and family.

Some six months ago we were looking ahead and placed large orders in European factories for this fall's trade. In doing this we get closer prices and have the goods made to exactly suit the Canadian trade; being careful to have the fingers proportionate length, the cuffs to suit dresses, and neatly stitched backs. We have light weights for early fall wear, and heavier for winter. As we select our own cloth there is none better for wear.

See the extra nice Glove we can give you for 25c a pair.

Other lines as low as 10c and upwards to 50c.

In Cashmere Hose we have selected both medium and extra heavy weights, in plain weave and soft finish, one and one ribs for both ladies and children. Two and one ribs, made of extra heavy Scotch and Canadian yarns for boys who wears knickers, also a full range of a heavy make from 10c a pair for children's to 15c for ladies.'

THE DOCTOR WAS TO HAVE A FAT FEE

Revelations in the Alger Case—Dr. Francey Admits That He Made a Favorable Report on Mrs. Alger's Case, Though He Knew She Had Consumption.

Whitby, Nov. 8.—The preliminary investigation into the charge of conspiracy to defraud the Equitable Life Insurance Company, preferred against George Elisha Alger, of Pickering township, was opened here to-day before Major Harper, P.M. The circumstances of the placing of the insurance of $7000 in the Equitable Life Insurance Company on Mrs. Alger's life, when she was in a dying condition, her death on Aug. 13, and the exhumation of the body in the Brougham Cemetery on Sept. 10, and the subsequent action on the part of Alger to compel by civil process the payment of the policy, resulting in the arrest of Alger, are still fresh in the minds of the public. Since his arrest Alger has been incarcerated in the county jail, his solicitors having been unable to find among the wealthy farmers of Pickering two men who were willing to give their bonds for $1500 each for Alger's appearance at the proper time.

The developments have caused no small sensation throughout the county and more especially in Pickering township, where the relatives of Mrs. Alger stood high in the public estimation, her father having for many years been entrusted with responsible municipal positions. The end is not yet, however. Provincial Detective Murray has been working assiduously on the case since suspicion first arose, and has come into possession of information that will lead to the arrest of other parties, some of whom are in positions of public trust, wealthy and highly popular among all classes of the community. The attempt to defraud the insurance company and realize wealth by the death of Mrs. Alger is only one of several cases of a like character, the details of which will be placed before the public within a few days.

Encouraged by their apparent success in the Alger case, and urged on by their greed of easily acquired wealth, it is alleged that the conspirators, if such they are, were going into the business in a wholesale plan. Since Mrs. Alger's body was exhumed the Equitable Life Insurance Company have found it necessary to cancel several policies that were already paiced in that section of the county, besides cancelling some applications that were pending. In one instance an application had been made for a policy on the life of a woman who is said to be dyeing of consumption. It is alleged that she was approached on the subject of life insurance, but drove the parties from the house, at the same time declaring that she was not going to be a party to a transaction that on the face of it was dishonest. Despite this, it is alleged that a fraudulent medical report was made out, the woman's name forged to it, and the documents forwarded to the office of the insurance company, where they lay when Mrs. Alger died, and the scheme was frustrated.

In his evidence before Magistrate Harper to-day, Mr. George Broughall of the Equitable Life stated that his company had canceled two policies on the life of A. E. Thornton of Whitevale, one each on the lives of Donald Beaton and J. H. Besse of Whitevale, and James Sadler, Greenwood. In all the cases the medical reports were signed by Dr. Francey. In speaking of the investigation to-day, Detective Murray said, "This is only the first of a number to be held." The agents in this district for the different companies interested in the alleged frauds, are Henry Trull, Oshawa the Equitable Life; M. Gleeson, Greenwood, the London and Lancashire; J. Hortop, Kinsale, the Ontario Mutual, and A. C. Brown, Uxbridge, the Home Life. Crown Attorney Farewell conducted the prosecution to-day, Alger being represented by G. Smith Macdonald, T. Herbert Lennox, C. Russell Fitch and S. Alfred Jones. Dr. Francey came back to Canada of his own accord, but was afterwards guaranteed immunity from arrest by the Attorney-General's Department.

Dr. Eastwood of Claremont, who for some years was Alger's family physician, was the first witness called. He had known Mary Ellen Alger, the deceased wife of the prisoner, for 7 years. At that date, 1888, consumption had begun to show itself. From that time she gradually grew worse, her lungs being affected with almost every weakness those organs were subject to. Alger was fully acquainted with the condition of his wife's health and the nature of the disease from which she suffered. During the latter part of the year 1894 he attended her regularly. The witness was in Alger's house one day about that time examining Mrs. Alger for insurance in the London & Lancashire Insurance Company. Alger told the witness at that time that Mrs. Alger's life was already insured in the Equitable for $7000, but she did not know it. Alger then asked him to make a favorable report, "the same as Dr. Francey did."

In December, 1894, Mrs. Alger was very ill and growing worse rapidly. The medical report appended to the application papers for the policy in the Equitable Life stated that there was no consumption in Mrs. Alger's family; that she was never affected with hemorrhage nor shortness of breath. These statements Dr. Eastwood said were all untrue.

Dr. Francey stated to the witness that he had given her health as good; her chest measurement two inches larger than it really was, and her weight at 20 pounds heavier than ever in her life.

T. H. Lennox, who cross-examined the witness on behalf of the defence, wandered afield with a wealth of irrelevant detail that wearied the court, and utterly failed to confuse or discredit the witness, the only apparent object of it. Dr. Eastwood said that in his desire to please Alger and at the same time prevent fraud, he made out a favorable report in the presence of Alger and then wired to the insurance company to reject the application. Alger said that if Mrs. Alger died in a short time, the witness, as family physician, could say that she died of pneumonia. His object in making the examination was to prevent any other physician from doing so and thus perpetrate the fraud. After Mrs. Alger died the witness advised Alger to throw up the policy and come to a settlement with the Equitable Life.

The testimony of Dr. Eastwood was given in a manner that convinced those who heard it that he acted an honorable part throughout the whole transaction.

Dr. John Ferguson of Toronto reiterated the evidence given by him at the recent hearing of the case at Osgoode Hall. He gave a lengthy technical report, the sum of which was that the post-mortem examination placed it beyond doubt that death was due to tubercular consumption. Dr. Ferguson thought that the cause of Dr. Eastwood was perfectly justifiable under the circumstances in which he found himself. The general condition of the organs showed that the lungs had been diseased for a long time. The consumption was undoubtedly chronic.

Dr. Francey's story revealed the inner history of the plot from its genesis. The question of insurance on Mrs. Alger's life was first broached by Henry Trull, the agent of the Equitable, in Sept., 1894. The witness and Trull went to Alger's place and met the prisoner there. Nothing definite took place until a subsequent meeting of Alger and Francey in Whitevale. Francey told Alger that his wife was not in a condition to pass an examination for a policy. Alger agreed to pay the witness $1000 after Mrs. Alger's death, if they could insure her for $5000. Alger told the witness that Dr. Eastwood had told him that his wife was likely to die of consumption within a short time. Francey admitted that he knew he was doing wrong in passing Mrs. Alger. He told Alger that he was running serious risks in doing so, and would want a good thing for it.

The witness produced his books to prove his visits to Mrs. Alger. From April 23 to June 30 the visits were of almost weekly occurrence. The medicines prescribed were for weakness of the lungs.

One book was produced, from which the records of several entries of these visits to Mrs. Alger were erased, done, the witness said, to prevent the Crown from using them as evidence if the case came into the courts.

"I fixed them so that I could not translate them, and I knew nobody else could," said Francey.

Alger knew that a fraud was being perpetrated, and the witness frequently told him before the examination was made that if the policy was secured and the case was likely to come into the courts the policy must be thrown up, as it was "a glaring fraud." The matter was discussed very frequently between the witness and Alger. Alger arranged that on a certain day when Trull and the witness were to come to have the examination made, all the children and hired help were to be away. This was done to prevent any person from learning that the insurance was being placed on Mrs. Alger's life. The witness said that Mrs. Alger was an innocent party to the fraud. The answers to the questions in the application for the policy in the Equitable Life were filled in by the witness in the presence of Alger, as a result of an arrangement between the witness and Alger. The understanding was that the witness was to make a good report and not let Mrs. Alger know what its purport was. The application was signed by Mrs. Alger.

In answer to Crown Attorney Farwell's question, "Was the medical report made by you an honest or a dishonest application?" the witness said that he could not imagine anything more dishonest. The first agreement was that the policy was to be for $5,000, of which the witness was to receive $1000. Francey feared that Alger might not pay over the $1000, and suggested that the policy be for $7000, of which the witness was to receive $2000, on which $2000 he was also to pay the premium. To allay the suspicions of the insurance company application was made to them to insure Alger's life for $3000. The application was rejected by the company after they found out that Alger was of intemperate habits. The witness became suspicious of Alger ever paying him the $2000, as agreed, and asked him for an assignment to that amount to take effect on the payment of the policies to Alger. Alger refused this, but paid the witness a portion of what he had paid as premium on the $2000. Before the premium was paid Alger hesitated about the payment of it, as he said his wife was not likely to live the year out. Francey told him he thought she was good for a year, and as it was risking a small amount to win a large stake, it would be better to pay it.

The possibility of placing still more insurance was discussed after the first policy was placed. The witness said that Mrs. Alger thought she had applied for only $1000, and was kept in complete ignorance of the fact that she had been accepted by the Equitable Company. When Alger suggested to her that she take out a policy in the London and Lancashire, she said that as Dr. Francey had rejected her for the Equitable, it would be useless for him to examine her for the London & Lancashire policy. This was why Dr. Eastwood was called in that case. Although a medical report fully certified was sent in to the Home Life Association for an application for $5000 insurance in that company the examination was never made. The blanks were filled out by the witness at the request of Alger. Mrs. Alger knew nothing of it, as she refused to have anything more to do with life insurance.

The witness could not say who signed Mrs. Alger's name to the application.

If the Home Life policy went through and was paid, the witness was also to receive $1000 of it. The application to the Home Life was dated July 25, and Mrs. Alger died on Aug. 13. Just before her death, when Alger realized that she was dying, he told the witness that the medical men down east, where Mrs. Alger died, had agreed to certify that death was due to dysentery. One of these medical men was Alger's brother. The application to the Home Life was discussed at that time and Alger expressed sorrow that the application had not been made earlier, as the policy would have been issued, and the money secured.

The doctor explained that he had hesitated somewhat about this application, as forgery was necessary to it. Alger seemed very hopeful about securing the money until the article headed "Graveyard Insurance" appeared in The Toronto World. The same day that the witness read this article he was called by wire to Stouffville, where he met Alger and Messrs. Macdonald and Fitch, his solicitors. He informed them that the medical reports appended to all the applications were entirely false, and the whole transaction fraudulent. The witness advised throwing up the Equitable policy and agreeing to any terms they might offer. The aplication to the Home Life was spoken of and Alger and his solicitors denied any complicity in it. The witness asked Alger if he did not remember that he offered the witness and Agent Hortop $150 to put the thing through. Alger denied this. The consultation ended in a decision to issue a writ against The World, and if that did not bring the Equitable to time, all litigation would be dropped.

The witness asked them to withhold the writ against The World for a month, to give him time to sell his practice and get out of the country, as he knew that trouble would result as soon as the writ was issued. Alger and his solicitors did not seem to entertain the same fears of the situation, and thought Francey was childish.

Francey here offered to tell of a very interesting and spicy conversation between himself and Messrs. Macdonald and Fitch, but as Alger was not present when it took place, the conversation was ruled inadmissible. As soon as the witness saw the second article in The World, starting with "a little nice poetry," he concluded it was getting too warm for him, and immediately took train for Buffalo. He came back of his own will to try and arrange a settlement between Alger and the Equitable Company.

An incident that throws a great deal of light upon the nature of these transactions is freely quoted in Pickering Township. When the application for the $5000 policy in the Home Life reached the Toronto offices of the company, it was noticed that the medical report was improperly made out. It was at once returned to Agent Brown to have the mistakes rectified. Brown was in Pickering village the day following his receipt of the returned papers, and while conversing with a merchant, a funeral passed the door.

"Whose funeral is that?" asked Brown.

"That is Mrs. George Alger, of Brougham," returned the merchant.

"It surely can't be," said Brown in surprise, "as I am carrying in my pocket an application for a policy for $5000 on her life."

The merchant assured him of the truth of his statement, and Brown at once wired his company apprising them of the death of Mrs. Alger.

Then followed the cross-examination of Dr. Francey by Mr. Lennox.

At 10.30 an adjournment was made to Friday next, at 10 a.m. Magistrate Harper refused to take bail.

THE GROOM CAME NOT.

An Officer of the Royal Irish Lancers Disappoints the Bride and Friends.

London, Nov. 8.—The wedding of J. A. Maclean, an officer of the Royal Irish Lancers, to a daughter of Mr. Seymour Fowkes, a Yorkshire landowner, which was fixed for this morning in All Saints' Church, London, was unavoidably postponed through the failure of the groom to appear at the time appointed and the large and fashionable throng which had gathered to witness the ceremony were obliged to depart in a disappointed frame of mind. The bride, with the bridesmaids, and page, waited at the church for the groom until the hour fixed for the wedding had passed and then departed for her home in great distress. Diligent search failed to discover any trace of the groom, and his valet upon being interrogated professed complete ignorance of his master's whereabouts.

BANKING IN AUSTRALIA.

The Amalgamation of Savings Banks Recommended by a Royal Commission.

Melbourne, Australia, Nov. 8.—The Royal Commission which was appointed to consider the matter of the creation of a state bank through the amalgamation of the savings banks has reported favorably on the subject. The commission's scheme contemplates the subdivision of the bank into four departments, viz., savings institutions, departments of issue, mortgage departments and branches doing a regular banking business, the last named being authorized to float Government loans.

THE WILY SULTAN.

His Policy is to Play the Powers One Against Another—Conspiracy Against Abdul Hamid.

London, Nov. 8.—A despatch from Constantinople to The Times says: The sole policy of the Sultan is that of playing off the powers against one another, a policy which he has pursued in many previous emergencies with success, but upon this occasion he is completely nonplussed by the unanimity of the representatives of the powers in pressing their demands.

The correspondent of The Times does not expect that there will be a fanatical outbreak against Christians. The danger, he thinks, lies in quite another direction.

Do You Tire Quickly?

Fatigue is the natural sequence of labor. If, however, it follows moderate or slight exertion it is the sign and evidence that the nervous system has lost tone and vigor, and requires assistance. Suicidal is a resort to stimulants, since these only increase the enervation. Aid cannot be obtained in this way, but through medication judiciously employed in restoring through the nervous system the digestive function, upon which primarily, health depends. The whole range of medicine fails to produce a preparation possessing in equal degree the tonic and nutritive qualities of Maltine with Coca Wine. By its action on the nervous system all the important functions of the body are stimulated and increased; the digestive process is performed efficiently and without discomfort, insuring the proper nourishment of the body. Maltine with Coca Wine is sold by all druggists.

CABINET HARMONY.

ANOTHER evidence is afforded of the harmony that characterizes the relations of the several ministers comprising the Cabinet. It is held to be impossible to reconstruct the Cabinet to make it approximately deserving of respect or confidence, while Sir Mackenzie Bowell is premier. This accounts for the circumstance of the members of the Cabinet desiring to bring about the Premier's decapitation. Of course they cannot directly tell him that his resignation would be a most graceful act, but they may manage to make his position so uncomfortable that he will be glad to step down and out. Great faith is put in the ability of Lieut.-Governor Chapleau, if he can be got to resign Spencerwood, to bring order out of the present Cabinet chaos, but it is well known that Mr. Chapleau will have nothing to do with a Cabinet that has Sir Mackenzie Bowell for its head. The making of Mr. Chapleau premier is on the books, but such an appointment would not be popular in Ontario. Hon. Mr. Haggart, who is a pretty large-sized thorn in Mr. Bowell's side, is using all his efforts, it is said, to discredit his chief, and make Dr. Montague premier. If Sir John Thompson were alive Mr. Chapleau would have no chance. His sentiments during his life as to the value he placed upon the boodling element of the party, will throw some light on the view he would take of the most approved measures now suggested for a reconstruction of the Cabinet.

An Ontario Conservative member of Parliament confirms the published report of the threatened resignation of Hon. Mr. Haggart, and of Sir Mackenzie's counter-threat, that if he did resign he (Sir Mackenzie) "would call in Laurier." Altogether there is a great deal of trouble in the Dominion Cabinet at present, and the fate of a house divided against itself is unpleasantly suggested thereby.

TORONTO Saturday Night is noted for the incisive nature of its "cuts" on the front page and for the beauty of its cuts on the inside pages.

THE Conservatives in Montreal Centre are having great difficulty in getting a candidate. Aspirants for political immolation are scarce.

THE efforts of the Dominion Cabinet to reform itself are not so much in the interests of the country as to bring about a cohesion that will enable the members to continue hanging on to the spoils of office.

GOVERNMENT contractors are not the only persons that are made to sweat at Ottawa. The sweating system also exists in trade, as witness overcoats made $1.00 each and trowsers at 20 cents a pair. The "Song of the Shirt" never loses its applicability.

THE Conservatives of North Ontario hold a convention on Nov. 19th to nominate a Candidate to contest the representation of the riding, made vacant by the death of Mr. Madill, the former member. Dr. Don. Gillespie is mentioned as a probable candidate.

LIFE insurance is so valuable a means of providing for the dependents a man leaves to the world at his death, that no interpretation of the law can be too strict that aims at punishing those who resort to fraudulent practices to procure the benefit of life insurance, and thus tend to restrict the application of its beneficient provisions.

THE recent attempt in England of a young and pretty schoolmistress to carry Socialistic theories into practice to the extent of living with a labourer without any legal ceremony of marriage having been performed, is probable another instance of the mischievous tendency of some recent books. Such facts speak for themselves, and afford the strongest possible condemnation of the introduction into literature of the "free love" element.

FORTNIGHTLY CLUB COLUMN.

No. XXXVII.

"When the World was Young."

Some of the points raised in the discussion of the paper read at the last meeting of the club deserve a little consideration.

It has been urged by those who hold that man was evolved from some lower form of life, that his remains show not only that he was the contemporary of many extinct animals and, consequently, must have existed on the earth for ages, but that he was originally of a degraded type. His remains undoubtedly show that he lived at the same time as these extinct animals, but there is no satisfactory evidence as to the period at which they became extinct. In 1741 the Naturalist Steller was wrecked on Behrings Island. There he found, in enormous numbers, an immense aquatic beast, the rhytina, a peaceful, harmless animal, living on sea weed. There is not one of these animals now in existence, the last survivor having been killed in 1768. The great auk, now extinct, survived till 1844. New Zealand was inhabited, until recently, by a number of species of gigantic birds, some of them 11 feet high, all of which have disappeared. The buffalo, which roamed our western plains in countless thousands, has vanished within the last few years. The Danish archæologists estimate the date of the beginning of the early stone age at 3000 B.C., and that of the later stone age at 2000 B.C., but one of the most eminent of them, Steenstrup, holds that these two periods were contemporaneous, and that the rude fisher folk, of the rough stone implement, lived side by side with the more polished and

RICHER MEN OF THE INTERIOR.

It might be interesting to note here that in one of the smaller museums of Denmark, that at Droholm, is a neat wooden house built by Danish carpenters, in the construction of which only the old stone tools were used. The book describing the work says that a carpenter of our day might well be in a worse plight than to be supplied with these tools.

There is, apparently, no trustworthy evidence of the existence of man on the earth for a longer period than 6,000 or 7,000 years.

The remains found do not indicate a low type either physically or mentally. Huxley, who examined the skulls, found in the drift deposit in France, says: "I confess I can find no character in the remains of the cranium (the Engis skull) which, if it were a recent skull, would give any trustworthy clue as to the race to which it might belong,—assuredly there is no mark of degradation about any part of it. It is, in fact, a fair average human skull. I may say that the fossil remains of man hitherto discovered do not seem to take us appreciably nearer to that lower pithecoid form, by the modification of which, he has probably become what he is."

Professor Virchow says in speaking of the human remains found in Switzerland: —"I have been able to submit to comparative examination nearly every skull that has been found. There is not one of them that lies outside the boundaries of our present population. At this moment we are able to say that, among the peoples of antiquity, no single one was any nearer the apes than we are."

A few words might be added as to the

of the ancient Egyptians, as brought out in the discussion. Their temples and tombs, as well as their system of canals, show that they were possessed of much mechanical skill and ingenuity and their ability to transport immense masses of stone, and to place them in position without the use of steam power, testifies to their engineering ability. One of the latest finds of Professor Flinders Petrie is that of a statue of Rameses II., the greatest builder the world ever saw, at Tanis or Zoan. This is a monolith of pink granite, 92 feet high, and which must have weighed at least a thousand tons and yet it was conveyed from Syene, where it was cut out out of the rock, a distance of over 600 miles, and appears to have stood on a pedestal about 30 feet in height.

In the museum at Cairo stands the oldest statue in the world, representing Prince Ra Hotep and his consort, who lived and died probably a thousand years before Rameses. Professor Petrie says this statue has never been surpassed in Egypt and few other countries can show anything to rival it. It is cut out of the rock and coloured; the prince a rich brown, the lady somewhat lighter colour, the colouring being as fresh as when laid on, over five thousand years ago. The eyes are inserted and are made of rock crystal, with the iris of some darker stone set in a metal disc. The life-like appearance is startling, and when it was discovered some years ago in the tomb, the natives, who were assisting, fled in terror. Prof. Petrie says: "We seem to be in their very presence and yet they knew nothing of all that which is to us

LONG PAST HISTORY.

The foundations of the great pyramids had not been laid and Abraham was yet unheard of for centuries."

On the walls of the passage leading into this tomb are sculptured life-size figures of the prince and princess and their sons. Their servants leading cattle, or engaged in hunting, fishermen dragging nets, two men, carrying hung between them on an oar, a monstrous fish, they, doubtless, concocting in their minds a still more monstrous fish story, peasants are ploughing, boat builders making a papyrus boat, rows of servants with baskets of fruit, and jars of wine and oil from one of the farms, and in the midst of all sit the prince and his fair wife, Nefest, "the beautiful."

The writer of the paper spoke of the recent origin of the theory of man's evolution as having been promulgated within the last forty years. He surely is in error. Catlin in his "North American Indians," tells us that the Crayfish clan of the Choctaws were originally crayfish, and lived under ground, coming up occasionally to the surface. Once a party of Choctaws smoked them out, and treating them kindly, taught them the Choctaw language, and how to walk on two legs. They then made them cut off their toe nails, after which they admitted them into the tribe.

"Kirkfield, Nov. 9.—A letter appearing in a Toronto paper from Mr. Duncan McKenzie, a well-known mill owner and lumberman here, also a brother of the president of the Toronto Street Railway Company, stating that he had been cured of diabetes by using Dodds Kidney Pills after the best medical skill procurable had failed:—The publication of this letter by the proprietors of the medicine, to which, as he states, he owes his life, was authorized, but with no idea that he would be embarrassed by such a flood of inquiries.

In order to relieve himself of the pressure of so much correspondence, your correspondent has been requested to wire the facts to the public press, his statement being as follows:

"That having diabetes and failing of medical health, and that being advised of his probable early death, he was putting his affairs in final shape, when he was induced to try Dodd's Kidney Pills as a last resort, and which he did with the success stated in the letter. That he thus publicly endorses the statements made in the letter, and that he gratefully acknowledges the means of his recovery; also that this despatch is intended as his respectful reply to all concerned."

No other medicine or treatment in the world has ever been known to cure diabetes except Dodd's Kidney Pills.

HIGH-CLASS TAILORING.

408 GEORGE STREET.

The large number of orders we have received during the past month is evidence that the people of Peterborough, as well as out-lying, have "caught on" to our great stock of which is really the best ever imported to this town. Over four hundred different samples to choose from, including West of England Cloths, English Venetians, French Worsteds, Irish Serges, Scotch and Canadian Tweeds, etc, etc.

We desire to call special attention to our Overcoatings, in Meltons, Beavers, Cheviots, Tiblets, etc, etc. We have also had made up expressly for our own trade a large number of which we will sell as cheap, if not cheaper, than any house in Peterborough, style and finish taken into consideration. We don't quote prices, but ask you to look at these Overcoats and satisfy yourselves as to the truth of our statement. Then you will buy.

In Gent's Furnishings, Hats and Caps, we have everything you need, and all up-to-date, which we can afford to sell cheap as we buy for cash. Call and inspect them.

CONSUMPTION CONQUERED.

A P. E. ISLAND LADY RESTORED TO HEALTH.

Attacked with a Hacking Cough, Loss of Appetite and General Feeling of Lassitude—Pink Pills Restored her Health After Doctors Failed.

From the Charlottetown Patriot.

Times without number have we read of the wonderful cures effected by Dr. Williams Pink Pills, but generally the testimonials telling the tale had laid the scene in some of the other provinces. This time, however, the matter is brought directly home, and the testimony comes from a much respected and Christian woman. Miss Sarah Strickland, now residing in the suburbs of Charlottetown, has been married many years, and blessed with a large family and although never enjoying a robust constitution had, until a year ago, been in comparatively good health. About that time she began to feel "run down," her blood became thin and a general feeling of lassitude took possession of both her mind and body. Her family and friends viewed with alarm the gradual development of her illness, and when a cough—at first incipient, but afterwards almost constant, especially at nights—set in, doctors were summoned and everything that loving, tender care and medical skill could do was resorted to in order to save the affectionate wife and mother, whose days appeared to be numbered. Her appetite was almost completely gone. Food was partaken of without relish, and Mrs. Strickland was unable to do even the ordinary lighter work of the household. She became greatly emaciated and in order to partake of even the most dainty nourishment, a stimulant had at first to be administered. While this gloom hung over the home and the mother sorrowfully thought of how soon she would have to say farewell to her young family, she was induced by a friend to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Though utterly discouraged, and almost disgusted with medicine, she yielded more in a friendly way than in a hopeful spirit. After using the pills for a short time a gleam of hope, a wish to get well again took possession of her and the treatment was cheerfully continued. It was no false feeling but a genuine effort nature was making to re-assert itself, and before many boxes were used the family were joking their mother on her appetite, her disappearing cough and the fright she had given them. The use of the Pink Pills was continued for some time longer and now Mrs. Strickland's elastic step and general, excellent health, would lead you to imagine that you were gazing upon a different woman, not one who had been snatched from the very jaws of death. She was never in better health and spirits, and no matter what others say she is firm in her belief that Pink Pills saved her life and restored her to her wonted health and strength.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are an unfailing cure for all troubles resulting from poverty of the blood or shattered nerves, and where given a fair trial they never fail in cases like that above related. Sold by all dealers, or sent postpaid at 50 cents a box, or 6 boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont., or Schenectady, N.Y. THE HYAMS TRIAL.

Expressman Fox Under Fire Nearly All Yesterday.

BOTH MR. LOUNT AND MR. OSLER

Take a Hand in Questioning the Witness—Ladies Show an Interest in the Case—Dallas Hyams Called From the Box to Show His Small Stature.

Toronto, Ontario, November 9.—The fourth day of the Hyamses murder trial was not productive of much that was new or much that was particularly interesting to the spectators, but it succeeded in disposing of the testimony of Expressman Fox, which, while practically free from sensational-ailrms, was of the utmost importance, and that of Walter Davenport, an assistant of Undertaker Humphrey at the time of the killing of Willie Wells, who gave some important testimony concerning the wounds on the head and face of the dead boy.

Mr. Fox appeared to be somewhat in the nature of an unwilling witness for the Crown. It was apparent during the nearly nine hours that he was on the stand that he disliked making statements that would tend to injure the cause of the defendants, but it cannot, in truth, be said that he withheld any information when called upon to testify on certain matters. In the hands of Mr. Osler yesterday afternoon in redirect examination, the big expressman told many things that tended to offset the favorable impression he had made for the defence, while under a thorough cross-examination by Mr. Lount, senior counsel for the twins. On the whole it would appear that the Crown had found rather a good witness in Mr. Fox.

Despite the dulness of yesterday's proceedings, there was a goodly attendance of spectators in the court room throughout the day, the afternoon coming in for the lion's share of the crowds. As usual in murder trials of more than passing moment, the ladies are taking a decided interest in the progress of the suit against the natty little twins, and yesterday afternoon there were no less than 30 representatives of Toronto's femininity in the court room; some in the gallery, others in the body of the room, while a few found seats within the railings.

The morning session afforded to the spectators the only really dramatic scene that has occurred during the present trial. It came immediately after Expressman Fox had testified that only a big strong man would be able to dislodge the ponderous weight of the elevator, should it become caught in the course of its travels up and own the weight shaft. Mr. Lount called upon Dallas Hyams to take up his position alongside of the burly Fox, immediately in front of and facing the jury box. As the little man, pale and serious, stepped out of the dock, the cynosure of all eyes, and stood up unflinchingly within arm's length of the twelve men who are so shortly to take his life into their hands; a death-like silence stole over the room and probably not a breath was drawn until the trim little prisoner had rejoined his brother in the dock. It was quite a coup on the part of the defence, but its effect was probably greatly reduced when, later in the day, Mr. Fox admitted to the crown prosecutor that the brothers had frequently taken off and changed the elevator weights in his presence.

Expressman Fox was on the stand until 4 o'clock. Mr. Lount cross-examined him until lunch time and then Mr. Osler took him in hand. The whole of this testimony was upon the subject of the elevator and fixings, and the only point of special interest was the statement that the Hyams' Brothers had at different times changed the elevator weights in his presence.

The next witness called for the Crown was Walter Davenport, a young man employed by Undertaker Humphrey, who, on the morning of Jan. 16, 1893, was despatched to the Colborne-street establishment by his employer.

To Crown Attorney Curry, Davenport said when he entered the building he found Humphrey, Fox and others present, and the body of young Wells stretched out on the floor. The witness said that the body was lying southeast of the elevator, with the head about a foot or 18 inches from the weight shaft, and about two feet from the west wall of the building. The weight was leaning against the southeast corner of the elevator shaft on the east face. Witness saw a pair of spectacles lying either on the weight or on the shaft of the elevator. The glasses were badly bent, particularly the right rim and the right glass was broken out. When witness first saw the body it was lying on the back and partly on the side, the head being inclined so as to show the right side plainly.

The head was fearfully smashed, being crushed from the right to the left, and there was a deep cut over the right eye. Witness unfastened the deceased's collar and got some water and prepared to wash the blood from the face. He assisted in carrying the remains over to another portion of the room. There were gloves on Wells' hands at that time. I took one of them off and I think Fox took off the other; then I washed the face of the dead boy, after which Humphrey, Fox and I put the body on the cooling board and carried it upstairs, where we halted a moment to fasten it more securely. We then put it in the wagon and I drove slowly to the store on Yonge-street, where it was taken out and I then drove to the stable.

That same afternoon witness stripped and cleaned the body. It was without injury below the neck. The neck appeared to be broken. In the right eye was found a piece of glass. There was a heavy bruise running along the right side of the head just below and around the ear. A wound about five or six inches was found at the back of the head, a large wound on the top of the head, and another in front, just above the forehead. he flesh about the wounds were very ragged and witness had to sew it up. When the body was cleaned and taken into another room the cut in the eye was filled with plaster of paris.

The cut over the eye was about two inches in length and half an inch wide. The right eye itself had been driven right into the eye. The left eye was slightly bulging and the nose appeared to be broken. When in the basement at Colborne-street saw a hammer and chisel lying on the ground.

In cross-examination the witness said that the circumstances surrounding the death of Willie Wells, as he knew them, were fresh in his memory.

Mr. Johnston took the witness all over his direct testimony, but failed to break him down at any point. The cross-examination was concluded at 5.15 and court adjourned.

Death Seamed Preferable to the Agonizing Pain.

Mrs. Roadhouse, of Williscroft P.O., Ont., writes: "I have used Dr. Agnew's cure for the heart since last fall, having taken in all nine bottles, and I now feel entirely like another woman. I am 54 years old, and have been troubled with heart disease for more than twenty years; sometimes for five hours at a time suffering such agony that death seemed preferable to the pain. The cold sweat would stand out in great beads upon my face. The Heart Cure gave me relief from almost the first dose and has proved a great blessing.

"You are at liberty to publish this letter if you think by so doing any good may be accomplished."

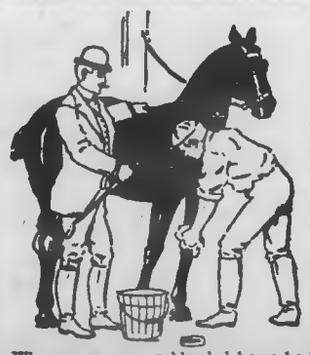
BERNARD R. POOLE

Veterinary Surgeon and Dentist



When a man owns a blooded horse he is always careful of its health. He looks after its diet and is particular that the feeding shall be regular and right. While he is doing this it is likely as not that he is himself suffering from some disease or disorder that if left to itself will go on and on till it develops seriously.

When the trouble gets so bad that he cannot work, he will begin to give himself the care he gave the horse at the start. The time to cure a disease is at the beginning and better than all is to so watch your health that disease will never come. Good, pure, rich, red blood is the best insurance against disease of any kind. Almost all diseases come from impure or impoverished blood. Keep the blood pure and strong and disease can find no foothold.

That is the principle on which Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery works. It cleanses, purifies and enriches the blood; it puts and keeps the whole body in perfect order. Makes appetite good, digestion strong, assimilation perfect. It brings ruddy, virile health.

"I got a cancer on my tongue and had it cut out. I consulted fifteen different physicians without deriving any benefit. At last I turned to Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. I persisted in its use and my health is better than ever before. Formerly every accidental wound I received began to fester, would not heal; now, such lacerations heal themselves."

Respectfully yours,

Peter J. Krocker

Nothing Hunts Out Corns

Like tight boots. Corns are very small affairs, but apply to them a pair of tight boots and all other concerns of life sink into insignificance. Tight boots and Putnam's Corn Extractor (the great and only sure cure for corns) may go together, and comfort will be their partner; but don't fail to use Putnam's Corn Extractor. Frauds, poisonous and dangerous substitutes are in the market. Beware of them. Poison & Co., proprietors, Kingston.

MARRIAGE OF AN OLD PETERBOROUGH BOY.

The Ceremony Performed in Montreal Last Week—He is Banquetted at the Windsor.

The Pembroke Standard contains the following notice this week concerning the marriage of Mr. L. F, LeMay, brother of Mrs. Thos. Dolan. Mr. LeMay is an old Peterborough boy and has many friends here, being employed for many years with the firm of T. Dolan & Co.:—

"On Tuesday of last week Mr. L. F. LeMay, who is the gentlemanly cutter at M. Shea & Co.'s, was married in St. Elizabeth's, Westmount, Montreal, to Miss Mary Swift, of Lancashire, England. On arriving in Pembroke on Thursday evening, the happy young couple were the recipients of hearty congratulations from the many warm friends which the bridegroom has made in Pembroke. The Pembroke Brass Band, of which Mr. LeMay was a valuable member, banquetted him at the Windsor House, and a very pleasant time was spent by those privileged to be present. We offer our hearty congratulations, and we trust that the union thus formed between two representatives of LaBelle France and Old England will be a long and prosperous one.

MISCHIEVOUS YOUNGSTERS.

They Throw Tomatoes and do a Lot of Damage.

Four small boys were up in the Police court this morning charged with wilfully damaging property.

It is alleged that the little rascals on the evening following Hallow'een, secured a number of rotten tomatoes and amused themselves in smashing them against doors and windows.

Mr. James McCreary, of Walton street, complains that the plate glass window in his front door was broken by the boys and that the tomatoes which were thrown in, considerably altered the pattern of a fine Brussels carpet. The same night the plate glass in the front door of Mr. Peace's residence, adjacent, was broken by boys with a large stone.

The case has been adjourned until Saturday next when it will be ascertained if the right lads have been found.

THE W. C. T. U.

The regular meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held on Monday, Nov. 11th, at 3.30 p.m., at the residence of Mrs. Paton, Brock street. Business of importance will be transacted and a large attendance is desired.

An Important Office.

To properly fill its office and functions, it is important that the blood be pure. When it is in such a condition, the body is almost certain to be healthy. A complaint at this time is catarrh in some of it various forms. A slight cold develops the disease in the head. Droppings of corruption passing into the lungs bring on consumption. The only way to cure this desease is to purify the blood. The most obstinate cases of catarrh yield to medicinal powers of Hood's Sarsparilla as if by magic, simply because it reaches the seat of the desease, and by purifying and vitalizing the blood, removes the cause. Not only does Hood's Sarsparilla do this but it gives renewed vigor to the whole system making it possible for good health to reign supreme.

Pictures, etc.,

At A. Clegg's. A line of pictures very cheap, not much more than half the regular price, and the balance of his stock of window shades in plain, fringed, lace and insertion will be cleared out at cost. Our stock of general furniture is now complete and is one of the largest in Canada; prices lower than ever.—A. CLEGG, 427 George street.

A Caution to Farmers.

Farmers should be careful in feeding potatoes to stock. In New York State there are numerous reports of loss of cattle by the too free feeding of potatoes. When the price dropped below 20 cents many farmers rufused to sell them and instead fed them to their cows and hogs. It is estimated that upwards of $1,000 worth of stock has died from this cause in Franklin county within the past two weeks.

A Shameful Practice.

Many tooth preparations coutain substances that speedily destroy the enamel and beauty of the teeth. For this reason the greatest care should be exercised in the selection of a dentrifice. Ivorine for the teeth is offered with the assurance that it is absolutely free from objectionable ingredients. An admirable cleanser is Ivorine, imparting dazzling whiteness to the teeth, firmness to the gums, and renders the breath sweet and fragrant.

The Saturday Market.

The market to-day was necessarily small on account of the inclemency of the weather, but a fair quantity of poultry was marketed. Prices were about the same as last Saturday. Chickens brought from 25 to 50c per pair and ducks from 50 to 75c. Geese sold at from 40 to 60c each, and turkeys were about twenty cents dearer. Crock butter is worth 15c per lb., and good rolls sold at 20c. Eggs have gone up to 16 and 17c, and potatoes are still at from 30 to 40c per bag.

Rev. Mr. Patterson, of Cooke's Church, Toronto, Will Lecture.

The Mission Band of St. Paul's church has arranged to have Rev. Mr. Patterson of Cooke's church, Toronto, lecture in Peterborough on Monday, Nov. 25th. It is thought that Mr. Patterson will speak on "Ireland and the Irish," and as he is one of the most scholarly and gifted Irishmen residing in Canada to-day, his remarks will prove most interesting. Any one who has ever had the pleasure of listening to Rev. Mr. Patterson's pulpits oratory will not miss this opportunity of again hearing him. The pastor of Cooke's church is one of the most popular divines in Toronto while his congregation is one of the largest in the city. A lecture by him would be sure to teem with interest, and the Mission Band is to be congratulated on securing so gifted and talented a lecturer.

"I Took One-Half Bottle of South American Rheumatic Cure and Obtained Perfect Relief"—This Remedy Gives Relief in a Few Hours, and Usually Cures in One to Three Days.

J. H. Garrett, a prominent politician of Liverpool, N.S., makes, for the benefit of the public, the following statement: "I was greatly troubled with rheumatic pains for a number of years. On several occasions I could not walk, nor even put my feet to the floor. I tried everything and all local physicians, but my suffering continued. At last I was prevailed upon to try South American Rheumatic Cure. I obtained perfect relief before I had taken half a bottle of the remedy, and to-day regard it the only radical cure for rheumatism." Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

RE-OPENING OF REV. C. B. KENRICK'S CHURCH.

THE BISHOP OFFICIATES—LARGE CONGREGATIONS.

Description of the Building—Rev. J. C. Davidson Present—Rev. Vincent Clementi's Gift.

(Port Hope Guide.)

Well nigh two months ago and it was our pleasure to chronicle the decision of the authorities of St. Mark's to restore their church. Since that time the building has been in the hands of workmen and last night it was solemnly rededicated to the worship of God by the Bishop of the Diocese. The dedication service was at 8 o'clock. By that time a very large congregation had assembled, completely filling the church. A few minutes later the choir filed into their places from the new chapel in the south transept and the service began.

The following were present: Rev. Rural Dean Allen, Millbrook; Rev. Canon Spragge, Cobourg; Rev. F. A. Rooney, Perrytown; Rev. G. H. Webb, Colborne; Rev. R.A. Bilkey, Bowmanville; Rev. J.C. Davidson, Peterborough; Rev. Dr. Bethune, Rev. G. H. Broughall and the Rector.

THE REGULAR EVENING SERVICE

was read by Rev. J. C. Davidson, of Peterborough. The special Psalms for the occasion were, Nos. 84—O, how amiable are thy dwellings, Thou Lord of Hosts; 122—I was glad when they said unto me, we will go into the house of the Lord, and 132. After the third collect, Simper's anthem, "I will feed my flock," was sung by the choir, and following this came the special prayers of dedication recited by the Bishop at the altar. After the singing of another hymn His Lordship ascended the pulpit and announced as his text, Haggai ii., 9, "The glory of this latter house shall be greater than the former, saith the Lord of Hosts." After referding to the circumstances under which the words were spoken and explaining in what sense the second temple was superior to the first, he proceeded to apply the subject to the Church of St. Mark's as now restored and renovated and heartily congratulated the rector and congregation on the great improvements which had been effected. Finally he reminded his audience of the great glory of the Church Triumphant in in Heaven over that now militant here on earth, and urged them so to live now that they might be able to rejoice in the restoration of the spiritual Church in its final glory in Heaven.

The offertory was devoted to the Restoration Fund, but no special appeal was made. Notwithstanding, the sum of fifty dollars was contributed, besides a number of sums offered towards the COST OF THE ALTAR.

After the final benediction by the Bishop the procession left the church in the same way it had entered.

A brief description of the building may not be amiss. Exteriorly the following improvements have been effected. The entire building has been covered with felt paper and new clap boards put on over it, thus largely increasing the thickness of the walls and the warmth of the structure. The tower has been raised six feet, the gables ornamented with crosses, a number of rotten sills replaced, the foundations strengthened, a cellar excavated for the furnaces and other improvements effected too numerous to mention. Entering the building the first change which strikes the visitor is the removal of the cumbrous staircases which blocked up the vestibule. This is now large and roomy with walls oiled and varnished in hardwood. But the most striking changes are to be seen in the interior of the church itself. The side galleries and more than half of the west gallery have been removed, the transepts have been screened off, one forming a chapel, the enlarged, the electric light introduced and the walls and ceiling handsomely decorated, the prevailing colours being blue and terrre cotta.

In the chancel much has been done in the way of improvement and enrichment. The pulpit has been raised and remodeled, and upon a handsome flight of oak steps stands the imposing new altar which won the admiration of all present. It is a massive structure of solid oak, the central portion of the uppermost slab being of stone. The retable above has two gradines upon which were arranged a number of brass vases filled with choice flowers. In the centre stands a magnificent cross, elaborately executed in brass, the gift of the Rev. Vincent Clementi of Peterborough. The reredos of carved oak, which is to occupy the wall space behind the altar, was not in position yesterday, and its place is taken by an effective arrangement of draperies which quite made up for its absence. This and the other articles mentioned

ARE ALL SPECIAL GIFTS.

We understand that the reredos will be erected before Sunday. The chapel on the south side of the church deserves a word of comment. This is an L-shaped room provided with altar, credence, prayer desk and organ, and will be used chiefly for week day services and meetings. At the west end of the nave stands the font, restored to its original beauty, surmounted by a canopy of carved oak, and resting upon a platform of the same material. A brass plate sets forth that it is a memorial to the little daughter of Mr. M. F. Smith.

We might give further information about the improvements in St. Mark's, but so much has been done and every detail so carefully studied and such numerous matters have received the attention of the restorers, it is impossible to fully describe what has been done. We will only add that the congregation will no longer suffer from the cold, the church being now provided with two powerful furnaces. The chapel can be heated separately from the rest of the church.

After the service the Rector entertained the clergy and church officials at supper at his residence.

On Sunday Rev. H. Symonds, of St. Luke's church, Ashburnham, will conduct the services in St. Mark's.

CHARGED WITH FORESTALLING.

But Proven "Not Guilty" and the Case Dismissed.

William Ward, an employee of Winch Bros., butchers, was before Mr. R. S. Davidson, J.P., acting police magistrate, this morning, charged with forestalling on the market.

It appears that Mr. Ward bought two beef tongues on the market, but, as he stated, they were for his own use and that he expected his family to move to Peterborough in a few days. He was discharged.

The charge was laid against him, as it was thought he was buying the tongues to sell again, in contravention of the by-law regarding hucksters.

THE NORTH WARD BRANCH

Of the George-Street Methodist Church—It is Progressing.

The work on the new branch of the George Street Church is progressing most satisfactorily.

The excavations for the basement have been completed and the foundations laid. On Monday it is expected that the uprights will be placed in position and the walls and roof will be finished as soon as possible, in order that the interior may be plastered and painted during the cold weather. The building is intended to be veneered, and accordingly the brickwork will not be commenced until the walls have been raised.

... OF OUR ...

Bargain Day Sale

HALL, GILCHRIST & CO.

We have been asked by a large number of our town customers to offer the same Bargains on Friday afternoon that we give on Saturdays, their reason being that owing to the enormous crowds attending these sales on Saturday from outside places they are unable to get waited on with any satisfaction.

We are pleased to grant this request as we have been unable (even with extra help) to wait on all the people wanting these bargains, and we think this extension will relieve us somewhat. On and after this week our Bargain Sale will commence EVERY FRIDAY at One o'clock p.m. and coutinue till 9.30 p.m. SATURDAY.

With a resident buyer in Europe and a viligant watch kept on the Canadian Markets, our syndicate is in a position to often buy clearing lines at, in many cases, less than it costs to manufacture them.

We are proving every week to those who have been wise enough to trade with us, that there is money saved to every customer who deals at our store.

Those Young Girls.

It is understood that the relatives of the two young girls who are held for trial, charged with having no visible means of support, will endeavour to have the Police Magistrate allow them to go home. The grandfather of the Hadden girl, of Millbrook, is in town to-day. This child is the step-daughter of the man who was given a sentence of six months in the Central Prison, here, last fall, on a charge of swindling people in connection with clothes-wringers.

Toronto World Says:

Max O'Rell's "A Cat's Paw" was presented at the Grand Opera House last night. The comedy deals with the adventures of a retired American glue merchant, in Europe, and is an adaptation of "Le Voyage of the Perrichon." The dialogue is breezy, and after the first act, which is rather slow, the action is bright and quick. The interest is cumulative, and sustained to the end of the piece, which is in three acts. Max O'Rell's genius is wholly that of a broad satirist. His hits on the types he has written of in "Jonathan and His Continent," are clever, and in Mr. Samuel Edwards, the comedian who plays the role of the glue merchant, who spells sea "see," he has an able and unctuous interpreter.

This company will appear in the Opera House here on Monday evening, Nov. 11.

PETERBOROUGH KEPT ON THE QUI VIVE.

THE ESCAPADES OF TRAMPS KEPT THE POLICE HUSTLING.

It is Doubtful if any Town is so Bothered with these Gentry, who Cannot, Apparently, be Scared Off

Peterborough seems to have been the centralising point for tramps of every description during the past season, and if the knights of the road have been of no other use they have furnished the newspapers with scores of items during the summer, when they figured in the police court, or chivvied constables along the railroad tracks in outlying districts. Their season is almost over, and many a tramp will petition for six months in a warm county gaol, where they are sure of three meals a day, before the winter is over.

As soon as the nights began to get frosty any tramps who were in the vicinity, were very prompt in showing up and making arrangements to register at the only hotel in the town which cares to accommodate them and their baggage.

On account of the numerous escapades which the the tramps have indulged in around Peterbrough, the species is always regarded with suspicion by the police, and every tough looking customer who enters the portion of the town patrolled by the guardians of the peace is dead sure of being run in as soon as his ugly mug is seen. The outlying suburbs, however, are infested with the nuisances.

It is interesting to drop in at the police station where the register is pretty full, as it always is after a storm day or a cold one and take a look at the people who are constantly getting the cold shoulder because they dislike work. If you call you must call early as the average tramp is no night hawk, but retires to rest almost with the chickens and rises with the sun to hustle for his breakfast. This is one of the drawbacks to the life of a tramp—early rising, but as it is a case of cold coffee if they are not around when the meal is in progress, His Trampship is early on the road. "Cold shoulder" oftener than cold ham, and sentences to gaol are all things which the tramp philosophically puts up with, and though he does his best to evade them, indulges in no complaint. But the early rising furnishes the tramp with a never-ending grievance.

DOGS, MEN WITH SHOT GUNS

There are different varieties of tramps, the careless tramp, the extravagant tramp, the thrifty tramp, the lying tramp and the truthful tramp. After their nationality, their age, religion, etc., is inscribed on the register they are shown their rooms by the bell boy and if they've had their supper, all right, if they haven't had, all right too. There are three rooms all on the first floor and they are lit with gas with other modern improvements. After the guests have looked around their new premises and assured themselves of a convenient fire escape and safety from burglars, the different characters of the tramp are at once manifested. The extravagant and careless tramp takes off his boots and throws them around, and sleeps with his clothes on; takes off his boots and places them where they will be convenient in the morning and if there is any holes in the stockings he has a needle and some yarn to mend them. Then he takes off his coat and vest and folds them neatly and puts them under his head; if there are buttons off they are carefully sewed on. They are at all times polite and are willing to answer questions, yet you are generally taxed a quarter or an old pair of boots, no matter about the size, for the information you get. Mostly all tramps tell you they will work if they can get it. They will say to you: "Give me a job and I'll show you." If you don't happen to be a railroad contractor or a millionaire they have the best of you and they are given the argument. There is always one in the gang who is willing to tell you that he never thought he would be in the position he is in now and how he left a good home and a good job just to see some of the world. He has seen much, but don't want to see any more. Another one will frankly tell you his chum is lying. That he never worked and never will. He evidently is the truthful tramp.

Very few are prohibitionists, although they stop at a temperance house, and what is lacking in facilities is made up in attention, and they depart only with pleasant memories of the landlord and his assistants.

A Great Book Free.

When Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N.Y., published the first edition of his great work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, he announced that after 680,000 copies had been sold at the regular price, $1.50 per copy, the profit on which would repay him for the great amount of labour and money expended in producing it, he would distribute the next half million free. As this number of copies has already been sold, he is now giving away absolutely free, 500,000 copies of this most complete, interesting and valuable common sense medical work ever published — the recipient only being required to mail to him, at above address, thirty one (31) one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only, and the book will be sent post paid. It is a veritable medical library, complete in one volume. Contains 1008 pages, profusely illustrated. The Free Edition is precisely the same as that sold at $1.50, except only that the books are in strong manilla paper covers instead of cloth. Send NOW before all are given away.

See if it Won't Work a Miracle.

Thousands have been benefited by Wilson's celebrated Invalid's Port. While it soothes, it strengthens; while it makes a pleasant drink, it at the same time builds up the run down system. For Wilson's Invalids' Port is a fine old generous wine, full bodied, which is guaranteed to make blood, and to add a new feeling of strength and hope to the hypochondriac. It is a great deal more valuable than the ordinary tonics, for while it sharpens the appetite it at the same time has the power to make new flesh and muscles. All over the country this wine is in demand, replacing many of the worthless nostrums, which have been impudently called tonics and blood makers. A big bracing tonic. Sold by all dealers at $7.50 per case of 12 quart bottles half case $4 or 75 cts per bottle. Address, Bordeaux Claret Co., 30 Hospital street, Montreal.

A NEW DAM ON SWAMP LAKE.

It Will Greatly Assist the Settlers in the Vicinity.

(Lindsay Post)

Foreman Geo. Delury and a gang of men have returned from Galway township, where they had been engaged for the past five weeks in building a dam at the outlet of Swamp Lake, at the head of Nogey's Creek. The dam has been rebuilt to replace an old one which was burned a year ago. It will greatly assist the settlers, (and was petitioned for) as it backs up the waters and gives a reserve supply for Nogey's Creek during the season for driving logs. The new dam is 80 feet long, 12 feet wide and 9 feet high, and is filled with stone to the top, making a strong and substantial structure. Mr. A. McDonald, of Peterborough, has a gang of men in the vicinity at present, under Foreman Maurice Dineen, who is buying all the logs the settlers can take out.

It may be interesting to note that Swamp Lake is about seven miles long, and in places is three miles in width owing to several deep bays.

NEWS FROM OTTAWA

Financial Statement for Four Months Just Out.

THE SUGAR DUTY SHOWS RESULTS

An Increase in the Revenue—The Proposed Subsidy to the Beaver Line—Sir Mackenzie Bowell on the Pacific Cable Scheme—Other Matters of Interest.

Ottawa, Nov. 8.—The statement of revenue and expenditure for the first four months of the current fiscal year, just issued, shows that the total revenue amounts to $11,787,964,as against $10,829,497 for the same period last year.

Expenditure totalled $8,007,542, as against $8,444,296 last year. Capital expenditure amounted to $1,421,714, compared with $1,510,950. The net debt, Oct. 31, was $250,585,201, a decrease of $83,000 in the month.

It seems to be the general impression in official circles that a subsidy will be given for a winter line of steamers between St. John and Liverpool. At any rate a draft contract is being prepared in the Departments. The proposition to grant a subsidy to the Beaver Line is being strenuously opposed by parties representing other interests. Messrs. John Torrance of the Dominion Line and Andrew A. Allan of the Allan Line had interviews to-day with the Premier, Sir C. H. Tupper, and Mr. Ives in opposition to the project. They represented that if anything is to be done towards developing a direct winter service to and from St. John, the companies which they represent and which have contracts for carrying the British mails should be given an opportunity to tender. The two gentlemen were informed that a final decision in reference to the Beaver Line proposal would be deferred until Tuesday to enable them to submit an offer. The St. John delegation left for home to-day.

The announcement that South and West Australia and Tasmania have decided not to be parties to the British Pacific cable project excited no surprise here. Indeed, it was fully expected, as all along indications have been pointing in that direction. The Premier, speaking to your correspondent to-night, said that a reference to the proceedings of the Colonial Conference would show that Hon. Thomas Playford, who represented South Australia at the conference here, frankly avowed his colony's opposition to the project. The reason, therefore, was easily understood. West and South Australia were intimately bound up with the Eastern Extension Company's system. Hundreds of miles of that company's line traversed those colonies, and they had a direct interest in seeing that the telegraphic business was kept up through their territories. He believed that by united action on the part of the Governments of Great Britain, Canada, Queensland, New South Wales, Victoria and New Zealand the desired end could be attained, and he hoped that within a very short period the cable would be in operation.

The customs cruiser Constance has done excellent work in the St.Lawrence and the Gulf this season. Three smugglers were captured and contraband to the value of nearly $20,000 secured. A very close patrol of the Gulf was instituted.

Overseer Pollock, in charge of the Lake Huron fisheries division, reports to the Fisheries Department that there have been excellent catches of fish in the lake this fall. He states, moreover, that the law is being well observed.

The Board of Customs completed its labors to-day. Chief Inspector McMichael and T. F. Blackwood, hardware appraiser, left for Toronto to-night. Appraiser Thomson of Hamilton, leaves for home to-morrow.

Shrewdness of a wellknown City Merchant.

HE KNEW WHAT WAS GOOD FOR HIM.

In winter when Canadians spend a large portion of their time indoors and cannot have the same variety of fresh food as in summer and fall, indigestion and dyspepsia afflict a majority. "If anybody will tell me that dyspepsia in its advanced stages is perfectly curable," said a Toronto merchant, "I will take his word. Personally I run no risks. As soon as I feel a sense of weight in the stomach, after a meal, I know that my blood is sluggish in circulation. In my business I cannot take much exercise, and I fight the first sign of stomach troubles with Scott's Sarsaparilla. It has never failed me, and has saved me many a doctor's bill."

Scott's Sarsaparilla possesses medicinal properties superior to all other so-called sarsaparillas made. As a remedy for indigestion, rheumatism, pimples, scrofula and all blood diseases, physicians state that its equal was never known. Sold at $1 per bottle, of all dealers.

NEW RECORD FOR THE FOURS

England's Crew Defeated the American Scullers at Austin.

Austin, Texas, Nov. 7.—An immense crowd witnessed the final contests between the American and English oarsmen in the great regatta to-day, and they saw the tail feathers of the American eagle plucked again.

The first event was the single-scull, three miles, one turn. The contestants were J. Gaudaur, Ras Rogers, Americans, and Bubear and Haines, English, for the world's championship and $1000. The course lay like a mirror, with scarcely a ripple on it.

A good start was made, Gaudaur taking the water first, and Rogers pushing along close behind him, but a little in the rear. Bubear and Haines evidently were intentionally not in it, and were dallying along to save themselves for the great four-oared race to follow. About the first quarter post Haines dropped out, and at the three-quarter Bubear beat a retreat, leaving the field clear to Rogers and Gaudaur. From the three-quarter post they got away together, but Gaudaur succeeded in turning the stake a half-boat-length in the lead. Down the course home both men did some beautiful work, Gaudaur keeping the lead and putting daylight between himself and Rogers, with a long, easy stroke of 33. He crossed the finish line about three boat lengths ahead; time, 21 min. Gaudaur's time over the same course last year was 20.49.

The second race was the greatest four-oared contest probably ever witnessed in America. It was a close and beautiful aquatic event, showing the result of careful, scientific training, and the world's record was broken. The oarsmen were:

England—Bubear, Barry, Haines and Wingate.

Canada and U.S.—Tremear, Rogers, C. Gaudaur and J. Gaudaur.

Both crews had loyal backers, and the English boys, in addition to their purse, pulled in several thousand dollars. The race was three miles, with turn.

The start was a perfect one, both crews taking water at the same time. The Englishmen gained slightly after a dozen or more strokes, and at the quarter stake led by a boat's length. From there on to the three-quarter stake the Englishmen, with a long, easy 38 stroke, widened the distance. The Americans strained every muscle, and came spinning after their English friends, but the latter made the turn for the homeward stretch at least three boat lengths ahead. It was apparent here that the Englishmen were going to win. Down the course the racers flew, the plucky Americans bending to their oars with hearty good-will. It was no use, however, the Englishmen gained at every stroke, and they were clock-like and beautiful, and when the quarter-mile post was reached the Americans practically went to pieces, and the Englishmen crossed the line two boat lengths ahead. It could have been a dozen had the Englishmen chosen. The time, 17.20½, broke the world's record. The race was for the world's championship and a purse of $1500.

It is conceded that the Americans had the best boat, best oars, best outrigged, but the Englishmen, in a four-oared shell, outclassed them in regularity and evenness of stroke. The English crew will hardly leave for New York before next week.

Langtry Wins the St. Leger.

Liverpool, Eng., Nov. 7.—The Liverpool autumn meeting began yesterday, with the Great Lancashire handicap, the 68th Liverpool St. Leger, and the Knowsley Nursery Stakes, as the features. Lord Ellesmere's brown colt Villiers won the Great Lancashire, with Sir R. Jardine's Fealer second, and Baron de Rothschild's Hardieur third.

The St. Leger, for 3-year-olds, was won by Mrs. Langtry's Bride of the Sea, with a dead heat finish between Wise Virgin and McNeil for the place. Col. Forrester's Arctic was first in the Nursery Stakes, with Imposition second, and Canterbury Pilgrim third.

Saugus, Mass., Nov. 7.—A large lot of lovers of light harness racing came out to Franklin Park to-day to witness the battle between Lady Watson and Benton M. This was an unfinished race from Tuesday, each starter, having won a heat. In the first heat to-day Benton M. broke at the three-quarters, letting the mare in an easy winner. The second heat was very closely contested, but when within three lengths of the wire Benton again broke, and lost the heat and race. Summaries:

CONTINUOUS SUFFERING UNNECESSARY.

One or two Doses of South American Kidney Cure will Give Relief in the Most Distressing Cases of Kidney Trouble.

It is a fallacy to argue one's self into the belief that suffering when it comes upon us must be patiently endured. Usually suffering can be removed, if one knows of the means and way. Much suffering is borne by those troubled with kidney disease. The distress at times is keen. But in South American Kidney Cure, a medicine that is a kidney specific, and nothing more though nothing less a sure, safe and speedy remedy, is to be found. Relief is sure in less than six hours. Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

Fort William, Ont.

Mr. William Day, of Fort William, Ont. says: Two years ago my wife was very ill with dyspepsia. No remedy that she could find gave any relief. Finally she tried Burdock Blood Bitters, and after taking six bottles was entirely cured. That is now more than two years ago and she has had no return of the malady. I also have had occasion to use B. B. B. and I cannot speak too highly in its favour. I always recommend it to my friends and in every case with good results. Yours truly, WM. DAY.

Rumoured Establishment by a Canadian Firm of a Branch in Albany, N. Y.

ALBANY (Special) Nov. 4.—The outcry in certain quarters against the high tariff still goes on, but it is to the tariff that Albany is likely to owe the addition of another industry to her numerous existing ones. A Canadian firm located in Toronto has, it is understood, been interviewed by an Albany business man, with a view to establishing in this city a manufactory of the staple kidney remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills. As the business done by the Canadian firm throughout the United States has assumed very large porportions, owing to the recognition by the American public of the great value of this staple, it is probable that arrangements will be satisfactorily entered into. The annual output is very large and is rapidly increasing.

DEAR SIR:—I have suffered from Eczema for two years; tried different kinds of medicine. I was at the hospital for some time, and was told there that all had been done for me that could be done. I ceased treatment at Christmas. After leaving the hospital I was under the care of a Hamilton physician, but got no relief. I have taken four bottles of Kootenay Cure, and I am now well and free from Eczema. Yours very truly,

WM. MARCHAM,

CANDY FOR CHILDREN.

The Popular Health Magazine says the desire in a child for candy and sweets is a natural one and should not be stifled. Good candy and sweets in moderation, not only do no harm, but are actually beneficial. Too much sweet upsets the stomach and spoils the appetite, but candy in moderation if it is not taken before a meal, is food which children crave naturally, and among the purest and most wholesome is that manufactured by

CANADIAN FOLK-SONGS.

Old Ballads That Were Sung Centuries Ago in Normandie and Provence.

French Canada is one of the ancestral homes of song. Here you can still listen to those quaint ballads which were sung centuries ago in Normandie and Provence. "A la Claire Fontaine," "Dans Paris y a-t-une Brune plus Belle que le Jour," "Sur le Pont d' Avignon," "En Roulant ma Boule," "La Poulette Grise," and a hundred other folksongs linger among the peasants and voyageurs of these Northern woods. You may hear

"Malbroucks f'en va-t-en guerre—Mironton, mironton, mirontaine!"

and

"Isabeau s'y promene
Le long de son jardin," chanted in the farm-house or the lumber shanty, to the tunes which have come down from an unknown source, and never lost their echo in the hearts of the people.

Our Ferdinand was a perfect fountain of music. He had a clear tenor voice, and solaced every task and shortened every voyage with melody.

"A song, Ferdinand, a jolly song," the other men would say, as the canoes went sweeping down the quiet lake. And then the leader would strike up a well-known air, and his companions would come in with refrain, keeping time with the stroke of their paddles. Sometimes it would be a merry ditty:

"My father had no girl but me,
And yet he sent me off to sea.
Leap, my little Cecilia."

Or perhaps it was:

"I've danced so much the livelong day,
Dance, my sweetheart, let's be gay,
I've fairly danced my shoes away,
Till evening.
Dance, my pretty, dance once more,
Dance until we break the floor."

But more frequently the song was touched with a plaintive, pleasant melancholy. The minstrel told how he had gone into the woods and heard the nightingale, and she had confided to him that lovers are often unhappy. The story of La Belle Francoise was repeated in minor cadences—how her sweetheart sailed away to the wars, and when he came back the village church bells were ringing and he said to himself that Francoise had been faithless and the chimes were for her wedding, but when he entered the church it was her funeral he saw, for she had died of love. It is strange how sorrow charms us when it is distant and visionary. Even when we are happiest we enjoy making music

"Of old, unhappy, far-off things."

"What is that song which you are singing, Ferdinand?" asks the lady, as she hears him humming behind her in the canoe.

"Ah, madame, it is the chanson of a young man who demands of his blonde why she will not marry him. He says that he has waited long time, and the flowers are falling from the rose-tree and he is very sad."

"And does she give a reason?"

"Yes, madame—that is to say a reason of a certain sort: she declares that she is not quite ready; he must wait until the rose-tree adorns itself again."

"And what is the end—do they get married at last?"

"But I do not know, madame. The chanson does not go so far. It ceases with the complaint of the young man. And it is a very uncertain affair—this affair of the heart—is it not?"

Then, as if he turned from such perplexing mysteries to something plain and sure and easy to understand, he breaks out into the jolliest of all Canadian songs:

"My bark canoe that flies, that flies,
Hola! my bark canoe!"

DAINTY DANDIE DINMONTS.

Something About Mrs. Peel Hewitt and Her Kennel Pets in England.

As a change from the taste for oddities in pet dogs—the Japanese spaniels, black pugs, and hairless Mexicans—it is pleasing to note that the sterling breed, the Dandie Dinmonts, are again the "pink of fashion," as household pets in England. One of the most famous kennels at the bench shows is owned by Mrs Peel Hewitt, who became an exhibitor by accident.

According to the Ladies' Pictorial of London, which also gives some fine pictures of the dogs, Mrs. Hewitt had kept the Dandies for years, but simply as pets and without a thought of silver cups and blue ribbons, when fate brought her to visit friends at Ayr, and the Ayr dog show came off while she was in the town. Her friends induced her to enter Tommy Atkins, the especial pet, and his excellencies were so much appreciated by the judges that he received first honors in a field of no less than 24 dogs. This was the beginning of fame, for Tommy and his companions have lately been seen among the prize winners at most of the large exhibits.

Tommy Atkins came into Mrs. Peel Hewitt's possession when he was only six months old, and until three years ago he was without a rival in her affections and ruled with undisputed sway the two little doggies of the opposite sex, who were his only companions in the house. Tommy, in the meridian of his days, finds the distinction thrust upon him a poor consolation for the ease of the old life and the presence of rival dog beauties. As his affectionate nature is balanced by a hot temper and a courage that fears nothing, he and Tartan Chief lead a regular "Box and Cox" life. Although in the same house, they never meet, taking their walks separately. Tommy is now six years old.

As the cuts show, Mrs. Hewitt's Dandies are compact, well-made dogs, with the very best of legs and feet, the latter of the beautiful tan so much to be desired. The shaggy coat, tousled on the head and fluffed about the shoulders, and the low bodies and muscled quarters are all good traits. Tartan Chief has only been six months in his present home, and during that time he has covered himself with the glory of many prizes. Another of Mrs. Hewitt's beauties, Yashmak, so called from the size and beauty of her eyes, is the mother of Edward Brook's Amphion, the first prize-winner at the Westminster Kennel Club show last February and the champion Dandie in this country. Mrs. Hewitt's kennel has sent a puppy by Tommy Atkins to Mrs. Frances Lowery of Johannesburg, who will introduce the breed in South Africa.

Women living in country houses in this country might find the breeding of pure-blooded pet dogs a pleasing and not unprofitable occupation for their leisure hours, and should Mrs. Peel Hewitt be their model, it will not check their social or household duties. Her kennels have every convenience, even electric lights, and adjoin her villa. The dogs are fed in about equal parts of meat, vegetables and some farinaceous food, and receive plenty of walking exercise, usually behind Mrs. Hewitt's dog cart on her morning drives. Mrs. Hewitt looks after every detail of the kennel management and has thoroughly healthy and happy little dogs. She began with Lady Betty, who, mated with Border King, bore in one litter Tartan King, Princess Jerry and Yashmak.—N.Y. Sun.

YASHMAK, MOTHER OF AMPHION, THE AMERICAN CHAMPION.

Daniel Cashman of Orillia Committed for Trial on a Scandalous Charge

Orillia, Ont., Nov. 7.—The police magistrate has committed Daniel Cashman for trial on a charge of corrupting little girls. His own bail was accepted in $1500 and that of one surety in $500. F. J. DeLany, one of the accused, on the same charge has joined several of his comrades in fleeing to the United States. A warrant is out for J. S. McNabb a telephone repairer, but he is also missing. Gill, Johnson and O'Brien, who are prisoners on the same charge, will be tried before Judge Ardagh at Barrie next Monday.

Catarrh in the Head

Is due to impure blood and cannot be cured with local applications. Hood's Sarsaparilla has cured hundreds of catarrh because it purifies the blood and in this way removes the cause of the disease. It also builds up the system and prevents attacks of pneumonia, diphtheria and typhoid fever.

Hood's Pills become the favorite cathartic with everyone who tries them. 25c.

My Baby

was a living skeleton; the doctor said he was dying of Marasmus and Indigestion. At 13 months he weighed only seven pounds. Nothing strengthened or fattened him. I began using Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites, feeding it to him and rubbing it into his body. He began to fatten and is now a beautiful dimpled boy. The Emulsion seemed to supply the one thing needful.

THE SECRET OUT

THE secret is out. The Government Insurance Blue Books have revealed it. The facts of the case will prove of real value to all those seeking a company where permanent satisfaction can be secured under a Policy of Life Insurance. The telescope has been turned upon those who withdrew from ..ku prominent companies in 1894.

It is obvious to any one that the proportion of persons who lapse or surrender their policies in any company is a fairly good test of the satisfaction or dissatisfaction existing therein. If policy-holders are receiving satisfactory profit results, if they are being honestly and honourably dealt with, if they cannot do better elsewhere, then it is plain these facts will show themselves in the small number who surrender their policies or allow them to lapse.

To test these conditions, and to discover the company that is giving greatest satisfaction to its policy-holders, as evidenced by their determination to continue their policies, we have made an analysis of the facts, as reported in the blue books containing the business for 1894 of the leading Canadian Companies. We have calculated the ratio per cent. of assurances surrendered to the average business in force in 1894 also the ratio per cent. of assurance lapsed to the average business in force. Intending assurers have here an inside view of Life Assurance that is full of significance. When a company stands out so prominently as does the CANADA LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY in this test, it means that its merits are known and recognized by those who become connected with it.

This is but another of those numerous tests in which the CANADA LIFE shows its superiority.

The following table tells the whole story :—

COMPANY.	Per Cent. Surrendered.	Per Cent. Lapsed.	Per Cent. Lapsed and Surrendered.
CANADA LIFE	.70	2.10	2.80
Confederation Life	2.33	4.65	6.98
North American	1.73	6.97	8.70
Ontario Mutual	2.51	6.59	9.10
Sun Life	2.63	8.54	11.17

The above figures are compiled from the Dominion Insurance report, issued by the Superintendent of Insurance, at Ottawa.

Once more, and as usual, the CANADA LIFE COMPANY comes out on top.

Large Numbers of Deer Being Taken Daily.

A large number of deer have already came down the Haliburton branch of the G.T.R. Eleven carcases were transhipped at Lindsay on Tuesday to Omemee.

The Millbrook Reporter says,—Mr. R. Ruddy has sent word that he shot a fine buck during the first days of his hunt back north. We can almost sniff the appetising flavour of the venison already, in anticipation of a good cut upon the Barrister's return.

The Gravenhurst Banner says: "It will be a miracle if there are no gun accidents on the west side of the lakes. A large number of lumbering hands are scattered over the ten mile strip of country between the Muskoka lakes and the Georgian Bay, where legions of deer hunters are pouring in from east and west."

Conductor John Britton and his son Arthur, have been making the feathers fly during their week's duck shooting on Sturgeon lake. They shot and brought home 133 fine birds. Mr. Brittion inherits the characteristics of the true sportsman, and his good luck is but the natural outcome thereof. Both he and his son are excellent wing shots, and the swiftest duck that flies would find it difficult work to pass within range and not fall a victim to the unerring aim of one or the other of these enthusiastic sportsmen. Ducks are reported plentiful, but wild and hard to get at. Conductor Russell took charge of Mr. Britton's train during his absence.

PRIEST AND PARISHIONER.

Miss Maggie Melody, of Hamilton, Used Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, on Recommendation of Rev. Father Hinchey, and Found it a Grand Remedy for Influenza.

Having himself been benefitted by the use of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, Rev. Father Hinchey, of St. Joseph's Church, Hamilton, Ont., followed the counsel of the good book, and carried the good news to others. One of his parishioners, Miss Maggie Melody, had been a sufferer from influenza. Father Hinchey knew how much good this remedy had done in case of cold in the head with himself, and recommended it to Miss Melody for her case, who, over her own signature, has written:—"I have used Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder for influenza and found it a great remedy. In fact it gave me relief almost at once. I can with pleasure highly recommend it to all who are suffering from this malady."

One short puff of breath through the Blower, supplied with each bottle of Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder, diffuses this Powder over the surface of the nasal passages. Painless and delightful to use, it relieves in ten minutes and permanently cures catarrh, hay fever, colds, headache, sore throat, tonsilitis and deafness. 60 cents.

Sample bottle and blower sent on receipt of two 3-cent stamps, S. G. Detchon, 44 Church street, Toronto. Sold by H. S. Macdonald.

LANDLORD AND TENANT.

A Good Clause to Insert in the New Leases.

By an act of the Local Legislature, passed at its last session, it is the opinion of many lawyers that henceforth a landlord's right to distrain and a tenant's right to his fixtures, are taken away. Until there has been a judgment in the courts upon the question it would be safer for all leases hereafter drawn up and executed, to contain a paragraph guarding against these consequences, and the following is suggested: "It is further agreed between the parties hereto, the lessor and the lessee, each for himself, his executors, administrators and assigns, that the contract upon which the relations between them is founded by these presents is the relation with all its rights, remedies and incidents existing between landlord and tenant in the Province of Ontario before the passing of 58 Vic. (O.), chap. 26, sec. 4."

Mr. Jacob B. Brown, of Grahamville, S.C., was troubled with chills and fever, and unable to procure relief, until he began to take Ayer's Pills. He is now enjoying excellent health and is a warm and sincere advocate of Ayer's Pills, for all complaints of stomach liver, or bowels.

A NEW CLUB.

Name Suggested for a New Social Organization in London.

LONDON, (Special) Oct. 28.—It has been facetiously suggested that a new social club in process of organization in this city should be entitled "The Dodd's Kidney Pill Club" as the present members are all enthusiastic advocates of that remedy and in common with many other citizens declare that in all cases of kidney trouble no other agent has been found so completely effective. Most Londoners have at their fingers' ends the particulars of the many marvellous cures through the use of this specific. In every drug store in the city the medicine is kept in large quantities and warmly recommended.

The Bobcaygeon Lumbermen Purchase a Mill at Cowichan Lake.

(Victoria Daily Times.)

The M. M. Boyd Lumber Co., of Bobcaygeon, have purchased the lumber mill and valuable timber limits connected therewith at Cowichan, B.C.

The price paid is said to be between $100,000 and $150,000, for which the Boyd Company are to get the mill erected a few years ago by Messrs. Hughitt & McIntyre, now in splendid working order and capable of turning out 125,000 feet of lumber daily. The machinery (which was put in by the William Hamilton Manufacturing Co'y, of Peterborough) is all new and in excellent condition. Adjacent to the mill are 7,059 acres of timber limits and eight million feet of logs in boom and ready for sawing.

Mr. Boyd has already been interested in British Columbia lumbering industries, having, some two years ago, purchased the Morris timber limits on the Nitinat River, cootaining some 10,000 acres. These limits, or a part of them, adjoin the limits recently purchased, and the timber from most of it can be cut at the Cowichan mill.

In their new acquisition Messrs. Boyd will be assisted by Mr. William Gidley, also of Bobcaygeon, who will serve in the capacity of manager.

Grippey Colds.

Colds are epidemic and quite grippey.

Mark that nearly every person you meet is coughing, sneezing or wheezing, and yet it is so easy to be "cold proof" by using "77."

It acts directly on the mucous membrane—stops the cough, restores the voice, clears the throat and head, dispels the languor, and the cold is gone, not to return if you keep "77" handy.

"77" cures Colds, Grippe, Influenza, Catarrh, Pains and Soreness in the Head and Chest, Cough, Sore Throat, General Prostration and Fever.

"77" will "break up" a stubborn cold that "hangs on."

"HEALTH" BRAND UNDERWEAR.

ANNOUNCEMENT TO THE PUBLIC:

We, the manufacturers of the above Brand of Ladies' and Gentlemen's Underwear, wish to state to the public of Peterborough and vicinity, that we have appointed Messrs. Hall, Gilchrist & Co., our Sole Agents for the sale of all the lines we manufacture, notwithstanding that another firm in Peterborough has been trying to lead the public to believe, that they were buying these goods direct and at less money than our own recognized agents, and said firm has been offering a few lines bought through other sources as a bait, at less than the goods can be legitimately sold for.

We have now placed Messrs. Hall, Gilchrist & Co. in a position to sell as low, or even lower if need be, than any house getting these goods from any outside source, without prejudice, to their principles, of doing business on a One Price System.

The Public will always find a great advantage in dealing with our recognized Agents. Firstly, on account of being able to get every style and size we make in every line; and Secondly, on account of our arrangements which will enable them to Undersell any Such Competition.

DIRECT IMPORTER,

What's Your Experience?

—)o(—

Can you buy your Dry Goods any cheaper in the large and luxurious stores for cash than you can from us with our smaller and less expensive shop, where you can get a little accommodation if you need it?

I frequently ask my customers this question and the answer is invariably No. I have always been in a position to meet the lowest prices in town, no matter where or what; but I have never been in a better position to make close prices than now, and as a consequence some Wonderful Bargains are just to hand.

GENUINE THANKSGIVING AND STOCK-TAKING SALE.

For the next Thirty Days I intend running off my whole stock at about COST price, previous to stock taking, in order to save the expense of unrolling and measuring the goods, which requires expensive additional help. In this way the cost of stock-taking clerks will be taken off the price of goods and my customers will get the benefit.

I will give my customers any of the goods advertised by any of the Friday and Saturday "Bargain Day" stores at the same prices any day of the week. Look as long as you like—let your search take you where it may—but don't spend a cent until you have compared what we have to offer with what is offered elsewhere.

MILLINERY.

With our increased facilities and double the showroom space we are able better than ever to do a Millinery trade right. Although we have always had the reputation of leading in this department, which means we must have the right goods at the closest prices, with a spacious entrance off Simcoe Street and entirely separate from the main building, it makes it one of the most convenient showrooms in the Dominion to do business in. Although our milliners are very busy making up the orders that come in every hour in the day, we will have ready for Saturday's trade a choice selection of Trimmed Hats ranging from $1.50 to $2.50 each.

MANTLE CLOTHS.

See our fresh stock of Frieze Mantle Cloths in all shades, beautiful goods, at $1.25 a yard. Another lot of the latest novelties in Mantles from $5.00 to $10.00. Your choice of a large lot with small sleeves for $1 each while they last. Heavy Beaver Mantles with large sleeves only $2.50 each.

Our Cents Furnishing and Underclothing window will speak for itself. See our special all-wool line only $1 a suit.

BLANKETS.

We have picked up a line of soiled and partly damaged blankets which will be sold at $1 a pair while they last, also a few Comforters at 58c each.

A LITTLE SENSATION

Caused at the Hyams Trial on Saturday.

SOME NEW EVIDENCE BROUGHT OUT

Six Witnesses Who Found a Wound Over the Left Eye as the Body Lay at the Aylesworth Residence — The Blood Stains on Dallas' Trousers.

Toronto, Nov. 11.—The end of the first week of the Hyams murder trial closed with the adjournment of court on Saturday. The testimony of the last day was considerably more sensational than on any day since the beginning, as it tended to show the existence of another and dangerous wound over the left eye, contended by the crown to have been inflicted by the prisoners prior to the time young Wells had been struck by the elevator weight.

The Morning of the Fifth Day.

Everybody connected with the great Hyams trial was promptly on time at the convening of the court on Saturday morning. Mr. Osler recalled Undertaker Humphrey to prove by him the receipt of a message from Dallas Hyams, through the agency of Expressman Fox. Mr. Johnston objected to the introduction of the evidence, on the ground that Fox had already testified that he had received such a message and delivered it to Mr. Humphrey. The court permitted the witness to say what the exact message as delivered by Fox was, but on further objection by the counsel for the defence, Mr. Osler did not press the matter, as he had already shown that the witness had received a message from Dallas Hyams through Fox.

Mrs. Caroline Wells, not related to the deceased, practising as a dentist at 623 Spadina-avenue, was the first of the Crown's new witnesses to take the stand. She had known Willie Wells, the deceased, since he was 17 years of age. He always wore glasses, both on the street and inside. He was very shortsighted. The witness said she saw Wells' body at Aylesworth's house in Mutual-street, before the funeral. There was a triangular-shaped mark or hole over the left eye. It was filled with plaster of paris, put there by the undertaker. The witness fixed it over with pink powder to relieve the ghastly appearance of the plaster. The edges of the wound were ragged, and about an inch or an inch and a half long.

In cross-examination Mrs. Wells told Mr. Lount that she was subpoenaed at the last trial, but was not called by the Crown, as at that time she intended to speak of having filled the teeth of the deceased. The witness was positive that when the body was in the coffin it lay on the right side. She saw no wound over the right eye, but added that she did not take particular notice of that side of the face. Mr. Lount reminded the witness that the doctors, the coroner, the undertaker and Fox all disagreed with her.

"I can't help it," replied Mrs. Wells, "I am not mistaken."

"When a woman says she will,
She will, and that's an end on't;
But when she says she won't,
She won't, you may depend on it," jokingly added Mr. Lount.

Mrs. Wells illustrated with a roll of paper the position of the coffin of the deceased, as it lay in Aylesworth's house. The head of the coffin was towards the west, and as the witness stood on the left side, the face of the deceased was turned towards her.

Miss Lydia Leveritt, 110 Queen-street west, a nurse by profession, was the next witness called by Mr. Osler. On the evening of the killing the witness had been called to the Aylesworth residence to attend Miss Martha Wells, and remained about a week. Was there on the following day, when the body of Willie Wells was brought in from the undertaker's, and went in to look at the remains. Noticed a mark on the face over the eye, though she could not describe it. Witness and Mrs. Wells put some pink powder on the wound. The body was lying in its coffin somewhat on the side, the face looking south, and the mark described was on the uppermost eye. Witness thought the mark over the eye was about two inches in length. It had been cleansed and closed.

The coffin was in the front room of the house, the head pointing towards the west.

To Mr. Lount the witness said her memory on the subject was not very vivid. It was the day following the accident that the body was brought to the Aylesworth residence, and witness was the first person to enter the room where the coffin had been placed.

She was positive that the head lay to the west and that the face was looking south, which would bring the left side of the face uppermost. Could not describe or recall any other injuries to the head of the deceased.

Joseph Rowley, jeweler, Spadina-avenue, also saw the body of Willie Wells as it lay at Humphrey's mortuary, the day of the killing. All around the right eye seemed to have been crushed in. The witness also saw a wound over the left eye, and a scratch on the right side of the face. The wound immediately over the left eye was about an inch long. Mr. Johnston took the witness in hand and started out to show that there was a feeling of bitterness between himself and the prisoners. The witness denied that there was any bitterness or ill-feeling between them. A business transaction of an unsatisfactory nature gave rise to a misunderstanding between the witness and the prisoners, but the witness refused to admit that it was of the nature of an unfriendly feeling.

The previous witness was succeeded in the box by his son Ernest Rowley, who is also a jeweler. Witness knew Willie Wells. Saw his body lying at Humphrey's between 5 and 6 o'clock on the evening of the "occurrence." The body was lying on a cooling board in a back room. Noticed the head had been badly crushed; right eye completely crushed in and a deep wound over it. Saw a smaller wound over the left eye, which appeared to be about one-half the length of that over the right eye.

To Mr. Johnston witness said that the wound over the left eye appeared to be an ordinary cut. He had remained in the undertaker's establishment about 15 or 20 minutes, constantly beside the body and had a particular reason for recollecting the wound over the left eye and most assuredly contradicted Dr. King, Fox, Humphrey and Davenport and any others who may have stated that there was no wound over the left eye. Young Mr. Rowley was most positive on the subject and could not be shaken. If plaster of paris had been necessary over the right eye to make it presentable, it would certainly have been necessary in the case of the left eye for the same reason.

Mrs. Rowley, the mother of the last witness, visited the house of Aylesworth, to see the body of Wells, the day after the killing took place. The head was lying on the right side, and a wound about two inches in length was visible over the left eye. The witness thought the wound was a ghastly sight for the friends to look upon, and placed some flowers over it, to hide it from view. In cross-examination, Mrs. Rowley said that as she was standing on the north side of the coffin, she could not see the right side of the face, showing that the wound must have been on the left side. When Mr. Johnston suggested that those who said that there was a wound only over the right eye must have been mistaken, the witness said that they may have been paying too much attention to the right side of the face. "You may have been paying too much attention to the left side," said Mr. Johnston.

"I paid enough attention to convince me that there was a wound there," replied Mrs. Rowley.

An attempt by Mr. Johnston to illustrate the position of Wells' head as it lay in the coffin, with a perfect skull that has been in use for these purposes since the opening of the trial, fell through, as the sight of the ghastly grinning face turned towards her was more than Mrs. Rowley could look upon.

The crown then produced Mr. Uriah Jones of Pickering, uncle of Willie Wells. The boy had lived with him for more than two years. Willie was about 21 years of age at the time of his death. Saw the body at the cemetery between Whithy and Oshawa on the day of the funeral. The body was lying on the right side and a wound was visible over the left eye.

At the time of the killing there existed an agreement between deceased and myself, dated January 6, 1893, by the terms of which Wells had bought a small farm from witness, for the sum of $2450, to be paid $1000 in cash and the balance in five years. In connection with the transaction the witness had received a number of telegrams, which were admitted in evidence, the last of which had been received the Saturday before the killing. The witness was still on the stand at the noon recess.

Mr. Jones again took the stand at the commencement of the afternoon session. The examination was conducted by Mr. Osler. The amount called for in the agreement was never paid to the witness. Saw Wells alive for last time about a week before the killing at Pickering, at the time of executing the agreement. Made an engagement with Wells to meet at Whitby later, but Wells disappointed him, and he never saw his nephew again until he was in his coffin.

The cross-examination of the witness by Mr. Lount brought out that he had received a telegram from Aylesworth on the morning of Jan. 17, 1893, announcing the death of Wells by accident. When witness saw the body, the coffin lid had only been raised for a few moments, and there were probably five or six others standing around, all anxious to view the remains for the last time. At the time I saw the wound over the left eye it became impressed upon me, because I believed it to be of some importance. There was a little plaster of paris in the wound, though I could not say how large the wound was. Witness also contradicted all the previous witnesses who have said that no wound or other injury existed over the left eye. Witness did not tell of this wound over the left eye when testifying at the Police Court and last Assizes, because he was not asked, or they would not allow him to. He remembered having told some one of the matter, but could not remember when. Mr. Jones made a remarkably poor witness. He was slow and stubborn in his replies, and it was somewhat a relief when his examination had ended.

James Chambers, liveryman, 108 Mutual-street, testified that in January, 1893, he kept a livery at 331 Yonge-street, just south of Gould-street. From his books Mr. Chambers swore that on the day of the occurrence, a coupe was ordered from his stables by Dallas Hyams. It was afterwards paid for by Dallas.

James Lavelle, the driver of the coupe which conveyed Dallas from the scene of blood, on the morning of the tragedy, came next. Mr. Lavelle said that he drove to the warehouse that morning for a passenger, according to instructions from his employer. When his passenger, one of the prisoners, was getting into the coupe, the witness noticed some spots that looked like red paint on his pants below the knees. He took his passenger to 57 Gould-street.

Eliza Pengally, who was employed as a domestic at the home of the Hyams brothers, 57 Gould-street, testified that on the day of the killing there were in the city the twins and Dallas' daughter of the entire household. As a rule the Hyamses left the house at 8 or 8.30 o'clock each morning. After they left on the morning of January 16, 1893, she next saw Dallas between 10 and 11 o'clock. He came home and remained constantly for two or three days. He instructed witness that no one was to see him, and when Fox and Aylesworth called they did not see him. When he came home he told witness that there had been an accident and that Wells had been killed.

Harry did not come home until later in the day. Some time after the killing, Harry gave the witness a pair of trousers to wash. They were stained, witness thought, with blood. She washed the trousers, but could not remove the stains. The stains were not many and consisted of small spots below the knee. They were afterwards sent to the dyer's.

To Mr. Lount Mrs. Pengally explained that she had been living with the Hyamses about 1 year and 10 months prior to the "occurrence." Thought from the splendor of their home that the twins were men of means. They all seemed to have plenty of money. Witness could not say which of the boys the trousers belonged to. On the morning of the killing she served the Hyamses with their breakfast and noticed nothing unusual about their appearance or conduct.

Witness was quite positive that it was before 11 o'clock on the morning of the tragedy when Dallas returned home; possibly nearer 10 o'clock than 11. He looked distressed and greatly troubled, like one who had had a great shock. Witness asked him what was the matter and Dallas replied: "We have had a terrible accident; Willie Wells has been killed." After Dallas had gone upstairs witness brought him up a cup of tea, but he seemingly could not drink it in his usual way. Witness thought that it was about a week after the funeral that Harry had handed her the trousers to wash. After the trousers had been washed they hung in the closet upstairs for about two weeks before they were sent to the dyer's.

Jeremiah Riordan, street car conductor, testified that on the morning of January 16, 1893, he was driving a one-horse car on the Church-street route. On that morning one of the prisoners, which one he couldn't tell, got on his car going north between Colborne and King-streets. The prisoner asked the witness to drive fast as there had been a man killed on Colborne-street by a weight falling and he was going for a doctor. At Church and Queen-streets the prisoner got off the car and ran towards Dr. King's office.

To Mr. Johnston the witness said that when the matter was first brought to his attnetion, he thought that it was between 9 and 10 o'clock, but now thinks that he was mistaken then.

Roadmaster Nix of the street railway, produced the route books of the railway, showing the names of the employes, the numbers of their routes, the time of each trip and the hour each man takes his trip, and also the hour he reports off. One book, styled the "change book," was a record of all changes of men on the several routes during January, 1893.

Mr. Nix said that the records were perfectly kept, and any changes of conductors on any routes would be noted. The defence contend that Jeremiah Riordan was driving up Church-street the fatal morning between 9 and 10 o'clock. The books of the company tell quite a different story. Mr. Lount went over a long road in an effort to elicit an admission from Nix that Riordan might have taken an early run that morning, without a record having been made of the change, but the witness considered such a thing as impossible.

Timekeeper William Henley followed his superior officer into the witness stand and identified the various books that had been placed in evidence by Roadmaster Nix and the admission of which called for considerable argument among counsel, which resulted in a refusal on the part of His Lordship to receive the books, when the court adjourned until 10 o'clock Monday morning

WORLD OF SPORTS.

Varsity Won the Ontario Rugby Union Championship by 12 Points.

Kingston, Nov. 9.—About 1200 paid admission to see Queen's and Varsity play the deciding match for the Ontario Rugby championship to-day. The Queen's students cheered Varsity as their 'bus drove into the grounds, and a large number of the team and prominent football followers came down to the British-American, which Varsity made their headquarters, in the evening, and fraternized with the champions. The grounds were kept clear during the match, and the crowd was orderly and good-natured. The chief of police complained bitterly that the referee, whom he had sworn to protect, had escaped him, and driven away like an ordinary individual. The teams and officials were as follows:

Queen's—Wilson, back; Curtis, Scott, McRae, half-backs; Fox, quarter; Baker, Kennedy, McManus, scrimmage; Horsey, Gildersleeve, McLennan, McCammon, Moffat, Webster, Ross, wings.

Varsity—Belanger, back; Kingston, Counsell, Hargraft, half-backs; Hobbs, quarter; Mallock, Burwash, McCallum, scrimmage; Bradley, McKenzie, Elliott, Caldwell, Moss, Macdougall, Barr, wings.

Referee—Mr. Edward Bayly. Umpire—Mr. Walter Ulick. Touch judges—Messrs. Mowat and Barber. Goal judges—Messrs. Burstal and Gunn.

Varsity won the toss and elected to take the wind, which was blowing almost directly from the north goal. Captain Curtis kicked off, and the kick was promptly returned. Kennedy secured the leather, but was brought to earth near Queen's 25-yard line. After a series of scrimmages Varsity broke through fora dribble, and Scott by a timely kick into touch-in-goal from the field of play, gave Varsity two points. Score, 2—0.

After Curtis had kicked out, play became pretty general, for 10 minutes, scrimmaging being, as was to be expected, on the wet ground, the order of the day. Gradually Varsity worked the ball to within 15 yards of the Queen's goal line, and Elliott, picking it up from a broken scrimmage, passed to Macdougall, who dodged prettily through the broken mass of Queen's and obtained a try, which was not converted. Varsity 6, Queen's 0.

Curtis again kicked out, and the catcher was brought to earth 30 yards from Queen's goal line. Fumbles by Varsity halves and strong rushing on the part of their opponents worked the ball to the former's 25-yard line, but a long punt by Hargraft relieved.

Touch-line work and scrambling scrimmages brought the ball close to the goal line, and it was dribbled across; two blue-jerseyed players dropped on it, but the wet and greasy pigskin proved elusive, and, squeezing from their too-eager hands, was rouged by McRae, bringing the score to 7—0 in favor of the visitors.

Hard, close work followed the kick-out, and from this time forward little of interest occurred.

Barr was struck on the head by an opponent's knee and forced to retire. MacKenzie took his place, and played well. Varsity felt their captain's loss severely. At half-time the score stood 7—0 in favor favor of Varsity.

Varsity kicked off in the second, and played hard and well for about 15 minutes. Then the wind, which had increased slightly during the second half, and was now blowing a living gale, began to tell, and Queen's forced the leather to the Varsity 25. From a scrimmage the ball was passed to McRae, who made a dash across, while most of the Toronto men seemed stuck in the mud, and grounded the pigskin six inches over the goal line. The try was converted into a goal, and the score stood 7—6, still in Varsity's favor.

From then to the end of time, the game was merely a close struggle, in which Varsity played entirely on the defensive, risking nothing that they could avoid.

Queen's, after several unsuccessful attempts to carry the ball over the line, contented themselves with punting over for rouges. Six single-point scores brought Queen's up to 12, and at the call of time the score stood, Queen's 12, Varsity 7.

The usual cheers, and the mud-caked contestants drove to town, Queen's satisfied at having won the game, and Varsity congratulating themselves on having at last won the cup, which at least twice before was almost within their grasp.

Nervous Prostration

It is now a well established fact in medical science that nervousness is due to impure blood. Therefore the true way to cure nervousness is by purifying and enriching the blood. The great blood purifier is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read this letter:

"For the last two years I have been a great sufferer with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart. I was weak in my limbs and had smothered sensations. At last my physician advised me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla which I did, and I am happy to say that I am now strong and well. I am still using Hood's Sarsaparilla and would not be without it. I recommend it to all who are suffering with nervous prostration and palpitation of the heart." MRS. DALTON, 55 Alice St., Toronto, Ontario. Get Hood's, because

GOOD ROADS.

THIS is the season of the year when the necessity of good roads forces itself upon the attention of those who have to make the greatest use of roads—the farmers. This is the season when the most frequent excursions with vehicles, heavily laden with produce, are made to the markets. With good roads such excursions are an enjoyment, but with bad roads, guttered with ruts and swimming with mud, such journeys are a pretty severe punishment to the farmer, in addition to the fine he has to pay in the shape of extra repairs to his conveyances, made necessary by the hard usage bad roads inflicted upon them. Good or bad roads for the farmer represent the two opposite conditions of profit and loss. Heavy, muddy and rough roads mean, not only greater wear of vehicles but greater fatigue to horses and the necessity of extra feeding and extra care to put into or upon horses what bad roads have taken out of or off them. In every way there is a loss. Can there be any that doubt that good roads pay? Certainly not. But the vast majority of farmers are so wedded to old methods that it takes a long time for them to get out of the rut of bad roads in either a literal or figurative sense. That hoary imposition, the statute labour system or rather lack of system, as it generally obtains, still maintains its hold. That the so called statute labour is wasted is as obvious as that it is the fault of the system whose only claim to being called a system is that the work done under it is utterly without system, and consequently involves loss of labour, and what is worse, brings only the worst of results. "What is worth doing is worth doing well" applies to nothing with more force than to road making. Of course the initial cost of a good, well graded and well metalled road is greater than that of the cow paths that do duty in the larger part of every county for public roads. So is the first cost of a good all-wool tweed coat greater than that of a miserable shoddy garment. But the advantage is got afterwards, in the case of roads, by the lessened labour required to keep them in first-class repair and in the saving of labour and wear and tear in using them to convey heavy loads to market. In this rapid age saving of time is an important consideration. In the busy season of harvest, an hour saved in a trip to town for necessary repairs, though the medium of good roads represents many dollars to the farmer. The department of Agriculture of the Ontario Government has issued reports of two conventions of the Good Roads Association, which will be read with profit by the farmer; for these reports contain much useful knowledge gained by experiments in road making.

It is gratifying to know that farmers are waking to the importance of good roads; they are beginning to realise that good roads are a necessary adjunct to good tillage of their farms, and that a good road leading from a farm to a market town would add very largely not only to its farming value, but also to the selling value of their acres.

Our politics are rotten enough and badly in need of reforming, but reform in our ways of making roads is as necessary in its place as a reform in our politics.

FEARS are entertained that the rivers and lakes on this continent are drying up. The water in our local waters are unusually low, and the St. Lawrence at Montreal is four feet below last year's level. The late Mr. Phipps, Hon. J. G. Joly de Lotbiniere, and other forestry experts could aptly say "I told you so." Sweeping our forests from the face of the country is sure to bring about such results, though this cause may not be accountable for all the marked fall in the levels of our rivers and lakes. Much further lowering of the water levels would be disastrous to the interests of our internal navigation.

EVER thoughtful of the interests of the farmers and fertile in resource for the promotion of their interests, the Dominion Government, through its fiscal policy, has brought about another great boon to the agriculturists, which will be particularly appreciated by the dairy industry. According to the Canadian Grocer the salt-producers of Canada have "formed an organization"—another way of describing a combine—which has enabled them to advance the price about twenty cents per barrel on table and dairy salt, sixteen cents on barrel salt and ten cents on sack salt. The advance has been cunningly arranged so as to permit the duty on salt to exclude foreign salt. All the salt wells are included in the new arrangement, with one exception, and there is alleged to be an understanding with that. Thus the tarriff permits the producer to "salt" the consumer.

THE Montreal Witness says: "It was reported some time ago that Mr. Laurier had expressed thankfulness that there were no Orangemen among the Liberals. This report was denied on the authority both of Mr. Laurier and the paper which first published the report. Yet the Mail and Empire continues not only to use the story as a party weapon in Ontario, but it adds to the lie to make it more telling. On Wednesday, in an article, it speaks of Mr. Laurier and the Liberals as 'the men who are saying now that when they get in (to power) they will suppress and ostracize the Orangemen.' At this rate The Mail and Empire will by next week be declaring that the Liberals propose to burn the Orangemen at the stake."

THE King of Ashantee, an African potentate, may be a great man in his own country, yet, though he may have conquered many an African lion, he will have a new experience when he comes to cross paws with the British Lion. The British war office has arranged an expedition to bring his royal "nibs" of Ashantee to time. He has resisted Britain's demands that he should have a British commissioner in his country, and that he should place Ashantee under British protection, and now he will have to take the consequences. It is to be hoped that the War Office will send a sufficient expedition to do the business promptly, and not two or three detached parties that may be cut to pieces by the orces of the savage monarch, whose resources and fighting powers civilized countries are very apt to under-rate.

IF representative government obtains in Canada, our dual legislative body is not in a very fit condition for meeting for the transaction of the public business. In the House there are six vacancies, and the number of vacant seats in the Senate amount to about one eighth of the total membership of that somnolent body. The Senate is a favorite house of refuge for politicians turned out to grass, and the demand for seats is far in excess of the supply. According to Premier Bowell all the vacant seats in the Senate (and some of them have been vacant for six years) are promised, and if some of the present Senators do not obligingly shuffle off this mortal coil, a great many members of parliament will, after the next elections, be out in the cold.

THE CATTLE EXPORT TRADE.

The demand for live cattle in Toronto for export continues fair, but the offerings of choice stock suitable for the export trade are small, and buyers say they would take more if they were obtainable. The majority of the cattle offering at the Toronto market are poor, and this is doubtless the result of the drouth early in the summer and the consequent scarcity of feed. The cable reports of the final decision on the matter of excluding Canadian live cattle from the British markets will be a positive advantage to the trade on this side of the Atlantic. The export trade suffered probably as much in the past two years from the uncertainty that existed over this question as it would had the order been prompt and the decision final. Our cattle trade received a serious blow by the exclusion of live animals from the British markets, and owing to the fact that the question was left open so long it kept those who had been engaged in the export business in a waiting attitude to see what the result would be, when they might otherwise have taken steps to meet the exigences of the situation, and entered into the trade on the same basis as those who are engaged in it in the United States. It looks now as this is what will have to be done as a result of the failure of the Canadian authorities to prove to the satisfaction of the British Government that our cattle were fit to be sent into the interior markets of Great Britain on the hoof. If this course has to be followed the markets here will be governed largely by the prices that obtain in the United States markets.

THE GRAIN MARKETS.

There is no change of importance in the grain markets this week. The large receipts in the Northwest continue to depress the markets at all points. The offerings of Ontario wheat are a little better, but the price has not get reached a point where millers can afford to be free buyers at the present prices offered by exporters for flour. The Ontario farmers are not inclined to market their grain freely at present prices. In coarse grains the prices are very low, compared with previous years. There is absolutely no demand for barley for export to the United States, and even if the malsters there were disposed to buy at the present time the prices they would bid for our grain would be very low, as it would have to come into competition with western barley, and the farmer in Ontario would probably consider whether or not it would pay him better to keep the grain for feeding purposes.

THE ONLY HELP.

A Victim of Bright's Disease for Many Years—Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

NEEPAWA, (Special) Nov. 11.—Mrs. T. H. McKee, formerly of Listowel, came here as a last resort. Had suffered ten years with Bright's disease. Reported to be past help and dying, her reappearance on the street in apparent good health, was a pleasant surprise. The explanation given was that her little boy had insisted that she should use Dodd's Kidney Pills and prophesied that they would cure her. She says: "From the first few doses I began to feel better, and after taking four and a half boxes, I say it with heart felt gratitude, I am perfectly cured." Dodd's Kidney Pills is the only medicine in the world that has ever cured a case of Bright's Disease at such a stage.

THE CLARKSON CASE.

A Remarkable Cure of Diabetes in Toronto.

Never Ill before in his Life—Runs Down Thirty-one Pounds in Five Weeks—Is Given Up—Takes Dodd's Kidney Pills and is Cured.

The Dodds Medicine Co.,
Toronto, Oct. 12th, 1895.

Gentlemen,—I am sixty-two years old, past, and up to last June had never had a day's sickness in my life. It was then I began to feel distress in my back, suffered great thirst, had ravenous appetite, a dry mouth and coated tongue. I ran down in several weeks from one hundred and forty nine pounds to one hundred and eighteen. My eyesight began to fail and for the first time in my life I had to look for a doctor. I also had to quit work, which I was never able to resume until cured by your Dodd's Kidney Pills.

I consulted two doctors and was treated by one of them for diabetes. The other concurred as to the nature of my disease, also pronouncing it diabetes, and said that I was firmly in its power.

Instead of going on with doctors' treatment, however, I had read of cures effected by Dodd's Kidney Pills in cases I considered similar to my own and decided to try them.

After a few doses I experienced the first relief from the constant misery, the scalding, and the frequent desire to urinate. I kept on using from one to two pills a day until I had used two boxes, and completely recovered my health in about seven weeks. I am perfectly cured, am working as usual at my business, and have no occasion to take any more medicine.

For the sake of others and in justice to your great medicine, allow me to add my testimony to your list of cures, and remain yours gratefully,

JOSHUA CLARKSON,
114 Robert Street.

Dodd's Kidney Pills is the only treatment that has ever been known to cure diabetes.

UNCONSCIOUS OF DANGER!

Many people buy Clothing without fully considering who they are buying from or what they are getting. You know that when you sell an article that is the product of your own hands, you know just what it contains and can thus guarantee it.

If you did not manufacture the article, but bought it from somebody else, you could not honestly guarantee it. This is where OAK HALL CLOTHING has the call over all others.

We make every article we sell. We know what it is then from stem to gudgeon. We know how they are made and can thus guarantee them Every Suit bears our name. Would we likely deceive you with goods bearing our trade mark? This is sensible talk. BUY OF THE MAKERS.

The large number of orders we have received during the past month is evidence that the people of Peterborough, as well as outsiders, have "caught on" to our great stock of which is really the best ever imported to this town. Over four hundred different samples to choose from, including West of England Cloths, English Venetians, French Worsteds, Irish Serges, Scotch and Canadian Tweeds, etc, etc.

We desire to call special attention to our Overcoatings, in Meltons, Beavers, Cheviots, Thibets, etc, etc. We have also had made up expressly for our own trade a large number of which we will sell as cheap, if not cheaper, than any house in Peterborough, style and finish taken into consideration. We don't quote prices, but ask you to look at these Overcoats and satisfy yourselves as to the truth of our statement. Then you will buy.

In Gent's Furnishings, Hats and Caps, we have everything you need, and all up-to-date, which we can afford to sell cheap as we buy for cash. Call and inspect them.

BRITAIN'S PREMIER

Makes a Speech at the Lord Mayor's Banquet.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS THE MAIN TOPIC

Great Britain is Able to Meet All Competition in Either War or Commerce —Providence Above All Treaties or Combinations of Nations —A Great Gathering

London, Nov. 10.—The usual banquet given by the Lord Mayor upon his installation in office took place to-night in the Guild Hall, the occasion being the taking over of the chief magistracy of the city of London by Sir Walter Henry Wilkin, the successor of Sir Joseph Renals. It is the custom for the Prime Minister and other members of the Cabinet to attend the banquet, and for the Prime Minister to map out, more or less distinctly, the program of the Government. The greatest interest centred in the banquet, as it was known that Lord Salisbury would be present, and that he would throw some light on Great Britain's foreign relations and policy, more particularly the course that would be followed in the case of Turkey, whose contumacious behavior has led to rumors of war, which have had a decidely adverse effect upon the various bourses, and excited a feeling of uneasiness not only here, but in the several European capitals.

The banquet was preceded by a reception in the library of the Guild Hall. As the Ministers, especially Lord Salisbury arrived, they were loudly and repeatedly cheered. Lord Salisbury was accompanied by his wife.

The Marquis of Lansdowne respondtd to the toast of the army.

Then the Lord Mayor toasted the Ministers and Lord Salisbury rose to respond. He dwelt briefly upon the result of the recent election. The nation, he said, had spoken in terms that could not be mistaken. In reference to Home Rule he augured a period of peace as regards the integrity of the empire. He also thought that the position of the House of Lords in the constitution had been more exactly defined by the elections, but just now the chief interest was in foreign affairs.

He alluded to the Chinese-Japanese war, which, he said, had been followed with great interest, but these matters had now passed and he trusted that peace had returned. He ventured to hope that whatever further occurred in the far east, the public would not view it with unnecessary disturbance and alarm. He was much struck by the remarkable sensation that was produced by the false news that appeared a week or two ago, not because he thought the news of particular importance, but because the opinion it evoked in regard to it was a very noticeable phenomenon. "Depend upon it," he said, "whatever may happen in that region, be it in the way of war or the way of commerce, we are equal to any competition that may be opposed to us, and may look with absolute equanimity on the action of any persons who think to exclude us from that foothold and commercial region, and who imagine that if we are admitted they can beat us in the markets of the world. (Cheers.) I should be sorry if we felt undue sensitiveness in the matter."

Lord Salisbury recalled the words of Lord Beaconsfield to the effect that there was room for everybody in Asia. Englishmen," he added, "might employ their energies without needing to fear competitors. Continuing, he said that there is another part of the world where matters are not so peaceful as he hoped they are in the far east.

He recalled the action in May last of the British, French and Russian ambassadors at Constantinople, and declared it was designed to protect the Armenians, whose terrible sufferings had moved the feelings of the British nation to their base. He paid a tribute to the skill of the ambassadors, especially mentioning their leader, Sir Phillip Currie, the British representative, whose judgment and continuous labor, he said, had done much to avoid the greatest dangers and bring matters, at all events, for the time, to a pacific settlement. The demand on Turkey by the three powers had been substantially accepted by the Sultan. He had seen somewhere under a great name the assertion that the Sultan had won a great victory over the British. It could not be called a victory, Lord Salisbury declared, because he had given the British all they wanted. There had been an impression abroad that he himself had added a demand to those made in May requiring something in the nature of an international commission. That was a great mistake. He had never added to the demands. He did offer a substitute demand, a simpler way of obtaining the same end; but if it was preferred the present Mohammedan machinery should continue and be supervised by a mixed commission. The demands of the embassies were substantially that a proportional number of Christian employes should be added to the executive of the provinces, containing a large number of Armenians. He did not contend that his proposal was the better. The Sultan preferred the other proposal and his nationality fell to the ground.

The reason that he preferred to be rid of the question was his great horror of the powers appearing in these cases as partisans of one religion rather than of another. That would be exceedingly dangerous. He remarked that the Queen of Great Britain rules over more Mohammedans than the Sultan, and that the British Government would betray its principles if it allowed itself to appear as a partizan in governing so vast an empire. The Government had no other duty than to show absolute impartiality. Its desire was to do entire justice so that Christians and Moslems would observe each other's rights and pursue their own industries in confidence and peace.

Continuing, Lord Salisbury said: I should have been glad if our proposals could be divested of any appearance of party, and should have assured our Moslem fellow subjects, who are among the most loyal and orderly subjects of the Queen, that they may rely on the Imperial Government.

With regard to the result of the negotiations, if the reforms are carried into effect, they would give the Armenians every prospect that a nation could desire—prosperity, peace, justice and safety to life and property. But will they be carried out? If the Sultan can be persuaded to give justice to the Armenians it will not signify what the exact nature of the undertaking may be. If he will not heartily resolve to do justice to them the most ingenious constitution that can be framed will not avail to protect or assist the Armenians. Only through the Sultan can any real permanent blessing be conferred on his subjects. What if the Sultan is not persuaded?

I am bound to say that the news reaching us from Constantinople does not give much cheerfulness in that respect. You will readily understand that I can be fair; it would be dangerous to express the opinions that are on my lips lest they injure the cause of peace and good order which, above all things, I have at heart.

But supposing the Sultan will not give these reforms, what is to follow? The first answer I should give is that above all treaties, all combinations of the powers in the nature of things, is Providence. God, if you please to put it so, has determined that persistent and constant abuse of powers must lead the Government which follows it to its doom, and while I readily admit that it is quite possible that the Sultan, if he likes, can govern with justice and be persuaded he is not exempt any more than any other potentate from the law that injustice will bring the highest on earth to ruin. It is not only the necessary action of law of which I speak, on which we may rely. Turkey is in the remarkable position that she has now stood for half a century, mainly because the powers resolved that for the peace of Christendom it will be necessary that she should stand. The danger is that if the Ottoman Empire is imperilled it will not be merely a danger that will threaten it.

It would be the danger that the fire there lit would spread to other nations, involving all that is most powerful and civilized in Europe in a dangerous conflict.

Lord Salisbury deprecated indulging in the allusion that some single power would escape the treaty and try to settle the question in its own manner. He believed that the powers were never more desperate than now, and they will stand together by the European system they themselves devised.

Lord Salisbury declared that he believed that the powers were thoroughly resolved to co-operate in everything concerning Turkey. How they would act was not for him to prophesy. He did not know what contingences might arise, but there was nothing in the concert of powers to console those who would perpetuate misgovernment, or to silence the voice of those who would impress on the Ottoman rulers the burning necessity of the hour, that they give the common blessing of good government to those under them. (Cheers.)

In conclusion, Lord Salisbury said: 'Throughout the negotiations nothing was impressed more strongly upon my mind than the disposition of the powers to act together, and their profound sense of the appalling danger any separation of their action might produce. Those among them who are popularly reputed to be restless, have vied with the others in their anxiety to conduct the difficulties to a veritable issue, and have conducted themselves in a manner that should better bring all the powers into line, moved by the common ambition and noble aim of preserving the peace of Christendom. This is a very cheering symptom. I hope it may be the foundation of a system of action that will last for many years to come, and that in this sense of necessary co-operation imposed by the dangers and exigencies of our time, we shall find a solution of some formidable problems which oppress us, and shall in due time be able to put a stop to that condition of armed peace which presses now on the industries of the world."

Upon the conclusion of his speech the Prime Minister was greeted with loud and prolonged cheers.

Lord Halsbury, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, the Lord Chief Justice and others spoke.

The Morning Post, commenting on the speech says: It is not difficult to discern that Lord Salisbury considers that the period of the Sultan's probation has expired. The patience and trust of the signers of the treaty of Berlin are exhausted. The Ottoman Empire may continue, but the doom fits present Government has been sealed by the folly of the Sultan and his servants.

The Daily News cordially approves of the speech. "His words," it says, "Will help to alleviate the panic that on Saturday agitated the money markets of the Continent. He evidently does not believe that there is danger of war, but the future is uncertain. The days of the Turk in Europe are numbered. On the questions of how the Ottoman dynasty will fall and what will replace it, Lord Salisbury does not enlighten us."

The Times says: Lord Salisbury showed the world that the six powers are resolved to act together in all that concerns the Ottoman Empire. In that lies the import of the speech to the Turk.

The Stage of Convalescence.

Is at once interesting and critical. The patient, carefully guarded at this period and provided with the means essential to health, may be enabled once more to enjoy the inestimable blessing of health. On the other hand, neglect of even minor needs, at this period, is likely to impose upon him the life-long penalty of ill-health, resulting in a wasted life. The assimilative processes are, at the time, sure to be impaired, and nerve tone overtared in its resistance to the assaults of disease; will both sadly need impetus which Maltine with Coca Wine alone can give.

By the action of Maltine with Coca Wine upon the digestive processes, which it rapidly strengthens, and its permanent and striking influence upon the nervous system, to which it gives vigor and tone, the restorative power of the body is immensely increased, and strength and vigor come to the invalid so quietly as to seem almost impossible. Experience, however, has demonstrated its efficiency in convalescence, as well as in the various forms of which debility, arising from faulty nutrition, manifests itself. Sold by all druggists.

Doctors recommend Norway Pine Syrup because it is the best cure for coughs and colds. Price 25c. and 50c. at druggists.

THE doctor may be a good old man, but even so, medical examinations and the "local-application" treatment are abhorrent to every modest woman. They are embarrassing—often useless. They should not be submitted to until everything else has been tried. In nine cases out of ten, there is no reason for them. In nine cases out of ten, the doctor in general practice isn't competent to treat female diseases. They make a branch of medicine by themselves. They are distinct from other ailments. They can be properly understood and treated only by one who has had years of actual practice and experience in this particular line. This is true of Dr. R. V. Pierce, chief consulting physician of the Invalid's Hotel and Surgical Institute, at Buffalo, N. Y. Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for all derangements of the reproductive organs of women, has been in actual use for more than thirty years. It was originally sold with an absolute guarantee that it would cure every case, or that the money paid for it would be refunded. Its success has been so universal that this guarantee is no longer necessary. The "Favorite Prescription" relies now upon the thousands of testimonials from grateful and happy women, in all parts of the land, whose lives have been made worth living by its use. "Favorite Prescription" is sold by druggists.

Complete information regarding it, and testimonials from hundreds who have used it, are embodied in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser, a standard medical work of 1008 pages, profusely illustrated, which will be sent free on receipt of 21 one-cent stamps to cover cost of customs and mailing only. This work is a complete family doctor book and should be read by both young and old. WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

"Cats-paw" To-Night

The Evening Star says:—Three acts filled with the satire and unctuous humor which overflows in Max O'Rell's "Jonathan and His Continent," The Cats-paw," is his first play, which was seen at the Grand last night. The comedy tells of a trip to Europe by a wealthy American glue manufacturer, his daughter, his sister-in-law and her daughter. The fun is produced by the efforts of the elder people to make the girls marry aristocrats not of their own choosing. The play is refined and funny, and Samuel Edwards is a clever star. Opera House to-night.

DIED FROM THE EFFECTS OF THE KICK OF A HORSE.

Fatal Accident in the North End Yesterday Morning—Consciousness Never Recovered.

Mr. John Fawcett, of the North End, was fatally injured yesterday morning at about half-past ten o'clock, through being kicked in the head by one of his horses.

Mr. Fawcett resides at No. 857 Water street and has held the street watering contract for the northern division for a number of years. When in the barn attending to his horses yesterday he received a kick in the head by one of them and when found in the stable by Mrs. Fawcett, at about half past ten o'clock, he was unconscious.

Dr. Halliday was summoned and at once perceived that the case was a most serious one. Drs. King and Boucher were called into consultation immediately, but could do nothing. Another consultation was held in the afternoon, after which the members of the family were informed of the fatal termination which the accident would necessarily have, as it had been ascertained that the injured man had sustained concussion of the brain and that the middle meningeal artery had been ruptured as well, which rendered recovery hopeless.

This morning Mr. Fawcett passed away without having regained consciousness sufficiently to recognize any member of his family.

Mr. John Fawcett was born in County Fermanagh, north of Ireland, and came to Canada about twenty-nine years ago. Two years later he was married to Miss Ann Livick, who survives him. Having no children the only other near relatives of Mr. Fawcett in this country are his sisters Mrs. M. McGill and Mrs. McWha and one brother, Mr. Andrew Fawcett, of Ashburnham. The deceased was fifty-four years of age and had lived in town some nine or ten years after farming for some time in Smith.

The funeral will take place from the family residence, No. 857 Water street, Wednesday afternoon, interment taking place in the Little Lake Cemetery.

THOSE CHEESE CASES.

The Charge Against Frederic Payne is Dismissed.

A charge preferred against Frederic Payne of Dummer by Cheese Inspector Grant, of adulterating his milk sent to the factory, was dismissed by County Magistrate Edmison this morning, who stated that while the inspector had proven his case, and was to be commended for his prompt action, yet he could not convict, as the sworn evidence of Mr. and Mrs. Payne went to show that even if the milk was adulterated it was not done with their knowledge.

John Taylor, of Otonabee, was fined $20 and costs on a like charge.

Is There a Vacant Council Seat in No. 1 Ward?

It is rumored pretty freely about town that there is a vacancy in the representative of No. 1 Ward, through the departure from Peterborough of Mr. G. B. Sproule. What gives color to the rumor is the fact that Mr. Sproule has not been seen in the town for about a month; his studio is closed and the bailiff is in possession under a landlord's warrant. Mr. Sproule's seat at the Council Board is not yet vacated by the effluxion of time, that is, he has not been absent from the meetings of Council the necessary length of time to render his seat vacant. The three months of absence will come on the 19th of November.

THE NEW BRIDGE ON GEORGE STREET ACROSS THE CREEK.

The Tender of Grant & Winch is the Lowest and is Recommended for Acceptance.

The Street and Bridge and Sewerage Committees of the town council met on Saturday evening and opened the following tenders for the building of the new bridge over the mouth of the creek on George street. The following were received:

Winch and Grant, (substructure)	$1825 00
W L Innes (entire work)	7 295 00
James Bogue (substructure)	2190 00
John Hayes (substructure)	2460 00

The committees decided to recommend that the tender of Messrs. Grant and Winch for the substructure, being the lowest, be accepted.

The new bridge will be just two feet higher than the present structure and the grade of the street is being raised to this height. Hitherto the roadway has been very heavy in wet weather and it is thought that this will remedy the evil. As the street railway tracks are being elevated the cars are not running at present.

A special meeting of the council will be called early this week to legalize the action of the committee and the contract for the bridge will be let at once so that the work can proceed without further delay.

TRENT VALLEY CANAL.

What Is Being Done at Several Locks on the River Section.

Despite the unfavorable weather, says the Lakefield News, good progress is being made by the contractors for the river section of the Trent canal, and operations are going forward at the several locks, Nos. 2 and 5, the former being the first lock below Lakefield. At No. 5 rock and at No. 4 lock, immediately above, the work is further advanced. At these points the lock chambers are being excavated and a lot of work done in building embankments. The diversion of the road at locks 4 and 5 is completed and a capital road it is. The approaches to the locks from either end are being excavated as rapidly as possible. At lock No. 3, road changing is going on and some excavation being made. At lock No. 2 the ground has been cleared and made ready for work, and an island that will be put under water has been levelled off.

At two of the locks, lock houses are being built, and will be neat and suitable buildings. These houses are built by the department and are not part of the contract.

It is expected that the force now at work on the canal will be presently increased, as soon as the preliminary work on the two upper locks is finished and the ground ready for more serious work.

CHURCH CHIMES.

After service on Wednesday evening the Young People of the Park street church will elect officers.

Mr. G. W. Mulligan sang the solo parts in the offertory anthem in St. Andrew's last night, in splendid voice.

Rev. Mr. Vitmer took the morning service in the Park street church and Rev. C. E. McLeod officiated in the evening.

The duet which Miss Hendren and Mr. A. L. Davis sang last night in the Charlotte street church, was greatly appreciated.

Mrs. Jones took the solo in a most effective manner in the anthem, "Rock of Ages," which was rendered in St. Andrew's church last evening.

The services were conducted in St. Andrew's church yesterday by Rev. J. Tate Pitt, a recently returned missionary from China.

At the evening service in the Charlotte street church Mr. A. L. Davis took the solo in the anthem, "How Long Wilt Thou Forget Me," in splendid voice.

"When the Summer is Gone and the Harvest is Past," was the title of a pretty anthem which was sung, with orchestral accompaniment, in the Park street Baptist church last night.

"Christ Our Passover" was the title of the morning anthem in the Charlotte street church yesterday. Miss Florence Hall took the soprano solo and Mr. John Miller the tenor part with good effect.

Mr. Jones took the solo in the anthem "I will Light up Mine Eyes" in St. Paul's church last evening. The anthem was well rendered, as was the one in the evening entitled "I will feed my flock."

Rev. J. Tate Pitt, who has spent the last five years of his life as a missionary in China, will deliver lectures in the Park street Baptist church on Wednesday evening, and in St. Andrew's on Thursday. All will be welcome.

The George street Sunday school has decided to hold a Christmas Cantata entitled "Chimes of Sleigh Bells," on January 13th, being the Sunday school anniversary. On the 12th Rev. A. C. Crews, General Secretary of Methodist Sunday schools, will deliver both the morning and evening sermons in the church.

PERSONAL

Mrs. R. R. Stott, of Port Hope, is visiting her relatives in town.

Mr. Ed Knowles of Toronto, is spending a week with his brother on Homewood avenue.

Rev. A. MacWilliams has not yet sufficiently recovered from his recent illness to be able to conduct the services at St. Andrew's, but hopes to resume his pastoral duties this week.

Mr. W. D. Parker and Mr. Harry Long returned from Port Hope this morning, after having spent Sunday with Rev. C. B. Kenrick. Two sermons were preached for Mr. Kenrick, by Rev. H. Symonds of St. Luke's yesterday.

Dr. Scott returned Saturday evening from Toronto, where he had been summoned by telegram last Tuesday to see Mr. W. H. Raymore, Mrs. Scott's brother, who was seriously ill with typhoid fever. In spite of all that could be done by some of the best medical men in the city, Mr. Raymore died Thursday p.m. and was buried on Saturday afternoon in Mount Pleasant cemetery, Toronto. Saturday's Globe says:—Mr. W. H. Raymore, for the past eight years traveller for Messrs. A. A. Allan & Co., of this city, died at his home, 75 Euclid Avenue, on Thursday evening, after a week's illness of typhoid fever. The deceased was one of the most popular travellers on the road, and leaves a young wife and child.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

The meetings yesterday were all well sustained.

The Week of Prayer for young men is now on. Association men the world over are putting forth special effort this week to reach men with the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

Mr. John W. Ridgeway, a former resident of Peterborough, and an active worker in the Association, has accepted a call to the secretaryship of the Berlin, Ont., association.

Massachusetts and Rhode Island were in convention at Pawtucket a few days ago, and judging from the reports of the meeting, much practical helpfulness and renewed enthusiasm is the outcome. Association work has a firm hold in the New England States, and it growth and development during the past ten years have been almost phenomenal.

RAILWAY NOTES.

Sparks of News From the Whirling Wheels—Interesting Cinders for the Eye.

Two car loads of dynamite went north to the Trent Valley Canal at Balsam Lake Friday.

An addition is being built to the engine house at Midland that will give much more accommodation for engines remaining there over night.

Mr. Timothy Cavanagh shipped about forty men back to work on the Irondale and Bancroft Railway to-day.

The water in the back lakes has got so low that the water tanks have become empty at Coboconk and other places. The railway company finds great difficulty in getting enough water to supply their engines.

The Midland people are rushed to death just now with freight business. At present there are 500,000 bushels of grain in vessels bound for Collingwood, and the water in the harbor there, as well as at Owen Sound, is so low that the vessels cannot land there and have to unload at Midland, from which place the grain is taken by rail to Collingwood, as well as a large quantity going east through Lindsay. Three specials ran out of Lindsay Saturday to handle grain, and the local authorities have orders to stop regulars and put on all the specials possible as fast as they can get men to run them, and special engines will be sent to do the regular business. The grain comes mostly from Chicago.

FLOWERS AT FUNERALS.

A Pagan Custom Renewed Under Most Objectionable Auspices.

The use and abuse of flowers at funerals is the subject of an interesting and opportune article by the Very Rev. Canon Moser, of Peterborough, in the current issue of the Irish Ecclesiastical Review. Canon Moser points out at the commencement of his paper that "The dead now go out of this world bearing upon them the honors of a triumph and laden with flowers and crowns. As they quit the stage of life they receive the homage which a theatrical public bestows on actors who have well performed their part. Wherever vanity and ostentation come in, moderation vanishes, and so the custom of placing a flower on the coffin has degenerated into an abuse of such proportions that it will soon be difficult to tell a funeral procession from a wedding party. Thoughtful Catholics are endeavoring in several places to counteract a custom which bears many signs about it of a return to Paganism.

Many people, when a little constipated, make the mistake of using saline or other drastic purgatives. All that is needed is a mild dose of Ayer's Pills to restore regular movement of the bowels, and nature will do the rest. They keep the system in perfect order.

ST. LUKE'S CHURCH NOTES.

The Rev. Carl Smith preached in St. Luke's church yesterday morning, and Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson in the evening.

The Women's Auxiliary of St. Luke's will give a reception to Miss Symonds on Tuesday, Nov. 19th. There will be a programme of music and Miss Symonds will give an address on the work of the St. John's Mission, Gleichen. There will be a collection for the funds of the Auxiliary.

Mr. John Burnham, M.P., and Rev. H. Symonds will attend meetings of the Synod Committees in Toronto this week. Mr. Symonds will also attend the annual meeting of Convocation of Trinity University on Tuesday.

Bargain Day Sale

HALL, GILCHRIST & CO.

We have been asked by a large number of our town customers to offer the same Bargains on Friday afternoon that we give on Saturdays, their reason being that owing to the enormous crowds attending these sales on Saturday from outside places they are unable to get waited on with any satisfaction.

We are pleased to grant this request as we have been unable (even with extra help) to wait on all the people wanting these bargains, and we think this extension will relieve us somewhat. On and after this week our Bargain Sale will commence EVERY FRIDAY at One o'clock p.m. and coutinue till 9.30 p.m. SATURDAY.

With a resident buyer in Europe and a viligant watch kept on the Canadian Markets, our syndicate is in a position to often buy clearing lines at, in many cases, less than it costs to manufacture them.

We are proving every week to those who have been wise enough to trade with us, that there is money saved to every customer who deals at our store.

Testing His Honesty.

Your druggist is honest if when you ask him for a bottle of Scott's Emulsion he gives you just what you ask for. He knows this is the best form in which to take Cod Liver Oil.

Another Carload

Of those excellent Niagara and Concord grapes has just been received at Long Bros. These are the last of the season, and will be sold cheaper than ever. Don't miss this opportunity.

Slept in a Manger.

It has been reported to the Humane Inspector at Belleville that a farmer in Thurlow has required his boy, who is from the Marchmont Home to sleep in a manger for the last three months, to protect his fowls from being carried away by the neighbors. The inspector is looking into the case.

Annual At Home.

A choice programme of vocal and instrumental music, recitations, etc., will be presented. Lunch will be served. Single tickets, 20c.; double, 35c. 3d

Dublin Porter.

Those wishing to avoid malaria and typhoid fever, which is prevailing in town on account of the low water in the river, can do so by drinking "Calcutt's Dublin Porter." Recommended by the medical fraternity to build up the system. Best tonic made; will fatten the leanest of people; only $1 per doz. Telephone No. 38. tf

Promenade Concert and Hop.

At a meeting of the committee in charge of the matter of giving Harley Davidson a reception of some sort, it was resolved to hold a promenade concert and hop in the skating rink to-morrow evening. The Battalion band has kindly consented to be in attendance, and Mr. R. M. Roy will give a limelight exhibition of magic lantern views. At the conclusion of the concert a hop will be held, and it is hoped that the attendance will be large. The affair is held under the auspices of the Bicycle Club. Ladies will be admitted free and gentlemen will be charged fifty cents. The Bicycle Club rooms and Curling Club apartments will be well heated for the occasion and thrown open for the use of the public.

Steadily Working for the Benefit of the Community.

The efforts of any newspaper to build up a town is practically nullified unless it is backed up by business men. A stranger turns from the news columns of a paper to its advertising pages, and if he fails to find there the business card of the merchants and the professional firms, he comes to the conclusion that the publisher is not appreciated, in which case it a good place for him to keep clear of. No town ever grew without the active assistance of its newspaper. Nor can papers grow and build up their localities without the assistance of the town. Business men should realize this and remember in giving support to the newspaper they are not only building up their own business, but helping to support that which is steadily working for the benefit of the whole community.

Women are not the only ones who are sensitive about their ages. A man doesn't like to be told that he is getting old. Health keeps a man young. It doesn't make any difference if he has lived eighty years. If they have been healthy years, he will be hale and hearty and won't look within twenty years as old as he is. Good digestion and rich, red blood make people youthful. Dr. Pierce's Medical Discovery makes rich, red blood. It makes health in the right way. It works according to the right theory, and in 30 years of practice, it has proved that the theory is absolutely correct. It begins at the beginning—begins by putting the stomach, liver and bowels into perfect order, but it begins its good work on the blood before it finishes with the digestive system. It searches out disease germs wherever they may be and forces them out of the body. All druggists sell the "Discovery."

THE NEWCOMBE PIANOS.

A Few Important Points of Superiority Presented.

The public interested in pianos are reminded that the opportunity for purchasing a really first-class instrument is brought to their very doors by the placing of our traveller, Mr. W. A. Shaw, (300 Rubidge street), in the town, so that persons desirous of purchasing a piano may have the advantage of personal intercourse with him, and of securing the results of his large experience and special knowledge of the piano. However, Mr. Shaw will not have on exhibition samples of pianos, because any extra expenditure we incur is devoted, not to the operation of little branch agencies, but to the employment of the most highly skilled mechanics in our manufacturing establishment. We employ only the most experienced artizans in the special line of piano manufacture. We have no place on our staff for inferior workmen. Therefore, the most expert mechanical skill, combined with the very best of materials, result in the production of instruments that challenge competition. The foremost position has been taken by our instruments wherever exhibited in competition with the best makes of the world. At the Columbian World's Fair the highest award was made to a Newcombe Grand piano. Similar awards were made at the Colonial Exposition in London and at the New Orleans Exposition. These awards are proof positive of the success we have achieved in placing before the public the very best pianos that are made. Not only are the mechanical qualities, excellence of finish, strength and durability superior, but the unsurpassed richness and character of tone—soft, full and pure—combine to furnish the most desirable characteristics in a piano, which is sure to give lasting satisfaction and to give no cause for regret for the investment of money in such an instrument. The purchase of a piano, like the buying of a farm, is not an every-day matter, but one that requires deliberation and inquiry, and no one should take such a step without investigating fully the great merits of the Newcombe piano, which meets the most rigid inquiry with the certainty that the result will be its selection. Persons contemplating the purchase of a piano are urged to put themselves in communication with Mr. Shaw, who will be pleased to meet them and give all necessary details. A card dropped into the postoffice to his address, 300 Rubidge street, will insure prompt attention.

A PITIABLE STORY.

A Lumberman's Alleged Abuse by the Howry Lumber Company.

(Bobcaygeon Independent.)

Joseph Galarneav, of Montreal, arrived in the village on Wednesday evening, having walked from Howry's camp, No. 15, along the Monck road. His story is a pitiable one. He states that he left Montreal about two months ago, with a party of 25 or 30 others who were engaged for the camp. He left a wife and two children at home and understood that he was to receive $18 a month and that his fare to the camp would be $8. He hoped to send his wife about $9 a month, besides earning his fare in and home again. After being in the woods about six weeks, he was sawing a log near a skidway, when a tree was fallen which struck the skid and rolled a log on to him. He was caught between the logs across the bowels. After being taken to the camp his body swelled, and in the course of a few days there was a discharge from his side. He was laid up sixteen days and, being unable to work, got a settlement. He was allowed $12 a month, instead of $18, and charged $12 for his railway fare. He was also charged a dollar a day for the time laid up, and was brought out in debt to the firm. That is the man's story. He arrived here without a cent, disabled, and and trying to get back to his family in Montreal.

The Fools not all Dead yet.

Even a blind man can see that more clearly than daylight, or else why should so many continue to use ill smelling, oily, and often useless preparations for the relief of pain, when a preparation just as cheap, elegant, more powerful, and penetrating as Nerviline is can be purchased from any dealers in medicine? Nerviline cures instantly aches and pains. Nerviline is the most efficacious remedy for internal pains. Nerviline applied externally subdues the most intense pain almost at once.

China Hall Bargains.

This week China Hall will have some special snaps in Dinner, Tea and Chamber Sets for close buyers. A lovely line of Dinner Sets, regular price $16.00, to be sold for $10.00. Also, 23 Chamber Sets, regular $5.00 and $6.00 goods, for $4.00 all round. Do not delay seeing these goods.

To Keep You in Mind.

We would just say that our Indian Summer Wall Paper Sale will be in full swing this week. That means that prices will be made rock-bottom for all grades, all patterns—all the wall papers in the house. Our reason for this is a good one: We must have more room for our Christmas goods, and the wall papers must go. Cornice Poles and Window Shades will also suffer still greater reductions than last week. No disappointment in prices at the Peterborough Bookstore. A. H. Stratton & Co.

DEER VERY PLENTIFUL OUT AT COE HILL.

PARTRIDGES AS THICK AS SPARROWS IN PETERBOROUGH.

Messrs. Brightman, Stone and Dumble Return from Their Hunting Trip After a Great Outing.

Messrs. Brightman, E. B. Stone and D. W. Dumble have returned from the Coe Hill region, where they were hunting within about fifty miles of the Ottawa river. Many and varied were their experiences in that wild country where lynxes abound, bears are numerous, deer plentiful, and patridge as thick as sparrows in Peterborough.

Unfortunately, the dogs with which the party hunted were not worth powder and shot sufficient to blow them up. A small creek ran through the country in the vicinity of the camp, and though it was not wider than eight feet, the dogs after a deer, consequently only three of the antlered monarchs were secured. Of these three, Mr. Stone got one, Mr. Brightman another, and Mr. McGuire, of Belleville, the third.

WOULD NEVER CROSS IT

Mr. Stone had quite a time with his deer. He saw it swimming across the lake to his point, and thinking to have a joke on Mr. Dumble, he entered his canoe and headed the deer down towards the runway, where Mr. Dumble was on guard, intending to shoot it just in front of him, and to create the impression that the deer had come out from the Magistrate's point, which would give rise to the supposition that His Honour had been taking a quiet nap, or reading up some points on the Mason case, instead of keeping his eye skinned for deer.

Mr. Stone, however, reckoned without his host, as the deer proved to be of the "Spikehorn" variety, which, it is well known, can swim just about a third faster than one man can paddle a canoe, in fact it takes two men to catch one of them in the water, Mr. Stone states. Anyway, this one was a hummer at the swimming business, and E. B. quite abandoned all hope of being able to have a joke on the Magistrate and would have been quite satisfied to have had a chance of which was steadily pulling away from him. After paddling about half a mile at a high rate of speed Mr. Stone's wind gave out, so he gave up the idea of being able to catch the animal and, picking up his rifle, sent four shots skimming over the water without, however, touching the game, his nerves being all unstrung by the hard race. There was just one cartridge left in the magazine and the lawyer wasn't going to fire this unless he stood a somewhat better chance of doing some damage with it.

By this time all the party were out on the shores of the lake watching the race with interest and Mr. Stone had a foreboding of what would await him at camp if he came back without that deer, having lost it through his love of a practical joke.

He turned his canoe to the shore thinking if he got out of the choppy waves that he might stand a better show of making his last bullet an effective one. Just as he landed the deer also turned in and by the time Mr. Stone had the animal cornered, it was bounding but the next instant it was hopping along on three legs instead of four as the lawer's bullet snipped one of its rear legs just below the joint. The deer ran on for about half a mile before it fell from the loss of blood. When E. B. reached the camp he was called to account for not shooting his deer in the water at first, when he had the chance, but he very neatly staved off the awkward question by stating that no true sportsman would shoot his game in the water but would always give it a chance for its life.

THROUGH THE SHALLOW WATER,

Mr. Brightman was found to be a crack shot, being able to put a bullet in the bulls-eye at 200 yards, four times out of five trials, and to whip the heads off partridges on the wing with a rifle bullet at short notice. He had never brought down a deer though, and when he and Councillor Stone were within 150 feet of one in the water he got the buck ague and fired four shots without touching it. He was then paddled up to within about twenty feet of the game when he put a bullet in its head. The effects of the buck ague undoes the experience of years, as will be seen by this little incident. Another of the hunters to it at a critical moment, and besides losing his deer, almost put a bullet into Mr. Dumble. He was on guard on a high iff, when a fine large doe was seen from the other side of the lake to be standing in the marsh directly beneath him. He was apprised of the fact, but was so excited he could not see the doe. He fired off a shot at random and started the animal, but though it could not have been more than thirty yards from him with the whole side exposed, he could not hit it, but fired high and the bullets tore up the water around the Magistrate, who was out in the lake. Mr. Dumble threw himself in the bottom of his canoe, but had a narrow escape, while the deer swam quietly off.

A good many in the party were greenhorns, and though they saw quite a number of deer, blazed away without regard to sight, and accordingly missed them altogether. Three of the most experienced of the party have remained for this week, and the Peterborough contingent are sure that they will each of deer. Several good bucks were lost through members of the party getting tired of remaining on watch and going off through the woods and thus missing the deer, which eventually came down their runway.

Though the partridges were thick, none of them were shot, as no one was allowed to loiter on the way to the runway and on the return trip it was generally dark. Mr. Ketcheson, mail clerk between Belleville and Peterborough was back at camp for three days without a dog and got 33 brace, so some idea may be formed of the number which are in the woods.

Mr. Stone nearly got a bear. He went along a runway and returning in fifteen minutes found a big log pulled across the trail and tracks of bruin everywhere. He hastily repaired to camp and getting a couple of men traced the bear far into the swamp, but as they did not appear to be gaining on it and darkness was coming on the chase had to be abandoned.

For three days the rain kept the entire party indoors, but on the whole they had a most enjoyable time indeed and look forward to going back next year with better dogs and making great slaughter amongst the deer.

A great number of the hunters who own dogs are coming in from the north country disgusted, as the deer chased by their own dogs are being shot right and left on the runways, before they ever reach the water. The woods are teeming with hunters and the deer stand no chance at all in the country north of Peterborough.

Ivorine for the Teeth.

Asks only a trial. Boasting will not whiten teeth; Ivorine for the teeth does. Extravagant claims will not render the breath sweet and fragrant. Ivorine never fails to do this. Ivorine for the teeth asks for an opportunity to demonstrate its value. Dentists have affirmed it and the public corroborate professional opinion, but do you know, as every tooth loving man or woman ought to know Ivorine for the teeth is best?

Laid Low by Indigestion.

I was so run down I had to give up work.
Scott's Sarsaparilla the kind that cures.

Indigestion or dyspepsia is the bane of thousands, and is one of the most depressing of afflictions. It arises from an impure or impoverished condition of the blood, which weakens the digestive and assimilative organs, rendering them incapable of performing their natural functions, and if neglected, the sufferer loses flesh, complains of exhaustion after slight exertion, and becomes rapidly debilitated.

Mr. Wm. W. Thompson, a prominent resident of Zephyr, Ont., in a letter dated Aug 12th, 1895, says: "It gives me great pleasure to testify to the fact that Scott's Sarsaparilla has caused a most remarkable change in my condition. I was so much run down I had to give up work and felt as if life were not worth living. Mr. Dafoe induced me to try Scott's Sarsaparilla, and after taking four bottles I am now feeling as I formerly did years ago, and I want to say for the benefit of those suffering from indigestion and feeling, to use slang phrase, 'completely knocked out,' don't despair until you give Scott's Sarsaparilla a fair trial."

Scott's Sarsaparilla is a blood food, it stimulates all vital organs to healthy normal action, enabling them to throw off all poisonous and debilitating humors. Sold by druggists at $1, but there is only one Scott's. The kind that cures.

Sold by J. B. Tully, Peterborough.

MONT BLANC'S OBSERVATORY.

All the Delicate Astronomical Instruments Carried Up.

The highest permanent astronomical observatory in the world—on the summit of Mont Blanc—was at last completed and fully equipped with instruments a few days ago. There has been a temporary station there for some years, but the instruments have been small and of little power compared with those now in place. The establishment of this observatory was a task which at the outset seemed impossible, and the obstacles which M. Janssen, who headed the quartet of French astronomers, had to overcome, was unparalleled. Mont Blanc is nearly 16,000 feet high, and its ascent, even under the most favorable conditions during the summer months, is difficult as well as dangerous. The transporation of many heavy and delicate scientific instruments to the top of this loftiest mountain of the Alps was therefore a labor so great as to seem beyond the range of possibility, yet it was accomplished without the loss of a single life. The telescope and the other instruments had to be taken to pieces before being carried up the precipitous mountain sides; even then some of the packages weighed a hundred pounds, and most of them about fifty.

One of the guides who assisted in the work holds the record of having made the ascent more than five hundred times since the beginning of of his professional career, and it was he who found recently the bodies of the Austrian professor and his two guides who lost their lives not long ago.

In place of being entirely movable about a pivot, like ordinary telescopes, the telescope on Mont Blanc is fixed and directed towards the polar star. A movable mirror placed near the lower opening enables the observer to study whatever star he wishes, its image being thrown upon the glass. This makes necessary a protective cupola of comparatively small dimensions.

The particular advantage to astronomers in having an observatory at such high altitude as this one lies in the transparency and purity of the atmosphere. The study of the stars, however, will not be the sole task of the observers, for some of them will devote themselves especially to meteorology as on the summit of Mont Blanc, says Prof. Janssen, they will be in the very origin of atmospheric phenomena.

A Bicycle That Fits in a Valise.

A Frenchman has invented a bicycle that can be taken apart, packed in a valise and carried, it is claimed, with ease and comfort whenever the wheelman is travelling by rail. If the wheel breaks down on the road the rider can uncouple the parts and carry it slung over his shoulder. The machine is not built for fast riding, but only for ordinary road work. The wheels are 11¾ inches in diameter, the toothed wheel which communicates the power from the pedals being nearly as large. The horizontal bar is in two parts, which are securely screwed. When this bar is unscrewed the machine is in two parts, the first step toward packing. The saddle is removed and the handles are taken off. The four pieces are then packed into a valise measuring 23½ inches by 15¾ by a little more than 8 2-5 inches. The whole weight of the machine is 18¾ pounds. If the wheelman breaks down on the road he divides his machine into four pieces and balances the parts over his shoulder with a padded strap provided for this purpose. The inventor insists that this is a great deal better than having to hold a crippled machine up and trundle it. The machine can be put together or taken apart in about two minutes. The pedals are so close to the ground that the rider can at any time come to a stop by putting a foot to earth. For this reason there is said to be little danger of a serious accident with this wheel. It is asserted that a single revolution of the pedal will drive the wheel 15 feet and 6 inches, which is not bad traveling for a roadster. The machine is quoted at a comparatively low price, and the replacing of the tire is much less expensive than in the case of a larger wheel.

Origin of Pumice-Stone.

Pumice-stone is the theme of Mr. Norman Douglass' report transmitted to the foreign office by our ambassador at Rome, and this important item in the Italian exports furnishes some interesting details, says the London Daily News. Pumice, as is well known, is of volcanic origin, being a trachytic lava which has been rendered light by the escape of gases when in a molten state. It is found in most of the shores of the Tyrrhenian Sea and elsewhere, but it is at present almost exclusively obtained from the little island of Lipari. Most of the volcanoes of Lipari have ejected pumiceous rocks, but the best stone is all the product of one mountain, Monte Chirico, nearly 2,000 feet in height, with its two accessory craters. The district in which the pumice is excavated covers an area of three square miles. It has been calculated that about 1,000 hands are engaged in this industry, 600 of whom are employed in extracting the mineral. Pumice is brought to the surface in large blocks or in baskets and is carried thus either to the neighboring village, or to the seashore, to be taken thence in boats. The supply is said to be practically inexhaustible.

THE DETROIT HORROR.

More Gruesome Sights Brought to Light by the Workmen—The Engineer to be Held.

Detroit, Nov. 8.—Late last night a body of workers who were picking at the ruins at 49, uncovered the head of a girl, whose body was pinned beneath the heavy timbers lying along The Journal building. She was not disfigured. George Uhlick, who was looking for his sister, Anna, was in the group who found the body. The boy recognized his sister immediately, and his grief was awful. It was 10 o'clock this morning before the girl's body could be gotten from underneath the heavy logs. At 10.15 the workers uncovered the leg of a man. He was under heavy machinery and it was afternoon when the body was recovered. It was crushed and mangled, but was identified by the clothing as that of Charles Lind.

With the exception of Annie O'Donoghue, who is still in a critical condition, all of the injured are doing well and will recover.

This morning the prosecuting attorney ordered that Engineer Thompson, who was in charge of the boilers of The Journal building, be kept under police surveillance.

HEIRS TO $60,000.

The Four Children of Prof. Crowther of Hamilton Made Rich by the Death of an Uncle.

Hamilton, Nov. 8.—The four children of Prof. Crowther, 100 Jackson-street west, have fallen heirs to an estate valued at $60,000. The estate was bequeathed to the children by Joseph Crowther, a brother of Prof. Crowther, who was an ecclesiastical architect in Manchester, England. Prof. Crowther was for some years one of Hamilton's most prominent musicians.

Chief Smith to-day received from R. S. Biggar, M.D., deputy coroner of Marion County, Ind., a small box containing several bones from the burned body of little Howard Pitzel. Accompanying the box was a small section of the celebrated Holmes trunk. The articles will be placed in the curiosity shop.

John Caffery, while engaging in an altercation, was struck on the head with a bucket by a man named Hewitt and was knocked down. He was unconscious for an hour.

THE FARR ARSON CASE.

Mrs. Thompson Tells All About the Letter Received From the Prisoner.

Winnipeg, Nov. 8.—In the Farr arson and attempted murder case at the assizes to-day, Miss Maggie Robinson and Mrs. Thompson, with whom Miss Robinson boarded, were the chief witnesses. The latter will be remembered as the woman with whom Farr kept company and led to believe he was a single man and would marry her. She related the whole history of her acquaintance with the prisoner as formerly given in the Police Court, and identified several letters received by her from him, while he was a fugitive from justice. The letters were relied on by the prosecution to show Farr's motive in burning the house and cremating his wife and children. Mrs. Thompson deposed as to Farr's frequent visits to Miss Robinson; also that she was absent on the night of the fire and that she was frequently out all night. This was considered a good point for the defence. Miss Robinson's cross-examination will be continued to-morrow.

Business in Canada.

Bradstreet's says: The five Canadian cities, Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton, Winnipeg and Halifax, report $23,930,000 bank clearings this week, an increase of more than 14 per cent. over last week, but a decrease of more than 1 per cent. from the total in the first week of November last year. Compared with the corresponding week in 1893 this week's Canadian bank clearings total shows a gain of 11 per cent., and as compared with 1892, the gain is 4 per cent. General trade at Montreal continues quiet, owing to the prevalence of mild weather, noticeably in dry goods and woollens. Jobbers in groceries and hardware report a decreasing interest. Toronto jobbers of staples complain of the effects of mild weather. Advices from St. John's, N.B., report business quiet and that mill owners expect an average lumber cut. Large shipments of potatoes and oats have been made from Prince Edward Island. There are 39 business failures reported from the Canadian Dominion, against 48 last week and 40 in the corresponding week last year.

SHIPBUILDING STRIKE SPREADING.

The Dispute May Extend to the Thames, Tyne and Other Shipyards.

Glasgow, Nov. 8.—The strike of engineers and others in the Clyde shipbuilding yards is spreading, and will embrace all the fitters and engineers now working. It is possible also that the dispute between the employers and employes may extend to the Thames, Tyne and Weir shipyards.

Chief Secretary Asked to Intervene.

Rumoured Establishment by a Canadian Firm of a Branch in Albany, N. Y.

ALBANY (Special) Nov. 4.—The outcry in certain quarters against the high tariff still goes on, but it is to the tariff that Albany is likely to owe the addition of another industry to her numerous existing ones. A Canadian firm located in Toronto has, it is understood, been interviewed by an Albany business man, with a view to establishing in this city a manufactory of the staple kidney remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills. As the business done by the Canadian firm throughout the United States has assumed very large porportions, owing to the recognition by the American public of the great value of this staple, it is probable that arrangements will be satisfactorily entered into. The annual output is very large and is rapidly increasing.

A GOSPEL DEBATE.

MOSE DEFINES WHAT IS MEANT BY AN UNPARDONABLE SIN.

The Torgiversations of Prof. Swinegoober, With Particular Reference to Yank Lumpkins' Shoats---Likewise Something About a Sorghum Mill and a Roan Mare.

The farmers of Marshall county, Ky., take a great deal of interest in religion. They get together at public workings and discuss in every imaginable form what they consider the knotty portions of the Bible. With the exception of the newspapers, their reading is confined exclusively to the Bible.

The primitive Baptists, or "hard-shells," as they are called, prevail in great numbers. As a general rule, these people agree upon the main principles of the Church, but there are a great many minor points in regard to various passages of the Bible that they utterly fail to agree upon. It is this existing state of affairs that brings about many discussions, which are carried on in the school houses, churches and other public places.

If any one gets mad during the discussion of a given point it is considered as evidence that he is beaten; but, as a general rule, the best of feeling prevails.

I had the pleasure of hearing a discussion of this character not long since, at a place called Pew Flat School House. There was quite a crowd present, and when I arrived, the first speaker, whose name was Moses Lucas, had the floor. He picked up a Bible about the size of a trunk, and laid it upon a barrel in front of him; then he stuck both of his thumbs in the armholes of his vest, and said: "Mr. Chairman—I am called upon to give my views in regards to this unpardonable sin what the Bible speaks about, and in order that you all may understand what it says, I'll read it before going any further." He then opened the Bible and read the following passage: "All manner of sin shall be forgiven the sons of man, except the sin against the Holy Ghost, and that hath never forgiveness in this world nor in the world to come."

"Now, then, my friends," continued the speaker, "this language was used by Christ, and they say it teaches that a fellow can commit an unpardonable sin. Just what shape this sin has got to be got up in, or just what sort of a row it would stir up in a neighborhood when committed, I am unable to say; of course, a fellow can do a great many things that don't look very bad in a general way, but when you come to examine them from a scientific standpoint it will appear upon the face of the investigation that they contain some large, black chunks of dismal sin that is, so far as I am concerned, now and forever unpardonable. Now, let the Holy Ghost be what it may, but while along the line of the sin against the Holy Ghost, I am reminded of the time Yank Lumpkins, Bliff Shanks and myself were trustees of the Pew Flat School District. We were at Nip Van Winkler's one day, helping him stack his wheat, when a fellow with a satchel in his hand came up and wanted us to hire him to teach the fall school. We had the rise of $40 in free school money, and for this sum Prof. Swinegoober, for that was his name, agreed to teach our youngsters for the specified term of three months. The fellow had on good duds, could talk in two or three different directions, and was peart a heap in figures; so we made up our minds to have him set in the 1st of August and teach the school.

"Well, everything went on tolerably smooth; in fact, Swinegoober taught a good school, and the little chaps learned mighty peart. One day Yank came over to my house, and says he:

"'Mose, has you seen anything of my two black shoats a-running round your place lately?'

"'No,' say I, 'Yank, I hain't seen 'em.'

"Then Yank said something about as how he didn't see what had become of them, and went off home. That night being Sunday night, I went over to chat with Yank for a few hours, and, while we were out at the lot doing up the night work, there came up to the fence two sandy-haired shoats and grunted around as though they were used to being fed there every day. They had a crop off the right ear and a swallow fork and underbit on the left, which was a hog mark that had been in Lumkins' family so long that everybody knew it. Of course, Yank knew that the mark corresponded with his hog mark, but they had sandy hair, while his hogs were black hair altogether. Just about this time we heard some one calling hogs away over in Pole Cat Holler, about a mile away. The shoats stuck their ears straight up and made a bee line in the direction of the calling, and Yank and I followed close behind them, for we were anxious to know who they belonged to. The shoats would run awhile and then they would stop and listen; then they would start off as though they were going to the call of some one who had been feeding them.

"All at once they plunged over the hill, then down into the hollow where they went straight into a rail pen that had been built for the occasion. The gap was closed after them, and Prof. Swinegoober, our school teacher, threw over some corn, and, looking over the fence said: 'Now, my bright little swine pets, you are in prison again and you will have to get an extra hump on you if you get out the second time.' Then he picked up a bucket of what proved next day in Squire Nimrod's court to be some sort of dye or paint; from this he had taken a brush and proceeded to give what proved to be Yank's shoats a fresh coat of paint.

"By this time Yank seen through the whole game, I know, for he stooped down and picked up a rock about the size of a washtub, and had it not been for my timely interference, he would have swiped Prof. Swinegoober's light out there and then, but he finally concluded to let Squire Nimrod deal with him according to the law of Kentucky. The trial, which came off the next day in Yank's barn, showed that it was Prof. Swinegoober's intention to dye the shoat's hair, so that he could carry them off without suspicion, sell them, and, in all probability, spend the money in riotous living. This, I say, was all proved beyond the merest existing shadow of a doubt, and he was accordingly offered a lucrative position in the State Pen, which he, after some useless hesitation, decided to accept.

"The morning Prof. Swinegoober left for his new abode I was the only man that would shake hands with him, and bid him godspeed; and after he got there I was the only man that would write to him and tell him how sorry I was for him, and when he got sick I was the only man that would go to see him. After he had served about four years of his time I circulated a petition for his pardon, and was the only man to sign it. This all may seem very strange, but somehow or other I felt as though he had stolen Yank's hogs in the sudden heat of passion; therefore, I looked forward to the day of his liberation with some little degree of pleasure, but I didn't have long to wait, for one day the train rolled into Calvert City and Prof. Swinegoober was on it, and I was the only man to meet him at the station and welcome him back to liberty. When he said something one day afterwards about another start in the world, I gave him enough scads to buy a sorghum mill. Six months passed and Prof. Swinegoober made molasses, and said nothing that would lead me to think that he was going to pay me back; but on the contrary, he came to me one day, and says: 'I say, Mose, you're my friend yet, ain't you?'

'Yeh,' says I.

"'Well,' says he, 'I want you to do me another favor; you won't mind doing it, will you?'

"'Nope,' says I 'Mr. Swinegoober, I will do what I can to help you turn a new leaf.'

"'All right,' says he. 'Now, what I want you to do is to lend me enough money to get married on, for I feel like the influence of a good wife would help me to forget the past, and improve the future.'

"Yes, I lent him all I had, $50, and that night, while I was dreaming about what a good, kind-hearted Christian cuss I was, he stole my old roan mare and skipped the country. From that day until this I have never seen hair nor hide of Swinegoober; still folks ask me if I ever seen anything that looked like an unpardonable sin." The speaker then took his seat.—Globe Democrat.

One Way to Secure Back Salary From an Assigned Employer

A man who is compelled to pay his just debts even through trickery, has no recourse at law in many cases. This is amply demonstrated by the following little story which is not two days old.

A young New Yorker was clerking for a cigar dealer doing business within a few blocks of the post-office. The dealer assigned and beat his employe out of $7. This happened about three months ago.

The employe went back to New York and devised a plan to get paid. He secured a large-sized cigar box, filled it with shavings, on top of which he laid his receipted bill for $7, plus $1 for his trouble. Then he made a nice package which he sent C. O. D. to his old employer who had resumed business. The latter thinking that the box was filled with an extra fine brand of cigars paid the $8 and now he swears that it is the worst trick ever played on him.

He will not swear out a warrant, however, against the clerk, who had given a fictitious name to the express company to avoid suspicion.

Fort William, Ont.

Mr. William Day, of Fort William, Ont., says: Two years ago my wife was very ill with dyspepsia. No remedy that she could find gave any relief. Finally she tried Burdock Blood Bitters, and after taking six bottles was entirely cured. That is now more than two years ago and she has had no return of the malady. I also have had occasion to use B. B. B. and I cannot speak too highly in its favour. I always recommend it to my friends and in every case with good results. Yours truly, WM. DAY.

The Healthiness of Yawning.

A celebrated Belgian physician says that yawning is an exceedingly healthy function generally, besides having a very salutary effect in complaints of the pharynx and eustachian tubes. According to the results of late investigations, yawning is the most natural form of respiratory muscles of the chest and neck. It is recommended that every person should have a good yawn, with stretching of the limbs, morning and evening, for the purpose of ventilating the lungs and tonifying the muscles of respiration. An eminent authority claims that this form of gymnastics has a remarkable effect in relieving throat and ear troubles, and says that patients suffering from disorders of the throat have derived great benefit from it. He makes his patients yawn either by suggestion, imitation, or by a series of full breaths with the lips partly closed. The yawning is repeated six or eight times, and should be followed by swallowing. By this means the air and mucus in the eustachian tubes are respirated.

Hood's is Wonderful.

No less than wonderful are the cures accomplished by Hood's Sarsaparilla, even after other preparations and physicians' prescriptions have failed. The reason, however is simple. When the blood is enriched and purified, disease disappears and good health returns, and Hood's Sarsaparilla is the one true blood purifier.

Hood's Pills are prompt and efficient and do not purge, pain or gripe. 25c.

To destroy worms and expel them from children or adults use Dr. Low's Worm Syrup.

THE SECRET OUT

THE secret is out. The Government Insurance Blue Books have revealed it. The facts of the case will prove of real value to all those seeking a company where permanent satisfaction can be secured under a Policy of Life Insurance. The telescope has been turned upon those who withdrew from [illegible] prominent companies in 1894.

It is obvious to any one that the proportion of persons who lapse or surrender their policies in any company is a fairly good test of the satisfaction or dissatisfaction existing therein. If policy-holders are receiving satisfactory profit results, if they are being honestly and honourably dealt with, if they cannot do better elsewhere, then it is plain these facts will show themselves in the small number who surrender their policies or allow them to lapse.

To test these conditions, and to discover the company that is giving greatest satisfaction to its policy-holders, as evidenced by their determination to continue their policies, we have made an analysis of the facts, as reported in the blue books containing the business for 1894 of the leading Canadian Companies. We have calculated the ratio per cent. of assurances surrendered to the average business in force in 1894 also the ratio per cent. of assurance lapsed to the average business in force. Intending assurers have here an inside view of Life Assurance that is full of significance. When a company stands out so prominently as does the CAANDA LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY in this test, it means that its merits are known and recognized by those who become connected with it.

This is but another of those numerous tests in which the CANADA LIFE shows its superiority.

The following table tells the whole story :—

COMPANY.	Per Cent. Surrendered.	Per Cent. Lapsed.	Per Cent. Lapsed and Surrendered.
CANADA LIFE.....	.70	2.10	2.80
Confederation Life	2.33	4.65	6.98
North American	1.73	6.97	8.70
Ontario Mutual	2.51	6.59	9.10
Sun Life.....	2.63	8.54	11.17

The above figures are compiled from the Dominion Insurance report, issued by the Superintendent of Insurance, at Ottawa.

Once more, and as usual, the CANADA LIFE COMPANY comes out on top.

COMPARE

The following two Peterborough results with anything else of the kind in existence in the town. Other companies promise, we perform. That is the great difference.

W. H's Life Policy for $10,000, issued April, 1889, Age 23, Annual Premium $177.

Total Cost for 6 years.....1,062 Dollars
Profits Added to Policy .....1,250 Dollars
Nearly 200 Dollars more than Insurance Cost.

A. E's Life Policy for $5,000, issued April, 1886, Age 22, Annual Premium $86.

Total Cost for 9 years..... 774 Dollars
Profits Added to Policy .....1,000 Dollars
More than 200 Dollars over Cost of Insurance.

A QUEER PROPOSAL.

It Came Tardily, but it Was a Model in its Brevity, and so was the Answer.

An aristocratic young lady of Madgeburg, Germany, had spent some time at the country-seat of her uncle, and a young cavalier from Berlin had been paying much attention to her. Everybody thought that it would be a good match for both, and affairs went on swimmingly, until the day drew near when the young lady was to return home. The nearer the day came the more disappointed were the young miss and her mother at the failure of the young man to ask the all-important question. Finally, they left their relatives' house in great dismay, and just before leaving the young lady remarked to her uncle that it probably was as well for both, as her mother had not much use for such a "chicken-hearted son-in-law." They left on a train on the narrow-gauge railway, connecting the valley with the nearest town.

After they had gone the young man questioned the uncle why the young lady had gone away so angry and hardly noticed him when bidding good-by. The uncle, a blunt ex-soldier, repeated the remark made by his niece when leaving, to the young man, who was touched to the quick by the insinuation of cowardice contained therein. He was very much in love with the lady, and had abstained from broaching the subject on account of his not considering it proper to propose anywhere but at the young lady's home, which he intended visiting before long.

This remark, however, roused his sense of honor, and, without saying another word, he mounted his horse, which happened to stand ready for an outing, and galloped after the train., which had left a quarter of an hour before. Owing to benign Providence, and the management of this country railroad, he caught the train before it had reached the next station, Karow; he spied the young lady at the window of a first-class compartment, and riding up to the train before it came to a full stop, almost shouted, breathlessly: "My dear Miss——, I ask for your hand. Yes or no?"

In the station Karow, just as the train arrived, a "Yes" was joyfully given by the young Miss and tearfully approved by her mamma.

The Value of Poultices.

Most ills are vastly helped, and some are wholly cured, by the simplest remedies. Among those poultices stand at the head of the list. Nearly everyone is acquainted with their worth when local inflammatory conditions are recognized. Who has not had at some time in his life a "festered" finger or a boil? and what more quickly relieved the pain than the soft, warm poultice? In deep-seated inflammation, such as in affections within the chest or the abdomen, panitices are of inestimable service. In pneumonia a poultice like a jacket is often placed about the sufferer. So too, in bronchitis, "catarrh of the breast" so called, and so common among infants, the poultice is called into service. The easiest way to make such a poultice is to spread the moist mixture, whatever it may be, upon an under vest. Split open the vest, so the spreading can be done smoothly and quickly. Pin it together with safety pins closely about the patient, and cover the vest all over with a jacket of oiled silk. If this cannot be procured use oil-cloth of any kind. The reason why a poultice needs covering is to keep it warm and moist. The only way to accomplish this is by placing over the poultice a substance which is both impervious to air and moisture. No matter what the poultice is to be used to relieve, nor where it is to be applied, it must be kept warm all the time or it does no possible good. If one is so situated that even oil-cloth is beyond reach, either fill a bottle with hot water and place it on the poultice, or heat an iron and place against it if a pendant part like the hand or foot is poulticed.

THE WHEEL.

News has just been received of the defeat of Champion Arthur Zimmerman in his first race in Australia. The cablegram states that he finished second to J. W. Parsons in a five mile race. Parsons is the ten mile champion of Australia, and is reputed to be a remarkable rider. Harley Davidson says that the Australian rides a Brantford wheel.

There will be no more attempts to lower records this year in Peterborough, as the weather has completely gone back on the wheelmen. A promenade concert and hop will be held in the skating rink to-morrow evening for the entertainment of the visitors. All are invited.

LACROSSE.

A meeting of the members of the Athletic Lacrosse Club is called for Wednesday evening, Nov. 13th, at the Palace Restaurant club rooms. Any person having accounts against the club are requested to send them in to the secretary, Mr. C. LeBrun.

THE TURF.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 9.—The stabling quarters at Pimlico were inadequate to accommodate the large number of racers that have arrived to participate in the racing meeting of the Saratoga Racing Association, which will begin Monday. A large number have been quartered at other stables. Francis Trevelyan has been appointed Jockey Club steward. The betting will be conducted on the old bookmaking plan, and $100 a day will be charged for the privilege. Some of the layers of odds complain that this is too much, considering the patronage the meeting is likely to receive. Nevertheless, there will probably be enough bookmakers on hand to accommodate all who desire to speculate. The entries:

First race, ¾ mile—Pitfall 100, Ameer, Trinculo 108, Hatton 105, Addie, Fatal 99, Merry Duke 102, Pontiear, Juanita, Phoebus, Fannie B. 100, Lady McCann 90, The Sage 97, Thurston 105, Tom Harding 99.

Second race, 5½ furlongs—Nestor, Beatrice III., Ha Ha, Royal H., Mildred D., Beau Ideal 108, Chester 111.

Third race, one mile—McKee, Ina 109, Van Brunt, The Swain, Sun Up 112.

Fourth race, ⅞ mile—Septnor, Fifield, Emotional, Protest 97, Intermission, Roundsman 109, Predicament 100, Florrie, Marslan 103, Wishard 109.

Fifth race, 1 1-16 miles—The Swain 93, Phoebus, Sue Kittle 90, Maurice 107, Lochinvar 102, Golden Gate 95, Candelabra 102, Dorgett 105, Marshall 108, Little Tom 99, Defender 87.

St. Louis results: A sloppy track made the going uncertain. Public favorites lost straight through the card. Four outsiders and a second choice took first money.

First race, 5 furlongs—Johnny McHale 1, Bridget 2, Little Grove 3. Time 1.04.

Second race, 7 furlongs—Lenseman 1, La Salle 2, Philetta 3. Time 1.34½.

Third race, 7 furlongs—Sandowne 1, Linda 2, Simmons 3. Time 1.31¾.

Fourth race, 1½ miles—Blue Banner 1, Billy McKenzie 2, Young Arion 3. Time 2.45.

Fifth race, 1 mile—Loudon 1, Redskin 2, J.P.B. 3. Time 1.47.

Alexander Island results—First race, 4½ furlongs—Red Cross, 8 to 1, 1; Fluellen, out, place, 2; Blondy's Victim 3. Time .57½.

Second race, 6½ furlongs—Cockade, 1; Redowa, 7 to 5, place, 2; Bullison 3. Time 1.24¼.

Third race, 4 furlongs—Crescent, 2 to 1, 1; Hands Off, even, 2; Wellman 3. Time .51.

Fourth race, 1 mile—King Paul, 15 to 1, 1; Hearn out, place, 2; Valkyrie 3. Time 1.42½.

Fifth race, 5 furlongs—Laprentice, 40 to 1, 1; Jersey, 6 to 5, place, 2; Samaritan 3. Time 1.03¾.

Sixth race, 6¼ furlongs—Tom Brophy, 6 to 1, 1; Devisee, 6 to 1, place, 2; Duke of Fife 3. Time 1.23¼.

Riley Grannan, it is said, is going to England to beard the lion in his den and fight the English betting ring.

College Girl Athletes in Bloomers.

Poughkeepsie, N.Y., Nov. 9.—The first field day for the various college girl athletes was held to-day in a drazzling rainstorm. The only spectators were the students and their guests, all outsiders being rigidly excluded. The 100 yards' dash was run off in trial heats, as follows: First heat, won by Miss Ward, '98; second by Miss Wilkinson, '98; third by Miss Thallon, '97. Final by Miss Elizabeth Vassar, '98, who also won a place in one of the other heats. In the running trials jump the winner was Miss Leslie Baker, distance 11 feet 5 inches.

The 120 yards' hurdle was run in trial heats. The first heat was captured by Miss Edith Ward, who had a walkover. The second by Miss M. Johnston. Time 25 3-4 seconds, but it was unfinished.

In the running high jump there were four contestants. Miss Brownell won with a mark of 48 inches. Miss Baker scored 46 inches, Miss Vassar 45 inches, and Miss Spaulding 41 inches.

The summary showed 25 points for '97, 14 for '98 and 5 for '99. The prize flag will, therefore, go to '97.

The field day was purely a student affair. The girls were divided skirts, quite full, and of a pleasing appearance, with sweaters, which showed by their color the class of wearer. Each girl who made a record will receive a medal. In the hurdle jumping contest the hurdles were 10 in number and were two and one-half feet high, and 12 yards apart. There were 10 contestants in the 100 yards and nine in the running broad jump, six in the 120-yard hurdle race, 10 in the running high jump, two in the 220-yard run, and 33 in the basket ball contest.

An Important Office.

To properly fill its office and functions, it is important that the blood be pure. When it is in such a condition, the body is almost certain to be healthy. A complaint at this time is catarrh in some of it various forms. A slight cold develops the disease in the head. Droppings of corruption passing into the lungs bring on consumption. The only way to cure this desease is to purify the blood The most obstinate cases of catarrh yield to medicinal powers of Hood's Sarsparilla as if by magic, simply because it reaches the seat of the desease, and by purifying and vitalizing the blood, removes the cause. Not only does Hood's Sarsparilla do this but it gives renewed vigor to the whole system making it possible for good health to reign supreme.

POLITICAL OUTLOOK.

Parliament to Meet Within Forty Days—A Remedial Bill to be Brought In. Mr. Iselin is Angry.

Ottawa, Nov. 10.Some of the newspapers have been freely discussing the political situation, and many absurd reports have been set afloat. A Conservative who is in a position to know what he is talking about thus speaks of the outlook:

The Governor-General will be back at Rideau Hall within a fortnight, the six bye-elections in Ontario and Quebec will be fixed as to their dates, the vacancies in the Senate will be filled, and Parliament will in all probability be in session within forty days.

The Government intend coming to Parliament with a remedial bill in regard to the Manitoba schools in case the Greenway Government do nothing in the meantime. And it is not likely that that Government will do anything.

The Federal Government intend to redeem their pledge of last session to introduce a bill of relief for the Catholics of Manitoba. Their measure will in all probability be a moderate one; in many respects a compromise. It will likely enact that Catholic ratepayers will be free to have their school taxes go to the support of Separate schools, that they will be free to select their own text-books in history, and that certain privilges will be conceded in the way of religious instruction. But outside of this any Separate schools thus created will be subject to public school inspection; teachers sent to the provincial examinations for certificates; and the text-books the authorized text-books of the province. There will be no reconstitution of the old Separate schools with their admitted inefficiency. This, in well-informed circles, is supposed to be the extent of the Government program of remedial legislation. If it is it will be adopted by the entire Cabinet, and the French Conservative leaders in Quebec and the Conservative leaders in Ontario will try and bring their followers in each of these great provinces into line on such a policy. The Government will justify the bill on the straight ground that the Catholics of Manitoba are, as Mr. Foster pointed out at London the other day, within the constitution as finally interpreted by the courts in asking for a remedial law giving them some kind of Separate schools.

The Government will not pretend to say that there should or should not be Separate schools in Manitoba judged on their merits, but simply that the constitution gives them, and therefore that they intend to obey the constitution, both because it is legal and because the peace and good feeling of the country call for the maintenance of the compact of Confederation. The Government will likely say they cannot help it if the Protestants of Ontario and Manitoba choose to ignore the constitution, but as far as they themselves are concerned they intend to abide by it. And the Conservatives say further that the Liberals are only using the school question so as to cause the Government trouble, that if Mr. Laurier were in power to-morrow Mr. Greenway would make any concession he would ask of him. This may be taken as a fair outline of the positon of the Government. Then what follows? That in the bye-elections which will come on almost immediately, the Government are bound to put up candidates who are friendly to some such form of remedial legislation as outlined above, and that if members of the Government go into ridings they will avow themselves as committed to remedial legislation.

The Controller of Customs will also have to declare himself about this time, and as far as can be learned learn, he will have no hesitation in doing so. He has continued on in the discharge of his departmental duties and avoided anything calculated to be a source of trouble to his colleagues; but once the Government outlines its policy, as it will do in North Ontario, Cardwell and West Huron, the Controller, in justice to himself and to his colleagues, must do the same.

The Government probably recognize that there are difficulties in the way of getting straight candidates in these ridings. Huron they can hardly expect to carry, but they intend to fight for North Ontario and Cardwell with all the energy they can command. They will make a strong appeal to the Conservatives in these ultra Protestant ridings not to condemn them because circumstances which they never created compel them to abide by the constitution, but to support them because they are Conservatives, because they are true to the National Policy and true to the traditions of Sir John Macdonald.

The real and most important issue is the fiscal policy of the country, and it is on this line the Government ought to be judged, but if the question of the schools is to be added to this, they are willing to be judged on their fiscal policy and on their respect for the provisions of the constitution, which guarantee certain rights to minorities, whether such minorities be Protestant or Catholic.

The Fisheries Department was notified yesterday of the seizure in Canadian waters, near Amherstburg by the cruiser Petrel of an American fishing schooner, The Telephone. This is the first this fall of what may be a number of seizures of a similar character, unless poachers from the American side keep in their own waters. Reports which have reached the department here show that lately these vessels have been very bold in pursuing their illegal methods, and it is the intention of the department during the remainder of the season to keep up a sharp patrol.

Flour Mill Burnt by Firebugs

The Million Versus the Hundred.

It is for the million. It is for the table of the working man. It is within the reach of all. And it is wholesome. It is healthful. It makes blood. It makes hope. It stimulates. and this is what the Bordeaux Claret Co, has been doing with its cheap French Wines. The whole country is buying clarets, sherries and burgundies now at $3. and $4 per dozen. And there is not an ache in a hogshead. The light wines of France, pure, and supple. A boon to the whole people. One can treat a friend now when he comes to the house. One can have a bottle of wine on the table with dinner, to aid in the assimilation and digestion of his food, and thus promote health. Address Bordeaux Claret Co, 30 Hospital Street, Montreal.

DIRECT IMPORTER,

What's Your Experience?

—)o(—

Can you buy your Dry Goods any cheaper in the large and luxurious stores for cash than you can from us with our smaller and less expensive shop, where you can get a little accommodation if you need it?

I frequently ask my customers this question and the answer is invariably No. I have always been in a position to meet the lowest prices in town, no matter where or what; but I have never been in a better position to make close prices than now, and as a consequence some Wonderful Bargains are just to hand.

GENUINE THANKSGIVING AND STOCK-TAKING SALE.

For the next Thirty Days I intend running off my whole stock at about COST price, previous to stock taking, in order to save the expense of unrolling and measuring the goods, which requires expensive additional help. In this way the cost of stock-taking clerks will be taken off the price of goods and my customers will get the benefit.

I will give my customers any of the goods advertised by any of the Friday and Saturday "Bargain Day" stores at the same prices any day of the week. Look as long as you like—let your search take you where it may—but don't spend a cent until you have compared what we have to offer with what is offered elsewhere.

THE BYE-ELECTIONS.

Warrants Issued by the Speaker For Two Writs.

CARDWELL AND NORTH ONTARIO.

Caution Required by Postmasters in Re-Directing Letters—Marriage of Col. Panet to the Daughter of Judge Taschereau—Low Water in Lake Erie.

Ottawa, Nov. 12.—Speaker White has issued two warrants for writs for bye-elections, viz., Cardwell and North Ontario.

Notice has been issued to postmasters enjoining them to exercise extreme care in redirection of letters. In a recent case a letter addressed to a commercial traveler, who was about to visit a certain place, was sent away from the post-office of that place to a neighboring office for the altogether insufficient reason that no person by the name mentioned in the address was accustomed to call at the first office, while a person of similar name was known to live near the second office. The result was that the letter was opened by a wrong party and the proper addressee failed to receive it, to his great inconvenience and disappointment. It would greatly help to insure prompt delivery of letters intended for commercial travelers, if parties posting such letters would endeavor so to address them as to make it evident that they are not inteded for permanent residents of the same name in the localities where they are to be delivered.

The marriage of Miss Corinne Taschereau, daughter of Judge Taschereau of the Supreme Court, to Lieut. Panet, R.E., son of Col. Panet, Deputy Minister of Militia, took place in the Sacred Heart Church this morning. It was a very swell affair, the elite of Ottawa society being present. The wedding ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Taschereau of St. John's Presbytery, Quebec, a brother of the bride, assisted by Rev. Father Valiquette, pastor of the Sacred Heart Church. Judge Taschereau gave the bride away. After the ceremony the bridal party drove to Judge Taschereau's residence, where breakfast was served to immediate relatives. Lieut. and Mrs. Panet left on the afternoon train for Montreal, where they will spend a week, after which they will return to Ottawa, remain here a few days, and sail on the 28th for England. They will remain in England until after Christmas, when they leave for India, where Lieut. Panet will resume his duties in the Imperial army.

The groom was until recently engaged with the Imperial forces in Waziristan on the Afghan border, and has received a clasp and medal for his services.

In the Supreme Court to-day Mr. W. Cassels, Q.C., began his argument for the respondents in Charlebois v. Delap. He argued first an the evidence that the agreement by which the original shareholders of the G.N.W. Central Railway Co. hold their shares in the road was a fraud on the company, and next on that the judgment by consent that was varied by the judgment appealed from could have been set aside as a matter of law and was properly varied. Mr. Cassels had not concluded his argument when the court adjourned.

The Fisheries Department has received a petition from the wholesale and retail fish dealers of Montreal, asking that steps be taken to prevent the catch of miniature fish in Lakes St. Peter and St. Francis. A ton of miniature fish was thrown into the river on Saturday, some averaging only 20 to the pound. Prof. Prince points out that the law at present provides against catching of any miniature fish except pike. He will report to the Minister on the subject matter of the petition.

Lighthouse-keeper David Foster at Port Colborne, in his report to the Marine Department, says: "Not for 35 years has the water been lower in Lake Erie than it is to-day. In the Welland Canal it is only 11 feet 11 inches on the mitre sills." Mr. Foster in closing his letter states his opinion that the deeper the channel is made the lower the water will be. Vessels are carrying from 14,000 to 20,000 bushels less than their capacity.

Advices received at the Fisheries Department show that 11 New England fishing vessels have been lost this season off the coasts of Canada and Newfoundland, their value being $70,000. Ninety lives were lost on these vessels, most of the victime being Canadians.

The Government has received no advices of seizures by the Russians of any Canadian sealing vessels in Okhotsk Sea. If any are in custody, as reported, they must be American. All Canadian vessels are either at home or are wintering in Japan. The Okhotsk Sea is, moreover, not a famous sealing ground. There is only one rookery there; from which an American company procured 1900 seals in 1893, and the year before none at all.

IMPERIAL UNITY.

Mr. Chamberlain Says the British Race is the Greatest Governing Race the World Has Ever Seen.

London, Nov. 12.—The Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, Secretary of State for the Colonies, presided to-night at a banquet given in honor of of Col. Gerard Smith, Governor-Designate of Western Australia. Mr. Chamberlain made a speech, in the course of which he said he looked forward to the time, which he believed was not far distant, when the Australian colonies would imitate the wise example of Canada and unite for a common purpose. He rejoiced that a step had been taken in this direction by New South Wales. Federation would consummate a great idea, in which local jealousy and petty ambition would be buried in the foundation of a mighty commonwealth, destined perhaps, at some time, to outstrip the waning greatness and lagging civilization of the older countries of Europe. It would be a step in the direction of that imperial unity which is cherished as the ideal future of the British race. (Cheers.) He believed that the British race was the greatest governing race the world ever had seen. He believed there were no limits to its future.

FROM WHEEL TO DEATH.

A Prominent Toronto Man Killed by a Trolley Car.

Toronto, Nov. 12.—Mr. John D. Armstrong, of the real known residents of the north end, was killed last evening as a result of his bicycle being struck by a trolley car. Mr. Armstrong was an enthusiastic cyclist and always made use of his wheel as a means of transit while looking after his business affairs.

Shortly before 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon he was riding north on Yonge-street. While going down the Tannery Hollow hill at a rapid rate and riding off the devil strip, Mr. Armstrong heard a car approaching from the rear, going in the same direction as himself. The motorman's gong rang repeatedly as a signal of danger, which Mr. Armstrong apparently thought wise to heed, as he turned from the strip to cross in front of the car and take the side of the street outside the rails altogether.

The car was either closer or going faster than Mr. Armstrong had judged it to be, or he miscalculated his own speed, as he had scarcely passed midway of the rails when the fender of the car struck the rear wheel of his bicycle. The force of the collision gave Mr. Armstrong a terrific headlong throw from his wheel, several feet ahead and clear of the rails.

The unfortunate man struck squarely on his head on the block pavement and was picked up unconscious with blood gushing from his ears and nostrils. P. C. Follis called Dr. Cook, whose surgery was close at hand.

A brief examination showed the wounds to be of a very serious nature, and Mr. Armstrong was removed in a hack to his brother's home, 101 Davenport-road. Several medical men plied their skill to check the flow of blood, and restore the injured man to consciousness, but he never recovered from the condition in which he was when first picked up. Death came at 7.30 p.m.

NEW TACK ON THE SCHOOL QUESTION.

By Which Objections can be Met Without Federal Interference.

Winnipeg, Nov. 11.—The Free Press has taken a new tack on the Manitoba school question. It suggests that the Manitoba Government reiterate its refusal to obey the Remedial Order of the Ottawa Government, then call a meeting of the Legislature to pass such amendments to the school law of 1890, as in their opinion the decision of the Imerial Privy Council calls for. The Free Press argues that this course will not only preserve Manitoba's dignity and control of educational affairs, but take away any pretext for remedial legislation by the Federal Parliament, whether the amendments made suit the Roman Catholic minority or not.

Evidence for the defence in the Farr case was put in to-day, but it is not considered sufficiently strong to free the prisoner, the character of some of the witnesses being most disreputable. The argument of counsel is expected to consume the full time of the Court to-morrow.

W. B. Scarth, who leaves shortly for Ottawa to assume the duties of Deputy Minister of Agriculture, will be tendered a banquet at the Manitoba Club to-morrow night. Every seat is already taken.

MR McCARTHY IN MONTREAL.

The Member for North Simcoe Said to Have Made Some Remarks as to Mr. Greenway's Reply.

Montreal, Nov. 12.—The politicians are to-day discussing some remarks alleged to have been made by Mr. D'Alton McCarthy, who paid a flying visit to the city on Saturday last. It is said that the member for North Simcoe gave it to be understood that Premier Greenway's reply to the Dominion Ministers regarding the Manitoba school matter would render impossible the bringing down of remedial legislation during the January session. Without stating it in so many words the Manitoba Government will throw out a bare hope that something will be done in the near future to relieve the minority in the Prairie Province.

Although Mr. McCarthy does not say this, it is stated here that in pursuing this course the Manitoba Premier believes he is best advancing the Hon. Wilfrid Laurier's cause in this province of Quebec. A great many members who would vote for remedial legislation in the presence of a blank refusal from Hon. Mr. Greenway, would only be too glad to accept the latter's half-hearted promise to take the matter into consideration, and thus relieve themselves of the obnoxious duty of sanctioning Federal interference. It will be remembered that Hon. Mr. Angers predicted this state of affairs during his speech in the Senate after the Minister of Agriculture had sent in his resignation, Senator Angers claimed that Premier Greenway's answer would simply paralyze Parliament and that nothing would be done in the end.

ABOUT THE CZARINA.

Reports of the Young Empress' Critical Condition Are Without Foundation.

London, Nov. 11.—A despatch to the Central News from Darmstadt, the former home of the Czarina, denies the report that the Czarina, whose accouchement is now momentarily expected, has undergone the Caesarian operation and is expected to die from its effects. Her brother, the Grand Duke of Hesse-Darmstadt, has received no alarming news from St. Petersburg.

LAWYERS WRANGLED

Bad Day for the Crown in the Hyams Trial.

EVIDENCE RULED OUT BY THE COURT

The Testimony of a Street Railway Man Not Allowed by Mr. Justice Ferguson—Expert Evidence as to the Mode Slipping from the Elevator Weight.

Toronto, Nov. 12.—The second week of the trial of the diminutive Hyams twins opened somewhat inauspiciously for the Crown. His Lordship Mr. Justice Ferguson ruled out the testimony of the Street Railway Company's employes, which tended to show that the car taken by Harry Hyams on the morning of the death of young Wells did not leave the car house in charge of Driver Jeremiah Riordan until 10.42 o'clock, or about an hour and a half after Harry was said by Dr. King to have reached his office, having been conveyed there by Riordan and the bob-tail car.

This testimony is of material importance to the Crown, as it would aid them to prove that the young man had been dead nearly two hours before Harry Hyams undertook his trip from the Colborne-street warehouse in search of medical aid for a man he himself had told the car driver was already dead. The evidence was admitted in the former trial, and what effect its absence may have with the present jury is, of course, altogether a matter of conjecture. Yesterday Mr. David Carney, the railway company car starter, whom Mr. Lount facetiously referred to as the "star carter," was positive that Riordon had taken his car at the regular hour on the morning of the killing—10.42—but admitted that his positiveness on this point was based largely upon the fact that his books showed this to be the case. As the court had previously ruled the books out of evidence, the same action was taken with respect to the testimony of the witnesses from the railway company's offices.

A feature of the morning session was the cross-examination of "Star Carter" Carney by Mr. Lount. The witness proved that he was possessed of a peculiar memory. He was unshaken at first in the statement that he had seen Riordan when the latter reported for duty at 10.25 o'clock on the morning of January 16, 1893, and he minutely described, as a test of his memory, the movements of the same Riordan on the 3rd of the present month; his reporting at the starter's office between 5.30 and 6 a.m., boarding a Winchester-street car and starting off on his regular run, the various streets through which the car must pass being detailed by the witness.

"Well," responded Mr. Lount, "the people of Toronto will be greatly surprised to learn that the street cars are running as usual on the Sabbath." The day referred to in the above description by Mr. Carney was indeed Sunday and the witness could only say that had he a calendar in front of him he would not have been caught in the learned barrister's trap.

If the morning session can be denominated as having proven advantageous to the defence, the same thing can be said with respect to the Crown of the afternoon session when Civil Engineer Galt gave some very significant testimony. As a mechanical expert Mr. Galt could not see how the weight could have become detached from the hook as claimed by the defence, and was inclined to the belief that any obstruction in the shaft which might serve to block the weight in its progress up or down the shaft would have a tendency to make the grip of the hook more secure than otherwise.

In cross-examination, Mr. Lount, after having, after a great deal of experimenting, succeeded in balancing the hook with the point just entering the eye of the weight, asked what would be the effect should the elevator be started and the weight become obstructed. Mr. Galt admitted that in such a condition, or in the event of the weight being drawn rapidly to the roof of the building, the hook might possibly become detached, but it would be far more apt to slip into its proper place, and in this connection Mr. Galt asked: "How would you account for the hook getting into such a position?"

"Well, some person may have placed it in that careless manner. No one, of course you will understand, would think of doing such a thing wilfully but accidents will happen," explained Mr. Lount.

"Possibly," was all Mr. Galt had to say in reply. The jury took a very decided interest in Mr. Galt's testimony, showing that the mechanical side of the proposition is destined to cut an important figure in the final result of the Hyams' second struggle for life.

Largest Corn Crop on Record.

Washington, Nov. 11.—Returns to the Department of Agriculture make the corn crop the largest in volume on record with a rate of yield, however, somewhat less than that indicated by the returns for October, being 28.2 bushels per acre. The average yield of buckwheat is 20.1 bushels, against 16.1 last year. The average yield of potatoes is 100.7 bushels per acre; tobacco 743 pounds, and hay 1.06 tons. The crop of apples is reported as 71.1 per cent. of a full crop.

A Flying Roller Hangs Himself.

Windsor, Nov. 11.—C. W. Williams, a machinist, living in Pitts-street, committed suicide by hanging himself in his hen house. Seven years ago he joined the Prince Michaelites, but prior to this was a devoted member of All Saints' Church and officiated in the choir. His family tried to break him from the long haired sect, but it was no use. Williams was 45 years old and leaves a wife and three sons, the eldest being 16 years old.

His Mother-in-Law Is After Him.

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 11.—A local paper says Lord Sholto Douglass, the son of the Marquis of Queensberry, who married a variety actress a few months ago, is to be horsewhipped by Mrs. Addis, his mother-in-law. The disagreement is said to have resulted from the interference of Mrs. Addis. Lord Sholto told her that when he married Miss Addis he did not marry the whole family.

Weak, Tired, Nervous

Women, who seem to be all worn out, will find in purified blood, made rich and healthy by Hood's Sarsaparilla, permanent relief and strength. The following is from a well known nurse:

"I have suffered for years with female complaints and kidney troubles and I have had a great deal of medical advice during that time, but have received little or no benefit. A friend advised me to take Hood's Sarsaparilla and I began to use it, together with Hood's Pills. I have realised more benefit from these medicines than from anything else I have ever taken. From my personal experience I believe Hood's Sarsaparilla to be a most complete blood purifier." MRS. C. CROMPTON, 71 Cumberland St., Toronto, Ontario.

Daily Examiner.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1895.

BY the death of Mr. Smard, Conservative M.P. for Charlevoix, Que., the seventh Dominion seat is made vacant, so that if the government should call a session without holding bye-elections they would be short seven of their supporters, besides ten vacancies in the Senate.

THE EXAMINER on more than one occasion, has referred to the great work done by the Kindergartens in the direction of training the flexible minds of young children. A testimonial which speaks volumes comes from San Francisco, where it has been shown that out of 14,000 persons who were trained in these preparatory schools only one has been arrested for crime.

THE Queen has actually reigned longer than any other sovereign in English history, and only lacks one year of the fifty-nine of George III, which was broken by a regency. The long career of the Prince of Wales as such who on Saturday entered on his fifty-fifth year is also phenomenal. He is certainly a long time coming to his kingdom, and we all hope he will have to wait many years longer.

THE National Policy has one claim to success—it is successful in extracting the taxes from the pocket of the consumer. Why, in Montreal the taxes collect themselves—the position of Collector has been vacant for two years and the government has not ability enough to fill it, though one of its staunchest supporters has given a very strong suggestion by resigning his seat.

IN the six vacant ridings the government majority at the elections was as follows. If the Government adopt the policy announced in their journals, of holding the bye-elections before the session of Parliament, there will be contests in the following constituencies. The last Government majority is given in each case:

Cardwell	243
West Huron	16
North Ontario	234
Montreal Centre	1,214
Missisquoi	159
Jacques Cartier	276
Charlevoix	300

HIGH taxation advocates ask how we are going to get revenue to carry on the public service if we have tariff reform. The question is easily answered—by imposing taxes that bring revenue. The St. Thomas Journal uses sugar to illustrate that a large share of the burndensome taxes paid by the people of Canada never finds its way into the Dominion treasury. The Journal says:—"A revenue tariff is meant to produce the largest possible contributions to the treasury in proportion to the amount paid by the consumer. A duty on something which must be imported—like raw sugar—is the most obvious instance. All of such a tax goes to the treasury. A duty on refined sugar, such as that now imposed in Canada, is the best instance of "protection." It is absolutely prohibitory. None is imported, and the whole of the increased price paid by consumers—about $1,800,000 a year—goes to the refiner. Last session, a tax of ½c per pound had to be put on raw sugar, to secure a certain revenue and help to meet the deficit caused by over-protection. But this was made up to the refiner by increasing the duty on his product to the same extent. So that the public now pay a tax of $3,300,000 yearly on sugar—of which only $1,500,000 goes to the treasury."

THERE is a great lack of seasoned timber available for patching up the Dominion Cabinet. Sir Mackenzie having failed to secure the material, Spencer wood, has been trying to work over a bench. Mr. Meredith has been tentatively spoken of as a likely person to come to the rescue of the Cabinet in its extremity. But the Citizen, the Government organ at Ottawa, whether inspired or not is not known, discourages the idea. It says that the people of Ontario had a chance of making Mr. Meredith premier of Ontario a year and a half ago, but they did not do so, but now that he is on the bench he had better stay there. The Citizen says: "The theory of those who are now discussing him are that the Dominion Government is in danger of being beaten in Ontario, and that the Chief Justice would bring such strength to it as to avert disaster. We do not accept the assumption of probable defeat. Admitting it, however, for the sake of argument, to be true, the remedy appears to us worse than the disease. The success of the present Opposition is undesirable, but it is of far more importance that the judiciary should be free from the suspicion of partisanship, than that any set of men should retain office. To enjoy this immunity it is essential that when a man ascends the bench he shall be considered as having abandoned politics forever." Does the Citizen mean to imply that politics would be corrupted by the descent into the political arena of a judge from the bench, or that the influence of an ex-judge would be retroactive?

Kidney Talk.

Why is a person ever seriously ill?
Impure blood, nearly every time.
What is pure blood?
It is the vital fluid which, in passing through the kidneys, as it must do many times every hour, carries with it no impurity—perfectly filtered.
Will the kidneys always do this?
Yes, if they are not weak, or overworked, or injured by accident, or congested and inflamed by cold.
So long as the kidneys are in good health, so long will you be quite well and healthy.
What happens when the kidneys are out of order?
Why, any form of illness may happen. You can never know where or how it may end.
In case the warnings called symptoms are ignored, and the tissues of the kidneys break down, the doctor will tell you that it is diabetes and incurable, or Bright's disease, and a hopeless case.
But after that?
Well, watch this paper, and you can read of many great cures of these so-called incurable diseases by using Dodd's Kidney Pills.
But greater cures, we think, are the simple ones, the cures of the small beginnings, where the misery and the harm to the constitution are escaped.
What a happy thing cure is!
How endlessly people will talk of their case!
With what smiles and enjoyment!
Some of our grateful patients never come to the city without calling to talk over their cures.
A man by the name of Joshua Clarkson, living at 114 Robert street this city, came in the other day.
He had saved his life by using two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills.
What was the disease?
Diabetes.
Yes; he had lost thirty-one pounds in weight in five weeks.
It took him seven weeks to regain his health and his avoirdupois.
No one could hear him talk and not take courage, be he ever so sick.
A full account of this case will appear in this paper.
Then, not long ago Samuel Murray came in, looking well, too. He it was who was paralyzed for a whole year, given up by ever so many doctors and was cured by twelve boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills.
A reporter of a city paper saw him.
Seemed to think it impossible that a man could recover from such an illness:
There was no miracle about it. He used Dodd's Kidney Pills.
Hundreds of people are talking to each other about cures accomplished by this medicine, and these pills are selling everywhere.
And they always cure.

DR. BARNARDO'S HOMES.

It will be a satisfaction to the many friends of Dr. Barnardo's well-known work among the Waifs, and to the readers of his magazine, to see that in the October issue of Night and Day, the organ of the Institutions, Dr. Barnardo once more takes his seat in the Editorial Chair, and contributes, in "Personal Notes," &c., many stirring incidents of child rescue. The magazine teems with points of interest, and its pages bear eloquent witness to the need that exists for continued efforts on behalf of "Nobody's Children." The opening article consists of a paper prepared by Dr. Barnardo for the recent Church Congress at Norwich, and is an ardent and well-enforced plea for wider recognition of the task of child rescue. Emigration bulks largely in the number. It is a surprising fact that Dr. Barnardo's Homes alone have sent out over 8,000 boys and girls to Canada and the Colonies, and still more surprising that a success of 99 per cent. is claimed for this large output of trained and tested young lives. The current year is responsible, it seems, for no fewer than 727 emigrants. There is a closely-reasoned defence of appeals, and it is illustrated on by a long list of the wants which the maintenance of a family of nearly 5000 girls and boys involves. These wants range from stockings for big lads to "three gifts of £1000 each to enable the Homes to claim a challenge gift. The themes of the Editor's Personal Notes are as widely varied as usual and prove how deeply the work of the Homes has struck its roots and how numerous are the helpers who co-operate towards its success. A page of rescue cases under the title of "Somebody's Bairns," and a detailed report of the street collection held this summer in aid of the homes are also included in the number, which ought to bring much grist to the wonderful mill which grinds daily at 18 to 26, Stepney Causeway, London, E.

THE ONLY HELP.

A Victim of Bright's Disease for Many Years—Cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

NEEPAWA, (Special) Nov. 11.—Mrs. T. H. McKee, formerly of Listowel, came here as a last resort. Had suffered ten years with Bright's disease. Reported to be past help and dying, her reappearance on the street in apparent good health, was a pleasant surprise. The explanation given was that her little boy had insisted that she should use Dodd's Kidney Pills and prophesied that they would cure her. She says: "From the first few doses I began to feel better, and after taking four and a half boxes, I say it with heart felt gratitude, I am perfectly cured." Dodd's Kidney Pills is the only medicine in the world that has ever cured a case of Bright's Disease at such a stage.

NEWFOUNDLAND AND CANADA.

Premier Whiteway Coming to Renew th Negotiations Looking to Confederation with the Dominion.

St. John's, Nfld., Nov. 12.—The Telegram, the Government organ, announces that shortly after the arrival of Governor Murray, who is due about the end of the month, Premier Whiteway will leave on a visit to Canada. It expresses no definite opinion upon the object of his mission, but the prevailing opinion is that he goes to seek to reopen the confederation negotiations, it being almost a foregone conclusion that the colony cannot exist beyond another year as a self-governing one. The same paper urges the Government to appoint Sir Ambrose Shea, ex-Governor of the Bahamas, who is now visiting here, as Commissioner of the colony in London.

GOING SOUTH FOR SEALS.

The Arctic Sealing Grounds Cleaned Out—Now the Antarctic Will Be Raided.

New York, Nov. 11.—Having practically cleaned out the seals from the Arctic, the sealers have turned their attention again to the Antarctic, once the sealing ground of the world, but abandoned 50 years ago for the same reason that is now causing the abandonment of the Arctic. A representative of the syndicate of sealers that controls all the British sealing schooners hunting in the Arctic grounds left San Francisco for Australia on the last mail steamship, with the purpose of interviewing the Australian Governments as to the concessions, and of making an expedition to the southern grounds to learn from examination the actual condition of things.

Archie Hughes, one of the most famous seal hunters of the Pacific coast, was selected to make the trip, and his mission was kept secret until after he had sailed.

It is generally admitted by the old sealers that devastation amounting almost to wholesale destruction has been wrought among the seal herds of the north. More than 100,000 seals were caught this year, and the hunters do not hesitate to express their belief that this represents a very large portion of the entire herd. So, unless the sealing business is to suffer rapid decline and speedy extinction, something must be done right away. While the negotiations with the Australian Governments are to be made in behalf of the British syndicate, it is expected as soon as matters are arranged the San Francisco schooners will sail for the south along with the Victoria vessels. There is said to be some sort of an understanding to this effect.

Found His Wife Dead.

Paris, Nov. 11.—Madam Moreau, wife of M. Georges Moreau, a prominent mining engineer, was found burned to death in her bedroom at her residence, No. 28 Avenue Bugeaud yesterday. She had evidently fallen asleep while reading, and her clothes caught fire. Her husband arrived at Havre yesterday from New York on the steamer La Bourgogne, and learned of the frightful death of his wife upon reaching his home to-day. Mme. Moreau was a Miss Warren of Chicago.

Hood's Sarsaparilla, taken at this season, will make you feel strong and vigorous and keep you from sickness later on.

UNCONSCIOUS OF DANGER!

Many people buy Clothing without fully considering who they are buying from or what they are getting. You know that when you sell an article that is the product of your own hands, you know just what it contains and can thus guarantee it.

If you did not manufacture the article, but bought it from somebody else, you could not honestly guarantee it. This is where OAK HALL CLOTHING has the call over all others.

We make every article we sell. We know what it is then from stem to gudgeon. We know how they are made and can thus guarantee them Every Suit bears our name. Would we likely deceive you with goods bearing our trade mark? This is sensible talk. BUY OF THE MAKERS.

TURKISH SITUATION.

An Important Conference at Hatfield House.

SIR PHILIP CURRIE'S MOVEMENTS.

The British Ambassador Preparing for a Speedy Return to Constantinople—German and Austrian Press Speak Favorably in Regard to Lord Salisbury's Speech.

London, Nov. 12.—Sir Philip Currie, British Ambassador to Turkey, who has been here on leave of absence, had a conference with Lord Salisbury at Hatfield House to-day and immediately thereafter came to London to prepare for his speedy return to Constantinople.

Mr. Dickson, the British Consul at Jerusalem, has informed the Government that a mob has attacked the mission at Nablous, 33 miles north of Jerusalem. The missionaries escaped, but some of their servants were killed. Hon. M. H. Herbert, the British Charge d'Affaires at Constantinople, as soon as he learned of the affair, made a protest to the Porte, which at once instructed the Vali of Jerusalem to protect the missionaries in every way.

Approval From Berlin.

Berlin, Nov. 12.—The leading newspapers of Berlin comment upon Lord Salisbury's speech at the Lord Mayor's banquet as follows:

The Vossische Zeitung: "Lord Salisbury's speech is free from optimism, but is calculated to raise the deep-sunken hopes of a peaceful solution of the confusion in the east."

The National Zeitung: "Without any attempt at deception in regard to the dangers of the position, the speech still has a pacifying effect."

The Kreuz Zeitung: "We are glad to hear a reliable expression of the solidarity of the powers."

The Raichbot: "We are sincerely rejoiced to find a statesman expressing the idea of united christendom gathered to protect civilized peace."

The North German Gazette: "The speech proves the uncommon skill of diplomatic language and speaks of the future in a manner leaving it open to all possibilities, as a statesman ought to do, not knowing what eventualities may arise."

The Post: "The speech is an agreeable contrast to the alarmist treatment of Oriental affairs by the London press."

The Lokal Anzeiger: "The speech deserves decided attention, because it reduces to proper proportions the excessive fears which are disquieting Europe."

A despatch from Constantinople to The Cologne Gazette says the excitement of the populace throughout the Asiatic provinces of Turkey, is greatly increasing and the Porte is especially alarmed over signs of insurrection in various parts of Syria. Another conference of the ambassadors of the powers was held yesterday.

The Deutsche Tages Zeitung says: There are two sides to Lord Salisbury's speech. One slides over the East Asia question, while the other menaces the Sultan in a style that is calculated to encourage the Armenians.

The Volkes Zeitung says: The speech contains a serious threat. Great Britain contemplates the possibility of the powers separating, and is determined to bring about a bloody decision if the alliance continues its policy of non-intervention.

Will Reassure Everybody But the Sultan.

Vienna, Nov. 12.—The Neue Freie Presse says that Lord Salisbury's words will reassure everybody but the Sultan.

The Fremenblat, semi-official, says that the speech is a serious summons to the Sultan, but it is evident that the powers will maintain peace.

The Neuse Weiner Tagblatt declares that the speech denotes returning tranquility.

Russia Favorably Impressed.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 11.—The press and public were favorably impressed by Lord Salisbury's speech. The Novosti says it ought to calm public opinion in Europe.

Italian Warships For the Levant.

Rome, Nov. 12.—The Italian squadron, which has been ordered into the Levant waters, will consist of the cruisers Etna and the gunboats Vulturno and Sebastiano Veneiro. The Etna carries 24 guns of various calibre, the Vulturno 12 and the Sebastiano seven.

The Rascally Kurds Still at It.

Constantinople, Nov. 12.—The lawlessness of the Kurds in the eastern provinces has grown measureably since the demands for reforms were made upon the Sultan by Great Britain, France and Russia. The Sultan's very evident inclination to refuse to grant the demands or at least to defer giving a definite answer to the representatives of the powers, encouraged the Kurds to believe that the Sultan tacitly supported them in their attacks upon the Armenians.

The Kurds have assumed such an attitude of disregard to all authority that it is believed here that the officials are now powerless to stop them from continuing their massacring and pillaging.

Advices from the eastern provinces show that the condition of anarcy is such that a very strong force will have to be employed if any progress at all is to be made against the Kurds.

Troops Under Orders.

London, Nov. 12.—An unexepcted order was received at Devonport this evening for a detachment of troops to prepare to embark from Liverpool on Nov. 16 for the Gold Coast, Africa, where they will join the expedition that will be sent against the King of Ashantee. It is understood that a similar order has been dispatched to other garrisons.

Russian Warships Moving.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 12.—The cruisers Rurik, 10,900 tons, and Demitry, 5800 tons, left Cronstandt for a foreign cruise to-day. The Rurik carries four 8-inch, 13 1-2-ton breech-loading guns, 16 6-inch breech-loading, six quickfiring guns, and 18 magazine guns. The armament of the Demitry is two 8-inch 9-ton guns, 14 6-inch 4-ton guns, and 16 quick-firing guns.

Blaze at Hanover, Ont

Hanover, Ont., Nov. 11.—At an early hour Sunday morning fire destroyed the north building of the Hanover Spring Bed and Mattress Factory Company's works, also stock and machinery. The origin is supposed to have been spontaneous combustion.

Loss on factory over $2400, $1400 of which is covered by insurance; divided among the Manchester, Lancashire, Wellington and Waterloo Insurance Companies. The loss of the stable is fully covered in the British American.

A PRINCE FOR SALE.

He Will Give His Title and Himself For $2,000,000 in Cold Cash.

New York, Nov. 11.—An American heiress, with $2,000,000 and a desire for the title of Princess, may communicate with Pastor J. Berger, of the Roman Catholic Church of Leopold, Perry County, Ind. The $2,000,000 must be in cold cash or convertible securities. A slight dircount may be made on quick business.

Lawyer Albert S. Warner of No. 271 Broadway a couple of days ago received the subjoined letter, written in French, on the official notepaper of the church in question:

"Sir,—Hearing that you take charge of affairs of all kinds, I would like you to undertake to bring about a marriage, in regard to which I beg to make the following proposition: A young French Prince, a friend of mine, desires to contract a marriage in America with a young person (jeune personne), who has at least $2,000,000. Can you secure such an individual for him? If you can you will be paid after the marriage the sum of $10,000, as commission, which will be guaranteed to you. If you carry the matter through on or before Dec. 1 you will receive an extra compensation of $5000, as the need is urgent. The young Prince in question belongs to the most illustrious family of the French nobility. His title dates back to the time of the crusades. He is 29 years of age and a Catholic. He desires that the young person should also be a Catholic, but the religious question will not necessarily be an obstacle to an otherwise satisfactory marriage.

"If you will undertake this affair of the heart, please let me hear from you at once. If, however, you cannot, will you kindly give me the address of some company which undertakes this class of business? Receive, I beg of you, my respectful salutations.

"J. BERGER, Pastor."

"The Church of Leopold."

Mr. Warner replied to the effect that while he had no heiresses of the variety required in stock at the moment he would, nevertheless, attend to the matter forthwith. He now proposes to send the application blanks to all marriageable females who are possessed of the required number of dollars. In his opinion the Prince will not be particular about the age or the physical attributes of elegible candidates.

VICTIMS OF THE STORM.

Some Have Been in Collision and Others Are Stranded Loss of Life.

London, Nov. 11.—While the tug Flying Cormorant was towing the Italian ship F. S. Ciampa off Queenstown in a gale to-day, the hawser parted, killing one of the crew of the tug. The tug returned to Queenstown.

The British steamer Erasmus Wilson had her bows slightly damaged by collision with the British steamer Appomatox at Millwall to-day.

The British steamer Poplar is ashore off Sunderland. Her crew have signalled with rockets for assistance.

The British steamer Sinbad is stranded off Blyth and will probably prove a total wreck. The prevailing gale has done much damage to property.

Burned at Sea.

London, Nov. 11.—The British ship Avoca, Captain Millichamp, from Calcutta, October 5, for Boulogne, has been burned at sea. Her chief mate, carpenter, an apprentice and seven seamen have landed at Padang, Sumatra.

Ship Ashore at Cardiff.

London, Nov. 11.—The Norwegian barque Riverside, Captain Nielson, from Chatham, N.B., October 15, for Cardiff, is ashore on Cardiff Sands.

Five Men Lost.

Nassau, N.B., Nov. 11.—The Ward line steamer Niagara, Captain Crocker, from New York Nov. 6, for Cienfuegos, arrived here to-day. She reports that on Friday morning, Nov. 8, she ran down and sank the American barque William Hales, Captain Coombs, from Havana, Oct. 27, for Philadelphia, off Cape Henlopen. Captain Coombs, the mate and five seamen of the William Hales were saved and five men were lost. Details of the disaster will be cabled as soon as obtained.

The Stage of Convalescence.

Is at once interesting and critical. The patient, carefully guarded at this period and provided with the means essential to health, may be enabled once more to enjoy the inestimable blessing of health. On the other hand, neglect of even minor needs, at this period, is likely to impose upon him the life-long penalty of ill-health, resulting in a wasted life. The assimilative processes are, at the time, sure to be impaired, and nerve tone overtaxed in its resistance to the assaults of disease; will both sadly need impetus which Maltine with Coca Wine alone can give.

By the action of Maltine with Coca Wine upon the digestive processes, which it rapidly strengthens, and its permanent and striking influence upon the nervous system, to which it gives vigor and tone, the restorative power of the body is immensely increased, and strength and vigor come to the invalid so quietly as to seem almost impossible. Experience, however, has demonstrated its efficiency in convalescence, as well as in the various forms of which debility, arising from faulty nutrition, manifests itself. Sold by all druggists.

Doctors recommend Norway Pine Syrup because it is the best cure for coughs and colds. Price 25c. and 50c. at druggists.

Mrs. T. S. Hawkins, Chattanooga, Tenn. says, "Shiloh's Vitalizer 'saved my life,' I consider it the best remedy for a debilitated system I ever used. For dyspepsia, liver or kidney trouble it excels Price 75 cts. Sold by John Nugent, 389 George street.

WORLD OF SPORTS.

London, Nov. 8.—The Field will to-morrow publish a four-column statement from Lord Dunraven relative to the contest for the America Cup. He gives the details of the steamers washing and blanketing the racers, and, while he concedes that the Defender suffered, the Valkyrie suffered much more. He made up his mind that it was absolutely useless to sail under the prevailing conditions. His Lordship says: "A fair field, and a reasonably fair course are understood conditions of any race, and it was the business of the committee to provide such." He says, also, he believes that Mr. Iselin made a proposal to The New York Yacht Club to re-sail the series of races, but the proposal was never communicated to him.

More Bowling Races on Hand

Austin, Texas, Nov. 8.—Gaudaur and Rogers and Bubear and Barry signed articles of agreement to-night to row a double-scull race, four miles, with one turn, for $1000 and the world's championship, the race to come off here Nov. 17. On the 19th, at Dickinson Bay, 27 miles from Galveston, Haulan and Bubear will row a single-scull race for the championship of England, $500 a side, and a purse of $1000 put up by the Dickinson Coast Fair Association.

St. Asaph results—First race, ⅝ mile—Siberia, 3 to 5, 1; Gold Spec, 3 to 5, 2; Flaxwood 3. Time 1.22.

Third race, 5½ furlongs—Svengall, 8 to 1, 1; Little Ralph, 4 to 5, 2; Grassmere 3. Time 1.14¼.

Fourth race, ⅛ mile—Blizzard, even, 1; Frank D., 7 to 5, 2; Masher 3. Time .53.

Fifth race, 4½ furlongs—Carnalite, 3 to 1, 1; Zamacraw, 10 to 1, 2; Nartar 3. Time .50¾.

Sixth race, ⅛ miles—Fagin, 1 to 3, 1; Harry M., 1 to 2, 2; Airplant 3. Time 1.35¼.

St. Louis results: Four favorites won at the Fair grounds, one outsider taking the second race; track sloppy; attendance, 2000.

First race, 1 mile—Midland 1, Outgo 2, J.P.B. 3. Time 1.48.

Second race, ⅝ miles—Bravo 1, Siddubla 2, Metaire 3. Time 1.05.

Third race, 7 furlongs—Johnnie McHale 1, Jack Bradley 2, Reed Regent 3. Time 1.33.

Fourth race, 6¼ furlongs—Lady Ines 1, Sumatra 2, Miss Young 3. Time 1.25.

Fifth race, 7 furlongs—Linda 1, Mollie D. 2, Campania 3. Time 1.32.

"The Common People."

As Abraham Lincoln called them, do not care to argue about their ailments. What they want is a medicine that will cure them. The simple, honest statement, "I know that Hood's Sarsaparilla cured me," is the best argument in favor of this medicine, and this is what many thousands voluntarily say.

Hood's Pills are the best after-dinner pills, assist digestion, cure headache. 25c.

A man may dress as well as his own good taste, judgment and the assistance of an artistic tailor may elect. He may take his "tubs" as regularly as the most conscientious water-cure doctor may dictate; but if his digestive organs are out of order, he will have an unwholesome appearance. His complexion and the white of his eyes will have a yellowish cast. His tongue will be coated, appetite poor, his teeth rusty, his breath abominable. He is one big, unmistakable sign of constipation.

Worst of all, his temper is as ugly and unwholesome to live with as is his person. A man who has the least appreciation of what he owes his family and friends, to say nothing of himself, will make an effort for health.

The quickest, surest, easiest way is to take Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets. They are made of refined, concentrated vegetable extracts. Nothing in the least harmful enters into their composition. They hunt down all impurities, and "make them move on." They are the product of many years' study and practice. Dr. Pierce cannot afford to put forth a worthless or a spurious article. Send for a free sample. If you would know yourself and the doctor better, send 31 cents in one-cent stamps, to pay customs and postage only, and get his Common Sense Medical Adviser—1008 pages profusely illustrated.

Address, WORLD'S DISPENSARY MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, Buffalo, N. Y.

"For sometime I had used Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets for constipation with most satisfactory results. The winters have always been very hard on my husband. He too tried the 'Pellets.' They have made a new man of him. We have used in all, six bottles." Yours truly,

Moose Slaughtered

Reports intimate that Indians have been killing deer and selling them to the shanties; that moose have been slaughtered in considerable numbers in the far back townships, and that men living in the north hunt deer nearly all the year with relays of collies, which do not give tongue loudly and are therefore hard to detect.

Shooting Match.

A shooting match will take place at Fraserville on Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, November 21st, 1895. 100 geese and turkeys to be shot for. Rifles and shot guns may be used. Shot guns to use No. 5 shot, and military rifles will have special targets. Shooting will commence at 12 o'clock, noon.—JAMES BULLIED, General Manager. ldw

POLICE COURT DOCKET.

The Two Young Girls Allowed to go to Their Homes—Drunk and Disorderly Cases.

The Police Court was crowded and jammed to the doors this morning, as it was known that a number of cases were to be disposed of by the Magistrate.

The two little girls, Lillie Hadden, of Millbrook, and Mary Hewson, of Port Hope, charged with vagrancy, were in the box and the court room was cleared. Both of the mothers of the girls were in Court and the two were allowed to go home, but first received a few kindly words of advice from the Magistrate regarding the future that would be theirs in case they continued their wayward career. The awful conditions of a lost womanhood were dwelt on and as the two girls were led from the court room their sobs were heartrending to hear.

Fred Foy pleaded guilty to giving one of the girls a cigarette, and by so doing subjected himself to a heavy fine, as the lowest penalty which can be imposed on anyone for giving tobacco directly or indirectly to a minor is $10. As the lad was conscious of doing no wrong and promised to give up the pernicious habit of indulging in tobacco, he was discharged with a warning.

Hugh Fuller, Nelson Pogue and George Pogue were charged with being drunk and disorderly on Saturday evening. The latter entered a plea of guilty and was fined $2. The other two stated that they were not guilty, but would rather pay the fine than lose any more time over the matter. The Magistrate refused to convict them in this way and the case stands over until Thursday.

"THE CATSPAW."

It was an Instantaneous Success at the Opera House Last Night.

A very large house greeted "The Catspaw" last evening, and the cyclone of fun and merriment which was inaugurated in the opening scene, was kept up without abatement and carried the audience with it to the close.

It was by all odds the wittiest comedy which has been presented in Peterborough for years, and Mr. Samuel Edwards in the title role kept the entire house in shouts of laughter whenever he was on the stage, and as he was never absent for more than a minute or so, an idea may be gained of the fun which was enjoyed in the opera house last night.

The play is adapted from Max O'Rell's "Le Voyage M. Penechon," and for refined comedy and laughable climaxes it has few equals. Twice was Mr. Samuel Edwards called before the curtain and applauded to the echo, and only when it was announced that he would return to Peterborough at the close of the season was the audience satisfied.

The caste is composed of splendid material, and Mr. Edwards is well backed up in his troupe, as will be seen by a perusal of the list of artists:—

Mr. Geo. E. Dies, manager of the local branch of the R. S. Williams Piano Company, has received intelligence that by the death of a cousin in Rochester, N. Y., he has fallen heir to $17 500. He will go to Rochester in a short time to attend to the necessary details in connection with the bequest. The many friends Mr. Dies has made during his brief residence in town, will congratulate him on his good fortune.

Mr. G. K. Martin returned from Montreal to-day with Mrs. Martin and family. They report a moderately good passage from Liverpool on the Vancouver. They take up residence at 116 Dublin street. Mr. Martin's family will be as cordially welcomed in Peterborough as has been Mr. Martin himself, who has made numerous friends during his short residence in town.

"I Can't Quit."

So say the tobacco slaves, and they tell the truth. How to make it easy is easily told. The natural way is to treat the diseased nervous system, by using Uncle Sam's Tobacco Cure, which acts directly on the tobacco-irritated nerve centres, destroys the craving, and making weak men strong. SUDDEN DEATH OF AN AGED CITIZEN.

Richard Brenton Found Dead in His Bed—Heart Disease the Cause.

Mr. Richard Brenton, gardener, was this morning found dead in bed at his residence, 32 Cedar street. He has been suffering from an affection of the heart for about two weeks, and his sudden demise is supposed to be due to that cause. The late Mr. Brenton was 74 years of age, 22 years of which he has passed in Peterborough. He leaves behind him five sons and two daughters.

The funeral takes place from the family residence, 32 Cedar street, on Thursday, Nov. 14th, at 2 o'clock.

BISHOP O'CONNOR IN IRELAND.

His Lordship Safely Accomplishes the First Stage of His Rome-ward Journey.

Ven. Archdeacon Casey of the Cathedral has received the agreeable news of Bishop O'Connor's pleasant voyage and safe arrival in his native land, Ireland. Since his arrival His Lordship has visited several points in the Green Isle, and is highly pleased with his home experiences. Grass is growing as green in Cork as it is in Ontario in June, and the flowers are budding there as in spring time here. Previous to his excursion to the beautiful lakes of Killarney, His Lordship paid a visit to the far-famed Blarney Castle.

—Mink are numerous in and about Kent's Creek. James Howard, of Hiawatha, captured seventeen in his traps Saturday last. He also captured two black skunks and a tame duck.

—The young men of Belleville have lots of fun, and incidentally become very proficient debaters at the sessions of their mock parliament. Why cannot Peterborough have something of this nature.

—The water is exceedingly low in the Otonabee. The steamer Beaver made her way into port an hour late Saturday, being delayed at the Yankee Bonnet and Locks, the water being so low that she grounded.

—Mr. Alex Dixon brought to Taxidermitt Elcombe, Saturday last, an English Pheasant which he shot in the vicinity of Harwood. It is indeed a very large bird. The tail is fully a foot and a half long, the plumage of which is of variegated colours.

—Dr. Clarke, Medical Health Officer, in preparing a schedule of the number of typhoid cases in Peterborough during the past year, was gratified to find that Peterborough's average was below that of any other town of its size in the province. The schedule was prepared by order of Dr. Bryce, secretary of the Provincial Board of Health.

—Jack McAllister, crack shot of Rice Lake, bagged in three days no less than one hundred and ten ducks, and Tom Wallace got 83 in a day and a half. "Jim" Wedlock bagged, in a week's shoot, one hundred and ninety seven; Batise LeRocque, town, and Rock Dixon, 52 in three days. The ducks are being slaughtered by the thousands.

THE WHEEL.

The concert and hop under the auspices of the Bicycle club in the rink to-night promises to be a great success. The sale of tickets has been large and it is hoped that a big crowd will be in attendance. Arrangements have been made whereby Messrs. Thos. Dunn and Herbert King will sing several solos. Mr. R. M. Roy will be present and give a number of local views by limelight. Little Rastus, the Mascot, will dance, and an exhibition will be given on the big "quad," ridden by four riders. Mr. Harley Davidson, for whom the reception will be given, is of course to be present. The Fire Brigade band has kindly consented to play for the promenade concert and for the dancing afterwards, and the members of it are requested to turn out at their hall at 7.30 this evening.

Marshall Wells, the erstwhile champion of Canada, well known in Peterborough, will be married on Saturday to Miss E. Flo Brown, sister of the ex-champion of the old ordinary days, Bert Brown, and of Percy Brown, who has been in town with Davidson's pacers.

The exploit of Angus McLeod in riding his unpaced mile in 1.33 2-5 has given him the confidence necessary for the rider, who deals in the unpaced article, and he is now preparing at Sarnia to better the track record of Hamilton at Denver of 2.00 3-5. He writes that he is positive that he can, under favourable conditions, reduce the mark to 1.58.

Sound the bugle, beat the drum for the record breakers are undone, and for another year at least the records are safe. Davidson has been compelled to call off the dogs of war at Peterborough owing to the inclemency of the weather, and Brown, Gibbons, Grats and McCall have returned to Toronto. Davidson, Steimal and Penseyers will be home to-day or to-morrow. If the quad can be repaired Davidson will go for the mile record on Jarvis street. The boys who have returned speak in the highest terms of the manner in which they were treated by the Peterborough cyclists. —The Globe.

HOCKEY.

The Toronto Globe says:—Already there is some talk of the hockey prospects for the season, and the various clubs are on a still hunt for players. It has been proposed that an all-Toronto team be put on the ice this season, composed of the best players in the city, and as all the prominent hockeyists who have been spoken to are enamored of the idea and are prepared to give it their support, it is likely that a thoroughly representative seven will uphold the prestige of Toronto in the hockey arena this year. A trip to New York is also on the tapis.

Honest Help.

Thousands of men are suffering because they lack the courage to make known their early errors and to endeavour to remedy them. Nervous weakness, loss of manhood and the many ills due to early discretions, excesses or overwork can be quickly, successfully and permanently cured if you will only let the right people know what ails you. Write to me in confidence and I will tell you free of charge how to get cured. I have nothing to sell, but am desirous of honestly helping you. Perfect secrecy assured. On Keeping the Best Class of Goods in the Trade, of Having Everything Exactly as we Advertise it and of Underselling all Competitors, Quality Considered.

In this age when small stores are trying to compete with large concerns the temptation is great to reduce the quality of their goods in order that their prices may appear as low as that of the larger stores. Y.P.S.C.E. NOTES.

WORLD'S CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOUR PRAYER CHAIN.

Subject of Prayer for November—"That we may all be taught of Christ to pray, in spirit and in truth. 'Lord teach us to pray.'"

In some sense this month's motto topic is preparatory to all the months that come after it. "What think you, my beloved fellow-disciples?" says Andrew Murray, "Would it not be just what we need to ask the Master for a month to give us a course of special lessons in the art of prayer?"

The suggestion to have a World's Prayer Chain has been eagerly accepted by Christians from all parts of the continent, and no doubt the same will be true when it reaches the other continents and islands of the sea. Dr. J. H. Barrows, of Chicago, says: "It stirs the imagination as well as the heart of every Christian to think of the endless possibilities of spiritual good you open before us. I wish to be enrolled on the books, and I thoroughly believe that thousands will soon be joined together in this sacred communion." This is but an extract, but it voices the sentiment of hundreds of letters received by Rev. Dr. Clark.

Any one, young or old, whether an Endeavourer or not, can become a link in this chain. Names that are sent in will be enrolled and a prayer chain card will be sent to each member of the union to sign and keep. Can we not have hundreds of links in this blessed chain in the town and county of Peterborough. Send your names to Box 865, and they will be forwarded to Boston.

VILLIERS—OTONABEE.

The meeting on Tuesday evening, Oct. 5, was well attended.

The topic, "Our enemies, our weapons, our allies," conducted by Miss Williams, was very interesting indeed. She explained that this battle between right and wrong is one in which we all must take part. She pointed out a number of enemies which we need continually to fight, also the weapons which are placed within our reach to use in the battle. She showed us that if we did not constantly use these weapons they would, as it were, rust and become useless. She then pointed us up to the one great ally, God, the Father Almighty, who is ever-ready to help us. The prayer meeting was led by Miss Phoebe Harris, and it was indeed very encouraging to hear so many taking such an earnest part, each desiring to be more fully consecrated to His service.

LODGE PRACTICE.

It is Strongly Condemned in a Leading Medical Journal.

The Examiner has been handed the following clipping from the Canada Lancet for publication:

"Among the many ills that the medical profession has to contend against, one of the worst is lodge practice; where the physician contracts for a sum, not usually more than one dollar a year for each member, to treat all members of the lodge or club, no matter how long he may be ill or how many visits may be necessary.

The theory is that the physician gets the entree into family practice in this manner, and that makes up for any loss he may sustain in treating the male members of the lodge. The practical effect is that he only succeeds in cheapening the value of his services, to find that should any illness overtake the wife or children, his brother members will call in the services of some other doctor. This is true in a great many cases, and there can be no doubt that nearly one million dollars is lost to the profession in Ontario on account of lodge practice each year.

We also find that the women and children are forming lodges, for social purposes ostensibly, but for the real purpose of getting medical services practically gratis.

If medical men cannot get practice without lowering the standing of their profession they should leave for some mercantile pursuit. It is a common saying that doctors are poor business men, and lodge work shows it, for from a business standpoint they are cutting their own throats, benefiting only a lot of working men, and others who on an average make as good incomes as their doctor.

Where do you find any other class of men eager to give their services for nothing? Do lawyers, clergymen, plumbers or mechanics do so? Certainly not. Why, then, should our profession be the only one so blind and unbusiness-like as to degrade themselves, and lose money by so doing? The members of the profession in London, Ont., have made an attempt to put a stop to the contract practice, and every man in that city, with the exception of six or seven has signed an agreement to do no more lodge practice after the expiration of the year, under a penalty of $60 for each offence, provided every physician in the city signs the document. A similar effort is being made in Toronto, and will take effect, provided 95 per cent of the physicians will sign. Many are afraid that men will be brought in to take up the work, but the ostracism which will be theirs, should deter any self-respecting men from entering into injurious competition with their professional brethren.

If there was a great esprit du corps among medical men this question could easily be settled, but it is an unfortunate fact that there is scarcely any cohesion among the doctors; keen competition and a lowered status of the profession render it difficult to solve any questions relating to the general welfare of the faculty."

G. T. R. SHOPS.

To be Removed From Brockville and Belleville to Kingston.

Among other changes which it is rumoured will take place in Grand Trunk circles in the near future, is that the Brockville and Belleville shops, with the trainmen's quarters, will be removed to Kingston. According to this plan the train hands, both passenger and freight, who now run to Brockville, would have their headquarters at Kingston. The officials in Toronto, while not having any knowledge of such a change being made, are free to admit that it would effect a great saving. With a double track between Montreal and Toronto it would be quite feasible, the amount of time occupied to Kingston in carrying freight now being about the same as that required when the road was single track. They were unable to say, however, to what extent Toronto would be benefitted by such a change.

"All the People Praise It."

"Pinemalt has been used freely in my family for some time. It is a remedy of decided merit in colds of every form, All the people praise it. "In our experience it it unfading, The children like it, and in their cases we have found Pinemalt excellent in croup, as well as colds and coughs," Rev. R. D. Hamilton, Pastor Hope Methodist ch., Alvinston, Ont.—Oct, 1895. Pinemalt is distinctly a new departure in the treatment of throat and lung ailments. It is constructed on the basis of the latest advances in Medical Science. Unlike other remedies much vaunted, it discards all nauseants and depresents. THE BUTTER FAT SYSTEM

Of Paying for Milk at Cheese Factories.

During the past year there has not been much agitation in reference to the butter fat system of paying for milk supplied to cheese factories. Many have inferred that the system is at fault and that in a few years it will be a thing of the past; but such is not the case.

The advocates of this new plan have, perhaps, been wise in discontinuing the agitation for a time and in allowing the system, in a way, to work out its own salvation. The agitation has, however, not been discontinued because its chief promoters have changed their views in reference to the accuracy of the butter fat system giving justice to all concerned. Everyone who has considered the question carefully, and without prejudice, must be convinced of this fact—that of all the systems in use, the butter fat system of paying for milk supplied to the cheese factories is the most nearly in accordance with justice.

This system of paying for milk should be considered in a relative sense and not as being absolutely perfect. When we compare it in every detail with the "pooling" system, there can be no question that the butter fat basis is the most nearly in accordance with justice. It has been carefully estimated that, when milk is paid for by the percentage of butter fat, there is a possibility of an injustice of three cents per hundred weight of milk being done the man who supplies the poor milk; while, on the other hand, when the "pooling" system is in operation there is a possibility of an injustice of 23 cents per hundred weight being done the man who supplies the rich milk. If these figures be true, does it not seem the height of folly to contend that the butter fat basis is not the one to adopt?

True, a large number of the factories which adopted the system when first advocated, have discontinued its use; but when they come to examine carefully the reasons why it was discontinued, it is found that in the majority of cases it was because of the expense incurred in making the test. The patrons of many factories have been willing to continue the system if the cheesemaker or the company would agree to do the work for nothing and, when this could not be arranged, paying by the test was discontinued. There are some factories, however, which have discontinued the system because of the dissatisfaction it caused among their patrons. In most of these cases there was a strong opposition to the test in the first place, which was increased until the test was voted out.

We find that, by returns received from over 100 factories in Western Ontario this season, the average number of pounds of milk required to make a pound of cheese in 1894, at factories where paying by the test was in operation, was 10.703; while the average at the factories where the old "pooling" system was in operation was 10.817. The averages where the milk was paid for by the test ranged from 10.43 to 10.87, while those where the milk was "pooled" ranged from 10.40 to 11.45. These figures furnish another very strong argument in favour of the butter fat system of paying for milk.

The numerous reports published this summer of patrons of cheese factories being fined for tampering with their milk would seem to indicate that that kind of offence is increasing. This increase has been quite noticeable this year; in fact, some of the factories where patrons have been fined this season were last year paying by the test. If a discontinuance of paying by the test tends to encourage the tampering of milk, the sooner the system is reinstated the better.

It also furnishes another very potent reason why the system should be adopted in every factory, and, especially, in those factories where skimming and watering milk are likely to be carried on, and I will discuss these features of the question at another time.

Ivorine for the Teeth.

Asks only a trial. Boasting will not whiten teeth; Ivorine for the teeth does. Extravagant claims will not render the breath sweet and fragrant. Ivorine never fails to do this. Ivorine for the teeth asks for an oportunity to demonstrate its value. Dentists have affirmed it and the public corroborate professional opinion, but do you know, as every tooth loving man or woman ought to know Ivorine for the teeth is best?

"Oh, shoot!—Is dat all you got? I 'tended three, and ivery one uv 'em gi' me, a big box o' good gum drops and a bag full o' prime chocolates—Johnny Watt's own make."

"O say, let's you and me go pards this year? We can work three or four Schools each, and divvy up, on Johnny Watt's own make."

Then they scoot 'round to WATT'S window, and take it all in.

UNTIL THE DOCTOR COMES.

HOT WATER BAGS are something more than a winter luxury—they are a household necessity. In many cases it will take the place of the family doctor, and in other emergencies it will help to check inflammation and keep the patient in a comfortable state until the doctor comes. A three-quart India Rubber hot-water bag filled with hot water and encased in flannel and applied to the proper place will relieve neuralgia, indigestion, sick headache, stomach ache, toothache, rheumatic pains and a hundred other ills that flesh is heir to.

I sell hot water bags with nickel-plated screw tops that will not leak and bottom tabs with eyelets. See them in the window.

A HEAVY MORTGAGE.

How a prominent farmer quickly lifted it.

A mortgage has been described as an incentive to industry, a heavy mortgage, as a sure sign of ruin. The last is particularly true, for if a mortgage is allowed to ran it will eat up the farm. In this connection Mr. Henry Fowler, of Huron writes: "From my boyhood scrofula had marked me for a victim and it seemed as if it had a life mortgage on my blood. I suffered fearfully with sores, and knowing my condition I have remained a single man. Doctor after doctor prescribed for me, and finally a Toronto specialist told me bluntly that my complaint was a deep-seated, incurable, blood disease. Sarsaparilla I knew was a good blood medicine, and I sent for a bottle of the best. Mr. Todd, the druggist, sent me Scott's Sarsaparilla, and I have stuck to it. It has lifted my mortgage, for to-day I am free from those horrible sores, my eyesight is not blurred, my tongue is not furry, and I have no irritation. I look upon Scott's Sarsaparilla as a marvellous medicine when it will cure a life long disease in so short a time."

Scrofula, pimples, running sores, rheumatism and all diseases generated by poisonous humors in the blood are cured by Scott's Sarsaparilla. The kind that cures. Sold only in concentrated form at $1 per bottle by your druggist. Dose from half to one teaspoonful.

Sold by J. D. Tully, Peterborough.

A MUMMY OF TO-DAY.

An Oriental Prince Embalmed by a London Doctor.

In a white-draped mortuary at the back of 38 Keppel street, Russell square, is a quiet-looking early Victorian red brick house of exactly similar appearance to hundreds of other houses in red brick rows in Bloomsbury, the body of his late Highness, the Sultan of Johore, is lying embalmed in semi-state. The house is that of Dr. Charles Bayle, Chevalier de la Legion d'Honneur, Commander de la Gregoire-le-Grand, a French scientist, who has made a special study of the art of embalming. When you enter at the street door the faint scent of heavy perfume strikes you and grows less faint as you walk along the hall. Then a door is opened—you notice that it is painted in the prevailing Bloomsbury tint on the outside and hung with white cloth on the inside. As you walk down white-carpeted stairs in a chamber built out at the back of the house where once was a garden, the heavy perfume comes at you heavier and more powerful, and separates itself into several distinct and conflicting scents. Before you, hiding something behind it, is a screen, all white, standing in a room of which the walls and ceilings are covered with white, seen in white, soft, subdued light, coming from a skylight veiled with white cloth. The screen hides everything in the room but its ghostly self, and, high upon the white hangings of the opposite wall, is the crescent and star of the East in dull red that thrusts itself out from the white like a moaning in the night.

The dim whiteness of the room, the heavy perfumes, the somber touch of the red, tell quite as plainly what it is that lies behind the screen as could black velvet and silver, burning tapers, and the damp scent of dying flowers. In the middle of the room, on a low trestle bed, white draped, the dead Sultan lies, to all appearances calmly and peacefully asleep. Dr. Bayle's balsams have changed death into sleep, and he lies with his gray mustache and wavy hair and his black arched eyebrows, his handsome, soldierly, dusky features smoothed and softened, and with his eyelids lightly closed in the calm and perfect repose which easy slumber brings to the face of the man of the world. He looks exactly as one who knew anything of the Sultan would expect him to look in sleep. On his breast there lies a bound manuscript copy of the Koran, and under it, placed there by the priest in accordance with some custom or belief, a pair of scissors. On the white floor at the side of the bed are the large paper bags of perfume—one of rosemary, one of patchouli, and the other of rose leaves. The rosemary is for remembrance, as well as for pungent odor, and, perhaps, besides their strong perfumes, the patchouli and the dried and crumpled rose leaves may have their meanings. The wonderful triumph over decay has been effected by Dr. Bayle's system of arterial injection.

But not that system only has been carried out. In the Oriental system of embalming, the body is eviscerated and the organs removed and purified. In the old days they knew no other way, and what they did in the old days is, according to Eastern ideas, the only decorous thing to-day. So the doctor has taken out the internal organs, washed and cleansed them, applied his preservative treatment to them separately, and then replaced them in their proper positions. But that was only to satisfy the ideas of the Sultan's court as to what was right and in order. Still, it was not necessary; it was not scientific, Dr. Bayle says.

Four pints of the preservative fluid, of which he holds the secret, forced through the arteries by air pressure, would have sufficed. "You see," he says, "the body is already beginning to dry; the hand becomes to be a piece like of wood; the foot, it is the same; the face, I treat it in a different way, so as to keep it the appearance of softness; but you shall see that ear; it is already like a piece of leather." The ear looks warm and soft and natural enough, but when you touch it it is set stiff and hard. The legs are bound tightly around with straps of cloth, and another goes under each instep, keeping the feet in position.

In a day or two the binding will be varnished, and then all will be ready for the sleeping Sultan to be put in his coffin with the rosemary and the patchouli and rose leaves on top of him.

"And those bandages are not removed when the embalming is complete?" the visitor asked. "Those bandages," said the doctor, "shall be removed never." Never is a long time.

The Sultan—his full name was Tunkoo Abubikr bin Ibrahim, known as Abu Bekar, Sultan of Johore, or, more correctly, the Tumongong—died officially on Tuesday the 4th of June, 1895. This was the day on which his ministers and court, having in the meantime, no doubt, taken the necessary precautions as to affairs in Johore, finally abandoned all hope of his being still alive. On that same day the body was taken to Dr. Bayle, and there were then present indications that his death had taken place quite a week earlier. The embalmed body will remain where it is for two months longer, and then the Sultan will go back to Johore to be buried in the tomb of his fathers.—Pall Mall Gazette.

WORLD OF SPORTS.

Maspeth, L.I., Nov. 11.—The meeting of Peter Maher and Steve O'Donnell in the arena of the Empire A.C. at this place to-night created an immense amount of interest among the sporting fraternity. As early as 8 o'clock there were very few vacant seats in the club house, and outside a long line of sports pushed and struggled in their frantic efforts to get at the box office. It was the largest crowd ever seen at the Empire A.C. Maher was the favorite in the betting, his manager, J. J. Quinn, laying odds of 5 to 2 whenever he could find takers. O'Donnell was not without friends, and a good deal of money changed hands. The opening bout was between Caspar Leon of New York and Billy Smith of Philadelphia. They commenced their six-round bout at catch-weights at 9 o'clock. Tim Hurst was referee. Just as the boys stepped into the ring Corbett came in, and was received with a good deal of applause, but some hissing was audible through the cheering, while Sullivan was received with uniform favor. The referee awarded the fight to Leon.

The opening bout only served to whet the appetites of the 4000 persons who packed the arena, and they were all agog to see the big fellows. They were announced to fight 25 rounds at catch-weights. O'Donnell's seconds were Billy Delaney, Jim McCabe and Ben Murphy. Maher was looked after by Peter Lowery, Buck Cornelius of Pittsburg and Pete Burns. O'Donnell was the first to appear at 9.35 o'clock. He was well received, but Maher, who stepped into the ring about a minute after, got a great ovation.

The Irishman knocked out his opponent in the first round, after one minute and three seconds of fighting. Maher led with his right and landed on the jaw, knocking O'Donnell down. The moment the Australian got up Maher repeated, and again O'Donnell went down. He rose on the ninth count, and, after sparring for a second, Maher knocked him down and out with a left swing on the jaw. Time, 1 min. 3 sec.

O'Donnell had to be carried to his corner, but he recovered, and was assisted to the dressing room. The crowd went wild, and poured into the ring, amid a scene of the wildest enthusiasm. O'Donnell did not seem to realize what he was against, and did not make the slightest effort to defend his jaw. He got up only to be felled like a sheep.

The Racing Results.

Baltimore, Nov. 11.—The Saratoga Racing Association began an 18-days' meeting at Pimlico to-day. It is in the nature of an experiment, with the view of rehabilitating the historic old course, and giving regular running meetings hereafter should the present undertaking be fairly successful. The managers say it is their intention to attempt to bring racing up to the high standard set by the defunct Maryland Jockey Club. While not particularly attractive, to-day's card drew some 1500 persons to the track. Favorites seemed to like the soft going, and took four of the five races, Wishard being the only first choice to disappoint his backers. Summaries:

First race, ⅝ mile—Amcer, 2 to 1, 1; Pitfall, 3 to 1, 2; Trincnlo 3. Time 1.03¾.

Second race, 5½ furlongs—Beau Ideal, even, 1; Ha Ha, 2 to 1, 2; Mildred D. 3. Time 1.18½.

Third race, 1 mile—Ina, 2 to 5, 1; Vanbrunt, 3 to 1, 2; Sun Up 3. Time 1.48.

Fourth race, ⅝ mile—Roundsman, 8 to 1, 1; Emotional, 4 to 1, 2; Marsian 3. Time 1.03¾.

Fifth race, 1 1-16 miles—Doggett, 7 to 10, 1; Marshall, 2 to 1, 2; Candelabra 3. Time 1.52.

Lexington results: The fall meeting began, and had rather unfavorable circumstances, the weather being cloudy, raw and penetrating. This did not prevent 1500 enthusiasts from attending. Twinkle was the only favorite that won, the other races going to second choices.

First race, ¾ mile—Twinkle 1, Major Tom 2, Bessie Misner 3. Time 1.20½.

Second race, 4½ furlongs—East Wind 1, Daytonia 2, Bramble Leaf 3. Time 1.00½.

Third race, 4½ furlongs—Ferryman 1, Martin 2, Letcher 3. Time not taken.

Fourth race, 1 mile—Ace 1, Greenwich 2, Hallstone 3. Time 1.46½.

Fifth race, ⅝ mile—Anna Lyle 1, La Wande 2, Feast 3. Time 1.06¼.

St. Louis results: Beau Ideal was the only favorite winning at the Fair ground, the other events being divided between second choices and outsiders.

First race, ⅞ mile—Text 1, Robert Lee 2, St. Augustine 3. Time 1.33½.

Second race, ⅞ mile—Kirk 1, Rosalind 2, Sencienne 3. Time 1.34½.

Third race, ¾ mile—Flush 1, Blanc 2, Swifty 3. Time 1.10½.

Fourth race, 15-16 mile—Beau Ideal 1, Logan 2, Midland 3. Time 1.41.

Fifth race, 1⅛ miles—Billy McKenzie 1, J.P.B. 2, Treasure 3. Time 2.52.

St. Asaph results—First race, 6½ furlongs—Siberia, 4 to 1, 1; Cockade, out, 2; Mohawk 3. Time 1.20¼.

Second race, ½ mile—Pomona Belle, 2 to 1, 1; Glengarry, even, place, 2; Tubal Cain 3. Time .53.

Third race, ⅝ mile—Fagin, 2 to 5, 1; Blizzard, out, place, 2; Grampian 3. Time 1.06.

Fourth race, 4½ furlongs—Lady Watson, 8 to 1, 1; Torresdale, 8 to 5, place, 2; Svengali 3. Time 1.01.

Fifth race, ⅞ mile—Mattie Chunn, 3 to 5, 1; Tancred, out, place, 2; Foxglove 3. Time 1.23¾.

Sixth race, ⅞ mile—Valkyrie, 3 to 5, 1; Harry M., 8 to 5, place, 2; Siva 3. Time 1.35½.

J. D. Petrie of Kingston, owner of the racer Glorall, was jumping a fence yesterday, when the animal did not go high enough, fell and broke its neck. Mr. Petrie was not injured.

INDUSTRIES IN JAPAN

VARIOUS PRODUCTS EXPORTED AT VERY LOW PRICES.

Cheap Rugs Made by Children—The Japs as Paper-Makers, Rice and Tobacco Growers—Meat, as a Food, is Seldom Used—Their Foreign Commerce.

People marvel at the cheapness of the Japanese rugs which have been thrown on the market in such quantities during the last two or three years. The secret of it is that they are made in Japan, and the laborers employed in their manufacture are children. This is a new industry in the Empire of the Mikado, and the center of it is the city of Osaga. The carpets are of all patterns and of every length and width. Many of them are most excellent imitations of Turkish and Egyptian rugs. The materials employed are hemp and cotton.

The United States Consul at Osaka says in a letter addressed to the Department of State, that all of these carpets are made by children. In the low-studded and gloomy rooms of the Japanese houses troops of little boys and girls work at this dusty trade all day long. The little workmen and workwomen are almost nude, the standard of modesty in Japan being different from that which is accepted in the United States, even for grown people. The workers get from 3 cents to 10 cents a day, which is pretty good pay in the Orient. Wages vary with the intelligence and aptitude of the young employes. Most of the rugs and carpets which they make go to the United States. In 1894, $927,000 worth of them were imported into that country.

Within the last few years the Japanese have become great paper-makers. The paper they manufacture is the very best on the market for fine typographical prints and engravings. It is very strong, and is turned to a surprising variety of uses. It is made from the best of three species of plants chiefly, which are known as "mitsumata," "kozo," and "gampi." These plants grow on poor soil that is unsuitable for other purposes, and for this reason paper-growing is important to the agricultural interests of several large districts. From paper, the Japanese make rich imitations of leather for walls, as well as heavy oil-papers, which to an extent serve as a substitute for oil-cloth. It is said that the consumption of paper is the measure of the civilization of a people, and so it means something to say that the Japanese use about 50,000,000 pounds of paper annually for their own purposes.

The consumption of tobacco in Japan is enormous. In that country the women, as well as the men, are great smokers. The tobacco is light yellow in color and has a sweet taste. Owing to the cheapness of labor in the fields, it is sold at a low price, and a good deal of it is exported to England, Hong-Kong and the United States. Cotton-growing is a rapidly developing industry in Japan. Textile manufactures are being turned out at a great rate in the Mikado's realm. Indian cotton fabrics can no longer compete with the Japanese. The Japanese imitate all European novelties and improvements. Foreign machinery has no protection there against patent infringements. Even Europe is out of the race as to textiles. Good cotton undershirts are sold in Japan for 84 cents a dozen, and cotton umbrellas are on the market at $2.60 a dozen.

Lately Japan has gone into the manufacture of matches, and this industry also has attained great importance, owing to the low prices at which the product is sold. British India, China and Corea are using Japanese matches almost exclusively. In 1894, $3,795,634 worth of them were exported from Japan.

Meat is little used for food in Japan, and it is eaten only in the military service. Only in recent years have oxen been killed for food, though hitherto they have been employed largely as draft animals. During 1894 only 20,316 meat cattle, 5,298 horses, 5,468 hogs and 443 sheep were slaughtered for food in Tokio, the capital city, which has 1,300,000 inhabitants. Sheep do not prosper in Japan, and the few hundreds killed annually for foreigners are all imported from China.

The staple war food of the Japanese is rice, which is compressed into small compass after being cooked. When re-cooked by the soldiers in the field it expands to four times its compressed bulk. If no conveniences for cooking are handy, it may be eat up and eaten without further treatment. In the rations of Japanese soldiers, dried fish and canned meats are important elements. While the Japanese at large are vegetarians, the soldiers eat meat regularly, and at every garrison town in Japan cattle are slaughtered for the soldiers. The Japanese can their own salmon, and this fish is furnished to the soldiers when they are at home. People in that country are extremely fond of pickles, and in this shape they prepare all sorts of vegetables, particularly a kind of turnip that has the shape of a radish and grows to a length of three feet. The culture of peppermint in Japan has greatly increased in late years, owing to the demand for peppermint oil and menthol crystals. Germany is the principal buyer.

The foreign commerce of Japan in 1894 exceeded that of 1893 by 30 per cent., reaching $70,000,000. The exports of tea from Yokohama alone exceeded those of the preceding year by 1,000,000 pounds. The outbreak of the war with China brought an unexpected demand for tea from the United States and Canada, probably on account of a notion that the conflict would be likely to interfere with shipments.

Quite Possible.

A correspondent asks if it is not practicable for a person to carry enough electricity and use it for the purpose of heating the body by means of electric heating apparatus placed under the clothing. We presume it is. A few 300 ampere-hour cells scattered among the pockets, connected in series, ought to do the business. They would probably weigh 500 pounds or more, and to this must be added the weight of heat apparatus. The latter need not necessarily be in the form of a street car heater; it could be spread out on a flat surface. It would not look well, for instance, to carry a box-shaped heater across the stomach. Care must be taken to prevent short-circuiting, which might result in roasting to death.

A Model Village.

Hanke, in the yen of Koshti, in Japan, has received a gift of $100 from the Government on account of the unusually exemplary behaviour of the villagers. For over 200 years there have been neither quarrels nor lawsuits in the place; no crimes have occurred; the taxes have always been paid on time, and whenever misfortunes have come the villagers have helped each other without calling on the authorities.

A Champagne Wake.

The dead man had been a great champagne drinker all his life, and, having a comfortable fortune, determined that his demise should be baptized in wine. A week before his death he telegraphed for two of his most intimate friends, one in Cleveland and the other in Cincinnati, to be the watchers at his bedside from the day of his death to the hour of his funeral and made both promise to drink nothing but champagne during the wake. Well, they did as he requested. Beside the coffin they sat for three days, with a dozen cases of the finest wine close at hand, and when the day of the funeral arrived the room was filled with empty bottles. One bottle, a magnum, was placed in the coffin to be buried with the departed. It is said that the friends could not bear to see a full bottle buried, so they sent an empty one into the grave just to fool the corpse! Not having charged their linen for three days of wake and drunk, they went hurriedly to a hotel to put themselves in trim for the funeral. When they started back to the house they found that they were lost. After wandering here and there for an hour they stopped a wise-looking cabby and asked if he knew where their departed host lived, to which he made reply that he was not sure, but if they would take a stroll up Prairie avenue till they came to the first house with crape on the door and a funeral outside, it "would be the place they was a-lookin' fur!" Fortunately, they arrived too late for the funeral, but there was plenty of wine left, and in it they found consolation.

The Art of Selling.

That goods will not sell themselves is an opinion well advanced by Ironmongery. You may be the best of buyers—and that is half the accomplishment of a good man of business—but that will not be sufficient unless you are a master of the art of selling goods. A good shop, a bright shop, and a well-arranged shop are also necessary in the making up of a good business. They help the selling, but they will not do it all. Goods well bought, and these other desiderata, are like the paints and brushes in a studio. They are necessary to the work of making the picture, but it needs the artist's talent to use them and produce the desired result. Many persons enter a shop—attracted by advertisements or window display, or perhaps from mere curiosity—and are received coldly, and made to feel more like interlopers than friends, if the cause of their entry is sharply and abruptly demanded. The art of selling partly lies in understanding just how to treat different classes of customers. The successful salesman must study so as to learn all about the goods he has to sell—something of their manufacture and all about their uses and value. But, after all, he must study human nature, and have regard for varying likes and dislikes, opinions and prejudices. Such knowledge, with tact in its application, will teach the salesman how to adapt himself to his different classes so as to give the greatest satisfaction to all, and that means getting as much business as possible from all.

The Trolley in Politics.

Politicians have discovered that one of the most effective canvassers ever depended upon for bringing votes to the polling booth is the trolley car. To swell the audience at the political mass meeting in Newark, N. J., last week, the Democrats engaged two cars to run all day throughout the city and advertise their meeting by huge signs which announced the speakers. Each car had drums and fifes on board, and at night they brought up the Democratic sympathizers to the meeting hall. Seeing the success of this move, the Republicans, who had been content with advertising their meeting on a furniture van covered with painted canvas signs, hired a car nearly filled it with a big brass band, and dispatched it triumphantly around the town. At night political clubs from all parts of Newark and the Oranges were carried in illuminated trolley cars to the places of meeting, and the demand for street car accommodation was so brisk that every special car of the company was in use.

Women are not the only ones who are sensitive about their ages. A man doesn't like to be told that he is getting old. Health keeps a man young. It doesn't make any difference if he has lived eighty years. If they have been healthy years, he will be hale and hearty and won't look within twenty years as old as he is. Good digestion and rich, red blood make people youthful. Dr. Pierces Medical Discovery makes rich, red blood. It makes health in the right way. It works according to the right theory, and in 30 years of practice, it has proved that the theory is absolutely correct. It begins at the beginning—begins by putting the stomach, liver and bowels into perfect order, but it begins its good work on the blood before it finishes with the digestive system. It searches out disease germs wherever they may be and forces them out of the body. All druggists sell the "Discovery."

Coughs, Colds, Sore throat, Asthma, Bronchitis, and all Lung Troubles are quickly cured by Hagyard's Pectoral Balsam.

Physicians

prescribe Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites because they find their patients can tolerate it for a long time, as it does not upset the stomach nor derange the digestion like the plain oil.

Scott's Emulsion is as much easier to digest than the plain oil as milk is easier to digest than butter. Besides, the fish-fat taste is taken out of the oil, and it is almost palatable. The way sickly children, emaciated, anæmic and consumptive adults, gain flesh on Scott's Emulsion is very remarkable.

THE SECRET OUT

THE secret is out. The Government Insurance Blue Books have revealed it. The facts of the case will prove of real value to all those seeking a company where permanent satisfaction can be secured under a Policy of Life Insurance. The telescope has been turned upon those who withdrew from [illegible] prominent companies in 1894.

It is obvious to any one that the proportion of persons who lapse or surrender their policies in any company is a fairly good test of the satisfaction or dissatisfaction existing therein. If policy-holders are receiving satisfactory profit results, if they are being honestly and honourably dealt with, if they cannot do better elsewhere, then it is plain these facts will show themselves in the small number who surrender their policies or allow them to lapse.

To test these conditions, and to discover the company that is giving greatest satisfaction to its policy-holders, as evidenced by their determination to continue their policies, we have made an analysis of the facts, as reported in the blue books containing the business for 1894 of the leading Canadian Companies. We have calculated the ratio per cent. of assurances surrendered to the average business in force in 1894 also the ratio per cent. of assurance lapsed to the average business in force. Intending assurers have here an inside view of Life Assurance that is full of significance. When a company stands out so prominently as does the CAANDA LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY in this test, it means that its merits are known and recognized by those who become connected with it.

This is but another of those numerous tests in which the CANADA LIFE shows its superiority.

The following table tells the whole story :—

COMPANY.	Per Cent. Surrendered.	PerCent. Lapsed.	Per Cent. Lapsed and Surrendered.
CANADA LIFE	.70	2.10	2.80
Confederation Life	2.33	4.65	6.98
North American	1.73	6.97	8.70
Ontario Mutual	2.51	6.59	9.10
Sun Life	2.63	8.54	11.17

The above figures are compiled from the Dominion Insurance report, issued by the Superintendent of Insurance, at Ottawa.

Once more, and as usual, the CANADA LIFE COMPANY comes out on top.

COMPARE

The following two Peterborough results with anything else of the kind in existence in the town. Other companies promise, we perform. That is the great difference.

OLD AGE AND YOUTH.

A Kindred Influence Affects Each —Sergeant Willison M. Copp and Mrs. John Dinwoodie.

The Former Under 30 and the Latter Nearly 80 Years of Age— Both Cured of Extreme Nervous Prostration by South American Nervine.

Down by the sea, in the thriving town of Newcastle, N. B., resides Sergeant Willison M. Copp, a creditable representative of the militia of the Maritime Provinces. He is a young man under 30 years of age. This fact, however, did not prevent him a short time since suffering from nervous prostration. It took a grip of him, that looked as though his days were numbered. Quoting his own words: "Friends and relations despaired of my life." He was influenced, after every other effort had failed, to try South American Nervine, and it effected a complete cure. No wonder he says:— "This remedy is the best on earth."

Mrs. John Dinwoodie, of Flesherton, Ont., is a lady who has reached well nigh to fourscore years of age. She has been a resident of Flesherton for forty years. Everybody knows her, and knows that her word is as good as her bond. Three years ago, through the loss of a beloved daughter she became prostrated with nervous trouble. No medicine, or doctor's skill did her any good. Sorrow and age appeared to combine to number her days. But it was not to be so. South American Nervine came to her relief. She took twelve bottles of the medicine, with the result that to-day she is in the enjoyment of the best of health and her shattered nerves have again become healthy and strong. The secret of South American Nervine is that it immediately works on the nerve centres through which comes all disease, and this being the case it matters not whether one is young or old, this medicine is certain to effect a cure.

One on the Judge.

The late Judge Snell, of Washington, a well-known son of Maine, was very fond of croquet, and, when not busy with his official duties, could often be found with mallet in hand, engaged in his favorite game. One morning, while presiding over the Police Court, a young boy was brought before him, charged with playing ball on the street. The policeman who arrested the boy testified that he caught the boy in the act. "Fine him $5.00," said the judge. "This ball-playing on the street must be stopped."

The boy's father was present and suggested to the judge that he would like to question the policeman a little before the fine was imposed, so Judge Snell ordered the policeman into the witness box again. After a little close questioning the officer finally admitted that the boys were playing ball on a vacant lot, and this boy had knocked the ball out into the street. Make that fine $2, Mr. Clerk," said Judge Snell, the case is not quite so bad as I thought it was."

"But your honor," said the boy's father, not long ago up on One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street I saw a game of croquet in which a high court officer was engaged, and I saw that officer spitefully knock his opponent's ball clear across the street, and—"

"Take off that other $2, Mr. Clerk; I don't believe this boy was doing wrong, after all."

And the judge lay back in his chair and laughed heartily as he remembered what a whack he gave his opponent's ball in the game referred to.—Lewiston Journal.

He Had Scruples Against Actors.

An English operatic company whose members returned to London after a tour in Scotland had a curious experience in one of the inland towns where a performance was given. It was one of those places where, among certain classes the animus against theaters is almost as great as the consumption of whisky. As it was the last halt in the tour the members of the troupe agreed to have themselves photographed, and accordingly went to the local photographer and explained their intention. "Verra weel," replied the Scotchman, "I shall be verra glad to take yer portrets, for ye seem a douce and respectable set o' leddies and gentlemen." "And as we are artists," suggested the principal tenor, "and there are a lot of us, perhaps you would see no objection to making some reduction from your usual prices?" "Ertists, are ye?" said the photographer: "I dinna ken what that may be, but what dae ye dae, may I speer?"

"O," answerd the tenor, who fortunately understood the Scotch language, "we are singers." "In the kirk?" queried the camera manipulator. "O, no," replied the other, "we are the opera company who are performing at the theater." The Scotchman took a step backward, raised his arms into the air, and cried, "Awa wi' ye, awa wi' ye; ye are the deevil's bairns, ye are; and I wadna photograph ye for naething—I mean for onything ye wad offer me; no, not for a' the money ye tak in a week for playin' Satan's antics on the brods. Ertists ye ca' yersels! Ye are the children of the deevil, ye are!" And he ordered them out, and shut his door against them. This is the reason why no authentic photograph of that opera troupe will be handed down to posterity, for next day the tour ended, and the members dispersed to their homes.

A New Trolley Mail-Car.

Many cities have already used the electric car for carrying mail to the Post Office, but Boston is making a new departure in the shape of a mail-car designed for the receiving of mail direct from the hands of the collectors. The car will run on scheduled time to certain points along the line, and it will thus be easy for the collectors to meet it at these points and turn their mail into it instead of into the several sub stations. The mail will be cancelled and assorted on the car, and left for immediate dispatch at the central office or some railway station. The car has straight sides, like a regular railway post-office, which gives plenty of floor space and room for hanging pouches. It will have a full complement of tables, cases and racks, but its most important feature will be a canceling machine. The current which drives and lights the car will feel the electric motor to run the canceling machine, which will have a capacity of 40,000 cancellations per hour. By this plan it is expected that letters will be delivered on an average an hour sooner than if they were taken to the sub-stations and handled in the old way.

We are now on our eleventh annual trip, better than ever prepared to bring bargains to your doors, to clothe the poor man with the rich man's dress, and all the same low bed rock prices as of yore. For ten years we have made ten years of progress. Our knowledge of the trade has grown and our ability to supply your wants. Not only are our stores the known and recognized headquarters for the Clothing Trade of the country, but one of the distinguished attractions of the town. Far and near our fame has spread until our names as traders is as familiar in the homes of the County as a red waggon on the township concession lines.

GOUGH BROS.,

The Wonderful Cheap Men,

GEORGE STREET, PETERBOROUGH

Office of Fairweather & Co. MANUFACTURING Furriers & Hatters

The Friends we have made and the good-will we have earned during the past successful years in the Fur Business, will carry us into this season's Christmas trade with flying colours.

Thirty minutes devoted to looking through our elegant stock of Furs will satisfy the most critical buyer, and give an impression of the remarkable completeness of our present Stock of Reliable and Elegant Furs, made up in the latest and most fashionable styles of the day, foreign and domestic.

Ladies, Gentlemen and Children have all been remembered. Among the many lines we carry, Seal Jackets, Persian Lamb Jackets, Capes, Fur Lined Circulars, Boas, Storm Collars, Muffs, Gauntlets, Capes, Robes and Gentlemen's Fur Overcoats and Fur Lined Coats, all the nobbiest and newest Garments in the finest of Furs. Choice samples of the Furrier's skill. We employ none but the most skilled Furriers and can make up to order, alter, repair or make over any garment required with a guarantee of fit and satisfaction.

Our stores attract the attention of consumers in search of through and through honest made Furs.

Although the mercury keeps on the rise—warm to-day and colder to-morrow—the indications are that the time is not far distant when Fur Garments will mean life-savers in our Canadian winter.

COACH DRIVERS' STRIKE.

They Demand $14 a Week, Ten Hours' Rest Per Day and Other Things.

New York, Nov. 11.—Nearly 400 members of the Liberty Dawn Association of Coach Drivers were ordered to strike at 5 p.m. to-day in the following stables: Pitney, Seach, King, Hall, Overin and Markert. These hotels were thereby deprived of their carriage service, Waldorf, New Netherland, Plaza, Savoy, Buckingham, Windsor, Cambridge, Metropole, Murray Hill, Vendome and St. Cloud, and the Manhattan, Knickerbocker and Union League Clubs.

Messrs. Hall, Markert, King and Overin promptly conceded the demand of the organization and the drivers immediately returned to work. Sixty-five men employed by Messrs. Seach and Pitney were still on strike late to-day. As a consequence the carriages at the Waldorf and Holland hotels and the Knickerbocker Club are still tied up.

The demands of the coach drivers are for the employment of union men only and that the minimum rate of wages shall be $14 a week. They also demand that every man shall have ten hours' rest from all labor and responsibility, the time to be measured from time the driver stops work until he reports for duty again. Other demands are for one night off a week after 6 p.m., and one hour each for dinner and supper.

The Boy Killed His Sister

Cosby, Tenn., Nov. 11.—A 10-year-old son of Farmer George Dennis deliberately shot his 15-year-old sister through the head last night, killing her. Recently while the boy was sick he asked his sister to give him something to eat, but she refused, having instructions from the attending physician not to give him food except as directed. The boy grew angry and told her if she did not feed him he would kill her when he got well.

As Parmlee's Vegetable Pills contain Mandrake and Dandelion, they cure Liver and Kidney Complaints with unerring certainty. They also contain Roots and Herbs which have specific virtues truly wonderful in their action on the stomach and bowels. Mr. E. A. Cairncross, Shakespeare, writes; I consider Parmelee's Pills an excellent remedy for Biliousness and Derangement of the Liver, having used them myself for some time.

CURES

DYSPEPSIA, BAD BLOOD, CONSTIPATION, KIDNEY TROUBLES, HEADACHE, BILIOUSNESS.

B.B.B. unlocks all the secretions and removes all impurities from the system from a common pimple to the worst scrofulous sore.

BURDOCK PILLS act gently yet thoroughly on the Stomach, Liver and Bowels.

This is the Secret OF THE SUN'S SUCCESS.

The Press is now the principal medium by which the MERITS of the various Life Assurance Companies are made known to the public.

The Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada, allots its profits to policies according to age and in proportion to premiums paid.

Mr. James W., of this agency, age 68, holds a policy (No. 28,038), for $1000 on the ALL LIFE PLAN in the SUN. On the First of April last he had been insured for 5 years and received results as follows:—

1st.—A Bonus Addition to the Sum Assured of $188
or, 2nd—A Reduction for the Next 5 years of $35.80 Yearly.
or, 3rd.—A single cash payment of $138.25.

The undersigned would like to see an example of profits approaching the above given by ANY OTHER LIFE COMPANY under similar conditions. The profit earning powers of the SUN are unexcelled.
